The Great Snow Storm in Livingston County Before the War.

Jesse Trueman.

In 1862, while the affairs of the Confederacy were in the hands of General Albert Sidney Johnston, his headquarters were at the city of Richmond, Virginia. It was in this period that Johnston was captured by the Federal forces under the command of Major General Franz Sigel. The story of the capture of Johnston is well known and need not be related here. It is sufficient to say that the capture of Johnston was the result of a surprise attack by the Federal troops under the command of Major General Franz Sigel.

The Trend of Kentucky Editors' Books.

With the death of the Federal government, the political situation in the South was changed. The Democratic party, which had been dominant in the South, was no longer in power. The Republican party, which had been the dominant party in the North, was now in power. The results of the Civil War were reflected in the literature of the time. The trend of Kentucky editors' books is a reflection of the political climate of the time.

The building was presented to the school by the citizens of the District, who have been able to purchase the property and build the structure. The new building is a fitting monument to the patriotism of the citizens of the District, and a fitting memorial to the late Mr. J. W. Brown, who was a devoted friend of the school and was interested in its progress and success.

The building is a two-story structure, and is of stone construction. The cornerstone was laid on January 1st, 1895, and the building was completed and dedicated on January 11th, 1895.
