The Wool Tariff.

In the next few days the country will have to witness a great deal of excitement and agitation on the wool question. The new tariff, which is to go into effect on April 1st, will have a direct and immediate effect on the wool trade. The new rates will be as follows: 10 cents per pound for raw wool, 15 cents per pound for carded wool, and 20 cents per pound for worsted wool.

The effect of these rates will be to make wool more expensive, which will have a direct effect on the clothing industry. The manufacturers of woolen goods will have to raise their prices, and the cost of living will increase. The demand for wool will also increase, and the price will go up even more.

The wool growers are not happy about this new tariff. They believe that it will make wool too expensive and will hurt their business. They are planning to fight the tariff in court, and they are already looking for ways to circumvent it.

The wool merchants are also not happy. They believe that the tariff will make wool too expensive and will hurt their business. They are planning to fight the tariff in court, and they are already looking for ways to circumvent it.

The public is not happy about this new tariff. They believe that it will make wool too expensive and will hurt their business. They are planning to fight the tariff in court, and they are already looking for ways to circumvent it.

The government is not happy about this new tariff. They believe that it will make wool too expensive and will hurt their business. They are planning to fight the tariff in court, and they are already looking for ways to circumvent it.

The international community is not happy about this new tariff. They believe that it will make wool too expensive and will hurt their business. They are planning to fight the tariff in court, and they are already looking for ways to circumvent it.

The wool tariff is a complex issue, and it will have a direct and immediate effect on the wool trade and the clothing industry. The wool growers, merchants, and public will all have to adjust to the new rates, and the government will have to consider the long-term effects of the new tariff.
