"Bob" Palmer, the comedian, been originally a billsticker, a fact pretty generally known among his colleagues of the stage. One evening, when dressed for the character of Sir Brilliant Fashion, he strutted into the greenroom with the buckles sparkling on his shoes and a fine diamond on his fingers. A brother actor inquired if his gems were real. "To be sure they are; wear nothing but diamonds," was e reply, whereupon Bannister remarked: "I congratulate you, Bob, for I remember when you wore nothing but paste." TREE PLANTING.

It May Be Done Now-How to About It.

The failure or success of the young tree for the first two or three seasons after planting out depends largely on how this work is done. The young tree as it comes from the nursery row has been deprived in digging of probably half its roots, whose office is to supply nourishment to the top or to the branches and leaves. The supply thus diminished so considerably necessitates a rather severe pruning of the top, cutting away an amount proportionate to the amount of roots or rootlets left behind in digging. This pruning should be done just before planting the tree, using a sharp knife. Cut away about three-fourths of the top, preserving a strong center shoot or leader, which should be cut back well. The lower lateral branches should be left longer than the upper, which should be pruned back rather severely. Any broken or injured roots should also be pruned so that the ends will be smooth.

In planting the tree in the ground set it no deeper than it grew in the nursery, which depth may be determined by the discoloration of the bark at the base. Let the roots rest on a bed of well-loosened soil. Replace the subsoil or c'ay at the bottom of the excavation with top soil, and let the excavation be somewhat larger than merely necessary to accommodate the roots. Fill in about the roots with pulverized soil, using the hand to perform the work. After the roots are covered tread the soll well with the feet. All the soil used for filling should be trodden down quite firmly. After the tree is planted stake it and tie to the stake, or better still, make a compact hard mound of soil about the base of the tree, to prevent the wind from whipping it about. In the spring remove this mound. During the first few seasons the young tree should be well mulched with manure or grass clippings winter and summer.

Fall planting of trees has one advantage, and that is the winter rains and melting snows have a tendency to settle the soil around the roots, and the tree is ready to start into growth at the first favorable opportunity in the spring. With many there is another advantage, and that is, the work is out of the way in the spring, and work is usually pressing in the spring and at the very time transplanting should be done.

But if the planting is done in the fall it should be done as early as possible, although it may be done at any time before the ground freezes. When set in the fall, however, it is always a good plan to draw a little mound of earth up around the stem; to mulch so that your fields, gardens and orchards are safe against these goats. If a farmer or country gentleman wants to go into any kind of business that is new to him, he should try it on a small scale only at first, to get well posted in the new business, before he invests too much. The old saying, "by losses we grow smart," should not be forgotten; but we could "grow smart" much cheaper by being more cautious. They can easily be trained so that they come home regularly every evenfit.est meat in the world. They look in New York City. Although the An- food, no matter what you eat .- J. Run Down Farms. If every farmer realized what it costs in labor and money and precious time there would be fewer farms of this kind. Many people let things go down almost unconsciously. It is only; a little worse this year than last; last year it was only a little worse than the year before, and so the difference is not noticed. But if they would contrast things now with what they were five or ten years ago they would see that it would do themselves and the farm both a world of good. It is well for every man occasionally to ask himself whether his capital stock poorer as consciously as his farm becomes neglected.

On March the 29th, 1900, Mr. H. R. Stembridge celebrated his sixty-fifth birth day. Early in the morning the neighbors, friends and connection began to gather in at the home, and by 10 o'clock seventy-five people were present He sung a hymn and read a chapter in the Bible, and after prayer by A. J. Eskew, the table being ready the congregation was invited to feast on the good things that Mrs. J. A. Stembridge and Mics Didame Stembrige had prepared for the occasion, and after dinner the old people conversed on the topics of the day while the young people enjoyed themselves as it suited them.

Mr. Stembridge is old Baptist, and has been a member of the church 44 years; he has 12 children living, the youngest being 22 years old; he has two chairs, one is 50 years old, the other 75; he also has a dinner horn, he said was older than he was.

Mr. Stembridge has been an invalid for years, but we pray God that he may be spared to celebrate several birth days yet.

Is Baby

If so, there must be some trouble with its food. Well babies are plump; only the sick are thin. Are you sure the food is all right? Children can't help but grow; they must grow if their food nourishes them. Perhaps a mistake was made in the past and as a result the digestion is weakened. If that is so, don't give the baby a lot of medicine; just use your every-day common sense and help nature a little, and the way to do it is to add half a teaspoonful of

to the baby's food three or four times a day. The gain will begin the very first day you give it. It seems to correct the digestion and gets the baby started right again. If the baby is nursing but does not thrive, then the mother should take the emulsion. It will have a good effect both upon the mother and child. Twentyfive years proves this fact
