ABSOLUTELY PURE

LINDSEY TALKS.

Kentucky's Brainy Junior Senator Enthusias the Democracy of Louisville.

On Wednesday evening of last week United States Senator Wm. Lindsey addressed a big gathering of Democrats at Louisville. Among other things he said:

The Senate went further and better than the House in reducing the tax on woolen goods. In this removing an iniquitous taxation the Senate bill was preferable to the House bill. By this reduction the Democratic party saved the people of the United States from paying $250,000,000 a year, which they have been paying, and if the Democratic party had accomplished nothing else, it would yet have deserved the lasting gratitude and the entire confidence of the American people.

Senator Lindsey showed how Grant, Arthur, Garfield and various Republican leaders had favored lower taxation, or a species of reform; high tariff had been but a make-shift with the Republican party until McKinley came along and declared high tariff to be a "principle" of the Republican party.

During a discussion of the tariff on sugar, Senator Lindsey showed that under the McKinley Bill the sum of $10,000,000 was drawn out of the Treasury of the United States annually as a bounty to the Louisiana sugar growers. At this point he told that without the votes of the two Senators from Louisiana the Democrats could not have passed a bill to supplant the McKinley bill, "and yet we hear that the tariff bill was framed in the interest of the sugar growers in the South, in favor of this and that, and God knows how many trusts." Then he described how protection was the father of trusts, and argued the fallacy of opinions among those Democrats who would favor the McKinley bill as compared with the present bill. The effect of the McKinley bill had been to raise sugar stock in the market from $56 to $134 a share. When the McKinley bill was introduced the fares leaped from $56 to $95, and as soon as the McKinley bill became a law, that stock went to $134.

The Democrats had, on account of sugar state Senators, been unable to do away with all of this, but the Democrats were able to lower the bounty, so that, though the bill has been in force but six weeks, shares of sugar stock are now selling at $84, and were selling at $115 when the bill was passed. He said that there were forty Democrats to vote to repeal all of the protection for sugar, and if the Republican Senators would contribute four votes the last vestige of this iniquitous trust would be wiped out. He did not believe that the Republicans would do this, for too many Republican Senators had remained silent in their seats, absolutely refusing to answer to their names, when they recently did have the opportunity to destroy trusts, which they now charge the Democrats with and make pretenses of deploring.

A dropping of a pin could almost have been heard in the house when Senator Lindsey discussed the labor question in connection with high or low tariff. He showed that the protected manufacturer at once made war upon the laborer as soon as a reduction of the tariff was broached, and made this war for the purpose of maintaining or increasing the protecting tariff. The laborer was considered the least resisting force, and by declaring that they would have to reduce his daily pay, the protected manufacturer sought to intimidate those advocating tariff reduction or reform. No manufacturer ever said that he would have to be content with smaller profits; that the Board of Directors would have to cut the salary of the President, or of the Secretary, or of themselves. It was always the laborer's pay that had to be cut. History did not bear out these facts. Notwithstanding the heavy reduction on woolen goods, the coat makers had recently gone on a strike, and had been taken back at the price they demanded.

The clockmakers have just won a strike whereby they go back to work at increased prices. This and more has happened under the present Tariff Bill, and in these instances the new bill made the heaviest reduction on the material involved in the manufacture of these evils.

As further bearing upon high and low tariff Senator Lindsey briefly reviewed the strikes in this country, taking up the panic in 1873, subsequent strikes, including the Homestead strike, to prove that reduction of the tariff could not be held up as a cause of these evils.

The fallacy of the argument of protectionists was touched upon with convincing clearness, and in closing this feature of his address he said that you can not protect the wheat grower or the cotton raiser because they raise more than they can sell in America, and must go abroad to a market where they have to compete under a free trade. He created laughter by declaring that "we have in this country a man named Reed, who is down in the country districts of Maine telling the people to send Representatives to Washington who will just let the tariff alone for a little while, give the people a breathing spell and all would be well." Then referring to McKinley, Senator Lindsey remarked: "I would like to hear him say that he will favor the restoration of the former tariff on articles which I have named," meaning woolen goods and the like which he had read from the list.

The complaint of the Republicans now, he said, was not that the Democrats had done what they should not have done, but that they had failed to undo in one year all of the devilry that the Republicans had done in 30 years.

Senator Lindsey next took up finance, and demonstrated the unfortunate, hampered condition to which the Republicans had brought the United States Treasury, especially in cutting off means of getting gold into the Treasury, through binding the government to pay off so many obligations in gold.

In conclusion, he expressed an abiding faith in the good judgment of the American people and in the ability of the Democratic party to lead the people right.

Not a Candidate.

There have been conflicting dispatches; some telling that Secretary Carlisle would be a candidate for United States Senator, and others denying the report. The following from the Paducah Standard, the editor of which is Secretary Carlisle's private Secretary, may be considered as reliable:

"With a full understanding of its great difficulties, Secretary Carlisle assumed the Treasury portfolio, and after two years of struggling to overcome almost insurmountable obstacles he has reached comparatively smooth sailing. There is now a steadily increasing balance in the Treasury, the financial clouds have melted by, every government obligation is promptly paid as it falls due. A renewal bill has been enacted which produces ample means to meet governmental expenses, the offices have all been filled and the place hunters have retired to the rear. In the future he can devote his time to financial and administrative reforms, a work for which his great gifts have peculiarly fitted him, and in which he takes great satisfaction. His relations with the President are most cordial, and he is the most trusted and influential member of the cabinet. Furthermore, the Senatorial term will begin March 5, 1896, and should he be a successful candidate he would have to retire from the cabinet at the close of his third year as Secretary, and before he had accomplished all the results contemplated when he accepted the position.

It is conceded that if Secretary Carlisle had not voluntarily retired from the Senate he would have been re-elected without opposition at the close of each term so long as he lived. Why should he contest now for what he voluntarily relinquished two years ago? Secretary Carlisle does not feel called upon to be constantly reiterating to the public that he is not a candidate for Senator, but those who are familiar with his views on the subject know that he will not now nor will he next year a Senatorial candidate. He prefers to remain in the Cabinet as Secretary of the Treasury.

LAND OF HOMES

Statistics of Ownership and Indebtedness in Kentucky.

The Citizens of the State Appear in Excellent Financial Condition.

Washington, Oct. 19.—The census office this evening issued a bulletin giving statistics of ownership and debt in Kentucky. The report deals with farms, homes and mortgages and shows that the State is in good financial condition.

In regard to farms, the report says the conclusion is that 34.73 per cent. of the farm families hire, and 65.27 per cent. own the farms cultivated by them; that 1.06 of the farm owning families own subject to encumbrance, and 98.94 per cent. own free of encumbrance. Among one hundred farm families thirty-five hire their farms, three own with encumbrance, and sixty-two own without encumbrance. On the owned farms there are liens amounting to $5,336,854; which is 40.11 per cent. of their value, and this debt bears interest at the average rate of 6.68 per cent. making the annual average interest charge $71 to each family. Each owned and encumbered farm on the average is worth $2,065, and is subject to a debt of $1,009.

The corresponding facts for homes are that 67.98 per cent. of the home families hire and 32.02 per cent. own their homes; that of the home owning families 93.21 per cent. own free of encumbrance, and 6.79 per cent. with encumbrance. In one hundred home families, on the average, 68 hire their homes, 2 own with encumbrance and thirty without encumbrance. The debt on owned homes aggregates $3,034,684 or 31.74 per cent. of their value, and bears interest at the average rate of 6.74 per cent. so that the annual amount of interest to each home averages $57. An average debt of $842 incumbers each home, and which has the average value of $2,651.

There are six cities in the State in the class of those having a population of 8,000 to 100,000, and in these cities 68.59 per cent. of the families hire and 31.41 per cent. own their homes. Of the home owning families 8.59 per cent. own with encumbrance and 91.41 per cent. own free of encumbrance. In one hundred home families, on the average are found 68 that hire their homes, 3 that own with encumbrance, and 29 that own without encumbrance. The debt on the owned homes are 27.89 per cent. of the value of those subject to lien. Several averages show that the rate of interest is 7.18 per cent., value of each owned and encumbered home $4,540; lien on the same, $1,260, and the yearly interest charges on each home $91.

In Louisville, 75.68 per cent. of the home families hire and 24.32 per cent. own their homes; 7.46 per cent. of the home owning families have encumbrances on their homes and 92.54 per cent. own and occupy homes free of encumbrance. Among one hundred families, on the average, 76 hire their homes, 2 own with encumbrance and 22 without encumbrance. Average for each owned and encumbered home: Incumbrance $557; value $2,654. Interest charge for one year, $33; rate of interest 6 per cent; homes are encumbered for 21 per cent. of their value.

Real estate purchase and improvement, when not associated with other objects, caused 71.05 per cent. of the farm families to incur 62.25 per cent. of the farm debt and 76.87 per cent. of the home families to incur 63.95 per cent. of the home debt.

The Discovery Saved His Life.

Mr. G. Caillouette, Druggist, Beaverville, Ill., says: "To Dr. King's New Discovery I owe my life. Was taken with La Grippe and tried all the physicians for miles about, but of no avail, and was given up and told I could not live. Having Dr. King's New Discovery in my store I sent for a bottle and began its use and from the first dose began to get better, and after using three bottles was up and about again. It is worth its weight in gold. We won't keep store or house without it." Get a free trial at H. K. Woods drug store.

FOUR THIS TIME.

They Seize $20,000 in Thirty Minutes.

A Hold-Up on the Texas Pacific at High Noon.

Fort Worth, Texas, October 19.—

The west bound Texas and Pacific through train for California, leaving here at 9 a. m., was robbed about 12 o'clock today, seventy miles west of here, near Gordon. The robbers secured about $20,000 from the Pacific express company, and but for their inability to open the safe of the Texas and Pacific coal company, containing $20,000 in gold, would have made a better haul. Four men did the deed. They came upon a section gang about noon, covered them with Winchester rifles and forced them to spread the rails and flag the oncoming train. The engineer and fireman were then lined up with the section gang, and guarded, while two men entered the express car and confronted the messenger before he was aware of their presence. Messenger Marshall was ordered to open the safe containing the money of the Texas and Pacific company. Telling them he could not do this, they seized a pick and ruined the combination, remarking, "If we can't get that money those d—d miners at Thurber don't." The robbers fled southward, and no trace of them has yet been secured. Rewards aggregating $1,000 have been offered for their arrest. The money secured was taken from the way safe.

The train crew first saw something was wrong when they were four miles east of Gordon. After two of the robbers had covered the engineer and fireman with Winchester rifles, two more of the gang made their appearance. Taking two then looted the express car taking every valuable package except those in the through safe. When the robbers disappeared the train was run with the throttle wide open, to Gordon, from which point the railway, express and county officers were notified by telegraph of the crime. Poses were turned at once to pursue the bandits. When the train arrived at Thurber, an engine loaded with a posse armed for business was found waiting under a full head of steam, and it, as hurried to the scene of the daring hold-up. Marshall, the express messenger, refused to say anything about the robbery. [They was no attempt on the part of the robbers to conceal their faces with masks or anything else. The robbers escaped into the grand canyon, which was only two hundred yards from where the robbery was stopped. The place of the robbery was a pass cut through the mountains.

MORE OF BRECK.

How Will Madeline Get Her Money from Willie?

Washington, Oct. 19.—On a motion by Mr. Calderon Carlisle, counsel for Madeline Pollard in the case of Pollard vs. W. C. P. Breckinridge, of Kentucky, the court of appeals for the District of Columbia ordered the appeal which had been asked for in this case stricken from the docket of the court on the ground that it had not been entered within the statutory time. This ends the litigation as far as the courts of the district are concerned and leaves the plaintiff free to collect her reward of $15,000 and costs from Colonel Breckinridge when and however she can. Col. Breckinridge's salary for the remainder of his congressional term is exempt by law from seizure, and there is no provision in the law of the District of Columbia, as there is on the statutes of some of the States, for the arrest and detention of any person about to leave the jurisdiction of the State without complying with the judgments of its courts.

DEATHS CRUEL BLOW.

Governor Brown's Daughter Susan Yields to Remorseless Consumption.

Frankfort, Ky., Oct. 20.—Miss Susan Brown, daughter of Governor Brown, died at the executive mansion at 9:30 o'clock this morning, after an illness of about six months. Miss Brown was the second daughter of the Governor, and was a highly accomplished and beautiful young woman. She had just passed her 23d birthday; consumption was the cause.

Though an invalid for many weary weeks she bore her suffering with remarkable fortitude and patience, and by her lovely disposition won the hearts of many sympathizing friends at the State capital. She has long been a sufferer from weak lungs, and about a year ago consumption began to slowly develop. The best of medical skill was employed, but she has been in a dying condition for several weeks. The remains were embalmed this morning and will be taken to Henderson Monday afternoon. The funeral services will occur in that city on Tuesday. Governor Brown was greatly attached to his beautiful daughter and his grief is intense.

The Distillers Organize.

The distillers of Kentucky formed an association at Louisville last week, under the name of the Kentucky Distillers Association. It was unanimously agreed that the production should not exceed 15,000,000 gallons. The amount each distiller is allowed to manufacture is to be allotted by a table of percentage, based on the capacity of the plant and the volume of business of previous years. The schedule of percentage is to be fixed by the Board of Managers of the new association.

This curtailing is to prevent distillers from giving way to the natural tendency of over production which arises through the passage of the new law, and will spot the predictions of those prophets who stated that Kentucky distillers would manufacture 60,000,000 gallons of liquor in one year under the new eight year bonded period.

A committee was appointed to go to Frankfort and protest against a high tax valuation of whisky. It is complained that eleven dollars a barrel on whisky is too high, and the committee will seek to have it reduced. The committee will visit Frankfort at once, for the reason that all protests and arguments must be in by October 22.

Paris, Oct. 19.—The annual ceremony of placing an emblem upon the tomb of General Lafayette was participated in today by upwards of 150 Americans. Several members of the Lafayette family were also among the participants.

SHOT DOWN.

An Attempted Lynching Causes Bloodshed in Ohio.

Washington C. H., O., Oct. 17.—The attempt of a mob to lynch Wm. Dolby, a negro prisoner, after he had been tried and sentenced to twenty years in prison, resulted in a terrible tragedy here this evening. The effort to save the prisoner has caused the lives of three persons and two others are fatally wounded. Probably a dozen more are injured, some of them seriously. They were shot by the militia guarding the jail, who fired upon an attacking party.

It is claimed that the persons shot were standing in the street and taking no part in the assault upon the jail. The people are frenzied and threaten to dynamite the court house. Additional troops have been ordered from Cincinnati, Columbus, Chillicothe and other points.

Wm. Dolby, the negro whom the mob sought, one week ago criminally assaulted Mrs. Mary C. Boyd, aged 55 years, at Parrots Station, near here, and was captured at Delaware, Ohio. He was brought into court at 4 o'clock this afternoon and pleaded guilty, receiving a sentence of twenty years in the penitentiary.

HERE'S TROUBLE.

Chinese Concerned in a Rumpus in Chicago.

Chicago, Oct. 21.—The Chinese of this city are excited and the fire department is worried over the fact that a celestial bulletin has been issued offering $500 reward for the death of Inspector Conway, or Inspector Currie, of the city fire department. Some time ago a Chinese witness in an arson case disappeared. The police authorities looked high and low for the man, but the power of the Six Companies was great. Then to break the spirit of the heathen the police began the system of raids that landed from thirty to forty Mongols in the station house each night for playing fan tan or opium smoking. This disconcerted the Chinese and yesterday a yellow informant told the detectives that circulars had been distributed among the faithful offering the above reward for the death of either of the two inspectors, who had been so active in pursuing him.

The informant said that negotiations had been conducted with New York Highlanders, looking toward the having of an Eastern thug to come out West and end the existence of the two inspectors.

ANOTHER BATTLE.

Said to Have Been Fought on the Yalu River.

London, Oct. 20.—A dispatch received here today from Shanghai says that, according to Chinese advice, a severe battle has been fought on the lower portion of the Yalu river. The Japanese are said to have crossed the river, and to have attacked the Chinese, but it is reported that after very fierce fighting the Japanese were repulsed. Both sides are said to have lost heavily.

The Chinese do not claim a decisive victory, but they declare that they will maintain their position at every hazard. No confirmation of the dispatch is obtainable, but it is thought probable that fighting has actually occurred.

Nothing short of death satisfies the Ohio people as a punishment for men who have killed their wives and daughters. Thus it is everywhere.

President Cleveland and family have left Gray Gables for Washington by way of New York. It is stated that while in New York the President will make a speech endorsing the State ticket and recommending the election of Senator Hill.

In the death of his lovely young daughter, Gov. Brown and family have been stricken a severe blow, and the sympathies of this people will go out to the stricken ones spontaneously. An association at Chicago proposes to engage lecturers and begin a crusade throughout the country against gambling. May Good speed them on to a successful fight against the mighty evil; but why not nominate candidates, adopt a platform, and go into politics and bust up the old parties, for there are a whole lot of fellows in the old parties who gamble.

Courier-Journal: The famous case of O'Connor and others against the Henderson Bridge Company, which was tried twice here and once in the Court of Appeals, has been finally settled in accordance with the judgment of the Court of Appeals, by the payment to the plaintiffs of $128,197.24.

A prominent Republican just returned from the Eleventh Kentucky District, says Colon will be elected, but by a very small margin over his Democratic opponent. When a Republican is forced to admit so much, you can bet big money that the Democrat is going to get there. Look for a solid Democratic Congressional delegation from Kentucky.

Senator Hill is arousing the old time enthusiasm among the Democracy of New York, wherever he speaks. The party differences in New York city are in a fair way of settlement, and everything indicates a sweeping Democratic victory. In fact, the very life of the party in that State is involved in the present contest and the rack and file are beginning to appreciate this fact.

Ex-Vice President Morton, present Republican candidate for Governor of New York, recently imported from England an English coachman. This being a clear violation of the contract labor law, the attention of the proper authorities was called to the matter, who after a thorough investigation ordered the coachman to be sent back. Mr. Morton is a nice man to put forward as the champion of "home industry."

Henry Cless, in his last financial statement, takes a hopeful view of the situation. All branches of trade are prospering, the first impulse of improvement being followed up by a second. Mr. Cless says: "The symptoms of growing confidence in the market are unmistakable, and sagacious operators are looking for an early improvement in prices, though more disposed to wait for a fuller maturity of conditions than to precipitate a rise prematurely." Each day seems to more fully vindicate the wisdom of those who framed the new tariff.

That Road Tax.

EDITOR PRESS: As you referred to a road tax in your columns a few weeks ago, and so far have not been visited by a mob, or white caps, I desire to venture a suggestion along that line. There is an immense sum of money, comparatively speaking, spent for "plows and teams on road," and for road tools. This money, as you indicated, is raised by taxation, and no matter what our system of road working is called, it is, in great measure, a taxation system. I believe that if the money now spent this way was expended on the roads under a regular work-by-taxation system, the results would be more satisfactory. As the money is now expended, no one man feels any great responsibility for its economical use; hence I believe a great deal of it is wasted by careless working or no working at all, because lots of the time that a team puts in on the road is consumed in resting, and the hands who work the road also do a good deal of resting, and the overseers, as a rule, have no serious objection to "resting" too. These peculiar features of public road working are so well known that no man who has ever spent a day on the road with pick, hoe, or axe, will deny them. Now suppose the road was under contract, and the contractor under bond to do the work for a certain amount of money, does any one suppose his teams or hands would be so given to resting? No sir. Hence I believe it would take but little more money, if any, to work the roads by taxation than is at present collected by taxes. I may find myself in error, when the amount expended for plows and teams is known. I hope some one will investigate and report the amount in these columns.

If the amount is found too small, then I have this additional suggestion. Add to the money the labor of each road hand in the county. Each hand, I believe, is required to work no more than six days. Tax each man with the six days work, let him work or pay his dollar a day. Put the roads under contract, require a contractor to give bond, and give him the money now used on the public roads and the six days work of each road hand, and we will have better roads by far, because the contractor will have work, not play; rush, not rest. Of course there are people who would object to this. I might be one of the objectors, because a number of us would prefer no work and bad roads to six days hard work and good roads. We all pretend to want good roads, but we want them without work. We want nature, God or the government to say: "Let there be good roads and there were good roads."

A ROAD WORKER.

Campaign Literature.

Washington, Oct. 20.—The work of the Republican and Democratic congressional headquarters, so far as the promulgation of literature is concerned, practically closes this week. Millions of documents have been sent out from the headquarters, but the managers now consider the time for literary proselytizing is past.

At both headquarters apparent confidence is manifested in the result in November, and each claims a majority of the next House. The Democratic managers assert that the situation has improved perceptibly from their point of view with the settling of business uncertainty and the revival of trade, while the Republicans with equal emphasis not only claim a great reaction everywhere against the Democratic party, as a result of the tariff and other legislation, of the last Congress, but deny there has been any trade revival.

It is stated that George M. Pullman, the palace car magnate, is interfering in the Indiana elections. A dispatch from Indianapolis of October 22d says: "George M. Pullman has sent $60,000 into this State for the purpose of securing control of the Legislature. The money was brought to Indianapolis on the morning of October 13, by three well known Republicans of Indiana, one of whom hails from South Bend; one from Indianapolis and one from Evansville."

The recent speech-making tour of Vice President Stevenson through Illinois and Missouri has been one grand ovation from start to finish. Everywhere large crowds greeted him, and the enthusiasm was intense. Evidently Adlai is rapidly entangling himself amid the heart-strings of the masses.

Courier-Journal: The brains and tongues of those who are interested in the peace of Europe are busy in the capitals of the old world, discussing the possible consequences of the death of the Czar. It now seems certain that the end is not far off, reports having reached Berlin from Livadia to the effect that the patient has suffered severely from blood poisoning, consequent upon discharges of the kidney secretions into the blood vessels.

THE NEWS.

It is now no longer a question of saving the life of the Czar of Russia; the physicians are bending every effort to prolong his life until the marriage of the Czar to the Princess Alex. Great fears are entertained that the death of the Czar may seriously disturb the peace of Europe.

Dispatches state that the price of wool in West Virginia has risen and is still on the upward grade in that section. This is a natural sequence of free wool. Under the high protection of the McKinley bill wool steadily declined, and under a free wool tariff the reverse is now being demonstrated.

The Democratic party of the city of New York seems split into two irreconcilable factions, which bids fair to result in the loss of two or more Democratic Congressmen. Strauss, the Tammany candidate for Mayor, has withdrawn. He attempted to dictate to Senator Hill how the State canvass should be run, but was plainly told by Hill that as he had been forced on the ticket against his will he intended to run the State campaign to suit himself. And the Senator is right.

A serious state of affairs now exists in the Indian Territory. The country is literally overrun with desperadoes, and neither life or property is safe. The express companies have refused to handle money in the Territory and no man's life is safe if he is known to have money in his possession. This state of affairs certainly calls loudly for immediate and thorough "reconstruction."

The express companies will either have to go out of business so far as the carrying of large sums of money is concerned, or else furnish guards to protect their messengers. A perfect mania of train robbery now seems to be abroad in the land, and so bold are the rascals becoming that in Texas a few days ago they halted a train in broad daylight and robbed the safe of a large sum of money without any effort at concealment, and then rode off into the mountains.

Last Sunday night five negroes were lynched in South Carolina for the murder of Robert Copes, Treasurer of Orangeburg county. He was a very popular officer, and some five hundred persons joined in the lynching. Bloodhounds tracked down the murderers.

The Republicans of the Eleventh Congressional district of this State have a nice family quarrel on their hands, and are "all tured up." The Democrats, on the contrary, are united and enthusiastic, and it now seems that this Republican Gibraltar may be wrested from them.

Congressman Wilson, of West Virginia, is making a gallant fight and every indication now points to his triumphant re-election. The Republicans would move the mountains of his native State, were such a thing possible, in order to encompass his defeat, and have sent some of their best speakers in to his district.

Both the Democrats and Republicans are figuring on large majorities in Illinois, the Democrats claiming the State by a plurality of 10,000 and the Republicans by 30,000. At Democratic headquarters it is confidently asserted that the Republicans have no hope of carrying the Legislature under the present apportionment, and that McVeigh is certain to be elected Senator.

During his recent speech in New Orleans Gov. McKinley fraternized with the disgruntled sugar planters and cordially welcomed them into the Republican fold. It has been demonstrated that had the area of sugar cane planting increased in the same ratio during the past ten years that it has since the sugar bounty law went into effect four years ago, it would take over one hundred million dollars annually to pay the bounty. Just think of it!

The Sheriff of Livingston county has given notice that he will, on December 20, open a poll book at each voting precinct in that county for the purpose of taking the sense of the legal voters of said county who are qualified to vote at elections, on the proposition whether or not spirituous, vinous or malt liquors shall be sold, bartered or loaned in said county and all interested may conform themselves to the order. Mr. Sheriff is getting that election aggravatingly close to the Christmas egg-nogg.

The Schools as I Find Them.

Tuesday, Oct. 9, I found myself in the little village of Crayneville. The school house was easily found. I was met at the door by Mr. M. F. Pogue, the teacher. Going in I found a good, large school, busy with their work. The order of the school was good, but capable of some improvement. The teacher told me that great improvement had been made since school began, and he hoped in the course of a few weeks to get perfect discipline. He insisted that I call again before school closes and see if there is not great improvement. If I can I shall do so. Mr. Pogue is well qualified for his work. As a teacher he appears to be very energetic; he does his work in a lively way that animates all his classes. Here I noticed for the first time, the teachers programme on the wall; it is a good place for it. I also noticed some good charts; on inquiry I found that they belonged to the teacher; all the lessons I heard were recited well. The school house is tolerably good; it has lately been scathed with patent furniture. The teacher told me that the old seats were relegated to the past without a tearful regret from anybody. I spent the night at the pleasant home of Mr. Tom Jacobs. The next morning the train soon left me at Ansonia, and a short walk brought me to Cookeville. The pleasant voice of Mr. E. H. Mott invited me to come in and take the rocking chair. The chair rocked because it could not help it. I found a very full school; so full indeed that I suspected that the teacher might have been selected on account of the small space he could occupy. The house is tolerably good, but too small for the district. There were not seats enough for all the pupils. The teacher found a way out of the dilemma by keeping a class on the floor all the time. The same bell that dismissed one class called the next, and by the time the pupils could get back to their seats, they found room enough vacated for them somewhere to sit down. As little as you might think it, there was scarcely any confusion on account of this. Mr. Mott is surely one of the greatest generals of the age. The people think of enlarging their house and recasting it before another term. Here, again, I found the programme on the wall, the lessons well recited, industrious work, and a good order prevailing. Mr. Mott has a greater facility for getting work off rapidly and accurately than any one I have seen. I believe this is his fourth term at Cookeville. I took supper with the teacher and then took the train for Fredonia.

A pleasant drive the next morning brought me to Jackson school house. The house is in a pretty place. The country is undulating and you can see a good part of three counties. As I looked out over the beautiful panorama of fields and hills, I thought surely such a prospect will inspire the children with noble aims. The interior of the house presented an attractive appearance. The walls are of bright brown plaster; between the windows, over the doors and blackboards, were printed with chalk some beautiful mottoes. I supposed they had been placed there a few days before by the teacher, but on inquiry I found they had been placed there 13 years ago by Mr. Henry Cobb, and the present teacher had grown up under their influence. How many times have tired eyes rested on their beautiful outlines and weary souls been strengthened by their precepts. The teacher, Miss May Jackson, told me that she had sat under those mottoes year after year, and had learned to love them as faithful friends and monitors. Their outlines were beginning to grow dim, but she had carefully retouched them since school began. As long as that house stands, I hope the mottoes will be kept bright. Other teachers have followed the example of Mr. Cobb and added to those mottoes; Mr. Mack McKinney four, 12 years ago; and Mr. R. B. Gass placed two pretty ones in cedar over the windows a few years ago. I found the house further beautified with bouquets of autumn leaves. Teachers, if you have never tried, you do not know how a touch or two will brighten up your school room. This is Miss Jackson's first public school, but she is succeeding in every particular, if I am a competent judge. I hope she will put a veto upon the old opinion that a teacher can not succeed well in his home district.

Ben Carroll Probably Fatally Wounds Him With a Pistol.

News reached here yesterday of a shooting which is reported to have taken place on the evening before in the Bells Mines country near Weston in which Wm. Goode, Jr., was seriously, if not fatally wounded by Ben Carroll. The particulars, as we have learned them, are about these: Ben is young men and live in the same neighborhood. Goode had sold Carroll a hog, but had not paid him for it. Goode was owing E. C. Moore, and the latter had the money attached in Carroll's hands. Goode is said to have made some threatening remarks about Carroll, saying that he should pay him, and not Moore. Goode, therefore, went over to Carroll's house, or met up with him somewhere else, and demanded the money, which Carroll refused to pay over. A dispute then arose which resulted in the shooting, as above mentioned. Goode's wound was inflicted in his right side, the ball coming out through the abdomen. The wounded man is a son of Wm. Goode, who has charge of the county poor house.

LATER.—Late reports from the Carroll-Goode shooting affair say that the wounds of the latter are serious, but not necessarily fatal. Five or more shots were fired by each party, but only one took effect. No warrants have been issued or arrests been made up to this date.

Sam Hazel Wounded.
It is reported that on Monday afternoon, somewhere on the public road near Mattoon, in Bells Mines precinct in this county, an unfriendly dispute arose between some parties, resulting in a fight, in which Sam Hazel received a knife wound at the hands of Mathew Brantley. It appears that the last named gentleman and Will Arfack had been to Marion and were returning home in a wagon. While going along the road near the above named place, Sam Hazel and John Imboden, who had also been to town and were said to have been considerably under the influence of intoxicating drink, came up also in a wagon and ran into the vehicle of Brantley and Arfack, causing a general smash-up. Whether the collision occurred by accident or purposely is unknown, but the occurrence was followed by angry words, which resulted as above mentioned. Whether the wound Hazel received was serious, or that either of the other parties were hurt in the fight we are unable to say.

They are suspected of being connected with the Barry Rich gang.

ANOTHER MOB.

This Time it is Gabe Nall and Son Who Are the Victims Sought.

It is reported by gentlemen coming up from Bells Mines that that part of the county has been visited by another mob. On Tuesday night a company of one hundred men went to the house of Gabe Nall, in search of the old man and his son. The Nalls, however, were elsewhere at that time, and could not be found. Nall and his son were by some suspected to have been connected in some way with William Goode and Berry Rich, the latter of whom, it will be remembered, suffered death at the hands of a similar mob only a few weeks ago near the same locality. It seems that old man Nall and his son, like Wm. Goode, had left that part of the country shortly after the hanging of Berry Rich took place, and their whereabouts were unknown. It was rumored, however, in that part of the country a few days ago that the Nalls had returned and were at home. Hence the mob. There is little doubt that, had the father and son been at home, they would have shared the fate of Berry Rich.

Miss Ada James Dead.
Miss Ada James, daughter of Hon. L. H. James, died Saturday, at her home in Marion, after a prolonged illness. For months her friends and physicians had despaired of her recovery and knew it was only a matter of time when she would pass from earth. The end came, her short but beautiful life was over. Her remains were buried in the family lot at the new cemetery Sunday afternoon, Revs. J. V. Gaudre and J. F. Price conducting the funeral services.

Miss Ada was, at the time of her death, in her twentieth year. She was admired by all who knew her, was popular with all her associates, young and old, and was loved by all her friends. She was a member of the Methodist church, south, at this place and was a consistent Christian. She was a graduate of the Russellville Female college and started out in life with the prospect of a bright future before her. But scarcely were her school days over and she had returned home when the dreaded disease seized upon her and resulted in her death.

Quarterly Court.
Quarterly court convened Monday, with Judge Moore on the bench. The following cases were disposed of:
Richard Williams vs. Henry Stone, on account; judgment for defendant.
Walker & Olive vs. Farmer Birch, on account; judgment for plaintiff.
C. C. Woodall vs. George Wetzel order of delivery; dismissed settled.
J. N. Woods, adm'r for T. J. Cameron, vs. D. S. F. Crider, on account; judgment for defendant.
W. H. Copher vs. Quint Cuyers, on account; dismissed settled.
Walter A. Wood Machine Co. vs. R. D. Moore and others; judgment for plaintiff.
J. S. James vs. D. M. Daniel, on note; judgment for plaintiff.
Matthew Brantley vs. A. T. Caps, on note of $15 and account of $10; judgment for plaintiff for $4.50.

Woolridge-McChesney.
Cards are out announcing the marriage at 7:30 o'clock this evening of Mr. H. D. Woolridge and Miss Sallie McChesney. The ceremony will take place at the Union Church in Salem. The contracting parties are both popular young people of Livingston county. Mr. Woolridge made Marion his home for a number of years and has friends here by the score. Miss McChesney also has many acquaintances and friends here who join the Press in wishing the young couple success in life.

On Friday evening of last week a party of young society folks assembled at the hospitable residence of Mr. C. E. Das, and if they did not exactly "chase the glowing hours with flying feet," they at least managed to have a gloriously good time, and to go home with a kindly feeling toward the whole world and their genial entertainers in particular.

A petition signed by a large number of voters of Livingston county, asked David Adams to become a candidate for the Legislature. He answered in the affirmative. Mr. Adams is one of the best men in Livingston county.

Mr. W. H. Ruffin, of the Shady Grove neighborhood, leaves this week for Missouri, where he expects to reside.

A saw mill belonging to Henry Bell, located near Shady Grove, was destroyed by fire Tuesday night. Loss about $500.

HURRICANE LODGE, No. 571, F. & A. M., Sheridan, Ky.) Whereas it hath pleased Almighty God to call from his labor to rest, our beloved brother, Dr. J. L. Paris, who died Oct. 12, 1894, after suffering intensely for ten months. Resolved, 1st. That in the death of Bro. Paris the Masonic Fraternity has lost a devoted brother, the church a faithful brother, the afflicted a faithful doctor, the community a useful citizen.

2nd. We deeply deplore the sad dispensation of Providence in depriving us of a valuable co-laborer, the widow and children a devoted husband and father.

3rd. We tender the bereaved widow and children our sincere and heartfelt sympathy in their sad bereavement.

4th. That these resolutions be spread upon the record of the lodge, that a copy be sent to the family of the deceased, and that a copy be sent to the CITTENDEN PRESS and Masonic Home Journal for publication and that we wear the usual badge of mourning for 30 days.

At a religious gathering at the home of G. N. Grayson, who lives near Freedom church a few miles from town, on last Sunday night, some persons threw two stones into the room through an open window, one of the rocks striking Mr. Grayson on the back of the head and the other, thrown at the same time, hitting John D. Gregory, also on the head. Neither of the wounds was serious and Grayson and Gregory ran out to see who the miscreants were, but they had taken to their heels and had disappeared in the darkness. Mr. Grayson is very indignant over the affair and will do all in his power to bring the guilty parties to justice.

Permanently Located.

The Presbyterian church at this place will, in the near future, formally install Rev. M. H. Miley as its permanent pastor. When this is done, the relations as pastor and church can not be dissolved except by presbytery. The formal call, which has been accepted reads as follows:

The congregation of Marion Presbyterian church, being on sufficient grounds well satisfied of the Ministerial qualifications of you, W. M. Miley, and having good hopes, from our past experience of your labors, that your ministrations in the Gospel will be profitable to our spiritual interests, do earnestly call and desire you to undertake the pastoral office in said congregation; promising you, in the discharge of your duty, all proper support, encouragement and obedience in the Lord, and that you may be free from worldly cares and avocations, we hereby promise and oblige ourselves to pay to you the sum of one thousand dollars in regular monthly payments, during the time of your being and continuing the regular pastor of this church, in testimony whereof we have respectively subscribed our names, this 4th day of Oct. 1894.

At the same time the two recently elected Elders, J. W. Blue, Jr., and Dr. W. J. Deboe, will be installed.

Hon. J. E. Butler, State Lecturer of the A. O. U. W., addressed a large audience at the court house last night. He spoke in the highest terms of the secret fraternal orders, and especially of the A. O. U. W., detailing its benefits and answering the excuses so often offered for not uniting with the lodge. His audience, composed of many of the best people of Marion, was delighted with his lecture. The A. O. U. W., is a very popular institution here, and is growing rapidly. It unquestionably affords a cheap and safe life insurance.

LAW AND LAWYERS.

A PROFESSION IN WHICH MANY ARE CALLED, BUT FEW ARE CHOSEN.

Qualities Which Confront Young Barsters—How Literature and Politics Affect the Lawyer's Prospects—His Need of a Necessary He is a Necessity.

Mr. Richard Devereux Doyle, a prominent member of the Norfolk bar, contributes to The Southern Magazine an article entitled "My Impressions of Law and Lawyers," which will be very interesting to the young lawyer, as well as to the layman as well as to the lawyer's prospects. He discusses his theme in a judiciously and candidly with the "Confessions of a Junior Lawyer," by the little Richard Doyle, as he is called, and the early experiences of many hopeful and talented young lawyers.

"How many," says Mr. Doyle, "have passed through a similar course of study and preparation, perhaps, granting to the humanities as well as the law, bearing away the prize for election and oratory at some of our great institutions of learning? How many have thought that such talents as theirs were to command early if not immediate success, and alas! how many have been disappointed?" differing, it may be added, in this respect from Shiel, who passed safely through the depressed period of waiting and probationary work, and then, as the seal of the ordinary legal neophyte, and who won the distinction of which he had dreamed at the outset of his career.

Many of this grand army of the disappointed fail, Mr. Doyle thinks, not because they are lacking in "genius or talent," which is "frequently of a high order," but "because there are so many other elements that should but do not enter into the calculation." Some stray and erring, and for one thing, "the too sanguine and expects too much." Some fail because of their bad personal habits; some because of their bad study and confinement are stricken down, like poor Kirk White, "when life is in its spring; some are not politic enough to woo the world, but hold tightly aloof, trusting to their talent and knowledge, while the busy world is bustling by without stopping to look at their condition. Some stray to the pleasant and flowery paths of literature and some into the seductive all of politics.

"A literary reputation," Mr. Doyle declares, "is perhaps the dangerous-est of a politician, especially if one is even, like Mr. Webb, to dropping into poetry. The age is too practical for a successful combination of law and literature. A lawyer may and should be cultivated, but he must not be known as a litterateur or a poet." Nor will it do for the young lawyer to seek to make himself known by going into politics.
To do so "is a risky venture for one who has no other means of livelihood, or a lifetime, and even a reputation for political oratory is of little if any benefit to a lawyer. The public soon come to regard him as a politician and may be willing to vote with him or for him, but not to give him their business."

Turning from the causes of failure to the qualities important to what is ordinarily deemed success, Mr. Doyle summarizes them as follows: "Love of the profession and evident desire to succeed, but not to the extent of being unduly aggressive spirit, which is akin to what Lord Bacon calls 'boldness.' Mr.
Doyle considers a particularly important element of success, 'Mild 'hired byres, as the expression is among the people, to attend to their business and to fight their battles, right or wrong, and the lawyer who goes into a case thoroughly imbued with the client's feelings, beliefs or making believe that he is certainly right and the other party an unmitigated rascal, is sure to blaze."

As to the ethical side of the law, Mr.
Doyle admits that much may be said and done. One of the demoralizing features of the profession is that "a lawyer cannot choose his cases." He is sometimes on the wrong side, and the most of falsehood and injustice, and when on the wrong side there is a most irresistible temptation to express belief in the justice of his cause, and lawyers too often yield to it, thus giving some ground for the popular accusation that lawyers lie for their clients.
After all, whether "the law is a noble and elevating profession," depends upon the man. There is nothing in the nature of his profession which compels a lawyer to be a rascal. It is his temptations, but so has every other business.
Many hard things have been said of lawyers, but the account is nearly balanced by the complimentary things that they have said of themselves and of their profession. Sir Edward Coke speaks of "the glorious light of jurisprudence," and a lack of self appreciation is not in general one of the defects of the disciples of the law. They have, however, the consolation of knowing that in spite of all the abuse to which they have been subjected by satirical writers and poets they are not only useful but essential members of society, and that those who abuse them most are generally the very first to rush to the lawyer to advise and protect them in their hour of need.—Baltimore Sun.

There are some cases in which a correct musical ear causes its possessor a good deal of discomfort.
"I suppose you heard Squire Sump-son's daughter's voice pretty loud in the gymnasium, my dear?" said Parson Fawcett inquiringly to his little wife at the close of the morning service. "I used to think that she lived here before her marriage and her voice was very strong, but not —not exactly really perhaps as to pitch."

"Mr. Fawcett," replied the minister's wife, while a flush rose to her thin cheeks, "I suppose she was Arabel Sumpson. I think she is praising the Lord when she sings, and far be it from me to say that she doesn't, but I must say that it's all I can do to praise him at the same time!"—Youth's Companion.

WHERE THE BRAVEST QUAKE.

And Often the Anticipation Is Worse Than the Realization.

Most men who face a galling gun with less nervousness than they will a dentist. It is hard to say why, but a dentist's chair is a more terrible object to the average mortal than a surgeon's operating table, and nearly every dentist can tell stories of ordinarily courageous men who have backed out of an engagement at the last minute.

One young Chicagoan, with plenty of nerve ordinarily, knows of a dentist whom he studiously avoids on account of a sudden and unaccountable weakening at the critical moment. And the dentist—well, the dentist would probably like to see the young man. The latter had been troubled with a toothache for about a week and at last made up his mind to have the tooth pulled. To prepare himself for the ordeal he took some liberal doses of whiskey and then sought out the dentist. The pair of the dentist, combined with the whiskey, had put him in a pretty nervous state, and to quiet him the dentist put him up in an operating chair and put a big tumbler of whiskey on the table beside him.
"Which you are ready to call me," he said, "I have some work to do in the next room."

Half an hour later the dentist looked in and asked:
"Are you ready?"
"Not yet, doctor," replied the patient.

Another half hour went by, and the doctor tried again, but the patient still wanted more time.
Half an hour or so after that the dentist looked again, and the patient had gone. So had the whiskey. The young man had finished the last of it and still found that he had not enough nerve to undergo the ordeal, so he had quietly left the chair, secured his hat and sneaked out.

But that is merely an illustration of what fear of a dentist will make a man do.—Chicago Herald.

VENTILATION FOR EVERYBODY.

The Only Method by Which All Kinds of Cranks Can Be Satisfied.

One of the greatest difficulties met with in ventilating public buildings and railway cars is to settle the question of how much air shall be admitted or how often the entire cubic contents of an apartment shall be renewed. This from the fact that in the majority of cases required individuals vary greatly. To some the whole ocean of the atmosphere is inadequate, and they do not feel even comfortable unless a Niagara of air is pouring over them.

This is the fresh air field, male or female, who opens the car window and swallows dust and cinders (and makes others do the same) for the sake of satisfying their craving. Behind this doubtless fact in the majority of cases, the air in motion is a calamity, yet both of them must make the journey in company. One has just as much right as the other to his views of what is desirable to him, and neither called upon to give way to the other. One smokes and the other feels that he or she is about to be blown out of the car.

The only compromise that we can think of that would answer and make ventilation of public rooms a success is to provide an automatic system which shall be variable in different parts of the same room. These parts should be supplied with traps in the floor and have, say, a six second fan blower behind each trap and be accessible only to fresh air friends of both sexes.

In the other parts a dead air space, approaching a vacuum, should be maintained, into which a little sulphur of hydrogen might be injected periodically in order to obtain all the phenomena of bad ventilation for persons of infirm health who are compelled to travel.
Then every one would be satisfied—if the plan worked!—Engineer.

Professional Etiquette.

The following is told of the late Sir William Gull as illustrating the doctor's maxim that it is necessary before all else that the patient shall have confidence in his medical adviser.

Being called in haste to a patient under the care of a very young practitioner, Sir William found that brandy and water were being given at intervals, with certain other treatment. The great physician carefully examined the patient and said, "Give him another spoonful of brandy."

He then retired to a private room with the young doctor in charge.
"It is a case of so and so," he said as soon as the door was closed. "You shouldn't have given brandy on any account."

"But," said the junior practitioner in amazement, "the doctor, Sir William, that you just told the nurse to give him another spoonful."

"So I did," said the great man, "because we must not destroy his confidence in you, or he'll never feel comfortable or believe anything you tell him again."
—London Truth.

A Little Too Late.

Miss Fadd—The mistress of some

Mrs. Fadd—What has gone wrong, my love?

Miss Fadd—Last week I was elected an active member of the Young Ladies' Philanthropic club, and I began my ministrations by taking a basket of cold viandts to a poor woman whose name was down on the books. Well, when I got there, I found that some meddlesome busybody had been there two weeks ago and given her work, and I had to carry all that stuff back.—New York

A STREET CAR INCIDENT.

In Which a Chivalrous Little Man Makes a Big Mistake.

He was a little man, but his firm, quick step and erect head showed that he weighed 16 ounces to the pound and had all the confidence of a man weighing 200 pounds.

He stopped on the corner till a street car came along and stepped aboard.
The car was full, and several people were standing. He took hold of a strap and looked over the crowd and saw that several women were standing while a number of men were occupying comfortable seats.

It riled him to see it, and when his eye fell upon a pale faced little woman holding on to a strap, while a large, lazy looking man sat near by, he could not remain silent.

"See here," said he to the big man, "here is a lady standing while you have a seat."

"Well, don't you think you ought to give up your seat to this woman, who has probably been hard at work during the day?"

"No," said the big man.
"You don't?"
"I do not."

"Well," said the little man as he braced himself, "I do, and I am going to ask you to get out of this car."

He grabbed the big man by the collar and proceeded to tug him off the seat, but was interrupted by the woman, who grabbed him by the hair.

"Hold on!" cried the little man.
"That's all I'm doing," said the woman.

"But I mean let up on this. What do you mean by attacking me?"

"Look-a-here," said the female, "I didn't ask you to get out of my seat. Because you know that man near you is holding it of his just and not."

The little man let go of the big man, and the woman let go of her hold on the hair, and order was restored, but the little man was quite until he reached the end of his route, when he left the car, when he was heard to mutter,
"And such is life!"—Peck's Sun.

EVOLUTION OF NIAGARA.

The Estimates as to the Age of the World Tend to Agree.

Professor J. W. Spencer says the first conjecture as to the age of Niagara falls was made by Andrew Elliott in 1790.
Elliott believed the falls to be 55,000 years old. About 1841, Lytle estimated the age of the falls as 35,000 years.
The age of the falls is now estimated by the river. Professor Spencer, in outlining the progress of the falls, says that the first stage of the falls was a basin once full about 200 feet above the brow of the Niagara escarpment. This stream was not over one-fourth the volume of the recent cataract and consequently excavated the gorge at a much slower rate than at present.

During the early history of the river the waters of the three upper lakes emptied through the Huron basin by way of the Ottawa river. The height of the falls at this time was several times that of today.

Subsequently the waters were raised at the head of Lake Ontario, and the falls approximated to the present conditions after a lapse of 17,000 years from the end of the first episode. The age of the present falls is put at 1,000 years, and another 1,000 years was probably occupied by transitional changes of a very gradual character. It is now 8,000 years since Lake Huron emptied into Lake Erie for the first time. The land has since been elevated to the level of the present falls, and the waters of the Mississippi river drainage at Chicago.—Pittsburg Dispatch.

Do Trees Require Sleep?

In the larger cities, where shade trees are few and scattering, electric lights seem to have no visible effect upon their foliage. In the towns and villages, however, many of which have their electric light systems, the effect is very noticeable, the leaves appearing as though they had been subjected to the blighting breath of a hurricane. The question arises recently discussed at a meeting of the eastern arboriculturists, the conclusion being that trees need darkness in order that they may sleep, and that being continually kept awake and active they have the same effect upon them as prematurely old by the action of the light. That this is probably the correct solution of the mystery of the drooping leaves may be judged from the fact that similar trees in the neighborhood of gas works and to be exposed to the illumination, still retain their color and seem bright and strong.—St. Louis Republic.

MAN EATERS OF THE PACIFIC.

Sharks That Are the Dread of the California Fishermen.

The true man eater shark as taken on the Pacific coast is known only as a man eater. The shovled nosed shark is said to attack man, but cowardly to attack even a yellow dog. The 34 foot shark captured by some fishermen of the true man eater variety (Carchodon carolinensis) seemed to have enough and savage enough to attack anything within its reach. This monster's mouth was wide, the teeth long and sharp, with an inward incline. The stomach would hold a full grown man easily and a great deal besides. The fish became entangled in a net off Point Loma. Two boats attacked the vicious creature and finally succeeded in punching an iron into its side. The side of one boat was staved in by a blow forceful enough to knock a fisherman overboard.

These sharks have been known to attack a small boat, upset it and eat the occupants. A man eater over 45 feet long has been reported below San Diego.
The natives are said to live in fear of this awful fish, which already has the record of having eaten six men. It has been shot frequently. The water about it has been discolored and a great deal of the shark still lives. The tiger shark is as ferocious as the man eater. Another large shark hereabouts is the hank shark.
It is taken measuring 15 to 40 feet in length. The side of one of 32 feet in length was taken at Stanford University museum.
This skin alone weighs over 1,000 pounds, while the shark's liver produced 180 gallons of oil. These sharks, however, are sluggish, lazy and do not bite people. Their gills rubs on the whale model. When entangled in a net, they frequently suffocate, as the net restricts the gills.

California fishermen do not consider five foot sharks of much account when
five foot sharks of much account when are caught six to eight feet long weighing 300 to 500 pounds. Such fish are common. They are taken on shark hooks and dories. When hooked, the fish is allowed to swim about the bay towing a two inch plank. When he is exhausted, the line is hauled in, and the fish killed with an ax.—San

AYER'S Sarsaparilla ADMITTED

READ RULE XV.

"Articles that are in any way dangerous or offensive, also poisonous, no-tums, and other articles, empirical preparations, whose ingredients are concealed, will not be admitted to the Exposition."

Why was Ayer's Sarsaparilla admitted? Because it is a patent medicine, not a nostrum, nor a secret preparation, not dangerous, and an experiment, and because it is all that a family medicine should be.

Chinese Teahouses.

The restaurant, or teahouse, in China takes the place of the western clubroom.
All the current news and gossip are here circulated and discussed over their eating or gambling. One of their games of chance, which we have frequently noticed, seems to consist in throwing their fingers at one another and shouting at the top of their voices. It is really a mixture of numbers, for which the Chinese make signs on their fingers up to the number ten.

The Chinese of all nations seem to live in order to eat, and the fullness of epicurean has developed a nation of excellent cooks. On one of the Chinese side the Gobi district, was far better than in Turkey or Persia, and the reason was we are better able to culture the increased lands. A plate of sweet meat stewed with vegetables and rice with a pungent sauce, sliced radishes and onions, with vinegar, two leaves of Chinese mono, or steamed bread, and a pot of tea would usually cost us about 3 1/2 cents apiece. Everything in China is so good that it can be eaten with the chopsticks. These we at length learned to manipulate with sufficient dexterity to pick up a dove's egg, the highest attainment in the chopstick art. The Chinese have rather a sour than sweet tooth. Sugar is rarely used in anything, and never in tea. The steeped tea flowers, which the higher classes use, are really more tasty without it.—Century.

To tell mushrooms from toadstools, without eating and waiting for results, peel an onion and put it with the fungi while being cooked. If the onion remains white, eat with confidence; if it turns black, eat it not, if you value life.

Marvelous Results.

From a letter written by J. Gender man of Dimondale, Mich., we are permitted to make this extract: "I have no hesitation in recommending Dr. King's New Discovery as the results were almost marvelous in the case of my wife. While I was pastor of the Baptist church at Rives Junction she was brought down with pneumonia, succeeding lagrippe. Terrible paroxysms of coughing would last for hours with little intermission, and it seemed as if she could not survive them. A friend recommended to me Dr. King's New Discovery. It was quick in its work and highly satisfactory in its results." Trial bottles ular size 50c. and $1.

There is no medicine so often needed in every home and so admirably adapted to the purposes for which it was intended, as Chamberlain's Pain Balm. Hardly a week passes but some member of the family has need of it. A toothache or headache may be cured by it. A touch of rheumatism or neuralgia quieted. The severe pain of a burn or scald promptly relieved and the sore healed in much less time than when medicine has to be sent for. A sprain may be promptly treated before inflammation sets in, which insures a cure in about a third of the time otherwise required. Cuts and bruises should receive immediate attention before the parts become swollen, which can only be done when the Pain Balm is kept on hand. A sore throat may be cured before it becomes serious, a troublesome corn may be removed by applying it twice a day for a week or two. A lame back may be cured and several days of valuable time saved or a pain in the side or chest relieved without paying a doctor bill. Procure a 50 cent bottle at once and you will never regret it. For sale

MAN EATERS OF THE PACIFIC.

Sharks That Are the Dread of the California Fishermen.

The true man eater shark as taken
on the Pacific coast is known only as a man eater. The shovled nosed shark is said to attack man, but cowardly to attack
even a yellow dog. The 34 foot shark
captured by some fishermen of the true
man eater variety (Carchodon carolinensis) seemed to have enough and savage
enough to attack anything within its
reach. This monster's mouth was wide,
the teeth long and sharp, with an in-
ward incline. The stomach would hold
a full grown man easily and a great deal besides. The fish became entangled
in a net off Point Loma. Two boats
attacked the vicious creature and finally
succeeded in punching an iron into its
side. The side of one boat was staved
in by a blow forceful enough to knock
a fisherman overboard.

ELECTROPOISE, CURES DISEASE.

The Electropoise gave me complete relief from excruciating pain in three applications. I also find it good for treating children for their numerous ailments.—C. T. Soden, with Bridgeford & Co, Louisville.

Mr. G. W. Flint, of Skylight, Ky., says: I suffered for years with my kidneys, inflammation of the bladder and enlargement of the prostate gland.
After a short trial of the Electropoise I am entirely relieved and feel twenty years younger.

I have derived more benefit from the use of Electropoise than from all other remedies combined. I think it the greatest invention of the age. It can not be praised too highly.—Mrs.
M. E. Gorman, Sadleville, Ky., August 20.

John H. Davis, Esq., of Barbour-ville, Ky.: The Electropoise is the best all around doctor I know of. My wife suffered from effects of la grippe for several years, also a complication of other ailments; now she is entirely well. Indigestion bothered me a great deal; am now well. One of my neighbors is using it for lung trouble, and reports improvement.

As a curative agent the Electropoise can not be equalled. Nearly 1,000 have been put out from this office in the last three months.
