A WATER WHEAT IS A DRUG.

Why Production and the Stifling Hand of the Faxes by the Powers.

DOOLALLY WHEAT MAY NEVER BE SEEN IN THE EAST.

Chicago, March 4—The Herald has published, under the caption, "Doolally Wheat," a letter from a friend in Mississippi, which describes the filthy system of production and the disastrous effect on the wheat crop.

"At the present time," the friend writes, "the cost of wheat production is approximately $1,000,000, and the yield per acre is about 1,000 bushels. The average price of wheat in the East is $1.50 per bushel, while in the West it is $1.00 per bushel. Therefore, the profit on each acre is from $500 to $600.

"This system has been in operation for several years, and the results have been disappointing. The wheat is of poor quality, and the farmers have been losing money.

"The government has attempted to help the farmers by providing loans, but the farmers have not been able to repay the loans. The government has also attempted to control the production of wheat by limiting the acreage planted, but this has not been effective.

"The wheat is transported to the East by rail, and the cost of transportation is approximately $3 per bushel. The farmers are unable to sell the wheat at the prices they receive, and they are forced to store it.

"The prices for wheat in the East are regulated by the government, and the farmers are unable to sell the wheat at a profit.

"The government has attempted to provide a market for the farmers by establishing purchase pools, but this has not been effective. The government has also attempted to control the production of wheat by limiting the acreage planted, but this has not been effective.
