ACCEPTS.

SENATOR CARLISLE WILL ENTER THE CABINET AS SECRETARY OF THE TREASURY.

Coming Home to Confer With His Friends, and Will Re-sign on the First of February.

Chicago, Jan. 3.—The Herald's special from Washington says: Senator Carlisle has notified Mr. Cleveland of his acceptance of the Secretaryship of the Treasury. On the first of February Mr. Carlisle will resign his seat in the Senate, and to-morrow will go to Kentucky in order to confer with his friends regarding the succession. Between February 1 and March 4 the Kentucky Legislature will have an opportunity to choose a new Senator. Judge Lindsay is here believed to be the leading candidate, but Congressman McCreary, who has just returned from Europe, whither he went as a delegate to the International Silver Conference, will be in the field.

Mr. McCreary was to-day in consultation with the Kentucky Senator about the matter, and will follow Mr. Carlisle to Kentucky in a few days.

Mr. Carlisle was finally induced to accept the Treasury portfolio through Mr. Cleveland's insistence that it is his desire to have a new tariff bill prepared by the Cabinet during the coming summer, and that in this work he felt as if he must have the assistance of the Kentucky Senator.

So far as is known here, only two places in the Cabinet have been filled by Mr. Cleveland. Carlisle will be Secretary of the Treasury, and Dan Lamont will be Secretary of the Navy or Postmaster General, as the exigencies of Cabinet making may make most convenient. Without much doubt, ex-Gov. Gray, of Indiana, will be Secretary of Agriculture, if he decides to accept the place.

THE STONE BOOM.

His Candidacy Spooks Judge Lindsay's Prospects.

Chas. E. Kincaid, writing to the Danville Advocate from Frankfort, says:

"The supposed approaching Senators contest has been all the talk here of late, everybody taking it for granted that Mr. Carlisle is going into the Cabinet. The only new phase of the somewhat premature campaign is the boisterous boom started for Congressman Wm. J. Stone in the First district, his home. Every newspaper in the district has declared for him heartily, and this means at least twelve votes in the caucus to start with, and Capt. Stone's friends claim support from other sections of the State. What makes the Stone movement doubly important is that it cuts into and divides Judge William Lindsay's strength in the beginning. This has thrown a slight damper upon the Judge's coaching party, for they see that it would detract very much from the send off which they expected to give their man.

"Heretofore Judge Lindsay has gone into the Senatorial arena with the 'Gibraltar district' as his spring-board, and to have that initial point of operation pulled from under him in advance, it is a bit discouraging. His friends say that he will rally the old clans when Chief Stone falls, but the opposing candidates might tide Stone over and let Lindsay fall first."

Didn't Take Quite All.

[Washington News]

Senator Carlisle is comparatively a poor man. He was never able to save money, and the pay of a Cabinet officer, $8,000, pays about one-third of the expenses of the Secretary of the Treasury. When married a young wife, was appointed Secretary of the Interior by Mr. Cleveland his bride spent a week house hunting, and finally found what seemed to be a suitable residence for a Cabinet officer. She drove to the Senate, of which Mr. Lamar was still a member, to tell her husband the news of her discovery. His first question was: "What is the rent, dear?"

"Seventy-five hundred a year."

The Senator lapsed into deep thought and the young wife said, rather nervously:

"Do you think it extravagant?"

"It is not that," returned Lamar, slowly. "I was wondering what I should do with the other $500 of my salary."

Ohio's Democratic Elector.

The First in Forty Years, He is the Distinguished Member of the College.

Columbus, O., Jan. 7.—The Ohio Electoral College had a preliminary session in Gov. McKinley's office at high noon. All were present except T. J. Funk, of Scioto county. For the first time since 1853 a Democrat sat in the college, the representative of the triumphant party being Mr. James P. Seward, the ruler of Richmond county Democracy. Mr. Seward was the curiosity of the occasion. He is a quiet-mannered man, about thirty-eight years old and a successful lawyer of Mansfield. The Republican members were all eager to meet him, and he had no reason to complain of his reception, for he was really the lion of the hour.

Secretary Morgan, of the St. Louis chamber of commerce, has completed his report, showing the flour output of St. Louis for 1892 to be 1,623,371 barrels, as against 1,748,190 in 1891, or a decrease of 124,819 barrels. Mills outside of the city owned by St. Louis parties increased their output 260,576 barrels.

GO SIN NO MORE.

WHAT PRESIDENT HARRISON SAYS TO THE MORMONS.

Contents of a Proclamation Issued by Him.

Washington, Jan. 4.—President Harrison to-day issued the following proclamation:

WASHINGTON, Jan. 4, '93.

WHEREAS, Congress, by a statute approved March 22, 1890, and by statutes in furtherance and amendment thereof, defined the crimes of bigamy, polygamy and unlawful cohabitation in the Territories and in other places within the exclusive jurisdiction of the United States and prescribed a penalty for such crimes; and

WHEREAS, On or about the sixth day of October, 1890, the Church of the Latter Day Saints, known as the Mormon Church, through its President, issued a manifesto proclaiming the purpose of said church no longer to sanction the practice of polygamous marriages, and calling upon all members and adherents of said church to observe the same; and

WHEREAS, It is represented that since the date of said declaration the members and adherents of said church have not obeyed said laws and abstained from polygamous cohabitation; and

WHEREAS, By a petition dated December 18, 1891, the officials of said church, pledging the membership thereof of faithful observance of the laws against plural marriages and unlawful cohabitation, have applied to me to grant amnesty for past offenses against said laws, which request a very large number of influential non-Mormons, residing in the Territories, have also strongly urged.

WHEREAS, The Utah Commission, in their report bearing date of September 15, 1892, recommended that said petition be granted and said amnesty proclaimed, under proper conditions as to the future observance of the law, with a view to the encouragement of those now disposed to become law-abiding citizens; and

WHEREAS, During the past two years such amnesty has been granted to individual application in a very large number of cases, conditioned upon the faithful observance of the laws of the United States against unlawful cohabitation, and there are now pending many more such applications.

Now, therefore, I, Benjamin Harrison, President of the United States, by virtue of the powers in me vested, do hereby declare and grant a full amnesty and pardon to all persons liable to the penalties of said act by reason of unlawful cohabitation under the color of polygamous or plural marriage, who have since November 1, 1890, abstained from such unlawful cohabitation, but upon the express condition that they shall in the future faithfully obey the laws of the United States hereinafter named and otherwise. Those who shall fail to avail themselves of the clemency hereby granted will be vigorously prosecuted. In witness whereof, I have hereunto set my hand and caused the seal of the United States to be affixed.

Done at the City of Washington this 4th day of January, in the year of our Lord, one thousand eight hundred and ninety-three, and of the independence of the United States the one hundred and seventh.

BENJAMIN HARRISON.

JOHN W. FOSTER, Secretary of State.

The President's proclamation issued to-day, granting amnesty to offending Mormons, is based upon considerations briefly set forth in the document itself.

The question has been long and favorably considered and finally decided in favor of the action recommended by the members of the Utah Commission, the Governor of the Territory, and by a large number of prominent and influential citizens, many of them non-Mormons, not only of Utah but of other States and Territories. It has been customary when the law, to grant amnesty upon the application of those under penalty, and upon the assurance that they will in the future observe the laws that have been infringed. In this case amnesty is conditioned upon these promises:

That the offense has not been committed since November 1890 and that the law against polygamous marriage and cohabitation shall be hereafter faithfully observed.

The Mormon church, officially, has declared that such marriages will not hereafter be entered into, while individually a pledge of observance of the law is given by the recipients of amnesty. If the law shall be disobeyed in any given case, vigorous prosecution will follow. The amnesty is granted upon these conditions, because it is represented and believed that the localities affected will be largely benefited in a material way, and that a great stimulus will be given to the faithful and general observance of the laws of the United States. It should also be said that a large number of individual amnesties have already been granted, and that many more applications are pending in the department of justice.

Senator George's Joke.

Says the Frankfort Capital: Senator George tells this story on himself and some of his Senatorial colleagues; Senators Breckinridge, Conner, Miller, Kenton, Clark, Orr and myself were at dinner with a prominent colleague, and when we had taken our seats at the table, he looked up and down the two lines and remarked: 'Well, as I don't see anybody here whom I would trust to represent me at the Throne of Grace, we will proceed to business without further delay.' And there was no blessing asked. The host, when taxed with the matter, said that he had one inviolable rule, that a man who took a drink with him could not say grace for him, and that each of the Senators in question had disqualified himself a few minutes before going to the table."

POOR MEN IN THE CABINET.

Mr. Cleveland Will Surround Himself With Men of Moderate Means.

According to present indications the new Cleveland administration will be marked not only by economy in the administration of public affairs but by simplicity. There is good reason to believe that Mr. Cleveland is studiously trying to surround himself with a Cabinet composed of poor men. He will try to make it possible hereafter for poor men to serve their country in any capacity. Strange as it may seem, one of the strongest reasons why Mr. Carlisle has hesitated about accepting the portfolio of the Treasury is because of his poverty. Mr. Carlisle is a poor man. He has great attainments at the practice of his profession. He could easily clear $25,000 or $30,000 a year, but for the past twelve years he has been earning $5,000 a year from the Government as a member of Congress, with such occasional fees from his practice as he could find time

Washington is a very expensive place to live. The salary of a Cabinet officer is $8,000 a year, and it has become the fashion since Grant's time for the families of Cabinet officers to splurge socially, keep open house, give dinners and in a general way do what society people call entertaining. This costs a great amount of money, probably two or three times the salary that a Cabinet officer receives. Both Mr. and Mrs. Carlisle are possessed of genuine Kentucky hospitality and feel that in going into the Cabinet they would be expected to keep on entertaining in the manner made familiar with by Cabinet officers during the past quarter of a century. There is some reason to believe that Mr. Carlisle called Mr. Cleveland's attention to this phase of the question and his inability to sustain the social end of the administration. This set Mr. Cleveland to thinking, and it is said by those who conversed with him quite recently that he is desirous of selecting a Cabinet composed exclusively of poor men, so that they can regulate their social tastes according to the sizes of the different purses.

APING MONARCHIAL MANNERS.

This would be a magnificent innovation. It is useless to attempt to deny the fact that for years past Washington has been steadily aping the manners and doings of monarchial capitals. The so-called society leaders have been trying to establish a court here, and nearly one-half of the members' time has been taken up by so called social functions. The members of the Cabinet, as the colleagues and associates of the President, were forced to keep open house, to give dinner parties three or four times a week, teas, receptions, dances and Germans, all along the gamut of social distractions. This very bad habit, dangerous in more ways than one, has had the effect of practically keeping poor men out of the Cabinet, and for poor men to get into the Cabinet it is a constant source of worry and temptation to keep up with the social procession. It is not so long ago that a member of a Cabinet narrowly escaped impeachment because the President was kind enough to permit him to resign because his wife had been bawling in post tradeships in order to make the wherewith to provide for dinner parties and balls at the national capital. All the men most prominently mentioned now for places in the Cleveland Cabinet are, as a general rule, poor. Carlisle, Morrison, Tucker, Culberson, Tucker, Lamont, Collins, Herbert, Blount, Porter, Babbitt, Hatch, Phelps, are men either downright poor or with only very moderate means. Ex-Senator Eastis of Louisiana, who is now prominently talked of in connection with the State Department, is a wealthy man, but his manners of life are so simple and unostentatious that his poor brethren in the Cabinet would find no difficulty at all in keeping pace with him socially. Mr. Cleveland himself, it is understood, also intends not to permit what have with his public duties at the head of the State. He will entertain, of course, to the extent of his ability, but not extravagantly or inconveniently, and the understanding is that his Cabinet will set a pace for themselves and keep well in the limit. This would have more to do in the direction of practical reform, perhaps, than anything else that could be done.

FROZEN TO DEATH.

The Dead Body of a Wealthy Old Member of Owensboro Found.

Owensboro, Ky., Jan. 7.—A. Sydney Yewell, one of the wealthiest farmers in Daviess county, and a very queer character, was found dead late this evening at the bottom of the steps leading up to his room, which he occupied when in the city. It is supposed that he was drinking last night when he went to his room and fell in the doorway of the old deserted building in which he was found, and froze to death. The coroner was sent for this evening, but in order to determine just what caused Yewell's death an autopsy will be held in the morning.

The dead man was worth nearly or quite $100,000. He owned over 1,000 acres of good farming land in the county and several business houses in this city. He held mortgages on one-third of the farms in this county and had hundreds of cash notes on good citizens.

He was a typical miser and lived a reclusive nearly all of his life until recent years, when he commenced drinking freely and stayed in an old building in the city. He accumulated his wealth by shaving notes and bonning money.

The following is a woman's description of an ideal husband: "A temperate, moral, intellectual, truthful, energetic, affectionate, thoughtful, forgiving, Christian man, who chooses a wife for her mind and heart rather than face, and waits until he is sure he has found the right one; who never scolds nor laughs at his wife, and never contradicts her in public; who loves home and children, and has certain means for making an honest, comfortable living; who is economical, but not stingy, and unless wealthy keeps his life insured; who understands that women have nerves, need money, enjoy pretty things, and are happier for being potted."

ISSUED WEEKLY.

R. C. WALKER, Publisher.

The Senatorial fight is on at Frankfort.

Last week $2,129,040 in gold left New York for Europe.

After all the present legislature may do something. The election of a United States is something.

A beer war is raging in St. Louis. Four glasses for a nickel is the price, and all St. Louis happy: except the brewers.

The men who propose to test the validity of the State election law because he has to step out of office, is small potatoes and a few in the hill.

It is now stated that Mr. Cleveland will remember, in a substantial way his friends this time. Wonder if he means his Chicago friends exclusively.

The New York Life Insurance Company pays its ex-President a $41,350 per month. The

It would be interesting to know who compose the Mason & Ford Company—the institution that apparently handles the States convicts as it thinks best.

Mr. Murphy will be the new United States Senator from New York. Mr. Cleveland was opposed to his election, but Tammany say by your permission to no man.

The Chief Justice of the Court of Appeals as well as the chief executive of the State has from Western Kentucky. If we get a United States Senator, our cup will be full.

Mrs. Mary Leass withdrew from the Senatorial fight in Kansas "for the sake of harmony" so she says. This is the first we ever heard of a woman playing the role of a harmonizer.

Mr. Carlisle's ponderous and evenly poised brain will fill every nook and corner of the Treasury Department, but will the hole he leaves in the Senate be crowded by his successor?

A Washington letter says Mr. Cleveland means to put poor men in his cabinet. The millionaires have been in charge of the country a long time, and the poor man has no objection to having a four year's frolic of his own.

In these times when a large majority of our fellow citizens are waiting everything from a six by nine post office to a United States Senatorship, the request of Bert Wing is refreshing. He wants to be hung. Let him be gratified.

Gov. Hogg wants to be elected to the United States Senate from Texas, and will oppose the re-election of Mills. The ex-Kentuckian, will, however, win the prize, unless he continues to give the boys in the trenches to understand that he will not help them to get any of the of fees.

In 1891 on thirty-nine counties in the State paid into the State Treasury more than they drew out. The auditor figures that these counties would pay the $100,000 appropriation for the World's Fair, if the Legislature is generous enough to make the appropriation. If the counties pay in the same proportion as in 1891, the seven counties of Jefferson, Fayette, Bourbon, Campbell, Clark, Davies, and Henderson, would pay more than $50,000 of the appropriation, leaving to the remaining 113 counties the other $50,000. The representatives of these heavy tax-paying counties are heartily in favor of the appropriation. This being the case why should the poorer counties, which need developing the most, object?

Benj. F. Butler Is Dead.

Heart Failure Carries Him Off At His Washington Home.

Washington, Jan. 10.—Gen. Benj. F. Butler, lawyer, statesman, politician and millionaire manufacturer, died at his home in this city this morning, from heart failure. His death was sudden and unexpected.

The Electors Meet.

According to the election laws, whereby a President and Vice President of the United States, is chosen, the electors in the several States met Monday to carry out the wishes of the people as expressed at the polls last November.

After having given their vote, these electors sign the certificates as to the result. One of those is delivered to an elector appointed to take charge of it, and carry it in person to the seat of government and deliver it to the President of the senate. The second certificate is sent by mail and the third is delivered to the United States District Judge for the district in which the electors meet. So far but thirty of the states have complied with the law requiring the certificate to be filed with the senate although the election was held two months ago.

Congress is requested to be in joint session to count the electoral vote at 1 o'clock on the second Wednesday in February, after the meeting of the electors, which will be February 8. Meanwhile each body will have appointed two tellers, whose duty it will be to read the vote. A few moments before 1 o'clock on the 8th of February the Senate will proceed in a body to the hall of the House. The president of the senate will preside over the joint assembly, with the speaker of the House sitting on his left. The certificates will then be opened by the president of the Senate in alphabetical order of the States and handed to the tellers, who will read them and note the result. It is possible that objection may be raised to some of the votes from the States of California, Kansas, Michigan, Ohio and Oregon, and in this event the law provides that the two Houses shall separate, consider the objections and report their findings. The count cannot proceed until each objection has been disposed of. After the certificates have all been read the tellers deliver the result to the president, who, in accordance with the facts, makes the proper announcement.

This announcement is declared by law, and will be sufficient and constitutional declaration of the election of Grover Cleveland and Adlai Stevenson. This will conclude formalities prior to the inauguration.

In an interview at St. Louis Mr. Waterson expresses the opinion that Mr. Carlisle will accept the treasury portfolio. In discussing the subject the great editor says: "If Mr. Carlisle administers the treasury, as the country has reason to expect he will, no power on earth could keep him out of the presidency. Yet Nevada has two United States Senators. In the electoral college the same little slice of the earth has three votes. On an important question in the Senate the 10,000 voters in Nevada has just as big a vote as the 800,000 in Kentucky.

Eight murderers will be hung at Charleston, Md., Friday. They are all negroes, five men and three boys.

The whipping post law is receiving some attention from the Press of the State, as it occasionally bobs up in the Legislature. This law has been in force in this county two years or more, and the consensus of public opinion is that it is a wholesome piece of legislation. Its provisions have been meted out in only two instances; it was called into service to punish a couple of petty thieves, and since its application the moral atmosphere, so far as that character of crime goes, has been in purer condition than a score of jail sentences could or would have rendered it. It may be called "a relic of barbarity" by the highly esthetic citizen and held in horror by that class which sends flowers to the hangman's victim, and shed tears over the cruelty of the law towards the murderer, but to the plain, practical citizen, whose desire is to see crime prohibited and the law a tutor to the evil doer, it is a practical, speedy, inexpensive and effective as well as a simple mode of breaking up petty stealing.

There is fun in Kansas; it is neither cyclones, dry weather or grasshoppers. It is worse than all these. It is two legislatures. Tuesday when the House began to organize, new occurred over contested seats; organized by electing a speaker, and other officers; the third party members proceeded to elect a speaker of their own and organized according to their tastes. Side by side the two speakers stood, in the same stand, and each faction proceeded to do business as seemed best to its purposes. Thus the fun went on all day, and the battle for supremacy in the matter is probably going on yet.

A number of the big railroad systems are making an effort to weaken and finally destroy the labor organizations that effect their employees. The Pennsylvania Railroad Company is saying to its employees quit your order or you quit our work. The desperate effort of organized labor at Hilested, and the bloodshed that grew out of it, has weakened the influence of labor organizations in this country, and the great corporations are taking advantage of this situation of affairs to still further destroy or weaken these organizations.

Wealth has never yet rode over the prostrate form of worth and merit, through the Kentucky Legislature, to the United States Senate. While the "slightly dollar" has oiled on his armor, and strode through the legislative halls of other States, and passed on and into the United States Senate, and there brazenly whiled his time away, Kentucky has always said to him, in matters of this kind especially, stand aside, and him who lives closer to the people, go on and upward to this place of honor and trust. So may it continue.

Jerry Simpson wants to be the United States Senator from Kansas; Streator, the great Third party apostle from Illinois has gone to Kansas to defeat Jerry, because Jerry helped defeat him when Palmer was elected from Illinois. They are having a monkey and parrot time at the Kansas Capitol. The Third party fellows are as anxious to fight, bleed and die, for the offices as any other politicians. After all of these were no salaried offices in politics, who would be in politics?

At the late Presidential election the great State of Nevada cast 10,000 votes, something near 4,000 votes less than the Democrat Congressmen in this district received. Yet Nevada has two United States Senators. In the electoral college the same little slice of the earth has three votes. On an important question in the Senate the 10,000 voters in Nevada has just as big a vote as the 800,000 in Kentucky.

Eight murderers will be hung at Charleston, Md., Friday. They are all negroes, five men and three boys.

CARRISVILLE, Ky., Jan. 9, '98.
A successful and happy New Year is our wish to the Press and all of its subscribers.

After one week of pleasantness and all the good things our better half had in her larder to prepare for us, we just nestle down near the stove and smoke; at the same time think with pleasure that 1893 will prove to be one of the most prosperous years, politically, in the history of America. We can boast of having a President who will administer to the government fearlessly and without dictation, and from the present surmises of these who propose to know, Mr. Cleveland will surround himself with a cabinet of the best men of the nation; with Cleveland, president, Carlisle, Morrison, Tucker and others of like import, will present to the American people a government headed by self will, moral courage, mental strength and diplomatic ability, such as has never before been witnessed. We are also proud to see in the Covington Commonwealth the name of W. J. Stone, our faithful and energetic Congressman, as a probable candidate for U. S. Senator, to fill the vacancy of Carlisle, provided Carlisle gets a cabinet appointment. Stone has served the people of his district in Congress long enough to be a good motto, and the people should know him. Then we have Hendricks, Campbell and other good men to select material to fill Stone's place in the House, and I had most forgotten to say that Carrisville will have a new postmaster—but we are at a loss just now to say who will be the lucky one; however, we think after considering age, qualification and other things necessary in the make up of a man to fill that position, that J. C. Owen is rather the best material we have to offer. He is and always has been a true blue Democrat, and did all he could to secure the nomination of Stone in the last struggle. Good Luck.

The leasing of convicts should be abolished.

Monday all the State offices in Kansas passed from the hands of the Republicans to the care and keeping of the Third Party people.

Claud Matthews, an ex-Kentuckian, was formally made Governor of Indiana Monday, and on the same day Missouri advanced Hon. William J. Stone, an ex-Kentuckian, to her executive chair.

Kentucky has furnished three Secretaries for the National Treasury. They were George M. Bibb, under President Tyler; James Guthrie, under President Pierce and Gen. Bristow, under President Grant.

It's better roads that we need, but the way of getting them is unknown. A new road law may help matters some, but until we are a wealthier people, the roads will be muddy. The enactment of law itself will no more make a good road than a sign board would. It is the disposition and the work that makes the road.

The World's Fair bill was passed by the Lower House of the Kentucky Legislature Tuesday by a vote of 52 to 36. The bill appropriates $100,000 for the State's exhibit at the great fair. It also prohibits the sale of liquor in the Kentucky department of the fair.

Our African friends who take offense at being referred to as "negroes" will please make note of the fact that twelve newspapers published in their interest in Georgia have issued an address, insisting upon the use of the word "negro" in preference to "colored," "Afro-American" or any other term.

Fredonia.
J. E. Crider, J. L. Wyatt, Prof. Nall and wife and Jake Crider went to Hopkinsville Saturday to hear Sam Jones preach on Sunday.

Lloyd & Pilant are running a corn crusher near the creamery; the machine grinds shuck, cob and corn in a meal. It will be a great saying in feeding creamery cows.

The variety show here last week was largely attended, and it was said to be the best one of its kind ever in this part of the country.

W. F. Akridge will build a residence for himself in Kelsey.

Mr. McConnell is building a residence in Kelsey; that town is on a big boom.

There has been a Christian Endeavor Society organized here, and it is increasing in membership.

Frank Wyatt and wife, of Livingston, who have been visiting relatives in Caldwell for some time past returned home last Monday.

The creamery would be a success if the milk of a hundred more cows was furnished.

Wm O'Hara, of Louisville, was in town two or three days last week.

Wm Hooker, of Clay county, Mo., who has been absent 20 or 30 years is visiting his relatives, friends and associates of his boyhood days.

W. H. McKee has sold his house and lot in Kelsey to W. H. Steger.

Rev B. A. Brandon filled his appointment at the S. P. church last Sunday, and spoke of the disgrace of drunkenness in a civilized country. It strangers had been on hunt of a civilized country and had struck this thought they had not found it yet.

Sunday school was well attended last Sunday and no doubt when the weather gets better the attendance will be much better.

Tom Ordway is out again after a severe spell of sickness.

Bob Morgan has been on the sick list for the past week.

The weather has been very changeable and disagreeable for several weeks past.

The farmers are anxiously awaiting the time for the ground to be in order to barn plant beds.

R. W. McChesney, formerly of Shady Grove, has moved to his farm in the Caldwell Spring neighborhood.

B. A. Jacobs wants all his old customers and as many new customers as want to save money to call on him and find out for themselves that he will sell them more groceries for the money than any other dealer in this part of the country. He has no rent to pay and will save you money if you deal with him.

Mr. Frankie Rorer, of Crittenden was visiting in town last Monday.

There was a party at Mrs. Jimmie Rankin's Monday night, in honor of Miss Sadie Webber.

REFORM.

Oh, that I had the power of thought and speech

That to the world my power and ex-ample might reach

The shame and sorrow of drunkenness I would subdue,

So the vices of debauchery and crime would be few.

I would punish all those who manufacture the stuff,

And convince them they had committed sins enough.

I would cause them to make amends for the past,

And ask forgiveness for sins while life should last.

If they repaid those whom they had so vilely abused,

They would in part grant what they had so often refused,

A chance to let their fellow creatures live in peace,

Instead of their poverty and debauchery increase.

CALIFORNIA HERMIT.

Men Passing Their Lives in Idle Solitude on the Mountain Tops.

It is men essentially a social animal; the scientists say so. But in the mountains of California there are almost enough men who for years have led a life of solitude to disprove the generalization. These mountain hermits can be found scattered through the Sierras and along the coast ranges from one end of the State to the other. They are particularly numerous about this region, centering about the Yosemite valley and extending far back into the high Sierras. Some of them were once guides in the valley, others have been miners, and some again seem to have taken up the life of solitude simply because they like it.

To this class belongs old P. R. Gibson—"Old Gib," who is generally called—who lives on a mountain ranch. He is seventy-five years old, but is possessed of as much physical strength and endurance as the average man of half his age. He came thirty years ago from Tennessee, where he left a wife and a large family of children. One of his sons came to see him recently and tried to induce him to visit his former home, but "Old Gib" steadfastly refused to leave his little cabin and solitary life. He has never seen a railroad, and the stage drivers from the nearest station try their utmost to persuade him to go to town and at least look at a train of cars. But his invariable answer is: "Do you think I'm going down there to be blown up by one of them there blamed engines? Not much!"

Nearly all the men who live this life of solitude very long get a bit queer in the head, and "Old Gib" is no exception to the rule. He has a singular description of himself which declares that he is "the best man in the United States or any other country, either directly or indirectly, financially, commercially, ecclesiastically or unchurchified." The old man is a hard worker, and when he is not busy on his ranch he is working energetically making "shakes"—that is, clapboards split and saved by hand from pine trees.

Old man Lambert, who has a cabin in the high Sierras some thirty miles back of the Yosemite, is another of the mountain hermits. He has neither ranch nor mining claim, but lives by what he shoots and by an occasional few dollars earned from camping parties. He has lived alone in that same spot for years and years, and will in all likelihood stay there until he dies. There are months at a time that he does not see another human being. A party of campers one summer found him making a huge stone wall that seemed to have no purpose whatever. In surprise they asked him what he was piling up those stones for.

"Why," he said, "a man's got to do something, up here alone, or he'll go wrong, sure."—Cor. Augusta (Ga.) Chronicle.

Schooling at Twenty Dollars a Year.

However moderate the expense of a student of the present time may be they can hardly reach the extremely modest sum which sufficed for Jean Marmontel, a French poet, during the reign of Louis XV, for a year's schooling. In his "Memoirs" he speaks of his school life as follows:

I was helped, as was the custom of the school, by an old scholar at the house of our nearest mechanic.

My provisions for a week consisted of a large loaf of rye bread, a little cheese, a piece of bacon and two or three pounds of beef. My mother had added to them a dozen apples.

This was the weekly provision of the best of scholars of the school. The mistress of the house cooked for us, and for her trouble, her fire, her lamp, her beds, her housework, including even the vegetables of her little garden which she used for our soup, she gave her two pence halfpenny a month.

Reckoning everything except my clothes, I cost my father between four and five pounds a year. This was much to him and an expense of which I was very anxious to see him relieved.

How It Feels to Be in a Railway Wreck.

"A man who has never been in a wreck wouldn't believe how long it takes for the cars to get through piling up," said another. "After the first crash there is a rebound clear to the back of the train, and then the whole thing takes another lunge, something gives way, and may be three or four more cars telescope. Then there's another jerk backward and another lunge, and it seems as if the cracking and groaning and tumbling kept on for five minutes. When a man is mixed up with the trucks under the whole stack it seems like an hour."

"Make it an hour and a half," said an ex-tramman as he scratched his nose with the only claw-like finger remaining at the end of a twisted and charred stump of a hand. The crowd knew how he had been dug out with a derick and laughed at the joke.—Chicago News-Record.

King's Daughters in Turkey.

Smyrna, Turkey, has an active circle of King's Daughters engaged in the practical charitable work for which this order is noted. By sewing, embroidering, scrubbing floors, blackening shoes, or any work for which money would be paid, they have distributed rice and coal among the poor, visited the sick, educated children, provided medicines, paid rents and done other similar acts of charity. On holidays they divide into committees for the purpose of decorating the rooms where poor families live and providing small remembrances for the children.—New York Sun.

Longevity in England.

The death rate in the Peak of Derbyshire is so low that the district rivals in salubrity the American village which is so extraordinarily healthy that the inhabitants who wished to "shuffle off this mortal coil" had to migrate into a neighboring town. The mortality at Buxton is nine per 1,000; at the adjacent hamlet of Flash it is said that death takes only the very young and very old, the infant and the patriarch. The section can almost tell where graves will be next dug. In a similar manner at Edale, under the shadow of Kinderhook, death goes by senility.

At Tidewell, also in the "Peak Country," there was, quite recently, the funeral of a man sixty-four years of age, whose father and mother were still living in the parish, having been married sixty-seven years.—Sala's Journal.

Not to Be Outdone.

Governor Turley, of Tennessee, tells a good story and has a keen appreciation of fun. Once while his regiment was in winter quarters with a Georgia regiment a religious revival was started in camp. An officer told him one day that twelve of the Georgians had been converted.

"How many of our men professed Christianity?" he asked.

"None, sir."

"What! what?" he said, "none of my men converted? It will never do for Georgia to get ahead of Tennessee. Send detail of twelve of our men for baptism at once."—New York World.

LOCAL NEWS.

FOR THE LEGISLATURE

We are authorized to announce JOHN W. SKELTON as a candidate to represent Crittenden and Livingston counties in the next general assembly of Kentucky. He is subject to the action of the Democratic party.

Hogs are mighty scarce. Where is our local option? The town tax collector is at large. Embryo candidates were abroad Monday.

I have a good horse for sale. R. F. McEwan. The public school closes in three weeks.

It was rather a dull county court Monday. Monday was pay day with the creamery.

A plain drunk is a violation of the town laws. The horse swappers were frozen out Monday.

We will take good care of that account of yours. Weldon. Revs. Miley and Carter filled their pulpits at this place Sunday.

A child of B. F. McEwan has been very ill several days. The ice houses have been filled, and there is plenty of ice left.

The coal men are not grumbling on account of the cold weather. The new planing mill firm is arranging for a big business this year.

You say that you have no money that does not pay the account. M. H. Weldon. Drunk men are making their appearance on the street almost daily.

Born to the wife of Rev. M. H. Miley, Friday, Jan. 6th, a fine girl. Monday night was the coldest of the season. Three degrees below zero.

A Dewey & Co's mill is again running night and day to fill its orders. New Orleans sugar and best plantation molasses for sale at J. N. Woods.

Seven car loads of stock will be shipped Saturday—two to Evansville and five to Louisville. Dr. O. S. Young, the dentist. Office over Hillyard & Woods' drug-store.

If you have fur skins for sale don't fail to see J. N. Woods before disposing of them. That account of yours that you have forgot is still fresh in our memory. Weldon.

Mr. J. W. Cade has been made Master Commissioner of the Livingston Circuit Court. Mr. H. M. Cook has moved to the Marion Hotel. Mrs. Barnes has moved to her residence on Salem street.

Call on J. N. Woods and he will pay you the highest market price for any and all kinds of fur skins. Henderson is buying all the butter output of the creamery. For butter delivered at the depot they pay 27 1/2 cents per pound.

Harry Skelton, who went from this county to Arkansas some weeks ago, in, we learn by letter, very low with typhoid fever. When in need of dental work of any kind, call on Dr. O. S. Young; his work is guaranteed.

When Frank Dodge asks you very politely to pay off your account and you do not pay it he looks sad. Weldon. A number of the candidates for the postoffice have expressed themselves ready and willing to submit their claims to a primary election.

Who Can Beat It. Bob Hodges has been with Pierce & Son, the hardware men, four years and in that time has never failed to report for duty except one day.

LOST DOG.—Lost in Marion, January 7, a small rat terrier, black body, yellow legs and breast. The finder will be rewarded by reporting to me. J. N. Boston, Louisville, Ky.

LOCAL POLITICS.

Candidates and Prospective Candidates for the Legislature.

While it is eleven months until the election, there is already considerable talk about our next State Senator and Representative. According to the unwritten agreement, the six non scripts as the lawyers would say, this will be Crittenden's year to furnish a member for both branches of the Legislature. Caldwell and Webster has each had its turn in the Senatorial mill, and each concede that Crittenden may furnish the nominee. Crittenden is not without material both suitable and willing for the sacrificial altar. No matter who the nominee may be he will have no walk over. Caldwell county's Democratic majority has melted away at the advance of the Third party, and the same forces have diminished the ranks of the party in Webster county, while Crittenden's figures show a preponderance of the Republican element. If the nominee is acceptable to the party in all three counties, he can win, otherwise, John Orr may go the Senate again. So far these are two candidates. Hon. S. O. Nunn, and Mr. P. C. Stephens, these are the avowed candidates, while others are mentioned in connection with the race. Ex-Senator F. M. Clement and Mr. P. S. Maxwell have been discussed in connection with the race.

In the Legislative district the Democrat will have fair sailing, though the ship has been known to strike rocks and go down. If an acceptable man is nominated, he will win; but if there happens to be any barnacles on him, look out for breakers. There is one announced candidate, Mr. J. W. Skelton. Several other names have been mentioned in connection with the honors, and among them are L. W. Cruce, Dr. J. N. Todd, Foster Threlkeld, J. P. Pierce, T. A. Rankin, and Judson Bennett. Whether any or all of these gentlemen will be candidates or not, the future alone can tell.

If our popular young county attorney does not reach the magistrate's court this week, do not condemn him; there is a brand new girl baby at his house, and he is being broke in as a nurse.

New stock of article over shoes, for men, women and boys. Best quality that has been in the house this season. J. N. Woods.

A few days ago Gus Armstrong, colored, was arrested and put under bond for his appearance at Circuit Court to answer the charge of selling liquor without license.

A few nights ago a sneak thief visited Mr. J. F. Loyd's meal barrel and relieved it of its contents. He beseeches the thief to return the meal and get flour, as he has more flour than meal.

Furs! Furs! Furs!!!—J. N. Woods will buy and pay the highest market prices for coon, fox, mink, muskrat, skunk, beaver, otter, opossum, house cat, and other kind of fur skins.

Mr. G. M. Russell, who for several years was connected with the Paines has sold his paper at Jasper, Mo., and announces that he will leave for Nevada, in a few days to take charge of a thorough bred Democratic paper.

County Attorney Blue was requested to attend the police court at Dycusburg Tuesday to prosecute some parties for gambling. Having a number of cases before Judge Moore on that day the efficient attorney could not be at both places at the same time.

Mr. W. C. Watts, of Smithland, is an aspirant for the position of consul from the United States to England. A number of years spent in that country, have added experience to fine natural ability and it is more than probable the Consulate will be tendered him.—Smithland News.

Six applicants for certificates to teach were examined Friday and Saturday. Several of them were caught on the sentence: "Man the sloop and ship the rudder." They were asked to parse the sentence, and several of them remained true to the proposition that "man" is a noun.

On last Thursday Mr. John L. Duncan and Mrs. Jane Sly were united in marriage at the bride's home near Marion. Mr. Duncan has passed his seventy-fourth year, and the bride is in her fifty-ninth, but these few years do not keep the pair from being just as happy as if they were only twenty. May they live long, prosper, and grow old happily together.

Mr. Geo. M. Crider will take charge of the house heretofore known as the Hillyard Hotel, and will christen it the Crider House. He will furnish it from dome to cellar in first class style, and give his personal attention to making it a first class hostelry in every particular. Mr. Crider never does things by halves, and the Crider House will want nothing necessary to make a pleasant, comfortable home for the traveling public.

PERSONALS.

Sam Gugenheim was in Evansville last week.

Dr. J. W. Jordan, of Princeton, was in town Monday.

Mr. W. C. Glenn, of Fredonia, was in town Tuesday.

Mr. R. L. Easley and wife, of Tolu were in town Monday.

Mr. T. A. McAmis, the Tolu P. M., was in town Monday.

Miss Nettie Moore, is visiting relatives in Madisonville this week.

Mr. Buckner Croft, of Tolu, passed through town Saturday enroute to Bardstown to attend school.

Mr. J. M. McChesney, of Salem, was in town Monday. He hopes to become a resident of Marion shortly.

The Merchants Protective Association held a meeting in J. N. Wood's store last night, and admitted some new members.

Marriage Licenses. John L. Duncan to Mrs. Jane Sly; Corlis L. Hill and Ida L. Hunt; Ewell C. Little and Sue Martin.

When we sell a man goods on 30 days time and then he says that he did not know he owed us anything. "That hurts." M. H. Weldon.

Cutting Scrap. On Monday evening a cutting scrape occurred at Dycusburg, and the principals in the fight were Dick Jones and Wm. Denton. The latter was severely stabbed in the throat three times.

Monday Sheriff Franks arrested Everett Stone, whom the grand jury indicted for hunting on Sunday. Stone went to jail so as to get a trial; after remaining in the prison a few hours he went before Judge Moore and pleaded guilty to the charge. He was fined $5, which sum he paid and went on his way with the impression that it is not wise to shoot at Crittenden county squarrels on Sunday.

Ex-Sheriff Cruce is bending his energies towards collecting the taxes he had scattered over the county. When he went out of office, he had about $10,000 uncollected. To protect himself he is bound to collect this at once, and the levies he has made could be counted by the score. If you owe him old taxes, you had as well count out the money and have it ready to hand over when he calls.

Badly Burned. Last Thursday evening Miss Maude Tucker, daughter of Mr. Ben Tucker, of this place, met with a very unfortunate and painful accident. While standing in front of a grate her clothes were ignited, and before the fire could be extinguished she was severely burned on the lower limbs and lower part of the body. While the burn is not necessarily fatal, it is of a serious character.

The evidence is obtainable that Flannigan Clark has been keeping a gambling house for several months, and at times games were in progress that lasted days and nights. An information was filed against him a few days ago. Sheriff Gustin went down Monday and served the capias on Clark, after which he sat down to dinner. Clark assumed the role of waiter and went out after a tray of victuals. He forgot where the kitchen is and hurried over into Kentucky to look for it. It is not likely that he will be able to find his way back, and his family will probably go to him.—Elizabethtown (Ill.) Independent.

A Big Purchase. A. H. Cardin & Co. are now under full headway, receiving and stemming its enormous purchase of tobacco. About 1,500,000 pounds has so far been purchased, and it was selected from three counties, and is a fine lot of tobacco. Already this company, one of the best in Western Kentucky, are in receipt of propositions from foreign companies to the entire purchase.

Charged With Horse Stealing. Fred Bandy, of Crittenden county was brought to this place Sunday and placed in jail for stealing a horse from Mr. Robert Threlkeld of Carversville. He carried the horse to Princeton and traded it to a Mr. Rauscher and then traded Rauscher horse to Jesse Boyd of this county. Bandy was arrested by Deputy Hayden and carried before 'Squire Stephens of Salem, but he waived his trial and is now in jail awaiting further proceedings.—Smithland News.

One of the most useful contrivances we have seen recently, for the farmer, is McDonald's wagon bed lifter, which was exhibited on the street Monday. With it a ten year old boy can easily remove the bed from any wagon, leaving the bed high and dry, and where it can be as easily replaced, as it was moved. In addition to its usefulness in this direction it can be successfully used for many purposes on the farm, hanging hogs and beavers, lifting heavy articles from the ground to sheds, or upon horses. It is sold by Mr. B. F. James, one of our best citizens, who will call on the farmers of this county. It will pay you to examine this article. Mr. James is a home man, and whatever he says about it can be relied upon.

ROBBED.

The Store of H. F. Haynes, at Caseyville Broken Into and Rifled of Jewelry and Notions.

A daring robbery occurred at Caseyville on Thursday morning about 1 or 2 o'clock. Thieves effected entrance by way of the rear door into the dry goods house of H. F. Haynes, Jr., and succeeded in getting away with the contents of a show case containing valuable jewelry, besides helping themselves to such as the best suits of underwear, clothing, gloves, valises, laces and sundries. It was evidently a careful and premeditated theft, for the reason that they first broke a window pane in the shop of Pryor Jones and obtained several chisels by which means they prised open the door of the store. Mr. Haynes estimates his loss at about $300. It is thought the thieves left in shifts and Porter Graham City Marshal has telegraphed to the Chief of Police at Paducah to be on the look out.—Sturgis Enterprise.

SHOEY SHOT.

John Riley Put a Bullet Through the Body of Worth Shoey.

On Monday night there was a social gathering at the residence of John Riley in the South-western part of the county. Among those present was Worth Shoey. According to reports Shoey was drinking, and used language in the house insulting to Riley; hot words ensued and Shoey was put out of the house and told to stay out, and that if he returned it would be at his peril. The ejected man did return, and as he entered the house Riley drew his pistol and fired at him. The ball struck Shoey in the right breast, passed through the body, struck his coat and dropped to the floor. He is said to be in a dangerous condition. Riley has not been arrested, and it is reported that he has left the country.

Mr. J. W. Skelton is the first to make an official announcement of his candidacy for the Legislature. Mr. Skelton is an energetic, ambitious young man, and will make a gallant fight for the place. He is a thorough Democrat. He was for a time engaged in the newspaper business at this place, as editor of the Farmers Advocate, and was at the same time lecturer for the Farmers' Union.

COUNTY COURT.

Tax Supervisors and Guardians Appointed, and Wills Probated.

It was ordered by the court that E. B. Blackburn, John A. Yandell, T. E. Griffith, J. E. Dean and A. A. Deboe be and they are hereby appointed tax supervisors for 1893, and they are ordered and directed at the County Clerk's office on the first Monday in March, and upon failure to do so, the one so failing is subject to a fine of $20.

W. S. Cain was allowed $50 for poor house practice.

D. J. Martin was appointed guardian for Susie Martin.

The will of W. P. Murray was probated, and W. H. Walker qualified as executor of the will. The deceased bequeaths his personal property to his wife, daughter and grand daughter, and 50 acres of land to his son.

James I. Walker qualified as guardian for Linnie J. Ashley. B. F. Loveless was granted an order permitting him to appropriate six acres of vacant land.

J. E. Imboden was allowed on pauper account.

J. E. Tharp granted public road, and Jonth Belt appointed commissioner to open same.

J. E. Dean, commissioner, reported road opened.

The will of J. L. Rushing was probated. The testator bequeathed his property, both personal and real, to his sisters and brothers. R. B. Gass is made the executor of the will.

Judge Moore was busy three days this week disposing of Commonweath cases. James Long was fined one cent and cost for a breach of the peace; Charles Fritts, Jas. Long and Jasper McBride were fined $20 each for disturbing a public gathering at Oak Grove on Christmas eve. The neighborhood had a Christmas tree at the Grove, and the boys got themselves into the scrape on that occasion.

J. C. Deboe who was charged with a breach of the peace by Jas. Woods was acquitted.

Elvin Grissom charges R. B. Gregory with abusing and threatening to shoot her, and the case is before the Judge for trial to-day. Gregory charges Elvin with trespass, and this case will be heard by 'Squire Morgan to-day.

J. L. RUSHING DEAD.

A Popular and Successful Young Teacher Passes Away.

There was no better known young man among the teachers of the county than J. Lincoln Rushing, and his many friends and associate teachers will be deeply grieved to learn of his death, which occurred Saturday, January 7, at the family home near Piney Fork church. He was called from his school several weeks ago to watch by the bedside of his dying father. After nursing his father for two weeks, the young man was taken down with typhoid fever, and survived his father only ten days. He was a promising young man, full of hope for the future, and blessed with energy and ambition, and had he lived, he would have made his mark.

Douglas McFee Dead.

Tuesday, January 10, at 11 o'clock, Mr. Douglas McFee died at the residence of his father, Mr. A. D. McFee, near Ford's Ferry, after a long illness, and the remains were buried beside those of his sister in the family burying ground.

Douglas McFee was a young man of excellent character, genial disposition, and fine business qualities. No young man had more friends, and none deserved them more. He came from Boone county with the family several years ago, when but a little boy; he has grown up in our midst, respected and admired by all. He was a clerk on the Cincinnati and Memphis packets for some time, but his health failed; he then went west hoping to regain his health; after remaining in the west a while he returned home and continuously declined until the day of his death.

Cox-McChesney.

Christmas tide had just given way to New Year when tickets were out in our little town for the marriage in Union church, Wednesday evening, Jan. 4th, of Miss Annie, youngest daughter of Mr. J. M. McChesney, to Mr. Will E. Cox, an enterprising young farmer of this vicinity. As both had been lights in the social circles of Salem for many years everything was done by their host of friends to make it a worthy affair.

All that taste and art could do with cedar, mistletoe and holly was done; and to the many friends who had gathered, Salem's church presented a splendid appearance, at 7 o'clock, when the ushers escorted Miss Pritchett, of Madisonville, the organist, and Elder T. C. Carter to their respective places. Soon after, amid strains of sweet music, the wedding party entered, the attendants being Chas. Evans and Miss Nora Lowery, Will Lowery and Miss Carrie Parker; the bride and bridesmaids wearing beautiful costumes of purest white, with floral ornaments, while the groom, and gentlemen of honor were attired in conventional black.

Beneath a canopy of mistletoe suspended from the center of a beautiful evergreen arch, the bridal couple stood while a short and impressive ceremony from Elder Carter followed by a short invocation, made them one for life.

And as the minister blessed them, those two, it came to us that never had it been given us; it seemed to look upon two who were more worthy of God's blessings.

With well rounded Christian character inherited and added to, in the past, he, handsome, strong and brave; she beautiful and trusting in the present, who could but bespeak a happy, prosperous future. The ceremony ended, the bridal party left the church, took conveyance and drove to the residence of the bride's father where they received hearty congratulations of their friends; and all went merry until a late hour when the guests took their departure.

A handsome reception was given the bridal party the next day at the residence of the groom's mother, Mrs. A. J. Fleming. The bride and groom were the recipient of many handsome presents of few of which we enumerate:

Mrs. A. J. Fleming, $20 in gold; George Croft and wife, $20 in gold; Harry McChesney, rocking chair; H. D. McChesney and wife, silver casket; Mrs. and Mr. T. C. Carter, set silver knives and forks; Miss Fannie Croft, parlor lamp; Mrs. Ella Threlkeld, parlor lamp; J. O. Gray & Co., table cloth and napkins; Will Lowery, granite tea pot; Mr. and Mrs. Daniels, preserve stand and jelly pans; Miss Ada Butler, glass set; Miss Fenniss Ellington, set glasses and salt cellars; Mrs. Nora Lowery, set knives and forks; Will Pritchett, linen towels; Mr. and Mrs. Crichtow, preserve stand; Miss Adelle Mitchell, egg glass; Mrs. Jas. Freeman, pickle dishes; Mrs. J. A. Farris, table linen; Dr. Hayden, wash bowl and pitcher; Miss Mary Cox, silver butter knife and fruit spoon; Mrs. J. M. McChesney, china tea set; Mrs. Tom Evans, coffee mill; Mrs. Duke Roney, water pitcher; Rev. Lyon and wife, towels; Miss Carrie Parker, comforts; Felix Cox, towels; Miss Maude Boney, set of goblets; Miss Sallie McChesney, counterpane; Willie Croft, glass set.

HAZE A LOVE-SICK SWAIN AND SERIOUSLY CUT.

Princeton, Ky., Jan. 7.—Two dangerously wounded men with great knife scars in their faces and bodies is the news that reaches here from Trigg Furnace, in Trigg county. Lipscomb Mitchell, of Illinois, was visiting in the neighborhood, paying court to a young lady, when five Wallis boys, young men of the town attempted to haze him. While Mitchell was returning from his sweetheart's house in a lonely spot on the road they secreted themselves and as Mitchell passed he was greeted with five shots fired in rapid succession. He didn't run, but took out an ugly-looking knife, and before the five young men realized his intent he was among them using his knife with deadly effect. They were all badly wounded. The exact nature can not be learned. The wounded men belong to one of the most prominent families in this section of Kentucky.

Chamberlain's Eye and Skin Ointment.

A certain cure for Chronic Sore Eyes, Tetters, Salt Rheum, Scald Head, Old Chronic Sores, Fever Sores, Eczema, Itch, Pruritus, Scabies, Sore Nipples and Piles. It is cooling and soothing. Hundreds of cases have been cured by it after all other treatment had failed 35 cents per box.

Mr. J. P. Reed, the most extensive stock purchaser in this section, hands us a circular letter signed by ten of the largest wholesale houses that handle lambs in New York. This letter is directed to dealers and farmers, and it says:

The parties to whom we sell our dressed lambs have gradually become averse to buck lambs, and now take a decided stand against them, and want all ewe and wethers.

They will not handle buck lambs, unless we make a concession in the price of two cents per pound dressed weight.

We hereby give notice that we shall make a difference of from seventy-five cents to one dollar per head in price between buck lambs, and ewe and wether lambs, same age and quality, as buck lambs have to be sold in our market for two cents per pound dressed weight, lower than ewe and wether lambs, same quality.

OUR LUNATICS.

Some facts from the report of the Hopkinsville Asylum.

The report of the Western Kentucky Lunatic Asylum for the year ending Oct. 31, 1892, shows some interesting figures. At the end of the year there were remaining in the asylum 591 patients, of whom 320 are males and 271 females. The percentage of deaths on number treated is 5.4 and the percent of recoveries on admission 35.2. The daily average number of patients present during the year was 599.6. There were just 11 more patients in the asylum on Nov. 1st, 1892, than on Nov. 1st, 1891. An increase of eleven in a year is not a very big one considering the fact that our population is constantly on the increase. There are 49 more men than women in the asylum.

There were 170 persons admitted during the year and 60 discharged restored. Of the 170 admitted 86 are married, 41 of them male and 45 females. Among those admitted were 44 unmarried males and 18 unmarried females, making 62 in all unmarried. There were 8 widowers and 5 widows, 3 divorced men and 5 divorced women and one whose civil condition is unknown.

From these figures it seems that an unmarried man is about as likely to go crazy as a married one but that there were 27 more married women admitted than single ones. Of the whole 170 admitted 73 were women and 97 men, a majority of them were between 15 and 20 years of age, 26 from 20 to 30; 22 from 30 to 40; 15 from 40 to 50; 10 from 50 to 60; 9 from 60 to 70 and 1 unknown. Of the women 6 were from 15 to 20 years; 27 from 20 to 30; 17 from 30 to 40; 15 from 40 to 50; 6 from 50 to 60 and 2 from 60 to 70.

Of the 170 there were born in Kentucky 121, the others being born in other States and one in England.

Something of the occupation of these 170 will not be uninteresting. Forty-eight of them are farmer's wives and daughters; sixty-four are farmers; five are mechanics' wives; three mechanics; three physicians and one physician's wife; one clerk and two clerks' wives; one merchant's daughter; three teachers, one male and two females; one dressmaker; eight cooks; three house servants; one baker's wife; one fisherman's wife; one minor; one gardener; one broker; one hotel waiter; one hackman; one brakeman; one civil officer; five have no occupation, and one's occupation is unknown.

As to cause it is hereditary with 58 out of 168, there being 29 men and 29 women whose insanity is attributable to this cause. In 14 cases it was caused by ill health, in 18 by father's intemperance; in 7 by the intemperance of the patient; in 7 epilepsy. Six were caused by grief, four by domestic trouble; three by disappointment in love; four by religious excitement; one by poverty and hardship and in others it was caused by different things and in a number of other cases the cause is unknown.—Park City Times.

A MORMON REFUGEE.

The Mexican Government Grants A Concession to a Colony From Utah.

New York, Jan. 4.—A dispatch to the World from Santa Rosalia, Mexico, says: Elder John Stuart, of Salt Lake, who has obtained a concession from the Mexican Government for the establishment of a Mormon colony here, arrived yesterday with twenty families, comprising about 100 persons. The colony is expected to comprise 8,000 persons. The colonists will be allowed to practice their religion as they see fit.

AT THE BABY'S BEDTIME.

This is baby's bedtime. My little one comes to me In her merry little nightgown And kneels down at my knee, And says a sweet child's prayer In a time my own.

"Now I lay me," she whispers In low voice, "down to sleep. I pray the Lord—and the blue eyes Half close—"my aunt to keep. If I should die—"oh, the wails, I pray the Lord—"and the eyelids droop low—"my aunt to take."

Then I lift up the little one, clasping Her close to my loving heart, And give her warm, good night kisses Till the closed lids break apart. And the vision of her eyes Look up in their drowsy fashion And smile at me sweetly.

"Good night," she whispers me softly And sleepily, with a kiss That lingers with me to slumber. And still my heart with bliss. As I think of the little one dreaming With her head nestled my breast, Till my sleep is as full of rapture As her dreaming of rest.

—Ella K. Bedford.

A Strange Death.

Thomas Odell, a young man of twenty-two years, living seven miles back of Greensburg, Ky., has met death in a strange manner. He had been a puzzle to physicians for several years. He was affected by what he called such an extent that when he indulged in beef eating about an hour afterward he would become restless and wander out in search of cattle and bellow as an ox, and would get down on his hands and knees and eat grass like a cow. When he was taken to the hospital he was treated with sheep, and he would plausibly bleat like a lamb. When he ate chicken he would go out and scratch for worms, which he would devour with apparent relish.

After eating fish he would wander to the creek and fish swimming. One day his father killed several squirrels, of which the son ate heartily for dinner. He left the house shortly after and was followed by the father. The father saw him enter an oak grove and soon saw his son jumping nimbly from limb to limb, at the same time barking like a squirrel. He called for him to come down, but this only seemed to make the boy want to escape, and he attempted to jump from one tree to another, but missed and fell to the ground, a mangled, breathless mass of humanity, and expired in less than five minutes.—Atlanta Constitution.

Vegetable Box Donations.

Portions of the South Pacific ocean produce a wonderful species of the seaweed called the "vegetable box constrictor." They are likely to be met with at any point between the lower point of southern California, and the Sandwich Islands on the one side and between Chili and Australia on the other. These vine-like strangers are frequently found tightly entwined about the body of a dead whale, shark or porpoise, but whether they had fastened upon the bodies of these dead sea animals before life had become extinct or had only ventured to attack the remains after the vital spark had died are conundrums which of course cannot be answered. Experiments made with this curious vine and the carcass of a porpoise washed ashore in the harbor at Apia, tend to prove that the vine, like that of our common bean, will not entwine itself around anything dead, whether that thing be of vegetable or animal creation.

Dr. Chadbourne, in his "Annals of the Caroline Islands," says: "I have often seen monster specimens of macrystis (the giant seaweed), with every vestige of life squeezed out of them by that ocean demon, the constrictor vine, which is itself a species of seaweed. Macrystis often grows to be from 20 to 30 inches in diameter and 1,500 to 2,000 feet in length, while the constrictor vine seldom exceeds 100 feet in length and is never larger in diameter than a pound and a half salmon can. It is the 'snake vine' of the ocean, however, and was to the unskilled men, animal or plant that comes within its reach."—St. Louis Republic.

The Mahdi.

The mahdi's outward appearance was strangely fascinating; he was a man of strong constitution, very dark complexion and his face always wore a pleasant smile, to which he had, by long practice, accustomed himself. Under this smile shone a set of singularly white teeth, and between the two upper middle ones was a V shaped space, which in the Bon was considered a sign that the owner will be lucky. The mahdi was well versed in the art of winning over people. His untroubled smile, pleasant manners, gentleness and equable temperament, though at times somewhat severe, all tended to enhance the popular view of him. He attributed the execution of Said Pasha and Ali Bey Sherif (the real defenders of Khartoum) to the Khalifa Abdullah, and when the two little sons of the latter were brought to him the smiling hypocrite wept for their father's fate.

The popular belief in him and his cause almost amounted to worship. Women especially revered about him and thought him the most handsome of men. His virtues were extolled in poems, and constant references were made to his good looks, wisdom, stature and to his repeated victories over the Turks. The beggars used to learn off by heart special laudatory verses, and by reciting them from house to house they were sure to be given alms.—The Year's Captivity in the Mahdi's Camp.

He Threw Away the Cigar. "George," she said softly, as she looked trustfully into his eyes. "What is it, George?" he asked tenderly.

"Don't you think, George," she said slowly, "that you had better throw away that cigar?"

"Do you object to smoke, pet?" he asked.

"Oh, no, George, dear George; not at all," she replied quickly. "I rather like the smell of a good cigar, but—"

"Does your mother object to cigar smoke in the house?"

"Oh, no; papa smokes here all the time, but—"

"But what, dear?"

"That you are so forgetful, George, and—if you should forget to take the cigar out of your mouth you might—"

"—even a slight burn on my cheek, you know, would cause comment."

The clear went into the grate, and a minute later there was nothing but a bluish on a fair cheek to indicate that George would take a broad hint.—Detroit Free Press.

New Reads Criticisms.

Mr. Bentley, the eminent baritone, declares that since 1861 he has rarely read a criticism that has been passed upon his singing. In that year he was taken severely to task for a performance at the Birmingham festival, and the remarks of the critic so affected him that he determined to read no more criticisms. If other performers distinguished and not distinguished, would follow this example, what heartburnings would be averted.—London Tit-Bits.
