SCORES FALLING.

A Soldier Writes About the Condition of Our Army in the Philippines.

Marionette, Wis., June 24.—High D. McCoshan, for years a resident of this city and now serving as sergeant in Company H. First South Dakota volunteer infantry, in the Philippines sends startling accounts of the condition of the volunteers. The state soldiers, he says, are falling by scores from bullets, disease and heat, and men are ordered to the front from their beds in the hospitals. Mr. McCoshan's letter has caused a sensation, as he bears a reputation for truthfulness and reliability. The letter, which is dated at Manila, May 12, and is addressed to Joseph Levrman, a local merchant, is as follows:

"We left the trenches March 25 to move on Malolos. It was a costly movement for us. We lost men every day, fighting practically all the way to San Fernando.

"If the people of the United States could but know a small part of the truth of the situation here a national scandal would result. The hospitals are full of men who will never live to reach home. From present indications the volunteers will be relieved in six months. It will then be unnecessary; few will remain. Fever and dysentery are playing havoc with the boys, small-pox is raging and heat prostration is killing men faster than Mauer bullets. Two days after San Fernando was taken our regiment had but 190 men on the line, the remainder being dead, sick or wounded. General MacArthur complained of the number of men sick, other regiments being in the same shape as ours and Major Potter, with one surgeon, was sent into Manila to rush men to the front. Acting under instructions he sent 108 men to the front. Of these thirty were unable to reach the depot, a mile distant, many of them fainting on the way, some twenty of thirty ultimately arriving at San Fernando in worse condition than when sent to Manila, the others being ordered back by surgeons along the line of railroad, who saw that they were in a precarious condition.

"Men were ordered to the front whose temperature was 103 degrees. 'You Americans shudder at the tyranny of Spain and the cruelty visited upon the natives of Luzon and Cuba, but I want to tell you that bright, brave, young Americans, who volunteered to defend their country in the hour of peril, are giving up their lives in sacrifice to the vanity of a star-spangled general and a fog-headed, dollar-hearted bureau of officials at home. The fever-tropical heat, the fever-cursed atmosphere and the bullets of the insurgents are working such havoc among the men that the surgeons and nurses are unable to give the sick and wounded the care they should receive.

"You may publish this letter and my name may be signed. I would face a court-martial willingly and prove more than I write, for I know that it is only by arousing sense of the state that we can be relieved, and to stay much longer will be the death of most of us."

ENDORSE KEYS.

The Populists of Crittenden Instruct Delegates to State Convention.

Pursuant to call, the People's Party met at Marion, Monday, June 26, 1899, with W. H. Brown in the chair.

Upon motion it was ordered that delegates be appointed to attend the State convention at Frankfort, July 27, 1899.

The following delegates were appointed: Dr. J. R. Clark, W. H. Brown, J. N. Travis, Joe Samuels, T. C. Campbell, W. H. Travis, Thos. Roberts, W. B. Rankin, A. H. Cardin, D. N. Riley, J. N. Towery. The following resolutions were adopted:

First—Resolved that we the People's Party of Crittenden county, in convention assembled, approve of the call for a State convention and favor the nomination of a full State ticket.

Second—We hereby instruct our delegates to cast the vote of this county for Hon. Ben. C. Keys, of Calloway county, for Governor, and Hon. Geo. W. Reeves, of Ballard county, for Attorney General, as we know that they are earnestly devoted to our cause, having proved their loyalty in many a hard fought battle, and that they are eminently qualified to discharge the duties of these offices with credit to themselves and honor to the State.

Third—We are unalterably opposed to the Goebel election law, and pledge ourselves to do everything in our power to defeat the candidate or party that endorses said law.

Fourth—We endorse the call for a convention to nominate a candidate for the legislature in this district, and pledge ourselves to support any good Populist, from Livingston county that may be selected.

Upon motion the following delegates were appointed to attend a convention to be held at Hampton, Saturday, July 1, 1899, to nominate a candidate for the legislature:

D. N. Riley, O. T. Hodge, W. H. Watson, I. A. Hodge, W. H. Hoover Jack Rodgers, W. B. Rankin, W. H. Brown, A. H. Cardin, T. C. Campbell, Geo. W. Ratcliff and B. Paris. Upon motion a convention adjourned to meet at Crittenden Springs, Saturday, August 5, 1899.

W. H. Brown, Chm. A. H. Cardin, Sec.

Mrs. Richard P. Bland, the widow of the late Congressman, is said to have been left practically penniless. She was just recovering from an illness when her husband died, and is still prostrate by the shock.

The local option election in Bixville, Union county, passed off quietly and resulted in a decisive victory for the "dry." Of the 235 votes cast 190 of them were cast for local option.

THE PLATFORM.

The Democrats of Kentucky Stand by Bryan.

Joe Blackburn Endorsed for the United States Senate.

First—The Democrats of Kentucky in convention assembled reaffirm, without the slightest qualifications, the principles and policies declared in the Democratic national platform adopted at Chicago in 1896.

Our faith in bimetalism is vindicated by events. The necessity for the restoration of the doubled standard was acknowledged by the President and Congress in 1897, when a commission was sent to Europe to obtain other nations to aid in establishing bimetalism, and the failure of the commission to secure European cooperation confirms the friends of free coinage in their belief that relief can only come by the independent action of the United States. The present legal ratio of 16 to 1 is the only ratio at which bimetalism can be restored, and opposition to it is confined to those who oppose bimetalism at any ratio and to those who misapprehend or ignore the reasons which led three national conventions to adopt it.

Second—We denounce the present Republican National Administration for its reckless extravagance in the conduct of public affairs; for its cruel and inhuman neglect in its treatment of our soldiers and sailors during the late Spanish war; for its complete subordination to the interest of organized wealth; for its protection and encouragement of trusts and combinations; and especially for its appointment and retention in office of an Attorney General devoted to the interests of trusts and combinations.

Third—We refer to the incompetency of the present Republican Administration in Kentucky; to the abuses and scandals in the management of penitentiaries and asylums while under Republican control, and we commend the wisdom of the last General Assembly of Kentucky in the enactment of laws which secure the wise and economical administration of the penitentiaries and other public institutions of the State under Democratic control; to the increase in the rate of taxation; to the vetoing of all Democratic legislation favorable to the interests of the people and hostile to the oppressions and extortions of organized wealth. We declare that after four years of trial it is well established that the Republican Administration is incapable of upholding and maintaining the laws of the Commonwealth and of efficiently enforcing its laws and of preserving peace and order in the Commonwealth, and we especially condemn the present Republican Governor for surrounding the State capital with the military arm of the Government in time of profound peace, thus attempting to influence and terrorize the General Assembly pending the election of a United States Senator.

Fourth—We believe the trust is the result, in large measure, of the policies adopted and pursued by the Republican party, chief among which are the demoralization of silver, by which the volume of currency has been kept below the demands of business, and the enactment and enforcement of vicious, unwise and unjust legislation, such as the protective tariff laws known as the McKinley and Dingle Bills, whereby there is discrimination in favor of corporate wealth and against individual enterprise. We favor the destruction of the trust as well as the removal of the causes. There establishment of independent bimetalism at 16 to 1 and the repeal of all protective tariff laws would do more to cripple and destroy the organization and operation of the trusts than a y other laws.

Fifth—We believe the law in Kentucky known as the anti-trust law should be so amended as to make unlawful any agreement, combination or arrangement by corporations or individuals under which, in the carrying on of any business, the prices charged should thereby be fixed, controlled or regulated. And we believe that said law should be further so amended as to provide that all contracts made by any combination, generally known as a trust in any kind of business should be void and not enforceable as to such trust or combination, and we especially demand that all trust controlled articles be placed on the free list.

SIXTH—We endorse the amendment to the State election law passed by the last Democratic General Assembly of Kentucky over the veto of a Republican Governor. We declare the amendment to the law to be in the interest of fair and honest elections. Its faithful enforcement will render impossible the commission of such frauds and robberies as were perpetrated in this State in 1896 whereby the will of the people was overthrown and the State lost to Wm. J. Bryan.

Seventh—We endorse the provisions of the bill passed by the Democratic General Assembly of Kentucky for the prevention of the charging of extortionate, unfair, discriminating and ruinous freight rates by transportation companies, which bill was vetoed by a Republican Governor; and we likewise endorse the provisions of the bill passed by said General Assembly to insure competition in the sale of school books for the use of the children of this State, the purpose of which bill was to destroy the extortionate and oppressive prices now maintained by the School Book Trust in this State—and we pledge the Democracy to such revision or amendment as time or necessity may show as beneficial to the school children of this State.

Eighth—We hereby express our continued confidence in William J. Bryan and favor his nomination for the Presidency of the United States by the Democratic National Convention of 1900.

Ninth—We recommend to the Democracy of Kentucky J. C. S. Blackburn as the successor of William Lindsay in the United States Senate.

Tenth—We endorse the war carried to success for the freedom of the enslaved Cubans, and we appreciate and honor the courage and heroism of our soldiers and sailors therein engaged. But we declare the conduct of the present national Administration as to the Philippines to be repugnant to every line of the Bill of Rights, the Constitution and the Declaration of Independence.

Suffered 27 Years With Kidney Disease

Mr. G. A. Stillson, a merchant of Tropic, Ill., writes August 16, 1891:

"Foley's Kidney Cure is meeting with wonderful success. It has cured some cases here that physicians pronounced incurable. I myself am able to testify to its merits. My face today is a living picture of health, and Foley's Kidney Cure has made it such. I had suffered 27 years with the disease, and today I feel ten years younger than I did one year ago. I can obtain some wonderful certificates of its medical qualities—J. H. Orme.

Reasons for Insuring in the Mutual Life of Kentucky. Because:

The Old Mutual Life Insurance Company of Kentucky stands as a rock wall of protection to her policy holders. She has more policy holders in Crittenden county than any other regular company doing business in the county. She has paid more money to policy holders in the county than all the other companies combined. She was the first company that ever issued a non-refundable irrevocable contract. Her cash value is higher than that of any other company charging the same rate of premium. She pays all claims immediately upon receipt of proof of loss. She is organized under the strictest laws of Kentucky and all her assets are invested in Kentucky. She has given entire satisfaction to policy holders under all circumstances. The company issues policies upon all the approved plans, and parties desiring insurance will find it to their interest to write with us, upon W. L. Adams, agent, Marion, Ky., who will take great pleasure in explaining the policies fully to them.

ONE YEAR ONE DOLLAR

FOR REPRESENTATIVE.

We are authorized to announce

a candidate to represent Crittenden and Livingston counties in the next General Assembly of Kentucky. His candidacy is subject to the action of the Democratic party. Election November 1899.

The nominee has been located, and his name, it is William Goebel.

He was not our first choice; he was not our second choice, but he is the choice of the majority of the 1092 delegates assembled in the Louisville convention, and we drop in it.

Bill Goebel's chief enemies before the passage of the Goebel amendment to the election law were the railroad and other corporations of the State. That's not a bad recommendation. The man who stands for ten years, between the encroachments of organized greed and the rights of the people is entitled to some consideration, no matter what our preconceived notions of him may be.

Since the passage of the amendment to the election law, he has been more widely than ever the subject of unfavorable criticism. Yet this law as expounded by the last election throughout the State is not so bad after all. In truth, we believe, that when this law is thoroughly understood by the people, it will not be altogether unpopular with the masses.

If Mr. Goebel's fight against corporations, and his election law are the only objections the opposition has to offer against his candidacy, he will gather strength as the campaign proceeds and he will poll the Democratic vote of the State.

He is the ablest leader in Kentucky politics to-day; he is one of the most brilliant debaters in the country, and he is familiar with every detail of State affairs, and we may look for an interesting campaign, when the nominee takes the stump.

The Louisville Post did its best to get up a bolt, but those who understood our fight, but rather unscrupulous contemporary, just laughed.

The published proceedings indicate that our friends, the Pops, held a convention in town Monday, but as there was no "scrapping" we don't know about it.

At Kuttawa Sunday prayers were offered that peace and harmony might prevail in the convention. We believe firmly in prayer, but a pick and shovel are the proper implements for removing a mountain.

There should be no more State conventions held in Louisville. Indeed, we think it would be the part of wisdom to hold no more conventions at all. The old fashion primary election is the proper thing.

Taylor has over 800 instructed votes in the fight for the Republican nomination for Governor and needs only about forty more to win, with about half of the State to draw from. Yet Auditor Stone says he hopes to win. If a fellow could go to heaven on hope, the auditor probably has a ticket, for we never before witnessed such confidence in that article.

The slow horse is not always beaten. Taylor didn't have a vote in Crittenden county three weeks before the county convention, yet he beat the most popular man in the section like a whirlwind. Goebel went into the Louisville convention so far behind that he couldn't hear the hounds, but he came out ahead.

Mastodon Monopolies.

The New York Journal makes the total capitalization of all the trusts in the country, May 27, $7,416,235,779. Their capitalization in the middle of March was over $4,000,000,000. The capital invested in these combines increased over 75 per cent in a little more than one month.

It is easy to say $7,000,000,000. But, counted at the rate $1 a second during twelve hours a day, it would require one person 430 years to count the sum.

It is sufficient to pay the expenses of the United States Government for fifteen years. At the rate earned by some of the trusts the interest on it would run the Government forever.

It is more than any other national debt in the world. It is seventeen times the bonded debt of the United States. It is $500 for every family in the country—$100 for every man, woman and child in the land.

The menace in these figures is almost terrifying. There can be no evading the alternative before the people. Either they must crush or be crushed.

NOMINEE FOR GOVERNOR.

Senator William Goebel.

GOEBEL NOMINATED.

After A Long Struggle Stone is Dropped and Hardin Loses.

Joe Blackburn and Others Make Speeches Urging Harmony.

Louisville, Ky., June 28.—[Special to the Press.]—At mid night last night Goebel was nominated. The last ballot was between him and Hardin and Goebel had a majority of 15. Crittenden's vote was cast for Hardin. The roll call began in silence, but the Hardinites soon had a chance to display their enthusiasm. The first three counties cast their votes for Hardin, each announcement bringing forth a storm of shouts. Then came the three Stone counties. The first went to Hardin, then the Goebels struck a run of ten counties with about sixty votes.

Louder and louder they yelled as each announcement was made, gathering a momentum that sent them yelling down the list to Graves county where they gathered in fifteen Stone votes. The Hardinites had another inning. They made the most of a losing game by unbounded enthusiasm. This was checked when Louisville was reached. Her seventy votes were dumped into the Goebel column with resounding cheers. Heretofore they had been divided between Stone and Goebel. The Hardinites stuck to their colors gamely, every county where there was a chance for argument was fought over with bitterness and determination. When Union county threw her sixteen votes to Goebel the partisans of the latter let themselves loose and for several minutes their jubilation held noisy sway. The ballot was concluded with difficulty, and announced as follows: Goebel, 560; Hardin, 531.

This provoked as much noise as any event of the convention. For the first time nearly all the delegates joined in it. Goebel was introduced and made short speech of thanks. The end of the long, exhausting fight brought a reasonable degree of harmony to the factions, which had waged the fight relentlessly and battled for every inch of ground. Nearly everybody joined heartily in the demonstration when the candidates appeared for the first time before the convention to accept the nomination and to return his thanks. The Goebel forces held the opposition closely down to business all the day, forcing continuous balloting, defeating them when they showed signs of weakness and sought a sine die adjournment, compelling a vote on the proposition to drop the hindmost on each ballot after the twenty-fifth and some out of the final trial of strength shortly after 10 o'clock to night with colors flying. Stone was dropped on the twenty-fifth ballot and Hardin proved unable to control enough Stone votes to win. The scenes during the last ballot were dramatic, though not exciting. After the nomination the convention enjoyed a few minutes relaxation and reconciliation, and the theme of all was "Get together and win."

Ex-Senator Joe Blackburn concluded the speech making with a few words of exhortation. He praised the nominee warmly, expressed confidence in the success of the party in November. He paid his respects to "the few scattered remnants of the Indianapolis convention," and urged his hearers to "fall in line for Bryan and silver in 1900."

The Democratic State Convention convened in Louisville Wednesday, June 21. Chairman Johnson called it to order and stated that the first business was the election of a temporary chairman. Judge Redwine of Boone county was elected temporary chairman.

There was a long session, but no action was taken. The session was adjourned until Friday morning.

The Local News from all Sections

NEW SALEM.

Mrs. Samuel Woolford is quite feeble. John Harpending has been confined to his room chills. We were blessed with a good rain on the night of the 24th. Wheat harvest is over; the yield in this section is about 30 per cent. Daniel Jones is the first farmer to lay by his corn crop in this section. Will Davenport and family were the guests of Robert Threlkeld Sunday.

Das Travis and son Phil, of the Emmaus section, were in this neighborhood last week. Miss Duke Hayden, of Salem, was the guest of Miss Blake Harpending last week.

Grasshoppers are playing havoc with the tobacco crop, many farmers having to set their entire crop the second and third time.

Charles and Isaac Humphreys, of near Hillsville, were visiting their father and mother, Mr. and Mrs. Aaron Humphreys, Saturday.

Ass Alvis, who had his examining trial before Squire Harpending on the 23rd, and was held over to answer for cutting in sudden heat and passion.

Phil Travis, whose trial was set for the 23rd, for carrying a pistol, was continued to the regular September term of Squire Harpending's court.

Jim Harris and wife, of Green's Ferry, were the guests of W. C. Tyler's family on the 24th. Mr. Harris has a new boat about ready to launch on the Cumberland river.

Mrs. Martha Brouster, although in her 81st year, went to Marion one of the hot days last week to see her old neighbor, Mrs. Albert Lamb, who is very ill.

Mrs. Felix Tyner, of Mosier, Ark., arrived at W. C. Tyler's on the 23rd. Mrs. Tyner's little daughter is in very bad health and the doctors think a change of climate will be beneficial to the little one.

Judge J. A. Moore, J. B. Kevil and Isaac Linley were all engaged in the case of the Commonwealth against Am Alvis, and each one of these gentlemen made the best speeches that our people have heard in many a day.

Mrs. Dora Brouster returned Sunday. She was called to the bedside of her sister, Mrs. Tom Love, near Carversville, some ten days ago. Mrs. Love died on the 16th of this month. She was a daughter of the late Wm. White, and a most estimable christian woman.

The crop prospects are indeed gloomy for the farmer. The corn crop is the most uneven crop we have had in many years and is full of chinch bugs; the wheat crop nearly a failure; but very little of last year's clover that is suitable for hay, the tobacco crop a bad stand, and very few oats sown; to say the best of it, it looks gloomy. But we are promised a seed time and a harvest; so far our people have made bread and we have no fear of starving.

STONEWALL.

Crops are needing rain. We are looking out for another soon. Ed Paris has given his road a tip-top working.

W H Guess and Ed Wilson have bought new binders. The calf crop is immense, but good milk cows are high. The tobacco crop will be short in this section; the "hopper" has taken it.

Next Sunday is meeting day at Piney Creek. Quite a crowd is expected. A happy moment of a farmer's life is when he gets his crop all worked out and a good rain falls. Oh, how he does enjoy it.

The Nichols-Shepard TRACTION ENGINE

Nothing that helps to make a perfect road and thresher engine has been left out or slighted in the construction of the Nichols-Shepard Traction Engine. Everything has been done that science, skill and experience could suggest to add to its effectiveness, power, durability and safety from explosion and fire. The boiler is of the very best selected steel, thoroughly well made and provided with every approved safety appliance. The fire-box is surrounded by water—top, bottom and sides. The draft-damper is so made that sparks and ashes can't drop out, and the smoke-stack is fitted with patent bonnet and spark-arrester. Every part is strong, durable and is thoroughly tested. Detailed descriptions and many illustrations of the Nichols-Shepard Traction Engine and of the Nichols-Shepard Separator and other threshing machinery are contained in large catalog—mailed free. RUCHTER'S PAINT

Is the Most Durable Paint Made.

We cannot emphasize this fact too strongly that its durability is greater than any other paint made, owing to the pure pigments, and being a pure linseed oil paint. It is not to be classed with the "ready mixed" paint, it is to be used in the same manner as pure white lead. It successfully resists fire, it renders wood coated with it fire resisting. These points make it

Superior to All Others.

And it is cheaper too. If you have painting to do, see our agent and get prices.

Hunting a Panther.

By Joseph E. Eadger, Jr.

JOHN TAYLOR, wife and family lived in one of the border counties of Texas. He was poor and started farming in a humble way, but being skillful and industrious, he was getting ahead in the world, when his life and property were both swept away by one of those Mexican forays, even more common than now. By good luck his family were absent, and thus escaped sharing his fate. Two horses, a wagon and an old bound, the charred shell of their log cabin, a few odd tools—these and the land itself were all that the widow and her two sons, David and Saul, eight and ten years of age, had to keep the wolf from the door.

The neighbors rebuilt the cabin and gave the lone ones such rest as lay in their power, but it was one weary, never-ending struggle for life against starvation. Yet they did live, and two years later David and Saul had earned by night work enough to buy themselves each a rifle and ammunition. They were too poor not to become good shots, and the very nature of their lives rendered them bold and self-reliant. Saul, the oldest, was just 13 years old when the following incident occurred:

The deep, mellow baying of a hound came from the undergrowth that fringed the slender creek, the well-known coming at regular intervals. "He's jumped some critter," cried David, eagerly.

"It's a fresh trail, but he ain't sighted what made it yet," responded the older brother. "Finish up your rifle, I don't reckon it's more'n a rabbit, or maybe a wolf."

The sun had already set, and the boys had put in a long and hard day's work behind the plow, only stopping to eat a cold lunch for dinner. Any but a boy with the true spirit of a hunter would not have given the hound a second thought. Home, food and rest would have been their one desire. But when the regular, measured bay changed to a rapid, continuous clangor the lads turned the horses free to find their own way home, and, grasping their never-absent rifles, started away in the direction of the chase.

Experience told them that the old hound was after no plebeian game, and they knew, rather than by scent alone.

Ere they had run 200 yards there came a fierce yelping cry, a snarl, the sound of a sharp if short scuffle, then, in brief intervals, the excited bark of the old hound.

They knew that the game had turned at bay, that old Hector had dashed in and been beaten off, that he was now calling for help to secure the quarry which he had brought to a standstill—a stag, a huge timber wolf.

THE LIGHT FELL UPON THE LEVELLED RIFLES.

or some yet nobler game; if anything less awaited them the hound would never have been driven off once he had closed with it.

You can imagine the emotions which swelled the bosoms of these lads as they rushed forward at top speed.

They were too eager. The game heard their hasty footsteps and turned to seek safety in renewed flight, old Hector close upon its heels. Saul caught one glimpse of the long gray body as it glided across the open ground, and, throwing forward his rifle, made a snap-shot, fearing he might not get another chance.

At the sharp report the animal leaped far ahead, as though sharply stung, and Saul saw by the fresh blood upon the dry grass that his lead had not been entirely wasted, and the boys pressed on with renewed energy, guided by the excited yelping of the old hound.

"We'll get him yet!" panted Saul. "He's taken to Spilt hill, I'm most certain."

"What was it? I couldn't see." "A gray wolf, I reckon. Whalin' big one, though."

No more was said. A steady run of a mile, carrying a heavy rifle, is no easy task even for a man. Fortunately the end of the run was near at hand. Once more old Hector set up a series of rapid, excited yelpings. The game was brought to bay, driven to earth, or else treed.

Spilt hill was a natural curiosity, and doubly remarkable from being situated in the midst of a low, flat region, where a mole-hill is almost a mountain. Imagine a perfect cone, 100 feet high, split directly in half from top to base, and one portion of it entirely obliterated, leaving the other portion a solitary monument upon the level, sandy plain. The cliff thus formed was of barren almost solid rock, not even a vine clinging to its face. The rounded side was tolerably well covered with stunted trees, bushes and vines.

What is Kodol Dyspepsia Cure? It is the newly discovered remedy, the most effective preparation ever devised for aiding the digestion and assimilation of food, and restoring the deranged digestive organs to a natural condition. It is a discovery surpassing anything yet known to the medical profession.

The citizens of San Juan, the capital of Porto Rico, proposed to display their patriotism and fidelity to the United States by celebrating the

From the extreme summit of this curious elevation came the excited voice of old Hector, and, without pausing for breath or to calculate the danger they might be running, the brothers scaled the hill. A genuine surprise awaited them.

The apex was crowned by one huge, bushy-topped tree, the gnarled trunk of which was so bent that the limbs protruded far over the rocky precipice. Old Hector was standing with his forefeet resting against the trunk of this tree, his blazing eyes riveted upon the dense foliage above and beyond.

The game was treed, beyond a doubt, for as they drew near the boys both heard a scrambling sound as though the animal was retreating still farther into the leafy covert.

"But wolves can't climb a tree!" exclaimed David, sorely puzzled.

"This one kin, but maybe 'tain't a wolf," returned Saul, scratching his head dubiously. "I don't see how we're goin' to get at him, though."

"We kin build a fire," suggested David.

"Ain't got no matches." But David produced two, and five minutes later a bright blaze was leaping high above the pile of brush.

From every possible point of view the lads endeavored to catch a glimpse of the strange animal, but in vain. Still Saul would not give up.

"You go home an' git somethin' to eat, Dave. Take old Hee along. Mother 'll be skeered to stay all by herself. She'll do the chores for once. You come back, an' we'll watch until day. We'll have pay for this long run, if it takes a week."

David willingly agreed, though Hector was very reluctant to abandon his quarry. An hour later he had returned, bearing an ample supply of food for his brother.

The two youngsters settled down beside the fire, eating, talking and watching for some signs of the strange animal. For an hour or two all went well enough, but then their eyelids grew heavy with sleep. They had been hard at work since early dawn, and growing lads must sleep at all hazards. What followed was natural enough. Before ten o'clock both boys were sound asleep, nor did they awaken until broad daylight.

They then—there game was gone. They could see where it had leaped from the trunk to the ground, its long claws deeply scoring the earth not a dozen feet from where they had been sleeping. Why had it not attacked them? That was a question they could not answer.

They longed to follow the trail, but that was out of the question. Their day's work must be done. They set about without a murmur.

For nearly a week nothing more was seen or heard of the strange animal. One of the neighbors, a mighty hunter in his younger days, to whom the boys told the story of their adventure, and who took the trouble to visit Spilt hill to examine the tracks, declared that the creature was none other than a panther of the largest size. He could not understand how the boys had escaped so easily, especially as the animal was wounded. Their escape was one in a thousand.

The widow and her sons had gone to bed early after a hard day's work, but early in the night they were awakened from sleep by a hideous clamor. Old Hector was yelping furiously. The fastening hog was squealing fit to split its throat. The horses were snoring and kicking as though they meant to demolish their rude stable.

Saul and David, half asleep, crawled down from the loft where they slept, and, grasping their rifles, opened the door and rushed forth. As they ran around the corner of the house, shouting encouragement to the hound, they caught a glimpse of something just leaping out of the pig pen, but before they could fairly lift a weapon the prime cause of all this nocturnal disturbance ran nimbly up the old live oak tree which formed one corner of the stable. It crouched in the lowest fork, glaring at them, with fiery eyes.

"It's that old panther," and as he spoke Saul endeavored to draw a bead upon the animal.

It was too dark for him to see the double sights, and now that he knew how dangerous the creature was he dare not risk an uncertain shot.

"Tell mother to fetch the lantern," he muttered to David.

This was the scene I beheld, as, belated, I neared the cabin. A tall, handsome woman in a night dress and barefooted, holding a lantern so that the light fell upon the leveled rifles of her two sons.

As one report the weapons spoke, and with a screech of mortal pain the huge panther shot through the air and hurled that little group aside. But that leap was only spasmodic; both bullets were buried in the brain of the beast and no person was hurt.

I helped to skin the creature, which measured nine feet seven inches from tip to tip and weighed 250 pounds. I spent a week at the farm and I learned to love the boys as my own kindred. I am happy to add that, at this writing, they are fairly comfortable in this world's goods—all of which they have earned like true heroes, by the sweat of their brows.—Chicago Record.

Late Preparation for Wedded Life.

A rural schoolmaster had among his scholars three whose ages were, respectively, 72, 64 and 55 years.

"You don't mean to say," said an astonished visitor, "that those old fellows are going to school for the first time in their lives?"

"That's right," replied the schoolmaster. "They hadn't had time till now. An' they wouldn't be at it now only they've made up their minds to get married; an', as the gals they air to marry air all good readers and writers, they does want to 'pear ignorant when they settles down fer life!"—Atlanta (Ga.) Gen. Gordon's Home Burned

Atlanta, Ga., June 22.—The handsome home of Gen. John B. Gordon, at Kirkwood, a suburb of Atlanta, was completely destroyed by fire last week.

Mrs. Gordon, her daughter 'Archie' and Hugh and Frank, the sons of the General, were at home when the fire was discovered. With the assistance of the family servants and neighbors, the General's books, pictures and war relics were saved, but everything above the first floor was burned. The General's residence was a typical Southern home of twenty rooms and was built in 1869.
