KENTUCKY CROP REPORT.

Conditions of Crops and Live Stock, October 1st, 1897.

The report for October 1 is made up from replies received from 144 correspondents, representing 99 counties.

CORN.

Drouth that prevailed over greater portion of the state during the month of August spread over the whole of the state during September. Water both for man and beast in many places is becoming scarce, and in some places stock are not only driven miles to water, but are fed as in winter months. Not a county reporting, from Pike to Fulton, and from Campbell to Cumberland, that does not tell of great damage to the crops from dry weather. In some localities the early planted corn in rich bottom land, where well cultivated, will make a fair crop, but a large percent has matured too early, and will be light and chaffy and loose on the cob. Mason, the only county reporting an average crop, has a yield of 40 bushels per acre, while the county of Davies, where the drouth is the most distressing ever known in the history of the county, the average yield is only 13 bushels an acre.
Owing to the dry state of the atmosphere the September frosts did but little damage to corn, and that was of a late planting. Nine per cent is the estimated damage by frost in the state, and 23 bushels per acre is the estimated yield.

TABACCO.

The same influences that diminished the corn crop worked unfavorably to the tobacco crop. The early setting was housed free of frost, and, while of good color in some instances on the whole matured too early, and was cut to prevent burning in the hill. A good portion of the late setting was cut green to escape frost.
Sixteen per cent of the crop was injured by frost.

HOGS.

The average number of hogs being fed for market as compared with last year is 81 per cent. In many counties feeding hogs are scarce, and in all they are reported as but small in size, the larger having been fed for the spring and summer markets. The dry weather and dust has an injurious effect on this class of stock, and in Livingston county they are dying for want of water. Sore throat is killing the hogs in Grant county. To the query, "have you hog cholera in your neighborhood?" 97 correspondents answered "no" and 32 answered
"yes."

APPLES.

The yield of winter apples as compared with an average year is only 51 per cent. Many counties report an entire failure while others give a good average.

FALL PLOWING.

Fall plowing is at a standstill. A large crop of wheat was anticipated, but it is found to be impossible to break the ground; 34 per cent of an average crop has already been sown in corn and on tobacco land, and if it rains sufficient to soften the earth by October 15th an average crop will be pitched.

DROUTH BROKEN.

The Western States Blessed With Cop-ious Rainfalls.

Chicago, Oct. 11.—Rain is falling generally today throughout the parchelt of the Western States, and the long disastrous drouth has at last been broken. Reports from Kansas, Nebraska, Iowa, Illinois, Missouri and Minnesota show quite general rains are still falling, with indications of continuing during the next twenty four hours. The rain in Nebraska is the first of any consequence that has fallen in that State for six weeks, while Kansas is receiving her first wetting for two months. According to the Weather Bureau an unusually extensive area of low barometer extends from the Rocky Mountains eastward over the Mississippi and Ohio valleys and the lake region. Within that area since Saturday morning, general showers have fallen.

You can't cure consumption, but you can avoid it and cure every other form of throat or lung trouble with the use of One Minute Cough Cure. At

A CARD.

To the Voters of Crittenden County: I am a candidate for re-election to the office of Circuit Court Clerk. Deeply grateful to you for what you have done for me in the past I earnestly solicit your support again if you have found me worthy and competent I have used every exertion to discharge the duties of the office with credit to myself and satisfaction to you. In the discharge of my official duties I have made no distinction on account of politics, condition or race, but have endeavored always to treat all men exactly alike.

If re-elected I can only pledge you that I will as earnestly and conscientiously strive during the next term to meet every requirement of the place as I have in the past.
Believing I can serve you acceptably I want to assure you that I will heartily appreciate the support of every one.

Your obedient servant,
H. A. HAYNES.

A Card from Mr. Truitt.

To the People of Crittenden County: I most heartily thank those who have already honored me, and assure all that, whatever the result may be, such an expression of confidence will never be forgotten. I will greatly appreciate the support of all in the approaching election, and should I be chosen your Assessor, my utmost endeavor and greatest hope will be to make you a capable, faithful officer.
I shall endeavor to see all in person and in the meantime remember that I am a candidate and that no one will hold your support in higher regard. Your obedient servant, J. N. TRUITT.

To the Voters of Crittenden County.

At the earnest solicitation of my friends from all political parties, and in the meantime having received the nomination of my party, I do very willingly announce that I am a candidate for reelection to the office of county court clerk, and if elected, promise you a faithful discharge of the duties of said office. I feel thankful and do appreciate the favors you have shown me in the past, and I trust that no official or other act of mine has caused any one to regret the interest you have so manifested in my behalf in the past; and should you, by your influence and vote at the next November election, again favor me with said office, I will appreciate the favor as much as possible for man to do, and will use my best endeavors to make you a faithful and efficient officer, showing no distinction or partiality to any one on account of politics, position, creed or color.
Your obedient servant and friend,
D. Woods.

HOW A NEW POPE IS ELECTED.

Great Secrecy is Observed, and a Two-Thirds Vote of the Cardinals is Necessary.

The present serious illness of Pope Leo XIII. is attracting world wide attention. Particularly in Europe, is the condition of the Pope watched with interest—not only by the Catholic population there, but princes and monarchs as well being interested in the outcome of his illness.

A new Pope creates as much stir in European diplomatic circles as a new king. But in America, the principal interest centers on the manner in which a new Pontiff is chosen.

It is a most curious and complex election system. The new Pope is chosen by the College of Cardinals, which comprises the Cardinals of the Catholic church in all portions of the world and contains seventy members, when complete. The Cardinals are of three kinds, Cardinal bishops, Cardinal priests, and Cardinal deacons. The Cardinal bishops are in charge of Sees just about Rome, and the Senior Cardinal bishop is Dean of the College. His official title is Cardinal Carmine. The moment the Pope expires he is summoned to his chamber. Taking a small hammer he strikes three times on the forehead of the deceased. At each stroke he calls him by his family name—"Joachim Pecci," he would say in this instance, and receiving no answer he draws from the dead Pontiff the "ring of the fisherman" and retires.

After an interval of at least 10 days —in order to give the Cardinals in distant lands time to reach Rome—a conclave of the Cardinals is called.
At the first meeting the Cardinal Camerlengo produces the ring of the fisherman and solemnly breaks it before the assembly. Meanwhile a wing of the vatican is prepared for the conclave. All the doors thereto are walled up with masonry save one. Through this door on the 10th day all the Cardinals enter—to remain within until a Pope has been chosen. The remainder of that day the conclave is open, and crowds of clergy, friends, and distinguished strangers are permitted to mingle freely with the Cardinals.

Three hours after sunset a bell is rung and all persons but the Cardinals excluded. After this time no outsider can enter, no mail can be received, until it is read by those in charge and no food received until it is inspected. At 9 o'clock the following morning the Cardinals are called together in the Sistine chapel. Though there are several methods of election, three are all that are ordinary used. These are election by acclamation, by compromise—when the election is left to a small committee—and by scrutiny.
This is the ballot method, the one ordinarily used. Special ballots are printed, about 8 inches long and 5 wide. The senior Cardinal bishop first writes on his ballot the names of the Cardinal he wishes to vote for, as the new Pope must be one of the Cardinals, and seals it so no one else can learn its contents. Then the other Cardinals follow in the order of their rank.

When all have finished the Dean, holding his ballot on high, between his thumb and his finger, goes to the altar steps, kneels, and taking a solemn oath that his choice is the one whom he thinks should be chosen, walks to the altar, places his ballot on the "paten," or golden plate, and he then drops it into the chalice. The other Cardinals do likewise in turn.
When all have voted three Cardinals, who have been elected inspectors, open the ballots and read the names voted. A two thirds vote is necessary to a choice. If no one is elected the conclave adjourns until evening, when the same ceremonies are again enacted. Meanwhile the Cardinals retire to "cells" that have been prepared for them. If no one is elected after three days, the Cardinals' supply of food is restricted. If five days more elapse the rule is that the Cardinals must subsist on bread, wine and water.

After each vote the ballots are mixed with some damp straw and buried. The dense smoke, escaping through a pipe into the open air, tells the crowd outside the Vatican there is no election. When a Pope finally is chosen the ballots are burned but the smoke is not allowed to escape.
The new Pope is asked if he accepts, and by what name he desires to be known. When he answers these questions, the first affirmatively, or course, he retires behind the altar and is clothed with the pontifical vestments.

Workmen hurriedly remove the masonry leading to a great balcony, and one of the Cardinals appears and announces the name of the next Pope.
The people respond with the most joyful shouts, the Papal Zouaves discharge their muskets, the guns of the castle of St. Angelo are fired, and all the church bells proclaim to the world that a new Pope has been chosen.

BANK ROBBER.

In Open Daylight a Thief Carries Away
$3,000 of a Morganfield Bank.

Morganfield, Ky., Oct. 7.—The most daring robbery ever committed in this county occurred today when thieves entered the Union County Bank at the noon hour and stole over $3,000 in cash.

People were passing and repassing the bank all the time, and the wonder is who the person is who could so boldly walk into the building in that way and rifle the cash drawer.

The thief slipped in at the front door, making no noise, and before anybody ever thought of such a thing opened the drawer and abstracted $3, 000 left in the drawer for the bank's local business today.

When the officials returned they found the drawer had been rifled.
There was no clue and the city officers have absolutely nothing to lead to the detection of the bold till tappers.

It was the largest sum of money stolen here or in the county at one time since the war, and has caused more excitement than any occurrence of recent years.
It is thought the robber came here to be present during the absence of so many people at the fair at Uniontown.
The city is almost depopulated for that reason and it was a good time for the robbery.
The vault was closed and locked, and so the robber had no chance to get the bigger sums in the vault without detection.

GOOD ROADS.

In North Carolina are Made by the Criminal Class.

The law gives judges discretionary power to sentence small offenders to "the roads" instead of to the penitentiary, and it has become the practice of late years so sentence those able-bodied men who are convicted of petty larceny, assault, carrying concealed weapons, abandonment, and like offenses to the road.

They usually get from two years down to thirty days, and are at once turned over to the township superintendents of roads, and put to work alongside with another class mentioned in the next paragraph mentioned, improving the public roads, macadamizing in most instances.

In addition to these are to be added the large number sentenced by the mayors of towns and cities; and justices of the peace, who no longer sentence offenders to the county jails or town lockups and guard houses or the city station houses to be fed and confined for ten days to six months at the expense of the taxpayers.

All of these offenders, who either fail to pay fine and cost, or are sent enough irrespective of any fine directly to work on the roads, make quite an army of good roadmakers. There are usually about a hundred or more of them under Supt. McMeekie, of this township, for instance, and the result already is, though the system has not been in operation very long, exactly how long I am not certain—but probably two or three years—that most of the roads leading into Raleigh for a distance of from two to five or ten miles, and often beyond the township line are macadamized and in good condition, if not better than the roadways within the corporate limits, upon which the city spends thousands of dollars annually in maintaining.

In Mackenberg county, around Charlotte especially, the country roads are even better than in this.
Wake county, said to be the finest in the South, and visitors from New England and other States noted for their roads have recently stated they surpass any others that they have ever seen.

Nearly all the progressive counties of the State are taking advantage of this law, and by using the labor of the local convicts are building up a system of good roads which promise to soon become the admiration and envy of our sister states.

If a tramp comes along and is discovered soliciting alms or is without work and a visible means of support he is often taken up under the vagrant laws, and if an able bodied man, put to work for thirty days on the workhouse, where there is little or no work for him to do, to be fed and clothed by the taxpayers.

The treatment is beneficial in another way—a sort of two edged sword as it were—for when Weary Wag-gles completes his term on the roads he is likely to give this town a wide birth in future, and already the tramps' gravevine telegraph has notified the Coxeyites coming in this direction of what they may expect. Result: The city of Raleigh was never so free of tramps as now.—Charles

FREEDOM IS WANTED.

By Cuba and the War will be Waged to that End Despite the Offers of Autonomy.

New York, Oct. 6.—Senator Gonzales de Quesada, the Cuban Charge d' Affairs at Washington, who has just returned from a mission to Mexico, received a letter yesterday from Gen.
Carlos Roloff, minister of war of the Cuban Republic, in which he says:

"We are now better prepared for an active campaign than at any time during either the present or the past war. I need not tell you, my friend, that we laugh at offers of autonomy, for already we see the hour of our liberation at hand. Should Spain seriously offer us autonomy, it would prove the full extent of her weakness and we will fight with renewed ardor until she shall recognize our independence."

"Tell the American Government that to enter into diplomatic discussions with Spain, in the hope that we will accept autonomy, is useless."

INDIA FAMINE FUND.

Over 1,500,000 Pounds Raised Throughout Christendom.

London, Oct. 7.—The Lord Mayor's fund for sufferers by the recent famine in India was opened last January and closed today. The total collections was $49,300 pounds sterling, which exceeds the record of any charity fund raised by popular contributions.

Lord Hamilton, Secretary of State for India, says the aggregate collections for the relief of the Indian famine sufferers, including the American colonial and other funds, will amount to 1,500,000 pounds sterling, and that the famine had caused loss of ten million pounds.

DEAR EDITOR:—Please announce in the columns of your paper that the first Quarterly meeting of the Marion charge M. E. church, for this conference year, will be held at Wilson's Chapel, on the 6th and 7th days of November. All members are respectfully invited to attend and all official members are especially urged to be present. Local preachers and exhorters are requested to be present and report for the last quarter.

Preaching Saturday at 11 o'clock by presiding elder, Rev. S. W.
Schleton, and quarterly conference at 3 o'clock Saturday afternoon; love feast at 9:30 Sunday morning, and preaching at 11 o'clock.

Divinely Healed.

The following bit of news was handed to the Press:
Mrs. Sid Lucas, a well known lady living in the Hurricane neighborhood has been confined to her bed for several months with a complication of diseases which baffled the skill of the physicians. Being an earnest member of the Methodist church and hearing of the success of Rev. W. M.
Brown in divine healing, she sent for him. He went to her home and prayed for her recovery. She immediately got out of bed and said she well and went about her house duties.

ISSUED WEEKLY.

R. C. WALKER, Publisher.

ONE YEAR - ONE DOLLAR

Dollar wheat is still lingering this side of the S.

Butcher Weyer has been recalled from Cuba. There is still a grain of humanity in Madrid.

It is announced that evangelist Moody will hold ten days' meeting at Hopkinsville in November.

Bryan and rain came together. Those who might not like Mr. B. are glad to meet the company he keeps.

The new general in Cuba proposes to wipe out the revolution in a few days. The Spaniards propose and the Cubans dispose.

Before the election last year, the bankers fearing that they had killed the goose that laid the golden egg, rushed to the relief of the gold reserve. This year they are discovering gold everywhere for the same purpose.

Recently a negro was appointed postmaster at Reganton, Miss. A public meeting was held and he was requested to resign, as he was not in harmony with the leading citizens. He got himself in harmony with the community by resigning.

The only thing that the old monopolistic sheet, the Courier-Journal, finds to give it pleasure in Mr. Bryan's visit is "at Lebanon the speaking was interrupted by a fight and at Elizabethtown, by a heavy downpour of rain." He's a poor philosopher who can not extract some comfort, even from his own death.

At Newport last week eleven men assaulted a young wife, having first carried her husband away. They were arrested and hustled off to Mayville to avoid a mob. This is the most revolting crime that has occurred in the State, and nothing short of the hanging of every second connected with the affair will appease the demands of justice. Mob law is bad, but it is not as revolting as the crime and if the courts do not do the proper thing the people will.

Mr. Bryan's visit to Kentucky has been one continual ovation. Great crowds have met him at every point, and his speeches have been received with an enthusiasm unrequited, save by his own last fall. Those who profess to believe that Bryan and bimetalism are dead in this country have evidence to the contrary that will doubtless shake their faith. The great champion of the people's rights, and the great cause he represents, is as strong in the hearts of the people as ever.

It is amusing to note how easily the big fellows who never felt the pinch of hunger, or had a mortgage staring them in the face, or winced under the continual drain of an interest-bearing debt, see the return of prosperity. Surrounded with every luxury, they have an occasional vision that approximates that of John on the Isle of Patmos. While these nabobs luxuriate in the beauties of the interest they draw on the public debt, or revel in the profits of the privilege they have of issuing money, or listen to the jingle of coins gained in speculating in gold reserves, or count their millions raked in by building and bearing the bread made by the sweat of honest toil, they can shut both eyes and see a cloud of prosperity sweeping over this country like a cloud by day and pillar of fire by night. If the money they gather in, and for which "they toil not, neither do they spin," were left in the hands of the people, there would be some prosperity. But as it is, they add millions to their accumulations, while labor about an occasional dime, and they shout "prosperity." [and such it is—to them]

According to a Chicago dispatch, J. Pierpont Morgan has partially counteracted his plan to unite all of the great trunk line railroads under one management, and he now controls everything between Chicago and New York except two roads, and when these are secured the syndicate will be complete. The object in uniting these gigantic concerns is to defeat the ends of the law. Under the Interstate commerce law the roads have not been able to pay dividends on their watered stocks, and they have not been successful in getting legislation to their taste, and now by putting all the interests into one concern they hope to do as they please. Truly this is an age when capital is organized, equipped and marshaled to capture and hold control of city, state and national legislative bodies, and it is an occasional failure or defeat comes, in its fertility other plans are readily devised to accomplish its ends. Recently United States District Judge Foster, in rendering a decision against a trust said, "the crying complaint of the day and the great menace to the welfare of the people is the tendency of wealth to monopolize and control by trusts and combinations the products and industry of the country." People of all political shades of opinion have been able to discern these truths, yet when one political party undertakes to stem this flood that is steadily and surely engulfing the country, organized wealth employs the cause of the opposing party, and, taking advantage of the natural disposition of men to stand by their old party, it generally wins out, and each victory fastens it hold the more securely upon its far-reaching advantage. Organized wealth in the shape of great trusts and combinations cares naught for a political party further than using it to pecuniary advantage. It prefers to court the favor of all parties, and so long as it can successfully do this, it antagonizes none. But when a distinction is drawn; when the people through one party speak out against their "special privileges," the enemy goes over, horse, foot and dragons, to the opposition, treating party ties with as little respect as his Satanic Majesty is reputed to have for "holy water." As these men, like Morgan and his millionaire associates, hold party claims so lightly, when their avowed interests are at stake, and as their mode of doing business is confessedly antagonistic to the genius of our government, is it not wise for the humble citizen to consider his estate?

The Situation in India.

Prof. A. S. Ghosh, who fills the chair of economics in the University of Calcutta, contributes a highly interesting article to the current North American Review on the results of silver demonetization in India.

The facts given by Prof. Ghosh, sustain in the completest degree the recent statement of the Constitution that the famine in India is not so much the result of a scarcity of food as it is of a scarcity of money. The people of India have a custom of hoarding silver different from that of civilized countries. Instead of placing it in banks they convert rupees into bangles, armlets, bracelets and other simple ornaments which require small skill for their manufacture. So long as the mints were open they could take these ornaments to the village silversmith and exchange them, weight for weight, in rupees. If there were no places of exchange the ornaments would pass current instead of rupees, each party well knowing that the mints would convert them into rupees on presentation.

In this way the famine of 1877 was shorn of some of its severity. But now these ornaments are no longer exchangeable into money. Demonetization has wrought a total loss of half the savings of the people of India. With half the value of their savings destroyed, and with small demand for the remainder the results of the famine have been and are still most appalling. The people who thought they had money have none. That which was equal to money has been stripped of half its value and the unfortunates are in no condition to cope with the famine. The bitter curse of the gold standard has fallen upon them, and their sufferings cry out to heaven for justice.

This may be sure in coming, but it will as surely come as the day follows the night. As certain as the Lord rules this world of ours the promoters of the gold standard, who have robbed the poor of the world on a scale hitherto unknown and undreamed of, will have to face heavenly justice, if not heaven's vengeance.

To Patrons and Trustees of Marion Graded School.

In the beginning of the last school year the teachers of the school determined to raise money to beautify and render more attractive and educative every school room for every pupil.

To do this a plan was devised in that every teacher of every room should give an entertainment and charge a meager admittance fee; the high school room, 8th grade, 3d and 4th and 1st and 2d grade rooms did this, and you our friends and patrons rallied to us in that way. You gave easily and without your loss over $100 for pictures, apparatus and books, all for your children; but as the 7th and 8th and 6th grade rooms under Miss Moore and Mr. Gray, were preparing for their share for your help, measles came, dispersed and paralyzed us, so all things of the kind for that school year was over.

But now Miss Moore and her students have been given the floor, and they claim your attention and beg your support.

They thought to divert a little from our manner of entertainment, and secure upon their responsibility and hopes of your support a popular and finished elocutionary artist. The lady in question is quite in demand throughout New England for such work as she will engage in here. It is pleasing, it is educational, it is ennobling to all. In the name of your home school, for which you have ever testified your care, the 7th grade pupils and teacher appeal to you for support Friday evening, October 22, 1897.

ELI PERKINS.

(MELVILLE D. LONDON)

Eli Perkins—Melville D. London—has been engaged by the O. V. Brass Band to lecture in the Marion Opera House, Marion Ky., on Wednesday night, Nov. 3rd, 1897. Remember the date. Also that there is no play, actor or combination of actors that hold an audience for two hours as closely as Eli Perkins does. He is one of the most humorous and philosophical orators on the platform. Hundred of our great colleges, churches, Y. M. C. A.'s and star lecture courses listen to him every year. He is always new and grows in power every year to enthrall every audience. He is eloquent in voice and startling in moral thought. He keeps the Christian in his audience thinking and screaming with laughter for two hours. His wit is on the side of temperance, patriotism and Christianity.

Eli Perkins will have for his subject on the night of Nov. 3rd, "Philosophy of Wit and Humor." you can not afford to miss hearing him.

Owing to favorable booking arrangements the price of admission has been reduced to 25c for children, 35c general admission and 50c for reserved seats.

Seats can be reserved at Pierce-Yandell-Gugenheim's store, or by letter, addressing H. V. Stone, Marion, Ky.

To the Voters of Crittenden County.

At the earnest solicitation of many friends, irrespective of party, I have announced myself as a candidate for the office of County Attorney. Owing to the limited time from now until the election, and the environments of my position, that of teacher, it will be impossible for me to see you all personally, as I'd like to do. I therefore take this method of asking your influence and support, and should you, by your influence and votes, honor me with the office to which I aspire, I shall appreciate the favor as much as it is possible for man to do, and I shall show my appreciation by an earnest, honest and faithful discharge of the duties incumbent upon the office without fear or favor.

Yours very respectfully,
Frank Newcom.

Water Works.

The recent dry spell has emphasized the fact that the town needs water works above all things else. The town is not large enough nor its citizens wealthy enough to have an elaborate system of water works. But a big well could be sunk on the lot owned by the town just one square from the court house, a windmill and a big tank put up for a few hundred dollars. The water could be piped to every portion of the town and to all of the business houses and many private residences would pay the town a revenue for water. In case of fire, there would be some show of successfully fighting it, the streets could be sprinkled at a very small expense. The expenditure of money for an enterprise of this kind would be more profitable than numbering the houses.

Bells Mines Club.

The meeting of the Bells Mines free silver club has been changed from Saturday, Oct. 16 to Saturday, Oct. 23, at 2 p. m., at which time arrangements have been made for speaking.

Big Revival.

A big revival is in progress at Cookeville. Rev Eli Easton, the pastor, is assisted by Rev Mr. Bentley and the rest of the ministers. The house is crowded at every service. There has been about forty professions and the entire neighborhood is interested in the great work.

Distillers License.

Monday Mr. C. E. Doss was granted license to sell liquor as a distiller on the premises of the F. E. Robertson & Co., distillery at this place. Mr. Doss is a member of the firm, and as such was granted the license. Under the law distillers may sell in quantities of not less than one quart.

GREENS CHAPEL.

Miss Mattie Walker has been ill of fever for two weeks.

M G Gahagan, who has been confined to his bed three weeks with fever, is again able to be up.

Our school is progressing nicely under the management of Miss Emma Terry.

A large congregation heard Rev. G. M. Burnette, the new pastor of the Methodist church. He delivered a splendid sermon and made a good impression.

C E Grady who has been attending the Marion Graded School, for some weeks, spent Saturday and Sunday here.

A protracted meeting began at the Chapel Sunday. Revs. Burnette and Hendricks are doing "the preaching, and they are able, earnest workers and will doubtless have good hearing.

OLIVE BRANCH.

Ed. Press—If you will allow me space I will give you a few items as to what we are doing at Olive Branch. We are not "educationally dead" by any means.

As the Travis reunion conflicted with my examination days, I had the examination of the entire school, in all studies, for the month of September, on Monday and Tuesday Oct. 5th and 6th, and was well pleased with the result. Several received a general average of 85.

The scholars and teacher are interested and if nothing prevents the prospect now are favorable for a good school, and we are certainly working toward that end.

Last Friday we had an old fashioned spelling match and several speeches and lectures.

Nearly every one took part in the spelling.

Two teachers honored us with their presence, Miss Lily Wilson and Mr. Ed Walker.

The order was very good, attendance large, and every one seemed to have a general good time.

I would like to hear from the other teachers as to how they are progressing, at least to know whether they are "educationally alive."

FRANCES.

Protracted meetings are progressing at Emmaus and Cookeville; both are doing much good.

The Caldwell Springs and Dycusburg base ball teams crossed bats at the latter place Saturday; the score stood 24 to 20 in favor of Dycusburg.

Saturday night will long be remembered by the Democracy of Frances precinct, as an event fraught with pleasure. Democracy was here on mass, the fair sex lent their appreciated presence, and 7 o'clock found them.

the town hall packed. After the soul stirring strains of Old Kentucky Home had died away, Mr. R. C. Walker was announced as the first speaker. He stepped forward amid deafening cheers. Bob's speech was filled with those good things which he had advocated through the Press for the past 15 years. He acquitted himself gloriously and we will make him our next Representative.

J. H. Kevil next presented his plan for reelection to the office of County Attorney. He made manly telling points, and will carry Dycusburg precinct by a much larger majority than any other one on the ticket.

Mr. D. Woods was in perfect speaking trim, and brought the house down with his eloquence. Of course Davis will be elected.

Mr. R. M. Franks, after assuring us of his love for Mr. Haynes, made a forceful argument why he should be made circuit clerk. He will poll his party strength in this precinct.

Mr. J. G. Rochester next assured us of his fitness and willingness to serve as County Judge, and we'll elect him.

E. Q. T. Campbell, the Populist candidate for County Judge next followed, assailing the old parties for unfaithfulness. He made a good speech from his point of view, and outlived Mr. Rochester for his faithfulness as county attorney.

Capt. T. J. Yeats spoke next, and made a noble defense of Democratic principles and assured us that victory would perch upon our banner; his vote for Sheriff will be the largest polled in the precinct.

Miss Mima Waecler delivered an interesting talk on education, and presenting her claim for reelection, made it very plain for the best interest of the common schools that she be reelected for the next four years.

Mr. T. Everett Butler, of Salem, made the closing speech. It was a grand effort, a combination of logic and eloquence worth going miles to hear. Everett is a rising young man and the gold bugs will have trouble with him hereafter.

CARRSVILLE.

A series of meeting began here Wednesday, under the care of Rev. McConnell and Rev. Geo. Hall. The services are being well attended and strong appeals are being made to sinners and church members.

Rev. Barbee will take charge of the C. P. church at Carrrsville.

Rev. Archie and wife, of Salem, are visiting our town.

Free silver club met last week with a good attendance. Had three speeches, which were interesting and to the point. Remember our next club night, which will be the 18th of October. The speakers on the programme for that night, other than the candidates, will be Foster Babby, John Kemper and Clarence May. Everybody invited to attend, as we expect to make this one of the big meetings.

Crayneville.

Well boring is the order of the day; we have two bored well here, and they have a fine stream of alum water in them. There is talk of starting an alum factory here.

Mr. Dave Glenn, of Lyon county, has bought a part of W. H. Ordway's farm here, and will move soon.

Several tobacco buyers have been in this neighborhood looking at the tobacco, and have offered some of the farmers 7 cents around for their crops.

Get your fertilizer for wheat from J. P. Deboe. It is guaranteed to be as good as is made at $1 per 100 lbs.

Squire E. W. Jones and wife have just returned from the centennial at Nashville.

The Illinois Central depot here has been fitted up with tickets for all points on its lines, and the American Express Co. has established an office here. J. P. Deboe agent.

J. P. Deboe has a few rye seed for sale here.

Jones & Ordway shipped a nice car load of stock from here on Wednesday last.

If you want to save money on your fall and winter goods, dry goods, notions, boots and shoes, in fact every thing in the general merchandise line go to J. P. Deboe.

D. W. Brookshire is talking of going into the storekeeper and gauger business if he can get the appointment.

Take your produce, eggs, chickens, fowls, etc., to J. P. Deboe, if you want the highest market price for them.

Messrs. Allen Wofford, Tom Wofford and Fillmore Wofford were in town the last of the fiscal court to look after the building of a bridge across Crooked creek at Dunn Spring and they were very much disappointed over the failure of the court to make the appropriation. A petition signed by fifty tax payers of that section also asked for the bridge, and it may be "set down" that sooner or later the bridge will be built.

FREDONIA.

Charley Wadlington was visiting his aunt, Mrs. B. A. Whitlock, last week.

Mrs. W. S. Guess, of Crider was visiting her daughter, Mrs. D. M. Maxwell, last week.

Geo. Stone, C. E. Loyd and W. M. Green are digging to find water or to prepare for catching it when it rains.

Joe Maxwell is the first to burn plant beds for 1893, he raised and housed twenty five acres of fine tobacco this year, long before frost.

A lot of railroad teams passed through town Friday going West, hauling property in that direction.

Mr. Lockett, of Caldwell Spring, went to Henderson last week.

Buckner & Son are selling their summer dress goods and white goods at cost.

The congregations were small at the Baptist church last week.

I am prepared to furnish everybody, with the celebrated "F. & T. Tridewater" coal in any amount they may want. This sooner you buy the lower the price, as it will go higher each month. Patrons solicited and satisfaction guaranteed.

H. E. R. Kelsey, Ky.

M. G. Young and wife of New Bethel, were in town Friday shopping.

He Made a Lawyer.

The Companion published not long ago a story of a minister who examined a candidate for missionary work in a quaint way. He seems to have been very like a Nova Scotia lawyer, to judge from an anecdote told in the "History of Annapolis county."

A young man, anxious to become a lawyer, made application for a position in the office of a barrister, whereupon the following unconventional dialogue ensued:

"Well young man and so you'd like to be a lawyer?"

"Yes, sir, I think I would like to be one."

"Where's your gud, my boy? I want to see your gud, my young gentleman. Fond of sportin, eh?"

"I have no gud, sir, don't that I would like gunning."

"No gun? Then you keep a boat—like boating?"

"I do not own a boat, sir, do not know how to use one."

"But you wear a watch or keep a dog?"

The Emboden Land.

On the Cumberland river, three miles above Dycusburg, is the rich and fertile tract known as the Emboden land. Not five acres of poor land on the entire tract, and yet it is being sold in sections on very easy terms and at the rate of $6.50 per acre. Every section has a river front and plenty of both bottom land and upland. Only two sections are left, 113 and 110 acres. The man who wants a home farm that will never wear out or the investor who wants to double his money within a reasonably short time would do well to look into it at once, as good land at this price will not be on the market long. Address Edgar W. Whittemore, Grand Rivers or ask John C. Gray, living on the tract, to show you the land.

He is a Candidate.

To the voters of Crittenden county: I hear it has been stated that I had not accepted the nomination for surveyor. W. J. BRYAN,

The People's Great Champion,

Greets The People Of Crittenden County.

A Great Crowd Gathered To See The Great Man.

For more than an hour yesterday afternoon, 3,000 people stood at the depot at Marion, waiting for the arrival of the special train that bore William Jennings Bryan and party. The entire population of the town was there, and all parts of this and a portion of Livingston county were represented. It had been promised that the train should stop, and so anxious were the people to look upon the face of the great American that it required the exercise of no patience to wait for the delayed train.

The brass band was out and made good music, but the people wanted to see and hear Bryan, and expectation was depicted on every face.

As the train checked, Ollie James appeared upon the platform of the rear car, and announced the presence of the man whom the people have already determined to make President in 1900. Then Mr. Bryan appeared and after the shouts died away he said:

Fellow-Citizens of Jamestown: I call it Jamestown because it has been made famous by your fellow-citizen, Ollie James; outside of Kentucky it is known only as Jamestown; and he has made it so famous that the Republicans had to come here to get a United States Senator. I wish that I had time and felt like making you a speech, but because of the appointments I have I am compelled to get a little sleep between appointments. It was only through the eloquent pleadings of your fellow-citizen that I got out of bed to say "howdy" to you. I appoint Ollie James my envoy extraordinary and minister plenipotentiary to speak for me: whatever he says, I endorse.

After Mr. Bryan quit speaking, hands were presented through every opening in the railing and above it, and Mr. Bryan shook every hand he could reach. As the train pulled out he remained standing on the platform smilingly acknowledging the cheers that went up.

Everybody knew the face of the great champion of bimetalism as he came out of the car, and every man that came to town felt that he had been repaid for his trouble. All were anxious for a speech, but not disappointed, because a speech was not on the programme. As the people gazed upon Mr. Bryan when the train left, every Democrat said in his heart, there goes the next President of the United States, if my vote can make him such.

He is a Candidate.

To the voters of Crittenden county: I hear it has been stated that I had not accepted the nomination for surveyor. Corley—Chandler.

Wednesday, Oct. 6, 1897, at the residence of Mr. Nathan Hornings of the Iron Hill neighborhood, Mr. W. T. Corley and Miss Susie Chandler, were united in marriage, Rev John A. Hunt officiating. There was quite a number of friends and relatives present to witness and enjoy the happy union of hearts and hands in the bond of matrimony. The bride and groom were neatly attired.

After the ceremony the bride and groom, accompanied by many of their friends, went to Mr. J. S. Corley's, he father of the groom, where an excellent supper had been prepared. There was a number of presents given them, a list of which I here incorporate:

Fruit dishes, Rev. John A. Hunt; cake stand, Frank Travis; a set of plates, Willie Walker; lamp, James Horning; cream pitcher, Jim Travis; water bucket, Edgar Walker; cups and saucers, Milton Corley; dipper, Willie McDowell; saltcellar, Albert Horning; pickle dish, Carg Travis; spoon holder, Ida Shirley; butter dish, Ellen Travis; meat dish, Lena Walker; spoon holder, Mary Travis; pitcher, Mrs. Carrie Dean; berry bowl, George Ann Wilson; honey bowl, Fannie Travis; molasses stand, Rosa Spurr; fruit stand, Alice Travis; can of preserves, Nannie Corley; sugar bowl, Rosa Travis; coffee pot, Cora Wood; butter dish, Sarah Travis; coffee mill, Lysander Lamb; teaspoons, Finnie Corley; bowl, Mrs. Stacie Horning; knives and forks, John Chandler; gravy bowl, R. L. Wilson; wash pan, Dick Spurr; table spoons, Albert Hunt; pair of towels, Thonie Spurr; pepper shake, Jennie Corley; pickle dish, Annie Dean; saltcellar, Joseph Dean; cut flowers, Annie Lemon; set of glasses, Annie Travis; and other presents we failed to get.

The bride is a beautiful young lady and the groom is a prosperous young farmer. We wish them much happiness through life.

A Guest.

The Wrong Man.

Saturday A. O. Langston, a young man claiming Henderson as his home was arrested at Carverville, charged with being the man who robbed the Morganfield bank. He was taken to Morganfield and upon a preliminary examination was discharged. He was the wrong man. After his discharge the officers gave him a supper and treated him royally.

Divorce Suit.

J. W. Shewcraft has filed a petition in circuit court, asking for a divorce from his wife, Mary D. Shewcraft. The petition says they lived together as man and wife until September, 1894, when the defendant left his home, and refuses to and has not since that time lived with him.

A CARD.

I am a candidate for re-election to the office of magistrate in Hurricane precinct. I will greatly appreciate the vote and influence of every voter in the precinct. If I should be elected it would be my utmost endeavor to make you a good and faithful officer. P. C. Moore.

Won Premiums.

The fine mare of Mr. A. Dean won three premiums at the Caldwell county fair. She was exhibited in the three rings, "best saddle mare or gelding any age," "best animal any age," "best saddle mare or gelding four years old or over." At Uniontown she won the premium in the ring for "best mare four years old and over." She is being trained this season by Mr. Henry Wilson, and he has been very fortunate in the how rings with her.

At Uniontown Maud, Mr. A. Dean's mare, took three premiums in the rings, best native for all work, best saddle mare or gelding over 4, best combined mare or gelding, any age.

Ramage Discharged.

Friday the examining trial of Ed. Ramage, charged with shooting at Patton, at Dycusburg, two weeks ago, was held before George Graves, Chairman of the Board of Trustees of Dycusburg. After hearing the testimony the court discharged Ramage.

CARD OF THANKS.

We, James R. Bagwell and family, desire to return our sincere thanks to the neighbors and friends who rendered us so much kind assistance during the sickness and death of our dear wife and mother, and pray God that his choicest blessings be upon them.

MOTHER! There is no word so full of meaning and about which such tender and holy recollections cluster as that of "MOTHER"—she who watched over our helpless infancy and guided our first tottering step. Yet the life of every Expectant Mother is beset with danger and all effort should be made to avoid it. So assists nature in the change taking place that the Expectant Mother is enabled to look forward without dread, suffering or gloomy forebodings, to the hour when she experiences the joy of Motherhood. Its use insures safety to the lives of both Mother and Child, and she is found stronger after than before confinement—in short, it "makes Childbirth natural and easy," as so many have said. Don't be persuaded to use anything but MOTHER'S FRIEND

"My wife suffered more in ten minutes with either of her two children than she did altogether with her last, having previously used four bottles of 'Mother's Friend.' It is a blessing to any one expecting to become a MOTHER," says a customer. HENDERSON DALE, Carmi, Illinois.

Leaving the Queen's Presence.

A correspondent of the New York Tribune has some interesting things to say about the difficulties and dangers attendant upon the walking backward which etiquette demands of those who are leaving the presence of Queen Victoria and other European sovereigns.

Let any one try to walk backward through the full length of a big hall taking every few steps, never looking backward, and yet keeping in the proper direction, and he will see how difficult it is to preserve either one's dignity or one's bearings; and very often the walking backward has to be done not merely on the level, but also up and down steps and stairs which is still more arduous, and requires an immense amount of practice.

On one of the rare occasions on which Queen Victoria presided at the opening of Parliament, she was attended by the Duke of Argyll, who, being duty for the nonce as Lord High Steward of the Realm, carried her crown on a velvet cushion. At the conclusion of the ceremony during which he had occupied a place in the dais of the throne in the House of Lords, he proceeded to move backward from the presence of Her Majesty.

He forgot, however, the steps of the dais, and when he reached the edge of the dais he fell backward, all huddled up in his long and heavy ermine-trimmed, red-velvet robes, from the folds of which he was extracted with difficulty. The crown shared in the mishap, for it rolled from its cushion to the ground and a number of the stones dropped out.

The queen, whose face showed a grave concern than amusement, although the gravity of those about her was so very taxed, spoke a few kindly words, expressing the hope that the Duke was not hurt and begging him not to be troubled about the affair, and then swept out with her cortege.

No sooner had she left the gilded chamber, however, than those present, comprising ambassadors, great officers of state, peers and peersesses, the royal, princes and judges, were requested by the official of the House not to stir from their seats or to approach the throne until the gem which had dropped from the crown had been replaced.

Sometimes this walking backward is a rather pretty and even amusing device on the part of those who desire to avoid accident. Thus I recall the case of a relative who on return from active service was summoned with several other officers to Buckingham Palace to receive from the hands of the sovereign the Order of the Bath.

He had lost his right leg so near to the hip joint that there was no means of wearing an artificial limb, and he was consequently dependent upon crutches.

When he entered the royal presence it was noticed that he held, fastened apparently to the hand rest of each crutch, a couple of lovely bouquets. A third of the distance up the long room he stopped, made the regulation bow as best he could, dropped one of the bunches of flowers to the floor. Then he made his way up to the queen, tendered her the other bouquet, which she graciously accepted, received his Order of the Bath, which she herself fastened to his uniform, with many a kindly word, and then he proceeded to withdraw from her presence.

If ever there was a case in which the walking backward might have been dispensed with, it was there, and the faces of the queen and those around her betrayed signs of anxiety, lest some mishap should overtake the colonel. He, however, backed away, displaying some hesitation until he reached that part of the room where he had purposely left his first bouquet.

That gave him his bearings. He knew where he was then, and leaving the flowers there he reached the door in safety, the queen kindly nodding and waving her hand to him in appreciation of his somewhat arduous act of homage.

In Memory.

Death has again visited our humble home and robbed us of its brightest jewel, taking our dear wife and mother, on September 8, 1897, while the sun was shining calm and serene, the gentle breeze fanning her verdant covering, Theodosia Eliza Bagwell, wife of James R. Bagwell, took her eternal rest to a better land beyond the skies. She was the daughter of Duke H. and Elizabeth Bettis, was born in East Tennessee May 8, 1837, was married February 18, 1877 to James R. Bagwell. She was the mother of 8 children, five of whom survive her, together with her loving husband to mourn her loss.

She had faith in Christ 25 years ago, and joined the missionary Baptist church at Deer creek, and of which she led a devoted christian life until death bid her come home.

She was a devoted wife, a kind and affectionate mother, patient and kind to all, although we miss her, in the

A Valuable Prescription

Editor Morrison of Worthington, Ind., Sun, writes: "You have a valuable prescription in Electric Bitters, and I can cheerfully recommend it for constipation and sick headache, and as a general system tonic it has no equal."

A loved one from us has gone. A voice we loved is still. A place is vacant in our home Which never can be filled.

So we laid our darling mother to rest Till a glorious morn shall rise, Tearing away the shadows, Unscaling those beautiful eyes.

Yes, dear mother, I know you are at rest, Where parting is no more, But God helping me I'll meet you, dear mother.

Where parting will be no more, James R. Bagwell, and Daughter Dora.

There is no need of little children being returned by cold head, eczema and skin eruptions. DeWitt's Witch Hazel Salve gives instant relief and cures permanently. At Haynes.

In Memory

Of little Migie Easley. On the morning of the 17th of September, 1897, the death angel visited the home of Robert and Angie Easley and robbed it of one of its brightest jewels. Little Migie was one year five months and sixteen days old. She was only upon earth long enough to show to her loved ones the power and beauty of such a sweet and innocent life. Her death came very sudden and was a shock to all in the town in which she lived. Her little body was laid to rest in the Hurricane cemetery; while there is a vacant place around the fireplace, an empty chair at the table and the home made so lonely and sad on account of the mysterious death of Providence in taking your little darling from you; yet papa and mama weep not for her. God knows best.

He has chosen one of the beautiful flowers that budded on earth to bloom in Heaven. Though you will miss the little footsteps and the tender young voice of your babe, she has gone to make Heaven dearer to you. She has gone.

Where angels bright are singing, Where sorrow can never come; Your loved one now is resting In her bright, eternal home.

J. C. Berry, one of the best known citizens of Spencer, Mo., testifies he cured himself of the very worst kind of piles by using a few boxes of DeWitt's Witch Hazel Salve. He had been troubled with piles for over thirty years and had used many different kinds of so called cures, but DeWitt's was the one that did the work, and he will verify this statement if any one wishes to write to him.
