A BIG DEAL.

The C. O. & S. W. Railroad Passes Into the Hands of The L. and N.

Giving the Latter a Monopoly in Western Kentucky.

New York, Nov. 2.—Arrangements were completed today for the transfer of the control of the Chesapeake, Ohio and Southwestern railroad from C. P. Huntington to the Louisville and Nashville and the Illinois Central railroads.

The road will put the Louisville and Nashville in possession of all the territory in Kentucky between Lexington and the Tennessee river, and it will bring more road into the Louisville and Nashville station in Louisville. It will also provide the Louisville and Nashville with terminals in Memphis, which would have cost to duplicate something like $500,000 or $600,000.

The sale transfers the control of a large majority of stock and junior securities of the Chesapeake, Ohio and Southwestern to the Louisville and Nashville. The amount involved is about $6,000,000 in money. C. P. Huntington, who sells the road, retains control of its first mortgage bonds.

Huntington will turn over to the purchasers a majority of the company's preferred stock and the other securities, with the exception of the first mortgage bonds. Huntington will receive $1,000,000 for the ten-year notes made by the Louisville and Nashville and endorsed by the Illinois Central. The road will therefore rest with the Louisville and Nashville, but the Illinois Central will have all the benefits to be derived from an equal use of the line.

The Chesapeake and Ohio, and Ohio and Southwestern were organized in 1880 based on the Ohio and Mississippi River and Memphis and Nashville.

The main line of the Chesapeake, Ohio and Southwestern runs from Louisville, Ky., to Memphis, Tenn., 292 miles, but the extension and branch to the system covers 700 miles.

The L. and N. is in control of all the territory in Kentucky between Lexington and the Tennessee river. As the Chesapeake, Ohio and Southwestern now operates the Ohio Valley line and the Falls of Rough road, it is presumed these roads are included in the deal.

If the Louisville and Nashville and Nashville and Nashville gain control of this system it will then have a mileage of 8,821 miles owned, leased or operated by it, making it one of the largest systems in the world.

THE SEPARATE COACH LAW.

The Test Suit of the Association of Colored People Filed at Owensboro.

Owensboro, Ky., Nov. 2.—Attorney John Feland, acting for the association of colored people appointed to fight the Kentucky separate coach law, to-night filed a suit in the United States Court, which will be made the test case on the constitutionality of the law.

On the advice of Mr. Feland, on last Monday the Rev. W. H. Anderson, a colored preacher of Evansville, Ind., bought first-class tickets for himself and wife from Evansville to Madisonville, Ky. They took seats in the rear or women's coach and the conductor accepted their tickets for passage. When the train reached the Kentucky State line at Henderson, the conductor informed Anderson and his wife that they must go into the coach or compartment provided for colored passengers. Upon their refusal to do so, the conductor put them off the train.

The suit brought to-night is in Anderson's name, and $15,000 damages is claimed. The point will be raised that the law is an interference with interstate commerce and in violation of the Constitution and laws of the United States. It is set out in the petition that the compartment provided for colored people is inferior to that provided white passengers. Several other cases have been previously filed in the State on this question, but this is the only one authorized by the association. Mr. Feland is the only lawyer so far engaged in the case, but when it comes up for hearing before Judge Baz to February, it is probable that distinguished counsel from other States will be employed.

SILVER COINAGE.

Important Action Taken by the Treasury Department Today.

Resumption of Coinage of Standard Silver Dollars, Suspended Some Time Ago.

Washington, Nov. 3.—Important action was taken by the Treasury Department today in regard to silver. Orders were sent to the Superintendent of the United States Mints at San Francisco and New Orleans to resume the coinage, suspended some time ago, of standard silver dollars.

This action is taken under authority of Section 3 of the Sherman law of 1890, which is as follows:

"That the Secretary of the Treasury shall each month coin two million ounces of the silver bullion purchased under the provisions of this act into standard silver dollars until the first day of July, 1891, and after that time he shall coin of the silver bullion purchased under the provisions of this act as much as may be necessary to provide for the redemption of the Treasury notes herein provided for, and any gain or shrinkage arising from such coinage shall be accounted for and paid into the Treasury."

It is for the purpose of utilizing the coinage that the coinage of standard silver dollars is resumed. The expenditure of that about 1,600,000 standard silver dollars can be coined at once, which will give the United States Treasury a coinage of about $600,000, in other words, the seigniorage bears the proportion of one-third to the amount of silver coined.

If it is the intention of the Treasury Department, as the other mints become clear of the gold coinage, to have them also coin silver, and thus increase the coinage from $3,500,000 to $4,000,000 per month.

This seigniorage is so much clear gain to the United States Treasury, and if it could all be placed to the credit of the Government at once it would increase the balance by $33,000,000. The amount of silver with which the Treasury is supplied is about $200,000,000.

The Administration has for several days been considering the question as to whether it could use all the seigniorage at once—thus making available $63,000,000—but as far as can be learned no conclusion has yet been reached. No doubt exists as to the use of the seigniorage as fast as standard silver dollars are coined. Secretary Carlisle, Attorney General Olney have both been searching the statutes respecting the matter, and the subject was further considered at today's Cabinet meeting.

The silver bullion to be thus converted into standard silver dollars is the silver purchased under the Sherman act of 1890 and upon which the coin notes are issued. The coinage of the silver, however, will not contract the currency, but will increase money in circulation to the extent of the seigniorage, and without further legislation is the only means of increasing the per capita circulation to keep pace with the increase in population.

SUDDEN DEATH.

At Morgantown of Thomas Givens.

Morgantown, Nov. 2.—A prominent citizen of this place, Thomas Givens, proprietor of the Givens' House, died very suddenly of heart trouble Wednesday morning about 5 o'clock. He had gotten up that morning and started a fire and returned to bed. His wife, who went to wake him, was horrified to find him dead. He was a brother of Judge M. C. Givens.

Kelley, Ky., Nov. 4.—Mr. Entgen:—If you will kindly give me space, I will pen you a few lines relating to my school. I am teaching in district No. 58, known as Jackson district. I have been teaching nine weeks with an average attendance of about thirty pupils. My enrollment is fifty-six. All the common school branches are represented in my classes, with the addition of algebra, so it will be seen that I can have no time to spare during school hours.

Many of my pupils are respectful, quiet and studious. Miss May Jackson is entitled to a place on the "Roll of Honor" for having complied with every requirement. A number of others have done very well in many respects, but, having one grievous fault, whispering, they can not attain this high position yet.

This is a very agreeable, pleasant community, and when you visit, you find a model family, presided over by Tatum's Noblemen you may stop at the house of J. R. Jackson. More anon. Yours Respy. R. B. Goss.

A BURIED TREASURE.

Its Hiding Place Known by Only One Man in the World.

Bank of England Notes to the Value of Nearly Two Million Dollars Safely Repose in the Vicinity of the Town of La Plata.

Somewhere near the town of La Plata, in the Argentine Republic, there lie buried Bank of England notes to the value of $1,750,000, but no person has yet been fortunate enough to find them. Here is how they came to be hidden:

When the revolution broke out in Chili, President Balmaceda thought it would be a good thing to have a better navy. So he commissioned a friend, Col. Pinto, to go to England, purchase, if possible, two fast cruisers, man them with picked crews, and send them to Valparaiso. We were given bills of exchange to the amount of $1,750,000 on several London banks to pay for the vessels.

Pinto took passage at Valparaiso in a steamer for Liverpool, via Magellan's straits and up the Atlantic. The steamer had also to call at Montevideo, Buenos Ayres and Rio de Janeiro, and the voyage was therefore a long one.

After Pinto sailed, Balmaceda began to see that things were going against him, and that he might be forced to leave the country. He realized that when that time came it would be pleasant to have lots of money. So when Pinto reached England he found a dispatch awaiting him, in which he was told to buy the warship, but to convert the bills of exchange into money and hurry back with it to Valparaiso. He at once got Bank of England notes for his bills, put them in a steel box in his trunk, and started for home.

When the steamer reached Montevideo he was told of Balmaceda's downfall, and concluded that, as he was a personal friend of the deposed dictator, it would be safer for him to stay in the Argentine Republic, for awhile, at least.

Accordingly he took up his residence in La Plata, and while living there formed the acquaintance of a gentleman named Parry.

When peace was restored in Chili Pinto decided to revisit that country. But he was puzzled to know just what to do with the Balmaceda's money. If he took it with him to Valparaiso somebody might steal it; if he deposited it in a La Plata bank, the Chilians, who were in power, might hear of it, and lay claim to and get the money.

So one night he took the box, with its precious contents, to the outskirts of the city and buried it. Then he started for Chili, but had no sooner landed at Valparaiso than he was arrested and thrown into prison, receiving the assurance that he would not be released until he had given up the money to the government.

Some of his friends, however, told him that as soon as he surrendered the money he would be shot. He, therefore, began to study how he could get out of jail, and determined that he would use part of the money as a golden key with which to unlock the door of his dungeon.

Pinto is a native of Buenos Ayres, and he wrote to his friend, Mr. Parry, at La Plata, offering him one-fourth of the buried treasure if he could induce the Argentine Republic to take up his case, and demand the release of one of its citizens.

The latter also stated that so soon as Mr. Parry accepted the proposition the location of the buried money would be made known to him.

Mr. Parry accidentally lost the letter, somehow found it, and very soon it was widely known that there was a treasure buried somewhere. Mr. Parry could do nothing, for a revolution broke out in Argentina, and the government had its hands full. So Col. Pinto is still in jail at Valparaiso, and, although every man in La Plata who has a spade has been digging for the treasure, its hiding place has not yet been discovered.—Golden Days.

STRAYED OR STOLEN.—Stray or stolen from my farm about three weeks ago, 5 head of steers, 3 of them red and 2 spotted. Marked swallow fork in right and under bit in left ear. Weight from 900 to 1100 pounds each. Will pay $5.00 for their return to me. C. N. Byrd, Fredonia, Ky.

BLOWN TO PIECES.

A Terrible Dynamite Explosion in Santander, Spain.

Governor of the Province Dead.

Many of the Leading Citizens of the Place Killed by this Terrible Accident.

Madrid, Nov. 4.—A most startling message was received late last night from a small village near the city of Santander, capital of the province of that name and situated a little over 200 miles from this city, announcing a terrible explosion of dynamite, which had killed the governor of the province and a large number of people, including several of the leading citizens, and which had also set fire to the city and caused immense damage on all sides.

The explosion was due to a fire upon the steamer Volo, British, of 870 tons, which was loaded with dynamite. The ship was moored at the quay at Santander, and the ship officials seemed to be ignorant of the fact that her cargo consisted of dynamite. The entire fire department was called out, besides several hundred citizens. Suddenly there was a loud roar and a shock was felt which shook the country for miles around. The entire city was thrown into utter confusion, and among the dead is the governor of the province.

The loss of life will certainly exceed 1,000.

A PREMONITION.

That Sent a Well Known Divine Back Home.

The Louisville Critic of Tunday says: "Rev. Dr. H. C. Settle, the retiring pastor of the Walnut Street Southern Methodist church, relates a curious circumstance. He had been attending the conference at Elkhart, and when he left Louisville, four days previous, he expected to spend Sunday in Elkhart. He made an arrangement to have his pulpit here supplied Sunday and Sunday night and he had accepted an invitation to preach a sermon at Elkhart Sunday morning. He stated that during his stay at Elkhart, there was a constant impression on his mind that he ought to come back to Louisville. He couldn't account for it and he knew no reason why he should feel so, and he could think of nothing to demand his presence here. The impression grew stronger toward the latter part of the week and he spoke to the Louisville delegates about it. They laughed at him, insisted that he remain at Elkhart and fill his appointment. Finally, the impulse to come to the city prevailed and he took the train, arriving here after midnight Sunday morning. He found that he had been telegraphed for; that several of his old friends were dangerously ill, and that a number of things had conspired to make his presence here almost imperative. He stated that he was not superstitious, but he firmly believed there was a supernatural influence which caused him to come back to Louisville Saturday night."

FOUR LYNCHED.

Negro Barn Burners Hanged By a Colored Mob Near Lynchburg.

Nashville, Nov. 4.—A special from Tallahoma says information has been received there that Ed Waggoner, son-in-law and daughter, four negroes, living near Lynchburg, were hanged by a mob of negroes for barn burning last night.

Ed Waggoner's wife was terribly whipped and given three days to leave the country. In the house at the time the negroes were out were Henry Motlow and Jeff Wise, a boy twelve years old. They state that they did not recognize any of the mob.

All of the negroes hanged were said to be desperate characters. They were charged with house and barn burning, they having been overheard making their plans.

The mob, it appears, was sure of their guilt. Ed Waggoner was convicted and sent to the pen last year for stealing wheat from a farmer in that part of the county.

Sam Motlow's wife last year entered Mr. Hobbs' house and robbed and then burned it. Motlow was a desperate character and attempted to kill Mr. Dowers, son of a prominent man of that county, a few weeks ago. The negroes were charged with burning Mr. Hobbs' house last year. Mr. Spencer's barn two weeks ago and several other barns recently.

SPOTTED FEVER.

The Fatal Disease is Said to Have Broken Out Afresh in Marshall County.

[Murray News.]

Spotted fever, the dreadful disease that visited Marshall county a few months ago, and claimed as its victims hundreds of the good citizens of the various localities of that county, has broken out afresh out afresh again, and its territory now is said to be the extreme southeastern part of the county. Last week there were two deaths from the disease, and while no others have fallen victims to it yet, the people are fearful others. The disease is a peculiar one, and the physicians have not, as yet, had any success in treating it. Whenever a person is prostrated by it, death follows within from five to thirty hours, and no medicine has, as yet, been discovered that will, in the least, give a partial relief. Dead and decaying timbers, so eminent physicians have said, are thought to be the causes of the disease. Should there develop as many cases as there were a few months ago, Marshall county will almost be depopulated for a while, as many persons have said they will leave their homes rather than risk its breaking out in their families. The physicians claim that the disease is not contagious, but the history of many of the past cases can be traced to the fact that it is, for many of those who surrender their lives to its fatal effects were persons who volunteered their services and waited upon others at the time prostrated by the disease.

Our Schools.

Ed. Press.—The young people of this, and other states, have been discussing the question of woman suffrage, through the columns of the Courier-Journal for some time. This is very good focus an and older person also, to think about, yet we think we can get along without the vote of the fair sex of the land, at least for a while, as there are other subjects for more important to be thought of, that will help the poor, blind, lame and halt.

As it is the aim of every individual to do his best in life, to make something and to be something, and to help his fellow man, so also it should be his aim to his county, state and government, and especially his state, and should let his influence be for any thing that it for the up-building of the people, and general welfare of its government.

The state of Kentucky was the second one admitted into the union after the original thirteen, yet it has not marched along in arm with other states as it should, especially on the line of education, and this is what we want to speak of.

Kentucky's school system is getting better year by year. Yet it has not hit the nail that will do the most good according to my opinion.

The board of education has adopted the grading system from other states, which will be very good if carried on as it should be, or as it would be if we had a chance. We all know and realize that it is impossible to grade children when they are at home around the kitchen fire, or strolling up the highway for pastime.

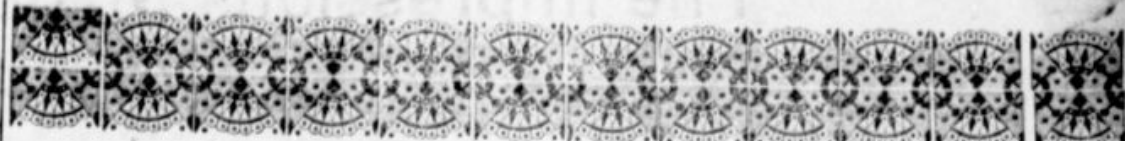

We find we are greatly in need of a law demanding or compelling children to go to school for more than one reason.

1. There are thousands growing up in ignorance over our state which should not be.

2. That the money appropriated by our government for the schools is going out all the same, and the children at home. And as there is money enough to send all, why not send them? We hear it almost every day, when, on asking a child why they don't come to school, the answer will be, "Don't want to," we hear it in ever district in the county, and ever county in the state, "Don't want to," and so it is the children don't want to go, and the parents won't make them go, the state has no control and ignorants is the consequence.

Ignorant father, ignorant child, ignorant grand, and so on it goes, and where ignorant is bliss it is fully to be wise. We see at once that there is a mistake that could be modified. And as other states find that a compulsory school law is beneficial why not Kentucky try it. It seems as if there is not good judgment manifested, when there is so much money allowed for every individual in the state under the school law, and then leave it for them to do as they please, when we are aware that almost one third are at home, and don't ever see inside of the school room during the term.

We feel that a compulsory school law, and the graded system with the other advantages the new law has given, Kentucky would soon make a new step, that she would be proud of, and the sooner it is done the better it will be.

A BIG DEAL.

The C. O. & S. W. Railroad Passes into the Hands of The L. and N.

Giving the Latter a Monopoly in Western Kentucky.

New York, Nov. 2.—Arrangements were completed today for the transfer of the control of the Chesapeake, Ohio and Southwestern railroad from C. P. Huntington to the Louisville and Nashville and the Illinois Central railroads.

The road will put the Louisville and Nashville in possession of all the territory in Kentucky between Lexington and the Tennessee river, and it will bring more road into the Louisville and Nashville station in Louisville. It will also provide the Louisville and Nashville with terminals in Memphis, which would have cost to construct something like $500,000 or $600,000.

The only transfer of the control of a large majority of stock and franchises of the Chesapeake, Ohio and Southwestern to the Louisville and Nashville, the amount involved is about $1,000,000 in money. Col. P. Huntington, who sells the road, retains control of its first mortgage bonds.

Huntington will turn over to the purchasers a majority of the company's preferred stock and the other securities, with the exception of the first mortgage bonds, his large holding of which he will retain. Huntington will, however, it is understood, retain notes made by the Louisville and Nashville and endorsed by the Illinois Central. The real ownership will therefore rest with the Louisville and Nashville, but the Illinois Central will have all the benefits to be derived from an equal use of the line.

The Chesapeake and Ohio, and Southwestern Company was organized in 1868 it was leased for fifty years to the Newport News and Mississippi Valley.

The main line of the Chesapeake, Ohio and Southwestern runs from Louisville, Ky., to Memphis, Tenn., 392 miles, but with its extension and branches the system covers 700 miles.

The deal puts the L. and N. in control of all the territory in Kentucky between Lexington and the Tennessee river. As the Chesapeake, Ohio and Southwestern now operates the Ohio Valley line and the Falls of Rough road, it is presumed these roads are included in the deal.

If the Louisville and Nashville and Nashville and Nashville gain control of the line it will then have a mileage of 3,000 miles owned, leased or operated by it, making it one of the largest systems in the world.

THE SEPARATE COINAGE LAW.

The Test Case of the Association of Colored People Filed at Owensboro.

Owensboro, Ky., Nov. 2.—Attorney John Feland, acting for the association of colored people appointed to fight the Kentucky separate coach law, tonight filed a suit in the United States Court, which will be made the test case on the constitutionality of the law.

On the advice of Mr. Feland, on last Monday the Rev. W. H. Anderson, a colored preacher of Evansville, Ind., bought first-class tickets for himself and wife from Evansville to Madisonville, Ky. They took seats in the car or women's coach and the conductor accepted their tickets for passage. When the train reached the Kentucky State line at Henderson, conductor informed Anderson and wife that they must go into the back or compartment provided for colored passengers. Upon their refusal to do so, the conductor put them off the train.

The suit brought tonight is in Anderson's name, and $15,000 damages is claimed. The point will be raised that the law is an interference with interstate commerce and in violation of the Constitution and laws of the United States. It is set out in the petition that the compartment provided for colored people is inferior to that provided white passengers. Several other cases have been previously filed on the same question, but this is the only one authorized by the association. Mr. Feland is the only lawyer so far engaged in the case, but when it comes up for hearing before Judge Blair in February, it is probable that distinguished counsel from other States will be employed.

SILVER COINAGE.

Important Action Taken By the Treasury Department Today.

Resumption of Coinage of Standard Silver Dollars, Suspended Some Time Ago.

Washington, Nov. 3.—Important action was taken by the Treasury Department today in regard to silver. Orders were sent to the Superintendent of the United States Mints at San Francisco and New Orleans to resume the coinage, suspended some time ago, of standard silver dollars.

This action is taken under authority of Section 3 of the Sherman law of 1890, which is as follows: "That the Secretary of the Treasury shall each month coin two million ounces of the silver bullion purchased under the provisions of this act into standard silver dollars until the first day of July, 1891, and after that time he shall coin of the silver bullion purchased under the provisions of this act as much as may be necessary to provide for the redemption of the Treasury notes herein provided for, and any gain or seigniorage arising from such coinage shall be accounted for and paid into the Treasury."

It is for the purpose of utilizing the seigniorage that the coinage of standard silver dollars is resumed. The expectation is that about 1,500,000 standard silver dollars can be coined at once, which will give the United States Treasury a seigniorage of about $500,000; in other words, the seigniorage bears the proportion of one-third to the amount of silver coined.

It is the intention of the Treasury Department, as the other mints become clear if the gold coinage, to have them also coin silver, and thus increase the coinage from $3,500,000 to $4,000,000 per month.

This seigniorage is so much clear gain to the United States Treasury, and if it could all be placed to the credit of the Government at once it would increase the balance by $53,000,000. The amount of silver subject to coinage is 230,000,000 ounces.

The Administration has for several days past been considering the question as to whether it could use all the seigniorage at once—thus making available $53,000,000—but as far as we have learned no conclusion has yet been reached. No doubt exists as to the use of the seigniorage as fast as standard silver dollars are coined. Secretary Carlisle and Attorney General Olney have both been searching the statutes respecting the matter, and the subject was further considered at today's Cabinet meeting.

The silver bullion to be thus converted into standard silver dollars is the silver purchased under the Sherman act of 1890 and upon which the coin notes are issued. The coinage of the silver, however, will not contract the currency, but will increase money in circulation to the extent of the seigniorage, and without further legislation is the only means of increasing the per capita circulation to keep pace with the increase in population.

A BURIED TREASURE.

Its Hiding Place Known by Only One Man in the World.

Bank of England Notes to the Value of Nearly Two Million Dollars Safely Repose in the Vicinity of the Town of La Plata.

Somewhere near the town of La Plata, in the Argentine Republic, there lie buried Bank of England notes to the value of $1,750,000, but no person has yet been fortunate enough to find them. Here is how they came to be hidden:

When the revolution broke out in Chili, President Balmaceda thought it would be a good thing to have a better navy. So he commissioned a friend, Col. Pinto, to go to England, purchase, if possible, two fast cruisers, man them with picked crews, and send them to Valparaiso. We were given bills of exchange to the amount of $1,750,000 on several London banks to pay for the vessels.

Pinto took passage at Valparaiso in a steamer for Liverpool, via Magellan's straits and up the Atlantic. The steamer had also to call at Montevideo, Buenos Ayres and Rio de Janeiro, and the voyage was therefore a long one.

After Pinto sailed, Balmaceda began to see that things were going against him, and that he might be forced to leave the country. He realized that when that time came it would be pleasant to have lots of money. So when Pinto reached England he found a dispatch awaiting him, in which he had told not to buy the warship, but to convert the bills of exchange into "money and hurry back with it to Valparaiso. He at once got Bank of England notes for his bills, put them in a steel box in his trunk, and started for home.

When the steamer reached Montevideo he was told of Balmaceda's downfall, and concluded that, as he was a personal friend of the deposed dictator, it would be safer for him to stay in the Argentine Republic, for awhile, at least.

Accordingly he took up his residence in La Plata, and while living there formed the acquaintance of a gentleman named Parry. When peace was restored in Chili Pinto decided to revisit that country. But he was puzzled to know just what to do with Balmaceda's money. If he took it with him to Valparaiso somebody might steal it; if he deposited it in a La Plata bank, the Chilians, who were in power, might hear of it, and lay claim to it and get the money.

So one night he took the box, with its precious contents, to the outskirts of the city and buried it.

Then he started for Chili, but had no sooner landed at Valparaiso than he was arrested and thrown into prison, receiving the assurance that he would not be released until he had given up the money to the government.

Some of his friends, however, told him that as soon as he surrendered the money he would be shot. He, therefore, began to study how he could get out of jail, and determined that he would use part of the money as a golden key with which to unlock the door of his dungeon.

Pinto is a native of Buenos Ayres, and he wrote to his friend, Mr. Parry, at La Plata, offering him one-fourth of the buried treasure if he could induce the Argentine Republic to take up his case, and demand the release of one of its citizens.

The latter also stated that so soon as Mr. Parry accepted the proposition the location of the buried money would be made known to him. Mr. Parry accidentally lost the letter, somehow found it, and very soon it was widely known that there was a treasure buried somewhere. Mr. Parry could do nothing for a revolution broke out in Argentina, and the government had its hands full.

So Col. Pinto is still in jail at Valparaiso, and, although every man in La Plata who has a spade has been digging for the treasure, its hiding place has not yet been discovered.—Golden Days.

The loss of life will certainly exceed 1,000.

A PREMONITION.

That Sent a Well Known Devine Back Home.

The Louisville Critic of Tuesday says: "Rev. Dr. H. C. Settle, the retiring pastor of the Walnut Street Southern Methodist church, relates a curious circumstance. He had been attending the conference at Elkton, and when he left Louisville, four days previous, he expected to spend Sunday in Elkton. He made an arrangement to have his pulpit here supplied Sunday and Sunday night and he had accepted an invitation to preach a sermon at Elkton Sunday morning. He stated that during his stay at Elkton, there was a constant impression on his mind that he ought to come back to Louisville. He couldn't account for it and he knew no reason why he should feel so, and he could think of nothing to demand his presence here. The impression grew stronger toward the latter part of the week and he spoke to the Louisville delegates about it. They laughed at him, insisted that he remain at Elkton and fill his appointment. Finally, the impulse to come the city prevailed and he took the train, arriving here after midnight Sunday morning. He found that he had been telegraphed for; that several of his old friends were dangerously ill, and that a number of things had conspired to make his presence here almost imperative. He stated that he was not superstitious, but he firmly believed there was a supernatural influence which caused him to come back to Louisville Saturday night."

FOUR LYNCHED.

Negro Barn Burners Hanged By a Colored Mob Near Lynchburg.

Nashville, Nov. 4.—A special from Tallahoma says information has been received there that Ed Waggoner, son-in-law and daughter, four negroes, living near Lynchburg, were hanged by a mob of negroes for barn burning last night.

Ned Waggoner's wife was terribly whipped and given three days to leave the country. In the house at the time the negroes were out were Henry Motlow and Jeff Wise, a boy twelve years old. They state that they did not recognize any of the mob.

All of the negroes hanged were said to be desperate characters. They were charged with house and barn burning, they having been overheard making their plans.

The mob, it appears, was sure of their guilt. Ned Waggoner was convicted and sent to the pen last year for scaling wheat from a farm in that part of the county.

Sam Motlow's wife last year entered Mr. Hobbs' house and robbed and then burned it. Motlow was a desperate character and attempted to kill Mr. Dowers, son of a prominent man of that county, a few weeks ago. The negroes were charged with burning Mr. Hobbs' house last year. Mr. Spencer's barn two weeks ago and several other barns recently.

SPOTTED FEVER.

The Fatal Disease is Said to Have Broken Out Afresh in Marshall County.

[Murray News.]

Spotted fever, the dreadful disease that visited Marshall county a few months ago, and claimed as its victims hundreds of the good citizens of the various localities of that county, has broken out afresh out afresh again, and its territory now is said to be the extreme southeastern part of the county. Last week there were two deaths from the disease, and while no others have fallen victims to it yet, the people are fearful others. The disease is a peculiar one, and the physicians have not, as yet, had any success in treating it. Whenever a person is prostrated by it, death follows within from five to thirty hours, and no medicine has, as yet, been discovered that will, in the least, give a partial relief. Dead and decaying timbers, so eminent physicians have said, are thought to be the causes of the disease. Should there develop as many cases as there were a few months ago, Marshall county will almost be depopulated for a while, as many persons have said they will leave their homes rather than risk its breaking out in their families. The physicians claim that the disease is not contagious but the history of many of the past cases can be traced to the fact that it is, for many of those who surrender their lives to its fatal effects were persons who volunteered their services and waited upon others at the time prostrated by the disease.

Our Schools.

Ed. Press.—The young people of this, and other states, have been discussing the question of woman suffrage, through the columns of the Courier-Journal for some time. This is very good for us and older persons also, to think about, yet we think we can get along without the vote of the fair sex of the land, at least for a while, as there are other subjects for more important to be thought of, that will help the poor, blind, lame and halt.

As it is the aim of every individual to do his best in life, to make something and to be something, and to help his fellow man, so also it should be his aim to his county, state and government, and especially his state, and should let his influence be for any thing that it for the up-building of the people, and general welfare of its government.

The state of Kentucky was the second one admitted into the union after the original thirteen, yet is has not marched along in arm with other states as it should, especially, on the line of education, and this is what we want to speak of.

Kentucky's school system is getting better year by year. Yet it has not hit the nail that will do the most good according to my opinion.

The board of education has adopted the grading system from other states, which will be very good if carried on as it should be, or as it would be if we had a chance. We all know and realize that it is impossible to grade children when they are at home around the kitchen fire, or strolling up the highway for past time.

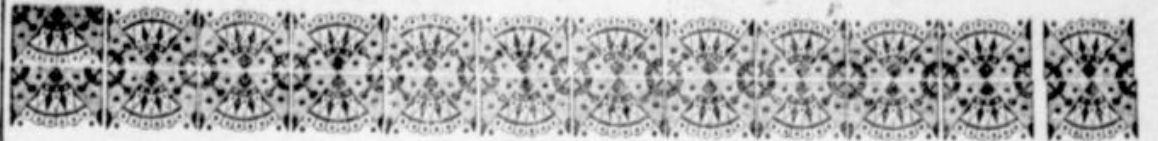

We find we are greatly in need of a law demanding or compelling children to go to school for more than one season.

1. There are thousands growing up in ignorance over our state which should not be.

2. That the money appropriated by our government for the schools is going out all the same, and the children at home. And as there is money enough to send all, why not send them? We hear it almost every day, when, on asking a child why they don't come to school, the answer will be, "Don't want to," we hear it in ever district in the county, and ever county in the state, "Don't want to," and so it is the children don't want to go, and the parents won't make them go, the state has no control and ignorance is the consequence.

Ignorant father, ignorant child, ignorant grand, and so on it goes, and where ignorant is bliss it is fully to be wise. We see at once that there is a mistake that could be modified. And as other states find that a compulsory school law is beneficial why not Kentucky try it. It seems as if there is not good judgment manifested, when there is so much money allowed for every individual in the state under the school law, and then leave it for them to do as they please, when we are aware that almost one third are at home, and don't ever see inside of the school room during the term.

We feel that a compulsory school law, and the graded system with the other advantages the new law has given, Kentucky would soon make a new step, that she would be proud of, and the sooner it is done the better it will be.

There was one end of the big Fair that did not pan out so well. The four-hundred-half dollar failed to bring a dollar at any time. Five million were coined, but two million and a half were left the mints. They will be coined into regular half dollars, the bank managers to pay the expense of coining. The average American may pay two bits for a bit show, or give five cents for a five cent drink and not grumble, but he is not going to give a dollar for a half dollar.

THE WOMAN WINS

Sam Nunn Goes Down Before the Onslaught of Republicans and Third Party Votes.

Clement Wins in A Canter.

Elections in Crittenden are always lively affairs, and Tuesday's contest was no exception to the rule; indeed there was possibly a deeper interest felt in this contest than in any, except when a full county ticket was to be elected. For the first time in the history of the county a woman was in the contest, and her candidacy aroused an enthusiasm in a class of people who rarely take interest in such fights. The result is not just exactly what it might be to Democrats, nevertheless while there may be a throb or two to cause tears, there is a tinge or two to coax a smile, so let's be cheery.

The success of Miss Wheeler is due to one single party, as we said before the election, her success is the triumph of a deserving woman, and is due in a large measure to men who burst away from partisan feelings to reward true merit and in doing so they place a wreath of laurels upon the brow of a true woman, who demonstrates to her sisters that industry, perseverance, and ambition find a gateway to places of honor and trust for even woman in the good old county of Crittenden. Her opponent, Mr. Perry, has nothing to be ashamed of, he took the nomination of his party, fought for success and made as good a fight as any man could.

According to the latest returns the figures in the Senatorial race are about this way: Deboe carries Crittenden by 195 and Caldwell by 288; Nunn carried Webster by 300. This gives Deboe a majority of 183 in the district. The official returns from Webster will make but little change in these figures.

In the legislative race Clement carries Crittenden by 183 and Livingston by 263, making a total of 446 in the district.

In the contest for Superintendent Miss Mina Wheeler defeats George Perry by a majority of 2.

NOTES.

Tolu did fairly well.

Dycusburg is improving.

Flatlick is joined to her idols.

Everybody is glad that it is over.

Crittenden has faith in the woman.

Miss Wheeler made the greatest race of all.

Does like Linley love the Republicans as he loved them before the election?

Carrsville precinct has 600. Seventy-one of them voted Tuesday.

All of the Third Party of Crittenden voted for Deboe, but all of the Republicans did not vote for Linley, by a large majority.

Three years ago Rudy, the Democratic candidate, in this Senatorial district was defeated 700; Sam Nunn is only 185 behind.

There was a man named Linley, with the Republicans he was friendly, a big vote he expected to poll, but they left him in the hole.

It was thought that the Crittenden county horse swappers were the "trading" people of earth, but those Third Party and Republican fellows in Caldwell take the cake, stand and all, when it comes to business.

The men elected to the Kentucky Legislature Tuesday will choose the successor to Wm. Lindsay in the United States Senate. Governor Brown has been looking to that juicy plum, but it is more than probable that Lindsay will be re-elected. There are no good reasons why he should not.

Last fall everything went Democratic except Crittenden county. This year everything goes Republican but Crittenden county, and that has a fairly good Democratic flavor.

The election Tuesday in other States was decidedly of Republican flavor, but this is "on off" year and the Democrats made but little effort, Ohio, Iowa, Massachusetts and Pennsylvania, are Republican States anyhow; New York makes a bad break occasionally and the Democrats had an unpopular candidate this year, Old Kentucky, Virginia and Maryland do business at the same old stand.

Bell's Mines is the fairest flower in the nosegay. She always blooms in beautiful Democratic colors, but this season the fragrance, and lights and shadows are beautifully blended, all harmonize, and upon the whole it exceeds anything the gallant Democracy of that district ever before plucked from the polls. All reports agree that it was the smoothest, most pleasant day ever spent around the polls in that precinct, and the returns clearly indicate that it was the most Democratic day on record in that neighborhood. All honor to the Democracy of old Bell's Mines.

F. M. Clement wins with hands down, He even carries Crittenden county by a handsome majority. He simply had no fight. The only trouble was getting the vote out in Livingston county. Had the people gone out down there like they did in Crittenden, his majority would easily have been 1000. But what he has, ought to satisfy any reasonable man, and appreciating what is his own county did, Crittenden Democrats will not fall out with Livingston because of what she might have done, had the old girl not been asleep. Some of these days, however, the Democrats of Livingston are going to be caught napping, and licked out of their boots.

Though defeated Sam Nunn has made a great race. Two years ago the opposition was elected by 800 majority. One year ago the opposition to the Democracy in the three counties was 1200, Sam is defeated by less than 200 votes. In Webster county he runs over two hundred votes a head of the county ticket. In his home county, under all of the circumstances, he has made a phenomenal race. Harrison carried the county by a majority of 190; the Third Party vote was about 150 last year, yet he lost the county by only 197 votes. If any candidate in the fight has anything to be proud of Sam has, and that thing is the vote of his home precinct—Bell's Mines. It gives him a bigger majority than it ever gave any Democrat before; it surpassed the expectations of everybody, and it is a testimonial to the popularity of the gallant Democrat that no one can gain say. Whatever other people may say of Sam, his home people give him an endorsement that any man would be proud of. Sam made a great race, but the odds were against him, as they would have been against any Democrat, from the start. No man in the district could have done better.

The Town Election.

One of the most exciting town elections ever held was that of Tuesday. The only contest was for the marshalship, and the fight was between two Democrats, J. F. Loyd and J. W. Wallace. An effort had been made to settle the matter between them before the election, but the effort only increased the zeal of their respective friends and when the voting came, it was lively. Loyd won. The vote for marshal was as follows:

Loyd	79
Wallace	47

For Police Judge H. F. Ray was elected without opposition, receiving 94 votes.

The following persons were elected Trustees, by the votes given:

J. P. Pierce	95
J. H. Clark	94
W. D. Cannon	92

KILLED AT EDDYVILLE.

Wadlington, the Marshal of Eddyville kills Tobe Watson.

A tragedy occurred at Eddyville Saturday afternoon, and the chief actors were Tobe Watson, a young business man, engaged in the grocery business, and — Wadlington, the Marshal of Eddyville. Watson is dead and Wadlington is charged with killing him. The particulars of the affair are substantially as follows: Wadlington owed Watson a grocery bill, and he gave the account to a constable for collection; the constable called twice upon the Marshal with the account, the second time Wadlington became angry, and used Watson's name in conjunction with very harsh language, Watson heard the words, a quarrel ensued, Watson turned to leave when Wadlington struck him on the back of the head with a cane. Parties interfered and Watson went home complaining of a peculiar sensation about his head; in a short time he was unconscious and at 12 o'clock Saturday night he died from the effects of the blow, Wadlington was immediately arrested.

Young Wadlington lived a while at Marion few years ago, and was partially raised in the neighborhood of Crayneville, this county.

Both men are well thought of at Eddyville, and the affair, like of its kind, is a lamentable one.

Messrs James & James, of this place have been employed to prosecute Wadlington, County Attorney Martin being unable to attend court. It is said that all the members of the Eddyville bar have been employed by the defense.

Another Damage Suit.

W. H. Tabor, has filed suit against M. F. Pogue, the post-master at Francis, this county. He asks for $5,000 damages, alleging that the defendant published in Fredonia certain matters derogatory to plaintiff's character. The petition is pretty lengthy setting forth that both the plaintiff and defendant are Masons, and that J. T. Morgan to whom the defendant wrote the letter complained of, is a Mason.

Mr. T. J. Hill, formerly of the Princeton Banner, has taken charge of the Dexter City (Mo.) Enterprise, and will devote his talent and energy to making that a good paper. He will succeed for he has plenty of both of the qualities mentioned, and besides being a splendid newspaper man he is a sterling young man in every particular, and will prove to be a valuable addition to the flourishing little city of Dexter. It is a source of pleasure to commend Tom Hill to any good people.

A Big Land Sale.

Col. J. R. Hewlett has sold his Goose creek farm of 277 acres of land to Mr. J. A. Stegar at $87.50 per acre. This is the highest price ever paid in the county for a large body of land away from the city limits. It is known as one of the finest farms in the county, and is generally regarded as worth all that was paid for it. Mr. Stegar has sold 120 acres of it to Nelson Cash at the same price. Good land in this county is rapidly advancing in price and the holders are generally averse to selling unless fancy figures are obtained.—Princeton Banner.

Chas. Tannehill Meets With an Accident at Henshaw.

Monday evening Chas. Tannehill purchased a ticket at Henshaw for Morganfield, expecting to make the trip on the local freight train, when the train pulled out from the station he attempted to board it after it began to move. His foot slipped, he fell and the foot was caught between a wheel and the rail, and so crushed that amputation was necessary, and the foot was taken off just above the ankle. Mr. Tannehill is well-known in Marion making his home here part of the time; he is a brother of Police Judge Ray's wife.

Is He Crazy?

Yesterday W. L. Bigham, was before the County Judge to be tried for lunacy. A jury could not be secured, and he was placed in the custody of Mr. Sam Henry until Friday when an effort will be made to secure a jury and proceed with the trial. Mr. Bigham is a well known citizen of Marion, and has been a man of more than ordinary intelligence. For a long time he has been drinking heavily; indeed for years he has been imbibing to excess, and at times his sprees have indicated a derangement of the mind. Yesterday morning among other things he began breaking the glass from the front of his business house, and raising a racket in general, when he was taken in custody.

Geo. H. Cridler is posting Assessor McCaslin's books.

"One road overseer in the county deserves a good notice in the Press," said John Guess, of Dycusburg M on day, continuing he said: "The road from Marion to Crayneville is in the best condition I ever saw. What were bad places, are now smooth and nice, the overseer has taken pains with the road, and his work is the work of an intelligent man and he deserves credit."

Robt. Allen began school in the new house at Salem yesterday. The enterprising little city of Salem has just completed a splendid school building, and it is a credit to the people, and will aid to the prosperity of that town. Good school houses speak well of any community.

Mr. W. M. Terry, who has been in the drug business at Elkton, Ky., for the past twelve years, says: "Chamberlain's Cough Remedy gives better satisfaction than any other cough medicine I have ever sold." There is good reason for this. No other will cure a cold so quickly; no other is so certain a preventive and cure for croup; no other affords so much relief in cases of whooping cough. For sale by Moore & Orme.

Are your children subject to croup? If so, you should never be without a bottle of Chamberlain's Cough Remedy. It is a certain cure for croup, and has never been known to fail. If given freely as soon as the croupy cough appears it will prevent the attack. It is the sole reliance with the thousands of mothers who have croupy children, and never disappoints them. There is no danger in giving this remedy in large and frequent doses, as it contains nothing injurious. 50 cent bottles for sale by Moore & Orme.

FOOT CRUSHED OFF.

Chas. Tannehill Meets With an Accident at Henshaw.

Monday evening Chas. Tannehill purchased a ticket at Henshaw for Morganfield, expecting to make the trip on the local freight train, when the train pulled out from the station he attempted to board it after it began to move. His foot slipped, he fell and the foot was caught between a wheel and the rail, and so crushed that amputation was necessary, and the foot was taken off just above the ankle. Mr. Tannehill is well-known in Marion making his home here part of the time; he is a brother of Police Judge Ray's wife.

Is He Crazy?

Yesterday W. L. Bigham, was before the County Judge to be tried for lunacy. A jury could not be secured, and he was placed in the custody of Mr. Sam Henry until Friday when an effort will be made to secure a jury and proceed with the trial. Mr. Bigham is a well known citizen of Marion, and has been a man of more than ordinary intelligence. For a long time he has been drinking heavily; indeed for years he has been imbibing to excess, and at times his sprees have indicated a derangement of the mind. Yesterday morning among other things he began breaking the glass from the front of his business house, and raising a racket in general, when he was taken in custody.

"One road overseer in the county deserves a good notice in the Press," said John Guess, of Dycusburg M on day, continuing he said: "The road from Marion to Crayneville is in the best condition I ever saw. What were bad places, are now smooth and nice, the overseer has taken pains with the road, and his work is the work of an intelligent man and he deserves credit."

Robt. Allen began school in the new house at Salem yesterday. The enterprising little city of Salem has just completed a splendid school building, and it is a credit to the people, and will aid to the prosperity of that town. Good school houses speak well of any community.

Mr. W. M. Terry, who has been in the drug business at Elkton, Ky., for the past twelve years, says: "Chamberlain's Cough Remedy gives better satisfaction than any other cough medicine I have ever sold." There is good reason for this. No other will cure a cold so quickly; no other is so certain a preventive and cure for croup; no other affords so much relief in cases of whooping cough. For sale by Moore & Orme.

THE WOMAN WINS

Sam Nunn Goes Down Before the Onslaught of Republicans and Third Party Votes.

Clement Wins in A Canter.

Elections in Crittenden are always lively affairs, and Tuesday's contest was no exception to the rule; indeed there was possibly a deeper interest felt in this contest than in any, except when a full county ticket was to be elected. For the first time in the history of the county a woman was in the contest, and her candidacy aroused an enthusiasm in a class of people who rarely take interest in such fights. The result is not just exactly what it might be to Democrats, nevertheless while there may be a thing or two to cause tears, there is a thing or two to coax a smile, so let's be cheery.

The success of Miss Wheeler is due to one single party, as we said before the election, her success is the triumph of a deserving woman, and is due in a large measure to men who burst away from partisan feelings to reward true merit and in doing so they place a wreath of laurels upon the brow of a true woman, who demonstrates to her sisters that industry, perseverance, and ambition find a gateway to places of honor and trust for even woman in the good old county of Crittenden. Her opponent, Mr. Perry, has nothing to be ashamed of, he took the nomination of his party, fought for success and made as good a fight as any man could.

According to the latest returns the figures in the Senatorial race are about this way: Deboe carries Crittenden by 195 and Caldwell by 288; Nunn carried Webster by 300. This gives Deboe a majority of 183 in the district. The official returns from Webster will make but little change in these figures.

In the legislative race Clement carries Crittenden by 183 and Livingston by 263, making a total of 446 in the district.

In the contest for Superintendent Miss Mina Wheeler defeats George Perry by a majority of 2.

NOTES.

Tolu did fairly well.

Dycusburg is improving.

Fladick is joined to her idols.

Everybody is glad that it is over.

Crittenden has faith in the woman.

Miss Wheeler made the greatest race of all.

Does like Linley love the Republicans as he loved them before the election?

Carrsville precinct has 600. Seventy-one of them voted Tuesday.

All of the Third Party of Crittenden voted for Deboe, but all of the Republicans did not vote for Linley, by a large majority.

Three years ago Rudy, the Democratic candidate, in this Senatorial district was defeated 700; Sam Nunn is only 185 behind.

There was a man named Lindley, with the Republicans he was friendly, a big vote he expected to poll, but they left him in the hole.

It was thought that the Crittenden county horse swappers were the "trading" people of earth, but those Third Party and Republican fellows in Caldwell take the cake, stand and all, when it comes to business.

The men elected to the Kentucky Legislature Tuesday will choose the successor to Wm. Lindsay in the United States Senate. Governor Brown has been looking to that juicy plum, but it is more than probable that Lindsay will be re-elected. There are no good reasons why he should not.

Last fall everything went Democratic except Crittenden county. This year everything goes Republican but Crittenden county, and that has a fairly good Democratic flavor.

The election Tuesday in other States was decidedly of Republican flavor, but this is "on off" year and the Democrats made but little effort. Ohio, Iowa, Massachusetts and Pennsylvania, are Republican States anyhow; New York makes a bad break occasionally and the Democrats have an unpopular candidate this year. Old Kentucky, Virginia and Maryland do business at the same old stand.

Bell's Mines is the fairest flower in the nosegay. She always blooms out in beautiful Democratic colors, but this season the fragrance, and lights and shadows are beautifully blended, all harmonize, and upon the whole it exceeds anything the gallant Democracy of that district ever before plucked from the galls. All reports agree that it was the smoothest, most pleasant day ever spent around the polls in that precinct, and the returns clearly indicate that it was the most Democratic day on record in that neighborhood. All honor to the Democracy of old Bell's Mines.

F. M. Clement wins with hands down. He even carries Crittenden county by a handsome majority. He simply had no fight. The only trouble was getting the vote out in Livingston county. Had the people gone out down there like they did in Crittenden, his majority would easily have been 1000. But what he has, ought to satisfy any reasonable man, and appreciating what is his own county did, Crittenden Democrats will not fall out with Livingston because of what she might have done, had the old girl not been asleep. Some of these days, however, the Democrats of Livingston are going to be caught napping, and licked out of their boots.

Though defeated Sam Nunn has made a great race. Two years ago the opposition was elected by 800 majority. One year ago the opposition to the Democracy in the three counties was 1200, Sam is defeated by less than 200 votes. In Webster county he runs over two hundred votes a head of the county ticket. In his home county, under all of the circumstances, he has made a phenomenal race. Harrison carried the county by a majority of 196; the Third Party vote was about 150 last year, the opposition combined against Sam, yet he lost the county by only 197 votes. If any candidate in the fight has anything to be proud of Sam has, and that thing is the vote of his home precinct—Bell's Mines. It gives him a bigger majority than it ever gave any Democrat before; it surpassed the expectations of everybody, and it is a testimonial to the popularity of the gallant Democrat that no one can gain say. Whatever other people may say of Sam, his home people give him an endorsement that any man would be proud of. Sam made a great race, but the odds were against him, as they would have been against any Democrat, from the start. No man in the district could have done better.

Another Damage Suit. W. H. Tabor, has filed suit against M. F. Pogue, the post-master at Francis, this county. He asks for $5,000 damages, alleging that the defendant published in Freedom certain matters derogatory to plaintiffs character. The petition is pretty lengthy setting forth that both the plaintiff and defendant are Masons, and that J. T. Morgan to whom the defendant wrote the letter complained of, is a Mason.

Mr. T. J. Hill, formerly of the Princeton Banner, has taken charge of the Dexter City (Mo.) Enterprise, and will devote his talent and energy to making that a good paper. He will succeed for he has plenty of both of the qualities mentioned, and besides being a splendid newspaper man he is a sterling young man in every particular, and will prove to be a valuable addition to the flourishing little city of Dexter. It is a source of pleasure to commend Tom Hill to any good people.

A Big Land Sale.

Col. J. R. Hewlett has sold his Goose creek farm of 277 acres of land to Mr. J. A. Stegar at $87.50 per acre. This is the highest price ever paid in the county for a large body of land away from the city limits. It is known as one of the finest farms in the county, and is generally regarded as worth all that was paid for it. Mr. Stegar has sold 120 acres of it to Nelson Cash at the same price. Good land in this county is rapidly advancing in price and the holders are generally averse to selling unless fancy figures are obtained.—Princeton Banner.

Dycusburg Election.

Chas. Burks, J. M. Graves, S. M. Yancey, P. K. Cooksey and F. D. Ramage were elected Trustees of Dycusburg, Geo. E. Graves was elected Police Judge and J. B. Wadlington, Marshal.

Mr. J. B. Hubbard has moved to Marion from Shady Grove.

Livingston County.

P. C. Barnett to Thos T. Barnett 32 1/2 acres, deed of gift.

KILLED AT EDDYVILLE.

Wadlington, the Marshal of Eddyville Kills Tobe Watson.

A tragedy occurred at Eddyville Saturday afternoon, and the chief actors were Tobe Watson, a young business man, engaged in the grocery business, and — Wadlington, the Marshal of Eddyville. Watson is dead and Wadlington is charged with killing him. The particulars of the affair are substantially as follows: Wadlington owed Watson a grocery bill, and he gave the account to a constable for collection; the constable called twice upon the Marshal with the account, the second time Wadlington became angry, and used Watson's name in conjunction with very harsh language, Watson heard the words, a quarrel ensued, Watson turned to leave when Wadlington struck him on the back of the head with a cane. Parties interfered and Watson went home complaining of a peculiar sensation about his head; in a short time he was unconscious and at 12 o'clock Saturday night he died from the effects of the blow, Wadlington was immediately arrested.

Young Watson lived a while at Marion five years ago, and was partially raised in the neighborhood of Crayneville, this county.

Both men are well thought of at Eddyville, and the affair, like of its kind, is a lamentable one. Messrs James & James, of this place have been employed to prosecute Wadlington, County Attorney Martin being unable to attend court. It is said that all the members of the Eddyville bar have been employed by the defense.
