THE SCHOOLS

Of Foreign Countries and How They Are Conducted.

Facts of Interest to Boys and Girls of Our School.

Washington, D. C., Sept. 10.—Just about now, when the youth of the country is thinking seriously about the annual return to study, it will be interesting to learn something about foreign schools.

The writer has been talking to the specialists of the Bureau of Education and has learned many bits of information of information of interest to pupil, teacher and parent alike, not to say those who have fond memories of school days. This Government Bureau receives reports from every country in the world descriptive of school systems.

Next to the United States, Germany sends more of her children to school than any other nation. In that empire every parent is required to send to school every boy or girl between the ages of 6 and 14. No children can attend any but the public schools, unless their teacher, establishing a private school, has undergone.

A RIGID EXAMINATION.
The boys and girls going to the public schools in that country must get up every morning and be at their desks at 8 o'clock. They remain at school until 1 o'clock, except in the case of the very young children, who are dismissed at noon. There is a vacation of one week at Christmas, one at Easter, one at Whit Sunday and three at harvest time, in September. This harvest holiday corresponds to our summer vacation. The German students, therefore, get six weeks more schooling each year than is had by the school children of the United States. But more than all this, the boys and girls must also go to school on Saturday. Two half days of leisure, however, are allowed. In the cities these are usually spent in such places as the botanical gardens, museums, etc., where everything is fully explained by their teachers, who always accompany them.

A peculiarity of the German school system is that a parent, on first sending his son to primary school, at the age of 6, must then decide whether he is to go through the classical, scientific or business high schools. A separate elementary course, beginning with the first day of tuition, prepares the pupil for one or each of these. Now, if a father wishes one of his boys

TO BE A PHYSICIAN,
Another to be a clergyman and another to follow mercantile pursuits, he must enter each in a separate elementary school at the age of 6. The lower grades, in Germany, only require four years of study. When the high schools are reached. In the high schools, however, the course is 10 years. Thus by the time a boy is graduated at the high school he is at least 20 years of age. If he desires to take an extensive course in the university, the army service required of each boy is reduced to one year. Thus each boy is encouraged to learn as much as he can, for the sake of curtailing this service.

In Germany boys and girls attend the same schools only in the lower grades. There was not a woman's university in Germany until a few years ago. There are 10 times as many men as women teaching school in Germany. This is on account of the long summer vacations, which women could not conveniently conduct. A great part of the harvest vacation is spent in long journeys around the country, and sometimes into foreign countries. Corporal punishment is allowed in German schools.

Attached to many of the German schools are asylums where parents of the working classes can leave their children in the morning and call for them on their return from work in the evening. In these are found gymnastic apparatus and tools for light manual training work. They are somewhat like the playroom of the Children's Building at the World's Fair. Similar institutions are kept by women, who take care of young ladies during working hours. These are also connected with the schools.

SCHOOLS FOR BABIES.

In France public schools are provided for babies only 2 years old. These are conducted as kindergartens and are always under the charge of women. Parents are not obliged to send their children to the infant grades, but most of them take advantage of this excellent system. Between 6 and 14, however, all boys and girls in France must be in school, according to a law strictly enforced. Corporal punishment is strictly forbidden in France. In that republic, as in Germany, school begins daily at 8 o'clock and lasts about 1. The pupils return again in the afternoon, when they are taught singing, sewing, drawing, manual training and such studies as will not tax their brain. The school year begins in October and lasts until the following September, there being but one month's summer vacation. On account of the preponderance of Catholicism in France, however, there are many religious holidays besides Christmas, as, for instance, Passion Week, Thursday, instead of Saturday, as a free day.

On leaving school in France each boy and girl is given a blank book, in which he must write the first exercise of the month in each branch of his studies. This always shows his progress and standing, and is a part of the official records. The French have lately introduced military drill into all of their primary schools, thus every youngster of the male persuasion has brass buttons, guns and swords to his heart's content.

RUSSIA'S STRICT RULES.

The rules governing school children in Russia are applied not only when they are at school, but when on the street, or even at home. For instance children in certain grades are forbidden to visit institutions of pleasure, excepting only the botanical gardens. Then can go to the theaters only when permission is given by the authorities. It is also against these rules for school children to attend "public balls, masquerades, clubs, dancing evenings, tea gardens, cafe houses, confectioneries, billiard halls," etc., or to go bathing, take pleasure walks or be out of doors later than 9 o'clock. Each schoolboy has a regular uniform which must be worn at all times. To this is added a knapsack for books and other school supplies. It is a serious violation of the laws for a child to appear on the street without all of his buttons buttoned. The law also demands that schoolboys shall salute teachers and officials of the state with a polite bow, at the same time removing their hats.

Switzerland has many strange customs regarding the public schools. Great care is taken in that country to teach the laws of health and cleanliness. In some places bathrooms are built in connection with the schools, and in these pupils are taught the chemical effects of soap and water. Some cities have introduced instruction in swimming, skating and open-air games as parts of the school courses. In many places the Government furnishes warm dinners and clothes to poor children. Oftentimes, when they come from long distances in the rain, dry garments are kept in the schools, in order that they may have a change.

IN SWEDEN.

It is said that illiteracy is almost unknown in Sweden. All children are expected to be in school between the ages of 7 and 14, which rule is strictly enforced after the ninth year. Women in that country are allowed to belong to the School Boards. The Swedish boys and girls have to attend school only 36 weeks in each year, leaving only four months of holiday. Sweden does not believe in inculcating the children of the primary grade with too much study, but add more practical instruction than is given in other countries. For instance, one of their studies is "The Effects of Alcoholic Drinks on the Human Organism." School is held every day in the week, but Saturday is reserved for manual training. An original manual training system now gaining headway in the Swedish schools, promises to become popular in many progressive countries. This is known as the "Sloyd" which is a combination of manual training and Delsarte. It is for the most part modeling in wood, sewing and doing other practical work the positions of the body assumed while thus employed uniting in a measure with gymnastics. Girls are taught knitting, sewing, darning, pattern drawing, and cutting and dressmaking, and all the movements of which work are so arranged as to develop certain necessary muscles.

SCHOOLS IN JAPAN.

The excellent public school system of far off Japan to a great extent tell the tale of the recent rapid rise of nation to a high plane of enlightenment. The pupils of this empire are taught according to the combined principles of the French and American systems, with some original additions. Japanese boys and girls are for the most part educated together, Japan provides public kindergartens for children not less than three years of age, the parents, however, each paying $1 a month to provide a part of their maintenance. Even in these low grades the little ones are required to indulge daily in "conversations on morals." In the higher schools girls are taught such subjects as "modes of preserving flowers, mode of burning incense, mode of folding papers, sitting etiquette, etiquette at tea party, standing etiquette, all included under the study of etiquette, and in addition under the heading of "household management," they get "hygienic training of children, nursing of patients, attention to furniture, garments, washing, hair dressing, income and expenditure, and employing servants." Where is there to be found a better course for "the new woman?"

BRITISH METHODS.

John Bull, from whose kingdom we hear so much proud and pompous talk, has only given his children free schooling within the past twenty five years. As a whole, the English public school system is now much like our own. Corporal punishment, however is very generally employed. As for vacations, the young Britisher, like the German youngster, gets only his week at Christmas, Easter and Whit-sunrise, and three weeks only in summer, commencing with the first week in August. In London school opens at 9 o'clock, adjourns for lunch at noon, and holds another session in the afternoon from 2 until half past 4 o'clock. And woe to the English boy who plays truant. If after a certain number of warnings he fails to make a satisfactory record of attendance at school, he is arrested by an officer and brought before a Magistrate who sentences him to imprisonment in the "truant school." The average length of his confinement is ninety-five days.

PROPOSED IMPROVEMENTS.

The Bureau of Education being the national headquarters of all our own school, is always considering the most modern educational systems, to be recommended to the various local boards. Perpendicular penmanship is a new departure which it is a present considering. This method has already been adopted in Washington, and other cities. One of the latest educational inventions is a cheap profile map to be furnished each pupil, engaged in the study of geography. These charts are made of cardboard, which is pressed to resemble a plaster cast. Some are covered with a washable coating. Cities, boundaries, rivers, etc., are to be traced by pencil. The pupil is thus given a vivid idea of the physical features of each country. The latest educational system expected to revolutionize the schools of the world is "Correlation." The Bureau of Education has been investigating this for several months. Proponents of this system believe that economy is needed in the culture of the youth. For instance lessons from history, classic languages, geography, geology and other sciences, etc., studied in their historical consequence, can be more rapidly and vividly understood.

BUCKNER WITHDRAWS.

The Grand Old Man no Longer a Candidate for the Senate.

Gen. S. B. Buckner last week published the following card:

"To the Democrats of Hart County: You paid me the high compliment last year of nominating me as your candidate for the United States Senate; in the resolutions accompanying your action, you deprecated as dangerous to the success of the party the interference on the part of Senatorial aspirants with Legislative contests. The danger which you apprehend now confronts us. In many Legislative districts personal interests are arrayed against party success; and though I have adhered strictly to the principle which you enunciated, candidates supposed to be favorable to me are, nevertheless, a target for opposition in the party. Under these circumstances I deem it my duty to recall my acceptance of the nomination which you so generously gave me.

"Thus untrammelled with any candidacy of my own, I can the more earnestly urge the support of the entire Democratic ticket and advocate the platform of principles as constructed by every member of the party at the time of its adoption.

S. B. BUCKNER.
Glen Lily, Sept. 5, 1872."

In a recent letter to the manufacturers Mr. W. F. Benjamin, editor of the Spectator, Rushford, N. Y., says: "It may be a pleasure to you to know the high esteem in which Chamberlain's medicines are held by the people of your own State, where they must be best known. An aunt of mine, who resides at Dexter, Iowa, was about to visit me a few years ago, and before leaving home wrote me, asking if they were sold here, stating if they were not she would bring a quantity with her, as she did not like to be without them." The medicines referred to are Chamberlain's Cough Remedy, famous for its cure of coughs and colds, Chamberlain's Pain Balm for rheumatism, lame back, pains in the side and chest, and Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy for bowel complaints. These medicines have been in constant use in Iowa for almost a quarter of a century. The people have learned that they are articles of great worth and merit, and unequaled by any other. They are for sale here by Orme Bros.

From all accounts Chamberlain's Cough Remedy is a godsend to the afflicted. There is no advertisement about this; we feel just like saying it.

DOMESTIC ANIMALS.

Are We Making Any Progress in the Treatment of Their Diseases?

The diseases and injuries of the domestic animals half a century ago were not always treated scientifically and successfully. The laws of health, the causes and nature of disease, and the uses of medicine were imperfectly known. Treatment was apt to be "rough and ready," violent reducing remedies were frequently and injudiciously used. The beneficent curative effects of fresh air, diet, suitable surroundings, and good nursing were not fully realized.

The general and medical management of animals have, however, alike improved.

The treatment of diseases has become more exact and simple, and more in accord with biological laws. It utilizes such hygienic conditions as pure air and diet; it affords free scope for the natural tendency which most diseases exhibit to run a favorable course.

Preventive treatment receives attention alike from stock owners and practitioners. Disease, accordingly, is not only less prevalent, but is also less serious, and the attacks are generally of shorter duration.

Systematic hygienic measures in some countries have stamped out such diseases as glanders and farcy, specific ophthalmia, and canker in the feet of horses, while colic and inflammation of the bowels are not nearly so prevalent as they were 30 years ago.

Plague, contagion, pleuro-pneumonia, and anthrax in cattle are more effectively held in check, while in this country rabies in dogs can certainly be exterminated.

The higher standard of health among the domestic animals, and the more successful treatment of disease, have resulted in a great part from the increasing knowledge of the action of remedial agents, obtained mainly by systematic experiments and observations on the lower animals, as also on man himself.

If space allowed numerous illustrations might be given of the practical benefits of such investigation.

The study of bacteriology within a few years has done much to prevent disease, both in men and animals, and is destined to do a great deal more.

A number of diseases classified as zymotic, and comprising anthrax, glanders, tuberculosis, strangles, tetanus, with typhoid, eruptive, and malarial fevers have recently shown to depend upon the introduction into the body of microbes or micro-organisms belonging to the lower class of vegetable fungi, which in susceptible subjects rapidly multiply and produce chemical poisons.

Pasteur, Koch and others have investigated the life-history of many of these disease producing microbes, the pathogenic conditions to which they give rise, and the methods by which their invasion may be averted or treated. But the disease-producing agent and its antidote are nearly correlated. The microbes, when cultivated artificially, when exposed to chemicals or heat, or repeatedly passed by inoculation through the bodies of certain animals, become weakened and lose their lethal properties.

This attenuated virus or vaccine, when repeatedly injected, confers on the vaccinated animals a more or less perfect immunity against poisonous doses of the unmitigated virus when the latter is subsequently introduced, whether accidentally or by experimental inoculation.

In districts of France, Switzerland and Austria, where anthrax abounds cattle and sheep four several years have been vaccinated with anthrax virus, the percentage of accidents are said to be trifling, the mortality of vaccinated subjects is stated to be less than one-tenth of that among the unvaccinated stock herding with them. Sterilized cultivation of hog cholera virus is used in America as a protective against this disease.

Immunity from fowl cholera have been similarly secured. (Pasteur, by repeated injection of attenuated rabies vaccine, has rendered dogs and other animals unsusceptible to the action of lethal doses of rabies virus.

Drs. Willems and Richard Rutherford, Edinburgh, and other veterinarians have inoculated cows with pleuro pneumonia virus, have produced characteristic local and general phenomena, and have found that most animals thus operated on are insusceptible to subsequent inoculation, and do not take the disease when placed with animals suffering from it.

Obituary.

Died, in Hopkinsville, Aug. 29, Lillian Richards Thomas, wife of J. Nick Thomas, of Marion, Ky., daughter of John W. Richards, formerly of Clarksville, Tenn., now of Hopkinsville, Ky. She was born at Indian Mound, Tenn., June 22, 1876.

Wherever known, her peculiar sweetness of nature and purity of character endeared her to all. Rev. Seattle successfully baptised, received her into the church March '94, joined her in matrimony Nov. 15, '94, to the love of her childhood, and now, Aug. 30, '95, performs the sad funeral rites.

So it is from the cradle to the grave the pages of life turn, alternately, for joy or sorrow. Time has won the race he ran with her, and laid her away in a shroud.

"There is a lute unstrung and a harp without strings," but time can never drown the melody that wanders o'er the heartstrings at her name, or dim the golden halo of beauty which a precious memory weaves around this loved form.

Back into the past we see her, a lovely, fair browed, trusting bride; pink roses at throat and belt and in her hair; flowers and rose draperies everywhere; roseate hopes and fragrances of roses mingle their sweetenings; a venerable pastor, hands me attendant, music that thrilled with happiness all hearts.

Now — the same church and grey-haired pastor, the same organ that pealed the joyous wedding march youthful voices now chant a requiem, and the bride comes slowly up the aisle to the very spot where so short a time before she stood a bride; not now leaning confidently on the arm of her chosen one, but the bride of Death!

In the narrow casket, with white roses in the folded hands and on the pulseless heart, she is borne in sadness by her eight bridal attendants, now her pall bearers.

Piled high above and everywhere are flowers, with white ribbons fluttering softly; lilies, white, and fair, and pure like her, send forth their fragrance as incense on the altar of love, devotion and woe for this bright young being — this lily broken from its stem in all its white purity and loveliness.

"Dark red flowers of pain" now glow by the wayside of those bereft, yet only a pall of tenderest memory hangs its heavy snow white folds between the living and beloved.

"We plant sweet flowers above the spot."

Where rest our forgotten dead, And while the roses bud and bloom We beautify their lonely bed; We rear the snowy marble shaft That every passer by may learn How sacred memory keeps her trust. In votive gift and storied urn. One kiss on warm and loving lips Is worth a thousand funeral flowers And one glad day of tender love Outweighs an age of mourning hours.

DOMESTIC ANIMALS.

Are We Making Any Progress in the Treatment of Their Diseases?

The diseases and injuries of the domestic animals half a century ago were not always treated scientifically and successfully. The laws of health, the causes and nature of disease, and the uses of medicine were imperfectly known. Treatment was apt to be "rough and ready," violent reducing remedies were frequently and injudiciously used. The beneficent effects of fresh air, diet, suitable surroundings, and good nursing were not fully realized.

The general and medical management of animals have, however, alike improved.

The treatment of diseases has become more exact and simple, and more in accord with biological laws. It utilizes such hygienic conditions as pure air and diet; it affords free scope for the natural tendency which most diseases exhibit to run a favorable course.

Preventive treatment receives attention alike from stock owners and practitioners. Disease, accordingly, is not only less prevalent, but is also less serious, and the attacks are generally of shorter duration.

Systematic hygienic measures in some countries have stamped out such diseases as glanders and farcy, specific ophthalmia, and cancer in the feet of horses, while colic and inflammation of the bowels are not nearly so prevalent as they were 30 years ago. Plague, contagion, pleuro-pneumonia, and anthrax in cattle are more effectually held in check, while in this country rabies in dogs can certainly be exterminated.

The higher standard of health among the domestic animals, and the more successful treatment of disease, have resulted in a great part from the increasing knowledge of the action of remedial agents, obtained mainly by systematic experiments and observations on the lower animals, as also on man himself.

If space allowed numerous illustrations might be given of the practical benefits of such investigation. The study of bacteriology within a few years has done much to prevent disease, both in men and animals, and is destined to do a great deal more.

A number of diseases classified as zymotic, and comprising anthrax, glanders, tuberculosis, strangles, tetanus, with typhoid, eruptive, and malarial fevers have recently shown to depend upon the introduction into the body of microbes or micro-organisms belonging to the lower class of vegetable fungi, which in susceptible subjects rapidly multiply and produce chemical poisons.

Pasteur, Koch and others have investigated the life-history of many of these disease-producing microbes, the pathogenic conditions to which they give rise, and the methods by which their invasion may be averted or treated. But the disease-producing agent and its antidote are nearly correlated. The microbes, when cultivated artificially, when exposed to chemicals or heat, or repeatedly passed by inoculation through the bodies of certain animals, become weakened and lose their lethal properties.

This attenuated virus or vaccine, when repeatedly injected, confers on the vaccinated animals a more or less perfect immunity against poisonous doses of the unmitigated virus when the latter is subsequently introduced, whether accidentally or by experimental inoculation.

In districts of France, Switzerland and Austria, where anthrax abounds, cattle and sheep for several years have been vaccinated with anthrax virus, the percentage of accidents are said to be trifling, the mortality of vaccinated subjects is stated to be less than one-tenth of that among the unvaccinated stock herding with them. THE SCHOOLS

Of Foreign Countries and How They Are Conducted.

Facts of Interest to Boys and Girls of Our School.

Washington, D. C., Sept. 10.—
Just about now, when the youth of the country is thinking seriously about the annual return to study, it will be interesting to learn something about foreign schools.

The writer has been talking to the specialists of the Bureau of Education and has learned many bits of information of interest to pupils, teacher and parent alike, not to say those who have fond memories of school days. This Government Bureau receives reports from every country in the world descriptive of school systems.

Next to the United States, Germany sends more of her children to school than any other nation. In that empire every parent is required to send to school every boy or girl between the ages of 6 and 14. No children can attend any but the public schools, unless their teacher, establishing a private school, has undergone

A RIGID EXAMINATION.
The boys and girls going to the public schools in that country must get up every morning and be at their desks at 8 o'clock. They remain at school until 1 o'clock, except in the case of the very young children, who are dismissed at noon. There is a vacation of one week at Christmas, and at Easter, one at Whit Sunday and three at harvest time, in September.

This harvest holiday corresponds to our summer vacation. The German students, therefore, get six weeks more schooling each year than is had by the school children of the United States. But worse than all this, the boys and girls must also go to school on Saturday. Two half days of leisure, however, are allowed. In the cities there are usually spent in such places as the botanical gardens, museums, etc., where everything is fully explained by their teachers, who always accompany them.

A peculiarity of the German school system is that a parent, on first sending his son to primary school, at the age of 6, must then decide whether he is to go through the classical, scientific or business high school. A separate elementary course, beginning with the first day of tuition, prepares the pupil for one or each of these.
Now, if a father wishes one of his boys

TO BE A PHYSICIAN, Another to be a clergyman and another to follow mercantile pursuits,
he must enter each in a separate elementary school at the age of 6. The lower grades, in Germany, only require four years of study, when the high schools are reached. In the high schools, however, the course is 10 years. Thus by the time a boy is graduated at the high school he is at least 20 years of age. If he desires to take an extensive course in the university, the army service required of each boy is reduced to one year.
Thus each boy is encouraged to learn as much as he can, for the sake of shortening his service.

In Germany boys and girls attend the same schools only in the lower grades. There was not a woman's university in Germany until a few years ago. There are 10 times as many men as women teaching school in Germany. This is on account of the long summer vacations, which women could not conveniently conduct. A great part of the harvest vacation is spent in long journeys around the country, and sometimes into foreign countries. Corporal punishment is allowed in German schools.

Attached to many of the German schools are asylums where parents of the working classes can leave their children in the morning and call for them on their return from work in the evening. In these are found gymnastic apparatus and tools for light manual training work. They are somewhat like the playground of the Children's Building at the World's Fair. Similar institutions are kept by women, who take care of young babies during working hours. These are also connected with the schools.

SCHOOLS FOR BABIES.

In France public schools are provided for babies only 2 years old. These are conducted as kindergartens and are always under the charge of women.
Parents are not obliged to send their children to the infant grades, but most of them take advantage of this excellent system. Between 6 and 14, however, all boys and girls in France
must be in school, according to a law strictly enforced. Corporal punishment is strictly forbidden in France.
In that republic, as in Germany, school begins daily at 8 o'clock and ends about 1. The pupils return again in the afternoon, when they are taught singing, sewing, drawing, manual training and such studies as will not tax their brain. The school year begins in October and lasts until the following September, there being but one month's summer vacation.
On account of the preponderance of Catholicism in France, however, there are many religious holidays besides Christmas, as, for instance, Passion Week, Thursday, instead of Saturday, as a free day.

On beginning school in France each boy and girl is given a blank book, in which he must write the first exercise of the month in each branch of his studies. This always shows his progress and standing, and is a part of the official records. The French have lately introduced military drill into all of their primary schools, thus every youngster of the male persuasion has breeches, buttons, guns and swords to his heart's content.

RUSSIA'S STRICT RULES.

The rules governing school children in Russia are applied not only when they are at school, but when on the street, or even at home. For instance, children in certain grades are forbidden to visit institutions of pleasure, excepting only the botanical gardens.
Then can go to the theaters only when permission is given by the authorities.
It is also against these rules for school children to attend "public balls, masquerades, clubs, dancing evenings, tea parties, cafe houses, confectioneries, billiard halls, etc., or to go boating, take pleasure walks or to be out of doors later than 9 o'clock.
Each schoolboy has a regular uniform which must be worn at all times. To this is added a knapsack for books and other school supplies. It is a serious violation of the laws for a child to appear on the street without all of his buttons buttoned. The law also demands that schoolboys shall salute teachers and officials of the state with a polite bow, at the same time removing their hats.

Switzerland has many strange customs regarding the public schools.
Great care is taken in that country to teach the laws of health and cleanliness. In some places bathhouses are built in connection with the schools, and in these pupils are taught the chemical effects of soap and water.
Some cities have introduced instruction in swimming, skating and open-air games as parts of the school course.

In many places the Government furnishes warm dinners and clothes to poor children. Citizentimes, when they come from long distances in the rain, dry garments are kept in the schools, in order that they may have a change.

IN SWEDEN.

It is said that illiteracy is almost unknown in Sweden. All children are expected to be in school between the ages of 7 and 14, which rule is strictly enforced after the ninth year.
Women in that country are allowed to belong to the School Boards. The Swedish boys and girls have to attend school only 35 weeks in each year,
leaving only four months of holiday.
Sweden does not believe in incarcerating
the children of the primary grade with too much study, but add more practical instruction than is given in other countries. For instance, one of their studies is "The Effects of Alcoholic Drinks on the Human Organism." School is held every day in the week, but Saturday is reserved for manual training. An original manual training system now gaining headway in the Swedish schools, promises to become popular in many progressive countries. This is known as the "Slip" which is a combination of manual training and Delsarte. It is for the most part modeling in wood, sewing and doing other practical work
the positions of the body assumed while thus employed, uniting in a measure with gymnastics. Girls are taught knitting, sewing, darning, pattern drawing, and cutting and dramatizing, all the movements of which work are so arranged as to develop certain necessary muscles.

SCHOOLS IN JAPAN.

The excellent public school system of far off Japan to a great extent tell the tale of the recent rapid rise of the nation to a high plane of enlightenment. The pupils of this empire are taught according to the combined principles of the French and American systems, with some original additions. Japanese boys and girls are for the most part educated together, Japan provides public kindergartens
for children not less than three years of age, the parents, however, each paying $1 a month to provide a part of their maintenance. Even in these low grades the little ones are required to indulge daily in "conversations on morals." In the higher schools girls are taught such subjects as "modes of preserving flowers, mode of burning incense, mode of folding papers, sitting etiquette, etiquette at tea party, standing etiquette, all included under the study of etiquette, and in addition under the heading of "household management," they get "hygienic training of children, nursing of patients, attention to furniture, garments, washing, hair dressing, income and expenditure, and employing servants." Where is there to be found a better course for "the new woman?"

BRITISH METHODS.

John Bull, from whose kingdom
we hear so much proud and pompous talk, has only given his children free schooling within the past twenty five years. As a whole, the English public school system is now much like our own. Corporal punishment, however is very generally employed. As for vacations, the young Britisher, like the German youngster, gets only his week at Christmas, Easter and Whitsunide, and three weeks only in summer, commencing with the first week in August. In London school opens at 9 o'clock, adjourns for lunch at noon, and holds another session in the afternoon from 2 until half past 4 o'clock. And woe to the English boy who plays truant. If after a certain number of warnings he fails to make a satisfactory record of attendance at school, he is arrested by an officer and brought before a Magistrate who sentences him to imprisonment in the "truant school." The average length of his confinement is ninety-five days.

PROPOSED IMPROVEMENTS.

The Bureau of Education being

the national headquarters of all our own schools, is always considering the most modern educational systems, to be recommended to the various local boards. Perpendicular penmanship is a new departure which it is a present consideration. This method has already been adopted in Washington, and other cities. One of the latest educational inventions is a cheap profile map to be furnished each pupil, engaged in the study of geography.
These charts are made of cardboard,
which is pressed to resemble a plaster cast. Some are covered with a washable coating. Cities, boundaries, rivers, etc., are to be traced by pencil.
The pupil is thus given a vivid idea of the physical features of each country. The latest educational system expected to revolutionize the schools of the world is "Correlation." The Bureau of Education has been investigating this for several months. Proponents of this system believe that economy is needed in the culture of the youth. For instance lessons from history, classic languages, geography, geology and other sciences, etc., studied in their historical consequence, can be more rapidly and vividly understood.

Gen. S. B. Buckner last week published the following card:

"To the Democrats of Hart County: You paid me the high compliment last year of nominating me as your candidate for the United States Senate; in the resolutions accompanying your action, you deprecated as dangerous to the success of the party the interference on the part of Senatorial aspirants with Legislative contests.
The danger which you apprehend now confronts us. In many Legislative districts personal interests are arrayed against party success; and though I have adhered strictly to the principle which you enunciated, candidates supposed to be favorable to me are, nevertheless, a target for opposition in the party. Under these circumstances I deem it my duty to recall my acceptance of the nomination which you so generously gave me.

"Thus untrammelled with any candidacy of my own, I can the more earnestly urge the support of the entire Democratic ticket and advocate the platform of principles as construed by every member of the party at the time of its adoption.

S. B. BUCKNER.

In a recent letter to the manufacturers Mr. W. F. Benjamin, editor of

DOMESTIC ANIMALS.

Are We Making Any Progress in the Treatment of Their

The diseases and injuries of the domestic animals half a century ago were not always treated scientifically and successfully. The laws of health, the causes and nature of disease, and the uses of medicine were imperfectly known. Treatment was apt to be "rough and ready," violent reducing

The treatment of diseases has become more exact and simple, and more in accord with biological laws.
It utilizes such hygienic conditions as pure air and diet; it affords free scope for the natural tendency which most diseases exhibit to run a favorable course.

Preventive treatment receives attention alike from stock owners and practitioners. Disease, accordingly, is not only less prevalent, but is also less serious, and the attacks are generally of shorter duration.

Systematic hygienic measures in stock-raising have stamped out such diseases as glanders and farcy, specific ophthalmia, and canker in the feet of horses, while colic and inflammation of the bowels are not nearly so prevalent
as they were 30 years ago.

Plague, contagion, pleuro-pneumonia, and anthrax in cattle are more effectually held in check, while in this country rabies in dogs can certainly be exterminated.

The higher standard of health among the domestic animals, and the tions might be given of the practical benefits of such investigation.

The study of bacteriology within a

is destined to do a great deal more.
A number of diseases classified as zootic, and comprising anthrax, glanders, tuberculosis, strangles, te-malarial fevers have recently shown to depend upon the introduction into the body of microbes or micro-organisms belonging to the lower class of vegetable fungi, which in susceptible subjects rapidly multiply and produce chemical poisons.

Pasteur, Koch and others have investigated the life-history of many of these disease-producing microbes, the pathogenic conditions to which they give rise, and the methods by which their invasion may be averted or treated. But the disease-producing agent and its antidote are nearly co-related. The microbes, when cultivated artificially, when exposed to chemicals or heat, or repeatedly passed by inoculation through the bodies of certain animals, become weakened and lose their lethal properties.

This attenuated virus or vaccine, when repeatedly injected, confers on the vaccinated animals a more or less

its stem in all its white purity and loveliness.

"Dark red flowers of pain" now glow by the wayside of those bereft, yet only a pall of tenderest memory hangs its heavy snow white folds between the living and beloved.

"We plant sweet flowers above the spot
Where rest our forgotten dead,
And while the roses bud and bloom
We beautify their lonely bed:
We rear the snowy, marble shaft
That every passer by may learn
How sacred memory keeps her trust
In virtue gift and at-ried urn.
One kiss on warm and loving lips
Is worth a thousand funeral flowers
And one glad day of tender love
Outweighs an age of mourning hours.

ONE YEAR ONE DOLLAR

Mr. Nickell and Mr. Blackburn are keeping mighty quiet.

The elephant keeps tramping on the purse Uncle Sam keeps his gold in.

The C. J. is still serving its party like Peter served his Master—at a pretty considerable distance.

Mr. Bradley is playing a game of solitaire; he is not much of a hand at euchre, especially with Wat Hardin.

The gold reserve is below the $100,000,000 mark again. The syndicate contract to keep it up to that mark expires in October, and then—

Never were the schools of Crittenden in such fine working order as now. Keep your boys and girls in them. Constant work is the only kind that wins.

Three of the men accused of participating in the mob violence in the Houston affair in Caldwell county are in the toils of the law. Good for Caldwell county.

Still the idea that President Cleveland wants the nomination for another term in the White House is entertained in some quarters. At the proper time he will disabuse the public of this notion.

Mr. Bradley's figures about State matters are very pretty, but Wat Hardin wiped them off of the blackboard so completely that Mr. B. is going to do his marking where Wat can't reach them.

Wat Hardin has swerved neither to the right nor the left from his convictions of right. He is no time-server, nor artful dodger, nor unstable man to be driven hither and thither by every adverse wind. He is a man.

The Louisville Post seems to be out of humor because Gen. Buckner withdrew from the Senatorial race. If the Post had the Democratic party bound hand and foot and a rope around its neck poor Richard would be himself again.

The strong light of the Covington Commonwealth is throwing on the editorial columns of the Courier Journal shows that the old lady did not always wear John Sherman bloomers, but on the other hand, babies who are in childhood yet saw her decked in plain, old fashioned Democratic clothes.

The first page of the Courier-Journal is looming up loomingingly, but the editorial page is not getting to the occasion. It has a thrilling editorial headed "Omnious to Turkey." The article might be well enough in chill November days, under the caption of "Omnious to Turkey," but it is dull political reading just now.

Benton joins the ranks of the dry towns. Not dry for want of life and trade, but for want of liquor. The First district has a strong Prohibition leaning in no political temperance, but her predilections are still towards Democracy, when politics is mixed up with the voting.

The National Encampment of the Grand Army of the Republic has charge of Louisville this week, and that great Southern city is entertaining the thousands of visitors in true Kentucky style. Louisville, as well as Kentucky, appreciates the honor, and breathes the spirit of brotherhood towards the veterans.

The Republicans of Chase county, Kan., in convention, passed a resolution declaring, "We, therefore, declare ourselves in favor of the immediate restoration of the free and unlimited coinage of American gold and silver at the present legal ratio of 16 to 1, as such coinage existed prior to 1873.

Secretary Carlisle sent a telegram to the gold wing of the Nebraska Democrats, expressing his regrets because he did not have time to write their convention a letter. Our distinguished Secretary surely must be cutting his tobacco, or else the worms are so numerous and hungry as to keep him powerful busy. He might have dropped the boys a line some night after supper.

In discussing "mobs," the Owensboro Messenger says: "In Crittenden county two men were hanged, who were suspected of stealing horses."

We regret that circumstances are such that we cannot altogether deny the statement, alas, it is too true that two men were hanged, but the charges against them were of a much more serious nature than stealing horses. One was accused of rape the other of arson. We will all be glad when those things are forgotten, but if they must be mentioned, do the living the justice to show the motives

GRAND RIVERS

Thinking perhaps that a few items from this end of the moral vineyard, would be admitted to the breezy columns of the Press, we grasp our quill to chronicle a few lines that the world may know that we still live and have our being therein.

Bro. W. T. Miller, of the M. E. church, South, filled his regular appointment here yesterday.

Bro. J. S. Miller, who founded the Baptist church at this place, after four years of arduous labor, resigned the care of the church, and Bro. H. Marshall, of Kuttawa, has accepted the call of the church to fill the position.

Mr. Jas Marks returned from Uniontown, last Friday, and moves himself and family to Covington, Tenn., next week, where he stands behind the counter and measures calico "to the pebbles."

The old "Diamond in the Rough," Mr. T. J. Nickell, has been unable to leave home the last week, on account of sickness in his family. We are sorry for this because we want him to get a hustle on himself and show the people of old Lexington and Crittenden counties, that he appreciates the honor they have bestowed on him in making him their standard bearer as their nominee of the Democratic party for representative. No truer hand ever held aloft the banner of Democracy of our counties, than the noble, gallant old hero of Grand Rivers, no heart ever beat in the breast of a man with greater fervency for the cause of Democratic principles as advocated by Thomas Jefferson Nickell.

Born of the best families of old Lyon county, without the advantages in his younger days to obtain an education, which fault I have often heard him deplore, he boldly and heroically went to work to overcome by self applications, to study, to acquire by his own exertions what was deficient in his younger days; self-willed, confident and conservative in all his views, and whatever he undertakes and with a perseverance and will that once set, knows not the word fail. A life long Democrat.

Such is the man to whose hands has been trusted the sacred banner of Democracy of the two counties, and if his banner goes down in defeat, it will not be because of the unfaithful between the rivers. They will rally to his support in November, and to a man, as Democrats, will support him as in the primary, when only one vote was polled against him and in, Grand Rivers, where he is known, as on that day many gold standard men supported him, so will many Republicans support him. Why? Because in Uncle Jeff, they have ever found a friend, when in need of a friend; no hand was more willing than his to help. The widow, the orphan and the needy all know that they do not appeal in vain to him for aid.

The $5000 school house, the best in the county, fitted up in the latest modern style, stands as a monument to his memory as a friend to education. The eight months school that we have had for the last four years to which every child has a right to attend, whether paying anything or not to defray the expenses of the school, marks him as a friend to the poor. "Why," says one, "did he do all this?" no not at all, but it takes a leader to accomplish such results and without his aid it could not or would not have been done. There is where you will always find him in the front ranks, battling for the rights of the poor. Smithland precinct, will you respond to the call of old Driskill precinct as nobly as we did to you when your own gallant Chas Webb and the late talented Wm. R. Bush asked our help? Dr. R. Hill, the home of the venerable Jack Fleming, will you respond to the pleading of your sister precinct for help, as nobly as we did when we sent that noble old Roman to the Legislature. Old Salem, the home of late Representative from this county, the genial James H. Summers, will you return the favor shown your own gallant son by Driskill precinct. Careville, God bless her, we know you will stand by your colors and help us roll up a grand Democratic victory in November for the old "Diamond in the Rough."

Let me say to the people of Crittenden county, you never honored a more worthy man than when you so nobly stood by our old townsman in giving him the nomination.

Geo. W. Landrum.

CRAYNEVILLE

We have fine crops of corn and tobacco.

We are building new barns and shedding old ones, and it would seem that we would have plenty. Indeed there is plenty to eat and plenty of feed for stock. But we are reminded by the fact that we will need some clothing to keep us warm this winter and the only question that causes uneasiness is when and how much money we will get for our produce; and if Billie O. Bradley or P. Wat Hardin will come into these parts and give us consolation on this question we will vote for both with a vim.

Sherman Woodall is claiming the

of tobacco in the county but John Howland says he can't see it that way that he has to rent extra ground for his patch to spread on.

Wm. Teer wants to buy shucks to cover the end of his corn.

Dock Jacobs was informed to day that his fence was down, a stalk of corn had fallen on it and broke three top rails.

W. H. Orway is hauling his wheat off, and feels pretty good; there is a fine boy at his house two weeks old.

Our school is in progress, M. F. Vogue teacher.

J. A. Jacobs has been sick for the past week.

A. C. Deboe, J. P. Deboe and Max Rushing went to Louisville to attend G. A. R. encampment.

Mrs. P. H. Woods with her three sons, Dean, Menard and Mourtie will leave for Louisville to day to visit her sister.

Business at Crayneville is improving, we are using eggs, chickens and dried fruit as a medium of exchange, until we get that honest silver dollar back, no gold to be had.

P. H. Woods says he wants to sell the new goods just received; 12 doz of tin fruit cans, 24 doz of gal mason fruit jars, for cash or produce. The price is low. He also wants those owing him to come around and bring him some money, a fat yearling, shoat or wheat. If you can't pay all pay what you can.

P. Ford is training a very fine 3 year old horse, he is a beauty, in fact Mr. Ford has a fine lot of young horses and mares.

J. N. Meeks is still in the business and raising Irish potatoes that weigh from 1 to 2 1/2 pounds and if the editor or his devil can use any he will exchange a few for a copy of the Press.

CHAPEL HILL

School begins next Monday.

H. O. Hill and wife left last week for their home in Illinois.

T. H. Munner is selling fruit trees this week.

C. A. Adams has purchased a brand new buggy. Lookout girls, he will be around.

R. H. Elder and Albert Crisler are attending school at Marion.

Duke Hill moved his family to Marion last week.

J. C. Munner and wife visited Ed. Hill, of Oak Grove, last week.

T. A. Carrick, of the Boas school house vicinity, was here last Saturday.

John Beard and wife left last week for a ten days visit to friends in Ridgeway, Ill.

Another member has recently been added to J. W. Lynn's family.

A. C. Elder will move to his farm in a few days.

Preparations are being made for a large wheat crop in this vicinity.

Apple cuttings are too numerous to mention.

W. B. Walker is hauling logs to the town mill for J. W. Lynn.

Ruf Elder "burns the wind" occasionally between his house and Marion a mile and a half, in eleven minutes is the best time he has ever made.

Sam Carrick is attending the reunion at Louisville this week.

We learn that one of Horace Williamson's little children was playing with a piece of fuse near the fire, when the fuse caught fire, and burned the child's face pretty badly.

ANNORA

Forest Oliver went to Louisville Friday with Smith.

Will Smith, of Illinois, was visiting friends here last week.

Charlie Duer, of Keokuk, was here Friday.

Mrs. Ethel Morehead, of Morganfield, is visiting friends at this place.

Cal. Belt and Oscar Woodall, of Mimes Sue and Rena Woodall, of Lone Star, attended services here Sunday.

P. H. Woods and daughter, Miss Ray, of Crayneville, attended church here Sunday.

T. B. Hodges, of Crayneville, was here Thursday.

Patent desk have been ordered for the school house, and school will begin as soon as the house is seated.

John Ballard and Min Massey and wife, of Lyon, were here Sunday.

George Teer and wife, of Lyon, attended services here Sunday.

The protracted meeting did not begin as expected, but was postponed till next second Sunday.

John Rorer and family, were in Caldwell Tuesday.

Uncle Jesse Hughes had a fine colt badly cut on a wire fence last week.

Jim Hughes, of Marion, attended church here Sunday night.

LOLA

It is with sorrow that we note the death of Dr. W. J. Kennedy. He will be missed by many, not only as a doctor, but as a kind friend. Our sympathy is with the bereaved ones.

Dr. Magninice, of Salem, is talking of coming here.

The majority of our people are attending campmeeting at Hampton.

RAYOU

W. E. Chippis & Bro. are putting up a fine pair of stock scales at this place. There is nothing that is needed as fast.

Miss Georgie McGrew left Sunday for Marion. She will take charge of the art department in the Graded School. Miss Georgie is well qualified for the position.

Miss Eva Wood returned to her home Sunday. Miss Eva is one of Crayneville's finest girls. She gained a host of friends while here.

M. H. McGrew went to Marion Sunday.

G. L. Alston went to Paducah Sunday.

Miss Myrtle Briky went to Paducah Friday. She will attend school there the next four months.

Some of our friends attended the campmeeting at Hampton Sunday.

Everybody is going to Salem Friday to the speaking.

Several people in this vicinity have sore eyes. Several pupils are missing school on that account.

MAKING MONEY.

How Uncle Sam Prints His Greenbacks.

Special to the Press:

WASHINGTON, Sept. 10.

All the paper money now used in the United States is engraved and printed at the bureau of engraving and printing in Washington, D. C. The plates, described in a former letter, from which the money is printed, are stored by the ton in an enormous vault on the ground floor of the building. Here, a short time before work hours begin, the printers form in line and receive from the custodian the plates they are to use for the day. These plates are duly numbered, and each man gives a receipt for his precious charge.

The presses, some two hundred in number, are all hand presses, and each requires the attendance of two persons, the printer and his assistant, usually a young lady, whose duty it is to place the sheet upon the plate for printing, and then remove the same and examine it to see if the impression taken is satisfactory. The assistants receive $1.25 per day, which is deducted from the pay of the printer. They are appointed through the civil service commission and usually are placed under the charge of the printers and remain with the same ones who have instructed them in the duties of the trade.

The paper, in sheets large enough for four bills, comes from the Treasury department in bundles of 1,000 sheets. When it arrives it is counted into packages of one hundred sheets each, and thoroughly moistened, so that it will absorb the ink.

The printer applies ink to the plate with a hand roller, wipes with a cloth and then polishes it with the special palm of his hand. No satisfactory substitute has been discovered for the human hand for this finishing touch in preparing the plate for printing the steel engravings, and for that reason fine work can not be done on the steam press.

The design is cut down into the plate and the fine lines are filled with ink. Each plate has to be studied by itself, for the skill of the printer depends on his knowledge of the proper way in which the particular plate should be rubbed. No two plates require the same treatment. When the plate is "polished off" the attendant places a sheet upon the same, and then by turning a wheel the table carrying the plate is passed beneath a roller under great pressure, and the ink in the lines adheres to the paper. Every imperfectly printed sheet is thrown aside, and for each press an allowance is made of one poor sheet out of every hundred. If the number spoiled exceeds this, the printer is charged with the estimated cost of the paper, and all the work put on it up to the time the injury is done. The backs are printed first, then after a seasoning and remounting the faces, then the numbers are applied, and finally the red seal is affixed and the bills are cut apart.

The printed sheets, good and bad are turned in and counted. If a sheet is missing the printer has to pay the government the full face value of the four bills, no matter how high the denomination. The sheets are counted some sixty times from beginning to end, and the system of work is so perfectly arranged that it is almost an unknown thing to find a mistake made anywhere.

A good printer prints about nine hundred sheets a day, though occasionally an extra rapid worker can turn off a thousand. The pay is by the day, and depends upon the work done. After deducting the wages of the assistant the printer has from four to six dollars a day left for his services. The printers are now entitled to a leave of absence for thirty days per year, the same as other government clerks, and during this time they receive the average amount earned for a certain period previous to taking their vacations.

Tribute of Respect.

Whereas, It becomes our sad duty at the session of Bella Mines church, to record the death of one of our beloved brother in church, and former pastor, Rev. W. C. M. Travis, having been a member of this Cumberland Presbyterian church, of this place, since 1897. Bro. Travis served the church as a ruling Elder until he was called to preach and ordained as a minister of the Gospel by Princeton Presbytery.

He was then chosen pastor of this church and served her faithfully for twelve years. He did much and lasting good in building up this church.

Therefore, Be it Resolved: That while it grieves our hearts to part with one, who, in all his relations of life, performed his duty as by him understood.

We bow in humble submission to the will of God, who doth all things after the counsel of his own will, whose ways are hid the mysteries of his own work. "Dust thou art, and unto dust thou shalt return."

That in the death of Bro. Travis, united to give perfect satisfaction or the church has sustained a great and material loss, both as a member and

Bro. J. B. Miller, who founded the Baptist church at this place, after four years of arduous labor, resigned the care of the church, and Bro. H. Marshall, of Kuttawa, has accepted the call of the church to fill the position.

Mr. Jas Marks returned from Uniontown, last Friday, and moved himself and family to Covington, Tenn., next week, where he stands behind the counter and measures calves "to the pebbles."

The old "Diamond in the Rough," Mr. T. J. Nickell, has been unable to leave home the last week, on account of sickness in his family. We are sorry for this because we want him to get a little on himself and show the people of old Livingston and Crittenden counties, that he appreciates the honor they have bestowed on him in making him their standard bearer as their nominee of the Democratic party for representative. No truer hand ever held aloft the banner of Democracy of our counties, than the noble, gallant old hero of Grand Rivers, no heart ever beat in the breast of a man with greater fervency for the cause of Democratic principles as advocated by Thomas Jefferson Nickell.

Born of the best families of old Lyon county, without the advantages in his younger days to obtain an education, which fault I have often heard him deplore, he boldly and heroically went to work to overcome by self applications, to study, to acquire by his own exertions what was deficient in his younger days; self-willed, confident and conservative in all his views, and whatever he undertakes and with a perseverance and will that once set, knows not the word fail. A life long Democrat.

Such is the man to whose hands has been trusted the sacred banner of Democracy of the two counties, and if his banner goes down in defeat, it will not be because of the unfaithful devotion of the rivers. They will rally to his support in November, and to a man, as Democrats, will support him as in the primary, when only one vote was polled against him, and in Grand Rivers, where he is known, as on that day many gold standard men supported him, so will many Republican supporters. Why? Because in Uncle Jeff, they have ever found a friend, when in need of a friend, no hand was more willing than his to help. The widow, the orphan and the needy all know that they do not appeal in vain to him for aid.

The $3000 school house, the best in the county, fitted up in the latest modern style, stands as a monument to his memory as a friend to education. The eight months school that we have had for the last four years to which every child has a right to attend, whether paying anything or not, to defray the expenses of the school, marks him as a friend to the poor. "Why," says one, "did he do all this?" "Not at all, but it takes a leader to accomplish such results and without his aid it could not or would not have been done. There is where you will always find him in the front ranks, battling for the rights of the poor. Smithland precinct, will you respond to the call of old Driskill precinct as nobly as we did to you when your own gallant Chas Webb and the late talented Wm. R. Bush asked our help? Over Hill, the home of the venerable Jack Fleming, will you respond to the pleading of your sister precinct for help, as nobly as we did when we sent that noble old Roman to the Legislature. Old Salem, the home of last Representative from this county, the genial James H. Sumners, will you return the favor shown your own gallant son by Driskill precinct. Carville, God bless her, we know you will stand by your colors and help us roll up a grand Democratic victory in November for the old "Diamond in the Rough."

Let me say to the people of Crittenden county, you never honored a more worthy man than when you nobly stood by our old townsman in giving him the nomination.

Business at Crayneville is improving, we are using eggs, chickens and dried fruit as a medium of exchange, until we get that honest silver dollar back, no gold to be had.

P. H. Woods says he wants to sell the new goods just received: 12 doz of tin fruit cans, 24 doz of gal mason fruit jars, for cash or produce. The price is low. He also wants these owing him to come around and bring him some money, a fat yearling, short or wheat. If you can't pay all pay what you can.

P. Ford is training a very fine 3 year old horse, he is a beauty, in fact Mr. Ford has a fine lot of young horses and mares.

J. N. Meeks is still in the business and raising Irish potatoes that weigh from 1 to 2 1/2 pounds and if the editor or his devil can use any he will exchange a few for a copy of the Press.

MAKING MONEY.

How Uncle Sam Prints His Greenbacks.

Special to the Press: Washington, Sept. 10.

All the paper money now used in the United States is engraved and printed at the bureau of engraving and printing in Washington, D. C. The plates, described in a former letter, from which the money is printed, are stored by the ton in an enormous vault on the ground floor of the building. Here, a short time before work hours begin, the printers form in line and receive from the custodian the plates they are to use for the day. These plates are duly numbered, and each man gives a receipt for his previous charge.

The presses, some two hundred in number, are all hand presses, and each requires the attendance of two persons, the printer and his assistant, usually a young lady, whose duty it is to place the sheet upon the plate for printing, and then remove it to the same and examine it to see if the impression taken is satisfactory. The assistants receive $1.25 per day wages which is deducted from the pay of the printer. They are appointed through the civil service commission and usually are placed under the charge of the printers and remain with them as long as they have instructed them in the duties of the trade.

The paper, in sheets large enough for four bills, comes from the Treasury department in bundles of 1,000 sheets. When it arrives it is counted into packages of one hundred sheets each, and thoroughly moistened, so that it will absorb the ink.

The printer applies ink to the plate with a hand roller, wipes with a cloth and then polishes it with the special palm of his hand. No satisfactory substitute has been discovered for the human hand for this finishing touch in preparing the plate for printing, the steel engravings, and for that reason fine work can not be done on the steam presses.

The design is cut down into the plate and the fine lines are filled with ink. Each plate has to be studied by itself, for the skill of the printer depends on his knowledge of the paper upon which the particular plate should be rubbed. No two plates require the same treatment. When the plate is "polished off" the attendant places a sheet upon the same, and then by turning a wheel the table carrying the plate is passed beneath a roller under great pressure, and the ink in the lines adheres to the paper. Every imperfectly printed sheet is thrown aside, and for each press an allowance is made of one poor sheet out of every hundred. If the paper spoiled exceeds this, the printer is charged with the estimated cost of the paper, and all the work put on it up to the time the injury is done. The backs are printed first, then after a seasoning and moistening the faces, finally the red seal is affixed and the bills are cut sheets.

The printed sheets, good and bad, are turned in and counted. If a sheet is missing the printer has to pay the government the full face value of the four bills, no matter how high the denomination. The sheets are counted some sixty times from beginning to end, and the system of work is so perfectly arranged that it is almost an unknown thing to find a mistake made anywhere.

A good printer prints about nine hundred sheets a day, though occasionally an extra rapid worker can turn off a thousand. The pay is by the day, and depends upon the work done. After deducting the wages of the assistant the printer has from four to six dollars a day left for his services. The printers are now entitled to a leave of absence for thirty days per year, the same as other government clerks, and during this time they receive the average amount earned for a certain period previous to taking their vacations.

Tribute of Respect.

Whereas, It becomes our sad duty at the session of Bell's Mines church, to record the death of one of our beloved brother in church, and former pastor, Rev. W. C. M. Travis, having been a member of this, Cumberland Presbyterian church, of this place, since 1857. Bro. Travis served the church as a ruling elder until he was called to preach and ordained as a minister of the Gospel by Princeton Presbytery.

He was then chosen pastor of this church and served her faithfully for twelve years. He did much and lasting good in building up this church.

Therefore, Be it resolved: That while it grieves our hearts to part with one, who, in all his relations of life, performed his duty as by him understood.

We bow in humble submission to the will of God, who calls all things after the counsel of his own will, whose ways are hid: the mysteries of his own work. "Dust thou art, and unto dust thou shalt return."

That in the death of Bro. Travis, the church has sustained a great and mournful loss, both as a member and

ONE YEAR ONE DOLLAR

Mr. Nickell and Mr. Blackburn are keeping mighty quiet.

The elephant keeps tramping on the purple Uncle Sam keeps his gold in.

The C. J. is still serving its party like Peter served his Master—at a pretty considerable distance.

Mr. Bradley is playing a game of solitaire; he is not much of a hand at euchre, especially with Wat Hardin.

The gold reserve is below the $100,000,000 mark again. The syndicates contract to keep it up to that mark expires in October, and then—

Never were the schools of Crittenden in such fine working order as now. Keep your boys and girls in them. Constant work is the only kind that wins.

Three of the men accused of participating in the violence in the Howton affair in Caldwell county are in the toils of the law. Good for Caldwell county.

Still the idea that President Cleveland wants the nomination for another term in the White House is entertained in some quarters. At the proper time he will disabuse the public of this notion.

Mr. Bradley's figures about State matters are very pretty, but Wat Hardin wiped them off of the blackboard so completely that Mr. B. is going to do his marking where Wat can't reach them.

Wat Hardin has swerved neither to the right nor the left from his convictions of right. He is no time server, nor artful dodger, nor unscrupulous man to be driven hither and thither by every adverse wind. He is a man.

The Louisville Post seems to be out of humor because Gen. Buckner withdrew from the Senatorial race. If the Post had the Democratic party bound hand and foot and a rope around its neck poor Buckner would be himself again.

The strong light of the Covington Commonwealth is throwing on the editorial columns of the Courier Journal shows that the old lady did not always wear John Sherman bloomers, but on the other hand, babies who are in childhood yet saw her bedecked in plain, old fashioned Democratic cloths.

The first page of the Courier-Journal is looming up ominously, but the editorial page is not germain to the occasion. It has a thrilling editorial headed "Omnious to Turkey." The article might be well enough in child November days, under the caption of "Omnious to Turkey," but it is dull political reading just now.

Benton joins the ranks of the dry towns. Not dry for want of liquor and trade, but for want of liquor. The First district has a strong Prohibition leaning in non political temperance, but her predilections are still towards Democracy, when politics is mixed up with the voting.

The National Encampment of the Grand Army of the Republic has charge of Louisville this week, and that great Southern city is entertaining the thousands of visitors in true Kentucky style. Louisville, as well as Kentucky, appreciates the honor, and breathes the spirit of brotherhood towards the veterans.

The Republicans of Chase county, Kan., in convention, passed a resolution declaring, "We, therefore, declare ourselves in favor of the immediate restoration of the free and unlimited coinage of American gold and silver at the present legal ratio of 16 to 1, as such coinage existed prior to 1873."

Secretary Carlisle sent a telegram to the gold wing of the Nebraska Democrats, expressing his regrets because he did not have time to write their convention a letter. Our distinguished Secretary surely must be cutting his tobacco, or else the worms are so numerous and hungry as to keep him powerful busy. He might have dropped the boys a line some night after supper.

In discussing "mobs," the Owensboro Messenger says: "In Crittenden county two men were hanged, who were suspected of stealing horses."

We regret that circumstances are such that we cannot altogether deny the statement, alas, it is too true that two men were hanged, but the charges against them were of a much more serious nature than stealing horses. One was accused of rape the other of arson. We will be glad when those things are forgotten, but if they must be mentioned, do the living the justice to show the motives of their untimely actions.

GRAND RIVERS.

Thinking perhaps that a few items from this end of the moral vineyard, would be admitted to the breezy columns of the Press, we grasp our quill to chronicle a few lines that the world may know that we still live and have our being therein.

Bro. W. T. Miller, of the M. E. church, South, filled his regular appointment here yesterday.

MAKING MONEY.

How Uncle Sam Prints His Greenbacks.

Special to the Press.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 10.

All the paper money now used in the United States is engraved and printed at the bureau of engraving and printing in Washington, D. C. The plates, described in a former letter, from which the money is printed, are stored by the ton in an enormous vault on the ground floor of the building. Here, a short time before work begins, the printers form in line and receive from the custodian the plates they are to use for the day. These plates are duly numbered, and each man gives a receipt for his precious charge.

The presses, some two hundred in number, are all hand presses, and each requires the attendance of two persons, the printer and his assistant, usually a young lady, whose duty it is to place the sheet upon the plate for printing, and then remove the same and examine it to see if the impression taken is satisfactory. The assistants receive $1.25 per day wages which is deducted from the pay of the printer. They are appointed through the civil service commission and usually are placed under the charge of the printers and remain with them as long as they have instructed them in the duties of the trade.

The paper, in sheets large enough for four bills, comes from the Treasury department in bundles of 1,000 sheets. When it arrives it is counted into packages of one hundred sheets each, and thoroughly moistened, so that it will absorb the ink.

The printer applies ink to the plate with a hand roller, wipes with a cloth and then polishes it with the open palm of his hand. No satisfactory substitute has been discovered for the human hand for this finishing touch in preparing the plate for printing, the steel engravings, and for that reason fine work can not be done on the steam presses.

The design is cut down into the plate and the fine lines are filled with ink. Each plate has to be studied by itself, for the skill of the printer depends on his knowledge of the proper way in which the particular plate should be rubbed. No two plates require the same treatment. When the plate is "polished off" the attendant places a sheet upon the same, and then by turning a wheel the table carrying the plate is passed beneath a roller under great pressure, and the ink in the lines adheres to the paper. Every imperfectly printed sheet is thrown aside, and for each press an allowance is made of one poor sheet out of every hundred. If the sheet spoiled exceeds this, the printer is charged with the estimated cost of the paper, and all the work put on it up to the time the injury is done. The backs are printed first, then after a seasoning and remounting the faces, then the numbers are applied, and finally the red seal is affixed and the bills are cut apart.

The printed sheets, good and bad, are turned in and counted. If a sheet is missing the printer has to pay the government the full face value of the four bills, no matter how high the denomination. The sheets are counted some sixty times from beginning to end, and the system of work is so perfectly arranged that it is almost an unknown thing to find a mistake made anywhere.

A good printer prints about nine hundred sheets a day, though occasionally an extra rapid worker can turn off a thousand. The pay is by the day, and depends upon the work done. After deducting the wages of the assistant the printer has from four to six dollars a day left for his services. The printers are now entitled to a leave of absence for thirty days per year, the same as other government clerks, and during this time they receive the average amount earned for a certain period previous to taking their vacations.

ISSUED WEEKLY.

ONE YEAR ONE DOLLAR

Mr. Nickell and Mr. Blackburn are keeping mighty quiet.

The elephant keeps tramping on the purse Uncle Sam keeps his gold in.

The C. J. is still serving its party like Peter served his Master—at a pretty considerable distance.

Mr. Bradley is playing a game of solitaire; he is not much of a hand at euchre, especially with Wat Hardin.

The gold reserve is below the $100,000,000 mark again. The syndicate contract to keep it up to that mark expires in October, and then—

Never were the schools of Crittenden in such fine working order as now. Keep your boys and girls in them. Constant work is the only kind that wins.

Three of the men accused of participating in the mob violence in the Howland affair in Caldwell county are in the toils of the law. Good for Caldwell county.

Still the idea that President Cleveland wants the nomination for another term in the White House is entertained in some quarters. At the proper time he will disabuse the public of this notion.

Mr. Bradley's figures about State matters are very pretty, but Wat Hardin wiped them off of the blackboard so completely that Mr. B. is going to do his marking where Wat can't reach them.

Wat Hardin has swerved neither to the right nor the left from his convictions of right. He is no time server, nor artful dodger, nor unstable man to be driven hither and thither by every adverse wind. He is a man.

The Louisville Post seems to be out of humor because Gen. Buckner withdrew from the Senatorial race. If the Post had the Democratic party bound hand and foot and a rope around its neck poor Richard would be himself again.

The strong light of the Covington Commonwealth is throwing on the editorial columns of the Courier Journal shows that the old lady did not always wear John Sherman bloomers, but on the other hand, babies who are in childhood yet saw her bedecked in plain, old fashioned Democratic clothes.

The first page of the Courier-Journal is looming up ominously, but the editorial page is not germain to the occasion. It has a thrilling editorial headed "Omnious to Turkey." The article might be well enough in chill November days, under the caption of "Omnious to Turkey," but it is dull political reading just now.

Benton joins the ranks of the dry towns. Not dry for want of life and trade, but for want of liquor. The First district has a strong Prohibition leaning in non political temperance, but her predilections are still towards Democracy, when politics is mixed up with the voting.

The National Encampment of the Grand Army of the Republic has charge of Louisville this week, and that great Southern city is entertaining the thousands of visitors in true Kentucky style. Louisville, as well as Kentucky, appreciates the honor, and breathes the spirit of brotherhood towards the veterans.

The Republicans of Chase county, Kas., in convention, passed a resolution declaring, "We, therefore, declare ourselves in favor of the immediate restoration of the free and unlimited coinage of American gold and silver at the present legal ratio of 16 to 1, as such coinage existed prior to 1873."

Secretary Carlisle sent a telegram to the gold wing of the Nebraska Democrats, expressing his regrets because he did not have time to write their convention a letter. Our distinguished Secretary surely must be cutting his tobacco, or else the worms are so numerous and hungry as to keep him powerful busy. He might have dropped the boys a line some night after supper.

In discussing "mobs," the Owensboro Messenger says: "In Crittenden county two men were hanged, who were suspected of stealing horses."

We regret that circumstances are such that we cannot altogether deny the statement, alas, it is too true that two men were hanged, but the charges against them were of such a serious nature that stealing horses. One was accused of robbing the other of arson. We will all be glad when those things are forgotten, but if they must be mentioned, do the living the justice to show the motives of their untimely actions.

GRAND RIVERS.

Thinking perhaps that a few items from this end of the moral vineyard, would be admitted to the breezy columns of the Press, we grasp our quill to chronicle a few lines that the world may know that we still live and have our being therein.

Bro. W. T. Miller, of the M. E. church, South, filled his regular appointment here yesterday.

Bro. J. S. Miller, who founded the Baptist church at this place, after four years of arduous labor, resigned the care of the church, and Bro. H. Marshall, of Kuttawa, has accepted the call of the church to fill the position.

Mr. Jas Marks returned from Uniontown, last Friday, and moves himself and family to Covington, Tenn., next week, where he stands behind the counter and measures calico "to de peebles."

The old "Diamond in the Rough," Mr. T. J. Nickell, has been unable to leave home the last week, on account of sickness in his family. We are sorry for this because we want him to get a hustle on himself and show the people of old Livingston and Crittenden counties, that he appreciates the honor they have bestowed on him.

We are sorry for this because we want him to get a hustle on himself and show the people of old Livingston and Crittenden counties, that he appreciates the honor they have bestowed on him.

Such is the man to whose hands has been trusted the sacred banner of Democracy of the two counties, and if his banner goes down in defeat, it will not be because of the unfaithful from the rivers. They will rally to his support in November, and to a man, as Democrats, will support him in the primary, when only one vote was polled against him and in, Grand Rivers, where he is known, as on that day many gold standard men supported him, so will many Republicans support him. Why? Because in uncle Jeff, they have ever found a friend, when in need of a friend; no hand was more willing than his to help. The widow, the orphan and the needy all know that they do not appeal in vain to him for aid.

The $5000 school house, the best in the county, fitted up in the latest modern style, stands as a monument to the memory of the late Mr. J. W. Walker. The eight months school that we have had for the last four years to which every child has a right to attend, whether paying anything or not to defray the expenses of the school, marks him as a friend to the poor. "Why," says one, "did he do all this? not at all, but it takes a leader to accomplish such results and without his aid it could not or would not have been done. There is where you will always find him in the front ranks, battling for the rights of the poor. Smithland precinct, will you respond to the call of old Driskill precinct as nobly as we did to you when your own gallant Chas Webb and the late talented Wm. R. Bush asked our help? Drer Hill, the home of the venerable Jack Fleming, will you respond to the pleading of your sister precinct for help, as nobly as we did when we went to the noble old Roman to the Legislature. Old Salem, the home of last Representative from this county, the genial James H. Summers, will you return the favor shown your own gallant son by Driskill precinct. Carrsville, God bless her, we know you will stand by your colors and help us roll up a grand Democratic victory in November for the old "Diamond in the Rough."

Let me say to the people of Crittenden county, you never honored a more worthy man than when you so nobly stood by our old townsman in giving him the nomination.

CRAYNEVILLE.

We have fine crops of corn and tobacco.

We are building new barns and shedding old ones, and it would seem that we would have plenty. Indeed there is plenty to eat and plenty of feed for stock. But we are reminded by the fact that we will need some clothing to keep us warm this winter and the only question that causes uneasiness is when and how much money we will get for our produce; and if Billie O. Bradley or P. Wat Hardin will come into these parts and give us consolation on this question we will vote for both with a vim.

Sherman Wood's is claiming the blue ribbon on having the finest crop of tobacco in the county but John Howland says he can't see it that way that he has to rent extra ground for his patch to spread on.

Wm. Teer wants to buy shucks to cover the end of his corn.

Dock Jacobs was informed to day that his fence was down, a stalk of corn had fallen on it and broke three top rails.

W. H. Ordway is handling his wheat off, and feels pretty lively; there is a fine boy at his house two weeks old.

Our school is in progress, M. F. Pogue teacher.

J. A. Jacobs has been sick for the past week.

A. C. Deboe, J. P. Deboe and Max Rushing went to Louisville to attend G. A. R. encampment.

Mrs. P. H. Woods with her three sons, Dean, Maud and Maudie will leave for Louisville to day to visit her sister.

Business at Crayneville is improving, we are using eggs, chickens and dried fruit as a medium of exchange, until we get that honest silver dollar back, no gold to be had.

P. H. Woods says he wants to sell the new goods just received; 12 doz qt tin fruit cans, 24 doz 1/2 gal mason fruit jars, for cash or produce. The price is low. He also wants those owing him to come around and bring him some money, a fat yearling, short or wheat. If you can't pay all pay what you can.

P. Ford is training a very fine 3 year old horse, he is a beauty, in fact Mr. Ford has a fine lot of young horses and mares.

J. N. Meeks is still in the business and raising Irish potatoes; that weigh from 1 to 2 1/2 pounds and if the editor or his devil can use any he will exchange a few for a copy of the Press.

Duke Hill moved his family to Marion last week.

J. C. Minner and wife visited Ed. Hill, of Oak Grove, last week.

T. A. Carrick, of the Boaz school house vicinity, was here last Saturday.

John Beard and wife left last week for a ten days visit to friends in Ridgeway, Ill.

Another member has recently been added to J. W. Lynne's family.

A. C. Elder will move to his farm in a few days.

Preparations are being made for a large wheat crop in this vicinity.

Apple cuttings are too numerous to mention.

W. B. Walker is hauling logs to the town mill for J. W. Lynn.

Ruf Elder "burns the wind" occasionally between his house and Marion a mile and a half, in eleven minutes is the best time he has ever made.

Sam Carrick is attending the reunion at Louisville this week.

We learn that one of Horace Williamson's little children was playing with a piece of fuse near the fire, when the fuse caught fire, and burned the child's face pretty badly.

ANNORA.

Forest Oliver went to Louisville Friday with stock.

Will Smith, of Illinois, was visiting friends here last week.

Charlie Duer, of Kealey, was here Friday.

Mrs. Ethel Morehead, of Morganfield, is visiting friends at this place.

Cal. Belt and Oscar Woodall, with Misses Sue and Rena Woodall, of Lone Star, attended services here Sunday.

P. H. Woods and daughter, Miss Ray, of Crayneville, attended church here Sunday.

T. B. Hodges, of Crayneville, was here Thursday.

Patent desk have been ordered for the school house, and school will begin as soon as the house is seated.

Some persons never look over the fence that divides their own little affairs from all creatives; and consequently they have not heard of the wonderful cures effected by the new remedy known as Ramon's Tonic Liver Pills (and Pellets). They mark a new era in the cure of sick headaches, biliousness, sour stomach, etc. Ask your druggist about this. You can expect a three weeks treatment for 25 cents, including both the pills and the tonic pellets. Try a free sample.

A. C. MOORE.

The County Attorney.

On the 6th, County Judge Moore filled the vacancy in the county attorneyship by appointing Mr. A. C. Moore. The appointment is made until the regular election in 1896. The new attorney carries to the office an active experience as an attorney, and will make the county a good office. Besides being well versed in the law, he is a man of fine business qualifications, and is full of energy and ambition, and the evil powers may expect to meet an unwavering foe in the official character of Mr. Moore when they get in court.

Costly Melons.

Melons have been so cheap this year, that there has been but slight excuse for the boys making raids even on tempting, well hid patches. Nevertheless, Ben Sisco and Chas. Williams could not withstand the temptation when they happened to find some big fine melons grinning at them. So on Sunday night they hatched their horses and went to the place where the melons were. The boys called for the horses the tale was told. Next day they surrendered to "Squire" Harpending, and Tuesday with the advice and assistance of the county attorney, he fined them $5 each for trespass.

Pope County Fair.

The Pope county Agricultural Association will hold its 32nd annual fair at Golconda, Ill., at their new fair grounds, beginning Oct. 2 and continuing 4 days. This fair has sustained for many years the reputation of being one of the best in Southern Illinois, and this year's exhibit promises to excel in every department any yet held. Competition is open to all and liberal premiums are offered. For list and other information address George H. Robinson, Sec'y, Golconda, Ill.

"Uncle" St. Dead.

"Uncle" St. Hughes, the well known colored farmer who lived seven miles north of town died Monday, after several weeks' illness. There were no better men in the colored race than St. Hughes; honest, industrious, thrifty and peaceful, he pursued the even tenor of his way, and won the confidence not only of his own people, but of all the white persons who knew him. His career is one that his people could emulate with profit. Peace to his ashes and honor to his name.

Brakeman Killed.

Freeman Frye, a colored brakeman on the O. V. freight train, was killed at Repton Tuesday night. He fell from the top of a freight car and struck the platform at Repton, as the car was passing, and rolling under the wheels, his left leg was cut off and other injuries inflicted that caused death in a very short while.

Deeds Recorded.

J. R. Clark and Garland Carter, trustees, to school district No. 30, lot for $110.

John T. Franks, sheriff, to E. G. Wheeler, lot for $890, sold for taxes.

J. R. McIntire to Mary G. Williams, house and lot for $750.

Recently at a public gathering in Marion, the presence of a number of old citizens was noted, and their activity and interest in public affairs is remarkable. We met a few of these hale, hearty and industrious men who have crossed the line of three score and ten—the biblical time allotted to man—and their ages and names were as follows: E. W. Hill 95; Basil Butler 88; A. J. Hill 82; S. E. Brewster 76; W. C. L. Moore 73; Jordan, Brantley 72; Highly Gilbert 73; Dr. R. W. Taylor 72; R. S. Kennedy 72; Sam Asher 71; Henry Howerton 71; A. C. Gilbert 71.

Mr. J. A. Pierce and wife, of Livingston county, went to Louisville Monday.

Messrs. L. H. James, F. E. Robertson and Dr. J. H. Clark left Tuesday for Hot Springs.

Mrs. Lizzie Williams went to Louisville Monday to buy her fall suit of millinery goods.

Mr. Frank Glenn was in town a few days ago, he will probably move to town this fall.

Col. R. W. Foster, of Tolu, has been seriously ill several days, and his recovery is very doubtful.

Mr. W. B. Franks returned from Owensboro, Friday, where he has been for several months.

Rev. Brandon and wife spent Monday night with friends in Marion. They are now visiting at Salem.

Mr. Jas. Hunter and family, of Princeton, spent Sunday with the family of H. Koltinsky, of this place.

Mrs. Belle Large and daughter, Miss Annie, of Mt. Vernon, Indiana, were guests of John A. Hurley last week.

Mrs. Sarah Kurlay and Mrs. Rebecca Gregory returned from Sturgis yesterday, where they have been visiting relatives.

Mr. N. R. Farris, of Salem, passed through town Monday, en route to Hopkinsville, where he will attend college.

Mr. Joe Mason headed a party of old soldiers from Cave-in-Rock, who passed through town en route for the encampment at Louisville, Monday.

Messrs. C. Hodge, Asa Alvis and Anderson Woods, three of Livingston counties promising young men, went Russellville last week to attend college.

Mr. J. G. Barnes, who went West five years ago, returned a few days ago. He will locate in Kentucky, where he likes the matters better than the West.

Mr. J. E. Bozeman, of Tolu, was in town yesterday. He is the senior member of the firm of Bozeman Bros., the grocery and grain dealers, of Tolu. The firm has handled a big quantity of what this year, and expects to handle the big corn crop that is now growing in that section.

Judge T. J. Nunn, of Madisonville, spent two days in Marion last week looking after some business matters. No man has more friends in Crittenden than Judge Nunn, and no man is more deserving of the respect and friendship than this sterling gentleman and splendid lawyer.

The boys of the school have organized a debating society.

"Bly McKee" is the name of a promising filly raised by Mack O'Hara, of this county. She has been in training at Princeton and her time was for 1 mile 11 seconds, 1/4 of a mile 24 seconds, 1/2 mile, 53 seconds. She was sired by Kempton, and her dam is Cooper.

Just received a big lot of timothy seed. Cochran & Baker.

Mr. Jas. C. Wolfe, manager for the Croft-Barnett Mercantile Co., of Tolu, passed through town Monday en route to Evansville to buy some material for finishing the handsome residence he is building at Tolu. When the residence is completed it will be among the handsomest in the county.

Get your timothy seed at Cochran & Baker.

County assessor J. F. Flannery begins business on the 15th. Heretofore the assessor has been assisted by deputies, this year that industrious officer has rolled up his sleeves, and is going to try the work alone. If anybody can make the rounds on time Della Flannery can.

Marriage licenses have been issued to Geo. C. Kirk and Miss Mollie E. Ellison.

Chas. I. Morgan and Miss Emma D. Conger.

Jas. N. Croft and Miss Josie A. Bebout.

We are not issuing any periodical "do it up out" circulars, but we sell all the time at closing out prices. Cochran & Baker.

Mr. R. H. Dean and wife, of Washington, D. C., are visiting relatives in and around Marion.

Mr. Dean went to Washington a few years ago to take a position in the Weather Bureau, and he has proven to be a valuable man, and as he went in under the civil service rules, he will likely retain the place as long as he wants it.

Satisfaction is a mild word for the mental state of that man who has banished all sicknesses by a single course of Hamon's Tonic Liver Pills. Instead of yellow cheeks and dull eyes he has now rosy cheeks and bright eyes, and in place of a sour stomach, he has a healthy, active appetite and good digestion. Have you never tried this famous remedy? Your druggist keeps it. Get a sample free.

Walker Merriwether, col., is on the chain-gang this week. He was fined $5.00 for breach of the peace. According to his testimony, he shook his fist in the face of his victim, a woman. The woman appeared in court with a terribly swollen face; in fact she was in rather a bad shape from being so close to Merriwether's big right.

We can't wait any longer. Parties owing us for burial expenses must come and pay or make good notes within 60 days. At the expiration of this time, all such accounts will go into hand of officers for collection. Walker & Olive.

Monday Judge Moore received a note from the Asylum at Hopkinsville that Thos. Chandler was dying. He was sent to the Asylum from this county about a year ago.

Mr. E. E. Thurman, one of our best teachers, will teach at Sturgis this term. The Sturgis people will find Mr. Thurman a fine teacher, and a scholar, Christian gentleman, whom to know is to admire.

Geo. C. Kirk and Miss Mollie E. Ellison, were united in marriage Sunday night at the residence of Mr. L. F. White, west of Marion. Eld. Eli Eaton officiated. About a hundred friends gathered at the hospital home of Mr. White, to witness the affair. After the ceremony, the guests were invited out to a handsome supper, prepared for the occasion. The bride is a native of Tennessee; for some time she has made Mr. White's home. The groom is a prosperous farmer of that section. The Press extends congratulations.

Dr. Kennedy Dead.

Dr. James Kennedy, a well known young physician, of Lola, Livingston county, died at his home last Wednesday, of fever. He was a splendid young man, full of promise and hope and a large circle of friends throughout that section deeply regret his death.

He was a son of W. B. Ke one of the most prominent citizens of the county. Within the last few years three brothers have died. Charlie, who lived at this place, died about six years ago; a year ago George, the youngest boy, died at Lola, and the death that occurred last Wednesday makes the third.

The grand jury in the Livingston circuit court returned an indictment against Messrs. Bauer and Hudson, who own the steamer Lancaster, charging them with selling liquor and beer some time since on an excursion without a license. An indictment for setting up a game was also returned against some of the managers of the excursion. Bauer & Hudson, it will be recalled, were arrested some time ago, and held to answer before the grand jury.

Saturday in the malicious cutting case against John Bennett, colored, who killed a white man named Parker, the jury fined him $100 and sentenced him to a term of six months in the county jail.

Marvelous Results.

From a letter written by Rev. J. Underman, of Dimondale, Mich., we are permitted to make this extract: "I have no hesitation in recommending Dr. King's New Discovery, as the results were almost marvelous in the case of my wife. While I was pastor of the Baptist Church at Rives Junction she was brought down with Pneumonia succeeding La Grippe. Terrible paroxysms of coughing would last hours with little interruption and it seemed as if she could not survive them. A friend recommended Dr. King's New Discovery, it was quick in its work and highly satisfactory in results." Trial bottles free at Woods & Wilson's drug store. Regular size 50c and $1.

A Successful Revival.

The annual protracted meeting at Bell Mines began Saturday evening Aug. 24, and continued two weeks, conducted by Rev. O. C. Womack, of Anderson Presbyterian, and Rev. G. L. Woodruff, the pastor.

The opening and devotional exercises were conducted by Elder P. H. Woodruff, of Sugar Grove church.

While Bro. Womack did all the preaching, Bro. Woodruff did not fail to discharge his duty in exhorting and in instructing penitents. Bro. Womack labored earnestly and faithfully, never tiring nor ever failing to do any thing that would point out the way of life and salvation to sinners.

As a result of Bro. Womack's earnest and faithful work, there were eighty sinners professed faith in Christ. Some who had spent three score years and ten in sin, whose gray heads told that they had spent the better part of their lives in aversion to the will of God. Yet by their bright professions, they gain assurance that the remaining few years of their lives would be spent in subjection to the will of their Creator.

There were also fifty-seven additions to the church.

The meeting was of special good in strengthening the faith of believers, and in awakening a spiritual interest in the church.

Such a revival has never before been known in the history of this church.

Thus did Bro. Womack prove himself to be "a workman that needeth not to be ashamed, rightly dividing the word of truth."

We feel sincerely thankful that such men as Bro. Womack, Bro. Woodruff and Bro. Woodruff came and labored with us, but we give God all the praise, honor and glory.

Sheriff's Notice.

For the purpose of receiving taxes I will meet the people at the following places on the dates mentioned and must urge all who have not paid to meet me and settle their taxes: Dycusburg, Friday Sept. 20, Levas, Tuesday, Sept. 24, Sheridan, Wednesday Sept. 25, Tolu, Thursday Sept. 26, Fords Ferry, Friday Sept. 27, Bells Mines, church, Monday 30th, Nunn's Switch, Tuesday Oct. 1, Shady Grove, Wednesday Oct. 2.

Remember the time and places and prepare to meet me. I must make these collections and that without delay. Jao T. Franks, S. C. C.

Electric Bitters.

Electric Bitters is a medicine suited for any season, but perhaps more generally needed in the Spring, when the languid exhausted feeling prevails; when the liver is torpid and sluggish and the need of a tonic and alterative is felt. A prompt use of this medicine has often averted long and perhaps fatal bilious fevers. No medicine will act more surely in counteracting and freeing the system from the malarial poison. Headache, indigestion, Constipation, Dizziness yield to Electric Bitters. Only fifty cents per bottle at Woods & Wilson's drug store.

A. C. MOORE

The County Attorney.

On the 6th, County Judge Moore filled the vacancy in the county attorneyship by appointing Mr. A. C. Moore. The appointment is made until the regular election in 1896. The new attorney carries to the office an active experience as an attorney, and will make the county a good officer. Besides being well versed in the law, he is a man of fine business qualifications, and is full of energy and ambition, and the evil doers may expect to meet an unswerving foe in the official character of Mr. Moore when they get in court.

Costly Melons.

Melons have been so cheap this year, that there has been slight excuse for the boys making raids even on tempting, well hid patches. Nevertheless, Ben Sisco and Chas. Williams could not withstand the temptation when they happened to find some big fine melons grinning at them. So on Sunday night they hitched their horses and went what happened next was to their horses, Eld. J. C. Long came along and found the boys, took them home, and when the boys called for the horses the tale was told. Next day they surrendered to Squire Harpending, and Tuesday with the advice and assistance of the county attorney, he fined them $5 each for trespass.

Pope County Fair.

The Pope county Agricultural Association will hold its 32d annual fair at Golconda, Ill., at their new fair grounds, beginning Oct. 2 and continuing 4 days. This fair has sustained for many years the reputation of being one of the best in Southern Illinois, and this year's exhibit promises to excel in every department any yet held. Competition is open to all and liberal premiums are offered. For list and other information address George H. Robinson, Secy, Golconda, Ill.

"Uncle" Si Dead.

"Uncle" Si Hughes, the well known colored farmer who lived seven miles north of town died Monday, after several weeks illness. There were no better men in the colored race than Si Hughes; honest, industrious, thrifty and peaceful, he pursued the even tenor of his way, and won the confidence not only of his own people, but of all the white persons who knew him. His career is one that his people could emulate with profit. Peace to his ashes and honor to his name.

Brakeman Killed.

Freeman Frye, a colored brakeman on the O. V. freight train, was killed at Repton Tuesday night. He fell from the top of a freight car and struck the platform at Repton, as the car was passing, and rolling under the wheels, his left leg was cut off and other injuries inflicted that caused death in a very short while.

Geo. C. Kirk and Miss Mollie E. Ellison, were united in marriage Sunday night at the residence of Mr. L. F. White, west of Marion. Eld. Eli Eaton officiated. About a hundred friends gathered at the hospital home of Mr. White, to witness the affair. After the ceremony, the guests were invited out to a handsome supper, prepared for the occasion. The bride is a native of Tennessee; for some time she has made Mr. White's her home. The groom is a prosperous farmer of that section. The Press extends congratulations.

Dr. Kennedy Dead.

Dr. James Kennedy, a well known young physician, of Lolo, Livingston county, died at his home last Wednesday, of fever. He was a splendid young man, full of promise and hope and a large circle of friends throughout that section deeply regret his death.

He was a son of W. B. Ke one of the most prominent citizens of the county. Within the last few years three brothers have died. Charlie, who lived at this place, died about six years ago; a year ago George, the youngest boy, died at Lolo, and the death that occurred last Wednesday makes the third.

The grand jury in the Livingston circuit court returned an indictment against Messrs. Bauer and Hudson, who own the steamer Lancaster, charging them with selling liquor and beer some time since on an excursion without a license. An indictment for setting up a game was also returned against some of the managers of the excursion. Bauer & Hudson, it will be recalled, were arrested some time ago, and held to answer before the grand jury.

Marvelous Results.

From a letter written by Rev. J. Underman, of Dimondale, Mich., we are permitted to make this extract: "I have no hesitation in recommending Dr. King's New Discovery, as the results were almost marvelous in the case of my wife. While I was pastor of the Baptist Church at Rives Junction she was brought down with Pneumonia succeeding La Grippe. Terrible paroxysms of coughing would last hours with little interruption and it seemed as if she could not survive them. A friend recommended Dr. King's New Discovery, it was quick in its work and highly satisfactory in results." Trial bottles free at Woods & Wilson's drug store. Regular size 50c and $1.

A Successful Revival.
The annual protracted meeting at Bells Mines began Saturday evening Aug. 24, and continued two weeks, conducted by Rev. O. C. Womack, of Anderson Presbytery, and Rev. G. L. Woodruff, the pastor.
The opening and devotional exercises were conducted by Elder P. H. Woodruff, of Sugar Grove church. While Bro. Womack did all the preaching, Bro. Woodruff did not fail to discharge his duty in exhorting and in instructing penitents. Bro. Womack labored earnestly and faithfully, never tiring nor never failing to do any thing that would point out the way of life and salvation to sinners.
As a result of Bro. Womack's earnest and faithful work, there were eighty sinners professed faith in Christ. Some who had spent three score years in sin, whose gray heads told that they had spent the better part of their lives in adoration to the will of God. Yet by their bright professions, they gain assurance that the remaining few years of their lives would be spent in subjection to the will of their Creator.
There were also fifty-seven additions to the church.
The meeting was of special good in strengthening the faith of believers, and in awakening a spiritual interest in the church.
Such a revival has never before been known in the history of this church.
Thus did Bro. Womack prove himself to be "a workman that needeth not to be ashamed, rightly dividing the word of truth."
We feel sincerely thankful that such men as Bro. Womack, Bro. Woodruff and Bro. Woodruff came and labored with us, but we give God all the praise, honor and glory.

Electric Bitters.
Electric Bitters is a medicine suited for any season, but perhaps more generally needed in the Spring, when the languid exhausted feeling prevails; when the liver is torpid and sluggish and the need of a tonic and alterative is felt. A prompt use of this medicine has often averted long and perhaps fatal bilious fevers. No medicine will act more surely in counteracting and freeing the system from the malarial poison. Headache, indigestion, Constipation, Diarrhea yield to Electric Bitters. Only fifty cents per bottle at Woods & Wilson's drug store.

Geo. C. Kirk and Miss Mollie E. Ellison, were united in marriage Sunday night at the residence of Mr. L. E. White, west of Marion. Eld. Eli Eaton officiated. About a hundred friends gathered at the hospital home of Mr. White, to witness the affair. After the ceremony, the guests were invited to a handsome supper, prepared for the occasion. The bride is a native of Tennessee; for some time she has made Mr. White's her home. The groom is a prosperous farmer of that section. The Press extends congratulations.

Marvellous Results.

From a letter written by Rev. J. Underman, of Dimondale, Mich., we are permitted to make this extract: "I have no hesitation in recommending Dr. King's New Discovery, as the results were almost marvelous in the case of my wife. While I was pastor of the Baptist Church at Rives Junction she was brought down with Pneumonia succeeding La Grippe. Terrible paroxysms of coughing would last hours with little interruption and it seemed as if she could not survive them. A friend recommended Dr. King's New Discovery, it was quick in its work and highly satisfactory in results." Trial bottles free at Woods & Wilson's drug store. Regular size 50c and $1.

Dr. Kennedy Dead.

Dr. James Kennedy, a well known young physician, of Lola, Livingston county, died at his home last Wednesday, of fever. He was a splendid young man, full of promise and hope and a large circle of friends throughout that section deeply regret his death.

He was a son of W. B. Ke one of the most prominent citizens of the county. Within the last few years three brothers have died. Charlie, who lived at this place, died about six years ago; a year ago George, the youngest son, died at Lola, and the death that occurred last Wednesday makes the third.

The grand jury in the Livingston circuit court returned an indictment against Messrs. Bauer and Hudson, who own the steamer Lancaster, charging them with selling liquor and beer some time since on an excursion without a license. An indictment for setting up a game was also returned against some of the managers of the excursion. Bauer & Hudson, it will be recalled, were arrested some time ago, and held to answer before the grand jury.

Electric Bitters.

Electric Bitters is a medicine suited for any season, but perhaps more generally needed in the Spring, when the languid exhausted feeling prevails; when the liver is torpid and sluggish and the need of a tonic and alterative is felt. A prompt use of this medicine has often averted long and perhaps fatal bilious fevers. No medicine will act more surely in counteracting and freeing the system from the malarial poison. Headache, indigestion, Constipation, Dizziness yield to Electric Bitters. Only fifty cents per bottle at Woods & Wilson's drug store.

A Successful Revival.

The annual protracted meeting at Bells Mines began Saturday evening Aug. 24, and continued two weeks, conducted by Rev. O. C. Womack, of Anderson Presbytery, and Rev. G. L. Woodruff, the pastor.

The opening and devotional exercises were conducted by Elder P. H. Woodside, of Sugar Grove church. While Bro. Womack did all the preaching, Bro. Woodruff did not fail to discharge his duty as exhorting and in instructing penitents.

Bro. Womack labored earnestly and faithfully, never tiring nor never failing to do any thing that would point out the way of life and salvation to sinners.

As a result of Bro. Womack's earnest and faithful work, there were eighty sinners professed faith in Christ. Some who had spent three score years and ten in sin, whose gray heads told that they had spent the better part of their lives in advertisement to the will of God. Yet by their bright professions, they gain assurance that the remaining few years of their lives would be spent in subjection to the will of their Creator.

There were also fifty-seven additions to the church.

The meeting was of special good in strengthening the faith of believers, and in awakening a spiritual interest in the church.

Such a revival has never before been known in the history of this church.

Thus did Bro. Womack prove himself to be a workman that needeth not to be ashamed, rightly dividing the word of truth.

We feel sincerely thankful that such men as Bro. Womack, Bro. Woodruff and Bro. Woodside came and labored with us, but we give God all the praise, honor and glory.

Mr. Baxter, of Lincoln county, Tenn., filed the appointment of Hon. J. H. McDowell at this place Monday. He is a pleasant forceful speaker, and was listened to very closely by quite a number of people. His presentation of the Populists was strong, and without any bombastic flourishes.

Mr. E. H. Taylor, of New Salem, was in town a few days ago. "The road to Marion is two miles shorter than it was before the overseers gave it such a splendid working," said Mr. Taylor; "while we have the best road in the county," he continued, "I would like to donate of my means, towards the building of a turnpike from Marion to Salem."

On the 8th, the family of Mr. J. F. Loyd entertained a number of kinfolks. There were present W. P. Loyd, Jas. Loyd and wife, Green Jacobs and wife, R. J. Thurman and R. F. Thurman. The gathering was in honor of Mr. N. F. Thurman, of Missouri, who has been visiting relatives in this State. He left for home Tuesday.

Mr. G. M. Russell, a member of the Press force for several years, left Saturday night for Cedar Hill, Tex., where he will embark in the newspaper business on his own account. Mr. Russell is one of the most useful men we ever had; he is at home in all kinds of newspaper work, having been in the business for fifty years. The Press ardently hopes that he will meet with success, bounded only by his desire.

Never was there such fine fruit in Crittenden as this season. The peaches are like pictures, the apples golden, the pears mammoth and plump as numerous as the sands of the seashore. There is no better country for fruit, and in size and flavor it is equal to the California product that comes this way. If the people would take proper care of their orchards, and give the fruit industry the attention it requires, there would be good money in it. As it is, orchards are put out and practically left to take care of themselves.

A. C. MOORE.

The County Attorney.

On the 6th, County Judge Moore filled the vacancy in the county attorneyship by appointing Mr. A. C. Moore. The appointment is made until the regular election in 1896. The new attorney carries to the office an active experience as an attorney, and will make the county a good office. Besides being well versed in the law, he is a man of fine business qualifications, and is full of energy and ambition, and the evil doers may expect to meet an unswerving foe in the official character of Mr. Moore when they get in court.

Costly Melons.

Melons have been so cheap this year, that there has been but slight excuse for the boys making raids even on tempting, well hid patches. Nevertheless, Ben Sisco and Chas. Williams could not withstand the temptation when they happened to find some big fine melons grinning at them. So on Sunday night they hatched their scheme and what happened next was to their horses, Eld. J. C. Long came along and found the horses, took them home, and when the boys called for the horses the tale was told. Next day they surrendered to Squire Harpending, and Tuesday with the advice and assistance of the county attorney, he fined them $5 each for trespass.

Pope County Fair.

The Pope county Agricultural Association will hold its 32d annual fair at Golconda, Ill., at their new fair grounds, beginning Oct. 2 and continuing 4 days. This fair has sustained for many years the reputation of being one of the best in Southern Illinois, and this year's exhibit promises to excel in every department any yet held. Competition is open to all and liberal premiums are offered. For list and other information address George H. Robinson, Sec'y, Golconda, Ill.

"Uncle" Si Dead.

"Uncle" Si Hughes, the well known colored farmer who lived seven miles north of town died Monday, after several weeks illness. There were no better men in the colored race than Si Hughes; honest, industrious, thrifty and peaceful, he pursued the even tenor of his way, and won the confidence not only of his own people, but of all the white persons who knew him. His career is one that his people could emulate with profit. Peace to his ashes and honor to his name.

Brakeman Killed.

Freeman Frye, a colored brakeman on the O. V. freight train, was killed at Repton Tuesday night. He fell from the top of a freight car and struck the platform at Repton, as the car was passing, and rolling under the wheels, his left leg was cut off and other injuries inflicted that caused death in a very short while.

Don't.

Don't mail your letter or valuable package without having your address written or printed upon the upper left hand corner. This will insure its return to you if not delivered and will prevent its being sent to and opened at the dead letter office.

The above notice you will find tacked over the delivery window of the post office, and it came from the postal authorities at Washington. If you are wise you will heed. The Press will furnish you one hundred envelopes with your name and post office address printed on them for 35 cents; sent by mail for 40 cents.

Marvelous Results.

From a letter written by Rev. J. Underman, of Dimondale, Mich., we are permitted to make this extract: "I have no hesitation in recommending Dr. King's New Discovery, as the results were almost marvelous in the case of my wife. While I was pastor of the Baptist Church at Rives Junction she was brought down with Pneumonia succeeding La Grippe. Terrible paroxysms of coughing would last hours with little interruption and it seemed as if she could not survive them. A friend recommended Dr. King's New Discovery, it was quick in its work and highly satisfactory in results." Trial bottles free at Woods & Wilson's drug store. Regular size 50c and $1.

A Successful Revival.
The annual protracted meeting at Bells Mines began Saturday evening Aug. 24, and continued two weeks, conducted by Rev. O. C. Womack, of Anderson Presbytery, and Rev. G. L. Woodruff, the pastor.
The opening and devotional exercises were conducted by Elder P. H. Woodruff, of Sugar Grove church. While Bro. Womack did all the preaching, Bro. Woodruff did not fail to discharge his duty in exhorting and in instructing penitents.
Bro. Womack labored earnestly and faithfully, never tiring nor ever failing to do any thing that would point out the way of life and salvation to sinners.
As a result of Bro. Womack's earnest and faithful work, there were eighty sinners professed faith in Christ. Some who had spent three score years and ten in sin, whose gray heads told that they had spent the better part of their lives in adherence to the will of God. Yet by their bright professions, they gain assurance that the remaining few years of their lives would be spent in subjection to the will of their Creator.
There were also fifty-seven additions to the church.
The meeting was of special good in strengthening the faith of believers, and in awakening a spiritual interest in the church.
Such a revival has never before been known in the history of this church.
Thus did Bro. Womack prove himself to be a workman that needeth not to be ashamed, rightly dividing the word of truth.
We feel sincerely thankful that such men as Bro. Womack, Bro. Woodruff and Bro. Woodruff came and labored with us. We give God all the praise, honor and glory.

Electric Bitters.
Electric Bitters is a medicine suited for any season, but perhaps more generally needed in the Spring, when the languid exhausted feeling prevails, when the liver is torpid and sluggish and the need of a tonic and alterative is felt. A prompt use of this medicine has often averted long and perhaps fatal bilious fevers. No medicine will act more surely in counteracting and freeing the system from the malarial poison. Headache, indigestion, Constipation, Diarrhea, yield to Electric Bitters. Only fifty cents per bottle at Woods & Wilson's drug store.
