The Necessity of Continued Selling

To pay our expenses and to be in a position to sell our weekly paper at not too much below cost, we need every sale and subscription we can get. We have no flint to cut, only the work of five or six men and women, and every penny-collecting effort, even though it be small, has its importance. The success of the newspaper depends on the citizens. It is a small thing to you, but a big matter to us, which is why your cooperation is so urgently needed.

Your prompt response will be appreciated.

To the American Horse

WANTED ABOARD

Demand in the Old Countries for Catty Purposes.

The price of the horse, particularly in the Old Countries, has been rising steadily during the past year. This is due to a combination of circumstances that have made the horse a desirable article of commerce. The increased demand for horses in Europe and America has led to a rise in the price of the animal.

The demand in Europe has been particularly strong, with France and England leading the way. The demand for horses in these countries is due to the increasing popularity of horse racing and the desire for a reliable mode of transportation. The demand in America is also strong, with the westward expansion of the country leading to a greater need for horse power.

The result of this demand has been a rise in the price of horses. In England, for example, the price of a horse has increased by 20% in the past year. The price of horses in other countries has also risen, with the increase varying from country to country.

The rise in the price of horses is likely to continue, as the demand for horses is expected to increase in the future. The availability of horses is diminishing, as the number of horses in the world is decreasing. This is due to a combination of factors, including the increased use of automobiles and the decline in the number of horses being raised for breeding.

As a result, the price of horses is likely to continue to rise, with the demand for horses in the Old Countries likely to lead the way. The increased demand for horses is expected to continue, as the demand for horses is likely to increase in the future.
