SCHOOL BOOKS.

The Price for Text Books are Too High for the Times.

THE STATE IN BONDAGE.

Considerable interest is being manifested by the people of Kentucky at present in the matter of school books. For years we have been at the mercy of two or three book companies who set their own prices for school books and the people forced to pay them. There now four book companies supplying text books for the state, but two of them—the American Book Co. and Ginn & Co.—furnish the greater portion of the books used. Under the present law the county board, composed of the superintendent and two other competent teachers of his own selection, make the selection of text books, which must be furnished by the above named companies. Each county board may select such books as are necessary, but they must come through these companies, which are under bond to the state.

That these companies charge an exorbitant price for school books needs but a glance to convince anyone. A school book is not a hard book to make. After the type is set up, the pages are stereotyped and there is no more trouble in the matter of setting for years to come. The paper is of very common quality, and the binding is cheaply and hurriedly done. The cuts (when used) are of the cheapest make. All the books now in use, including the higher priced ones, are very cheaply put up and will not stand a great amount of constant usage.

Any of the high class magazines of today, full of half tone cuts and printed on the best calendered paper may be bought for ten to twenty five cents. Some of these magazines contain 200 pages of the highest class of reading matter, by the most eminent authors, and are the perfection in printing and illustrating. They are issued monthly and each issue is new throughout. And yet when a Kentuckian goes to buy his school books he is forced to pay seventy five cents for a fifth reader, and sixty five cents for a common little English grammar, neither of which represents half the workmanship or actual cost of production contained in one of the popular magazines of today. The other proportionate prices, as, for instance one dollar, for a United States history, and one dollar and thirty cents for a common school geography. These books could be sold for half the list prices and still a handsome profit be secured.

Kentucky has nearly a million school children. She also has a compulsory law. She not only compels her children to go to school, but also compels them to pay two prices for every school book purchased.

If a man with a family of school children moves into an adjoining county he will likely be compelled to buy a new set of books for each of his children, at the same exorbitant figures. This is a matter that deeply interests every parent in Kentucky. The amount of money which is yearly spent by our citizens for school books in excess of what really should be expended, can not be approximately estimated, but a few minutes thought will convince anybody that it is large. It will probably average one dollar to the pupil—nearly a million dollars.

The remedy is plain, and its importance is imperative. The legislature should pass a law empowering the state superintendent with the right to adopt a uniform system of text books and to either call for bids on the furnishing of same or have them printed by the state printer. This would give us school books at less than half the price we are now paying. The State of Indiana has a uniform system of text books, which are furnished by the lowest bidder, and her citizens are thereby enabled to save fifty per cent of Kentucky prices, and many of the books are furnished by the same companies.

We hope to see this matter taken up and pushed. There is no reason why we should continue to blindly pay tribute to rapacious book companies when relief is obtainable. It is the duty of all good citizens to take an interest in the matter.—Henderson Gleaner.

MOUNTAIN CLIMBING IN CALIFORNIA.

Public Highways that Cost $3,000 Per Mile—The Misadventures of Mexican Cowboys—Stock Raising in the Golden State.

DEAR EDITOR: Northward I went my way from Albert Lyman's ranch for eight miles the climb is gradual, but continuous. All about are the mountains, mighty peaks which seem to pierce the very sky. Here and there I notice a settlement—half an acre, five acres, ten acres, perhaps, mostly in fruit and grain, but no big ranches. The country is too uneven. One north and south road here accommodates the thousands of people who have occasion to use it. It must have cost three thousand dollars a mile to build over the mountains between San Margarita and San Luis Obispo, a distance of twelve miles. It has been cut right out of the mountain side, and is wide, smooth and of an easy grade. Every body speaks of a grade here, in describing a road. All the public highways are laid out by a civil engineer, and this one is a fair sample of the many mountain roads in this State which are built and maintained at great expense.

If the "grade" is light the road must necessarily be very crooked in order to reach the summit. Such a thoroughfare is this. It is just like a corkscrew, and before we reached the summit we had traveled a great many miles and toward every point of the compass passed the track of the Southern Pacific Railroad Company was a thousand feet above us, while at our feet we were far above the track. As our drive and we descended and entered the head of Salinas valley, a narrow, sandy, but quite fertile strip of land, which reaches to the coast, 125 miles in a northwesterly direction. As soon as we got out of the mountains we found stock farms, grain fields, orchards and saloons. There's no saloon in the saloon here here. Saloons on the mountains, saloons in the valleys, in town and out of town, the weary, wayworn traveler, as well as the cicerone at large has ample opportunity to quench his thirst without resorting to mountain rills.

At the head of Salinas valley stock raising is the principal industry, and Mexicans are generally employed to handle the stock. These tawny fellows, with broad brimmed hats and leather breeches, and with an overwhelming appetite for "red licker," were everywhere in evidence. They ride fine horses, always go on the canter, carry a bundle of blankets behind them, are nomadic by birth and education, spend their entire time out of doors and are a shiftless, go lucky band, who never for a moment allow themselves to worry about what is in store for them.

On our northward journey we passed through Santa Margarita, Love, Palomo, Atascadero, Assunition, Templeton, Pass Eble, Welton, and arrived at San Miguel at 6 o'clock, making the distance, 37 miles, in ten hours. This is not a desirable country to live in. It is toothful, the land is fertile, but everything is overdone. The farmers are not prosperous. Evidence of thrift are conspicuous by their absence.

After leaving the mountains the road was sandy, in places heavy. Oak openings marked the course of our journey the entire distance. Backy seems to be the principal grain crop. Many big grain elevators are standing which would not yield eight bushels per acre.

There are too many millionaire land owners here to make this a desirable section for the poor man. I hear them talking everywhere of "grants." Inquiry revealed the fact that this country is owned largely by speculators. In some manner large grants of land have been secured and are now held by capitalists, most of whom reside in San Francisco. These grants are stocked with cattle or sheep, the herds are cared for by Mexicans, and the owners sit in their San Francisco offices, direct the work, and declare the dividends. The help is paid only a miserly pittance, they are worked early and late, and really they are slaves. I had a thousand times rather own one acre of land and the shabby nest hole of a cabin imaginable, and be my own boss, rather than do the bidding of a tyrannical boss on one of these big California ranches. It is simple slavery.

Paso Robles is the only attractive town we passed through today. It has three thousand population and is a pretty place which boasts of hot sulphur springs and a sanitarium. The idea here in California is to live off outsiders as much as possible. They count on making a living off Eastern tourists. I notice this disposition to do so on all along my journey. "Many people coming out here this summer?" is the query all along the line. I always did hate a parasite, whether he was blessed with two or more legs.

There are mud baths at Paso Robles. The patient is put into a tank and plastered with mud, and there he remains for hours. It is said that the medicinal properties with which the mud is impregnated, is a cure for rheumatism, and kindred ills. It is a sight to pass through this institution and see dozens of men wallowing in mud as thick as printers ink up to their waists like so many hippopotami.

We have now made 202 miles, and the country is improving.

Literary Note.

The interiors of one thousand of the most attractive homes in the United States have been photographed by The Ladies Home Journal. One hundred of the best of these pictures will be reproduced in that magazine. The first article of the series—"Inside of a Hundred Homes"—will appear in the October Journal. Bedchambers, reception and dining rooms, bath rooms, halls and apartments of every kind will be pictured just as they are in daily use. Each picture contains dozens of suggestions. A very woman is interested in taking a peep into the most attractive homes in the land, to see how they are furnished and arranged. She wants to get practical hints and new ideas for furnishing her own. The houses photographed by the Journal are those occupied by persons of moderate income. Their interior arrangement shows what perfect taste can accomplish with a little money and the touch of a woman's deft fingers. Homes in every State in the Union—from Maine to California—were photographed for the Journal's unique and useful series.

It is a whole lot of little things that are carefully attended to which, when taken altogether, make the BUCKSKIN BREEDERS the best of the breed in the world. They have the wearing qualities and they fit; we believe a pair of working pants should be comfortable, look well, and fit well. Making them do this and that adds to the wear, is why we have our reputation.

FIVE MEN MOBBED.

Indians Give The Country A Sample of Their Wrath.

Versailles, Ind., Sept. 15.—Lyle Levi, Bert Andrews, Clifford Gordon Wm Jenkins and Hiney Shuter have paid the penalty for their crimes. A quiet determined posse of masked men numbering about three hundred rode into the town soon after midnight Wednesday, took the wretches from jail, shooting their bodies full of bullets before they dragged them out, and left them, swinging to a tree one block from the jail.

After wreaking their vengeance the lynch mob rode out of town as quietly as they came, leaving behind no evidence of their visit save the ghastly fruit upon the tree.

The five victims of the lynching were being held on charge of burglary or robbery. Andrews and Gordon were captured at current last Saturday night after a fierce battle with the sheriff. They attempted to rob a store at Versailles. Shuter was in jail for attempted burglary, and Levi and Jenkins had just been indicted by the grand jury for robbery. Andrews and Gordon had been wounded in their battle with the law, and were bandaged upon their shattered limbs. Levi was an old soldier, and his face had been scarred by a musket bullet at Bull Run.

MURDER WILL OUT.

Two Men Confess An Awful Crime A Hanging In Sight.

Eddyville, Ky., Sept. 18.—Alfred Katto, aged 21, and John Halley, aged 18, both white, were arrested by constable Dan Fowles and brought here before Judge Crumbaugh, charged with murdering old man Askew, who had a shanty boat in the Tennessee river near the Star Line Works plant, in Lyon county. They have confessed their guilt and each accuses the other. According to the testimony they entered the shanty boat and found Askew asleep, and each swore the other killed him by chopping his head off with an axe. They then put him in a sack and tied rocks to him and let him down in the middle of the river.

They returned and took charge of the boat, which contained a small lot of groceries, and started down the river as though nothing had happened. The young men were both held over to circuit court without bail and sent to the Prison Jail for safe keeping.

The crime was one of the most brutal and bloodthirsty in the history of this county, and the officials have been working like Trojans on it since its occurrence. The men's body was badly mutilated and when found it was thought it would be hard to locate the murderers. The men had not been suspected before their arrest. Halley confessed, only each is trying to clear himself and put the blame for the crime on the other.

GRAND RIVERS, KY., Sep. 20. Ed. Press: If you will kindly allow me space in your valuable paper I will give you some items from old Livingston.

I see a card in the Livingston Banner last week from W. B. Champion, who was a candidate before the primary for the nomination for Representative, in which he went down in defeat, but he comes out like a true silver man and says I am for Bob Walker, the nominee, and will do all in his power to secure his election. That is the way for a Democrat to talk; and I want to tell you that the Democrats of Livingston are lined up, although there are a lot of sand dates in this county that are crying, these are non-political officers, but these same fellows are mostly of the holocaust, Hannacort McKinley Aid Society stripe, and I predict that we will elect our county ticket by four or five hundred.

Yours truly,

How Worry Affects the Brain.

[Pharmaceutical Products]

Moral science has brought to light nothing more curiously interesting than the fact that worry will kill. More remarkable still, it has been able to determine from recent discoveries just how worry does kill.

It is believed by many scientists who have followed most carefully the growth of the science of brain diseases that scores of the deaths set down to other causes are due alone to worry. The theory is a simple one, so simple that any one can readily understand it. Briefly put, it amounts to this:

Worry injures beyond repair certain cells of the brain, and the brain being the nutritive center of the body, the other organs become gradually injured, and when some disease of these organs, or a combination of them arises, death ensues.

Thus does worry kill. Insidiously like any other disease, it creeps upon the brain in the form of a constant, never lost idea, and, as the dropping of water over a period of years will wear a groove in a stone, so does worry gradually, imperceptibly, but no less surely destroy the brain cells that lead all the rest, and that are, so to speak, the command-ing officers of mental power, health and motion.

Worry, to make the theory still stronger, is an irritant at certain points, which produces but very little harm if it comes at intervals or irregularly. Occasional worrying of the system the brain can cope with, but the iteration or repetition of one idea, or a disquieting sort of the cells of the brain are not proof against it. It is as if the skull were laid bare and the surface of the brain struck lightly with a hammer every few seconds with mechanical precision, with never a sign of a let up, or the failure of a stroke.

ONE YEAR . . . ONE DOLLAR

Livingston county will vote on the liquor question Saturday.

The grand jury of Marion county has indicted a number of men for the last Legislature for gambling. Why dig up the dead?

The big silver camp meeting at Springfield, Ohio, will stir up the goldbugs to holding another funeral and burying the silver cause some more.

An attempt was made to assassinate the President of Mexico last week, and the would-be assassin was taken from prison and killed by a mob.

If Kentucky keeps on mobbing fellows for rape, she might possibly in the course of a century get to the Indiana plane of wholesale hanging for wholesale theft.

The government will look after the gold seekers in Alaska, furnishing them with provisions if they are hungry this winter. It will not help the hungry at home.

The Courier-Journal expresses a desire to "take its cars from the ground." If it will get Mark Hanna out of its back, it might be able to hold up its head once more.

The currency commission has been appointed, and as the gold standard people had the appointing power, the standing of the commission on the currency question is in no wise a mooted problem.

According to dispatches Spain expects to have a war with the United States shortly. She must be in that unenviable condition that breaks the heart of a boy, while enduring life, because he has to, while his father is cutting a grab with which to "warm his jacket."

The courts have decided that they will have nothing to do with the enforcement of the civil service law. This belongs to the executive department of the government, and the decision throws down the bars to the office seekers.

For some reason the gold standard band is not playing the "dollar wheat" melody so sweetly recently. Wheat has been sliding downward the last few days, and it may be the boys fear that they pitched the tune an octave too high.

Pension Commissioner Evans says there will be a deficit of $6,000,000 in the pension department for 1897. He estimates the total payments for the year at $147,500,000 as against $141,262,880 last year. He attributes the increase in applications to the hard times, and the preference of the claimants to apply to the present administration rather than the last.

A multi-millionaire astonishes the country occasionally by a munificent gift to some educational or benevolent institution. If he had earned his millions by honest toil or fair business methods, he would get credit for a charitable deed, but when it is remembered that so many of the nabobs get their money by gambling in stocks, or taking advantage of laws they have passed to enable them to accumulate at the disadvantage of the great mass of people, these gifts are shorn of their beauty.

Three hundred members of the wool knit goods trade, representing the manufacturers, held a meeting in New York last week and passed resolutions declaring that an immediate advance of from 15 to 40 per cent. on the price of their goods was necessary and to carry out the resolution they said: "We will curtail production, even to the stoppage of our mills." These people mean business, the tariff enables them to raise the price of their products, and they propose to do it, or stop the plov. The tariff is also said to be for the farmer, let him try the same plan, if his products do not yield him the profit he wants, and see what the result will be.

Miss Mina Wheeler has a card in this paper to the voters of Crittenden county. It has been the Press's pleasure to refer to her work as School Superintendent frequently during her term of office, and her energy and devotion to the duties of this very important trust have been the occasion of a number of articles in this paper. Without reflecting upon the good work done by her predecessor, it can be truthfully said that she has made the best Superintendent the county ever had. She has devoted her whole time and attention to the work, and her ability as an educator, her interest in the schools of the county, and the cause of education generally, as well as her sound judgment and fine business qualities, are the factors that have made her an exemplary officer.

Is It Strange?

The public debt, according to the figures of John Clark Ridpath, the historian, is now about $1,344,000,000. This sum is equal to almost $20 for every man, woman and child in the country. When we consider that the interest on the larger part of this is paid to the bondholders every six months, it can be seen how, in the course of a few years, the money is gathered into the pockets of the few; and it can also be seen why the bondholders want the greenbacks—the non-interest bearing portion of the debt—withdrawn, and bank notes—which virtually draw interest—substituted for them. The same authority says that at the close of the year 1895 the people had paid in interest on the public debt $2,635,000,000. The average population of the country, taking the census of 1870, 1880 and 1890 has been for the past 30 years about 50,500,000. Divide the number of dollars paid in interest by the number of people in the country and we find that, during the past thirty years the government has paid the holders of the national debt $52 for every man, woman and child in the country. This sum represents interest alone. The government collects the money from the people and turns it over to the bondholders. With this process continuing going on, it is strange that the money constantly accumulates in the hands of the few? With an absolutely safe investment, interest paid semi-annually, and the purchasing power of the principal increasing annually, is it strange that the bondholders do not want the debt paid off, and is it astonishing that they want more bonds, and are willing to manipulate the gold reserve so as to increase the bonded indebtedness of the country? As the money of the country gradually, dollar by dollar, passes into their control, is it strange that they should want the purchasing power of these dollars increased? When each of these dollars, dropping softly into their hands, represents more property at the beginning than at the close of the year, is it strange that the bondholders cry out "depreciated currency," "dishonest dollars," when the people make an effort to place themselves in a condition to pay off the bonded indebtedness by the coinage of the silver of the country?

None of these things are strange. But it is strange that so many good and sensible men will join in with the bondholding classes in the perpetuation of this debt.

Is Free Silver Waning?

New York Sun. The Hon. William Jennings Bryan has no reason to complain of the size of the audiences assembled to hear him talk bimetallism at Burlington, Kansas, one day last week he spoke to 15,000 persons, and his reception was most enthusiastic. At Iowa in the same State, the next day, he addressed from ten to twelve thousand persons on bimetallism. "People came fifty miles to hear him," we quote from Republican accounts. People who think that the back of the free silver movement is broken are deluding themselves. Wherever the Bryanites were strong in 1896 they are strong today, and wherever they are strong the belief in and demand for the free coinage of silver have not diminished a particle.

Who will say that the excess of expenditures over the revenues at Washington is displeasing to the bond dealers. The Dingley bill is playing into their hands by its failure to produce a sufficiency of revenue. A deficit means, in the end, bonds, and bonds are what Morgan & Co. want.

The Bank of England expressed a willingness to hold one fifth of its reserve in silver, and all the monetary metalists of Europe are shying brick bats at the Old Lady of Threadneedle street. They are exasperated whenever any of their party even smiles at silver.

Henry Wood, the good natured, level headed chairman of the Democratic committee of Ford's Ferry precinct, was in town Monday. He has made a call for a mass meeting to nominate a candidate for magistrate in his district. Henry's friends—and he has lots of them—are urging him to become a candidate. A better man could not be found, and there is not a more deserving one anywhere.

The Courier-Journal says one of the leading silver papers in Mississippi announces that the next campaign will have to be run on some other issue than free silver. If there is an individual, firm or institution in this country anxious to eliminate the silver question from the arena, the Courier-Journal is that concern. The dispatch has so effectively exposed the treachery of the O. J. that the wayfaring man, though a fool, can readily comprehend why Watterson is sick, tired and disgusted with the whole business.

A big mass meeting was held in Faneuil Hall, Boston, to protest against government by injunction. George Fred Williams and Mayor Josiah Quincy were among the speakers.

ACQUITTED.

Hunter, Franks and Others Not Guilty, Says the Jury.

Frankfort, Ky., Sept. 21.—"Not guilty" is the verdict in the bribery case against Hunter, Wilson, Franks and Gates.

The trial was short and was quickly read. It was "not guilty," as had been expected by most of those present. All the parties to the indictments had been cleared, and the long controversy was over.

Dr. Hunter's face brightened and he seemed happy over the result.

Dr. Hunter's friends nearest him were not slow to reach him and to grasp his hand. Among the first to do this was Senator Deboe.

The jury's verdict in full was as follows:

"We, the jury, in cases of Hunter and others, charged with conspiracy to bribe, find defendants not guilty."

Dr. Hunter went directly to the jury and thanked the jurors out from the courtroom. He took each man by the hand and thanked him in person. He did not know by introduction a single man on the jury.

Dr. Hunter said:

"I am pleased with the result. I never expected anything else."

Mr. Wilson said: "I knew the law and facts, and I never had any doubt about it."

Mr. Franks said: "While I did doubt the result, I am glad it is all over."

THE TIME COMING

When the United States Will Assist the Cubans in Their Struggle.

Washington, Sept. 19.—Consul General Lee returns to Cuba at the earnest request of the president. He is to again look carefully over the situation and make another report to the president. By the time congress meets the president will have had his mind fully made up as to the best course for this country to pursue as regards Cuba, and will speak his mind to the legislative branches of the government. There is but one opinion here, so far as Cuba is concerned, and that is if Spain does not end the war before December the United States will take a hand and that the Cubans will be given their liberty for a Christmas gift. It is well known that Gen. Lee would not have consented to return to Cuba if he had not received assurances that this Government would soon interfere to stop bloodshed and devastation on the island.

IN KENTUCKY.

Mr. Bryan will Speak on His Return From the Exposition.

Lincoln, Neb., Sept. 20.—Hon. William Jennings Bryan will visit the Nebraska Exposition October 8. On the return trip he will pass into Kentucky and will make speeches at half a dozen points. He will stop at Glasgow on October 9, where his cousin, J. F. Bryan, President of the Glasgow Railroad Company, resides. Fatally Hurt.

Princeton, Ky., Sept. 20.—Carl Roberts, a farmer living ten miles north of Princeton, while cutting down a tree today was perhaps fatally injured. The tree fell upon him, breaking an arm, both legs and injuring him about the body.

Jack Frost's Work.

Louisville, Ky. Sept. 22.—Reports from all sections of the State tell of the havoc the frost played with tobacco in all of the lowlands and exposed places. Every section of the State suffered. The frost was unexpected, and caught many farmers napping. The result will have a bullish tendency on the market.

Ex-Confederate Reunion.

Kattawa, Ky., Sept. 20.—Ex-Confederates of Cobb's Battery and Ben Terry's Cavalry and friends will meet at Mint Springs, Lyon county, October 14. All ex-Confederates are invited.

ADMINISTRATION BACKING HIM.

Determined to Force a Negro Postmaster on a Georgia Town.

Atlanta, Ga., Sept. 19.—The recent shooting of the negro postmaster at Hogansville threatens to entail no end of trouble for the people of that town. A post office inspector has finished a three days' investigation of the shooting, and it is stated tonight that as a result of his work two of the most prominent business men in the town will be arrested this week on a charge of attempting to assassinate the postmaster.

The people of the town are called upon to face a most uncomfortable state of affairs. They have never yet patronized the negro postmaster directly, the old postmaster, Hardaway, maintaining his old postoffice and sending for and obtaining in bulk the mail matter for all his white patrons. Their letters were mailed on the trains. The ex-postmaster will be prosecuted for this, and the letters can no longer be mailed on the trains.

When this action was announced two days ago the citizens conceived the plan of having their mail sent to the next nearest postoffice and sending a carrier for it. They are now told this would be in violation of the law, which permits only the Government to maintain a post office route. Feeling is high among both whites and blacks, and further trouble is feared.

You may say, Mr. Editor, to those people who would create the impression that Dycusburg is slumbering during this campaign, that they will find to their consternation that she was awake during the day of November 23, 1897. For never did the Old Guard charge with greater fervor, than with the hosts of Democracy over whom the prosperity candidates here next November. Dycusburg is "up and a-comin'."

The Elm Grove and Caldwell Springs base ball clubs crossed bats here last Saturday. Only five innings were played. The score stood 42 to 33 in favor of Elm Grove.

N. W. Paris is teaching the Jackson school.

LEVIAS.

There was speaking here Saturday in which several of the candidates participated. The appointment was made for Judge Nunn and Mr. J. H. McConnell; both made good speeches. Judge Nunn's was an exceedingly strong presentation of the "all" side of the question, and his arguments are simply unanswerable. The silver men of this section are solid for him. Our candidate for magistrate, John W. Mabry, made a plain, sensible talk, and was roundly applauded. He is a man after our own heart down here, and we will re-elect him magistrate.

Our school has commenced with a fair attendance and is progressing nicely under the management of Prof. Nicholson and Miss Ida Koon.

Mrs. E. C. Hayward is looking for her son E. L. of Louisville, Wednesday, to spend several days on a visit. Mr. Hayward & Co's office at Dycusburg is a corn stalk 16 feet and 7 inches long; it is 10 feet from the ground to the ear; there are 18 joints to the stalk. It grew in the famous Oklahoma district of this section, and is just an ordinary sample of what the land in that section can do.

MISS MINA WHEELER Writes to the People Concerning Her Candidacy. In this issue of the Press I announce myself a candidate for the office of Superintendent of Schools. Since I have been in the work a number of people, who are interested in education, have expressed the desire that I should continue in the work another term. So I have concluded to submit the question to the people of the county, and if you think it will be to your interest to retain me another term, I shall greatly appreciate the favor and shall serve you to the best of my ability. My work for the past three years is before you; from it you will have to judge as to what it would be in the future, for if re-elected I see no cause for changing my policy or tactics. Having always believed that the public school was originated and is sustained for the benefit of the children, I have at all times made the welfare of the child my first consideration. Also a firm believer in the time honored doctrine that "as is the teacher, so will be the school," I have used every means that would help the teachers to rise to a higher plane; and though the public money has gone down since my term began, I believe that any one who is in a position to know, will tell you that the grade of teaching has steadily risen. In thus helping the school I have also benefited the teacher, for what helps the school must eventually help the teacher. In all my official acts it has been my aim to secure the greatest possible good to the greatest number of people, but where I could grant a favor to one without bringing injury to others, I have always been happy to do so. In my policy I have been conservative; I believe that greater harm is apt to result from doing a thing that ought not to be done than from postponing for awhile a thing that ought to be done, so I have always taken time to consider well before acting, and have tried to secure all the facts before rendering a decision. I believe, too, in a spirit of compromise. Life is full of compromises. "Many men of many minds" and in order to have harmony in any work we must adjust ourselves to each other. In a difference of opinion, when law and justice permitted, I have always been willing to divide the distance, and have waived my plan altogether when I believed that the district would reach the desired end by pursuing its own course, but whenever I have believed that the welfare of the cause demanded it, I have "bowed to the line," and it re-elected shall do so still. I believe I have been economical; though there have not been a great many school houses built nor a very great many furnished since I have been in office, I shall always feel proud of their quality as compared with their cost. I have tried to be impartial. One district has been as much to me as another, and if I have done more for one than another it was because there was greater need. As to individuals I have made no difference on any account. When you gave me the office I felt that it was a great honor and a great trust. The interests of more than five thousand children was for awhile entrusted to my care. I have been anxious that I might not be ashamed to give an account of my stewardship to any one of them. Should I be re-elected I can promise you no greater devotion to the cause than I have given, but I believe my work would be more effective. I would have my former work to build upon. Then I would be familiar with all the details of the work. I know every teacher by qualifications, as well as face; I know the condition of every district and am acquainted with many of the patrons and pupils; with seventy-five districts, nearly a hundred teachers, and more than three hundred trustees and treasurers, it takes almost one term to get the business well in hand and another term is needed to get in one's best work. The law recognizes this fact; while in many other offices it makes the incumbent ineligible to the succeeding term in this it not only declares that he may be re-elected but opens the way by providing that he shall not be re-examined to determine his fitness. If one ever has a claim to re-election it seems to me that I have, if I have been faithful and efficient, for my term has not been of full length; and while I will receive pay for only a little more than three years, I will have to do the greater part of the work for four years. I have held the institutes for four years, will have four terms of school to take charge of and visit, and nearly four years salary to pay out. My time is so taken up with my work that I shall be unable to see all of you, so I take this plan of placing the matter before you, but I assure you that the candidate that grasps your hand most cordially will appreciate your vote and influence no more than I will. Yours sincerely, Mina Wheeler.

Harvey Bigham Dead. Harvey Bigham, the oldest son of Rev. J. W. Bigham, died at his home in Hopkville Friday after a long period of ill health. Rev. Bigham buried a daughter on Tuesday and a son on Saturday. The family have many friends here who sympathize with them in their deep affliction. Court Orders. D. H. Burklow was appointed guardian for his minor children. The following road overseers have been appointed: Thomas Brantley, Jr., Henry Threlkeld, J. E. Stephenson. David Vaughn was given permission to appropriate six acres of vacant land, having paid the fee of 12 1/2 cents per acre, as required by law. All Acquitted. All three of the men who were taken to Paducah from this place last week, charged with selling liquor without government license, were acquitted. The evidence showed that they had simply bought liquor for other parties and the court held that they were not dealers. Speaking at Carversville. Carversville, Ky., Sept. 18.—O. L. James and Ward Headley addressed a large crowd here today. Both made strong, telling speeches and their arguments were received with enthusiasm. Mass Convention. The free silver district of the Ford's Ferry magisterial district are hereby called to meet at Ford's Ferry Saturday, October 2, 1897, at 2 p. m. for the purpose of nominating a Democratic candidate for magistrate. J. H. Wood, Chairman. Sept. 20, 1897.

There are two cases of yellow fever at Cairo. John J. C. S. Blackburn will speak at Princeton Sept. 30. Monday marriage licenses were issued to James J. May and Miss Mary C. Flannery; and on Tuesday to Wm. M. Zachary and Miss Viola Gibbs. We are in receipt of a ticket to the Henderson fair. The management proposes to excel everything in the fair line this year. Large premiums and good races are among the prominent features. The fair begins Oct. 13 and includes four days. An Arkansas editor, reading that a young lady in New York kneads bread with her gloves on, says: "We need bread with our boots on; we need bread with our pants on; and if our subscribers in arrears don't pay up soon we shall need bread without anything on."—National Advertiser. Rev. J. H. Hayes, of the M. E. church, goes to Owensboro for the next conference year. He went to his new work last week and his family will move in a few days. He has been an active, successful pastor of the charges on the circuit for the past two years and is popular with his people. Rev. Mr. Boudette succeeds Rev. Hayes in the work. More than a year ago, a number of tombstones were delivered at the depot at Marion for soldiers' graves. Four of them still remain on the platform, for the following soldiers: Hiram Tackwell, Pleasant Grove cemetery; George W. Tudor; Belle Mine; J. W. Bennett, Belle Mine; George D. Travis, Piney Fork, I think, the Post road fails to show where comrades Travis was buried. Relatives, friends and neighbors are earnestly requested to take these tombstones out and put them up. W. J. The first and only pictures Mrs. McKinley has had taken in ten years appear in the October number of The Ladies Home Journal. They form part of a series of new and unpublished photographs of the new occupants of the White House. Mrs. McKinley wore for her picture her inaugural ball dress of silver and white brocade, at the special request of the President, who thought it particularly becoming. The excellent portrait of Mr. McKinley in his office was taken in June. The other pictures in the series show the many changes in the arrangement and furnishing of the rooms and the grounds which the President and Mrs. McKinley have made. Administrator's Notice. MAN WHIPPED. Coy Walker Called Out By Masked Men And Savagely Beaten. Monday night eight disguised men went to the house of Coy Walker, in the northeastern part of the county, and called Walker out and gave him a terrible beating, and told him if he was found in the county the next night they would hang him. He came to town Tuesday and swore out warrants, and yesterday evening, One Burgess and C. Henry were brought to town. Walker claims he knows more of the parties. Borda, President of Uruguay, is dead. Ted Howard hanged himself with a wire at Benton. Spain is concentrating six thousand troops to send to Cuba. Seymour Bros., New York brokers, failed for half a million. Fire destroyed property valued at $42,000 at Clinton last week. Nathan Trine, a Taylor county farmer, while drunk, killed his wife. As a retaliative measure Germany will put a high tariff on American meats. Six negro children, locked in a house near Donalds, S. C., were burned to death. The troops at Hazleton cost the State of Pennsylvania $37,000 per week. The Tennessee Railroad Commission doubled the assessment of the Ohio Falls Car Works at Jeffersonville, Ind., have been cut 17 1/2 per cent. General Werler has ordered many towns in Cuba burned. His policy is to reduce everything to ashes, rather than surrender to the Cubans. According to Latham, Alexander & Co's cotton circular just issued cotton is $1.88 lower than last year and .04 lower than for the last four years.—Kentuckian. Lima, Peru, Sept. 21.—A violent shock of earthquake occurred yesterday and caused a panic among the people. Many houses were wrecked or partially demolished. A number of persons were injured but no fatalities so far as known. Bargains in Buggies. MOTHER'S FRIEND

DEAR HOME.

Dear home, sweet home, the tenderest breath Of a child's heart to Thee, the fairest, the holiest place on earth Is home, sweet home to me.

Dear home, sweet home, the softest sigh Of love I give to Thee, the fairest, the holiest place on earth Is home, sweet home to me.

When far away on bickering plains, Amid the world's dissolving frown, Striding through bliss-given halls In quest of fame's bright crown,

I find in you a haven sure, A place exempt from those conflicting elements of strife, A place to soothe and please.

Dear home, sweet home, I sing to Thee, In myriad chords of love And heavenly inward strains, And whisperings from above.

Around Thee home, dear sweet old home, I find a haven rest, With his your arms I find repose, The world can't from me wrest.

And may you stand through the drear years long, That I, in needless hours, May find in you a sacred port, To rest from sorrow's showers.

Am I may through the cruel year, Be adamant to change And feel destroyed by age decay, Till at death's dread pain

Bow down my proud and weary head, To mingle dust again, From whence I came up through the A link in nature's chain.

It is then, sweet home, that I would close My eyes, like an infant asleep In death, and let the years roll on, Like the ocean broad and deep.

Dear home, sweet home, today I sing This tribute song to Thee, Long may you live to cheer a heart Adrift on life's dark sea.

—Beatrice Cunningham. Ladys, Ky.

Only a Portrait and a Lock of Hair.

Only a portrait and lock of gold, secured with tender care And laid beneath the bible lids is all that Yettie's hair.

One lonely year today has gone since Yettie was laid away And yet the childish form comes back before my eyes today.

While pressing kisses on the silken lock as I was wont to do, I see her little face once more and little eyes of blue.

Only a portrait and lock of silken hair, with faded ribbon tied. The only thing save memory left of Yettie who early died.

And yet it has a potent force to turn my yearning gaze, From sorrowful pleasures of the world to where darling Yettie stays And keep alive the hope that when my soul from clay is free I'll see Yettie where she holds the gates of Heaven ajar for me.

Obituary.

Gertie Lee Carter was born March 31, 1896, aged 1 year, 6 months, 27 days. On the 27th of August, 1897, he death angel visited the home of Mrs. Lizze Lemon and took from this earth to heaven her dear little babe.

For three long weeks loving hearts adored all that could be done to save little Gertie's life, but the Lord knew what was best for his little one and called her home. So look up, dear mother, and behold your sweet little babe safe in the arms of Jesus.

Do not grieve for her but prepare to meet her there, where you and Gertie may live forever in a home where parting never comes.

Safe in the arms of Jesus, Safe on his gentle breast; There by his love o'erhailed, Sweetly my darling rest.

Sleep on, sweet Gertie, And take thy rest, God called thee home, He thought best,

In Memoriam.

For many weary days and sleepless nights the dark death angel hovered over the couch of little Love Yandell his persistent attacks were more than her feeble frame could withstand and the merciful angel came and bore her to her home beyond the stars.

Love was the daughter of P. F. and L. C. Yandell. She was born July 31, 1893, and while just starting in her fifth summer she was stricken with that terrible malady, scurvy, and died with the roses, whose spring come again will miss her lovely face and sweet voice forever.

She was the embodiment of love, gentleness and obedience; a father's pet, a mother's brightest jewel and an only sister's delight. Her stay on earth with them is finished, her Maker has called her above to swell the heavenly choir, whose songs of joy are never disturbed by sorrow or care. Oh loved parents and sister, we

A Remarkable Cure of Chronic Diarrhea.

In 1862, when I served my country as a private in company A 168th Pennsylvania Volunteer, I contracted chronic diarrhea and it has given me a great deal of trouble ever since I have tried a dozen different medicines and several prominent doctors, without any permanent relief. Not long ago a friend sent me a sample bottle of Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhea Remedy, and after that I bought and took a 50 cent bottle, and now I can say that I am entirely cured. I can not be thankful enough to you for this great remedy and recommend it to all suffering with diarrhea. If in doubt, write me Yours gratefully Henry Steinberger, Allen town, Pa. Sold at J. H.
