COMING THIS WAY.

Walter Blackburn to be Cashier in the U. S. Marshal's Office.

Yesterday morning Walter Blackburn, a young lawyer of this place, and a son of Representative E. B. Blackburn, received a telegram from Washington City, notifying him that he will be appointed cashier in the United States Marshal's office in Louisville. The salary attached to the office is $1500 per year, and the work nothing like as difficult nor tiresome as wheat harvesting. It is really a nice, easy job, and Walter is to be congratulated upon his good luck. He was a candidate for the post office here, but lost out in the adjustment of the matter, and now what then appeared to be a misfortune was simply a blessing in disguise, for the office he is to get has a healthier salary attached, and the work is not so hard. Walter has been a teacher in our public schools and a good one, too; later he read law and was admitted to the bar, and is beginning to build up a practice. This spring he was elected chairman of the Republican county committee, and now his reward comes. He will make a good officer.

The Marshal Has Snakes.

City Marshal Lloyd has had a variety of prisoners on his hands in time, but he had an entirely new experience Friday evening, when about 75 snakes and an alligator were placed under his official care. W. E. Boaz had an attachment issued for the snakes belonging to La Pearl, "the Serpent King." Boaz had a bill against the snake show, and the snakes was the only visible property. Friday night the marshal took charge of the rattlers, racers, copperheads, forest kings, cow snakes, chicken snakes, and other varieties too numerous to mention, and according to the officer too charming to handle. Just how to feed and groom this live stock was a puzzle to our peace officer; his "billy" could not be used, even if he did like to raise the serpents' heads; the wrigglers would squirm through his handcuffs; if he remained with them they might get in his boots; if he left them they might escape the clutches of the attachment, and then there would be trouble. Finally the parties to the attachment arranged affairs, and the snakes were returned to La Pearl, the contortions of the marshal ceased, and he is again a happy man.

The Old Out, the New In.

At the close of business hours last night the post office at Marion changed hands—A. M. Hearin, after four years service, stepped down and out and turned the keys, books, etc., over to Geo. M. Corder, and this morning it is postmaster Corder and ex-postmaster Hearin. The latter has made a good official, and has come about as near pleasing the public as a man can. Mr. Corder has all of the qualifications and tact necessary to make a first class postmaster. His business qualifications are not excelled in the community, and he has a fine stock of urbanity—a prime article behind the p. o. window. He has been in the office several days "catching on," and doubtless the harness will fit like an old stager. His assistants are Miss Vic Cameron and his wife, and the Press predicts that the affairs will run to the liking of the people.

The new regime will have new fixtures, and the interior of the building will present a changed appearance this morning. The new cabinet has eighty lock boxes and three hundred call boxes; and will run in the shape of a V from one wall of the room to the other. In the center will be the general delivery and stamp window, and in one wing there will be a money order window.

Married.

Dr. T. F. Wilborn and Mrs. Frances of Ford Ferry, were united in marriage at Elizabethtown, Ill., last week.

Celebrated for its great leavening strength and healthfulness. Assures the food against stum and all forms of adulteration common to the cheap brands. ROYAL BAKING POWDER Co.

TOO MUCH LIQUOR.

The Wrong Horse Traded, and Trouble Follows.

Monday Frank Sons, a citizen of Caldwell county, came to town and imbibed too freely of our local option liquor. In the afternoon he was on "Jockey street" to trade horses, and was not long in exchanging a horse for a mule. It transpired that the horse he traded belonged to Quinn Conyers. Mr. Conyers happened to see his horse as the man who had traded for it was riding out of town. The man explained that he had given Sons a mule for the horse. Upon investigation it was found that Sons had left his own animal—a mule—in town, and had left for home, riding the mule he had exchanged Conyers' horse for. Tuesday morning a warrant was issued for Sons and he was brought back to town. The matter was investigated by the grand jury and that body failed to vote an indictment, and the charge against him was dismissed. It is needless to say that he went home Tuesday evening riding his own mule and duly sober, too. Sons is an honest man, and evidently had no intention whatever of using the wrong animal in a trade. He is in the habit of trading horses, and when the opportunity came he was ready for a trade, notwithstanding the fact that he was too much under the influence of liquor to know Conyers horse from his own mule.

Eleven First Class.

Saturday the teachers who were examined the week previous came to town to hear the result of the examination, and it was an anxious lot of faces that gathered in and around the Superintendent's office while the examiners were copying the grades and filling out the certificates. These young teachers are a jolly crowd when they get together, but this time there was a little nervous anxiety depicted on every countenance as they came merry with each other. Finally the work was completed, and of the thirty examined, seven fell behind the dead line and got no certificates. Eleven secured first class certificates, while the remainder got in all right at some point on the scale. Miss Ray Woods and J. Wat Lamb secured the highest grade of the class, each getting ninety two and nine eighths.

Base Ball at Salem.

The second nine of the Marion ball club accepted an invitation from the Salem second nine to cross bats with them, and last Saturday our boys went to Salem and the game was played, resulting in a score of 27 to 13 in favor of Livingston county. But our boys have a grievance. They say the opposing nine "run in a cold deck" on them; that they had the best first nine players from Hampton, Goiconda and Levas, to contend against, and not the second nine of the Salem club. Our boys say, however, that they were given a good dinner and otherwise nicely treated by their entertainers. They expect to play the return game here next Saturday.

Want Whitsett Reired.

By a vote of 106 to 78 the General Baptist Association asked the Trustees of the Southern Baptist Seminary at Louisville to remove Dr. W. H. Whitsett as President. The resolution was as follows:

Resolved, That the trustees of the Seminary from Kentucky be requested to urge, insist upon and vote for the retirement of Dr. W. H. Whitsett from the institution and from the church history.

The A. O. U. W. elected officers Monday night for the next 6 months as follows:

Master Workman, J. A. Hurler.
 Foreman, M. Vickers.
 Overseer, J. F. Loyd.
 Recorder, B. L. Wilborn.
 Financier, H. J. Ray.
 Receiver, A. J. Duvall.
 Guide, S. R. Adams.
 I. W., J. P. Pierce.
 O. W., E. H. Holtzclaw.
 Godd Wheat.

Monday the county court granted the usual document, certifying to the honesty, probity and good demeanor of John D. Gregory, who filed it in the circuit court and asked to be examined for license to practice law.

THE RE-UNION

Of Ex-Confederates at Nashville, Tenn.—Thousands in Line.

Nashville, Tenn., June 24.—The closing event of the seventh annual reunion of the United Confederate Veterans was a magnificent parade through the streets of Nashville. Nearly ten thousand veterans, the remnants of the armies of the Confederacy, marched once more under the stars and bars, side by side with the few remaining gallant leaders; the streets along the three mile line of march were packed with crowds such as were never before seen in Nashville, and conservative estimate is that not less than 100,000 people witnessed the parade. The crowd of visitors in the city today was increased to over 50,000 and fully one half of Nashville turned out to witness the inspiring sight, and were as little affected by the unpropitious summer showers that fell in the midst of the parade as were the battle scarred veterans, who with brisk step kept time with the music amidst a downpour of rain that soaked their clothing, but could not dampen their ardor.

Gen. Gordon's appearance at the head of the procession, caused a tidal wave of enthusiasm as it passed along the streets, and he as well as the sponsors and made of honor saw only bare heads.

One of the prettiest features of the parade was the Confederate flag formed of thirteen young women. The first wore a blue dress, on the skirt of which were thirteen white stars; then came in simple file four dressed in red, four dressed in white, and again four dressed in red. The horses they rode were sorrel and white. Then followed the State divisions marching in the order in which the State seceded, led by their Commanders and their staff officers. South Carolina coming first and Tennessee last. Tennessee, of course had the greatest number of veterans in the parade, but Kentucky, Missouri, South Carolina, Georgia and Alabama all had splendid representations. The twenty four members of Gen. Forrest's escort, under command of Capt. George T. Cowan, received an ovation along the entire line.

CAULFIELD BRINGS SUIT.

Asks that the Board's Action Removing Him be Declared Illegal.

Kuttawa, Ky., June 24.—Quite a sensation was created today over the filing of a suit through his attorney Sam C. Molloy, of Eldridgeville, by C. J. Caulfield against Gov. Bradley and the other members of the Board of Jinking Fund Commissioners. The suit grows out of the attempt of the board to remove Caulfield as clerk of the Edlyville penitentiary. The petition alleges that the statutes of Kentucky give the Commissioners the right to remove for cause, but that no cause existed, nor was he ever cited to trial. The prayer of the petitioner asks that the action of the board be declared illegal, and that Tinsley, who is now attempting to act as clerk, be required to vacate the office. Caulfield, while not in possession of the office and refused admittance, still holds the combination to the safe and keys to the desk in which the records of the penitentiary are kept.

THE MOST POPULAR WOMAN

Dolly Madison's Frank, Cordial Manner.

"No woman is more closely and fondly associated with the White House than Dolly Madison," writes Clifford Howard, of "When Dolly Madison saved the Declaration of Independence," in the July Ladies Home Journal. "During the eight years that her husband occupied the position of Secretary of State under Jefferson's administration she was at most as frequently called upon to do the honors at the receptions, and to see at the President's house as in her own home, where she entertained in a delightful and sumptuous manner. She was, therefore, fully prepared for the duties that devolved upon her as mistress of the White House upon the election of Mr. Madison to the Presidency. In the graceful and skillful performance of her delicate task, she gained the admiration of every one, and added to the popularity she had already won both for herself and her husband. Through the potent influence of her personal charms, to which were added a frank and cordial manner, a sweet, ingenuous demeanor, and the happy faculty of adapting herself to the views of those about her, she readily became a general favorite. Before her reign at the White House was concluded she was the most popular woman in the United States."

FORTY-TWO CHILDREN.

A Calloway County Man Has a Family Worth Speaking of.

"He fruitful and multiply and replenish the earth."—Genesis ix:1. Somewhere and somehow in the dim and cobwebby past Shadrack Ray of the county of Calloway must have read the words which open this article. No man can deny that he has done his best to replenish that portion of the earth known to mortals as West Kentucky.

Forty two children, had all lived, would now be calling Shadrack Ray father. Forty two hungry mouths would surround Shadrack Ray's dinner table, and if the spirit ever moved him to hold a reunion of his own immediate family he would have had to go out into the back yard for the occasion. Shadrack Ray, but better known as "Shad," who has been literally overdone with offspring, is a respected farmer living near Murray. He comes to Paducah often but only a few people here have even been given the dimensions of his household.

Last week for the forty second time he became a father. Thirty six of his children are living, and most of them reside near him. Forty two! Think of it ye fathers who rise at early dawn to administer paragon to your crying babies! Forty two! Think of it ye mothers who find it hard to keep trouser seats from becoming featureless! Forty two! 'Tis an old man's nightmare—a miser's bad dream! Yet "Shad" Ray is smiling, perfectly resigned and good natured.

Mr. Ray writes his age as 61 years with a few months to carry. He has been twice married. His second wife is still living.

At the age of twenty he took a young bride for better or worse—and for children. As he is now 61 it is easy to figure out that the doctor has told him that he was a fond father just forty two times in forty one years. This not counting the time of his widowhood leaves him eleven months and a fraction over a century of children. However, as a rule, his have come as twins and triplets. It is to be regretted that more may not be learned of Mr. Ray's personal history. However, it has been ascertained that he is a native born Kentuckian.

"Shad" Ray is a man among men, even in the section which produced the Lyons quintuplets of blessed and embalm memory. He far outstrips the Polish Jew of Chicago, who says he has fathered thirty five young. He almost equals the record of the negro preacher in South Carolina, who has been the parent of forty five picnolencies.

Soon Shad Ray and his wife and a car load or so of their children will visit the Nashville Exposition. It is to be hoped that Mr. Ray may be able to secure excursion rates and a special train for his family on this trip—Paducah Visitor.

"Last summer one of our grand children was sick with a severe bowel trouble," says Mrs. E. G. Gregory, of Fredericktown, Mo. "Our doctor's remedy had failed, then we tried the Chamberlain colic, cholera and diarrhea remedy, which gave speedy relief." For sale at Orme's.

There are indications of a big corner's wheat on the Chicago Board of Trade.

GOVERNOR TAYLOR'S SPEECH

WELCOMING THE EX-CONFEDERATES TO NASHVILLE.

A Touching Tribute to the People of the South and an Eloquent Peroration to the Country's Flag.

Gov. Robert L. Taylor, of Tennessee, in welcoming the Confederates to Nashville, paid the following glowing tribute to the Confederate soldier:

"Why need I say welcome to the men of the South? Every heart in Tennessee throbs a welcome to you and every loyal home smiles a welcome. I think if I could draw back the veil which separates immortality from the vale of tears, you would see a vision of your old comrades, who have answered to the roll call of eternity, crowding the air, and you would hear them shout welcome, thrice welcome!"

Governor Taylor spoke in an enthusiastic manner of his love of the south and, speaking of the reconstruction period said:

"The south lost all save honor. But the Confederate soldier, the purest and proudest type of the Anglo-Saxon race, stood erect amid its charred and blackened ruins. The earth was red beneath him, the sky was black above him, his sword was broken, his country was crushed. But without a throne he was no less a ruler, his palace had perished, he was no less a king. Slavery was dead, but magnificence in the bloom of defeat, he was still a master. Has he not mastered adversity? Has he not rebuilt the ruined south?"

Look yonder at those flashing domes and glittering spires; look at the work of art and all the fabrics and pictured tapestries of beauty. Look what southern brains and southern hands have wrought. See the victories of peace we have won, all represented within the white columns of our great industrial exposition, and you will receive an inspiration of the old south, and you will catch a glimpse of her future glory.

I trust in God that the struggles of the future will be the struggles of peace and not of war. The hand of secession will never be lifted again. The danger to the republic now lies in the mailed hand of centralized power, and the south will yet be the bulwark of American liberty. If you ask me why, I answer, it is the only section left which is purely American; I answer that anarchy cannot live on southern soil; I answer that the south has started on a new line of march, and while we love the past for its precious memories, our faces are turned toward the morning.

Blow, bugler, blow, but thy shrill odes notes can never again call the matchless armies of Grant and Lee to the carnival of death.

Let the silver trumpets sound the jubilee of peace. Let the veterans shout who wore the blue. Let them kiss the silken folds of the gorgeous ensign of the republic and fling it to the breeze as we sing the national hymn.

Let the veterans bow who wore the gray, and with uncovered heads salute the national flag. It is the flag of the inseparable Union. Let them clasp hands with the brave men who wore the blue, and rejoice with them, for time hath adorned the ruined south and robed her fields in richer harvests and gilded her skies with brighter stars of hope.

At the conclusion of this speech Governor Taylor brought the multitude to a scene of great emotion and enthusiasm by singing in a low, melodious voice the stirring song "Dixie."

SET THE VERDICT ASIDE.

A Story which John S. Rhea Tells on the Late Judge Grace.

I heard the late Judge John B. Grace, of the Court of Appeals of Kentucky, set aside the verdict of a jury once under circumstances that to my mind did him infinite credit," said Representative John S. Rhea to a Washington Post reporter.

"It seems that a poor woman who was on the verge of starvation, and who was the sole support of four little children, went into a neighbor's smoke house and purloined a piece of bacon. The proof was positive and the jury reluctantly returned a verdict of guilty. When the finding of the jury was read Judge Grace, who at time presided over the fourteenth judicial district, rising to his feet, said in the most emphatic terms:

"The court orders that the verdict in this case be set aside, and I want to declare here, that in all cases where an unfortunate woman is on trial for stealing food, taken to keep her offspring from starving, it will require thirteen men to convict her in this court. The defendant is discharged from custody."

"The announcement was greeted with applause from the spectators, and the general sentiment was that Judge Grace had acted not only as befitted a chivalrous man, but that his ruling was right. Theft to keep innocent babes from perishing by hunger can scarcely be designated as a crime."

NEGRO COLONISTS RETURN.

Thirteen of a Band from Liberia Tell of Their Hardships.

New York, June 23.—Thirteen negroes, five men and eight women, have arrived here from Sierra Leone, on the American bark Liberia. They are part of a colony of 311 Southern negroes who sailed for Liberia March 21, 1896, full of hope and ambition, and with bright expectations.

The colonists were gathered together by the International Emigration Company, of Burlington, Alabama. "Liberia is the negro's paradise," they were told. They scraped together forty dollars for their passage and paid one dollar for a contract, which they were informed, it is said, would entitle them to land, farming implements, and provisions.

D. K. Flammer, an agent of the Society, accompanied them on the trip, but when the promised land was reached, he deserted them, the returning colonists say.

Some of them found their way into the interior, where they got work in the fields at starvation wages. Many of them fell victims of the fevers of the country and died.

Selling what trinkets they had some of the colonists made their way to the coast, where a few were able to secure passage on the bark Liberia, which sailed May 18. Others sailed on a vessel for England, where they are now stranded.

A Mrs. Brown, who arrived here yesterday with her two children, said she had been sent home by charitable persons in Liberia. Her husband, she said, was left there, and she never expected to see him again on this earth. Another of this deluded band of unfortunates, by name of Charles Moore, said the country was not fit for a dog to live in, much less human beings.

The Press.

ISSUED WEEKLY.

R. C. WALKER, Publisher.

ONE YEAR ONE DOLLAR

Good times have come—to the fellows who get the office.

An effort is now being made to get a requisition to bring George Gibbs from Texas to Livingston county.

The silver cause is bound to win, if her votaries stay together. United we conquer. The danger is in a division.

"The improvement in business is greater in sentiment than in fact," is the way Henry Clev puts the situation.

Congress is ostensibly hammering on a tariff bill, but really dividing out a superior grade of pie is the main job on hand.

The Illinois Central railroad has secured practically all the bonds of the Ohio Valley, and the sale on the 6th will be merely a matter of form.

Ohio Democrats were in convention yesterday. "Free silver" is their slogan and John R. McLean will probably be endorsed for Senator.

Fulton furnishes another negro fiend and an outrage upon a woman. Bloodhounds are upon the trail of the scoundrel and if captured a lynching is almost sure to follow.

With Bill Yandell in Washington something is going to happen. Just watch, and see if some pie is not handed out. When Bill goes after anything he generally gets it.

The Courier-Journal puts in half of its time abusing the Democrats, and the other half it hatching out schemes and attempting to palm them off as the creatures of the State Democracy.

Debs' big Commonwealth scheme is too big for its projectors, and will die aborning. It is sometimes as bad to over do a thing as to leave it undone; and this is one of the times.

Politically speaking Marion is as big as any other town in Kentucky. All these years of hard work has disciplined the local politicians and now they do gallant service in lassoing President McKinley's official bronchos.

Gov. Boies, of Iowa, who never was a true silver Democrat, wants the government to buy all the gold and silver and pay for it in paper money, redeemable in gold and silver at its commercial value. He still professes to lack that necessary ingredient, very commonly called backbone.

Here's Prosperity.

All the large iron mills of the country will close tomorrow and remain closed until the wage question is settled. A strike is said to be likely at several points.—Courier-Journal.

Religious Growth.

Some idea of the religious growth which this country has attained during the past ten years, may be gathered from a very interesting summary which recently appeared in the New York Sun. The figures contained in this summary, it is claimed, can be implicitly relied upon as they have been obtained from the various religious denominations themselves. In 1887, quoting the authority above cited, there were 38,522 Baptist churches and 25,377 Baptist clergymen in the United States. At the present time there are 45,802 Baptist churches and 31,572 Baptist clergymen.

In 1887 there were 48,263 Methodist churches in this country and 28,075 Methodist clergymen. At the present time there are 52,236 Methodist churches and 33,601 Methodist clergymen.

Ten years ago there were 6,910 Catholic churches in the United States and 7,658 Catholic clergymen. Today there are 12,627 Catholic churches and 9,906 Catholic clergymen.

With respect to the growth of American Presbyterianism, the same authority states that in 1887 there were 12,437 Presbyterian churches in the United States and 9,654 Presbyterian clergymen. At the present time there are 14,530 Presbyterian churches and 13,476 Presbyterian clergymen.

In regard to other religious branches the figures were as follows: Episcopalians in 1887, churches, 3,540, clergymen, 4,139; in 1897, churches, 5,979, clergymen, 4,580. Lutherans in 1887, churches, 7,992, clergymen, 4,215; in 1897, churches, 9,493, clergymen, 5,685. In 1887 there were 369 Jewish synagogues in the United States and 301 Jewish rabbis. At the present time there are 548 synagogues and 290 rabbis.

From these figures it is evident that the past decade has been one of marked religious growth in the United States. In addition to the various denominations above cited, there is not a single religious sect in the country which has not increased in numbers during the past ten years.

NEW SALEM.

Mrs. G. C. Kirk is sick. Mrs. Robert Brown is sick. The wheat harvest is over and the crop is much better than thought for. The quality of the grain is the best in many years.

The corn crop is just simply whooping herself, the growth of the corn crop in the last few days is simply astonishing.

Franklin Bros. will start their new steam thrasher on the 30th.

Mrs. John Conyers was received into New Salem church on the 4th Sunday by immersion, Rev. J. B. Lowry performing the ordinance of baptism.

Robert Carriek, of Marion, spent Sunday in this section.

John Bebout, of Sheridan, came over to church on the fourth Sabbath.

The acreage of tobacco in this section is the smallest since 1881.

Mrs. Hattie Caperson of Golconda, Ill., is the guest of her brother in law, James Mahan.

Mrs. Lowry, wife of the Rev. J. B. Lowry, accompanied her husband to his appointment at New Salem last Saturday and Sunday.

James Harris and wife of Greens Ferry are the guests of the parents of Mrs. Harris this week. Mrs. Harris reports crops fine on the river.

Old Salem was pretty jolly Saturday with the steam merry go round and two saloons in full blast.

Our old friend Ben Garnett, formerly of this section paid us a friendly visit last week. He is now almost totally blind.

SALEM.

Miss Lillie Brown, our music teacher, left for her home in Fredonia Wednesday. We are all sorry to see her leave and hope she will be with us again soon.

Miss Mary Cox and mother, and Messrs. J. A. Farris, Reuben Faulkner and Blanton Boyd left here for Bowling Green and Nashville Monday.

Master Percy Roney of Marion is visiting friends here this week.

Harvesting is in order now. The wheat crop is much better than was expected.

Rev. J. A. Hill of Vienna, Ill., visited his sister, Mrs. J. C. Carr, last week.

Dr. Atwood of Cadiz is in town and has lots of work.

Marshall Davis and wife of Lola are visiting at Dr. Clemens this week.

Mr. W. G. Brewer, revenue officer, is at home for a short stay.

Forest Brewer, of Smithland Academy, is at home now and will teach near here the coming winter.

Our town has its share of the pedagogues now, as three new ones have entered the arena.

Death has entered our community, and taken from family and friends Geo. W. Watson. He had been sick for quite a while.

Pleased with their Teacher.

Our school closed June 17th, and we were all so well pleased with our school, especially with our teacher, Mr. E. K. Thurman. He taught our winter school and the pupils hold him in high esteem.

The school closed and many left with sad hearts as they thought of their kind teacher and loving schoolmates. We decided, as it was a pleasant day to go to the grove, which was just a mile from town, and is one of the nicest places we could have found if we had walked from pole to pole.

There was a nice dinner spread in the grove and all seemed to enjoy themselves in different kinds of exercises and in hunting mayapples and drinking lemonade.

In the afternoon the pupils entertained their friends with nice recitations, and there was a number of parents came out to hear the charming voices of their children, as they enjoyed the last Mayday of '97. And we all thank Mrs. Lamb for her presence and assistance.

The good people of this place do not know how our hearts bound as we hear them talking of how they enjoyed themselves with us. We might talk a week but we could not tell how our hearts felt and how many happy words were spoken that will never be forgotten.

By a Pupil.

A GOOD SUGGESTION.

To the Tobacco Growers of Crittenden County.

"United we stand, divided we fall" will hold good in fighting tobacco worms as well as in other things; hence I suggest that all tobacco growers unite in making war on the tobacco fly, and the successful way to do this is by putting out cobalt. If all will unite in doing this we can save an immense amount of hard labor. I believe that worms are going to be very bad this season; by killing the flies we can greatly decimate the worms. Ten cents worth of cobalt for each grower will be sufficient. Now let us unite, and with a little trouble we can do a big thing. There is very little use for just one man to kill flies, but if all his neighbors will join in, great good can be accomplished. I have been using cobalt for ten years, and know that it does its work. Now if you have the "Jimson" blossom go to work; if not get the blossom from your neighbor, bore holes in boards, put them up around your tobacco patch, stick the blossoms in the holes, put in your cobalt, and you are sure to get the flies. If all will do this we can head off the tobacco worm pest. If anybody has a better plan or any other suggestion let us have it.

Yours in the tobacco cause,
W. H. Bigham.

TROUBLE FOR FRANKS.

Col. W. J. Wilmore Summoned to Washington To Tell What He Knows.

Frankfort, Ky., June 27.—Col. W. J. Wilmore, of Camp Nelson, a member of the Republican State Committee from the Eighth district, was called to Washington to day by telegram. It is said that he has been summoned thither by the men who are fighting E. T. Franks for the Second District Collectorship, and that Wilmore will play a card which will defeat Franks. While Wilmore took no part in the fight against Hunter, he was one of Bradley's staunchest friends and closest advisers. Wilmore was a general revenue agent under the Harrison Administration, and it is said that he reported Franks, who was then a Deputy Collector, for incompetency, and that this has been brought to Secretary Gage's notice, and he desires to consult with Wilmore about it before appointing Franks. Col. Wilmore's trip is certainly of political importance, and it strengthens the statement that Crumbaugh will yet be the Collector in the Second district.

Warden Happy Unhappy Again.

Kuttawa, Ky., June 19.—C. I. Caulfield, clerk, filed a suit for $25,000 damages against J. H. Happy, warden of the Edgelyville penitentiary and against his bondsmen, Will J. Landrum, Sam D. Clark, W. J. Hays, Crawford Anderson and H. S. Hale, all of Graves county. The situation is unchanged at the prison, but some sensational developments are expected daily.

Former State Treasurer Bartley, of Nebraska, has been sentenced to 20 years imprisonment and a fine of $300,000 for embezzlement.

Constitutional Money.

No well informed and intelligent advocate of bimetallicism contends that the increase in silver coinage has not relieved the contraction of the currency because so small a proportion of it was legal tender. The contention is that the coinage of silver has not relieved the contraction of the currency, because it is not standard money and must be redeemed in gold. It is a fiction to call that standard money which is not money of redemption.

In fact silver is money in the same sense that copper, nickel and paper money are legal tenders, while copper and nickel are not. Every kind of money we have in circulation except silver must be redeemed in gold, and gold being the standard, the volume of standard money is restricted to the supply of gold coin, which does not exceed five or six dollars per capita. It is the gold coin which regulates the price of products, and property of all kinds, and has caused the terrible and disastrous shrinkage in values since silver was demonetized. Before silver was demonetized we had the value of our products and property measured in both gold and silver. There was in the world about eight billion dollars of the two kinds of money, and while both metals constituted the standard of measurement, the average of prices was nearly 50 per cent higher than at present. When silver was stricken down, leaving gold alone to constitute the standard of measurement, prices declined on an average about 50 per cent in adapting us to the gold standard. The effect was to take away by law nearly one half the value of every species of property except obligations calling for payment of money. The burden of taxation was doubled, interest rates were doubled, and fixed obligations and charges of every character were doubled by the reduction made in the volume of standard money.

The advocates of bimetallicism are opposed to double taxes and double interest rates, and half prices for labor and property, and their fight is being made to restore silver to its place as standard money, and to restore with it the prices of products and property, the wages of labor, and that confidence and property which the gold standard has driven away. Those who are advocating the policy of a further contraction of the currency, and the greater oppression of the people, are the promoters of anarchy, repudiation and socialism. They are driving out from the conservative ranks many who despair of relief except through revolution. They are destroying the love and respect of the people for the government, and are teaching them to look upon it as an instrument of oppression and wrong. The advocates of bimetallicism are the only true supporters of law and order and the only real conservators of the public faith and credit. It was declared that this government could not exist half slave and half free, and the institution of slavery was cut out of the constitution with a sword. It is equally true that this government cannot exist nine tenths bondsmen and one tenth slave masters.

The political storms which assail the ship of state warn us to return and take our bearings by the chart of the constitution. Gold and silver are designated by the constitution as the money of the United States, and we would escape the dangers which threaten us, we must restore to the people rights under the constitution which have been taken away from them by corruption and fraud.—Louisville Dispatch.

Bad Politics in Kentucky.

New York Sun.

The so called National Democracy which was differentiated from the regular National Democracy at Indianapolis last year, and east about 130,000 votes in last November, as against 6,500,000 polled for Bryan, has something of an organization in Kentucky, which has now issued a call for a state convention to be held at Louisville next month, for the nomination of a candidate for clerk of the court of appeals.

The tone, spirit and character of this call are expressed in the extract below:

"We appeal to all Democrats to unite with us who believe as we do, in sound money; in a tariff for revenue only; in the honest and full payment of all lawful obligations; in law and order and in the protection of property from lawlessness and riot; in the restoration of good feeling instead of arraying citizens and classes against each other; and in the protection of the name and credit of the commonwealth."

It will be seen that the purposes announced are general and not specific as regards the currency issue. To demand "sound money" merely is to beg the question. What is sound money? That is the question which is the great political issue of this time. The Democracy of the Chicago platform, the regular Democracy, say it is unlimited silver, coined free at the ratio of 16 to 1. At least that is sound enough money for them.

But the platform of the Indianapolis convention of the National Democrats who have sent out this call insists upon the maintenance of the gold standard, and of the privity therewith of every dollar issued by the government, and declares firm opposition to "the free and unlimited coinage of silver." Why, then, did not the call from which we have quoted define "sound money" as the single gold standard? Then the National Democrats of Kentucky would have a clear definition and everybody would know exactly where they stand.

The tariff, however, fortunately for the Democracy, has disappeared for the time being at least, as an actual issue of politics, and the issues of the Chicago platform, of which the tariff is not one, have replaced it. Can the National Democracy of Indianapolis make any respectable resistance to the regular National Democracy on the Chicago platform in Kentucky or anywhere else with such evasion, generality and inconsistency as we have quoted. The Bryanite Democracy has a definite plan of "currency reform"—free coinage of silver at 16 to 1. What is the plan the Indianapolis Democrats have to oppose it? There is none that it dares put out in other than a general way. Do they expect to beat silver with the retirement of the greenback and treasury notes and issue of bonds or by the substitution of a wildcat currency? They must get some defensible principles before they can hope to make a better showing than they did last year when they polled in the union only about as many votes as the Prohibitionists, and in Kentucky itself only about 5,000, out of a total in the State of more than 445,000. As it is, they have not a leg of principle to stand on; they are firing into the air, and very small shot at that.

Exclaim thousands of people who have tried Hood's Sarsaparilla at this season of the year, and who have noted the success of the medicine in giving them relief from that tired feeling, waning appetite and state of extreme exhaustion after the confinement of a winter season, the busy time attendant upon a pressing business during the spring months, and with vacation time some weeks distant. It is then that the building powers of Hood's Sarsaparilla are fully appreciated.

INVASION AND BURNING OF WASHINGTON.

Admiral Cockburn's Soldiers Fired the Public Buildings.

"The last glimmer of twilight was fading away when, after the battle of Bladensburg, two miles distant from Washington, into the well lighted deserted city rode the redoubtable Cockburn, at the head of his band of marauders," writes Clifford Howard in the July Ladies Home Journal, of the invasion and burning of our National Capital by the British forces under Admiral Cockburn in August, 1814. "Elated with their decisive victory over a force nearly twice as large as their own, and thirsting for spoils, the red coated soldiers marched triumphantly towards the Capitol. Discharging their fire arms at the windows the soldiers burst in the doors and with shouts of triumph carried their leader to the Speaker's chair, from which, with mock gravity, he put the question, 'Shall this harbor of the Yankee Democracy be burned?' A yell of affirmation rang through the hall, and without further preliminaries papers and other combustibles were piled under the desks and set on fire. In a few minutes this noble edifice, that had been in course of construction more than 20 years, and containing the library of Congress and vast quantities of official documents of great historical value was destroyed.

"Now thoroughly aroused to their work of plunder, a howling crowd of the desperate marauders hurried to the White House in the hope, perchance, of capturing the President and his wife. Finding the house locked and deserted they battered down the doors, and, consigning themselves for the loss of their distinguished captives by a ruthless destruction of the furniture, they raided the larder and regaled themselves with a hastily prepared feast in the State dining room. Then destroying the remaining provisions, and breaking and mutilating whatever they could readily lay their hands on, they concluded their visit by setting fire to the home of the President. Numerous other public and private buildings were also destroyed.

Our Way of Doing Business.

OUR GUARANTEE GUARANTEES.

The Following Letter Explains Itself:

MINNEAPOLIS, MINN., June 15, 1907.
MR. R. F. HAYNES, JR.,
Marion, Ky.

DEAR SIR:—Replying to yours of recent date with reference to the Colic Cure will say that we very much regret the loss of Mr. Tucker's horse. As a horseman, you of course understand that colic kills more horses than all other acute diseases put together. Every veterinary book gives it as the most dangerous disease known among horses. The most successful veterinary surgeons lose a certain per cent of cases even if they have their personal care and attention. It is simply impossible even for a veterinary surgeon of highest standing to cure every disease, even if he is on hand when the disease commences. A friend of the writer who is a veterinary surgeon in high standing, has often made the statement that he has worked for 24 hours on cases of colic and then had them die. Veterinary books state that more horses die of colic than all other diseases combined, and there is no veterinary surgeon who has had any extended practice who has not lost a large number of colic cases. In view of these facts we could not expect our remedy to give infallible results. Such results would be miraculous, and if we had a remedy of that kind we could easily sell it at $5 per bottle. International Colic Cure has given extraordinary results through a long term of years and is just as sure as it is in the nature of any medicine to be. It will fall in but very few cases, and in order to make everyone satisfied we are willing to refund money to the purchaser in any case of failure. Neither you nor your customers can ask anything fairer than that, and it certainly shows that we know the remedy to be of superior merits or we would not dare to put it up with such a strong guarantee. We bought the recipe from a veterinary surgeon in our city who has used it over 15 years and it has won a wonderful reputation as a cure for Colic. We enclose our check for $2.00 drawn in favor of R. F. Tucker, and if you have already refunded his money you can have him endorse the check over to you. You are perfectly justified in recommending the remedy just as well as you would your family physician in whom you had the utmost confidence, although he has lost a great many cases. No doctor or remedy can cure every case and it is surely not right to make detrimental statements about a doctor or remedy because every case is not cured, because medicine does not always have the same action on different systems. We trust that you will look at the matter in this reasonable light and that you will continue to recommend International Colic Cure. It will certainly cure in a large majority of cases.

Very truly yours,
INTERNATIONAL FOOD CO.

We keep the following preparations in stock, and sell them just as the above was sold:

International Stock Food, International Poultry Food, Silver Pine Healing Oil, International Colic Cure, Honey Tar Foot Remedy; International Worm Powder.

CIRCUIT COURT.

The Mill Grinds Slowly. Few Trials and Many Continuances.

Circuit court convened Monday. After instructing the grand jury court adjourned until Tuesday. So far but few cases have been tried, a majority of them being continued until next term.

John Talbot was put on trial Tuesday, upon the charge of adultery, and was fined $29. He went to jail to pay the fine.

John Gibbons failed to appear to defend an indictment for breach of the peace, and the jury fixed his fine at $5. The case of the Commonwealth vs. Fred Lemon, charged with forgery, was called yesterday morning and after hearing the testimony, the Commonwealth Attorney dismissed the case.

But three of the justices of the peace reported any public funds collected as fines. They were: T. A. Harpending $10; C. Moore $5; J. W. Mabry $1. The county clerk reported $95.65 from his office, and the circuit clerk $17.52.

A Small Race War.

Kelsey had an affair Sunday and Monday that assumed somewhat the shape of a miniature race war. A number of negroes had been in the habit of crowding upon the platform of the depot and impeding passage to and from the cars. Patterson, the O. V. agent at that place, had frequently called upon them to keep out of the way. They became insulted, and Sunday evening several of them, it seems by agreement, placed themselves in the agent's way. In going to the express car he was compelled to shove one out of his road; the negro turned and struck him a powerful blow, and when Patterson recovered sufficiently he struck back, and a lively fight ensued in which the negro came out second best. The other negroes undertook to attack Patterson but a number of white men went to his rescue and the negroes were dispersed, and went to a magistrate in the country and had a warrant issued for Patterson, and a number of them came back with the officer to point out their antagonists.

This crowd accompanying the officer aroused the whites again, and they made the negroes leave. The affair created quite a sensation and the community is indignant at the conduct of the negroes. The plucky Patterson is commended on all sides.

W. B. Vandell in Washington. Mr. W. B. Vandell the best politician in his party in Crittenden county—and there are lots of good ones too—went to Washington Saturday, to see the sights and hear the news. Will be never so happy as when he is taking a hand in stirring political matters, and while he has gone to the capital just for a little recreation and a little pastime, it is two to one that he will have something to say about some Kentucky appointments, and that his words will have some weight in certain quarters. Really the truth is that he is not much of a man for recreation nor sight seeing after all, and the chances are that there is more business in his trip than he cares to mention.

Tuesday evening's papers report that Mr. Vandell will probably be appointed collector, and that his appointment will be made as a compromise between the Frank and anti-Frank factions. This may be true, but we are not inclined to believe that Mr. Vandell is after anything for himself.

Sty Dig at Happy's Ribs. Kuttawa, Ky., June 28.—In the Republican county convention held here Saturday, while Warden Happy had everything working according to his own ideas, a resolution was submitted for the resolution submitted by him strongly condemning his management of the penitentiary and, inefficiency, but couched in such terms that his managers did not notice the roast until after its adoption. The convention instructed for Judge James Breathitt for circuit judge, substituted a Happy man, Thomas Barnett, instead of Charles L. Nickell for circuit clerk, and Harris for county judge, instead of Holland.

Mr. J. R. Summers received a fine thoroughbred Poland-China sow at the depot yesterday. The animal was purchased from a breeder at Washington, Ill. She cost $35, and the expressage was $10. Mr. Summers is investing considerably in fine hogs and cattle, and is going to devote considerable time and money to breeding fine stock.

Dr. T. L. Dean, of Pecon, Texas, reached Marion last week and will spend some time with his many friends in this section. He went to Texas fourteen years ago and has been measurably successful. Recent ill health has somewhat impaired his usual robust, handsome physique, but he has the same cheery disposition, and as a conversationalist he is as entertaining as ever. A little taste of our Kentucky life, and the companionship of his old friends will soon straighten him up all right.

Acquitted of a Serious Charge. Saturday Wm. Summers, who claims that his home is in Indiana, was put in jail at this place upon charge of detaining a female against her will. The female is a ten year old girl. The case was investigated by Squire Mabry and the defendant was held to await the action of the grand jury. Summers is a stranger here, a man past middle age.

The grand jury investigated the matter yesterday, and refused to indict him, and he was liberated.

Crutches to Spare.

Tuesday morning Rev. Willis M. Brown brought a shoulder load of crutches to the Press office. The lot embraces crutches of all sizes and makes; big crutches, little crutches, hand made, rough crutches; smooth, machine made crutches. These he brought home with him as mementos of the big meeting he has been holding in Paducah for the past two weeks. These articles of locomotion were used by people who attended his meetings, accepted his faith, were "divinely" healed and having no further use for the crutches, threw them aside. "These," he said to the Press, "are just samples, there were lots of others thrown away, because the sufferers, believing that God could heal them, asked Him to do so, and the answer to our combined prayers came sure and swift. Not only were the lame healed, but the blind were made to see, and many weakened by disease were made strong. After leaving Paducah we went to Metropolis, Ill., and there God did a wonderful work. When we began our meeting many came to scoff, but seeing the power manifested remained to pray."

Whatever may be said of Brown and his construction of the scriptures, the fact remains that the man who can retire so many crutches from active service, is doing some good in the world.

Speaking of his Paducah meeting, Rev. Brown said that all who came were not healed, and he says the failures were due to a want of faith, and that some appeared to look to him instead of to the source from whence all blessings come. He thinks there were at least 500 persons afflicted in some way, prayed for during the meeting and that about two thirds of this number were benefited.

He will preach at the court house in Marion tomorrow night and explain the secret of divine healing. He will begin a meeting at Eminence, Livingston county, Saturday night.

Rev. Brown expects to return to Paducah about the 10th of July to begin a tabernacle meeting. Rev. J. H. Collins, at present pastor of an M. E. church, at that place, will furnish the tent and work with Brown in his future meetings. Rev. Collins is known by a number of people in Marion, having held a meeting here some years ago.

A Sensation at Salem.

Tuesday evening three well known men of Salem were arrested charged with burglary. They are accused of breaking into Mr. Mack Parker's meat house and taking therefrom a lot of bacon. The warrants were issued by Squire Stephens upon information filed by Mr. Parker, and an examining trial will be held Saturday. The prominence of the parties accused and their high standing in the community made the arrest something in the nature of a sensation.

Stole as He Traveled.

Some days ago an unknown party or parties passed through the Bella Mines neighborhood and from E. M. Landle he stole two bridles, from J. Black a horse, from E. L. Nunn a set of harness. A few days afterwards Black's horse returned, and marks upon him showed that he had been worked in harness, and the question is, whose buggy was used? The other stolen articles were never returned.

Hardly Half a Crop.

Reports from the various tobacco growing sections of the State indicate a greatly reduced acreage this year. The farmers of Christian county have set out about half of the usual crop and much of this has died in the hill. There are some few who have not set out a plant, having decided not to grow the weed this year while others who usually plant from fifty to seventy five acres have only about one tenth of their former acreage. Good rains have fallen over the country this week, but very few plants were set, as they have nearly all died in the bed, or are overgrown and worthless.—Hopkinsville Kentuckian.

Princeton to Have a Fair.

Princeton and Caldwell county will have a fair this fall, Charles Joehser has taken the matter in hand together with another gentleman of Princeton; and has pushed matters far enough to insure this. He has made arrangements for the grounds and has attended to much of the small minutia necessary for such an event, and now the fair will depend largely upon the individual efforts of business men and leading citizens of the county for its success.—Princeton Banner.

BEHEADING

Soldiers in Battle at One Stroke of the Sword.

Remarkable Feat in the Civil War...The Turkish Yataghans.

It is claimed by the authorities on the art of war that the greatest blow of the campaign between Greece and Turkey was struck by Colonel Mahmoud Bey, who with one swift stroke of his sword completely severed the head of a Greek officer from his body. These same authorities generously admit that this trick may have been quite common in ancient times, when stalwart men swung heavy battle axes but they agree that it is practically unknown in modern warfare. They point triumphantly to the fact that there is no record of any such feat having been performed during the Franco Prussian war, though cavalry charges and fierce hand to hand combats were frequent, and the Prussian has the reputation of a sabre swinger. Therefore they are inclined to be skeptical on the subject, and speak of the Mahmoud Bey feat as a marvelous example of strength and dexterity.

A writer who is evidently informed on the subject claims that Mahmoud Bey could not have accomplished the feat of decapitation with an ordinary sabre, and asserts that the Turk's yataghan was loaded with quicksilver. A yataghan, he explains, is a short sword, shaped something like a butcher's cleaver, with an apparently hollow tube running along the back from hilt to point. This tube generally carries a

CHARGE OF QUICK-SILVER
When the sword is held upright this quicksilver rests at the hilt. As a blow is struck this liquid metal is hurled down the grooved channel, lending deadly additional weight to the blow. Such a weapon, it is claimed, was in Mahmoud Bey's hands when he dashed ahead of his troops and decapitated the Greek officer who was firing at him.

The assertion made that this is the sole instance of its kind in the history of a hundred years is not borne out by facts. The same feat was performed during the civil war, not with a loaded yataghan, but with an ordinary United States army sabre. The man who wielded the sword in this episode, Col. E. Bloss Parsons, died two weeks ago in Rochester, N. Y. Col. Parsons was one of the wealthiest and best known men in New York State, and though he had never related the story, the details were found among his private papers after his death.

WHILE RECONNOITERING
One day with a squad of troopers under Gen. Davis, they were surprised by a detachment of Confederate cavalry. A pitched battle ensued, and Parsons, who was in the rear, saw a rebel officer level a revolver at Gen. Davis' head. Jabbing the spurs into his horse, he swung his sabre above his head, and dashing by just as the officer fired, he made a terrific full arm sweep. The Confederate's head leaped from the shoulders as swiftly as if it had been severed by a guillotine. The feat is more remarkable, when it is considered that Parsons was a slim, headless man of twenty one. In comparison, Mahmoud Bey's single slash with his yataghan loses much of its importance.

Colonel Parsons was brevetted General for distinguished services during the war, but characteristic modesty forbade the use of that title when he returned to civilian life. Not only did he perform the only feat of decapitation during the civil war, but he was the hero of

A REMARKABLE HIDE

A few days before the battle of Gettysburg was fought Gen. Meade had an important message to send to General Harding, a hundred miles distant. As the route was through a country swarming with rebels, the message was written on tissue paper, that it might be swallowed in case the carrier was captured. The command was in doubt regarding a suitable messenger. He summoned General Davis to headquarters.

"General, who is the hardest rider, as well as the most trustworthy man, in the service?" asked Meade.

"Colonel Parsons, sir," was the prompt reply.

"Send him to me at once."

It was 6 o'clock on a Monday night when General Meade gave the young officer his instructions. He was to ride with all haste to General Harding's headquarters and return at once with an answer.

The messenger retired. Two hundred miles were to be covered. The roads were heavy and they also led through

THE ENEMY'S COUNTRY.

Exactly at noon on the following day Colonel Parsons entered General Meade's tent. The latter's face grew purple with rage and he ripped out a string of oaths.

"Is this the way you obey orders?" he thundered. "What are you hanging about camp for? You ought to be with General Harding by this time."

"I have just returned from General Harding, sir."

"You lie!" exclaimed the exasperated General.

Parsons' face paled and he dug his nails in his hands to restrain himself. "General Meade," he said in a voice that ill concealed his anger, "if you were not my commanding officer I would knock you down for that insult."

Without the formality of a salute he turned on his heel and left the tent. Meade afterwards made an ample apology.

Colonel Parsons killed two horses and went himself without a particle of food. For 18 hours he was not out of the saddle.

RETALIATION

Began by the Cuban Rebels Against the Spanish Officers and Men.

Havana, June 23.—The Cuban General Montegudo, has begun to take retaliatory measures against the Spaniards for the outrages committed by their guerrilla forces in Santa Clara province. Montegudo for more than three months past has been asking permission from General Gomez to retaliate against the Spaniards, on the ground that the policy of clemency and humanity pursued by General Gomez was met by the massacre of sick and wounded prisoners in hospitals, and the assassination of prisoners. At last General Gomez sent permission to Montegudo to act as he desired, if after first warning the Spanish military commander and the answer came in the form of a raid upon a Cuban hospital by Spanish guerrillas and the murder of sick Cuban officers and nurses. Montegudo then prepared an ambush for the Spaniards at Palopetro, where they often went in search of cattle. The Spaniards fell into the ambush. One Spanish Captain and seventeen Spanish soldiers and thirty five Spanish soldiers and one lieutenant were captured. The rest fled in disorder. After the engagement was over Montegudo hanged his thirty six prisoners on the spot. "If you do not treat us as beligerents," he wrote to the Spanish commander at Santa Clara, "and if you continue to murder our prisoners we will treat you as bandits." This is the beginning of the terrible retaliation which General Woeber's methods have provoked and will soon extend to all the provinces.
