ISSUED WEEKLY.

R. C. WALKER, Publisher.

We need able and clean men in all offices.

Truth is as beautiful in politics as elsewhere.

A square look at the effects of the tariff on the farmer is in order.

Oliver Wendell Holmes celebrated his eighty-third birthday Monday.

Vote according to your interest. This is what the subsidized manufacturer does.

The patent office issued 23,662 patents last year; the revenue from this source being $4,102,441.

The convicts were returned to the Tennessee coal mines Tuesday. Two hundred men are guarding them.

Where three or four are gathered together, they don't pray, but put out a candidate for President.

Sullivan and Corbett, the celebrated prize fighters, will fight at New Orleans on the 15th. Big money is being bet on the results.

Dr. Exum, the Third party candidate for Governor of North Carolina, was fined the other day for using profane language in the presence of a jury.

It is claimed that on a vote the Governor's friends in the Legislature will out number the other faction two to one. Let us have the vote and proceed with legislation.

As we have no representation in politics this year. Calling each other liars, or imputing motives is doing nothing to our political assets increasing the liabilities of our voters.

Watt Hardin will make six speeches in this congressional district. His appointments are at Clinton, Bardwell, Wickliffe, Murray, Benton and Paducah. What is the matter with Marion General?

Another presidential ticket in the field. The Socialist Labor party held its national convention in New York Sunday and nominated Simon Wing, of Boston, for President, and Chas. H. Matchett, of Brooklyn, for Vice President.

When the legislature failed to do its duty, those who opposed the new constitution began to rant about the evil effects of that instrument. Might as well talk about the failure of Christianity because some men violated its precepts.

It is announced that the Republican candidate for Governor of Arkansas will be withdrawn and the party will support the Third party.

The Third party condemns legislation of the past thirty years, and embraces the legislator.

In accordance with orders from Washington, all vessels coming from infected ports will not be allowed to come into port until a day or two from two to five days. Passengers will be required to bathe and the baggage and cargo will be thoroughly disinfected.

The Legislature convened Thursday according to a call of Governor Brown. A big effort will be made to pass the vetoed bills over his head. The opposition to the Governor published a long address criticizing his position. At this distance it looks very much as if the factions referred fighting to passing laws.

The advent of cholera to this country is by no means an impossibility. The medical authorities are anxiously watching its progress in Europe. Stringent measures are being taken to prevent its importation. Everywhere the defensive cry is clean up, get rid of the filth and rubbish that has a tendency to nourish and propagate the disease.

The People to Decide.

Cadiz, Ky., Aug. 29.—The court of Claims met here today in special session and decided to submit the question of issuing bonds to the amount of $15,000, to the voters of the county for the purpose of building the court house, destroyed in February.

THE JUDICIAL CONVENTIONS.

Delegates to be Chosen by the Precincts Saturday, Sept. 10.

According to the call of the Democratic committee of the Fourth Judicial District, which is composed of Hopkins, Caldwell, Livingston and Crittenden counties, the Democrats of each voting precinct must meet at their voting places on Saturday, September 10th, at 2 o'clock p.m., and there and then appoint delegates to the district convention at Princeton on the 16th, which will nominate a candidate for Circuit Court Judge, and a candidate for Commonwealth Attorney, for every 50 votes polled for Governor, and fraction over 25. Do not get the two meetings confounded. The district convention is a delegated body and will be held at Princeton on the 16th. The precinct meetings are to be held in the voting precincts of each county at 2 o'clock p.m. on Saturday the 10th, to appoint delegates to the district convention. Let every Democrat be at his voting place at that hour, ready to express his choice. The following are the precincts of the four counties, the vote each polled for Brown, and the number of delegates votes each will be entitled in the Princeton convention:

Benton's whisky and anti-whisky fight is over, and the "wets" have won. At the last moment of his last day of grace, Judge Dupont decided to accept the bond of T. B. Etheridge, who was the applicant for license. This was done in short order, and in a few days the capital of Marshall will have what she has not had for 12 years—an open saloon. This will likely be followed by others in the near future. The temperance element, as a last resort, are getting up a petition, or will do so, for a vote in the entire county on the question. This will not effect the opening of a saloon, however, should the county vote dry, as the saloon men will have at least one year to run, and can reap a considerable harvest of shakels in that time.—Paducah News.

A HANDSOME REWARD

The Governor Offers $300 for the Conviction of the Murderer.

Yesterday county judge Moore received the following letter from Assistant Secretary of State:

DEAR SIR—I am directed by the Governor to say that he has this day offered a reward of $300.00 for the arrest and conviction of the unknown murderer of Henry Dobson. The reward to be paid when the judgment has been rendered and the claim approved by the circuit court, as provided by law.

Respectfully,

Ed. O. Leiton, Asst. Secy. State.

The county judge offers $50 for the county, and the amount subscribed by various citizens of the county is now $300, making a total of $650. This is a handsome reward, and it is to be hoped that it will materially assist in bringing to justice the perpetrator of the worst crime ever committed in this county.

As yet there are no material developments in the case, the officers are on the alert and doing everything in their power to uncover the criminal. No suggestion is overlooked no circumstance, no matter how inconsiderate apparently does not run so high, but the determination to find the man whose hand is stained with Dobson's blood grows stronger. The citizens feel that the county must be rid of such a fiend, and that the ridding must be of such a nature that the impossibility of his return will be beyond the shadow of a doubt.

Dying by Proxy.

(Eli Perkins China Letter.)

Human life is not a priceless article in China. It is often sold. The other day I pointed to a fat, jolly Chinaman in Hankow, about 800 miles up the Yang-tze river, saying: "That is a very happy looking man."

"Yes, for a dead man he does look jolly," said the Consul.

"Dead?" I said. "What do you mean?"

"Why, that man is legally a dead man. He was legally executed after the Taping rebellion and pronounced dead officially."

"What's the puzzling paradox?" I asked.

"Well, that man, like many others, was condemned to die, but, being rich, he hired a substitute to die for him. There are plenty of starving sons in China who at the command of a father will kill themselves for gain. That Chinaman there paid about $50 to a poor, ignorant brother to take his place, so he died by proxy. The poor substitute had lived in hunger all his life. With $10 he literally wallowed in wealth for three months and then died for it. This often occurs in China. Hundreds of thousands of rebels were massacred after the Taping rebellion, but the rich generally escaped."

Fort.

Everything quiet on the Potomac.

The nations have returned from the Kuttawa camp meeting and report a good time.

There was no speaking here Friday, as the Third party man failed to put in an appearance.

If the Alliance could just manage to find out what it wants it might be able to ask for it on more intelligent terms.

Here is what our good friend, G. B. Crawford, says about politics:

"I was born a Democrat, have been raised a Democrat and can safely, fearlessly and unhesitatingly and without fear of prevarication state now once for all, that when I sit down to enjoy my evening smoke I call my pipe Grover Cleveland and my tobacco tariff reform. When I mix my fragrant toddy, I drink to the success of the Democratic campaign of '92, and drop a mock tear on the silent bier of prohibition and heave a comic sigh for the sad fate of Benjamin Harrison."

We try to state things as we understand them, as we think the lying of correspondents is the most colossal exhibition of mendacity known since the Almighty hurled Lucifer over the battlements of Heaven.

There seems to be but little excitement up to date about the election for county officers. Our friend,

J. T. Franks, says he will be the next sheriff, if he gets more votes than Mr. Cruce.

Mr. Franks is a staunch Republican, a good business man and a nice clever gen loman in every respect; luck to you, old boy.

Mr. Cruce's character is well known. His record as a sheriff is before us, his Democracy as translucent as the Queen of the Heavens on a cloudless night.

Tolu merchants report plenty of dust in the country at present—not gold dust, however.

Some sickness in our burg at present.

Thou shalt not steal, is one of the commandments, but it seems to have but little effect on some of the dear boys that are so very fond of water melons.

The Ohio river dry and still falling.

SAM MARKS.

Carrsville.

John K. Hendricks was in our town last week on business. John is looking well and shows no marks of having been struck with a Stone; though it is reported that he received rather a severe blow.

From the present outlook Hon T. J. Nunn will have an easy walk over in this county for Circuit Judge.

The candidates for Circuit Judge and Commonwealth Attorney are to speak here next Friday, and we are expecting to hear something interesting.

Hon L. H. James called on us some days ago, with extensive smiles and a heavy cane; we think from his looks, though apparently in a good humor—he surely meant something.

J. N. Stallions has purchased the Dr. Boyd property and will move his family to morrow.

Mr. W. Layoff's wife is very low and not expected to live.

The Carrsville mill is doing a splendid business.

Will some kind friend inform us through the columns of the Press, why the Representatives and Senators did not finish their work before adjournment? And will they be allowed a vote in the November election, are they all foreigners or native Kentuckians? We think if they are foreigners that the people have been greatly imposed upon, and if they are Kentuckians, that they should be disfranchised. They have been in Frankfort and at home elsewhere on a large salary until they have, we suppose a mortgage on the State and now they have to go back and foreclose that mortgage.

The chairman of F. M. B. A's committee of Livingston county would like to know where the South Bend Oliver Chilled plow is manufactured as the bend on that plow only states the Oliver Chilled Plow, South Bend, Ind., also whether or not the manufacturers are protected under the McKinley bill or not.

If Ben Harrison is re-elected and the force bill should pass, which most surely will; if he should be the victor, who would be allowed to vote in Presidential and Congressional elections except Republicans and negroes.

Mr. man that don't get what he wants in way of a speech at this place next county court day, is a hard fellow to please. Stone, Keys, Wheeler, the Democrat elector; Dance, the Republican elector; and Franks, the Republican orator, will cater to the taste of the public on that day. If it is to be a joint discussion, the fun should be commenced at sunrise in order that a conclusion may be reached by sunset.

This will be the last year that the common school and academy will be taught together. We need an academy building. It is to be hoped that there is enterprise and money enough in Marion to provide one. Some live school man should come here and put the enterprise on a tangible footing. Such a man can build up a fine school, thereby providing for himself and helping the community.

"Somebody's boy is going to be killed these some days," said agent Brawner as an urchin hopped off of the rear end of a moving train. Call the attention to this habit. It should be stopped before it cost a boy an arm or leg, or his life."

IS HE THE MURDERER?

Wm. E. Brown in Jail Charged with the Murder of Henry Dobson.

The Father of the Murdered Man's Widow Swears Out the Warrant.

Just after nightfall yesterday, the two deputy sheriffs, the city marshal and three special deputies left Marion. They were horseback and heavily armed. In the keeping of one of them was a paper commanding them to arrest Wm. E. Brown, upon the charge of murdering Henry Dobson. They anticipated trouble in the execution of the command, hence they went prepared for any emergency. They went to New Salem church, leaving their horses, they began what they thought was a short walk to the house of Brown, after a long tramp they reached a small house a long ways from any public road, and nestled away from any convenient place of egress or ingress. They surrounded the house, and called for Brown. He answered and asked if that was deputy sheriff. He was soon given to understand what was up, and after receiving assurance that he would not be hurt, he unlocked the doors, removed the barricades and came up.

"It is no more than I expected," he said "as I have heard it talked round for several days."

Brown's wife and two babies were taken to his father's, and at three o'clock this morning, the handcuffs were slipped from the young man's wrist and the strong jail doors were opened.

are protests that he is innocent. The officers have a strong chain of circumstantial evidence woven about him, and are sure that they have the right man. The trial, a known until the examining trial, a day for which has not yet been fixed, but it will probably be one day next week.

Brown and Dobson were not on good terms, and referred to this before his death, but he did not think the differences were such as would move Brown to kill him. The trouble was about a blacksmith bill Brown owed Dobson.

The warrant charging Brown with the crime was sworn out by W. H. Robertson, father of the murdered man's wife. The closing words of the warrant are these: "From all the circumstances surrounding said murder, which have come to the knowledge of the affiant, he believes and has reasonable grounds to believe that said Wm. E. Brown is guilty of said murder."

It is stated that Mrs. Dobson believed from the first that Brown committed the crime.

Young Brown is the son of Mr. R. B. Brown, of the New Salem neighborhood; he is somewhere in his twenties and was born and raised in this county.

John Mitchell Dead.

Mr. John Mitchell, of Harrisburg, Ill., died at the residence of Mr. R. Coffield of this place, Sunday evening at 1 o'clock, after a brief illness. Friday he had a slight attack of dysentery, but neither nurse nor friends were alarmed. Saturday morning he began growing worse rapidly, and in a short while became unconscious, and gradually growing worse until death. The shock, produced by the dysentery, prostrated him, and being very old the system gave away, and the sands of life ran out. His death was painless.

His son Mr. Robt. Mitchell, of Harrisburg, and his daughter, Mrs. John Goodwin, of Evansville, arrived a few hours before his death. The remains were taken home for burial.

Mr. Mitchell was born in Ireland in 1812, was educated for the ministry, but came to America when about 22 years old, and embarked in the mercantile business. He first settled at New Albany, Ind., after wards moving to Cave-in-Rock, Ill., at which place he lived many years, moving to Harrisburg a few years ago. He was a man of sterling qualities, a devout christian and a good citizen in every point.

OWED IT ALL TO THE OLD WOMAN.

New Yorker Sold a Lot of Papers on a New York Street Car.

The car—it was a Fourth Avenue one—was bowling along merrily. It so happened—as strange things do sometimes happen in this prosaic world—that all the seats on one side of the car were occupied by men and all the seats on the other side by women. The women were all young and pretty, too, which might be accounted a strange thing anywhere else than in New York. Now, when a man is riding in a street car, a pretty face is always a "cheering sight to see," but when there are a dozen lovely faces to contemplate the joy is proportionately increased.

Serene enjoyment was depicted on the face of every man in the car. Forgotten were all the ordinary cares that infest the day. No man was in a hurry to reach his destination. In fact there was much inward rejoicing at the lack of rapid transit.

Into this temporary abode of bliss hopped a shrill lunged newsboy. When he perceived that not a man on the car had a newspaper his eyes lighted with joyous expectancy.

"Extree! extree!" he shouted fiercely and gleefully. "Full account of do' terrible disaster 'n awful loss of life!"

But the men only smiled at him. "What's the matter with de blokes?" he asked of the conductor before leaping off the platform.

"Can't you see?" replied the conductor, contemptuously, "dey's taking in do pretty girls. Dey's de greatest lot of 'em on dis car I ever carried."

An old woman entered the car. She was fat and she was homely, and she waddled rather than walked. No man rose to give her a seat. Each man felt that his neighbor might be harboring some such intention and feared to anticipate him.

The old woman waddled to the end of the car, heaved a sigh and caught on to a strap.

"Pray take my seat, please," said the conductor of the pretty girl.

"Oh, thank you, ma'am," replied the old woman, gratefully; "but it's a shame to deprive you of it. If I wasn't so old—but perhaps one of the gentlemen will give you a seat."

"Indeed," said the pretty girl, smiling, and thereby making herself look more bewitching than ever, "I couldn't think of accepting one from any of them. They are all so dreadfully tired."

Half of the dozen men had started simultaneously to rise. They dropped back into their seats looking sheepish and dejected. And the half dozen that hadn't begun to rise looked equally unhappy. A change had come over the spirit of their dreams. A pretty face is not a cheering sight to see when you know that it's owner entertains a very small opinion of you. And every man in that car felt that every woman in it, including the one who was old and fat, held a cheap opinion of him.

Instead of seeking the prettiest opposite, their eyes fell on the old woman.

"Extree! extree!" he yelled. "Full account of do' terrible disaster 'n awful loss of life!"

He didn't have to yell a second time. Every man was in a hurry to read that tale of disaster, so much so that they all actually buried their faces behind their newspapers.

And the pretty woman all exchanged smiles and looked very much tickled at something.

"Golly!" said the newsboy to the conductor, "I struck it rich that time, didn't I?"

"You bet," said the conductor; "but you owe it all to do old woman."

Prayer in a Gambling Den.

It is narrated that a clergyman, desirous of improving his sanctuary and unable to procure the necessary funds from his congregation, decided to secure financial aid from the ranks of the enemy. Late one night he ushered himself into a gaming house and asked the manager:

"Can I have the privilege of offering a brief prayer and passing round the hat among those assembled here?"

"Certainly," replied the manager. The clergyman mounted a chair and for fully fifteen minutes appealed to the throne of God to point out to those about him the error of their ways, and at the same time suggested that they assist him in the work of the Lord by contributing out of their abundance. Just as he had finished an old time "gam," who in his life had won and lost two or three fortunes, exclaimed:

"I say, partners, I reckon that clergyman there holds a winning hand for the other shore, and I guess we'd better sing a hymn and then chip in a collection for the church he wants to fix up. I'm betting ten to seven that churches are a good thing, and it don't seem very long since I used to accompany my sainted mother to church 'way down east, but she's in heaven now. Anyway, let's sing the doxology. Praise God, from whom all blessings flow. Most of you'uns know it. Now sing." The gambler had a good baritone voice, and he started the hymn and was at once joined by every one present. At its conclusion he remarked in a cool and collected manner:

"I say, Mr. Minister—forgot your right name, you know—pass round the hat." And tossing him a twenty dollar gold piece, he said, "I'll play that to win." When the clergyman's hat had made the circuit it contained almost $1,000, and the needed improvements on the church began the following week.—Saratoga Cor. Chicago Times.

Getting Around It.

There is a small boy in Salem, Mass., who is "getting around it" very upward, and the greater part of his young life has been spent in incurring diseases and accidents and recovering therefrom.

His last series of mishaps began with scarlet fever, went on to a dislocated knee, a sprained wrist, a jammed thumb that necessitated the carrying of his arm in a sling for a couple of weeks, and culminated in the dislocation of some of the small bones of his right foot.

The confinement to the bed and house that all these entailed so lowered his physical tone that his physician prescribed quinine. This seemed to him a remedy worse than all his case, and after exhaustive and powerful doses of the medicine, he recovered.

"No, mamma," said this youthful enthusiast gravely. "I am writing an article for the paper to say that quinine is very indigestible."

"And what good will that do?" asked mamma, curious to know what process of reasoning was going on in the small mind.

"Why, when doctors read what the paper says about it they won't give quinine any more."—New York Recorder.

How Eyes Are Tested.

The theory of the optically perfect eye is that parallel rays of light entering it are brought to a focus on its retina. Any deviation from this condition constitutes an error of refraction and requires for its correction an artificial variation of the luminous rays. The generally adopted method of determining the refraction of the eye is to use test types placed at such a distance that the rays of light emanating from them may be regarded in practice as parallel; and the deviation from parallelism necessary to correct a refractive error is effected by placing a lens in front of the eye. There are many other methods of changing the course of luminous rays coming from a test object, and of these the single convex lens is the simplest and most often used in optometry.—New York Telegram.

Caviar for Exportation.

For exportation caviar, which is nothing but sturgeon's eggs, is prepared in two different ways. The eggs are washed and then immersed in strong brine for three-quarters of an hour, and finally allowed to drain. In this way "granular caviar" is obtained. For "compact" caviar the eggs are first cleaned, then pickled and finally allowed to dry slowly. Then they are packed closely in cans, bags, which are inclosed in wooden barrels, after which they are ready for shipment.—Boston Times.

Small Feet of Boston Girls.

"Contrary to popular opinion the female descendants of the Puritans have smaller feet than those of the Cavaliers," said Mr. William Cooper, junior member of an extensive New England shoe factory. "We manufacture ladies' shoes almost exclusively. We sell most small shoes in the northeast, most large ones in the southwest, in Arkansas, New Mexico and Texas. The Carolinas, Alabama, Mississippi, Kansas and Nebraska also order a good many large sizes. Ohio, Virginia, Kentucky, Maryland, Indiana, Illinois, Iowa and Missouri buy medium sizes."

"The retail trade of large cities requires more small sizes in proportion than does that of smaller cities and villages. Still there is a great difference in cities. Boston is preeminently the city of small footed women. Next in the order named come Hartford, St. Louis, Louisville, New Orleans, New York and Denver. Philadelphia, Cincinnati, Chicago, Pittsburg and Salt Lake City may be classed as big footed."—St. Louis Globe-Democrat.

It was not until 1470 that a title page was introduced to books, and in England not till shortly before 1490, when W. De Machline issued one to his little book on the pestilence. Caxton never used them, but Wynkyn De Worde employed them in nearly all his books.—Philadelphia Times.

We are authorized to announce J. F. GORDON, of Hopkins county, a candidate for Commonwealth Attorney of the Fourth Judicial District, subject to the action of the Democratic party.

We are authorized to announce L. H. JAMES a candidate for Commonwealth's Attorney of the Fourth Judicial District, composed of the counties of Livingston, Crittenden, Caldwell and Hopkins, subject to the action of the Democratic party.

FOR SHERIFF,

We are authorized to announce JOHN T. FRANKS a candidate for Sheriff of Crittenden county, subject to the action of the Republican party. He will appreciate your vote and influence.

TO THE VOTERS OF CRITTENDEN COUNTY: Having served you for the past two years as Sheriff, I take this method of expressing to you my gratitude for the confidence imposed in me. It has been the custom of the county to endorse all past Sheriffs who have asked it of the people, and feeling that my treatment of the people has been such as to merit an endorsement at your hands, I announce myself as a candidate for re-election.

I feel that my experience will enable me to serve you better in the future than in the past, and if chosen by the people, will endeavor to do so.

Yours truly, A. L. CRUCE.

To The Voters of Crittenden County.

I hereby announce myself a candidate for re-election to the office of Circuit Clerk of Crittenden County, the office to which I was elected in 1900. My heart felt thanks for the support given in the past. Whatever may be my lot in the future one of the brightest spots in my life will be the memory of what the people of Crittenden county have done for me. I have endeavored to so regulate my official conduct as to be worthy of the confidence reposed in me and the honor conferred upon me. My official life is before you. If I have discharged the duties of the office with a conscientious regard for the interest of the people, without partiality to any party or shade of political belief but treating all men exactly alike and if I have performed the work of the office properly and right I respectfully ask an endorsement at your hands.

For the next term if elected, I can promise nothing more than what I have earnestly endeavored to do in the past to faithfully and impartially discharge every duty incumbent upon the office; with profound gratitude for your support.

Very Respectfully, H. A. HAYNES.

TO THE VOTERS OF CRITTENDEN COUNTY:

I respectfully announce myself a candidate for the office of Circuit Court Clerk, subject to the action of the Democratic party. I have for twenty four years stood with the rank and file of the party, and with them borne the heat and burden of the day, in doing so, I simply expressed my conviction of the policy of the two great parties of the country. While I am a democrat I have always cheerfully recognized the right of my neighbor to entertain and express different opinions. In this office its occupant can in no way make or influence the laws of State or Nation and I maintain it should be filled regardless of political prejudice and without pandering to partisanship, the people should with reference to the position and standing of the man and ever with a zealous regard for his qualifications to discharge the duties of the office, select and elect a good man and not a partisan.

My business training has lead me for a number of years in a chance which taught and instructed me in the duties of this office, and without presumption or egotism I feel that I am qualified for the discharge of its duties, and can promise if elected to make a faithful and competent clerk.

To my many friends of all parties if you can agree with me in the sentiments I have here expressed I ask your suffrage and if it should be my good fortune to be your choice you will ever have my heartfelt gratitude, and I assure you I shall recognize and appreciate my position if elected, as that of a public servant and from no official act of mine will any man know my politics.

Very Respectfully, J. R. FINLEY.
