MURDER WILL OUT.

THE MYSTERY SURROUNDING THE STURGIS TRAGEDY CLEARS AWAY.

Lewis Land Makes a Confession and is in Jail With the Other Assassins.

Sturgis, Ky., April 7.—This city is again ablaze with excitement over the Oliver-Dulaney tragedy, owing to the confession of Lewis Land, who is a very quiet young man, and hitherto has been unsuspected.

He was apparently a warm friend of the Oliver family and acted as pall-bearer at the funeral of the murdered girl, and has been a constant watcher by the bedside of the wounded man, and after watching by him all night he broke down to-day and sought Police Judge Berry and made a full confession, as follows:

The Commonwealth of Kentucky, plaintiff, vs. Frank Holt, George Dulaney, Will Omer, J. L. Tate, W. H. Holt, Alex. Thompson and a stranger, defendants. Affidavit of Lewis Land, the affiant, Lewis Land, says he Knows the affiant and confession in the presence of Jesse Jones, W. W. Pierson and H. M. Davis and Judge A. J. Berry without any duress or force upon their part or any person whatever. Now I, Lewis Land, do solemnly state, God being my witness, that the above named persons were all present at the shooting and killing of Abbie Oliver on the 5th day of April, 1893, and at the same time that Taylor Oliver was shot and wounded. I state further that about 8 or 10 o'clock on the night of the 7th of the said month, Bill Omer came to my room at his father's house, in Sturgis, Ky., and asked me to get up and go out in town and see if they had captured Henry. I told him no. I did not want to go. It was not my fight. He said a pistol had been fired; that he thought that

IT WAS A SIGNAL. That Henry was captured and wanted me to go with him, but I did not go. I had gone to sleep, and I don't know how long, but he and J. L. Tate came back and woke me up, and wanted me to go to Frank Holt's and George Dulaney's with them. That they were afraid not to go, that they had promised to let them know when Henry was captured. But I refused to go, and they went without me. Then I went to sleep again. Will Omer came and woke me up again. "Get up, Lewis, the boys will be here directly. They want you to go with them." I told them I did not want to go, but he insisted on my going out into town anyway. I finally agreed to go up town with him. We walked around awhile, and stopped close to to Bennett's coal house, which is close to his store, and directly Frank Holt, Geo. Dulaney, Jim Lee Tate and the stranger came up.

ON THEIR HORSES. And one of them was leading a horse. They had three shot guns. They offered me a gun and a horse if I would go with them. I told them I did not want to hurt anybody; that they wanted to get Henry Dulaney, and I did not want to marry the woman. Then we all went up to Will Omer's, and he got his horse. We then started to Morganfield—that is, they said they were going there. When we got near the Dyer Hill Frank Holt insisted that I should have a gun, and did place a gun in my hands. So we went on—Frank Holt and George Dulaney were riding abreast and in front; myself and the stranger were riding abreast behind them. Will Omer and J. L. Tate were close behind me. Will Holt and Alex. Thompson, whom we MEET ON THE ROAD. Near Elijah Hugh's, went with us. They were close behind. We were close on the top of the hill when we saw the carriage coming. Frank Holt and George Dulaney ordered us in line. We formed a diagonal line in the road. Frank Holt said:

"Is Henry Dulaney in there?" They kept on driving, and a pistol or gun was fired from the carriage. Then the three foremost men commenced firing, two shotguns and a pistol. "Don't shoot me boys," said Henry Dulaney. That was the first time I heard any one speak from the carriage. The carriage drove rapidly on. Two or three shots were fired after the carriage passed, but I don't know who it was that fired them. Henry Dulaney and all the rest of the crowd, except Leo Tate and myself, went up to the top of the hill. Tate and I were

DOWN ON THE ROAD. Off of our horses. Tate was lying upon the bank, and I asked him if he was shot. He said no. We got on our horses and rode up to the crowd. Tate gave Henry Dulaney his horse and got into the buggy with Will

ALL MEN LIKE TO GAMBLE. Pools Recently Sold in Washington on the Exact Moment of an Execution.

Man is a natural born gambler, says a Washington correspondent of the Louisville Times. Caesar, Napoleon, Cromwell and Columbus were only gamblers with empires for stakes. Jay Gould playing for millions and the little negro in the back alley shooting craps for pennies were alike gamblers. The record of "Whites" in London show what a race of gamblers the Anglo-Saxon is.

There are yet preserved the bets of sports of that day. One gambler bet another that the Countess of Dorset, then just married, would present her lord an heir within a given period; another bet was upon the sex of the expected heir of another noble dame. Another bet was that a certain period. Bets were made upon every conceivable subject and conceivable contingency. One night a young greenhorn approached old Queensberry and said:

"Sandwich is cheating cards. What shall I do about it?" "Do? Do?" replied the old reprobate, "why, back him, you d—d fool!" and up went ten guineas of old Queen's money on the titled blackleg.

Last Friday a man was hanged in this town. The warrant directed the warden to execute the sentence between the hours of 8 a. m. and 12 a. m. The night before, at a certain place within a stone's toss of the national capitol, pools were sold on the hours—the gambler, or gamblers, coming nearest the hour of execution to take the purse. Other bets were made as to whether or not the President would commute the sentence, or give the condemned man a respite. Big money changed hands, and, on the whole, the subject considered, we rather bent our English cousins of a hundred years ago.

Too Young To Be Convicted. Lancaster, Ky., April 8.—John Shanks, the eleven-year-old boy taken to the penitentiary this week by Sheriff Curtis A. Robinson to serve twelve years for grand larceny, arrived here again to-night guarded only by a ship-tag, upon which was written:

"From the Mason & Ford Company." "Monkey John, as he was commonly called, had on a new suit of clothes, and claims that the Warden gave him $5 to come home on. He was too young.

NOVEL RICE PANCAKES.

Mix two table-spoonfuls of ground rice into a pint of cream, let it over a slow fire and stir well until it thickens. Pour into the liquid six ounces of butter melted, add half a grated nutmeg and pour the whole into an earthen pan. When it is cold stir in two table-spoonfuls of dry flour, a pinch of salt, two ounces of castor sugar and six well beaten eggs. Mix all thoroughly together and fry the pancakes a good color. When milk is used instead of cream allow one more table-spoonful of rice. Only small quantities should be poured into the pan at one time for account of its lightness.

HINTS FOR HOUSEKEEPERS.

Molasses, for all kinds of cooking, is much improved by boiling and skimming.

Don't forget that there is nothing like hot water and the rubber bandage for a sprain. The hot water soothes lacerated ligaments, the bandage prevents swelling. Liniments are worse than useless.

Have you ever tried cleaning carving knife, fork and steel with emery paper? A little bit lasts a long while, and makes them beautiful and bright with slight labor.

BAKED HAM.

One quart of cold cooked beef, chopped fine, one pint of chopped uncooked potatoes, two eggs, salt and pepper. Put the chopped potatoes in a stewing pan with one pint of water. Let them stew five minutes, then add the meat and enough water to make the mixture moist. Stew ten minutes longer. Take from the fire, add the eggs (beaten), a tea-spoonful of salt and three dashes of black pepper. Turn into a baking dish and bake twenty minutes in a quick oven.

LEMON CREAM PUDDING.

Place a saucepan over the fire with the rind of one lemon and the juice of three, one cup of sugar, one cup of white wine and the yolks of four eggs; stir this until nearly boiling; remove from the fire and add three quarters of an ounce of gelatine, which has been soaked a few minutes in cold water, when nearly cold add one pint of cream and set on ice to get firm.

NEW ENGLAND GINGERBREAD.

Half cup lard, half cup butter, one and one half cup molasses, half cup sugar, one cup milk, one tea-spoonful ginger, one table-spoonful cinnamon, two eggs, enough flour to make it as stiff as for a pound cake; stir lard, butter, sugar, molasses and spices together to light cream, add eggs beaten light, milk and soda, last flour.

APPLE FLOATING ISLAND.

Beat the whites of three eggs with half a cupful of sugar and two cupfuls of cold stewed apples until the mixture is very light; and lay it on top of a boiled custard composed of three yolks three cups of milk, four table-spoonfuls of sugar and a tea-spoonful of nutmeg.

APPLE PIE.

Cut up the fruit into thin slices, lay it in your dish and sprinkle some sugar among it when full, put in the juice of two lemons, with a little of the rind finely shred, and some cinnamon powder; line the dish and cover it with a tolerably good crust and bake it for about an hour. Before serving sift a little sugar over it.

CODFISH CREAM.

Put into a saucepan any remnants of boiled salt cod (picked out in flakes and perfectly free from bone and skin) with a piece of butter and a cupful of cream, plenty of white pepper and a little mustard. Let the whole simmer till perfectly hot, but do not let it boil, and serve.

HOMINY CROQUETTES.

Soften a cupful of cold boiled hominy, fine grained, with a cupful of sweet milk and a well beaten egg. Mix thoroughly and add a tea-spoonful of white sugar, with pepper, salt and butter. Form into croquettes, dip in beaten egg and cracker crumbs and fry in hot lard.

MUSH BISCUITS.

Mix enough flour with two quarts of cold milk and half a cup of lard to make it roll nicely on a molding board. Roll the dough about as thick as you would for biscuits, cut it into cakes with a biscuit-cutter and bake a rich brown color for twenty minutes.

WHEN BOILING.

Here is a little hint I have just picked up, which seems so useful that I repeat it. Very few people know that the best way to prevent meat or fish sticking to the gridiron is to lay a number of oiled straws upon the latter before beginning to cook.

GOING SPINGS.

We need a Sunday school at Post Oak, and we want James Pickens as Superintendent.

Mrs. S. A. Cain is on the sick list. Frank Pritts has been taking the school census.

MINISTER TO FRANCE.

James B. Eustis, who has been named Minister to France, was Mr. Whit's predecessor as a Senator from Louisiana, and is a native of that State, about 59 years of age and possesses legal abilities of the highest order. During the civil war he served on the staff of General Joe Johnson, afterwards resuming his law practice at New Orleans. He was a prominent figure during the reconstruction era in Louisiana, having been one of the committee which came to Washington to confer with Andrew Johnson on the subject. He served two terms in the U. S. Senate, his service expiring in 1891, since which date he has been engaged in the practice of his profession. He is well equipped for his post; is a man of high culture, is very wealthy, speaks French fluently and was, during his service in the Senate, a very prominent member of the committee on Foreign Relations. As is well known he married into the family of the Washington millionaire and philanthropist, W. W. Corcoran, but is now a widower; he has two grown sons and one married daughter.

DEATH BY STARVING.

Starving to death. Shut Up in a Mine. [St. Louis Globe Democrat.]

"The most horrible death of all is that of starving," observed Oscar Christiansen, who is stopping at the Richelieu. "The most vigor is lent to it by being imprisoned in a cave or mine. Some years ago I was working in a coal mine near Padua, Ohio. The distance from the mouth down to the first vein, where I was working, was sixty-three feet. It was an eight foot vein, and had been well worked, so that many large chambers were made and plenty of space was had to move about in.

"A miner's life is rather wearisome and lonely, indeed. You have to labor all day long in darkness, with only a little weak lamp on your cap to break the intense darkness. The life is much too hard for the recompense. Then one's life is always in danger. Great rocks are liable and do frequently fall. Explosive gases and firebrands are generated, and the first approach of light sets them off. The mine is then wrecked and the miners—well, I was once caught in a mine wreck, and in that great vein at Padua.

"I was working very quietly, away back from the shaft, and all alone. My labors were interrupted by a dull, smothered roar that was followed by falling earth, and then I realized that I was perished; that the mine was wrecked, and that my life was worth very little. The noise soon died away and things were much as they were before. But a little distance from my position the earth had fallen and blocked the path.

CHINESE BRUTALITY.

A Dying Man Dragged Stark Naked Through the Streets.

A horrible illustration of the brutality of the Chinese in the treatment of those of their race who are known to be dying was furnished yesterday. The Celestials have a superstition that ill-luck will attend a house in which a death occurs. This is why two coolies were seen about noon yesterday dragging the naked body of a dying fellow-countryman along the street at the corner of Clay and Dupont streets.

Low Yin, a Chinese merchant recently from San Antonio, Tex., had been very ill at the store of Chung Tai, at 803 Dupont street, for several weeks. The Chinese in the place believed that he was about to die and wanted to get him out of the house so that that bad luck would not fall on it. Without regard of decency or humanity, they dragged him out of the bed and hustled him naked down Clay street to the undertaker shop of Quong Fook On, at 780 Clay street. People who saw it ran to the Chief of Police with all kinds of stories of highlanders and murder, and Detectives Cox and Glenn were sent to investigate.

The officers found Low Yin in a dirty place called a hospital, underneath the undertaker's shop, where sick Chinese are brought to die. Low Yin was found on a filthy bed, nearly smothered with blankets placed around his head. These were torn away by the detectives and Dr. Bunker was still alive, but he died soon afterward. There were no arrests.

THE WORD CEMETERY.

Origin of a Word Now Used by Every Mortal of Us.

[Globe-Democrat.]

Webster says cemetery is "a place where the dead bodies of human beings are buried." But that is all he says, and there is not a five-year-old child in the land that could not tell as much without referring to his "Unabridged."

In tracing the derivation of the word I find that the root is in an old Jewish word, "caemeteria," meaning dormitories or sleeping places. Later on the form of expression was changed to "repositorium." In that section of "Camden's Remains" which has the heading of "Concerning British Epitaphs," I find the following (page 355, edition of 1650):

"The place of burial was called by

St. Paul 'Semenatoria,' in the respect of a sure hope of resurrection." The Greeks call it "cemetery," which means a sleeping place until the resurrection." The old Hebrew word for cemetery means "the house of the living," the idea being that death is only a protracted sleep that will terminate on the day when Gabriel blows his trumpet.

The Improvement of Horses.

Harper's Weekly.

The sooner the farmers in the United States realize the fact that the ordinary and commonly bred horse is likely to deteriorate in value year by year, the better it will be for them. The use of cables to drag street cars has already reduced the service performed by horses in the cities, and the extension of the trolley system in the suburbs, and the perfection of electric motors, will relieve many other thousands of horses from such service. It has not been so very long since nearly all the threshing was done by horses; now only a very small percentage of even the threshing machines are worked by horse power. Practically, all of the ploughing is now done by horses but a cheap and practical steam-plough will be shown to visitors to the World's Fair, and it is not improbable that in ten years from now quite a large percentage of ploughing will be done without the aid of horses. The need in the cities and on the farms for fewer horses will tend more and more to reduce their market value. Commonly bred horses will be the first to deteriorate in price; indeed, it is doubtful whether finely bred horses will suffer at all. There is no reason why they should. The purposes for which they are used will not be affected by any inventions revolutionizing methods of transportation or tillage. Even though we could fly in the air with a balloon entirely under control, a spin on the road behind a pair of trotters, or a gallop across country, would give just as much pleasure as even it gave. The horses who get the blue ribbons in the horse shows will continue to be as valuable as ever, while humbler animals—those that drag street cars and ploughs—will be less valuable year by year.

Greatest of all Crimes.

Minneapolis Times.

There is no higher crime against the people than corrupt or fraudulent elections. It saps and mines the very foundations of our political structure. Its evils grow and extend through the body politic like the roots of a cancer. It destroys free institutions and government by the people. And the unscrupulous man who spends money to secure a nomination or election to office will, nine times out of ten, plunder the public treasury in some form or other to repay himself the money so expended.

ACONVENTION.

The Democratic County Committee has been discussing the mode of nominating candidates for the Legislature, and has come to the conclusion that precinct meetings and district conventions would be better than primary elections, because a primary election, under the new election law, must be held exactly like the general elections, and all laws applying to general elections apply to the primary. Hence the primary would entail a pretty heavy expense upon somebody. The ballots, the booths, the ballot boxes, stencils and officers for a long day's work would cost money, as well as worry, patience and trouble. The county committee very wisely concluded that the Democrats could gather at their voting places at a certain hour and in a few minutes express their choice and appoint delegates to a district convention to nominate a candidate. As Crittenden, according to the unwritten agreement, in both Legislative and Senatorial districts, will furnish the nominees this year, the committee felt at liberty to take the initiative steps in the matter. The chairman was instructed to correspond with the chairman of the other county committees, stating the preference of the county, and requesting the other counties to adopt the plan suggested. It is going to take smooth work to win, and it is to be sincerely hoped by every good Democrat that there will be no friction between the counties as to the mode of nominating candidates. The plan suggested by the Crittenden county committee is fair, and if adopted and earnestly participated in by all Democrats, there can be no room for objections.

Tolu, Ky., April 10, 1893.

On April 27th, Louisville will hold a special election to determine if $1,000,000 in bonds shall be donated to secure the State Capitol. From a financial standpoint, the price will be none too high for the advantages the removal of the Capitol to the Falls City would be to the city. Its removal would also be advantageous to Western Kentucky. Sentimentalism would demand that the old things be retained, that it would be next to sacrifice to separate the Capitol and the hills of Frankfort, but the practical man would say, move her over to Louisville.

State Senator John W. Orr was in town Monday, shaking hands with the people, and making himself pleasant with the boys generally. It is not known that he will be a candidate for re-election, but at this distance from the election there is nothing to lead one to believe that he will not. The Senator has been devoted to his work during this legislative year, and his fellow Senator's hold him in high regard.

Kentucky's new United States Senator fits the harness like an old stager. Upon our desks are several papers of garden seed, with the new Senator's name upon them; he is getting down to his work early and with a vim that will make us solid for him next time.

Mr. H. W. Van Senden, editor of the Paducah Standard, has been made private Secretary to Secretary Carlisle. Mr. Stone secured the appointment. Van is a capable and deserving young man and the Press is glad that he can give good.

If you want good legislation, send capable as well as good men to the Legislature. A people that abuses the legislature is like a father who abuses his son, for the latter is an off-spring of the former.

A GENERAL FIGHT.

THE MOORE AND KING BOYS MAKE THE NIGHT HIDE-OUTS AND SHED SOME BLOOD.

Pistols, Knives, Liquor and Darkness.

Saturday night about 12 o'clock a pitched battle took place near Nunn's Switch. The active participants were John Moore, Finney Moore, Will King and Ben King, while Tom Henry and James Dubose were on the outskirts and suffered some slight inconveniences. After a truce was agreed upon, and peace partially restored and an inventory of the wounds was made and this result announced:
John Moore, cut to the hollow, between seventh and eighth rib, on left side, gash two inches long and altogether an ugly wound. Ben King is charged with the cutting.
Ben King, shot in neck; the bullet did not pierce the skin. John Moore charged with the shooting.
Wm. King, shot in lower part of thigh, merely a flesh wound, John Moore charged with the shooting.
Thos. Henry, stabbed in the shoulder—wound only slight, and was accidentally inflicted while he was trying to separate combatants.
Jas. Dubose, a slight cut across the back, and a slight cut across the abdomen. Will and Ben King charged with the cutting.
Finney Moore did not suffer in the flesh, but his coat was ripped up the back with a knife.
Up to date eleven warrants have been issued by the County Judge, as follows:
Ben King, malicious cutting, two warrants.
Wm. King, malicious cutting, two warrants.
John Moore, malicious shooting, two warrants.
John Moore, carrying concealed weapons.
John Moore, giving liquor to minor, Wm. King.
Finney Moore, carrying concealed weapons.
Jas. Dubose, carrying concealed weapons.
Jas. Dubose, striking with brass have been called upon by the Sheriff, and are under bond for from $100 to $500 for their appearance before County Judge Moore Saturday for examination. It is not probable, however, that Wm. King and John Moore will be able to attend court before next week some time as they are suffering from their wounds. When the examining trials do come one, probably more than a week will be consumed in the matter.

HOW IT HAPPENED.

As the fighting occurred at night and while all parties were more or less under the influence of liquor, the rise, progress and finish of the battle are difficult to learn. As is usual in all such affairs there are two stories. Sixteen years ago the fathers of the boys had a fight, but long ago they made friends; five years ago John Moore and one of the King boys had a fight, but since then they had buried the hatchet and were regarded as at least on friendly terms. Saturday night, the parties named, all attended a dance; after the dance they went to Nunn's Switch and imbibed pretty freely. About 12 o'clock they started home. Thus far the story as told is agreed to by all, but after this the lines diverge.

THE MOORE VERSION.

According to the statement of the Moore boys, Will King and Dubose dismounted to take a drink. At the same time Ben King remarked that if there was any fighting to do, he would be in it, and proceeded to attack John Moore; Will King went to his assistance and before the crowd realized the situation of affairs, the Kings were stabbing Moore, and Moore shooting at the Kings. The other three boys took a hand, some to separate and some to assist in the fight. A general knock down, shoot, cut and drag out followed, with results as first detailed.

THE KING VERSION.

James Dubose and Will King, while quarreling, dismounted, and were talking angrily to each other. John Moore remarked that if there was any fighting to do, he would be in it, and proceeded to attack John Moore; Will King went to his assistance and before the crowd realized the situation of affairs, the Kings were stabbing Moore, and Moore shooting at the Kings. The other three boys took a hand, some to separate and some to assist in the fight. A general knock down, shoot, cut and drag out followed, with results as first detailed.

THE TRUTH.

The truth probably is that the boys do not know just how the affair did occur. They were drinking and succeeded in raising a row without much provocation from any one; once in the fight, they proceeded to demonstrate their anger, by fighting in any style and anything that could be distinguished in the dark.

Obituary.

Hark! The death bell has tolled, and Mrs. Jennie Champion has answered its callings. She was the wife of Thomas Champion and the daughter of Dr. H. and Charlotte Thrift. She was born in the year 1861, and departed this life February 23, 1893; she was 32 years and 14 days old; she leaves a husband and five little children to ever mourn her loss and many other relatives and friends to weep for her. Why should we weep as those we have no hope for, who have passed the cold river of death. She professed faith in Christ in 1890, and she was ever found trying to do her duty; she was well respected and loved by all who knew her. She was a loving wife and a kind and beloved mother to her little children. She left cheering words behind her, she said on Thursday morning to her husband before she departed Thursday night, that her ship was ready.

She is waiting by the river, We are watching by the shore. Only waiting for dear Jesus, Soon he will come and ferry us over. Though the midday hang over the river, And it's billows loudly roar, Yet we hear the song of Jennie Waiting from the other shore. He has called for many a loud one. We have seen them leave our side. With our Jesus we shall meet them. When we too have crossed the tide. —MRS. CHAMPION.

COL. E. W. HILL.

Of the men who first looked upon what is now Crittenden county, before but little of its virgin forest had faded before the woodman's ax, but few are living to-day. Among the thinnest ranks of those pioneers is Col. E. W. Hill, born August 7, 1805, at the old Hill farm about one mile south of Marion, and for 88 years he has been a citizen of this section, and his home during most of that period has been the old homestead, where he was born and where he now resides. He was in Marion yesterday, and spent the day with his grand-daughter, Mrs. J. T. Elder. In the afternoon he called at the Post office and chatted pleasantly of men and things pertaining to the early history of this section. His father, Col. David Hill, came from North Carolina one hundred years ago this fall; he was a young man and accompanied James Richy, a well-to-do man, who settled here and opened a farm, building a cabin on what is known as the Wm. Clement farm. The next year, or about 1784, Mr. Hill returned to North Carolina for a short visit, and then returned to Kentucky, accompanied by a number of settlers. He began life by building his cabin and opening up the farm now known as the old Hill place. Col. E. W. Hill remembers well when his father left home and joined the ranks of the soldiers who fought in the war 1812-15. In the early days when the people gathered regularly to "muster," E. W. Hill being versed in military tactics, was chosen to command, and rose to the rank of Colonel, hence his military title. Col. Hill was happily married to Mary B. Porter, daughter of E. P. Porter. Three children were born to them, two of which are living—Mr. E. P. Hill and Mary Howell, wife of Judge T. E. Dowell of Kansas.

Col. Hill has always been a hard working citizen, and in his day and time has earned many a dollar. "I use to make lots of money," he said, "raising pork and tobacco; I always shipped my produce to New Orleans by flat boat and got good prices, and had I saved my money I would have lots of it now, but I loaned it out, not to make money, but to accommodate my friends, and lots of it never came home." Col. Hill's word was always as good as his bond, and his eighty-eight years have been years of usefulness, and he has been an important factor in the settlement of the county.

GUARDED.

A Fear That the Olivers Will be Murdered.

Morganfield, April 11.—As a cold-blooded atrocity, the murder of Mrs. Henry Delaney has hardly a parallel in the annals of the State. It was thought that the confession of Lewis Land and Will Holt dispelled the air of mystery surrounding the affair, but both have modified their first statements and there are good reasons in the opinion of many for distrusting any statement they may have made or may make hereafter.

While to all outward appearances everything is quiet in Sturgis there is still a strong undercurrent of excitement that may break out at any time. Public sentiment and sympathy are overwhelmingly with the Olivers, but the Delaneys, Holts and Olivers have a wide and powerful circle of relatives and friends.

It is not thought improbable that somebody may try to finish the work begun last Tuesday night by murdering Mr. and Mrs. Oliver, whose testimony is expected to convict the prisoners now under arrest. To guard against such possibility, the house is guarded every night by Sturgis citizens. Mr. Oliver is in a dangerous condition and the doctors fear that blood poisoning will result from the wound in the face.

THE DEATH ROLL.

Mrs. Fannie Blue, wife of Hon. John W. Blue died at her home in Marion, Thursday, April 6th, after several weeks illness. Funeral services were held at the Presbyterian church Saturday afternoon; the church was tastefully arranged for the occasion, the floral offerings were many and very beautiful; the building was crowded with friends of the deceased; an excellent discourse was delivered by Rev. M. H. Miley. The remains were placed to rest in the new cemetery.

Mrs. Blue was one of the best known and most universally admired women in the community. Her home has been in Marion many years, and her memory will be kept green in the hearts of Marion people for many years to come. No home in the community ever felt the touch of sorrow, or knew the pangs of want or woe that did not bless this noble woman for her ministrations when most needed. She was indeed and in truth a christian woman, and her presence in the community has been like a divine unction, scattering its benedictions gently and silently wherever and whenever the generous hand and tender heart found rough places in the path of others.

As a wife, a mother, a neighbor, a friend she was admired, and her virtues shone in all the relations of life. There is not a soul in all the community but what will drop a tear upon her grave, and think of things akin to heaven when her pure and useful life is called to mind.

Mr. A. E. Clark died at the residence of Mrs. Josephine Elder Monday morning at 6 o'clock, after an illness of several weeks. For several years he taught school in Crittenden and Livingston counties and was known as one of the successful teachers. He had a wide circle of friends and acquaintances who will regret his death; and will say when they hear of it, "Gus Clark was an excellent man," and they will speak the truth. He was an honest, industrious, intelligent young man, and was well liked by everybody. His good sense, pleasant address, courteous and refined ways, gentle and amiable disposition made him friends, who will long hold him in remembrance.

His wife, who was a daughter of Mrs. Elder, died a few years ago; he leaves one child, a bright little boy.

Mr. Arthur Love, a respected citizen of Livingston county, died at his home in that county Friday, in the 83rd year of his age. He was a leading citizen of his neighborhood, and his many sterling qualities commended the respect and admiration of all. His life was long and full of usefulness; when death came he was ready to go, and when his spirit took its flight, he left an honored name and unswerving record as a rich heritage for his children and friends.

THE WIDOW WINS.

Mrs. E. C. Haynes Gets Judgment Against the A. O. U. W. For $2,000.

A case that attracted more than ordinary attention in the Circuit Court was that of Mrs. Emily C. Haynes and her little boys against the Ancient Order of United Workmen. When the lodge was organized here the late Sam C. Haynes joined as a charter member. He died in November, and his insurance claim was not adjusted by the order, and payment was refused. Suit was at once filed for the collection of the $2,000 life insurance policy issued to Mr. Haynes. When the case was called, the defense was, that in the application for the policy, Mr. Haynes made erroneous answers, that he had made an agreement, upon an occasion when charges were preferred against him, that if the lodge would not expel or suspend him, he would cease to pay assessments and drop out. The defense also alleged that he failed to pay the October assessment. The proof was heard, arguments made, and the case given to the jury. In a few minutes the jury returned with a verdict for the plaintiff. The case will probably be appealed.

No New Commissioner.

Contrary to public expectation Judge Pratt failed to appoint a new Master Commissioner of the Crittenden Circuit Court, and the old one, Mr. J. H. Walker, will serve until the next term of court at least. There were a number of applicants for the "place," the leading ones of which were: A. C. Moore, J. A. Davidson and A. Wilborn, and it is said that W. J. L. Hughes' friends were anxious to enter him as a dark horse. Why the matter was postponed is not known, but it is conjectured that the Judge was unable to come to a conclusion that would justify him in making a choice between the applicants.

Obituary.

On April 1893, at the residence of Mr. William Boyd of Tolu, Ky., our beloved brother and friend W. E. Weldon son of Wm. Weldon, (was called to his reward, after an illness of eighteen days. He was born Jan. 7, 1843, and was married to Miss Jane Clark, daughter of T. H. Clark, in the year 1870, with whom he lived with until separated by death. He made a profession of faith in Christ about twenty years ago, joined the Baptist church at Deer Creek, where he lived a consistent member until death.

He was sober, industrious, and a fine business man, made a success of everything he undertook, was a success as a merchant, and a fine farmer, and a fine financier in the church.

He was highly respected and much beloved by all who knew him. He enjoyed, very much, religious conversations, seemed to appreciate the fact of salvation by grace, often spoke of the abundant mercy of God in his salvation.

He bore his sickness with great fortitude, and expressed the strongest faith in the goodness, and faithfulness of God, giving the highest evidences of his acceptance with God, even to the last moment.

He appreciated, and received with profoundest gratitude, even the least kindness shown him in his illness; manifesting so much of the Christ spirit.

His life as a christian, and more especially the last year or two, was a triumph, hence his death, one of sweet peace in Christ.

He received every kindness and attention, that could be shown any one, by his faithful wife, and brother Beard and his most estimable christian wife, together with relatives and friends who watched him to the last.

Brother Weldon, after a number of years of usefulness, leaves an aged father, a number of brothers, and sister, a devoted christian wife, and four children, together with a host of friends and relatives to mourn his absence.

His remains were followed by a host of relatives and friends to Deer Creek church, and after appropriate services, was laid to rest in the cemetery near by.

We weep not as those who have no hope, for truly our dear one is not dead, but a "sleep in Jesus."

NEW ROBBIN TEMPLE.

The Big Structure Dedicated With Services Conducted In Strictest Secrecy.

Salt Lake, Utah, April 6.—The great new Mormon Temple was dedicated today in the presence of a throng of believers. This is the huge structure, the site for which was selected July 4, 1847, the fifth day after the Mormon pioneers entered great Salt Lake valley. The building has cost $5,000,000.

At the morning dedication services the chief dignitaries of the church were admitted. All the ceremonies were held in the upper or main auditorium of the temple and close secrecy was observed as to admittance, and the utmost care taken to prevent any whisper getting out of what was done save as those who could be trusted might be willing to speak. It was as secret as a Masonic lodge. It had been talked among the Saints that there was an expectation of some divine appearance or miraculous sign attending this dedication, but at the conference the speakers warned the people against laying stress on such a thing, and none is claimed.

At the open services President Woodruff, after a few opening remarks of a congratulatory character, delivered the dedicatory prayer, which is about 5,000 words in length. After prayer all those present joined in the Hallelujah Chorus. Then the organ played in singing "The Spirit of God Like a Fire is Burning." President George Q. Cannon followed in an address, which is described as being full of comfort and consolation to the Saints. President Woodruff spoke comforting words and uttered a prophecy concerning the future of the people of God. This prophecy is not divulged, but is understood to refer to the growth and prosperity of the church and an increased happiness of the Saints.

President Joseph F. Smith told of the building of the temple and mentioned with blessings some of the chief ones who had forwarded this work. He put the question whether those present felt that the Lord had accepted of the house dedicated to Him and a tremendous shout of approval was returned by singing "Arie, Ye Saints," and the morning services were closed. At the afternoon session delegates were admitted by tickets from the various States from British Columbia to Arizona to the number of 2,150, and equal secrecy was observed. It is understood that the ceremonies were as far as possible an exact duplication of the morning observances. Considerable time also was taken showing the delegations through the temple, which is gorgeously finished and adorned.

Caldwell County News.

[From the Banner.]
Rev. J. R. Templeman, of Union county, died Wednesday and was brought here yesterday and buried. His funeral was preached by Rev. Price, of Marion, in the C. P. church here.

Judge F. H. Skinner died at his home in Eddyville yesterday morning of pneumonia after a very brief illness. Deceased was in his 78th year and was one of the most prominent citizens of Lyon county. He was the father of Hyman Skinner whose late trial here is fresh in the minds of our readers.

The eighteen day's work of the supervisors added to the tax list of Caldwell county $130,000, having made raises to the amount of $124,000 and reductions to the amount of about $4,000. The raises were on 303 pieces of property and the reduction were on but eight. The supervisors were paid $3 per day each.

There will be opposition by the prohibitionists to the proposed vote on the license question in the town of Princeton, which is expected to take place on the 20th of May next. The first point which the prohibitionists claim is that it will be unconstitutional to take the vote in the town, after when the law was passed by the legislature. To carry this point they propose to file a remonstrance and thus try to induce the County Judge not to grant the prayer of the petitioners asking for the vote. They say they are willing to resubmit the matter to a vote of the whole county and then abide by the result, but that they are not willing to let the town vote on the question as asked in the petition. In case the remonstrance fails the matter will be carried to the courts and the constitutionality of the vote tested. We understand that the prohibitionists have decided to employ counsel and fight the matter to the end if necessary.
