VOLUME 18. MARION, CRITTENDEN COUNTY, KENTUCKY, JULY 8, 1897. NUMBER 3

Got His Certificate.
 Mr. D. A. Lowry, Republican candidate for circuit clerk of Caldwell county, was examined by Judge Pratt Tuesday, touching his qualifications for the office. The examination was satisfactory and Mr. Lowry got his certificate as is required by law.

Chinch Bugs.
 The chinch bugs are playing havoc with some corn fields. From almost every neighborhood come reports of the devastation of these little bugs, and there seems to be no way to head them off. Since the wheat has been cut they have deserted the wheat fields and the growing corn is the objective point of the vast army.

Old People's Day.
 There will be a service held by the old people on Saturday, July 17, at Sugar Grove. All persons 60 years and over are specially invited. For these dinner will be prepared. All others who attend will be expected to bring their own dinner.

A. A. Deboe, Clerk.

Mrs. Thompson Dead.
 Mrs. Thompson, wife of Mr. Ira Thompson, died at her home in the Sheridan neighborhood Sunday, after several days illness. She was an aged lady and some days ago she was severely injured by a fall, and it is thought that this hastened her death though she was in very poor health and very feeble before the accident.

Opening Ball.
 The big opening ball at Crittenden Springs takes place Friday night. A large crowd is expected and preparations will be made to make the affair an enjoyable event. A splendid band has been engaged for the entire season, and the hotel accommodations will be as good, if not a little better than can be had at any other watering place in the State.

The Bigham Roller Mills.
 Mr. R. E. Bigham has taken charge of the Bigham Roller Mills and has put it in first class shape in every way, and guarantees to the public the very best of work. This mill makes fine flour, and its product has had a splendid reputation. Mr. Bigham is a good miller, and those who patronize the mill this season will be pleased with the results.

A Quiet Wedding.
 Mr. W. L. Bigham, the well known farmer merchant, gave his friends a genuine surprise last Wednesday by getting married. At two o'clock Wednesday evening, at his cottage home on the hill north of town he led Miss Georgie T. Harmon to the hymenal altar, and Rev. E. B. Blackburn was the officiating minister. After the ceremony the couple went to the country and spent the day and night with friends. Return next day they began married life in their cozy little home. The Press extends congratulations.

S. W. Adams Elected Cashier.
 Friday the directors of Marion Bank held a meeting to choose a successor to cashier Yandell, who resigned to accept the Collectorship. Mr. S. W. Adams was elected to the vacancy, and began work Saturday. The selection of Mr. Adams is a good one; in fact it would have been a hard task to find a man more acceptable to the patrons of the bank and the public in general. He has fine business qualifications and he has the confidence of the people, and he will prove to be as popular in the bank as he was in our schools. The directors are to be congratulated upon the wisdom of their selection.

ROYAL BAKING POWDER

 Celebrated for its great leavening strength and healthfulness. Assures the food against alum and all forms of adulteration common to the cheap brands. ROYAL BAKING POWDER CO. New York.

Carter Suit Compromised.
 The big suit of Mrs. Mary E. Carter against the executors of the late Garland Carter, has been compromised. According to the terms of the settlement the widow is to be paid $3,000 in cash, and she relinquishes all further claim upon the estate and gives possession of all real estate, etc., in and under her control.

The Masonic Barbecue.
 The Masonic barbecue at Sheridan Saturday was a delightful affair. A large crowd was in attendance, as fine a barbecue dinner as one could wish was served. Addresses were made by J. B. Kevil, Judge C. J. Pratt, and A. J. Bebout. The speeches were all timely and instructive and had the closest attention. The vocal music was charming; the young people of that section are splendid singers, and their work added much to the pleasure of the occasion. All of the arrangements were perfect, and he must have been a fastidious man indeed who did not enjoy the occasion. Sheridan is a pretty little place, and with her deep shades, cooling breezes and cool water she appeared to good advantage Saturday. There is a live Masonic lodge at that place and its membership is made up of leading citizens, and the community is naturally proud of the lodge.

Tom Yandell, Collector.
 The Press surmise that W. B. Yandell's visit to Washington meant more than sight-seeing and recreation was correct. The direct result of that visit is the appointment of Mr. Thomas J. Yandell Collector for the Second district.

The appointment was announced last Wednesday evening, and when it became known in Marion Mr. Yandell was the recipient of many hearty congratulations. As has been said before, Mr. Yandell is a popular man in Crittenden county, and his appointment was gratifying to the people of his home county. That he is deserving and competent goes without saying, and the appointment coming to Marion is no small honor.

Mr. Yandell is now arranging his bond, and expects to be ready to take charge of the office by the 15th. He has received a very courteous letter from Mr. Powers, the present collector, offering him all the information and assistance necessary upon induction into the office. Mr. Yandell will go to Owensboro the 10th, for the purpose of taking advantage of Mr. Powell's offer, and to familiarize himself with the duties of the office.

When asked about the minor places Mr. Yandell said that nothing had been agreed upon except the place of chief deputy, which would go to Mr. E. T. Franks. "My ambition," said Mr. Yandell, to the Press, "is to make a good, efficient collector, and in the matter of appointments I shall insist on competency in every instance. While I believe the offices should go to the party in power, I also believe that competency and fitness are paramount requisites."

Mr. Yandell is not a wordy man, nor one who "talks through his hat," but a matter-of-fact, industrious business man, and what he says will be done, or there will be a row.

Base Ball.
 On Saturday, July 3, Belle Mines won two games from DeKoven. The first game was played in the morning with the second nine. Monroe Travis pitched for the Crittenden boys, and they won with a score of 17 to 4. The best nine of DeKoven intended to play the "White Drawers" of Evansville in the evening, but the "Swans" failed to appear. So the DeKoven boys prevailed on the Mines boys to "play them just for the amusement of the crowd." The boys from Crittenden did not have their club there, but secured enough boys from Granger town to get a club and agreed to try them. DeKoven showed up well in practice and all the wise ones said it was a 10 to 1 shot on DeKoven. When the game started the first three men up for Belle Mines made easy outs and the crowd said it was all over. But there is where they fooled 'em. In the second inning they jumped onto the curves of the little left hand twirler of DeKoven and the way they pounded him made Capt Yates forget his Sunday school lesson. As the game progressed DeKoven tried several pitchers, but with no better success. In the meantime Penrod, the left handed boy from Granger town, was making monkeys out of DeKoven's heavy hitters, and they could not get a man to second base. Penrod would strike out every other man, and when they managed to hit it, they would knock an easy thing to the infield and get out. The first man that got to first base tried to steal second. Nesbitt gave him a little jerk and the man was out by 15 feet. During the rest of the game not a man on either side attempted to steal a base. The features of the game was the fine batting work of Penrod and Nesbitt, and the fine batting of the Belle Mines boys. At the close of the game Belle Mines had made 19 runs and DeKoven 3. Batters, DeKoven, Vaughn and Whitehead; Belle Mines Penrod and Nesbitt.

THE MINTS OF INDIA
 May be Reopened to Silver and England May Do Something for the White Metal.

London, June 29.—The next issue of the "National Review" will contain an article announcing an important bimetallic development at the hands of the United States Monetary Commission, consisting of Senator Wolcott, former Vice President Adlai E. Stevenson, and Gen. Chas. Jackson Paine, which will arrive here in a few days. The Commission, according to the National Review, will present to the British Government a joint statement from France and the United States, declaring their intention to "determine the disastrous experiments inaugurated in 1873, and claiming our good will and active concurrence."

The National Review adds: "We are able to announce that England's reply will be that the government is willing to reopen the Indian mints, to make a further substantial contribution to the rehabilitation of silver by extending its use in England and by increasing the legal tender of silver, making silver the basis of notes empowering the Bank of England to use its silver reserve, and that material assistance and strong moral support will be given to the object the United States and France have in view."

George Adamson, who has been under treatment for rheumatism for several months at Franklin, Ky. has returned home, no better than when he went away.

Most people in this country have excellent appetites and if they can procure plenty to appease them they will be in a good fix. Nothing better than health.

There is a heavy crop of hay saved in this part of the country and wheat is fine.

Mrs. W. C. Glenn is visiting in Crittenden this week. Do not delay making your purchases too long, and have it to say, the weather is hotter and I failed to get any of those bargains in dress goods offered by Bugg & Loyd.

Somehow there seems to be a loss of interest in this matter. Gill Davenport is strengthening his muscles in the roller mill, preparing for the new wheat when it comes.

Mother and Daughter Suicide.
 The dead bodies of Mrs. Widmer and her daughter aged 24 were found in bed side by side in Owensboro. An investigation resulted in the startling discovery that they had swallowed enough carbolic acid to kill five people. Financial embarrassment was the cause of the double suicide. The daughter left a note in which she stated that inability to meet some pressing obligations, together with other financial entanglements, had rendered life miserable, and that they preferred to end their troubles.

THE GYPSY MOTH.
 Doing Great Damage in Massachusetts, and May Spread Over the Whole Country.

Entomologist in chief, L. O. Howard, of the Department of Agriculture has been in Massachusetts the last three weeks investigating the gypsy moth, which has done such great damage in that State. The purpose of the reconnaissance; as it may be termed, is to establish officially the situation respecting this dangerous insect, with a view to interference by the Federal authorities, and with the aid of government funds. The plague threatens the whole country, and unless it is checked would literally destroy all the plant life within the limits of the United States. Not even the locusts of classical literature, now known as the grasshopper, is so destructive, voracious and eclectic in its appetite as this formidable imported bug, for the control of which the legislature of Massachusetts is paying at the rate of $150,000 a year.

The whole of this trouble arises from the error of a naturalist named Trouvelot, who lived in the town of Medford, Mass., in 1868. He was interested in theories respecting silkworm culture, and he had a notion that silk might be obtained from the caterpillars of other moths than the species which produces the ordinary silkworm. There are a good many kinds of moths whose caterpillars make an excellent quality of silk and this gentleman thought that a suitable species was a certain owl moth that was unknown in this country, though a familiar and serious pest in Europe. Accordingly he imported some of the eggs with the intention to hatch them and conduct a few experiments. Unfortunately he left the window open one morning and the eggs, which had been placed on the ledge, were blown out by a gust of wind into the garden.

Trouvelot was somewhat alarmed by this occurrence. He feared that the result would be worse for the country than war or pestilence. The neighbors laughed at him. He was to them a "Puddenhead Wilson" and the wise men of the village used to tease him about his gypsy moths that were going to bring ruin upon the country.

How ver time went on, and a few years later much annoyance was created by the appearance of great numbers of blackish caterpillars of large size in the neighborhood of the place which the naturalist had occupied. The insects were a very serious nuisance, though the facts respecting their history were unknown at the time. Owing to their habing of hiding by day and feeding by night, they attracted little attention until they became very numerous and thus within twenty years they spread into twenty townships and gained a foothold in each without exciting public notice. But when they once got well started they became a plague with a vengeance.

In Medford the caterpillars first made themselves conspicuous, destroying the foliage of trees and crawling over the houses in such numbers as to blacken them with their bodies. Keen citizens destroyed billions of them by burning them and in other ways, but without much effect. When they had eaten up the trees on one block they would move on to the next and devour everything green thing in sight. In 1899 they were so numerous in some parts of the town that the people could slide on the crushed caterpillars on the sidewalk. They crowded each other off the streets and gathered in masses on the ground, houses and wind ows, even destroying the plants in the houses. Meanwhile countless thousands of the worms, hanging from the trees by invisible threads, were vapt against the faces and clothing of passers by.

Clothing hanging on the lines was stained with the larvae that dropped or blew upon them from the trees or buildings. In the warm, still summer nights a sickening odor arose from the masses of caterpillars in the woods and orchards, and a constant shower of their droppings fell from the trees. In the night time the noise made by the jaws of the insects in feeding was distinctly audible. They ate practically everything that was green, taking elms and apple trees first. The most luscious and vigorous trees died after being attacked and defoliated two or three seasons successively. The caterpillars multiplied enormously in places where the owners of land would not take the trouble to fight them, and from such localities they spread in every direction and in waste tracts they increased enormously.

By the year 1890 general alarm was begun to be felt regarding the plague, and the Massachusetts Legislature appropriated $25,000 towards the extermination of the gypsy moth which by this time had been satisfactorily identified. A commission was organized and infested trees were marked with a red tag. The investigation which followed showed that at least fifty square miles of territory were more or less infected though it had been supposed that the moth had not spread outside of a district half a mile in width and a mile and a half in length. Larger appropriations were made in the following year and the business of fighting the insect was reduced to a thorough system. Men trained to the work were sent into the towns of Lexington, Winchester, Wakefield, Melrose, Revere, Saugus, where they cut or scraped the egg clusters from the trees with knives but it did not amount to much.

Massachusetts is spending money freely to abate the plague, and the United States government has been called upon to aid.

"Last summer one of our grand children was sick with a severe bowel trouble," says Mrs. E. G. Gregory, of Fredericktown, Mo. "Our doctor's remedy had failed, then we tried the Chamberlain colic, cholera and diarrhea remedy, which gave speedy relief." For sale at Orme's.

 THE OWENSBORO THE BIRSELL THE BLOUNT...

Thousands of coal miners are out on a strike.

Senator Isham G. Harris is reported to be dying.

President McKinley spent the Sabbath at Canton.

Yellow fever is killing the Spanish soldiers in Cuba.

Senator Deboe seems to be taking care of his Crittenden county friends.

They are now talking of July 20 as the date for the adjournment of Congress.

The Senate will probably pass the tariff bill this week, and the adjournment of Reed will soon follow.

Dr. James, the United States Marshal, has recognized the colored brother by giving two of them deputyships.

The excessive heat the last few days has been fatal to human life in the cities. There were thirty four deaths Sunday, five of which were in Louisville.

According to Dr. McGraw's own testimony there will not be much left to jingle in his pockets out of that judgment after he pays expenses.

Zack Hoover was arrested in Logan county last week for poisoning a family in California some years ago. A reward of $11,000 was offered for his arrest.

The people of Hawaii are in a state of irrepressible joy over the prospects of annexation to the United States. They are preparing for a grand jubilee in celebration of the proposed event.

Cleveland and Waterson have been writing the goldbugs in Iowa to make a bold front and hold a stiff upper lip. As this is about all they can do short of joining with the Republicans, nobody will begrudge them that little.

The Louisville Post's Washington correspondent says that Senator Deboe is mad because Franks failed to land the collectorship. If he is well he is a square yard of the returning "prosperity" that there is method in his madness.

The President will send a message to Congress today, asking the appointment of a monetary commission. He is evidently afraid to risk Reed's congress for satisfactory legislation, and likewise the tariff bill for satisfactory prosperity.

The goldbug Democrats and the Republicans of the State are endeavoring to fuse on a candidate for clerk of the Court of Appeals. The two committees will hold a meeting this week. The Courier-Journal is opposed to the fusion, but that paper is without a party, and is not likely to have much weight.

The Greek government is said to have negotiated a loan in London, with which to pay Turkey the amount necessary to satisfy the damages of the late war. London capitalists are continually tightening their grip upon the world. They already have a grip upon Turkey and the Greek will now pass into their power. Soon all the governments will be mere puppets in their hands. As they are supplying the world with money, is it any wonder that they want laws that will make that money more and more valuable, when compared to property. The gold standard is the Aladdin's lamp for the English money lender.

Deboe, Franks and Yandell are all from the same little country town, that is noted principally as being the home of Ollie James, who has more sense than all three of them put together.—Hopkinsville Kentuckian.

Ollie James was one of the biggest men in the recent State convention, both physically and mentally. His influence was stamped upon everything of importance that was done. It is pretty well understood that Ollie will be a candidate for congress next year and already the boys are rallying to his support.—Clinton Democrat.

They seem to have tangled the junior Senator from Kentucky on the whisky tax question. According to the reports he promised to vote for a reduction of the whisky tax, but when the roll was called he was like the Dutchman's flea, somewhere else. If a man is excusable at all for breaking his promise, the Senator is entitled to leniency this time. There is no reduction of taxation on other kinds of property, on the other hand the new tariff is, or will be, an increase of taxes to the consumer on many things, and the wisdom of reducing the tax on whisky is not apparent.

CIRCUIT COURT.
Gheens Given One Year in the Penitentiary.
The Grand Jury Returns Twenty-two Indictments.

The damage suit of J. C. McMan vs. Thos Gheens was continued by the plaintiff.

Sarah J. Veal, D. J. Martin, Josie Bryant and Ettie Pride were each granted divorces.

Commonwealth vs. Ellie Williams, Quinn Nations and Obe Burgess, con federating was dismissed for resubmission to the grand jury. The other "conferating" cases were continued until the next term.

The case of the Commonwealth vs. Thos Gheens, concealed weapons, was submitted to the court and the defendant was fined $25 and 10 days in jail.

Commonwealth vs. Obe Burgess, breach of the peace, fined $25.

Thomas Gheens, who was indicted by the grand jury at the last term of court for "arresting a person without authority of law," was brought into court for trial Thursday. It appearing that he was unable to employ counsel the court appointed J. W. Blue, Jr., for the defence. The defendants attorney then entered a general demur to the indictment, which the court overruled. The defendant then pleaded guilty, and the court fixed his punishment at one year in the penitentiary.

The case grew out of the Fox white capping affair at Dycusburg; Gheens arrested Mann, whom he suspected of knowing something about the Fox "whitecapping."

Twenty-two Indictments.

The grand jury completed its work and adjourned Monday afternoon. The batch of indictments returned numbered twenty-two, including the one for murder, and a number for breach of the peace, concealed weapons, etc.

Rev. Fox Indicted.

Among the indictments returned by the grand jury Monday were three against the Rev. H. B. Fox; one charges him with carrying concealed deadly weapons, one disturbing lawful assembly, and one for aiding, abetting and counseling the unlawful arrest of a person.

Rev. Fox was in town the day the indictments were returned and executed bond on each one of them.

Shot to Death.

Madisonville, Ky., July 6.—Yesterday evening while Cyrian Trouil-lis, who lives near Nebo, was eating his supper some one fired a gun through the window and shot Trouil-lis dead. The murderer fled, and up to the present has not been apprehended. There is no clew to the perpetrator of the deed. The murdered man was an honest, hard working citizen.

A NATION'S DEBT TO DOLLY MADISON

Saved the Declaration of Independence From Falling into the Hands of the British.

The capture, invasion and burning of our National Capital by the British forces under Admiral Cookburn are graphically recalled by Clifford Howard in the July Ladies Home Journal, in its notable "Great Personal Events" series. Mr. Howard lucidly tells of the events leading up to the invasion, and pictures the terror and excitement of the people of Washington, who fled shouting, screaming, jostling one another under foot into Virginia, as the enemy approached. President Madison had gone to the front, and his wife was anxiously awaiting his return, in fear for his safety. The White House attaches had nearly all deserted their posts, but Mrs. Madison had packed all her husband's papers and records, and as she was about to abandon the house, bethought herself of General Washington's portrait. The heavy frame enclosing it was broken by a servant with an axe, and she removed the canvass with her own hands; keeping it from falling into the hands of the enemy.

"It was then, writes Mr. Howard, 'just as she was in the act of hurrying away, that Dolly Madison was seized with an inspiration that will ever cause her name to live in the heart of every true American. She stopped to think. What if the White House should be burned? Did it contain anything of value to the government that had been neglected? The Declaration of Independence! In a flash she called to mind this most precious of all documents. Carefully treasured in a case apart from the other papers, it had been overlooked in the excitement and confusion. It must be saved at all hazards. Without a moment's hesitation she turned and rushed back into the house. 'Stop, for heaven's sake stop!' cried her friends as they vainly endeavored to intercept her. Regardless of her commands, regardless of her danger, the brave woman sped to the room containing the treasure for which she was willing to sacrifice her life. Without attempting to open the glazed door of the case she shattered the glass with her clenched hand, snatched the priceless parchment, and waving it exultingly above her head hurried to the door, where she entered her carriage and was rapidly driven away in the direction of Georgetown."

DEBOE MAD.
A Washington Correspondent Says Hanna, Grosvenor and Roberts Are Doing It.

The Washington correspondent of the Louisville Post says:

There is very sore over having to withdraw Franks and substitute some one else. He would not feel grieved over this had he not failed on almost all his endurances. He did not back down with Franks voluntarily, any more than he did in his endorsement of Lieberth for Collector of the Sixth. In both cases he was told by the President that his endorsement would not go. He was given orders to endorse Leslie Combs for Pension Agent, for, in the beginning, he was boasting that Combs would not be appointed.

Yerkes and Sam Roberts can not be called Deboe's appointments any more than Sapp, who will be named at the request of Hanna and Grosvenor and Deboe begins to show considerable ill feeling at the way he has been ordered about in the matter of these appointments.

He finds that he is largely a figurehead; that the appointments are really made by Hanna, Grosvenor and Sam Roberts. All this makes Walter Evans chuckle, for while he is not at all lowly minded, those whom he recommends for the places allowed him land without interference.

Major Crumbaugh, while he did not get the Collectorship, will be given something, and over Deboe's protest, Deboe does not want Crumbaugh to get anything, and the latter is at a loss to understand the Senator's motley toward him in the matter of Federal appointments.

Washington, July 6.—The Kentucky contingent are indignant this morning over the fact that the junior Senator "ducked his vote on the Teller amendment to reduce the whisky tax, and as the roll-call continued it was found that he was paired against it. What makes the matter worse those representing Kentucky's interest say that they had Deboe's assurance that he would vote for the amendment. The Congressional Record this morning has the following interesting colloquy, which gives the official position of Senator Deboe:

Mr. Bate (after having voted in the affirmative)—I should like to inquire if the junior Senator from Kentucky (Mr. Deboe) has cast his vote.

The Vice-President—He has not voted.

Mr. Bate—I withdraw my vote, being paired with that Senator.

The Kentuckians say this is the first time since the waters of Kentucky were discovered to be good that a Kentucky Senator has failed to vote with his State in the interest of the whisky business.

Tom Jones expressed himself as "dabbergasted" by Deboe's action. He assured the other men that Deboe had promised him not only to vote, but to vote for the amendment. He pretends to be so much mortified that he begs some one to "ship him some where east of Sees," where he will not be asked to explain Deboe's vote.

The Republicans have deserted Deboe in the efforts he and Senator Lind say were making to have the whisky tax reduced to 70 cents. Senator Cullum told me this morning that the Republicans on the Finance Committee would not permit a reduction, and that neither he nor Senator Barrows would attempt to call up the amendment. Senator Lindsey and ex-Senator Blackburn had secured almost a solid vote on the Democratic side for the reduction, and if Deboe could only have secured a few votes on his side of the chamber for the reduction the amendment could be adopted.

Senator Cullum said to me, moreover, that the managers of the bill might not only decline to reduce the tax, but might reduce the bonded period if the matter was brought up this session.

HITE CAPTURED.
The Murderer of Green at Dekove Captured in Kansas City.

Kansas City, July 7.—Gus Hyatt, alias George Hall, who was arrested here Saturday, and yesterday confessed to having been one of a gang of train robbers who held up the L. and N. passenger train, at Calera, Ala., three months ago, was placed in the "sweat box" today (and confessed to other crimes. Hyatt says that while resisting arrest at Dekove, Ky., on April 15 last he shot and killed one Green, who had first shot him in the arm. He bears a wound in his arm. He also says he helped rob the Southern Express Company at Clarksville, Tenn., June 22, when he got $1220, and that he was in the train robbery at Bellville, Ill., a year ago.

BELLS MINES
Still Waiting for Free Coinage and Prosperity with a Big "P."

Ed. Press: It always tickles my fancy to beat a railroad out of a cheap ride, so last Friday evening I purchased a couple of half fare tickets for self and wife and went to Nunn's Switch.

Saturday morning we went to Mr. Lynn Phillips', at the foot of Baker hill, and the walk gave one a slight foretaste of the infernal regions, as the chariot of old Sol was careering through the brazen sky and scattering his beams with a forty million dynamo power.

Mr. Phillips was getting ready to commence wheat threshing Monday, and informed me that the wheat in that section was generally thin on the ground but the grain was excellent. The average will not exceed 75 bushels to the acre.

Miss Cordie Wheeler is to teach another term at Baker. Miss Cordie is very popular out there.

ROBBING A BEE HIVE.

Did you ever help rob a bee hive, Mr. Editor, in the old fashion way? If not, don't you ever try it, unless your religion is mighty deeply rooted. Last Saturday night I saw—at a safe distance—Lynn Phillips and Enoch Robinson rob a hive by smoking the little jokers from one hive to another and the number of bees that remained they received from the bees during the process.

There are some fine farms in Bells Mines, and Mr. Ely Nunn has one among the best. During my next visit I shall try to accept the invitation which Mr. Nunn sent myself and wife to visit his family. I should like to stroll over his farm and inspect some of his fine stock. Mr. Ira Nunn, sr., whom we met on the train, also gave us a pressing invitation to visit him.

BRUSH ARBOR MEETINGS.

"The groves were God's first temples," says the poet, and brush arbor meetings in the groves are now, during this heated term, becoming the accepted sanctuaries of the Lord.

In passing Rosebud church I noticed that all the benches had been placed under the arbor, and Sunday morning I attended services under the arbor at Nunn's. Mrs. Helen Lucas preached the sermon from John 5:29 and any lack of rhetorical effort in the discourse was amply compensated in earnest fervor. Mrs. Lucas, with whom I spent a portion of the afternoon, impressed me as a sincere christian lady. At 3 o'clock and at night Rev. John Brown occupied the pulpit.

THE FUTURE CITY OF NUNNS
I learn that in anticipation of the O. V. passing under the control of the Illinois Central and becoming a great coal road, that options are being taken on the lands adjacent to Nunn's, and surveys for tramways have been made. The hills surrounding the place have veins of very fine coal and the expectation is that several hundred miners will be set to work there in the near future. My friend Pritchett, the enterprising merchant there, says he is prepared to meet any increased demand for goods in his line. Just now the prospect for that little berg is certainly bright.

During my visit the venerable John W. Phillips, now in his 80th year, interested me with many reminiscences of Crittenden county more than half a century ago. He is still hale and hearty, and is a 16 to 1 every time.

The Following Letter Explains Itself:
MINNEAPOLIS, MINN., June 15, 1897.
MR. R. F. HAYNES, JR.,
Marion, Ky.
DEAR SIR:—Replying to yours of recent date with reference to the Colic Cure will say that we very much regret the loss of Mr. Tucker's horse. As a horseman, you of course understand that colic kills more horses than all other acute disease put together. Every veterinary book gives it as the most dangerous disease known among horses. The most successful veterinary surgeons look upon a certain per cent of cases even if they have their personal care and attention. It is simply impossible even for a veterinary surgeon of highest standing to cure every disease, even if he is on hand when the disease commences. A friend of the writer who is a veterinary surgeon in high standing, has often made the statement that he has worked for 24 hours on cases of colic and then had them die. Veterinary books state that more horses die of colic than all other diseases combined, and there is no veterinary surgeon who has had any extended practice who has not lost a large number of colic cases. In view of these facts we could not expect our remedy to give infallible results. Such results would be miraculous, and if we had a remedy of that kind we could easily sell it at $5 per bottle. International Colic Cure has given extraordinary results through a long term of years and is just as sure as it is in the nature of any medicine to be. It will fail in but very few cases, and in order to make everyone satisfied we are willing to refund money to the purchaser in any case of failure. Neither you nor your customers can ask anything farther than that, and it certainly shows that we know the remedy to be of superior merit and we would not dare to put it up with such a strong guarantee. We bought the recipe from a veterinary surgeon in our city who has used it over 15 years and it has won a wonderful reputation as a cure for Colic. We enclose our check for $2.00 drawn in favor of B. F. Tucker, and if you have already refunded his money you can have him endorse the check over to you. You are perfectly justified in recommending the remedy just as well as you would your family physician in whom you have the utmost confidence, although he has lost a great many cases. No doctor or remedy can cure every case and it surely is not right to make detrimental statements about a doctor or remedy because every case is not cured, because medicine does not always have the same action on different systems. We trust that you will look at the matter in this reasonable light and that you will continue to recommend International Colic Cure. It will certainly cure in a large majority of cases.
Very truly yours,

McGRAW vs. MARION.

The Doctor Gets a Judgment Against the People of Marion.

THERE IS TALK OF AN APPEAL.

The celebrated case of G. N. McGraw against the town of Marion was called in circuit court Monday morning, and both sides announced ready. The jury was empaneled, and it was not long until the case, which had been on the docket since 1894; was in the hands of the jury. The jury was out about two hours and a half and brought in a verdict for the plaintiff, giving him $400 damages.

At the time the suit was filed McGraw lived in Evansville; he came to Marion occasionally to sell soap and electric belts on the street, handling snakes to attract a crowd around him. When he first began to come to the town license for peddlers of this class was $1.25 per day; afterwards the town bylaws were revised and this tax, along with others, was raised to $2.50 per day. When he came in March, 1894, he was informed of the revision and the raise, he tendered the old price but refused to pay the $2.50, and proceeded to defy the town by selling without license. He was arrested and shown every consideration the officers could extend, but he treated the police court rather contemptuously, refused to pay the fine, preferring to go to jail, and after remaining there a few hours was brought out on a writ of habeas corpus and discharged. He then sued the town for $10,000 damages, basing his grounds for damage upon the unconstitutionality of the town bylaw, in that it discriminated against citizens who lived outside of the town. When it came up for trial Judge Pratt sustained a demurrer entered by the town, virtually throwing the case out of court. The Court of Appeals reversed Judge Pratt and Monday the case came up for trial again with the result stated. The town law was held to be unconstitutional by the court, and the jury was instructed to bring in a verdict for the plaintiff to the amount of the expenses he had sustained, and might give him such putative damages as the jury might think equitable.

CHARLES MURPHY KILLS THOMAS LINDSAY.

Thursday just at night-fall on a farm two miles north of Crittenden Springs, Charles Murphy shot and killed Thomas Lindsay, adding another homicide to the already too long list of such lamentable affairs in this county.

The two men lived on the same farm in separate dwellings but using the same same barn for their stock. They met at the barn about night fall, and according to the statement made by Lindsay, just before death sealed his lips forever, the affair occurred as follows:

Lindsay came in from work, and Murphy and Will Tidwell came in from the woods, having been squirrel hunting. Lindsay greeted Tidwell with: "Good evening, have you been squirrel hunting?" Lindsay then asked Murphy to call the hogs out of the lot, and the latter did so. All then went to their respective homes. Shortly afterwards Lindsay went back to the barn to turn his stock out, and Murphy, coming up shortly afterward, said to Lindsay: "Tom, you fed your mule on my hay." To this Lindsay replied: "I did not throw down your hay. Gus (Lindsay's boy) might have thrown down some of yours, if he did, you get up and throw down from mine until you are satisfied, if it takes all I have." Murphy said: "Get out of this lot." Lindsay replied: "I paid you for rent of stable and privilege of this lot." Murphy says: "You must get out or I will kill you."

Lindsay then started out, and after going a few steps turned and said: "Charlie you would not kill me, would you?" Murphy replied: "Yes by G—," and raised his gun and fired. Lindsay said that he had nothing against Murphy, and did not know what induced him to fire; that after starting out he looked back, thinking that Murphy might throw a rock at him, not knowing that he had a gun, or that there was a gun about the barn.

The entire charge of shot entered the right side of the abdomen, tearing an ugly hole, and perforating the intestines. Lindsay lived about an hour, and made the statement above detailed to his brother, Joe Lindsay, who repeated it to the Press.

Murphy claims a strong case of self defense. According to statements credited to him, Lindsay was advancing upon him with a knife and he was compelled to shoot to save his own life. His case is in the hands of his attorneys, and they advised against his making a statement, in detail, for publication. They say it is a plain case of self defense, and that they will have no trouble, when the case comes to trial, to establish the justification of their client.

After the shooting Murphy went to a neighbors, borrowed a mule, and came to town. He reached here at 8 o'clock in the morning and stopped with his step father, Mr. T. T. Murphy, a well known citizen of this place, until 7 o'clock, when he went to the county judge's office and surrendered himself. Circuit court being in session, he was taken before Judge Pratt, and sent to jail pending an investigation by the grand jury.

In the meantime information had been filed with the county judge upon which he had issued a warrant of arrest charging Murphy with murder, and about the time he reached town the officers started in search of him. When they reached the neighborhood they learned that he had come to town, and when they returned he was in jail.

Murphy is a son of the late Wm. Murphy, who at one time kept hotel in Marion. He has four brothers, two living in this county, one in Texas, and one in Christian county. The widow of the late Elisha White is his sister. He has a wife and two children; all of his friends hold that he is innocent of murder, and will stand by him in his fight for acquittal. Lindsay leaves a wife and several children. He is a son of Granville Lindsay, a well known old gentleman of the Crittenden Springs neighborhood; he has two brothers who live in the same neighborhood.

Both the dead and the living men, principals of the lamentable affair, have friends, and when the case comes to trial it will be a hard fought one all around.

Murphy himself is very hopeful of an acquittal, and expresses himself as feeling that a trial is all that is necessary for vindication. The friends of Lindsay take exactly the opposite view; they hold that the facts, when developed, will show a clear case of murder.

The coroner held an inquest over the dead body of Lindsay and returned a verdict as follows:

July 2, 1897.—We, the jury, after careful examination find that Tom Lindsay's death was brought about by a gun shot, and after getting what information we could in the case, we believe the gun was in the hands of Charles Murphy at the time it was fired and that he, Lindsay, was shot to the eye of July 2, 1897, and in Crittenden county, Ky., and on a farm belonging to E. R. White, deceased, on the waters of Hurricane creek.

Monday afternoon the grand jury delivered the following indictment to the court:

The grand jurors of the county of Crittenden, in the name and by the authority of the Commonwealth of Kentucky, accuse Charles Murphy of the crime of willful murder, committed in manner and form as follows, to wit: The said Murphy, on the 1st day of July, 1897, and before the finding of this indictment, did unlawfully, wilfully, feloniously and with malice aforethought kill, slay and murder Thomas Lindsay, by shooting him with a gun loaded with lead on balls or other hard substances, against the peace and dignity of the Commonwealth of Kentucky.

The witnesses for the Commonwealth are: Lawson McQuire, Ike Lynn, W. N. Lindsay, Mrs. Thomas Lindsay, Dr. I. H. Clement, Norman Hoover, Gus Lindsay, Solomon Lee, Gus Lindsay, Grover White, Nels Tidwell, Ed Beard and Josh Hamilton.

The case was set for trial Wednesday, and when called was continued until next court by the commonwealth. Murphy's attorneys then made a motion asking the court to permit the defendant to give bail, and the investigation upon this motion produced the following testimony:

Chas. Murphy, the defendant.—I had farm rented, I gave Lindsay permission to put hay in lot, and keep mule in lot. Got back from squirrel hunting about sun set passed by the house, set my gun on outside of horse lot; afterwards set it on inside to keep children from getting it, or stock from knocking it down. Lindsay followed at me in angry manner to turn hog out. I opened gate and let hog out. Lindsay would often get angry at times. I want to state and Lindsay said: "I heard that you say that I have been stealing your hay." I said you can call it what you please, I saw my hay in your stable. He said you are a G—d—liar. I said Lindsay don't call me a liar, I did not come down here for trouble; he said I come down here for anything. I said you let my hay alone, and we can settle this without any trouble. Lindsay kept mouthing and I started towards the gate. He said, here, you cotton-eyed s—b—, if there is any part of a man about you, you will show it. I went on towards the gate tolerable fast; he kept coming. I picked up the gun and said, don't crowd onto me; he kept coming and I said, stop, or I will be bound to shoot you; he kept coming and I shot; he was some eight or ten feet from me when I fired; he then turned and bent over and walked back some four or five steps; he was standing stopped over when I last saw him. I came to town and surrendered; did not know he was dead when I surrendered. I thought Lindsay had knife in hand, I saw the blade. When I told him I would shoot he said, shoot, d—n you.

Ike Lynn.—I got there fifteen minutes after the shooting. Lindsay said if he had gone on and let Murphy alone there would have been none of it. Lindsay wanted some one to pray for him; said he could not pray because he was "cussed." Lindsay weighed 160 to 175 pounds. Lindsay's reputation was bad; he is known as quarrelsome and stirred up strife in the neighborhood; he had a reputation for telling falsehoods.

Grover White.—Was at Lindsay's when gun was fired, went down there Lindsay said that he wanted uncle Charles to come and shake hands with him that he, Lindsay, had done wrong. It was all uncalled for. Wish he had let Murphy alone; heard Lindsay say "cuss" words before the gun was fired. Upon cross-examination the witness, who is a little boy, broke down and cried; he said that he went by Murphy's house as he went to the lot, and that Mrs. Lindsay was present when L. talked to him.

Josh Hamilton.—Saw the wound. Shot appeared to have gone straight in. I think the gun must have been fired at some eight or ten feet from Lindsay. I did not count shot holes, but heard another man count 123; holes were small. Lindsay's reputation was bad. Can't say that he was considered a dangerous man.

Lawson McQuire.—Saw the wound, shot looked bunched. Lindsay said that if he had let Murphy alone there would have been none of it. Witness said Lindsay had reputation as a quarrelsome, contentious man.

Tom Bell, Hodge Murphy, Dave Hanson, Mrs. White, Susan Murphy, Duncy Clark, John Evanson.—Reputation of Lindsay bad; Murphy's

good. Lindsay had reputation of telling falsehoods and getting up trouble. The first witness called by the commonwealth was Joe Lindsay. He made practically the same statement as published at the beginning of this article.

Ed Beard.—Lindsay was on the floor. He said I want to talk to you and all my friends. Charlie Murphy has killed me. He did it for nothing. I went to the lot to tend to my mule. Murphy said you are stealing my hay, I said I am not. I have plenty of hay. Murphy said get out of this lot you G—d—s—of a b—, or I will kill you. I said you won't do that will you? I saw Murphy was mad and started out, turned around to see what he had and bang went the gun. Had I known he had a gun I could have saved myself. The shot was scattered in a circle of nine inches, and ranged diagonally, some of them just going beneath the skin.

Norman Hoover.—Heard report of gun. Lindsay was in lot when I got there. I could see no knife. Shot scattered some six or eight inches.

After hearing the testimony and argument of the attorneys, the court held Murphy for manslaughter, and fixed his bond at $2,000. The bond was executed with Mrs. White, Hodge Murphy, Anthony Murphy and Josh Hamilton as sureties.

James & James and Moore & Moore are Murphy's attorneys.

AN ASSOCIATION FORMED.

To Care for the Grave of Abraham Lincoln's Mother.

Indianapolis, June 30.—A few days ago Gov. Mount called for a meeting of representatives of the various old soldier organizations of the State to organize an association for the care of the grave of Nancy Hanks, mother of Lincoln, at Lincoln City, Spencer county, this State.

The association is to take care of the grave and open passage ways to the old neglected cemetery. The place is overgrown with weeds and is in bad condition. A marble slab marks the grave, and it was decided that this would do as well as to erect a costly monument. Congress will not be asked for any aid, but it is expected that it will deed the half acre of the cemetery belonging to the United States to the Association.

Subscriptions of not more than $1 each are to be asked from all parts of the country, and this fund will be deposited in a bank and the interest is expected to take care of the grave.
A custodian will be appointed to look after it.

Mormons in Mississippi.

Jackson, Miss., June 29.—The disciples of Brigham Young are expending
a great deal of time and energy, and doubtless money, in this state of late, and, if reports be true, have sown seed in fertile places. Time was, and only a few years ago, that a couple of Mormon elders were tarred and feathered and given a ride on a rail not a thousand miles from the capital, but to day they are permitted the freedom of the city. For a year or more Elder Pomroy has made Jackson a kind of headquarters, making excursions to neighboring villages preaching the gospel according to their way of thinking, distributing books, tracts and other literature, singing and praying in the highways
and the byways, without molestation, but never in a church of any other denomination.

Scattered around over the state,
they now have nine churches and hundreds of communicants, whereas until two or three years ago they had nothing. They are the most persistent workers in the world, are meek and lowly, and never resent the indignities that are still heaped upon them in many localities. Here in Jackson they are not permitted to preach in any church or public building, but hire a fire company hall and preach by the week to audiences on which the ordinary circuit rider would starve to death. One peculiar feature about these meetings is that no collections are ever taken up, the preachers paying their expenses out of their own pocket or from funds furnished them from headquarters at Salt Lake.

When to Cut Hay.

There has been much discussion relative to the proper time to cut hay, and there are many mistakes made on both sides of the line, more no doubt on the side too late than too early cutting. The stage at which the plant contains the most nutritive matter is when it is nearing maturity, and before any considerable of its substance has entered into the seeds. We have found it a good plan to begin rather early, for we are sometimes thrown back by wet weather, or cause over which we have no control, and if we wait until the grass or clover is just right, beginning the last cutting may be little more than a mass of woody fibers. It is claimed by some that in cutting before maturity we endanger the stand, as they have noticed that where grass was well ripened before being cut, the stand was more enduring.
Probably this is the result of the matured shattering off, taking root and growing—a rather expensive method of seeding.—Epitomist.

Turks Ferocious.

An Englishman writing from Athens gives an idea of the ferocity of the Turkish nature. She says: "In one hospital we have one ward full of Turkish prisoners. They are cared for and treated like our own soldiers, but they don't deserve it, or at least one does not. He is an officer, and when a Greek red cross officer was lifting him on a stretcher he pulled out his revolver and shot our poor fellow through the heart. And those are the wretches the Christian nations of the world are helping and upholding."

Potatoes and Tomato Salad.

Boil in their jackets four medium sized potatoes. While they are boiling make a French dressing and slice into it one good sized onion; as soon as the potatoes are done, drain, salt and dry them. Remove the skins and cut the potatoes while hot into the dressing; toss them carefully until every piece is well covered. Put the mixture on a cold dish and stand aside until serving hour. Then garnish the dish thickly with parsley, sprinkle over the dish a tablespoonful of finely chopped parsley or celery tops; a small pickled beet may be chopped fine and placed diagonally across the dish. Sardines or pickled herring may also be used as a garnish and to give variety, and one may also stir into the dressing a tablespoonful of anchovy paste.

Scald, peel and cool small round,
well shaped tomatoes. Dish them neatly on lettuce leaves, and put over each a teaspoonful of mayonnaise dressing. Keep in a cold place until it is time to serve.—Mrs. S. T. Rorer, in July Ladies' Home Journal.

First English Book.

The first book written in the English language—that is, after the Saxons had assumed a form we now call English—was "The Travels of Sir John Mandeville." This book is remarkable from the fact that it shows a clear and correct idea of the shape of the earth; and that it is possible to travel around it and return to the starting point from the opposite direction—thus anticipating the discovery of Columbus near a century and a half.

Mr. and Mrs. A. D. Witherspoon will celebrate the sixtieth anniversary of their marriage tomorrow. They were united at E. K. T. Rorer, Todd county, June 27, 1837. Their long and happy wedded life is a shining example in opposition to the new day query,
"Is marriage a failure?"

Mr. Witherspoon was born in Livingston county, this state, June 28, 1839, so that the anniversary of his birth and marriage came close together.
His wife, who is ten years his junior, was born July 9, 1849, in Paisley, Scotland. Her parents came to this country when she was but 18 months old. After a short time in Pennsylvania they moved to West
Kentucky, a few miles from Paducah.

At the age of 22 years Mr. Witherspoon was appointed a deputy under his father, who was sheriff of Livingston county, succeeding John Alcorn, whose son became Senator from Mississippi. At that time Livingston county embraced what is now Crittenden. The county seat was Salem. Young Witherspoon took charge of the revenue of the office and made a successful settlement with the auditor to the confusion of numerous old heads, who predicted the young man would involve his father in serious complications.

In 1848 he moved to Memphis, Tenn., and engaged in business until 1873, when he went to Louisville, where he has resided ever since. He and his wife are in the enjoyment of good health, considering their advanced age—he at eighty eight and Mrs. Witherspoon at seventy eight years. They have very large families.

much resembling that disease.
The animals droop, refuse to eat,
and seem to have no idea of distance.

teeth violently against the bottom of recover under treatment. Impure
