BOB TAYLOR

Writes a Letter to the Much-
Abused Mother-in-Law.

[From the Illustrated Youth and Age,
En Route, May 24, 1899,
TO THE MOTHERS-IN-LAW:

Your Majesties—I have always had great charity for the mistakes of Adam, because he had no mother-in-law to curb him. If she had been there, the forbidden fruit would not have been eaten. All the world would now be a paradise; and the women would still be dressing in sunshine, and the men would still be clad in climate. All the ills we now endure are the fruits of sin; all sin is the outgrowth of the first transgression, and the first transgression was committed because there was no mother-in-law to forbid it. Satan would have kept his distance if Adam had been a son-in-law; and even after man had fallen, the Lord saw that he was prone to fall still lower, and so he provided the third person, singular, and named her "mother-in-law," to be his guardian angel and watch him day and night. But it has been the habit of malicious men from time immemorial to speak disgraceful of the dear old spectated angels, and to refer to them as the embodiment of tyranny and the personification of terror.

I once heard a man who said that his principal possessions in this world were an appetite and a mother-in-law, and that he had never been able to satisfy either.

A crowd of boys dragged a cannon down to the river one Fourth of July and began to celebrate the anniversary of the Declaration of Independence by firing across the stream. A man came running, with his hat off and his hair floating in the air, shouting at the top of his voice, "Stop shooting, boys; for the Lord's sake, stop shooting!" "What do you wish us to stop shooting for?" asked the boy, and with a voice trembling with fear, he shouted back to them, "My mother-in-law got drowned there yesterday and I am afraid you will raise her."

I have frequently heard it said of sad and subdued-looking men, as I have passed along in life, that they were suffering with a bad case of mother-in-law. It has come to pass almost everywhere that if the maternal ancestor of the wife even suggests to the husband in the tenderest tones of voice and the most affectionate language that he ought not to do a thing, he is sure to do it, out of fear and public opinion; or if she urges him to do a thing, he leaves it undone to prove to the world that he is not "bossed" by his mother-in-law. All this abuse and vicious attacks on the mother of our wives are mean and contemptible, and a direct reflection upon our wives themselves. The sweetest and purest and best woman I ever saw, except my mother and my wife, is my mother-in-law. Her life has been a sacrifice to the happiness and comfort of her children, and so it is with most mothers-in-law. In nine cases out of ten it could be appropriately and truthfully said that she is suffering from a bad case of son-in-law. If a man is unkind, or neglectful to his wife, he is pretty sure to hear from his mother-in-law; that is right. If he fails to provide for his family, she has the right to look at him over the top of her spectacles and make the king's English crack like a new cowhide around his ears; if he wantonly spends his evenings away from his own fireside and comes home with snakes in his boots, she has a right to "stick her nose into his business," and her fists in his face, and it is her divine right to "lay down the law" to him.

I think it a glorious thing for society that weak-minded and guilty men are afraid of their mothers-in-law. Otherwise, many a house would be turned into Hades, and many a sweet and gentle spirit would be crushed; many a family of little children would suffer, and many a son-in-law who now walks in the straight and narrow path would be a worthless vagabond in the gutters and the slums of the earth.

The mother-in-law is the conservator of the peace, and not its disturber as many bad men would make

To Delinquent Tax-Payers

The Fiscal Court of Crittenden County has ordered the Delinquent Tax-List for the year 1898 published in the Press. I have delayed the publication as long as possible, hoping all would settle; they have not and I now give notice that the list will be made up and the names of all who have not paid for 1898 will be on the list and printed in the Press of Aug. 17. If you are on this list, call and pay before AUGUST 15.

John T. Pickens, S. C. C.

Marion, Ky., July 12, 1899.

It appears. She is the Goddess of Liberty enlightening the little world within the four walls of home; she is the Minerva of the hearthstone; Jove is enthroned upon her brow, and the Furies sleep in her eye. Woe betide the son-in-law who transgresses the law of Jove! for 'hen the righteous Law wake and leap like forked lightnings into the face of the transgressor, and he is left in the condition of the man who went out west. News came back to his father, "Your son is dead." The old man telegraphed immediately, "Send me the remains," and received the reply, "They ain't no remains; a cyclone struck him."

But to the man who does his faithful duty to his family, his country, and his God, the mother-in-law is a "thing of beauty and joy forever." She nurses his children and cares for them; she stays with them at night while he and his wife are at the party; she nurses him when he is sick and makes him swallow his medicine on time, and cuts off all communication from the outside world until he is well again. If his creditors become too numerous and annoy him, she stands guard at the door and hedges it about with fire and brimstone. She is a corner of the church and the leader of the "Ladies Aid Society," she is the president of the "Busy Bees" and the recording secretary of the "Daughters of the Confederacy;" and the sponsor of the "Grand Army of the Republic;" she presides over all the sewing circles and knits socks for the circuit riders; she is the secretary of war in every neighborhood and the commander in chief of every home; she is the foundation of civilized society, for society could not exist without families, and there could be no legitimate family without a mother-in-law; she is the grand mother of orators, poets, scholars, heroes and statesmen. Then let us cherish our mother-in-law and be tender with her; let every husband lay at her feet, and shout, "Great is Diana of the Ephesians!" Let us give her praise and honor and glory, for in dealing with her "discretion is the better part of valor."

My advice to every bachelor is to get a mother-in-law; and to every widower to get two mothers-in-law. Take up the white man's burden, old boys; take up the white man's burden; join the happy band of benefactors and learn to sing sweet ballads and "Home Sweet Home."

God pity the homeless and childless and mother-in-lawless man! He does not know what the twining of tender arms means; he has never felt the rapture which fills the heart of the father and husband and son-in-law when he crosses the threshold of home and hears the sweet voices of welcome there. The laughter and song of little children, blood of his blood and flesh of his flesh, has never been tangled with his life. He is a living disappointment, and his very existence has soured on his stomach.

No man is safe on this tide of life without a mother-in-law. Dear old guardians of our lives and our homes, with uncovered heads bow to you, and subscribe myself, sincere and faithfully,

One of your son-in-law,
ROBERT L. TAYLOR.

STATE CONVENTION.

Republican State Ticket and the Platform Promulgated

The Republican State Convention was held in Louisville last week. Judge James Breathitt, of Christian county, was made permanent chairman, and Albert S. White, a colored delegate from Louisville was made permanent secretary. Stone and Pratt withdrew from the contest for governor, and Taylor was nominated by acclamation. The following is the ticket: For Governor, W. S. Taylor, of Butler county; for Lieutenant Governor, John Marshall, of Louisville; for Secretary of State, Caleb Powers, of Knox county; for Attorney General, Clifford J. Pratt, of Hopkins county; for Auditor, Rev. John S. Sweeney, of Bourbon county; for Treasurer, Walter R. Day, of Breathitt county; for Superintendent of Public Instruction, John Burke, of Campbell county; for Commissioner of Agriculture, John Throckmorton, of Fayette county.

Lexington, Ky., July 13.—The Republicans unanimously adopted the following platform:

The Republicans of Kentucky, in convention assembled, make the following declarations of purpose and principles:

First—We affirm that the existing election law in Kentucky enacted by a Democratic General Assembly in 1898 over the objection of our Republican Governor is viciously partisan, subversive of fairness and honesty in elections, hostile to the principles of free government, removes safeguards which have heretofore protected and guaranteed the right of suffrage, denies to our courts the power to protect voters in this State against the perpetration of fraud at elections, commits broad power to irresponsible Commissioners not chosen by or accountable to the people for their acts, and imperils the sacredness, efficiency and power of the ballot. We therefore set forth as the issue before the people of this State, the repeal of this revolutionary law, and the Republican party pledges itself to its repeal and to the restoration of the system under which free and fair elections have heretofore been the rule in Kentucky.

We cite the election law, the penitentiary bill, the McChord railway bill and many others measures introduced and attempted to be passed by the last Legislature of Kentucky as proof of the type of legislation to which the people of the State will be subjected should the Democratic party come into power under its present leadership, legislation alike hostile to political honesty and purity, and to the material prosperity and advance of our Commonwealth.

It appeals to the freemen of the Commonwealth who value official honesty and fair elections above the temporary success of party, to join with us in the re-establishment of free suffrage and local self government.

Second—We most heartily approve the administration of Gov. Bradley. As an executive he has been faithful in maintaining the law, and in and diligent and forceful in advising wise legislation and in preventing as far as possible by the veto power the enactment of legislation harmful to the highest interests of this Commonwealth. We heartily commend the conduct and official work of our other State officers elected in 1895. This first Republican administration in Kentucky has faithfully executed the laws. The Republicans of Kentucky go before the people in 1899 asking continuance of power upon the record made since 1895 in every department of the State administration.

Third—We congratulate the Republicans of Kentucky that they have a representative in the upper house of Congress. We cordially approve the conduct of Senator W. J. Deane, and of the Republican members from Kentucky in the lower house.

Fourth—We pledge the Republican party of Kentucky to the enactment of all such laws as may be necessary to prevent trusts, pools, combinations or other organizations from combining to depreciate below its real value any article, or to enhance the cost of any article, or to reduce the proper emoluments of labor.

We congratulate the Republican party that existing Federal legislation for the suppression of harmful trusts, pools and combinations is the work of a Republican Congress, performed during the administration of a Republican President, and we congratulate the country that in the suppression of injurious combinations Republican legislation has had in the past, as it will have in the future, due regard for the interests of legitimate business the purposes of such legislation being the remedy for wrong, and not embarrassment to industry, enterprise or thrift.

Fifth—We believe in popular education and the fostering and improvement of our public school system, and we favor a just and equitable law by which the cost of books shall be reduced to the lowest price consistent with due regard for their merit. But we are opposed to the school book law passed last year by the lower house of the Legislature, because under its provisions desired relief will not be secured. A more complete monopoly will be established.

In furtherance of the material welfare of the State and of satisfactory relationships between labor and capital, we favor the establishment of a State Board of Arbitration and its endowment with power for the settlement of differences between the important amendments in commerce and manufacture as has been demonstrated by the experience of other States to the wise.

We favor the adoption of a liberal and progressive policy affecting the care of local highways, and declare good roads to be essential in any intelligent effort to be made for the improvement of business conditions in this State.

We endorse, without reserve, the administration of President McKinley and congratulate the American people upon the conditions of prosperity and happiness resulting from the wisdom and patriotism which he has brought to the discharge of his public policies adopted and the measures taken by the President to restore order and to establish progressive governments in Cuba, Porto Rico and the Philippines, and we pledge him our continuous support until these objects are fully attained.

Sixth—We reaffirm our adherence to principles and to policies proclaimed by the last National Republican Convention, except as to the civil service.

We regard it as settled beyond dispute that the maintenance of a sound currency through Republican administration and legislation is the foundation upon which rests the most remarkable period of industrial progress, commercial activity and general prosperity within the experience of the people of the United States.

We commend the present amendment of civil service rules by the President, and declare our belief that further modifications of existing civil service legislation may be made with advantage to the public service.

Fighting Would If the Filipinos Were Assured of Self Government.

BRYAN'S POSITION IS DEFINED

Atlanta, Ga., July 16.—The friends of William J. Bryan in Georgia and Alabama are worried about the attitude of Senator John T. Morgan, of Alabama, who declares that he objects to Mr. Bryan seriously "because the Nebraskan wants Congress to order the withdrawal of all troops from the Philippines, a proposition which," Senator Morgan says, "we'd be against all the laws of humanity and which would bring dishonor and disgrace to this country from which it would not recover in 100 years."

To bring about a better understanding between Bryan and Morgan Editor Clark Howell, Democrat National Committeeman, urged Mr. Bryan to clearly set forth his position on the Philippine subject, and Mr. Bryan has wired as follows from Humphreys, Neb., which is given out by Mr. Howell as Mr. Bryan's denial of Senator Morgan's statement.

"I favored the Bacon resolution, which promised the Filipinos independence as soon as a stable government could be established. I believe further, that our nation should protect the Philippine Republic from outside interference while it works out its own destiny. In other words, I believe we should treat the Filipinos as we have treated the people of Mexico and the people of South and Central America. Monarchies are founded upon force, but republics are founded upon consent.

"The Declaration of Independence asserts that governments derive their just powers from the consent of the governed. If the Declaration is sound we cannot rightfully acquire title by conquest or by purchase from an alien monarch, whose title we disputed when we furnished arms to the Filipinos.

"If the Administration had given to the Filipinos the assurance of independence which was given to the Cubans there would have been no bloodshed. If that assurance is given now hostilities will cease.

"No one proposes to withdraw the soldiers until a stable government is established, but it will be easy to establish a stable government when it is known that our occupation of the Philippine Islands is only temporary.

"Forcible annexation would be criminal and contrary to our code of morality."

His Life Was Saved

Mr. J. E. Lilly, a prominent citizen of Hannibal, Mo., lately made a wonderful deliverance from a frightful death. In telling of it he says: "I was taken with Typhoid Fever, then ran into Pneumonia. My lungs became hardened. I was so weak I couldn't even sit up in bed. Nothing helped me. I expected to soon die of consumption, when I heard of Dr. King's New Discovery. One bottle gave great relief. I continued to use it and now am well and strong. I can't say too much in its praise." This marvelous medicine is the surest and quickest cure in the world for all Croup and Lung Trouble. Regular price 50 cents and $1. Trial bottle free at J. H. T. S. Croft.

We here present a splendid picture of the late Thomas S. Croft, whose death was announced in the Press two weeks ago. As he was a pioneer citizen of the county, our local annuals would be incomplete without this picture and brief sketch.

T. S. Croft was born in Christian county, Sept. 25, 1821, and was a son of Martin and Fannie (Sullivan) Croft. His parents were born in South Carolina, and his father was a soldier of 1812.

In 1806 Martin Croft came West and settled in Christian county, Ky., near where the town of Crifton stands. In 1826 he moved to Livingston county, settling near Salem, later he moved to the Hurricane camp, where he resided until his death, September 15, 1894. His wife survived him twelve years, dying November 20, 1846.

Thomas S. Croft was one of a family of nine children, of whom but two are now living, F. H. Croft and Mrs. Josiah Stations. Thomas Croft remained at home until he was sixteen years old, and then began farming for himself. He later taught school five terms in his home district. The first farm he owned comprised sixty acres. He was a tireless farmer; full of energy and thrift, he began early in his career to manifest the qualities of success, in industry and good judgment in his work. The country in that section was then sparsely settled, land was cheap, and Mr. Croft began to invest little by little in the fine lands of that section. Besides farming at different periods he engaged in saw-milling and re-handling tobacco. In all of these he was successful, and as his acres began to broaden he turned his attention to stock raising and for years was perhaps more extensively engaged in this business than any other man in the county.

No Right to Ugliness.

The woman who is lovely in face, form and temper will always have friends, but one who would be attractive must keep her health. If she is weak, sickly and all run down she will be nervous and irritable. It has constipation or kidney trouble, her impure blood will cause pimples, blotches, skin eruptions and a wretched complexion. Electric Bitters is the best medicine in the world to regulate stomach, liver and kidneys and to purify the blood. It gives strong nerves, bright eyes, smooth velvety skin, rich complexion. It will make a good looking, charming woman of a run down invalid. Only 50 cents at J. H. Orme's drugstore.

Capt. William A. Andrews, who started across the Atlantic ocean June 18 in a boat twelve feet long, was picked up exhausted about 700 miles from the Irish coast.

Those who live on roads are liable to many accidental cuts, burns and bruises, which heal rapidly when BALDWIN'S SNOW LINIMENT is promptly applied. Price 25 and 50 cents at J. H. Orme's drugstore.

When his children became grown, Mr. Croft owned about 5000 acres of land, and the greater portion of this he divided among them, giving each one several hundred acres.

He was married to Miss Elmira Wright, daughter of Thomas and Mildred Wright, of Tennessee, Oct. 14, 1847, and eleven children were born, of whom the following are living: Mildred, wife of G. B. Crawford; Mrs. N. J. Yates, P. B. Croft; Mary S., wife of Dr. J. O. Dixon; Emma, wife of W. E. Dowell, and Buckner Croft, all of whom are citizens of this county.

He was active in the establishment of the Hurricane camp meeting, and for a number of years contributed to its maintenance. He made a handsome donation to the Christian church at Marion.

Mr. Croft was a member of the Christian church at Salem. He has taken a lively interest in church matters for several years, and has contributed liberally to several churches. He was a type of the hardy pioneer citizen of the county, and as such his splendid physique and manhood did much itself and more in the direction of others in opening up that splendid section of the county known as Hurricane, and it will be many years, before his name is forgotten.

He was buried on the Croft farm near T. S. Rev. J. Johnson conducting the funeral services in the presence of a large crowd of the friends of the family.

Mr. Croft began life a poor man, and died perhaps the wealthiest man in the county. He left by will his property all to his wife, to be divided among the children at her death, though he had made handsome provisions for his children as they became of age.

The Very Best Service Will Be Given.

It is the desire of the C. & O. to have nothing but the best car service, and the beautiful vestibule train to be used August 9th, will please the most fastidious. ONE YEAR . . . ONE DOLLAR

FOR REPRESENTATIVE.

We are authorized to announce

a candidate to represent Crittenden and Livingston counties in the next General Assembly of Kentucky. His candidacy is subject to the action of the Democratic party. Election November 1899.

When we get all of our spar, zinc, lead and coal to moving, we will discover a gold mine sure enough.

The Louisville Post is supporting the Republican nominees, and the Dispatch seems to be supporting the Post.

If the Courier-Journal will pull down that rooster and run up a white flag, perhaps there will be less uneasiness.

Capt. Stone affirms and Wm. Goebl denies; let it stand at that until the little "scrap" is over and then we can have a court of arbitration.

Just now the county is alive with Sun Day School Conventions. Maybe if the children sick to these, they won't get into politics when they grow up.

Senator Deane has not been fighting Crittenden county Democrats all of his life in vain. His training has learned him how to handle Republicans in convention assembled as well.

It is announced that Gov. Bradley will make one speech during the campaign. One blast from his bugle will cause the pricking-up of more ears than a whole brass band of ordinary trumpeters.

Let us hope that the present candidates for governor will get closer together in the canvass than did they and their lamented contestants for party honors. We have had enough long distant skinning and want something livelier for the finish.

Carter Harrison and Allgeld have gotten up a little political feud of their own over in Illinois and will doubtless undertake to arbitrate by force of tongues in the party. Some men have a knack of trying to make their quarrels bigger than their party and their little piques larger than the country.

If our soldiers in the Philippines like to fight, and we have no conscientious scruples about the character of the fight, let the fight proceed, if that ninety millions of dollars it is costing the country annually, can be cut down to about fifty cents a head. A dollar and a quarter is too much for a man with a large family.

If a man could always ride his favorite horse, take his favorite road, have nothing but his favorite work, or fish in his favorite stream and get his favorite bite, have his favorite weather, be with his favorite friend and get his favorite candidate on the ticket to be voted for every time, how happy his world would be. But as he can not get all these things all the time, the sensible thing to do is to put up with somebody else's favorite.

The newspaper correspondents at Manila are better Americans than Gen. Otis. With the true American spirit of openness, and with a love for light and completeness they are revealing against a censorship that cuts their reports to the papers down to a point where the true condition of affairs in the Philippines is shut off from the public. They have filed a petition with Gen. Otis asking to be allowed to tell the exact facts. They see the situation has been misrepresented.

PRIMARY ELECTION.

Pursuant to the action of the Democratic County Committee of Crittenden and Livingston counties, the following manner of selecting a Democratic candidate for Representative in Crittenden and Livingston counties, was decided upon: A primary election is hereby called and ordered to be held on Saturday, July 22, 1899, for the purpose of nominating a Democratic candidate for Representative in the Legislature of Kentucky, for Crittenden and Livingston counties, to be voted for at the November election, 1899.

Said primary shall be held by opening a poll at each voting place in the counties of Crittenden and Livingston, except in Marion where one poll may be opened for the four voting precincts of Marion.

The County Chairman of each county shall appoint two Judges and one Clerk for each precinct in his county.

Said polls shall be opened at eight o'clock a. m., and closed at six p. m. The voting shall be by a ballot in the following manner:

The Clerk of the election shall record the name of the voter and furnish to him a ballot with the name of the office to be filled, and the name of each candidate printed thereon, with a square at the right of his name and one blank line under same. The said ballot shall be of white paper 6x8 inches. The voter shall indicate his choice by making a cross in the square opposite the name of the candidate for whom he desires to vote. He shall then fold his ballot and return to the Judges who shall deposit it in the ballot box. Any one who may desire may have the clerk to mark his ballot in the presence of the judges.

At the close of the polls the officers shall count the vote and certify the result in the poll book; such certificate to be signed by all of said officers; the poll book to be delivered to the County Chairman of each county at the county seat on or before the first Tuesday following the date of said election; and the County Chairman shall meet on the Thursday following at Salem, Ky., and canvass the returns from each county and declare the candidate receiving the largest number of votes to be the nominee of said primary and give proper certificate of such nomination. All voters who supported the Bryan electors in 1896; all voters who have since affiliated with the Democratic party; all persons who have not heretofore voted and who will be entitled to vote at the November election, 1899, and who in good faith promise to support the nominee of this primary, shall be permitted to vote in said election.

Each County Chairman shall prepare and furnish to the clerk of each voting precinct in his county, poll-books and ballots to be for paid by the candidates.

THREE KILLED.

Another Outbreak in the Clay County Fued.

London, Ky., July 18.—A bloody battle occurred Monday three miles from Manchester. Aaron Morris, Green Griffin and William Griffith are reported killed, and five others seriously wounded.

Geo. Philpot, G. V. Philpot, Robt. Philpot, Pete Philpot and Ed Fisher, whose mother was a Philpot, were on the road going to their logging camp on Hooker's branch. They had several wagons. They were met on the road by Deputy Sheriff Wash Thacker, who had a warrant for the arrest of Robert Philpot. The latter was filling a bond when Aaron Morris, Hugh Griffin, Wm. Griffin, Green Griffin and another Griffin came around a bend of the road armed with Winchester. At a short distance from the Philpots and the deputy sheriff Aaron Morris leveled his gun and fired two loads of buckshot into Robert Philpot's back, while the latter was in a stooping position in the act of signing his bond.

Then the fight became general between the two parties. The trouble between the Philpots and the other side dates from the killing of James Philpot by Aaron Morris two years ago. Wm. Bundy was killed in the same difficulty. The factions have been going armed and on the lookout for each other since that time.

FATAL LEAP.

Postmaster Hanberry, of Eddyville, Jumped From a Train.

Eddyville, July 14.—On returning from the Republican State Convention this morning Mr. T. T. Hanberry, postmaster of Eddyville, jumped from fast train and sustained injuries that will doubtless prove fatal. The unfortunate man endeavored to leap to the station platform, but instead jumped through a trestle some thirty-five feet in height, breaking both legs and his left arm. His head and body are mangled badly and his recovery is next to impossible.

A rather sensational suit in its character was filed in circuit court this week. The parties to the suit are C. W. Young, plaintiff vs. Dr. F. V. Winsted, Noah Tapp, Gus Wiley and Geo. Asher. Young claims that these men came to his house against his will and with drawn pistols caused him to sign a paper which they denominated as a "Lie Bill," but claims that he does not know what the paper was in reality. He claims that he was damaged to the extent of $5000 and prays for a judgement for the amount and all proper relief.

Yesterday morning Knot Bennett was moving his threshing from one farm to another, the separator being drawn by a traction engine. They were going up a long hill near Spark school house on the Still road running from this place to Sebree. When they had gotten nearly to the top of the hill, the main shaft to the engine broke and the engine lost control of the engine and it started down the hill. The separator in backing down the hill ran cross wise the hill, and the mighty engine came with full force striking the separator on the side, ran over it and made kindling wood of it.

SALEM.

Our town is growing. The rumor is railroad and telephone.

It is the opinion of most every one here that Salem will have a railroad in a very short time, the route will be surveyed in a few days and soon we will hear the blow of the locomotive and then look out for Salem is coming.

Mr. Alexander, the telephone man was in town last week and offers to build a telephone to Salem and let this town be on the Marion exchange. The proposition he offers the citizens of Salem, we think, is a very liberal one, and we hope that our business men will take advantage of this liberal offer. Headquarters for information in regard to railroad or telephone go to Rappolee attorney at law, Salem, Ky.

Reasons for Insuring in the Mutual Life of Kentucky. Because:

The Old Mutual Life Insurance Company of Kentucky stands as a rock wall of protection to her policy holders. She has more policy holders in Crittenden county than any other regular company doing business in the county. She has paid more money to policy holders in the county than all the other companies combined. She was the first company that ever issued an absolutely incontestable contract. Her cash values are higher than those of any other company charging same rate of premium. She pays all claims immediately upon receiving proofs of loss. She is organized under the strongest laws of Kentucky and all her assets are invested in Kentucky. She has given entire satisfaction to policy holders under all circumstances. The company issues policies upon all the approved plans, and parties desiring insurance will find it to their interest to write or call upon W. L. Adams, agent, Marion, Ky., who will take great pleasure in explaining the policies fully to them.

He informs us that he has tons of the metal, and the expense of mining it is inconsequential; he is very much encouraged by the assay and will not stop until he finds something still richer, or knows the reason why.

Last Saturday Tom Wilborn went to Fords Ferry to spend a day with friends. In the afternoon he disappeared, and nothing was thought of the matter until night when search was instituted for him. He could not where he found, and as he was last seen going towards the creek and no other trace could be seen, his friends concluded that probably he had been drowned. A messenger came to town for his father, and when the latter reached the river, he found Tom smiling and happy. He had gone over to Ben Rankin's to play croquet, and had gotten so deeply interested in the game, that he forgot to return.

HOLBROOK LECTURE

Rev. W. H. Milby Offers Some Thoughts on the "Absurdities" of Prof. Holbrook's Position

SYNOPSIS OF SUNDAY'S SERMON

Text—The earth was without form, and void; and darkness was upon the face of the deep. And the Spirit of God moved upon the face of the water.—Genesis 1:2

One of the beauties of the Bible is that it goes back beyond human history, and begins with the birth of time and matter. And starting with their very beginning it gives us the cause and history of their origin and development. So here, in this short verse, we have a picture of the world as it first came from the hands of its Creator, and the cause of the great change which afterwards was wrought.

The picture is that of a world "with out form." There was no line of demarcation between the heaven and the earth, between land and water and air, but all combined to form one heterogeneous mass of confusion and disorder—a chaos.

Without light—"void." No springing grass, nor blooming flower, nor plant, nor tree is seen. No song of bird, no voice of man nor cry of beast is heard. Death-like silence reigns because it is a waste, a chaos of death. No form of life is found.

Without light—"Darkness was upon the face of the deep." No twinkling star, nor shining moon, nor glorious sun whose ray of light might penetrate the gloom. "Egyptian darkness" enveloped this chaos of death. How dark this picture!

Without form, and life and light, but not without God. "The Spirit of God moved upon the face of the waters." These last words explain to us the changes that have been wrought.

How great these changes! Instead of the chaos of the text we have a world of form and beauty, of life and light. And this because "The Spirit of God moved upon it." The Spirit of God was not in it as a part of it. That is the foundation of pantheism. Men have said "God is in everything" and "everything is God." Yet in this thought that everything is God, and so men worshipped every thing. This again is the foundation of all idolatry. Men have seen the beauty and glory of the sun and have said "God is in the sun," and so they worshipped the "sun-god." So of the "god of thunder," the "god of war," etc.

We have been told this chaos contained the germ of life and development, as the acorn contains the germ from which the mighty oak may spring. And that from this germ, by process of evolution, every thing has come. That map, like every thing else, is a part of one great whole. How strongly does the thought contained in the text and carried out in the succeeding verses contradict this! How much more sublime, beautiful and sweet the thought that "The Spirit of God moved upon it," as "God over all," creating, shaping, forming and governing all. With how much greater reverence should we bow as we hear God saying of these things, "I made them." Thus God made the grass and herb and tree and every beast and creeping thing, "after its kind." Man is his crowning work, made after consultation of the Trinity. "God said, let us make man." And made in the image of God, to have dominion over the beasts of the field, etc. Every faculty of body, mind and spirit is the gift of this same God.

We have recently had some strange teaching in our community. In a lecture on "worshiping the devil" we were told that when we attributed any of the ills of life, or forces of evil to the devil, we make him a hero and sweeten the thought. Yet in this lecture the "fall of man" was ridiculed and we were told that it was a rise, an elevation. That thereby man became like God. The speaker could not understand how man could lose so much "because forsooth he ate an apple," but was not bothered about how man could gain so much "because forsooth he ate an apple." When he tells us that through the subtilty of Satan man was brought into the image of God, is he not worshipping Satan? Did God command man not to do that which would elevate him and make him like God? When Satan contradicted God, did he, Satan, tell the truth? Did God say Adam and Eve because they became like him? Did he curse the ground for the same reason? Did God curse Satan "because he begat the devil" and above all cattle" because he led man to God, and did man become like God by disobeying God? Such are some of the absurdities and blasphemous positions into which error leads men.

No there was a fall, a terrible fall. But the same "Spirit of God moving upon it" which brought into being "this chaos of death and darkness" into which man fell, brought order and life and light through the Redeemer.

1. Of human life—There are millions to day whose lives are a chaos of darkness and destitution. They have no light or knowledge of the nobler kind of life. An aimless, shiftless, hopeless throng. To such the vision of Eze. was given. The "breath" of God came upon the dry bones and they "stood up upon their feet, an exceeding great army." O for the same spirit today. Tais the need of heaven world and individuals everywhere.

2. Of the mind, e. g. heathen world, a chaos of darkness and superstition. Yet a man may have much knowledge and yet chaos. The great world are those enlightened by the Spirit. "The fear of the Lord is the beginning of wisdom." "If any man lack wisdom let him ask of God."

3. Of the soul—Pro 2:13: "Who leave the paths of uprightness to walk in the ways of darkness." Ps. 107:10: "They sit in darkness and shadow of death."

How solemn, how dark the soul without God! "Yet it may be turned into a world of glory, a realm of light by the kindly hoverings of this same Spirit."

"I am the light of the world."—John 8:12

"I am the resurrection and the life."—John 11:25.

4. Of the church. How often do we find it a chaos of darkness and death, a mixture of discordant elements, etc., without true spiritual life and light. See churches of Asia, Rev. 2.

Yet how much was done at Pentecost! How much may be done today by the same spirit.

5. 58:10—"If thou draw out thy soul to the hungry"—hungry for salvation, sympathy, love, fellowship life, etc.—"then shall thy light rise in obscurity and thy darkness be as the noonday."

6. Of the grave. Job 10:2: "I go to the land of darkness and shadow of death, without any order." We think of the silent tomb.

The beautiful form has returned to mother dust. No ray of the sun can pierce the darkness. No beating heart or loving voice breaks the silence of death. Truly it is without form, life and light.

Yet through the "blessed operation of this same God, the "sun of righteousness" will scatter this darkness; this silence will be broken by the "voice of the angel," "the trump of God," and "the song of redeeming love"; and from this chaos there will come forth a "glorified form," filled with the "light of life," with harp and tongue to sing God's praise. O that the Spirit of God may move upon every chaos and turn it into order, light and life.

Sunday School Convention at Sugar Grove.

The First District Sunday School Convention was held at Sugar Grove Saturday, and as is all things at that place, it was a success. W. T. Oakley was chosen chairman and H. N. Lamb, secretary, and the interesting programme was carried out. Sound speeches were made by W. T. Oakley on spiritual qualification; Rev. J. T. Barbee on pastor's and official member's positions; W. H. Walker on the importance of the positions; A. B. Phipps, how to make the S. S. a greater blessing. The addresses were all full of life and timely.

The singing by Sugar Grove and Piney Fork classes was inspiring.

Tobacco.

To all that have tobacco, lets all try and make something good this year. Keep the worms off good and handle it well, and the best of all house and give it a good color, and then assort well and lets have a good price for it, and we can make tobacco raising profitable. Now if we don't do that we can't get a good price for our tobacco. It is just as easy to make good tobacco as it is to make stuff and then want a good price for it. What says you all? I have been raising tobacco in this county for twenty-seven years and I know for why I speak; handle well and assort well and you can get a good price for your tobacco, and with out doing that you can't get a good price, so I urge you all to make something good this year and lets capture the prize.

A NOTORIOUS SWINDLER.

Austin B. Dwell, One of the Most Daring Criminals the World Ever Saw

ROBBED ENGLISH BANK.

Secured Five Million Dollars on Forged Securities and Could Probably Have Gotten More.

Was Born in Hartford, Ct., and Commenced Life as Office Boy in a New York Stock Broker's Office—Saw Much Corrupt Dealing and Couldn't Remain Honest.

Austin B. Dwell is dead. His death marks the end of the earthy career of one of the most daring and successful criminals the world ever saw, says the Chicago Chronicle. Dwell, who has been able to rob the Bank of England; Dwell was one of that few. He secured $5,000,000 on forged securities and but for the vengeance of some American confederates in former swindling games might easily have made the sum ten times greater. This mammoth crime stamped him as not only a very daring man but a wonderfully shrewd crook.

Dwell was finally caught and sent to a British prison for life. He was pardoned and returned to America, making Chicago his home until he died. While his robbery of the British financial stronghold was his greatest feat he had performed a number of other crimes in this country of equal daring, but not so great fame. All told he was the man to whom all crooks looked for an example in devious methods and certainty of execution.

Austin B. Dwell was of Yankee birth. He was born in Hartford, Ct.

Dwell commenced his New York career as office boy for a stock broker. This was soon after the close of the civil war when speculation ran riot all over the nation. The boy was quick and apt and by watching his chances became possessed of many a dark secret which forced the holders to let him in on the ground floor. He saw so much corruption in dealing—so he says—that if he had been the most honest boy in the world he must have fallen. In his autobiography, "From Wall Street to Newgate," he treats the terrible corruption of New York during the A. Oakley Hall and Boss Tweed regime without gloves.

Dwell acted as a broker in New York for thieves who stole bonds and other securities and made money rapidly until he neglected to keep the bonds in the vaults of the bank.

The scheme was to procure some $500,000 of the bank's money, feed the land for a time until it could be safely hidden, then offer to compromise on the basis of the return of part in consideration of the dropping of all action against the scheme. The plan was very nearly successful, for the operators were too sharp for the bank officials and but for the "sneak" of one of the confederates America would probably have been played out to the bitter end. Austin B. Dwell opened an account with the bank with the $100,000 cash he had with him. He went about his business like any other well-to-do man dabbling a little in stock and showing that he knew the markets well.

He made money and increased his deposit. Then he became very confidential with some of the operators on the other side, who were equally confidential with the bank officials. He showed these operators how he had good money in America and was rewarded by being introduced and dined by his new friends. He became chummy with the governor and as his tips were always productive of fat returns none had the ear of that functionary more readily. Then he began to play his coup. That was to sell a lot of bogus bonds, get the cash and drop out of sight.

Fortune seemed to smile on the conspirators. Austin sold the bonds and George took the proceeds away to place them in a safe place. The men were winners to the extent of $5,000,000 good, hard British gold before the slightest suspicion attached to their dealings. The leader was so skilled in market lore, knew and talked intimately of the kings of finance on this side and altogether bore himself as an American who preferred to work on the London board to going back to New York. There seemed to be no limit to the steal but that faded by the conspirators.

While his brother was making a rapid retreat to France he kept up a bold front, visiting the bank he had swindled and joking with the officers. He was so cool that they delayed setting the detectives on his trail until too late. He was laying lines all this time to decamp, and one morning he disguised himself and slipped for the West Indies on a tramp steamer. He had plenty of money when he started out. He had an exciting trip and was finally landed in Cuba, where he went into hiding for a time. He laughed at the British detectives but, as he native, writes in his books, he forgot the Americans.

George was caught in France after a short hunt and taken back to London. The former homes of the two men in the British capital were searched and the plant for the forgeries discovered. Then the American detectives were put on the trail of the principal offender and he was finally taken. He was extradited and at last joined George in Newgate.

Shakespeare in his plays touched upon pretty nearly every subject of human interest, except the hired girl. Was he afraid to tackle her?—Somerville Journal.

What you want is not "temporary relief from piles" but a cure totally cured DeWitt's Witch Hazel Salve cures and it will stay cured.—J. H. Orme

OUR FRIEND THE TOAD.

Feeds Voraciously on All Kinds of Injurious Insects.

One of the Massachusetts stations has been studying the habits of the toad, and urges its protection in the interests of the farmer. Farmers' bulletin No. 87, from Washington, mentions the popular superstition that "touching toads will produce warts on the hands; that killing toads will produce bloody milk in cows; that a toad's breath will cause convulsion in children; that a toad in a newly-dug cellar will bring prosperity to the household, etc." and gravely assumes as a fact that this station has made an investigation of the habits, food and economic value of the American toad which dispels these fallacious ideas.

Of course the toad is a friend of the farmer, and the fact of its being a friend of the farmer is what we want to know. As we cannot conceive of the possibility that the Massachusetts station people tested the efficacy of a toad's breath in producing convulsions, or the effect upon toad killing upon milk, and as the fact of such a scientific investigation would hardly dispel the fallacious ideas from the minds of those capable of entertaining them.

But the results of the investigation are interesting. In New England the toad is a pest to the farmer. It is a pest to the farmer because it is a pest to the farmer. It is a pest to the farmer because it is a pest to the farmer.

But the character of the toad's food is the point most important to the farmer. The toad is a pest to the farmer because it is a pest to the farmer. It is a pest to the farmer because it is a pest to the farmer.

The name is derived from the "pussy" which is a common name for the toad. It is a pest to the farmer because it is a pest to the farmer. It is a pest to the farmer because it is a pest to the farmer.

The Muscovy is a distinct species from our other domestic ducks. It has not the curled feathers in the tail of the duck, which are prominent characteristics of the descendants of the wild mallard. It is found in the wild state roosting in trees and sometimes making its nest among their branches.

The appearance of the Muscovy is very striking. The drake has on top of the head a large crest of feathers, which is elevated or depressed at will. The sides of the head and face are covered with a fine, scaly, bumpy skin.

Did you ever see a Snow Storm in Summer?

We never did; but we have seen the clothing at this time and altogether bore himself as an American who preferred to work on the London board to going back to New York. There seemed to be no limit to the steal but that faded by the conspirators.

No need of this snowstorm. As the summer sun would melt the falling snow so will melt these flakes of dandruff in the scalp. It goes further than that; it prevents their formation. It has still other properties: it will restore color to gray hair in just ten times out of every ten cases.

It does even more: it feeds and nourishes the roots of the hair. Thin hair becomes thick hair; and short hair becomes long hair.

We have a book on the Hair and Scalp. It is yours, for the asking.

If you do not obtain all the benefits you expect from the use of the Vigor, there is some difficulty with your hair. Write to J. C. Agner, Lowell, Mass.

SOME PECULIAR ANIMALS.

The Philippine Islands Will Add New Beasts to Zoological Gardens.

A REMARKABLE BUFFALO

Tunnels Pathways Through Thick Bamboo Undergrowth—Hunted on Hands and Knees.

Philippine Squirrel Another Odd Creature About the Size of a Mouse—A Wild Pig Digitized With a Latin Name—A Monster Fruit-Eating Bat—A Much Feared Alligator.

One freak beast which will excite curiosity in our zoological gardens is the tamarau, a dwarf buffalo found in the forests of Mindoro of the Philippine group. It is a stunted form of the Old World buffalo, not of the American blood. It sometimes occurs high up in the mountains. It tunnels pathways through the thick bamboo undergrowth covering the mountain sides above 6,000 feet. Hunters must go upon hands and knees to follow these trails. The aborigines never hunt this little beast, being deeply afraid of it.

The midget Philippine squirrel is another odd creature. It is about the size of a mouse, has long longer in proportion than those of the ordinary squirrel, large eyes and rounded ears. A large brown rat, gray underneath and with a squirrel-like tail, but with a black, cord-like tail, is of still greater interest from an evolutionary point of view. It is discovered to be the last link long needed to complete the chain of relationship between the true rat and the water rat. A wild pig, digitized by the name of the Philippine, is found throughout the whole Philippine group. It is exceedingly common during the day, when it hides in the forest, but sallies forth during the night into the native maize and rice fields, where it does much damage. The natives call this badly beloved pig "Babui."

The Philippines will also contribute a giant fruit-eating bat. All American bats, of course, subsist entirely upon insects, and are provided with sharp teeth with which to nip them. The fruit-eating bat of these islands is larger than a rat, has a long head and blunt teeth. It makes nightly incursions upon the banana plantations and other fruit preserves. During the day it sleeps hanging head downward from a tree.

In Batana, of the Philippine group, is found a chevron, or a "mouse deer," a tiny little pigmy as cunning as a fox and which, when pursued, can bathe, of course, submerge entirely upon insects, and are provided with sharp teeth with which to nip them. The fruit-eating bat of these islands is larger than a rat, has a long head and blunt teeth. It makes nightly incursions upon the banana plantations and other fruit preserves. During the day it sleeps hanging head downward from a tree.

The Review of Reviews translates from a Spanish book some information about the Philippines that will be startling to most American readers. The author is Senor Juan C. Mora, who for some years was editor of a Spanish newspaper in Manila. His book was written before the war between the United States and Spain, but while the Philippine insurrection raged he was in progress. It was intended to show to the native Filipinos the worth of a more genuine system of government than the arbitrary rule by which Spain had goaded them to revolt. Senor C. Mora says:

"The indigenous Filipino possesses fundamental, rudimentary instruction (what we agree in calling primary instruction) in psychology, much more perfect than any other people in the world. He shows himself desirous of learning, and in the immense majority of the natives can read, write and figure. He knows the rudiments of religion and morality, and shows a happy disposition to acquire that general tint of superficial culture which is all that the great mass of laboring people can aspire to anywhere in the world. On this point statistics furnish us eloquent and irrefutable data. The number who can read and write is very small, but the women, and the number is much less of those who have not learned to read. While those who lack the rudiments of fundamental and necessary religious and moral instructions are very rare indeed. The correctness of this observation may be proved by examining recruits in the army, who are drawn usually from the poorest masses of the people."
