A KENTUCKY PURCHASE.

The author of the sketch below is Dr. C. H. Todd, of Owensboro, who is the youngest grandchild of Gov. Shelby, to whom fell a number of private letters and papers of Kentucky's first governor, as well as a file of Kentucky and Tennessee papers of the date of the negotiations. From this data Dr. Todd prepared this paper, and which was read before a society of scholars of Owensboro, known as the "Investigators," on a resolution of which society the paper was permitted to be published.

Mr. President and Gentlemen of the Club—I have selected for my subject tonight some historical facts in regard to that portion of our state known as "The Purchase."

In 1818, under an act of Congress, President James Monroe appointed Gov. Isaac Shelby, of Kentucky, and Gen. Andrew Jackson, of Tennessee, commissioners to treat with the Chickasaw Indians for all of their lands lying west of the Tennessee river and east of the Mississippi river, being the district known today as Western Kentucky and West Tennessee.

Gov. Shelby, with his private secretary, his son, left his home, "Traveler's Rest," in Lincoln county, on horseback, September 10, and reached the "Harmilage," General Jackson's home, Sept. 15 where they were met by guests a few days, and then, accompanied by Gen. Jackson they proceeded to Nashville.

In a day or two the commissioners set out for the treaty ground, accompanied by eight or ten gentlemen friends of Gen. Jackson.

The commissioners met all the Indian chiefs and warriors in council at the Chickasaw agency, which is stated to have been in Monroe county, Mississippi.

The Chickasaw Indians were a brave and powerful tribe and were loyal to the United States government during the revolutionary war and the war of 1812, and so true were they that Gen. Washington gave two of the principal chiefs, the Colberts, commissions in the army.

The Indians, as a race, were a treacherous people to deal with, and the land speculators who were present added no little to the delay and difficulty encountered by the commissioners in making the treaty.

The commissioners could not agree between themselves as to the price asked, $300,000, by the Indians, Governor Shelby contending it was too much.

Finally, after the second council was held, the Indians proposed to sell for $300,000 provided a reservation of valuable lands embracing the Big Spring near Colbert's Ferry, on Tennessee river, was made to Col. George Colbert and Maj. Levi Colbert, two of the principal Indian chiefs.

Shelby would not consent to this reservation being made to the Colberts, unless they were forbidden to sell to private individuals without giving the United States government the preemptive right at the price stated.

The treaty was signed as above October 19, 1818, and the same day the Colberts decided to James Jackson their reservation for $20,000.

James Jackson resided in Davidson county, Tennessee, and was a partner of Gen. Jackson in land speculation in Tennessee, though the two men were not kinsmen.

The territory allotted Kentucky is the extreme western portion of the State and bounded as follows: On the east by the Tennessee river extending from the Tennessee line to Paducah; on the north by the Ohio river, from Paducah to Cairo; on the west by the Mississippi river, from Cairo to the Tennessee line near New Madrid; on the south by the Tennessee line, extending from the Mississippi river to the beginning of the Tennessee river, embracing the following eight counties, to wit: Ballard, Calloway, Carlisle, Fulton, Graves, Hickman, McCracken, and Marshall.

On the 7th of January, 1819, Congress approved the treaty and in conformity with its provisions Jas. Jackson on the 15th day of May, 1819, conveyed the reservation to the United States government for the sum of $20,000 cash, the same amount he gave the Colberts.

The deeds from the Colberts to Jackson of October 19, 1818, and from him to the United States government of May 15, 1819, proven on July 24, 1819, and are of record in Lauderdale county, Alabama.

In 1814 the presidential candidates were Adams, Jackson, Crawford and Clay. The people failing to make a choice the election was thrown into the house. Clay, being the lowest in the list, was excluded from the house by the constitutional provision, which makes it the duty of congress to select one of the three highest candidates. However, Clay held the balance of power, and his friends elected Adams. Mr. Adams appointed Clay Secretary of State.

In the presidential race, 1826, between Adams and Jackson, Mr. Clay threw his strength for Adams and the supporters of Jackson made the charge that Mr. Clay's appointment of Secretary of State in 1824 was a bargain and intrigue.

The followers of Mr. Clay retorted by charging Jackson with bargain and sale in the treaty with the Chickasaw Indians in 1818.

The issue of the presidential race in 1828 hinged upon the charge against Gen. Jackson in the Chickasaw treaty, and so his action in the matter became of national importance.

Governor Shelby died in 1826, and had he lived these charges against Gen. Jackson would never have been made.

It was during the presidential race in 1828, that the territory allotted to the State of Kentucky by the Chickasaw treaty of 1818 was dubbed by the Clay party the "Jackson Purchase."

A PLEASANT OUTING.

A Legend of the Word Ohio.

One morning about two weeks ago when the sun shone bright, the sky was blue, and the air was balmy and laden with sweet autumn odors; all things inviting to a day's outing, a small party, of whom the writer was one, started on a pleasure excursion to see the sandbars on the Ohio at Weston.

The place of general rendezvous was Ira C. Hughes' on the Morganfield road. Here the line of march was formed, starting with Mr. Ira C. Hughes, his wife, Mollie, and their two children, Virgil and Camilla, Henry Agee, Miss Mary Thomas, of Carthage, Tenn., Jim Henry Paris, and his wife, Mrs. Eliza Paris, and their three children Louis Clarence and Willie, Mrs. Sallie Powell, Miss Cora Fritts, W. J. L. Hughes, Miss Maude Hughes and Roy Hughes.

Mr. Henry Agee and Miss Mary Thomas were in a buggy and the rest of us were divided up and packed in to two horse wagons. At Post Oak school house we were joined by a party containing Mr. El Farley and his wife, Mrs. Annie Farley and their two bright eyed children, Miss Myrtle and Master Clyde. These completed the list and we now numbered exactly twenty. I give every name because, like the Knights of the Famous Round Table, we abhor distinctions.

Then we started, the buggies gently buzzing, and the dust flying high. We passed Mattoon and turned into the old "Flynn's Ferry Road," over which many an emigrant wagon with its wooden axle-tree, old fashioned lynch pin, sky scraping end bows, with tar bucket hung to the coupling pole, rolled, and lumbered and bumped over the black-jack stumps in the early days of the present century. When this country was a wilderness, and George Flynn conducted the first ferry that was ever established across the Ohio river where Weston now stands.

After a merry, jolly trip of a little over two hours we reached Weston at a little after ten o'clock. It was a complete surprise; we took the town without firing a gun, the people surrendering at discretion.

We unharnessed our teams and established ourselves in the shade of the trees on the bank of the river at the mouth of Camp Creek, overlooking the fifteen mile stretch of river from Weston to Elizabethtown.

In fact and fiction, in song and story, in the finest and grandest products of the painter, the beauties of this river have been celebrated. Away up in the Alleghenies—the Switzerland of America—a tiny streamlet starts rolling, and tumbling, and foaming over rocks, leaping over toy cascades, gathering the water from a thousand ravines and gulches till it becomes a roaring mountain torrent; and still sweeping on, now skirting a rich meadow of bottom land, and now passing beneath the shadow of towering bluffs and beetling crags, it becomes a beautiful and romantic little river, and meets another stream that rises within the hearing of the awful thunders of Niagara, and after receiving many a sportive branch and rippling rill and foaming creek and watering many a farm and garden in Western New York, and Pennsylvania it, too, reaches the magnitude of a river. These are the Monongahela and Allegheny. Like two merry, rolicking, romping, lovers they unite their destinies and form the beautiful Ohio. Then from busy, bustling, smoky Pittsburgh, the New Castle of America, it starts on its tortuous course to the "father of waters," bearing upon its "crystal bosom" the commerce of the most enlightened, happy people on earth passing through a country whose fertility of soil is not equaled by that of any other region of like extent in the world, a region embracing many commonwealths each of which would rival in grandeur and magnificence the greatest of the ancient empires. Along its banks are thriving towns and populous and opulent cities like gems of gold on a string of silver. This beautiful stream is to the people as to ancient Babylon, or the Nile to the Egyptians, the "Deep Blue Danube" to the Hungarians, or "Sweet River Rhone" to the Swiss mountaineers.

How did this river get its name, and what does the name signify? what do we understand by the word "Ohio?" Here is the legend:

An Indian chief of the Miami tribe then occupying the shores of Lake Michigan, with a small band of his tribe, wandered Southward on a hunting excursion. A few miles from the Ohio they started a deer from his covert and despite all their wily maneuvering the wary animal eluded the hunters, frequently in sight but always escaping the winged shafts sent after him. The deer led the hunting party southward till late in the afternoon, when they suddenly emerged from the dense forest into an open spot on a high piece of ground overlooking the river. About the middle of the stream was the deer, bravely swimming for the Kentucky shore, and safely beyond the reach of its pursuers arrows, but all thought of the game was lost in contemplation of the exquisite beauties of the scene before them. For five miles above and ten below the majestic stream was in full view. Kentucky, then an unbroken wilderness, presented a landscape of undulating hills and fertile valleys, all clothed in the rich, green foliage of May, that looked like a land of enchantment. The sun was setting and a rosy radiance beautified land and water; far down the river was a small island covered with green trees that appeared to spring up from the limpid element itself, and looked like an emerald setting in a sea of opal.

Whatever faults the savage may possess he rarely fails to appreciate the beauties of nature, and in the plenitude of his wonder, admiration and amazement, the chief uttered the ejaculation, "O hugh-o." And the unlettered savage had unconsciously given to the noble river a name that was destined to go with it through untold centuries.

At a later day the French came and made settlements in this magnificent country. For a century all the country north of the Ohio was claimed as French territory and they were only driven from it by a long and devastating war. They explored the river from Pittsburgh to Cairo, and revelled in its beauties. They called it "La Belle Riviere"—Beautiful River.

We have seen the Ohio at Weston many times and at all seasons of the year, but we never before saw such a display of sand bars as at present, yet they say it is no nearly so low as it was two years ago.

MANY STARVE.

Sixty-Eight Thousand Cubans Have Died for Want of Food.

IT IS ADMITTED BY SPAIN.

Havana, Oct. 26.—The Diario de la Marina publishes the following appeal to public charity: "We have seen this morning the terrible spectacle of Los Pinos, in the province of Havana, where hundreds of helpless children are dying of hunger, among their starving parents; we appeal to public charity in their behalf. The sight of those dying children, stretching their little hands towards you, praying for a morsel of bread, is the most tragic sight that human eyes can endure."

The Diario publishes in the same edition which contains the foregoing appeal the gloomy words: "It is announced that tomorrow there will be some meal for the inhabitants of Havana. The news is not worthy of much credence. We have for several days been without meal. The situation can not be endured longer. The condition of things in the public jail is beyond description. The prisoners are dying by scores. Those who still live have contracted an awful disease, which in the opinion of physicians is caused by hunger; their bodies swell to enormous proportions. The fever of starvation also kills many inmates in the jail and other persons out of it. The pangs of hunger described by Dante in his 'Inferno,' are now a gloomy fact before our very eyes."

The situation is the same all over the island, and is proved by the official reports of the sanitary authorities in all towns and cities in Cuba. Here is a paragraph of El Tiempo, of Santa Clara:

"According to the official report up to Sept. 30, 4,020 persons have died of hunger in this city."

If we remember that the total population of Santa Clara is not over 12,000 we can realize to what an extent the cruelty of Spanish warfare has been carried on in the island.

The correspondent of the New York Sun has been accused of dealing unfairly with the Spanish authorities here. His first reports of the starvation were denied. But at last the facts concerning starvation are publicly acknowledged.

The total number of persons who, during the past two months have died of hunger in the cities of Pinar del Rio, Havana, Matanzas, Santa Clara, Villa Clara, Manzanillo, Honquin, and Santiago de Cuba is 68,500. This total is reached by adding together the number of cases of death by starvation officially reported by the register of the civil or statistical bureau in each of those cities.

The actual population of Cuba, which before the war, was 1,600,000 inhabitants, is now less than 800,000. The other 800,000 have disappeared, having been killed in battle, emigrated or died of disease and famine; this is no exaggeration. It is the bare truth, and the situation as the Diario de la Marina says, "can not be endured much longer."

In a very short time the whole population will disappear. Those who are here and have seen with their own eyes as I see what is happening in Cuba, can understand the situation, which perhaps is not so clear to those who are in the United States, and who merely read the reports of the American correspondents. The only thing that can prevent this exception of a people, is immediate stoppage of the war. It is a question of life or death. The time has passed for mere changes of policy on the part of Spain.

ONE YEAR ONE DOLLAR

Dave Woods is a four mile horse. Rain or no rain, the people voted.

And there stands Old Kentucky again.

Hindman, what was he trying to run for?

Who said free silver was dead in Kentucky?

It seems to be about 'alf and 'alf in this county.

Dycesburg took the biggest tumble of them all.

That constitutional amendment was lost sight of in the grand rush.

It was a hot fight, but we'll all be in a good humor before many suns.

Good men were elected, and good men were defeated. We are all good anyhow.

Old "No. 4" did business at the old stand, but the other contingent shifted somewhat.

Crittenden county likes the most excellent young man, but she loves that sterling woman.

The Walcott international bimetallic commission have captured the ignis fatuus they have been chasing.

The queen of England sent a congratulatory telegram to Mr. Cleveland when she heard that it was a boy.

There are twenty five vagrancy cases on the docket of the Union county circuit court. Court convened Monday.

The next thing we are to have is the Kentucky legislature. The members elect will begin to burnish up their guns.

The President has issued his Thanksgiving proclamation. Thursday, Nov. 25th, is the day set apart for eating turkey.

Gen. Longstreet has been appointed to succeed Wade Hampton as railroad commissioner. The job has big pay and little work.

Weyer has left Cuba. Life will doubtless be rather insipid for him now. No murder parties for him to attend daily, and no blood in which to lave.

Sheriff Franks is no sloth. He ran "Davie" within an inch of his life, and gave him the race of his life. Our good sheriff can well be proud of his race.

The "National" Democrats have gone into seclusion entirely. They don't even get shelter under the log cabin, or it may be that they have returned to the old "homestead."

Grover Cleveland is proud because of the arrival of a new boy at his home. This is the only production of his within the past three years that he is entitled to be proud of.

The man elected mayor of Greater New York yesterday has power and patronage of colossal proportions. The city has 33,000 employees and the annual payroll amounts to $33,000,000.

Cuba will be offered local self government, but the leaders of the revolution will decline with thanks. There seems to be but two horns to this dilemma: the freedom of Cuba or the extermination of Cubans.

Henry George, the great single tax advocate, died at his home in New York Friday. He was a candidate for Mayor and the strain on him was so great that his strength gave way. He impressed himself upon his day and generation, and his death is one of the notable events of the year.

When money is plenty it seeks property, and the price of property goes up; when money is scarce property seeks it, and the price of money goes up, and the higher it goes the "rounder" it is. When money is plentiful it seeks labor, and the price of labor goes up. When money is scarce labor seeks it, and the price of labor goes down.

Collector Yandell has sent a letter to every employe in the revenue service stating that men who drink or gamble "will be weeded out as soon as possible." He concludes the letter with the pointed injunction: "If you want to drink or gamble, send in your resignation beforehand, and then you can drink and gamble on your own responsibility."

This is good, sensible doctrine and its application to all departments of the public service, State as well as National.

OLD KENTUCKY IN HER OLD MOORINGS.

Shackelford Carries The State By 10,000 To 15000.

New York and Virginia in Line, Ohio Doubtful and Other States For Free Silver

Lexington, Ky., Nov. 2.—Returns received at headquarters of the democratic state central committee up to 12:30 o'clock indicate the democratic majority in the state from 15,000 to 18,000. Three hundred precincts give Shackelford, Dem., a majority of 12,000 over Bailey, Rep. Henry L. Martin, fusion candidate for state senator from the district composed of Woodford, Scott and Jessamine counties, is defeated by R. R. Welch, democratic candidate by a majority of 2,000. Fayette county, of which eight precincts are yet to be heard from, gives a democratic majority, 1,063.

Columbus, Ohio, Nov. 2.—The result is so close that it may require an official count to determine the result, especially on the political complexion of the legislature.

Republicans and democrats are both claiming the state and legislature with so much persistence that it will require an official count at least to get one or the other to concede defeat.

Incomplete returns indicate the election of the republican state ticket by ten to twelve thousand, but the result on the legislature is so close that no definite figures can be given tonight. The democrats claim confidently a majority in both branches of the legislature, but give no figures on the number of state senators and representatives.

New York, Nov. 2.—Tammany's victory in Greater New York is a sweeping one, and the only question left is Van Wyck's plurality.

It can scarcely be less than 60,000 and may be larger. Van Wyck polled a vote which towers 40,000 over the combined vote of Tracy and Low.

The total number of votes cast is not far from half a million, distributed about as follows: Van Wyck 210,000; Low 145,000; Tracy 100,000; George 15,000. The aggregate is swelled by a few thousand votes cast for Gleason, independent democrat, Samuel, socialist, and Wardell, prohibitionist.

Election The Thing in Nebraska.

Lincoln, Neb., Nov. 2.—Nebraska today renewed her allegiance to fusion by electing three candidates on that ticket by pluralities ranging from 10,000 to 25,000. Nothing like complete returns are received or will be received tonight, but enough are in to measure the result a greater fusion victory than in the presidential year.

From fusion headquarters the following is given out: "We have carried Nebraska for the fusion ticket by a plurality of from 20,000 to 25,000. Together with the magnificent victory for the State ticket, we have carried a majority of the county tickets."

Colorado Result in Doubt.

Denver, Colo., Nov. 2.—The election in this city passed off in the quietest manner imaginable. The vote was a little over half that of last year. The returns received from the city up to 11 o'clock indicate the election of most if not all the candidates of the silver republicans, by pluralities ranging from a few hundred up to two or three thousand.

Returns from the state are too meager to warrant anything more than a guess on the result. At the silver republican headquarters the election of Hayt is claimed by from 7,000 to 10,000 plurality, while the populists and democrats claim Cabbert's election by five thousand.

Majority is Made Less.

Boston, Mass., Nov. 2.—At the elections today the republicans swept the state by a substantial majority, electing the entire ticket as well as three quarters of the members of both branches of the legislature.

The tremendous majority which last year elected Gov. Walcott fell off considerably, while George Fred Williams, the democratic leader, did not suffer nearly so much. Last year the republican vote was 258,000, but this year there was but 164,000. The plurality is 85,000 over Williams. He received 79,000 votes compared with 103,000 last year, while the National democrats not only came within 100 of their vote of 14,164 last year, but actually made a gain of 2 per cent. in ratio to the vote of the state.

Democrats Own Virginia.

Richmond, Va., Nov. 2.—The election story in Virginia is briefly told. Although there was unusual apathy it is estimated the Democratic State ticket is elected by 55,000 or 60,000 majority, and the Democrats have two-thirds of the house delegates and four-fifths of the senate.

Democratic Increase in Caldwell.

Princeton, Ky., Nov. 2.—Shackelford, Democratic candidate for appellate clerk, carries Caldwell county by 150, an increase over the 1896 presidential vote of 164.

Big Gains Made in Iowa.

Des Moines, Ia., Nov. 2.—Returns from about one-fourth of the State show that a republican plurality will be about 17,000. The ratio of Democratic gains is twenty-three to the precinct. That will give the Democrats a net gain in the State of about 47,000. The Legislative ticket returns are slow coming in. The best estimates obtainable here give to the Senate thirty six Republicans and twelve Democrats and two districts in doubt.

When Our Ship Comes In.

"I don't see," said Mr. Billtops, "but what we shall have to alter or amend the familiar phrase, 'When my ship comes in.' We are all going to be rich when our ship comes in. It has been delayed by wind and tide, by various adverse circumstances, for it is a sailing vessel, one of the old, old kind, with lofty spars and wide spread wings. But its cargo is all right and it will come into port some day. But what are we going to do about this steamship business? There are mighty few sailing ships nowadays, 'most everything is steamers, and our fortune, like most of the folks, must be on some steamer. Maybe it's only a small fortune and on a slow boat. But the slowest of the tramps bang through somehow in about so long, whatever the weather may be, and if our fortune doesn't come on that boat then what is the fair presumption? That it is not coming that way at all. And what does that mean? Why, it means that if we really want a fortune we must give up waiting for our ship to come in, and pitch in and earn it"—N. Y. Sun.

It is always gratifying to receive testimonials for Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhea Remedy, and when the endorsement is from a physician it is especially so. "There is no more satisfactory or effective remedy than Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhea Remedy," writes Dr. R. E. Robey, physician and pharmacist of O'neal, Mass., and as he has used the remedy in his own family and sold it in his drug store for 6 years he should certainly know. At Orme's.

Five Men Publicly Whipped at the Capital of Delaware.

Dover, Del., Oct. 31.—Several hundred people were here yesterday to witness the whipping of five men. The first to be whipped was Samuel Granger, convicted of larceny. He got twenty lashes well laid on and the blood flowed freely from the several places. Geo. Dennis got fifteen lashes for larceny. Lewis Johnson got the same as did Nimrod Lewis and Chas. Furnish.

Sheriff Shaw used a rawhide twenty seven inches long, and was not sparing with it. In his three years in office he has whipped thirty men, eleven white and nineteen colored. He has stood eighteen men in the penalty.

The Hicks 1898 Almanac and Paper

We are informed that the 1898 Almanac of Prof. I. R. Hicks is now ready, and judging from its past history, it will not be many weeks in finding its way into homes and offices all over America. It is much larger and finer than any previous issue. It contains 118 pages, is splendidly printed and illustrated on fine book paper, having the finest portrait ever given of Prof. Hicks. It can no longer be denied that the publications of Prof. Hicks have become a necessity to the family and commercial life of this country. His journal, "Word and Works," aside from its storm, weather and astronomical features, has taken rank with the best literary, scientific and family magazines of the age. Do not believe hearsay and reports. See the Hicks Almanac and paper for yourself. You will then know why they are so popular. They are educators of the millions and unrivaled safeguards to property and human life. It is matter of simple record that Prof. Hicks has foretold for many years of all great storms, floods, storms, droughts all over the country. The Almanac alone is 25 cents a copy. The paper is $1.00 a year with the Almanac as a premium. Send to

THE GEORGIA LEGISLATURE

Has Something to Say President Mc-Kinley's Negro P. M.'s.

The Georgia Legislature convened last week and the first resolution adopted was the following:

"Whereas, in the town of Hogansville, State of Georgia, the president of the United States has seen proper to appoint to the office of postmaster a man whose appointment was opposed by 90 per cent of the property owners and responsible citizens of that community; and

"Whereas, in no other section of the United States would the president make, or permit to be made, an appointment of like character—on the Pacific slope the president would not dare appoint a postmaster of any town a Chinaman over the protest of 90 per cent of its property owners and responsible citizens, nor would he dare in any town in the north or east appoint to a local office one who was opposed by ninety percent of the best people of the locality; and

"Whereas, On the night of September 16, 1897, unknown parties are said to have shot and attempted to kill the said appointee; therefore

"Resolved, by the house of representatives of the general assembly of the state of Georgia, That it shall attempt to shoot said appointee be true—which we have reasons to disbelieve, that we condemn it unmeasured terms, the lawless conduct of the would be assassins.

"Resolved, That we deplore this and similar appointments as exhibition of petty spite and narrow sectional hate, unworthy the high office of chief magistrate of this great nation.

"Resolved, That we appeal to impartial public opinion to enter its powerful protest against presidential appointments to office for the mischief purpose of affronting and humiliating a community of American citizens for no other purpose than a difference in party affiliation."

A queer Medicine.

There is a medicine whose properties do not claim to have discovered some hitherto unknown ingredient, or that it is a cure all. This honest medicine only claims to cure certain diseases, and that its ingredients are recognized by the most skilled physicians as being the best for Kidney and Bladder diseases. It is Foley's Kidney Cure. At Haynes'.

It is always gratifying to receive testimonials for Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhea Remedy, and when the endorsement is from a physician it is especially so. "There is no more satisfactory or effective remedy than Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhea Remedy," writes Dr.
R. E. Robey, physician and pharmaceutist of O'neal, Mass., and as he has used the remedy in his own family and sold it in his drug store for 6 years he should certainly know. At Orme's.

YOU ought to know that when suffering from any kidney trouble that a safe, sure remedy is Foley's Kidney Cure. Guaranteed or your money refunded.

A Remarkable Cure of Chronic Diarrhea.

In 1862, when I served my country as a private in company A 168th Pennsylvania Volunteers, I contracted chronic diarrhea and it has given me a great deal of trouble ever since.
I have tried a dozen different medicines and several prominent doctors, without any permanent relief. Not long ago a friend sent me a sample bottle of Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhea Remedy, and after that I bought and took a 50 cent bottle, and now I can say that I am entirely cured. I can not be thankful enough to you for this great remedy and recommend it to all suffering veterans. If in doubt, write me Yours truly, Henry Steinberger, Allen
