REAL LUXURY!

Looking out over the many homes of this country, we see thousands women wearing away their lives in household drudgery that might be materially lessened by the use of a few cakes of SAPOLIO. If an hour is saved each time a cake is used, if one less wrinkle gathers upon the face because the toil is lightened, she must be a foolish woman who would hesitate to make the experiment, and he a churlish husband who would grudge the few cents which it costs.

If your grocer sends you anything in place of SAPOLIO, send it back and insist upon having just what you ordered. SAPOLIO always gives satisfaction. On flors, tables, and painted work it acts like a charm. For scouring pots, pans, and metals it has no equal. Everything shines after it, and even the children delight in using it in their attempts to help around the house.

A Poultry House Described Which After Several Years' Trial Is Recommended as Combining More Advantages Than

The home made poultry house depicted is described as follows by Prairie Farmer: The main building is 14 or 16 feet long and 5‡ feet wide. Front post 8 feet high, rear posts 6 feet high. The floor is 2‡ feet from ground, above which is a drop door, running the entire length of the building, 18 inches wide. Eighteen inches below the roof is the window, which is a below the roof is the window, which s below the roof is the window, which is made by using two pieces of 4-inch ceiling, placed 8 or 10 inches apart, with the panes of glass slid into the grooves. They should be placed close together in winter, but in summer can be slid a few inches apart to admit air. A few slats should be nailed back of them to prevent accidents from domestic evictions.

The roosts are 3 feet above the floor. 18 or 20 inches apart, and are secured at the ends by nails. The laying room is attached to the north end, which affords a double protection to the sleeping department, besides being very convenient for a storeroom. Its advantages are that in gathering eggs or looking after "sitters" you are in a clean room, and do not have to disturb the remainder of the flock. This part may be made 10 feet long and 5 feet wide, extending it several feet in front of main building, to serve as a wind break. The

All you have to do is to raise it, and with a hoe rake out the manure into a wheelbarrow, replace straw, litter or dry earth, and you will find it a pleasure to take care of your Spring Dwindling of Bees. At the annual meeting of the Inter-national Beekeepers' association the ques-tion was asked, "Is spring dwindling greater when bees are wintered inside than out of doors?" A. I. Root said that when the bees were wintered out of doors and had a chance to fly every month they came out stronger and were better able to go through April. E. R. Root thought that the loss from spring dwindling was greater when wintering indoors, as the bees in the cellar were often suffering from the temperature being too hot or too cold-a matter over which the beekeeper had but little control. John Nau said that in severe winters the bees wintered better indoors, in mild winters out of doors. He did not put his bees in the cellar unless the temperature got very low early in the winter. R. McKnight had wintered both ways for about ten years, and found that the cellar. He thought the cause was the lack of proper ventilation to the cellar. He thought the welk looking condition of the bees wintered in the plant growth, and which cannot othercellar was due to their ill health, owing to the lack of pure air during the con-finement. In an address before one of the New York farmers' institutes Secretary Wood-ward had the following to say on maintaining fertility of the soil:

"Rotation will not save land. It puts equalizes the ratio of exhaustion. It is said 'tillage is manure.' Tillage does not add any manure. It works it out faster. Weeds are better than bare land. Summer fallowing is a very expensive process. I had rather grow weeds and plow them under. It would be better for the land. Bare land loses its ammonia. Sow ryè in the corn to conserve the fertility. Naked earth is a losing earth. How shall we make fertility? We can do it by the parchase of commercial fertilizers; but this system is too costly, unless for special crops. Another way is by means of stable manure. "I have," Mr. Woodward said, "banished the word barnyard from my vocabulary. A barnyard is a nuisance My stable manure paid me last winter, by feeding stock, over $1 a load profit over and above all it cost. I buy cotton-seed and linseed meal, middlings and bran, and my manure comes from these soods fed to animals. By this system the best for curing and keeping well.

The best quality of bason cannot be made of meat that is not well drained of made of meat that is not well drained of its blood, says American Agriculturist. Meat that is intended for the best quality of bacon should be thoroughly bled, and butchering, by which act the main artery is cut, does this in the most effectual and speedy way. It rids the meat of the largest percentage of blood, and leaves it in that condition that is best for curing and keeping well.

Herein lies a defect, and a serious one, in much of the ordinary bacon and salt pork of the day. It is not divested of its blood. In fact, it is no doubt the aim with most packers to retain the blood in order to have the meat weigh heavier. This practice, opposed as it certainly is to both Scripture and sound hygienic rules, cannot be too severely condemsed. The old Jewish law strictly forbids the cating of blood, and doubtless some of the diseases and ills of mankind at the present day might be traced to the blood retained in the flesh when slaughtering!

The conclusion arrived at by the di-rector of the Maryland Experiment sta-tion, after testing forty varieties of wheat, is that the Dietz, Fulcaster and New Australian are superior to all the rest. Of the three the Dietz is the best.

The only reason for this is body wood packs closer, and there is from one-fourth to one-thire more weight in a certain bulk of it. On this account much of the limb wood i pile and is wasted, says a contributor to The New York Tribune. Round wood will burn longer in a stove than split will bern longer in a stoy wood, because flames cannot so readily minutes, and should finish their hay or fodder inside of half an hour. Besides attack the grain of the timber, and con sequently is more valuable. Were wood sold by weight the branches would find as ready market as the body. I once saw a table of weights of a cord of various kinds of wood, both dry and green.

Not long ago we were told that th finest quality of vinegar could be made from watermelon juice. Now a Canadian apiarist is making vinegar from waste and second grade honey. He states that one pound of hency and one gallon of water are the proper propertions to make a good vinegar. "That is, twenty-nine pounds of honey will make (water enough being added to fill a regular thirty-two gallon barrel) one parrel of the best vinegar. The vessels used to make it in are common alcohol hoops from being destroyed by the vine-gar. The barrels and vinegar are kept in the cellar, so covered with burlap as to keep the dust out and let the air in. One year converts this water and honey in Canada.

It is told that there are 15,000 acres of land devoted to tomatoes in New Jersey and seventy-three canneries to take them.

The culture of grapes is on the increase in the choicest vinegar. More age will make it sharper or more acid, but at one year old it is fine enough for any use.
