shone out Wednesday morning from a cloudless sky.

At 1145 not one-fourth of the delegates were in their seats, but there was a good deal of private chinning.

Governor Francis, of Missouri though not a delegate, was carnestly talking with those who were.

Permanent Chairman that is to be William b. Wilson, of West Virginia his intellectual face beaming with the pleasure of the anticipated fray, has quite a little informal levee.

At 1147 the New York delegation Governor Flower and Chairman Murphy, hand-in-hand, and closely followed by "Boss" Croker and the rest of the New York delegation, made their way to the platform, and from that conspicuous point, where the galleries could plainly see them, filed back to their sear on the left of the main aisle, accompanied by cheers. panied by cheers.

the Metholist Episcopal church of Chicago, to offer prayer.

Just as the prayer concluded the low, phalanx entered the hall, the big blue banner, with the picture of Horac Boles, borne in front of them. There were cheers from all parts of the hall and the band very inappropriately struck up "Maryland, My Maryland."

When the music ceased the temporary chairman brought his gavel down and announced that the first business of the convention would be the report of the committee on credentials. He asked is that committee was ready to report.

Before any one, could reply Mr. Win ston, of Mynesofa, got the floor and it a brief speech moved that the courtesies of the platform be extended to ex-Seena tors James R. Doolittle and Lymar Trumbull. The chair declared the motion carried without putting it.

tion carried without putting it.
The chairman again asked if the com

ting began before Mr. Vilas could bring his big voice to bear on the convention again, and even then it had to run a brief opposition with a murmur of suppressed enthusiasm that continued to run through the audience. The further reading of the document was at times punctuated with applanse, but its extreme length seemed to diminish its interest. Not counting interruptions, the platform occupied thirty-five minutes in the reading. Its conclusion was obviously welcomed as a relief.

Several amendments were offered and debated at length, but were all voted down and the platform as reported was adopted.

The chairman then announced that the next question was the call of the down and the platform as reported was adopted.

The chairman then amounced that the next question was the call of the roll of states for nominations of ean iddates for president. At this the convention loudly cheered.

When Alabama was called a delegate named Fenlon jumped on his chair and moved an adjournment, but without heeding the motion the secretary proceeded with the call. Arkanas yielded her place to New Jersey and anid cheers, Governor Leon Abbott of New Jersey, was recognized and took the stand to nominate Grover Cleveland. He stood just behind the chairman's desk, a manuscript in front of him and speaking so clearly that he could be heard all through the great hall.

During the address Governor Abbott was frequently interrupted by prolonged cheering and it was 10:12 before he concluded his speech.

A renewed outbreak of cheers took place as he sat down. Ten minutes were given to uproar, the band assisting, while occasional peals reverbetated above the din. The rain began to drip in on the chairman's desk, and also began to pour in on the ladies sitting at his right, and umbrellas were put up for protection. The chairman stood disground, but was perceptibly soaking. An umbrella was raised over his head and he took shelter under it. The secretary vainity endeavered to ressues the roll call. The lightning meanwhile was flashing vividly and the torrous of rain forcing their way through the roof increased in volume.

have been tell reductions of wages of latter to one increar. We deny that there has been any increase of prosperity to the country since that tariff went into operation, and we point to the duilness and distress, the wage reduction and strikes in the iron trade as the best possible evidence that no such prosperity has resulted from the McKinley act. We call the attention of thoughtful Americans to the fact that after the thirty years of restrictive taxation against importations of foreign wealth in exchange for our agricultural products, the homes and farms of the country have become burdened with a real estate mortgage of over two thousand five hundred million doilars, exclusive of all other forms of indebtedness; that in one of the chief agricultural states of the west there appears a real estate frortgage debt averaging $165 per capits of the total population, and that similar conditions are shown to exist in other agricultural states. We denounce a policy which fosters no industry so much as it does that of the sheriff.

SEC 4—Trade interchange on the basis of reciprocal advantage to this country participating is a time-honored doctrine of the Democratic faths, but we denounce the sham reciprocity which juggles with the people's deare for enlarged foreign markets and freer exchange by pretending to establish trade relations for a country whose articles of export are almost exclusively agricultural, while erecting a custom hous: barrier of prohibitive tariff taxes against the richest countries of the world that stand ready to take our entire surplus of pr. ducts and to exchange therefor commodities which are necessary and are comforts of life among our own people.

AN AFFAIR OF THE HEART.

How a German Swain Regained His Los Slova of Kief reports the following incident: A German physician pass through the city stopped at a hotel for a few days. The news spread in town that he was Dr. Koch, and in a short time the hotel was besieged with invalids who sought his advice. Among the illers was a strapping young woman eading a stalwart fellow by the sleev of his coat.

"Please, Dr. Koch, your Illustriou German excellency," she said, address ing the physician, "this is my husband We are married only three months and his love to me is already cooling. There must be something wrong about his heart. Could your illustrious German cellency cure him?"

With a smile which he could hardly appress the doctor asked her whether ere was anything else the matter with her husband. She said that he was otherwise all right; he worked diligent , etc., and slept well and did not complain of any aches. But he ceased to love her and his heart needed a cure. "Why don't you love your wife?" he
