Mr. Cleveland's High Estimate of Carlisle.

Washington, Jan. 12.—Mr. Cleveland's estimate of Carlisle is given in a New York letter to the Philadelphia Press today, as follows: "Mr. Carlisle will be a very strong man if he is able to resist the pressure which Cleveland brings upon him to induce him to accept the Treasury Department, and it has been apparent to Cleveland's friends for some time that Carlisle has gained that measure of regard on the part of the President-elect which places him in Cleveland's estimation prominently above all Democrats. Mr. Cleveland was conversing with a Western Democrat about Mr. Carlisle only a few days ago, and spoke with more enthusiasm than he has ever displayed for any other member of his party. Of the Kentucky Senator's abilities the Western Senator said: 'I think you are right, Mr. Cleveland, in all you say of Carlisle, and it is my opinion that he stands only second to yourself.'"

"Second to myself. No, no; that man, in ability, in the capacity for profound thought and study, for accurate estimating the consequences of legislation, and in insight into financial and taxation problems, is without a peer, in my opinion, in the country."

It was then suggested that Carlisle would find the drudgery and the detail of executive administration of the department an annoyance, when Mr. Cleveland quickly replied: "That has been provided for, a First Assistant will be selected who will take care of those matters, and Mr. Carlisle will be left free for the more important considerations which will come before him."

STRAIGHT FROM THE SHOULDER.

Sam Jones Preaches to The Negroes of Hopkinsville.

The Hopkinsville News Era gives the following account of a sermon Sam Jones, the noted revivalist, preached to the negroes at that place. "The special service for colored people at the tabernacle Saturday afternoon drew a crowd that literally packed the vast building from corner to corner. The choir was made up of the best voices from the several colored churches, and the piano and organ provided over with credit by Wesley Smith and John Thompson, two educated and intelligent young colored men. The music has been pronounced the best heard during the revival, Mr. Excell who directed it, being lavish in his praise of the excellence of the voices. The colored people came to hear, and gave close and careful attention to both Mr. Jones and Mr. Stewart. Frequently Mr. Jones' remarks were greeted with enthusiastic demonstrations of approval from his hearers. His plain, blunt, forcible manner and his apparent sincerity won the sympathy and good will of the colored people at once, and showed them that the hard, cold facts with which his discourse was replete were meant for their best interests and intended to open their eyes to the dangers that confront them as a race and a people."

"Do you want me to preach in soft language to make you about, or do you want me to give you something to make you think?" asked the evangelist. They wanted it straight from the shoulder. "All right, then, replied Mr. Jones, remember now that this is your choice." Mr. Jones then announced his text as follows:

"Blessed is the nation whose God is the Lord, and the people whom he has chosen for his inheritance."

"I've been your friend in the South when it cost something; and I'm going to talk plainly and kindly to you this afternoon about something you've got to quit before you can ever expect to become a great people or play any considerable part in the history of the world and the triumph of Christianity. No colored man can be trifling, lazy and indolent and the same time be honest; there are white men who may be honest without working, but they have got money to live on a while indulging their indolence; but when you see a man laying around saloons and street corners doing nothing you can put it down that he is doing a little stealing; let me tell you, there ain't any fat offices for you, nothing for you but hard, honest toil, and nothing is nobler when you remember that Jesus Christ set you an example" when he stood at the carpenter's bench and pushed a jack plane. You keep out of bad company. Do you know what makes bad men? It's bad company. Keep away from mean white folks. I would like to see the father and mother of every mulatto child hunted out and sent to the penitentiary. There ain't a white who wants to associate with you but what he's low-down, contemptible scoundrel."

"You gwine ter have er ball?" Now don't you look nice havin' of a ball? Don't you look pretty at a ball shooting your number eight out of your hoop-skirts; and you great big black bucks, slingin' your number fourteen around a ball-room? You get you a gal, a bottle of whisky and a pistol and go to de ball, and then somebody bites the dust."

"Bad company will ruin anybody, white or black, and it will ruin you if you don't give it up. You've got to think more of your wives and be more careful with your children. There's your wife at the wash-tub, your children half naked and shoeless, and you laying around a grocery drinking whiskey, you black devil you. You go down town to work and stop at the grocery to get you a drink, and the grocery man charges it; you go back at night and get another and say, 'Boss, I'll pay you Saturday night. Well, Saturday night comes. Maybe it's rained two or three days that week and you haven't got but a dollar and eighty cents. You start up the street and the grocery calls you. 'Yes, boss, I was jes' comin', which is a lie. You owe him $1.60. He gives you twenty cents back. Then you buy another another drink and lay around awhile and say 'Beckon dat drink gitten kinder homesome, gimme 'nother,' and then your wages are gone. You go home you wife, you kids, you say 'You bring dem shoes?' 'What shoes?' 'Dem shoes you promise de chillun.' 'Didn't promise de chillun no shoes.' 'Naw, And then maybe you go to church and sing, both fer de promise land.'"

IS FOR REFORM.

Judge Gresham Talks of His Position in Politics.

Washington, Jan. 13.—Judge Walter Q. Gresham returned to Chicago this evening. He spent only two days in the city, and while here his room at the Arlington was crowded with callers irrespective of party to pay their respects to the distinguished and upright jurist and able citizen. Judge Gresham is extremely popular in Washington, as he is wherever he is known. He conversed freely with the Courier Journal's correspondent last night on the result of the elections, and expressed himself as delighted beyond measure over the great triumph of the people against the tariff measures. He said:

"I want you to understand that I am not a Democrat only so far as the Democrats go my thinking. That is to say, that I am only a Democrat on the tariff and economy positions. I consider the tariff as the only great question dividing the two parties. If the Democrats, when they take charge, will carry out their pledges sincerely and consistently and knock out the protection fraud, I will stay with them and so will hundreds of thousands of independent who voted for Cleveland in November. But should the Democrats fail to keep their pledges, not one of these men will be found voting the Democratic ticket in 1896. I feel pretty good, though, about the future for the fact that Carlisle is going to take the Treasury is a guarantee that the new tariff bill will give tariff reformers satisfaction. It is gratifying to know that we have a man like Carlisle to help Cleveland through the great tariff fight which will soon be upon us. Carlisle is a great man and knows all about the tariff and can make no mistakes. I predict for him a successful career in the Treasury, and also in two years I expect to see the finances of the country so plain and so simple that a boy can write a statement of the Treasury and understand it. As it stands now the more statements we read of the condition of the Treasury the less we know. But Carlisle can be trusted and he will succeed in bringing order out of chaos, and if he does he is my candidate for President in 1896, and there is not a man in the country that can beat him for the nomination and election."

A MEAN TRICK.

He Wanted To Become a Mason, and He Was Taken In.

"I had the meanest joke played on me at Indianapolis the other day that a white man was ever called upon to endure," said Frank Gildrey, as he got outside of a rectangular meal at the Lindell table d'hôte. "I had been wishing for some time past to become a Mason. I had talked a great deal about it, and my ambition became pretty well known to the traveling fraternity. About a dozen drummers were Sundaying at a hotel in the Hoosier hub, and they put up a job on me that for breadth and depth of depravity stands without a parallel."

"Tom Gains—everybody known Tom—lives in Indianapolis. He was selected to steer me against the game. He pretended to be 'way up in G in Masonry, Grand Master Mortar Mixer, or something or other of a small lodge in the city. Tom said that his lodge met on the Monday night next, and that if I desired to become a member he would see me through and give me all the sixty-six degrees; said the usual fee for going through the entire gamut was $200, but that business was a trifle dull and they had reduced the rate for the month of October, and I could go through a flying for $50. Bit? Of course I bit, and bit hard. No sucker ever made such hot haste to swallow a hook laced in red flannel. The rest of the gang pretended to leave town next day, but it was only a blind."

"Well, sir, next night Gains steered me against the goat. I had an idea that the initiatory rite was a hair-riser but had no conception of its true horror. I was ushered into a dimly lighted hall among goblins, ghosts and chimeras dire. I was tied on the back of a large he-goat that huddled like a Mexican mustang, and the whole gang of goblins chased my Pegasus over benches and boxes for a half an hour. Then I was plunged into a hoghead of ice water. After I had partially recovered I was stripped, stood on a pedestal and painted like a zebra. Suddenly the lights went out. The mystic brotherhood chanted a lot of rot around me, the Grand Master Mortar Mixer leading the strophe and the Grand Master Hod-carrier doing the antistrophe act. Then I was informed that I would be required to stand without moving for one hour as a test of my endurance. I was told that I circled about with spear points and that to move meant death in large quantities, delivered suddenly."

"Then the Grand Master Ladder Holder commanded silence, and I proceeded to endure. It seemed to stretch out through all eternity and lay over the edge. I stood there from midnight until 5 o'clock. Then daylight began to creep through the windows, and I found that I was alone. The Grand Master Mixer and his gang of fiendish Pintos had made a sneak, leaving me standing there in the cold, like Patience on a monument, with only red, white and blue stripes for covering. I bought a double-action revolver that carried a ball as big as a door-knob and started out to look for Tom Gains, but learned that he had gone to Mexico for the winter. If he years to see his grandchildren playing about his knee he had best stay there."—Globe Democrat.

MUST HANG.

Milligan, the Paducah Wife Murderer, Must Pay the Penalty.

Paducah, Ky., Jan. 12.—At 11:30 o'clock to-day, after being out just thirty minutes, the jury in the case of Francis Milligan, a white man, who has been on trial for two days for murdering his wife, brought in a verdict of guilty, and fixed death by hanging as the penalty. This murder was one peculiarly inhuman. It occurred at 10 o'clock at night, on the 20th of July, 1889, at Maxon Mills, six miles from this city. Milligan chopped the whole back of the woman's head off. A man by the name of George Willers, a German optician of St. who was making his way home on foot, was the only witness. He had been sick with fever and had been sick with fever and had been enjoying Milligan's hospitality for some ten days. He left, and the nearly four year's delay has been caused by his continued absence. On the night of the murder he ran a mile and a half to a store barefooted and bareheaded and told what had occurred. Nobody would believe him. In a few moments, however, Milligan followed him, and when asked if it was so, he replied: "Yes, G—d—her, I chopped the whole back of her head off." Several persons then accompanied Milligan to his home, where they found the murdered body of the woman on the floor bed in the yard. Milligan raised to his wife's head in his arms and remarked, "Darling, you brought this on yourself." He went into the house, and with his hands and face besmeared with the blood of his wife went to bed and slept soundly till morning. Milligan plead insanity. The new jury, Francis Milligan who was yesterday convicted of murder in the first degree and the death penalty fixed, says he don't want a new trial or his case to be appealed. He says he either wants his freedom or to be hanged, and he talks like he doesn't care which favor is shown him. His four years confinement in jail has had its effect upon him, and he longs for freedom or an end to this life."

Alaska Indians Claim They Have Seen Them Running About Recently.

The Stikine Indians positively assert that within the last five years they have frequently seen animals which, from the descriptions given, must have been mastodons. Last spring, while out hunting, one of the Indians came across a series of large tracks, each the size of the bottom of a salt barrel, and deep in the moss. He followed the curious trail for some miles, finally coming out in full view of his game.

As a class these Indians are the bravest of hunters, but the proportions of this new spectacle of game filled the hunter with terror, and he took to swift and immediate flight. He described the creature as being as large as a post-trader's store, with great, shining, yellowish white tusks, and a mouth large enough to swallow a man at a single gulp. He further says that the animal was undoubtedly of the same species as those whose bones and tusks lie all over that section of the country.

The fact that other hunters have told of seeing these monsters browsing on the herbs up along the river gives a certain probability to the story. Over on Forty Mile Creek bones of mastodons are quite plentiful. One ivory tusk, nine feet long, projects from one of the sand dunes on that creek, and single teeth have been found so large that they would be a good deal for one man to carry. I believe that the mule-footed hog still exists; also that live mastodons play tag with the aurochs every night over on Forty Mile Creek in Alaska.—Philadelphia Ledger.

Fitznoodle was out again worrying the life out of the ducks with his shotgun. He blazed away at some ducks and an unseen man on the other side of the pond rose up threateningly, with a long gun called out:

"Did you shoot at me?" "Did any of the shot hit you?" inquired Fitznoodle.

"Yes, they did," said the man, rubbing his legs.

"Then you can be certain I didn't shoot at you. I never hit anything I fire at."

Ex-President Hayes is dangerously ill.

What has become of McKinley and Reed?

In life Ben Butler was called every thing but a fool; many of his obituaries read about the same way.

Tennessee's new Governor was sworn in Monday. He is very ill, and took the oath of office while in bed.

Missouri does not propose to lease her convicts unless seventy-five cents per day for each one's labor can be realized.

Prohibition does not always prohibit; neither will good laws make good roads; public sentiment is the most powerful of all laws.

The disease that is bearing Mr. Blaine slowly but surely to the grave is now said to be a mystery so far as the public is concerned.

"It is an old saying, and it appears that the Democrats are now confronted with the 'silver lining'."

New York Democrats are promising for another fight. A New York Democrat is never happy except when he is fighting another New York Democrat.

The Populists captured Kansas in the election, but the Republicans appear to be in charge of the first whereat the choice tickets of public life are dispensed.

The Murray Ledger keeps on improving and growing in usefulness. It is now a six column eight page paper, handsomely printed, well edited and extensively patronized.

Jerry Simpson, the sockless Statesman, has left the scene of the Senatorial contest in Kansas, and returned to his duties at Washington. He has relinquished the hope of being the United States Senator from his State. The middle befuddled Jerry.

The twenty-fifth annual session of the National Woman's Suffrage Association is being held in Washington this week. A quarter of a century's work has been done by the women of the world, but the Association does not appear to be discouraged.

A whisky trust is gobbling up the big distilleries, and will make an immense lot of liquor this year, in anticipation of an increase of the internal revenue tax on this article. The proposition to increase the tax has grown in public favor since it was first mentioned, and will probably be one of the first acts of the next Congress.

The Democrats and Third party folks in Kansas have been playing partners for a year or two; but since the middle of the Legislature, each has served the other with a dissonant note, and each will set up business for itself. In short the old allies are making faces at each other, while the few straight Democrats in that State are enjoying the fun.

The Senatorial fight at Frankfort is warming up. Congressman Stone and McCrory arrived at the scene of battle Tuesday night, and all the candidates are on the ground marshalling their forces. There is no inferior timber in the whole lot. Stone, McCrory, Brown, and Breckenridge have had large experience in national legislative matters; Lindsay is a Saul among the lawyers of the State, and Clay is a clever politician. The Press regards each of them as good timber, but sincerely hopes that our own popular, worthy, able, pure, Congressman will win in the honorable prize. He will go into the fight with every Democrat member from the, his district for him.

DEAD.

Freemont, O., Jan. 17.—Ex-President Rutherford B. Hayes died at 11 o'clock to-night. Early in the evening an inquiry elicited the response that the General had passed a fairly well day, and was resting nicely this evening. The change from better to worse was rapid and 11 o'clock the distinguished ex-President passed away. The first intelligence of this was received when Webb C. Hayes came down and quickly announced that his father had just died.

T. H. Glenn, of Bethlehem, was in town Monday.

Mrs. Davenport of Crittenden county, died at 4 o'clock Monday morning, aged 82 years old.

CONGRESSIONAL BRIEVITIES.

Congressman Outwater wants frequent redemptions of National Bond and Treasury notes. He fears the spread of disease through the handling of old and much used paper money. A bill will be favorably reported abolishing the various pension agencies, and providing for the payment of pensions direct from Washington. The object is to decrease the expenses of handling the pension funds.

An effort will be made to establish by Congressional enactment a permanent census bureau.

Mr. Caine, the delegate from the territory will push a bill for the admission of Utah into the sisterhood of States.

A bill introduced for a committee chair is shifting along near the speaker's horizon.

The friends of a number of would be members of Cleveland's cabinet are reported as urging upon the President-elect the claims of their favorites. While we read of this, it is refreshing to look upon Mr. Carlisle's position. No Kentucky delegation has gone to Mr. Cleveland singing psalms of the great Senators fitness; no factions have urged his claims; his fitness is universally acknowledged, and instead of his knocking at the President's door, and earnestly invited him to be one of his counselors. We are Kentuckians still.

Ex-Governors Knott and Buckner made a trip to New York last week to see Mr. Cleveland, and as a result of their pilgrimage to the Mecca, it is announced that Senator Joe Blackburn has put away any aversion he may have ascribed for the President-elect. All the Kentucky politicians are patching up any differences they may have had with the next President, except perhaps Henry Watterson, whose lance is so free and independent that it seeks no truth, asks no quarter, as the old warrior wants no office for himself nor friends.

Cassius M. Clay, jr., who has designs upon Mr. Carlisle's seat in the Senate, writes a card proposing that the candidates pledge themselves not to use any money, "to improperly influence a vote in the General Assembly." The existence of such a pledge would indicate that there is a necessity for it. Notwithstanding the inability of the Legislature to enact laws and its other numerous shortcomings, we are not prepared to believe that it is purchasable for any purpose whatever.

Mr. J. W. Skelton, of Marion, is already in the field as a candidate to represent Crittenden county in the very next Legislature. The past, or present General Assembly has not learned to emulate the serpent—to shed their skin. Though apparently shy for declarations of candidacy should the next legislative body have the longevity of the present, Mr. Skelton might have come out sooner.—Union Local.

Devilment in Henderson.

The grand jury returned into court thirty-four indictments, one for failing to furnish map of coal mines, seven for selling liquor without license, two for burglary, nine for selling liquor in prohibition district, three for selling liquor to a minor, one for hunting on Sunday, one for crap shooting, four for carrying concealed weapons, one for injuring property, one for robbery, and three for malicious shooting.—Henderson Journal.

The extent of the work of the present Congress will be the passage of the appropriation bills. The important matters of legislation will be left for the next session to deal with.

Mr. Dearmond (Dem.), of Missouri, introduced in the House today a bill to suspend, during the first year of each Presidential term, all civil service laws, rules and regulations in so far as they do, or might, restrict or interfere with the free exercise by the President or heads of departments of the power to remove or appoint officers or employees of the Government. A preamble to the bill says that no Administration can fully and satisfactorily carry its policies into execution if a large portion of such officers are hostile to such policies.

It Passed.

For the second time the bill appropriating $100,000 for Kentucky's display at the World's Fair has passed the Legislature. It passed the House last week by a majority of one, and on Monday day it passed the Senate by a vote of 21 to 9. There can be no mistake this time and as soon as governor signs it, it will be law.

FREDONIA.

The young people had a nice party at Frank Hughes last Friday night, three or four of the surrounding neighborhoods were represented, all seemed to enjoy the evening.

At 1:30 a. m. Sunday a good tenant house belonging to Mrs. M. J. Wyatt, was burned down, it was occupied by Frank Morris family, col. It is supposed to have caught from a defective chimney, and was so well under way burning when the family awoke, they had but little change to save the contents, quite a crowd were at the scene but too late to be of any assistance.

Henry Glenn is having a considerable addition made to the house on his farm in the New Bethel neighborhood. It will be occupied by Fred Blick and family.

A considerable interest is being manifested by quite a number of the ladies in this community in the study of the Bible, in a Sunday school capacity, thereby setting an example worthy of imitation to others of the town and vicinity all of whom they cordially invite to join them in their efforts to learn more of God, and be a blessing to their fellow creatures.

Willie Ensminger is attending school in Ohio.

I am agent for most of the leading papers and magazines published and would be glad to supply any one, with any book, paper, or magazine at publishers prices. Also stationery of any kind.

There will also be erected in the early spring a new Baptist church, and last but not least, our city fathers will build a calaboose or lockup to confine the violators of the law in, for which let us all return thanks, and when completed, if things do not change, Judge Hill, who is a holy terror to the evil doers, will keep that valuable institution full up. We need a good town marshal who would not drink whisky and would enforce the law on the high and the low, the rich and the poor all alike. Such men are scarce and in demand.

Well, now for the business of Dysburg; there is two churches here, one school, four good dry goods stores, one hardware house, one family grocery, two saloons.

S. H. Cassidy & Co. have an extensive tobacco factory here and have bought largely of weed and have paid good prices this season.

Obituary.

Died at Dysburg Jan. 10, 1893, the infant son of Mr. and Mrs. Theo. Volder, Jr., aged four years, six months and twenty-one days. The family came from their home at Marion to visit relatives at this place, and he was stricken down with fever and lived only a few days. The grief-stricken parents that we endeavor to write this last and tribute of respect in memory of their beloved child, little Willie, who was his parents' idol and a general favorite with all who knew him. Yes, how deeply we sympathize with them in their irreparable loss of such a promising child regretting that sympathy cannot heal the broken hearted. Lighted with a soul of purity, innocence and love, he has gone to fill his serene mission above.

Weep not dear mother for "God death all things well." "Into each life some rain must fall." Now there is a link that binds you to heaven, a light above that is beckoning you to come. We can only recommend the bereaved family to the benediction of the Holy Spirit, and pray that they, and we all, when we pass "Over the River" may stand with little Willie among the redeemed in the presence of a true God. Obituary.

Ruby Elvin Moore was born July 19, 1888, died Jan. 10, 1893, aged four years, five months, and twenty-one days. She was kind and sweet in disposition. She often said she loved everybody. She often talked of heaven and asked her mamma many times about Jesus. She was remarkably bright, having learned all the letters of the alphabet and began to spell when a little over three years old. She had a very beautiful, bright expression on her face just before she died. She would look at her mamma, papa and grandma with the sweetest smile as if she would tell them where she was, and how she felt. She was a very good girl and a great help to her parents. Since the death of her father Miss Sallie has resided most of the time with her sister, Mrs. Geo. Boston of this place. Three months ago at the solicitation of her sister in New York, she went to that place to live. A special to the Courier Journal from New York under date of the 17th, contains the following story of Miss Moore's sudden and mysterious disappearance on Monday last:

"Miss Moore left her sister shortly after 10 o'clock on Monday forenoon to go to Stern's dry goods store, on Twenty-third street, to exchange some goods. After that she intended to go to see a dressmaker named Maclaret at 34 East Twenty-third street. Miss Moore did not return, and her friends do not know what has become of her. They have traced her to Stern's, but can find no clue to her whereabouts after that. She was pretty familiar with the West Side, but had never traveled on the East Side at all. Mr. and Mrs. Crowell think she has got lost in the city."

When the news reached here Wednesday, Miss Moore's many friends were greatly surprised and grieved. They are unable to account for her disappearance. Her sister Mrs. Boston thinks that it is probable that she has found employment in a dress making establishment, and keeping her whereabouts a secret because her New York relatives were decidedly opposed to taking that course; and offered her a home where she need not work, but Mrs. Boston says her sister has an independent disposition, and dislikes the idea of being dependent upon others. The missing girl is fairly educated, very pleasant and very beautiful. While here she endeavored to earn a living by teaching, but was not successful. Her father was well known in this section, and the family is one of the best known and most highly respected in Western Kentucky.

OUT NEW CIRCUIT JUDGE.

CLIFTON J. PRATT.

We are indebted to the Madisonville Hustler for the excellent profile of Judge Pratt, which is on this page. Of him the Courier-Journal says: "Clifton J. Pratt, of Madisonville, the newly elected Circuit Judge of the Fourth judicial district, was born in Woodford county, Illinois, but moved at an early date to Kentucky, where he has since resided. He chose the profession of the law and has practiced at Madisonville for twenty years. In 1879 he was elected to the Senate from the counties of Hopkins and Christian, carrying both counties, and in this capacity served with marked ability. In 1886 he made the race for Circuit Judge against Judge Grace, one of the ablest and most distinguished jurists in the State, but was defeated by a small majority. At the late election Judge Pratt was successful, carrying three of the four counties comprising the district, defeating his opponent, Hon. T. J. Nunn, of Marion, a gentleman of great merit. Judge Pratt is a close student, a deep thinker, of liberal mind and broad views, a forcible speaker, an able lawyer and a gentleman of culture and refinement. He has always been a Republican and has always won the respect and good will of all parties. The Fourth judicial district will find in him an able and impartial Judge, attentive to business and courageous in the discharge of his duty."

Here's to You.

We have quite a lot of notes and accounts that are now past due. We must collect them at once; we need all the money we can and cannot wait any longer. Please call at once and settle. Yours truly, Pierce & Son.

For Small Daily Consumption.

Mad Dogs.

In the Bell Mines country the people are worried over what they believe to be mad-dogs, or dogs afflicted with hydrophobia. Some cattle belonging to Joe Hine were bitten and the owner killed them; other stock was also bitten and there is considerable excitement over the matter in the vicinity. The best remedy for the disease is the death of all the dogs.

Moore's Lamb Dead.

Yesterday at noon Mr. Moore's Lamb died at his home in the Sugar Grove neighborhood, after an illness of several weeks. He was 73 years old, and was reared in the community in which he died. He was a true Christian gentleman, a highly respected citizen. He leaves a large family, all respected and useful people.

NOT ANXIOUS FOR BOARDERS.

The High Prices for Grub Worring "Uncle Joe."

"How many boarders have in the county jail?" "Just now I have three and I am not worrying for others either. In truth I hope the boys will be good at least until the grub costs less."

The above query was made by the Puss and the answer came from "Uncle Joe," the county jailer. This important official gets fifty cents a day for keeping prisoners, and he feeds well three times each day, making the price of a meal 16 1/2 cents, to say nothing of the lodging. The jailer is no farmer, and he has to buy everything he uses, and with hog and hominy, clear out of sight. "Uncle Joe" is not dreaming of wealth to be seized and enjoyed, when the court of claims, scrutinizing, and passed his bill, or even when the State turns over the 50 cents daily board bill for her prisoners, without coming over each item.

We have received some samples of very fine corn recently. About the best was raised by Mr. Phil Croft. It is gratifying to note that the farmers are greatly improving their mode of farming, and along with this they are making their farms more productive, their homes more comfortable, while social, educational and religious advantages are in the ascending scale.

Rev. Mr. Newton, of Cadiz, preached the funeral discourse of the late J. M. Bawner, at the Methodist church Sunday. He is an old friend of the family, and since 1890 was a warm friend of the deceased. In the sermon he paid a high tribute to the character of the late Mr. Bawner, whom he spoke of as a plain, steady, unassuming devout and faithful Christian.

When the flowers bloom, the birds sing, and the spring showers kiss the earth, the natives of our river towns and communities are happy, and are slow to admit that railroads towns are blessed like themselves; but when old King Boreas blows his breath, and shakes the icicles off of his hoary beard, while he spreads a crust of crystal over the river, then you see the river rats coming out to us country jakes for the news as well as for other commodities that grace the table, adorn the person, and soothe the inner man. Move out boys, and hitch on to the world.

I have the largest and best selected stock of glassware and quinquaries that I ever kept here. I will sell it 25 per cent lower than any one else in the three counties; for instance, Cups and saucers, per set 15c; Eumblers, per set 20c; Fine goblets, per set 25c; Plates, per set, from 25c to 30c; Extra glass pitcher 52c; Tea spoons, per set 5c; Table spoons, per set 10c.

It is now reported that Worth Shoe who was shot by Riley, as published last week, is in a fair way to recovery.

Besides the hole in his breast, a bullet grazed the back of his neck. It is said that after being shot, Shoe ran into the house and knocked Riley down. Riley has not yet been arrested, according to one report he has left the country, while it is stated that he is hiding in the neighborhood.

Saturday, Dick Waddle, col., was examined, and his grade was 79.

Nearly Severed the Jugular Vein.

Princeton, Ky., Jan. 16.—Yesterday two six-year-old boys, one a son of Sam Deboe, and the son of Tom McNeely, living in the north part of this county, were shooting matches by placing them on a block and striking them with an ax. The Deboe boy got in the way of the ax and received a long gash in his neck, nearly severing the jugular vein. The boy was so weakened from the loss of blood before a physician could be secured that his recovery is very doubtful.

Judge Moore accordingly appointed him, and with Wm. Goode and Gus Rutherford as bondsmen, he qualified, making the third constables, but four districts are without their officials. This is about the only office that goes begging for some body to take it. The pay is always at the minimum figures, consequently those who accept the honors cannot afford to devote a great deal of time to official duty, even if they have business, which they do not always find.

A QUEER RAILROAD.

It is run Upon Texas Principles. But Gets There—Some Times.

[St. Louis Globe-Democrat.]

"There is some queer rail-roading down in Texas," said W. A. Shaw, as he stood in the Laclede annex and gave his glass a peculiar circular motion calculated to make the sugar and peppermint sociable. "There is a road down in the southern part of the State fifty-three miles long whose cannon-ball covers the distance in just four hours if it has an exceptionally good run of luck. Trains run each way three times a week, if one doesn't get lost and so blockade traffic until a hand car can be sent out for it.

"There are no telegraph or telephone stations on the road, and when a train leaves the where the general offices are located the conductor is master of the situation until he gets back again. Sometimes the pneumatic tire comes off the sulky of the man employed to ride ahead and drive the cattle off the track, and the train is a week making the round trip. I rode over the road once, then walked back because I was in a hurry.

"On the trip out we picked up a drunken farmer who had laid down on the track. The conductor chanced to know him, and held the train while the trainmen and baggage master carried him to his home a mile away. In about an hour the brakeman returned with a invitation from the farmer's wife for crew and passengers to come over to supper. We went, and after the repast an old cotton field African, with a cracked fiddle, was introduced and we had a dance. The conductor then wanted to proceed, but the engineer, who was sitting up to the hilarious farmer's buxom daughter, said the hogs had rooted out several cross-ties down by the water-tank, and he was apprehensive of a repetition of the Ashtabula disaster if we attempted to run over that part of the road at night. So we stayed and danced until daylight.

"We got off after breakfast next morning, and the farmer's daughter was a passenger. She wore a sun-bonnet and carried a large tin pan. Three miles out we stopped, and the crew helped her to pick wild strawberries enough to fill her pail. Then we backed up and the engineer carried the bucket of berries over to the house for her. When he got back he discovered that he was out of coal and couldn't budge. The farmer kindly donated enough fence rails to pull us out of the difficulty, and we got through, by great good luck, in just twenty-eight hours. Oh! some of those roads down there are lightning."

Eating Quail on a Wager.

Mr. E. T. Franks, the popular young revenue man, has just undertaken to eat 30 quails in 30 days on a wager, which was laid with Dr. Morrison, the dentist. Mr. Franks started to carry out his part of the wager Sunday, and will eat his fourth quail this evening at supper. Mr. Franks says he feels like he would go the doctor about two better and that he could eat 100 quails in 100 days, but thinks he will have enough quail after he has won his present wager. He eats the quail for supper each evening, and if he is successful Dr. Morrison is to pay all expenses and set up a supper.—Owenboro Inquirer.

DIAMONDS STOLEN.

Bold Robbery at the Richmond House in Paducah.

Paducah, Ky., Jan. 12.—A bold robbery was committed this evening in the Richmond House, one of the leading hotels of the city. Mrs. A. Van Chocik is the mother of the proprietor of the hotel and occupies a room on the first floor. At noon she placed her diamonds, consisting of two rings, a brooch, a pin and a pair of earrings, in her jewel case, and left it standing in the room. When she returned to the room at 4 o'clock this evening she discovered that some one had entered the room and had broken open the jewel case and robbed it of its contents. No one had a key to the room except Mr. Van Chocik and the chambermaid, and the robbery is a complete mystery. Several persons have been arrested as suspects, but nothing of a definite nature has been ascertained. The diamonds were valued at $1,500.
