No Press Next Week.

It has long been the custom of the Press staff to take a vacation Christmas week of each year, and as next week brings with it the joy and delight of Christmas time no Press will be issued. This edition is, therefore, the last issue of the year 1900, the last issue that will appear this century, for the Nineteenth Century is almost dead, its long and turbulent career will soon be finished, and when the Press appears again the Twentieth Century will have dawned. To our subscribers we extend our best wishes for a happy Christmas and a joyous New Year. The Press will again greet you Jan. 3, 1901.

LETTER FROM PEKIN.

A Crittenden Boy Tells of that Wonderful City.

The following letter from Pekin China, was written by her brother to Mrs. Della Hughes, of Weston:

Dear Sister—I am feeling fine today, and not having any letter, thought I would write. It has been some time since I heard from any of you.

It is getting cold here now, and snowed last Saturday. We are camping in the Temple of Heaven; we are inside of six walls, in good tents and have good bunks, and stoves in the tents, and lots of bedding and blankets, and getting lots to eat, cabbage and many other vegetables, but they won't last much longer.

We will stay here all winter. I would like to go to Manila; I like the climate fine there. It is too cold here.

The Chinese are the dirtiest people I ever saw. They live in small mud houses and small brick houses. There are no large houses in Pekin. They have their beds like the Germans build ovens to dry fruit in, and then they build fires under their beds. Lots of the Chinese will die and freeze to death this winter. They have had everything stolen from them. The whole city has been burned and torn up. Everybody has watches, rings, and every thing you can think of. Lots of the boys got five hundred dollars worth of jewelry.

The Japs and Russians slaughtered men, women and children, alike. I have seen them knock a woman down with the butt of their guns and pitch her body up in the air and some one catch it on the point of his bayonet. They killed them every way; they did not spare any.

We had some hard fighting; lots of people killed. They were so thick inside the second wall that we would trample on them and run over them, lots of them not dead. Some of them would be grabbing us by the legs, and the bullets and shells falling around us thick, and was so hot and tired and exhausted that we could not stand up, and could not get any water to drink. We did not care any more about kicking them in the face than nothing. Sometimes we would grab up a rock and hit them on the head. I was about dead myself, and every one else was too. I will look for an answer to this letter.

Corp'l Wyatt Smith,
Pekin, China.

CHRISTMAS WEATHER.

Prophet Hicks Gives a Forecast of What we May Expect.

From December 17th to the 23d will, in all reason, bring a great crisis in winter storms and weather. We believe that a crisis will fall between Tuesday, the 18th and Saturday, the 23d. The Central States will have all the way from rain and thunder to destructive sleet and blizzards.

On and touching the 25th, 26th and 27th, look for return to storm conditions, that is, for change to warmer, south to east winds, falling barometer and more rain and snow. December ends in an oncoming storm period central in January, 1901. Look for influenza and kindred symptoms growing out of weather conditions in December and the months following.

Verdict Against Louisville Post For Slander.

The suit in the Lyon circuit court of Warden Henry F. Smith, of the branch penitentiary, vs. the Louisville Evening Post came up for trial last week, and all the evidence and arguments were finished Saturday afternoon, and on Monday morning the jury returned a verdict for the plaintiff, for $4,000 for the libelous publication charging that the bread used at the big barbecue at the Kuttawa Mineral Springs just before the election was furnished out of the penitentiary.

High Priced Cattle.

Chicago, Dec. 7.—One hundred dollars apiece for steaks and $10 a pound for roast beef was paid at the fat stock show when Schwartzchild & Sulzburger, of New York bought B. R. Pierce's Aberdeen-Angus steer Advance for $1,500 a pound. This was paid for beef on the hoof, and as the steer tipped the scale at 1,430 pounds the price was $2,145.

Mr. S. S. Sullenger, of Irma, has two fine calves of this famous stock which he purchased from B. R. Pierce.

A CARD.

I will, on January 1st, 1901 take possession of the new GILL HOUSE, just across the street from the Press office, and take this method to thank my friends for past patronage. I will be glad to meet and serve you in 1901, as I feel sure that I can serve as a hostess with more hospitality, for my house is comparatively new, and I have more conveniences and large dining room, and shall not ask my friends to wait until some one gets through eating and sit down and hold your seats until you can be waited on. I am proud of those friends who have so nobly stood by me and fully appreciate their patronage. MRS. SARAH S. GILL.

Card of Thanks.

We shall ever remember with kindness the people of Mexico and vicinity who administered to the wants and comforts of our darling child, Silian, during her last illness. This Dec. 15, 1900.

BRYAN'S PLANS.

Will Become an Editor and Publisher at Lincoln.

Lincoln, Neb., Dec. 15.—Wm. J. Bryan gave out the following interview today:

"I have for several years had in contemplation the establishment of a weekly newspaper, and this seems an opportune time for undertaking it. I intend to devote my life to study and discussion of public questions. I have taken this method because it will best accomplish the purpose which I have in view. Through a paper I will be able to keep in touch with social, economic and political questions. The paper will at the same time, if successful, provide an income sufficient for my pecuniary needs, and the work will allow me more time with my family than I have been able to enjoy for several years past.

"I expect to lecture occasionally, especially in college towns, where I can speak to students, but my principal work will be done with the pen, or perhaps I should say, with the pencil.

"The paper will be called, the 'Commoner,' and will defend the principles set forth in the Kansas City platform. I shall be publisher and editor, and Lincoln will be the place of publication.

Holiday R. R. Rates.

Christmas and New Year holiday excursion rates at one and one third fare for the round trip will go into effect Dec. 22d, and will be sold on Dec. 22d, 23d, 24th, 25th, 30th and 31st, and Jan. 1st, 1901, limited to date of sale for going passage, and to January 4th, 1901, for return.

Do not sell your eggs or any poultry without first getting prices from Schwab.

In Memory.

Fell asleep in Jesus on the 18th day of November, 1900, Willie Howard, son of Sue and R. H. Yates.

Little Howard has gone home. His stay on earth is over. As you looked on his pure and faultless features you could realize the purity of heaven, remembering that Christ has said, unless ye become as little children ye can in nowise enter the Kingdom of Heaven.

For five years the smiles of little Howard greeted all who came near him. It would seem that his visit here was to show us how lovely and bright are the seraphs of the golden city, and that he might cause one to make greater efforts to gain a home within its jasper walls. It will be joy to join him there.

Dear parents, weep not for little Howard; remember that his days and nights of pain are over; and now he rests with the purified, beckoning to you from across the river to come to him. His smiles are sweeter than ever before; the little eyes that will never more be dim with tears eagerly watches for the loved ones left behind; the little tongue that could only sing the sweet songs here is now singing the praise of his Heavenly Father to shout the glad hallelujahs with the glorified throng. If he could speak to you today he would bid you not weep for him as his sufferings are now past and he awaits the coming of papa and mama, sister and brother. How great will be the reunion in the sweet by and by.

He has crossed the silent river And within the gates of gold! There to tune his harp in glory Till his voice in praises roll.

Waiting, for our coming There he hast off before We will find our little Howard Not dead, but gone before. How we miss our little Howard And our home is now forsaken Though he is with the angels Which like stars God's crown adorn The cherished one is in heaven With bright angels ever more, He will wait and watch our coming Not dead but gone before.

Obituary.

Rosa, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. M. L. Long, born June 20, 1875, was called by the voice of God to a fairer and happier land, October 8, 1900.

Yes, we realize that again the tender hand of Providence has been in our midst and laid hold on one who seemed nearest and dearest to us; one whose life has been a brilliant light to those who wish to follow in the path that all should go. "The path of duty and of true devotion to God."

Rosa professed religion when 13 years old, under Bro. Gregston's preaching, and ever lived a true and devoted christian, always ready and willing to work for Christ's cause, and when called from here was a faithful and earnest member of Repton church.

Rosa was married to Doss Conger Feb. 9, 1898, and was a kind, true and affectionate wife.

Although her afflictions were so great, and her sufferings untold, yet she bore all with patience and never murmured, and when they were spoken of she would say, Oh, it was so intended; and when the summons came she was ready and willing to go and died so happy, which was the dear parents, and brothers and sisters consolation, while they deeply deplore her loss, they realize her sufferings are over and she has been borne to rest. She is gone but not forgotten. Weep not dear parents, brothers, sisters, we sympathize with you and direct you to the Father in Heaven for consolation and comfort; it is He alone that can save you, and may you ever trust Him when the appointed time draws near at hand you can, like your dear one exclaim, as the curtain of death rolls over your brow that you die happy, and you can realize as she did, that there are others on that bright and golden shore waiting and beckoning for you to come.

Written by her schoolmates, Gene and Ella.

MISPLACED SWEETNESS.

Mamma Suffered on Account of Her Son's Lovemaking.

She was pouring at a tea that afternoon, and she looked unusually bewitching. He was sitting at her left in a bower of palms that almost concealed him. He was holding one of her hands under cover of the tablecloth, while she tried to pour with the other.

She did not look at him as he talked, but he knew by her color and the little quiver of the hand he was holding that she heard everything he said.

"Dearest," he murmured as she sent one cup off without a spoon and another filled only with whipped cream, "dearest, if you don't mind my saying all this to you, just drop a spoon. Couldn't you manage it?"

A clatter of silver and more color in the girl's face as, in stooping to pick up the spoon, he kissed her hand. Spurred by this success, he went on, "Dearest, if—if you return it—that is, if you love me, you know—just put three lumps of sugar into the next cup you pour—'y-e-s'—or, if you don't, two, to spell 'no.'"

One, two, three! The tiny cup was almost full, but in her haste to hide her confession she covered the three lumps hastily with chocolate and cream and sent them off.

He asked his mother, as they drove home that night, if she had enjoyed herself.

"Ugh! No!" was her disgusted reply. "Such horrible stuff to drink as they gave me! Why, my cup was half full of sugar!"—M. S. Holbrook in Smart Set.

"Something-in-it"—ism.

Did you ever notice how many persons there are in the world who can be induced to admit there "is something in it"? Doesn't make any difference what it is. The most of the folks will sputter disbelief for awhile and then when some sudden recollection strikes them or you get some argument in under the solar plexus they will grudgingly admit that there's something queer about it or something we don't understand or generally "something in it."

The members for the society of psychological research, the spiritualist doctor, the medium, the Christian Scientist and some of the rest of the folks will explain to you just what "is in it" according as they practice the cult. For the rest of us the vague notion that there is something somewhere somehow, that we do not understand, must needs suffice.—Lewiston Journal.

That Tired Feeling.

"There's no doubt about it," says a prominent vegetarian, "that for endurance, for hard work, vegetarians are the only thing. Do you know why? It is because in vegetables you eat no tiredness. In meat or fish or poultry you eat a great deal of tiredness, and that is why the meat eater after a hearty meal feels lazy and heavy and disinclined to work. He has absorbed with his meat a great quantity of uric acid, and the definition of uric acid has been given by an eminent scientist as the 'essence of tiredness.' He who eats only vegetables is never tired after a meal—never."

Toll.

If you want knowledge, you must toll for it; if food, you must toll for it, and if pleasure you must toll for it. Toll is the law. Pleasure comes through toll and not by self indulgence and indolence. When a man gets to love work, his life is a happy one.

Hardest Task of the Day.

Harduppe—I always do my hardest work before breakfast.
Borrowwell—What's that?
Harduppe—Getting it.—Philadelphia Record.

TOLD IN HIS DREAMS.

PECULIAR VISION OF A RANCHER ON A NEW MEXICO PRAIRIE.

His Partner Appeared to Him During Sleep and Informed Him of the Fearsome Fate That He Had Met at the Hands of the Indians.

"No, I can't say I go much on superstition and that sort of thing, but I'd like some of these wise chaps to explain a little incident that happened to me down in the Pecos valley, in New Mexico, a few years ago."

Grizzled Bob Morrow, veteran cowboy, ranchman, globe trotter and philosopher, took another pull at his cigar as he sat comfortably in his seat in the hotel lobby. A thoughtful look came over his face, and his companions at the table awaited in silence his further utterances. After a pause Bob continued:

"We were 'sign' riding, Lee Wells and I. Know what 'sign' riding is? An imaginary line is drawn on the prairie. Two men, one stationed at each end, ride toward each other at a given hour. Any cattle that have crossed that line are rounded up and driven back. The idea is to keep the cattle together as much as possible during the winter."

"Our line was about ten miles long. Lee and I used to meet half way every day, and if no cattle had crossed we'd sit down and smoke and chat a bit. Sometimes we'd visit each other's 'dobe' and generally chum together as far as men can when ten miles apart. We each had six horses, the pick of the herd, and mighty proud we were, too, of 'em."

"'Bout that time the Indians were rather troublesome. They generally went in small bands, and occasionally the loss of a bunch of horses would be reported by ranchmen thereabout. Lee and I didn't fear 'em much. They carried only bows and arrows, and if it came to a chase our horses could easily outrun theirs. The greatest danger we had, to fear was the loss of our horses."

"Lee and I had talked frequently about the Indians, and both were of the same mind—if attacked, kill the horses rather than let the marauding thieves get 'em."

"I left Lee at the half way mark, as usual, one day, got back to my 'dobe' and after eating dinner turned in. I hadn't been asleep very long when I was awakened by a sort of feeling that there was somebody in the room. I groped under the pillow for my gun, turning over as I did so, and there in the doorway stood Lee Wells. The feathered shafts of six arrows were sticking from his breast, and his face in the moonlight looked drawn and ghastly. There was a smile of satisfaction on his face, though, as he said quietly:

"Well, they got me, Bob, but they didn't get the horses."

"I was out of bed in an instant. The minute my feet touched the floor Lee vanished. The door was shut and locked just as I left it when I went to bed. Pondering over the realistic 'dream,' or whatever it was, I turned in again, but it was a long time before I got to sleep again."

"A second time I was awakened by the same vision. There stood Lee in the doorway, and again he pointed to the arrow shafts and said:

"They got me, Bob, but they didn't get the horses."

"No more sleep for me that night. I looked around the 'dobe,' thinking perhaps Lee was playing me a trick. I went out to the corral. The horses were all right, and there were no signs of anybody having been around. I sat up and smoked and thought a whole lot until daylight; then I mounted and set off for the half way mark. Lee wasn't there, and there was no sign of his coming, so I rode on to his 'dobe.'"

"There, at the gate of the corral, was Lee's body, with six arrows in his chest, just as I had seen them in the vision. Inside the corral lay the bodies of his horses, all killed with bullets."

"It was plain to me that, seeing the Indians coming, Lee had deliberately killed the horses before turning his attention to the thieves. Judging from the hoof prints, there must have been about 20 Indians in the bunch. Lee must have damaged them some before he fell, judging from the cartridge shells lying around. They took his Winchester, of course, and looted the 'dobe.' They didn't get much for their trouble, though."

"But what I want to know is was that a dream or did Lee Wells really appear before me in some sort of form?"

His hearers could not explain.—New York Mail and Express.

Good For Preserves.

Last spring a feminine botanist blossom laden came upon a masculine naturalist who was just in the act of cramming a wriggling something into a tomato can in which something else wriggled.

"To preserve them," he said, feeling that an explanation was in order.

"Do they make good preserves?" asked the sister scientist.—Youth's Companion.

They Couldn't Hurt.

"The ladies in our congregation are pretty fond of me," said the minister's mischievous little boy. "Nearly all of them gave me some slippers on his birthday."

"I thought your pa always uses a slipper to spank you with."

"So he does, but these he just got are the soft kind, that's all made out of wool."—Philadelphia Press.

A man who is much afraid of drafts has a feather suspended from the ceiling by a light silken thread. Should the feather move in the slightest degree he doesn't rest content until he finds out where the draft comes from.

Vultures and Rattlesnakes.

When the international boundary commission resurveyed the lines between the United States and Mexico, there were naturalists in the party. Dr. Merriam, who, with his assistants, collected many specimens of birds and mammals, tells of a fight in the air between a California vulture and a rattlesnake which he saw while exploring the Cocopah mountains of Lower California.

It was in the early morning. The big bird had seized the snake behind the head and was struggling upward with its writhing, deadly burden. The snake's captor appeared aware that its victim was dangerous. The burden was heavy, as the reptile was nearly five feet long.

The grip of the bird on the snake's body was not of the best. The snake seemed to be squirming from its captor's talons, at least sufficiently to enable it to strike. Its triangular head was seen to recoil and dart at the mass of feathers.

It did this once or twice, and then, with a shriek, the vulture dropped its prey. The bird was probably 500 feet or so above the observers. The astonished men were then treated to a spectacle seldom seen. Few birds but a vulture could accomplish such a feat.

The instant the snake escaped from the bird's clutches it dropped earthward like a shot, and, like a shot, the bird dropped after it, catching it in midair with a grip that caused death. At any rate, the snake ceased to wriggle, and the vulture soared away to a mountain peak to devour its hard earned meal.—Youth's Companion.

Origins of "Under the Rose."

In Greek mythology the rose was the symbol of silence, as it was said that Cupid, the son of Venus, gave the god of silence a golden rose as a bribe to conceal the amours of the goddess of love. It was, therefore, sculptured on the ceilings of banqueting halls and placed as a sign above the doors of questionable resorts. Guests at feasts were crowned with roses to intimate that their conversations while in their cups were not to be repeated elsewhere.

The phrase obtained currency in Greece after Pausanias, the admiral of the Greek fleet, plotted with Xerxes to betray the cause of the Greeks by surrendering the ships, the negotiation being conducted in a small banquet hall, the roof of which was, as usual, covered with sculptured roses. The plot, however, was discovered and Pausanias endeavored to make his refuge in a temple which possessed the right of asylum. Unwilling to violate the sanctity of the place by forcibly removing him and still more unwilling to allow him to escape, his fellow citizens walled up every entrance and, by one account, left him to die of starvation; by another, killed him by unroofing the building and throwing down the tiles on his head.

A Lazy Beggar.

I once had a conversation, said an Isle of Man bank manager, speaking of Hall Caine, with two old friends of mine, a farmer and his buxom wife, who live within a few yards of Greecastle, the great Maxx author's residence. Hall Caine had just taken up his abode in his new house, and I started the conversation by saying to the worthy farmer and wife:

"So you have the great Hall Caine near you now?"

Farmer and Wife—Aye, man.

Farmer's Wife—And what tremendous style they are keeping! It's amazing.

Farmer—And what's he doing for a living, Mr. —?

Bank Manager (greatly astonished)—What don't you know he is a popular author?

Farmer—And what's that?

Bank Manager—Why, he writes successful books.

Farmer (with a fine show of contempt)—The lazy beggar!

I need hardly say, concluded my correspondent, that I collapsed.

Time as a Sculptor.

A portrait traced by nature on a woman's tombstone, says The Scots Pictorial, has recently been discovered in Jedburgh graveyard, near the famous abbey. The stone was erected in 1718 by a worthy baffle of Jethart to the memory of his wife, Alison Renwick. The slow finger of time has worn away most of the facing on the front of the stone, and part of it is overgrown with moss, which has outlined the features. Local opinion favors the view that the face is a likeness of the good old lady who sleeps beneath, a theory which has at least the merit of being difficult of disproof, since no one living can possibly have seen her.

Carrying Out the Rule.

"Some editor who has been giving advice to people on how to live to be old says that one of the main rules to follow is to go away from the table at each meal feeling as if you could eat more."

"Well, say, if that's right, every fellow at our boarding house ought to live to be a hundred!"—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

Too Lively.

Mr. Cornutssel—I can't understand these here theater troopers.

Mr. Meddewgrass—What is the matter?

Mr. Cornutssel—Why, they advertised this here drummer of "The Black Vow of Vengeance," as havin' plenty of life in it, an' blame if they didn't kill 16 people in the first act.—Baltimore American.

Socrates Tripped.

"No one," gravely announced Socrates, "can arrest the flight of time."

"No!" quizzically interrupted a bystander. "I thought anybody could stop a minute." And even the disciples of the great philosopher were forced to smile behind their togas.—Philadelphia Record.

FOR REPRESENTATIVE.

MR. M. F. POGUE, OF FRANCES, ANNOUNCES HIS CANDIDACY FOR THE LEGISLATURE.

It is my sincere desire to represent the people of Crittenden and Livingston counties in the Lower House of the next General Assembly of Kentucky; therefore, I ask you to consider my name for the Democratic nomination for that office.

The Democratic platform is my platform. The welfare of the entire Commonwealth is my inspiration, and the fullest enjoyment of the Declaration of Independence, is my prayer.

I place my case before the tribunal of Democracy, from whose decision no good Democrat ever appealed. If nominated the battle of Democracy will be my battle, till your victorious standard is placed by my hands upon the ramparts of Plutocracy; and in the legislative halls the cause of the whole people will be my cause till the moment of adjournment.

Should you in your wisdom choose another for your color-bearer you will find me in November with the "boys" on the firing line, doing battle for the great cause of Democracy.

Most respectfully yours,
MARION F. POGUE.
Frances, Ky., Dec. 18, 1900.

In this paper Mr. M. F. Pogue has a card announcing his candidacy for the Democratic nomination for the legislature. He is one of the best known citizens of the Frances neighborhood, and he has a large acquaintance over the two counties, and wherever known he has friends, who will proudly support him for the nomination. He is thoroughly grounded in Democratic principles and has been one of the most active and earnest young Democrats in the county, devoting his time and abilities to the cause of his party, whenever occasion offered. As a man and as a citizen he has the confidence of the people among whom he lives, and he has the unquestioned ability to make the two counties an able representative in the General Assembly. It affords the Press no little pleasure to present the name of a man who is so deserving for the consideration of the people of the district, knowing as we do that he is honest, that he is capable, and that he will be faithful to any trust confided to his keeping.

Marion F. Pogue was born in Crittenden county Oct. 18th, 1867. His father was a farmer and Marion worked on the farm attending the country school through the winter. By diligent study through the months that school was not in session he finally succeeded in completing the teachers' course in the Marion Academy and Normal School in the session of 1887. Mr. Pogue has been engaged in teaching ten years of the thirteen years that have passed since he completed the teacher's course. He has been successful as a teacher, and his school has produced more common school graduates than any ungraded school in the county. Mr. Pogue has also been interested in the mercantile business at Frances for a good many years.

In 1888 he was appointed postmaster at Frances and served in this official capacity until last year, when he ardently supported the late Wm. Goebel for Governor and worked so effectively for the cause of Democracy that the Republican Administration deprived him of his commission.

Since the reorganization of the Frances precinct Mr. Pogue did all in his power for the Democratic ticket. For two years he has served as one of the election commissioners for the county, and in that capacity his work has been eminently satisfactory to all parties.

Land for Sale for Taxes

I or one of my deputies will, on Monday, the 14th day of January, 1901, that being county court day, for Crittenden county, offer for sale one-half interest in one tract of land listed by Mrs. Sarah Nunn lying near the Sneed land in Belle Mines precinct No. 7, containing 49 acres, for the taxes due for 1900 and the cost amounting to $3.00.

To the tax-payers who owe me taxes for 1898, 1899, and 1900: I need money to make my settlements with the county, and if not paid I will advertise your property for sale. I can not settle unless I collect, so look out for the sale of property for tax for you may find something of yours advertised.

THE LOST IS FOUND.

M. A. Moore Who Disappeared Twenty Years Ago Turns Up.

About twenty years ago Mr. M. A. Moore, who resided in what is now known as the Frances neighborhood, left to accompany his mother as far as Paducah, she having come from her Texas home to visit him and other relatives in this section. From that day until a few days ago Mr. Moore was never heard of by his friends in this section. He left a family of six children, all of whom were small at the time. His wife had died some time before, and the children were left with their grandfather, Mr. Wash Perkins, who has since died. Every effort was made to find the missing man. Advertisements were inserted in a number of papers, but all to no avail. He was given up for lost, and homes were found for the children in a number of families, and some of them are in Crittenden, some in Caldwell, and some in Lyon county. A few days ago a stranger appeared in the Frances neighborhood and inquired about Marion Moore, a brother of the man who had disappeared. When questioned the stranger said he was the long missing man. So far as we have learned he has given no account of himself, or his whereabouts during the years his children have grown to womanhood and manhood.

Jupiter Warmer Than the Earth.

The gigantic mass of Jupiter has a much larger warmth than that of the earth. It is the result of the molecular movement produced by the compression of the strata and must be greater the more powerful the masses, and hence the larger the pressure of the strata is. Jupiter surpasses the earth in point of mass 307 times, and for this reason the inner temperature or individual warmth of the planet is probably high enough to evaporate the water upon the surface quickly, so that water vapor forms the principal substance of the atmosphere of Jupiter. Water vapor is an excellent reflector and readily accounts for the bright radiation of light emitted by the planet.—Professor Hughes in Chicago Tribune.

Awkward Compliment.

There is such a thing as being too persistently complimentary. A candid and well meaning professor who had witnessed the performance of a little play in a private house in which his hostess had taken the leading part met the lady as she came from behind the curtain.
"Madam," he said, rushing up to her,
"you played excellently. That part fits you to perfection."
"Oh, no, professor," said the lady modestly. "A young and pretty woman is needed for that part."
"But, madam," persisted the professor, "you I've positively proved the contrary!"—Pearson's Weekly.

In the Dumps.

There was once upon a time an Egyptian king, so it is said, who built a pyramid and died of melancholy. His name was Dumps, yet there are probably few persons who know that they are perpetuating the memory of his tragic history when they remark that they are "in the dumps."

Extraordinary Temerity.

"I told that Boston girl I didn't like Emerson."
"Was she displeased?"
"Displeased? She got nearly as mad as she did when I said that beans could be baked without salt pork."— Chicago Record.

Might Grow in Kentucky.

Samuel R. Ireland, a lawyer and raconteur—by choice the latter—of Washington, is responsible for this story about a genial and ingenious old presiding elder in the Methodist Episcopal Church South who was a townsman of his back in Kentucky, relates the New York Telegraph. When he appeared in Mr. Ireland's offices at Washington one day, the lawyer was cordial to the old preacher, took him to all the interesting places of the capital and in the evening had him to dine at the home of a lady in the official circle who would rather decorate her table with quaint, homely characters than with notables. Spaghetti was one of the dishes served, and the old man took to it with amazing celerity. Put very much at his ease by the gracious ways of his hostess, he asked for and polished off another plateful of the Italian pasta.

Sighing contentedly as he finished,
he remarked:
"I wish, ma'am, you'd tell me what's the name of that dish I've just been eating."
"That's spaghetti, elder," said the hostess, "an Italian dish."
"So?" said the elder. "Well, it's real good, and I wish before I go you'd give me some of the seed. Chances are that we can grow the stuff in Kentucky."

A Long Bath.

A man who is a lawyer and a journalist in one of the smaller inland cities of Ohio tells of an uncle he has in the region of Massillon. This relative is one of the pious members of a small community and, being possessed of considerable executive ability, has been for more than 20 years the superintendent of a thriving Sunday school.
His besetting sin, if it might be called such, is his propensity to exaggerate stories in order to make them interesting to his auditors.

Some time ago he was telling his lawyer-journalist nephew of how he cured himself of the ague. It was several years ago, and, having tried every remedy in vain, he at last consulted an old Indian doctor, who advised him, he says, to go down to the creek each morning immediately on rising and sit in the cold water up to his chin. He was to sit there one minute the first morning and then double the time each day for 20 days. The uncle says he followed the prescription and was cured.

The nephew, who happens to be of a calculating turn of mind, figured out how long his uncle would stay in his cold bath on the twentieth day. He found that the last treatment would last a few days over six months.—

A Jacket of Many Garments.

Although Gordon declined to accept the bowls of gold offered him by the Chinese emperor after the suppression of the Taiping rebellion, yet he consented to receive the yellow jacket, a distinction limited to 12 wearers, who constituted the imperial bodyguard.

When the presentation of so exalted an oriental order took place, there was a most remarkable ceremony observed by the Celestial grandees commissioned to personally confer the high mark of the emperor's favor.

To Gordon's evident astonishment, the operation of donning the yellow jacket in its entirety was a considerable undertaking, for between two and three hours the great but simple minded soldier was engaged in putting on one suit and taking off another until a most extensive wardrobe had been gone through.

It comprised silk dresses, robes, jackets, hats, caps, boots, shoes, fans, girdles, thumb rings of jade and necklaces for all seasons and occasions.

The yellow jacket in its actuality was the last item of the raiment bearing its name in which Gordon was arrayed.—Pearson's Weekly.

Returns Were Not Adequate.

A minister in Glasgow, says The Scottish-American, asked an urchin who was standing looking in at one of the Sabbath school windows how he would like to join the Sunday school and grow up a good man.

"What sort o' Sunday schule is it?"
"Established?"
"Yes," said the clergyman. "It is connected with the Established church.
Are you not coming in?"

"Na," replied the boy. "I tried the 'Established Kirk Sunday schule last year, an I only got two fardin oranges an a pock o' sweeties at the Christmas tree, sae I'm gannae gie the Free kirk a trial this year."

What Women Admire in Men.

What we admire most in men is a loving appreciation of ourselves. The most admirable man is he who makes a comfortable home for the woman who loves him and who delights to make that home bright and cheery for his sake, for, after all, it matters little what we admire in men. It is what we love in them that is the important factor in the well being of the world.—

BABY'S PORTRAIT.

[Sketches by his mother.]
A little head of shapely mold,
Two baby eyes so bright and bold,
A dainty little nose,
Two little cheeks so rosy and fair,
With tiny dimples lying there
Like dewdrops in a rose.

A little mouth so fragrant sweet,
A tiny dimpling chin so neat,
And both just made to kiss;
Two cunning ears each in its place,
A baby forehead set with grace,
Whose photograph is this?

Two sturdy shoulders, broad and square,
Two chubby hands so fit and fair,
And coming feet so sure;
A regular smile for you and me,
Sweet baby ways, now, don't you see
The portrait of our boy?

TAKING IN MR. MOODY.

How His Confidence Was Abused by the Natives of Bethany.

When D. E. Moody went to Bethany during his travels in the east, he was very soft hearted over all the multitude of beggars there, not only because the place is so unusual, but because he was moved by its beautiful traditions.
He gave quantities of "backsheesh" and then asked if any of the children had the names of Mary and Martha.
Yes, indeed, they had. And that opened his pockets again.

The news of his generosity spread through the village, and new claimants came until his visit seemed likely to result in a fight for existence. The case was getting desperate, and he told the dragoman to call for silence while he made an address. Then he said:

"I have come 6,000 miles to see this little village of Bethany. It was a place my Master loved to visit, and I have come to see it because he loved it. I am very glad to meet you all, but now I want to be alone. I have no more backsheesh, and I bid you good-by."

A fine looking boy of 16 replied to the address. He spoke fluently and with the grace of an orator. Mr. Moody was delighted with the beginning of his oration, but not with its conclusion.

"We are glad to see the gentleman and his friends who have come so far, but the gentleman must not think that his actions are equal to the importance of his visit. Six thousand miles is a long way to come, and the gentleman must have sacrificed much to make the visit. In consequence it is natural for us to expect that he would be munificent in backsheesh. This he has not been, and we now expect that he will give us a great deal more."

Mr. Moody was so disgusted that he abandoned the situation entirely and hurried away with his friends.

"I did think," said he, "that boy had a soul above backsheesh."
"And did you think, too, that some of the children were named Martha and Mary?" he was asked.

"Certainly. Why not?"
Nothing; only they were all boys.—
Youth's Companion.

A Settler.

A 5-year-old boy went with his mother to make a call. The lady of the house, who was fond of children, told him she meant to ask his mother to let her have him. "Don't you think your mother would let me buy you?" she asked.

"No, ma'am," answered the little fellow; "you haven't got money enough."

"How much would it take?" she continued.
"Three hundred dollars," said the boy promptly, as if that would settle the matter at once for all.

"Oh, well, then," said the woman, "I think I can manage it. If I can, will you come and stay with me?"

"No, ma'am," he said, with decision.
"Mamma wouldn't sell me anyhow.
There are five of us, and mamma wouldn't like to break the set."—Buffalo Enquirer.

Demand For Excelsior.

The present annual production in this country of excelsior is about 60,000 tons. Put to a great variety of uses, excelsior is most commonly used for packing purposes, and in such uses it is employed for many very different kinds of things. It is used, for example, in the packing of things so fragile as eggs and things so solid as iron toys. In the various uses to which it is put excelsior is most in demand where manufacturing is carried on, so that the larger part of the great quantity of this material now produced in this country is used east of the Mississippi river.—New York Sun.

The Pleasures of Old Age.

No sane man would like to live his life over again. It is astonishing how the ordinary affairs of life seem to adapt themselves to your added years.
One's pleasures are quieter, but quite as enjoyable. To live in the lives of your children, to watch their progress, the development of their minds, is one great source of pleasure. There are music, reading, gardening, etc. May I also add that I took the advice of an old friend some years ago who said the two things most likely to give pleasure in declining life were to learn what and to play the violin.—A Man of Sixty in Spectator.

The Worm Turned.

Mrs. Ennepek—You let people domineer over you too much, Henry. You should learn to say "no" occasionally.
Mr. Ennepek—Yes, that's right, and I wish to goodness you had said so on a certain occasion.—Chicago States.

Polite, but Embarrassing.

A pretty little miss of about 14 summers nearly broke up a wedding party at Linwood a short while ago. It was about the first wedding that she had ever attended, and she felt the importance of the occasion very much. After the ceremony she noticed that the people went up to the bride and groom and made remarks to them. She supposed that they were words of congratula-tion or condolence or something of that sort, but her ideas of the proper thing to say under the circumstances were a little vague. Finally she whispered to an old friend of the family who was near by:

"What shall I say when I go up there?" she faltered.

"Oh, just anything to show them that you are glad they are married. Just something complimentary, you know."

In a few minutes the little miss had made her way to where the happy couple were receiving the congratulations.
There was quite a crowd around, but she didn't mind them one bit. She marched straight up to the bride and,
extending her hand, said:

"I wish you many happy returns of the day."

The remark convulsed every one in hearing, but the little miss left the church with the consciousness that she had observed the proprieties.—Cincinnati Enquirer.

How the Carving Was Done.

"When I was a young man," said a San Francisco artist, "a friend of mine who returned from China brought home a lot of pearl shells beautifully etched or engraved with figures and landscapes on the inside of the shells.
I did not marvel so much at the engraving as I did at the cheapness of the shells. I couldn't help thinking that some of the engravings must have taken a day or two to make, and yet they sold for little or nothing, my friend said.

"On my request he made an investigation of the subject and discovered that the Chinese had used the following plan: Instead of graving the picture into the hard shell, an operation that would have been laborious and slow, the Chinese drew the sketch on a little scrap of tea leaf and inserted it into the pearl oyster shell when it was tender. The inside of the shell in this manner got an impression of the sketch from the tea leaf picture, and as soon as it was sufficiently well printed the Chinese would take the leaf out and insert it in another shell, and so on.
That's how the carved shells came to be so cheap or at least that was the explanation that was made to me by my friend."

A Defender of Black Snakes.

The reporter was advised not to kill a black snake under any circumstances. An old, honest, reliable man explained this:

"Only a few days ago I saw a black snake whizzing around in a circle, his flaming eyes distended. His attention seemed riveted on something not far away. I advanced, and, to my astonishment, I saw a large rattlesnake coiled up in battle array. The black snake continued his circuits, getting a little nearer to its victim each time. After 10 or 15 minutes the rattlesnake dropped his head on the ground. Almost instantaneously the black snake pounced upon its victim. After securely fastening his teeth in the back of the rat-tlesnake's head he began his deadly coiling. Within five minutes that rattlesnake was dead. So don't kill a black snake."

The color came in the old gentleman's face as he was relating the above, and he said:

"Boys, black snakes are game, but they won't hurt you, for I had one for a pet for years, and because my old woman woke one night and found the snake in bed she raised an awful fuss and killed it."—Lebanon (Ky.) Enterprise.

Boy and Woodchuck.

The joy of pursuing the woodchuck is a part of the happiness of rural life.
The boy is lacking in physical development and in numerous mental and moral qualities growing out of the ex-

the hillside with a view to drowning out the occupant. This is said to refresh the woodchuck, and, as for the boy, it toughens his muscles as no compulsory labor could do, and it cultivates patience, hope and persistency. Given a good brook, an ample hole and an industrious boy, a full day's work on the outside and a complacent woodchuck on the inside may be safely guaranteed.—Hartford Courant.

ANXIETY OVER A TOMCAT.

A Mystery Which Was Explained by a Wall Street Man.

It was in a Broadway pharmacy. A reporter was waiting with others when the druggist stepped to the telephone and, after getting the number he called for, said:

"What is that tomcat doing?"
He listened with apparent excitement and added:

"How is spinach?"

After holding the receiver to his ear for a few moments he rang off and started to attend to his customers. He seemed nervous, however, and finally excused himself in the midst of filling an order and called up the same number on the telephone again.

"Sell my tomcat at the market," he said as soon as he had some one at the other end.

Then he returned to his customer with apparent ease of mind. The reporter wondered what the druggist meant by this strange conversation until it was explained by a Wall street speculator. "Tomcat," it seems, is a pet name among brokers for Tennessee Coal and Iron stock. "Spinach" is the familiar name for Southern Pacific.
The druggist had evidently bought "tomcat" low, and his excitement was caused by his eagerness to "take profits."

These are not the only stocks that have pet names in "the street." People's Gas of Chicago is known as "Postoffice," and Brooklyn Rapid Transit is known among many as "Little Manhattan." The names are not the same in all brokers' offices. The jargon enables customers to give orders over the telephone to their brokers with a certain amount of secrecy. The practice

Novel Chinese Clock.

It must be conceded that in some qualities of primitive but practical resourcefulness the Chinese are ahead of most civilized nations. All travelers agree that in a district where clocks and watches are unknown you ask a Chinaman the time of day he will, if well disposed, at once proceed to ambushade and capture the household cat, and after pushing up the lids and looking for a moment into its eyes he will tell the time with astonishing accuracy.
The explanation is a simple physiological one. The pupils of the cat's eyes constantly contract until midday, when they become like a fine line, as thin as a hair, drawn perpendicularly across the eyes. After 12 they begin again to dilate. It is to be hoped that if the practice is ever introduced into this country watches and clocks will continue to be made, as there will probably be many who will not care to run after a cat whenever they want to know the hour or who may fear some danger to their own eyes from too close an examination of hers.

He Missed Her.

A speech which had a pathetic as well as an amusing side is said to have been made by an old New Hampshire man on the occasion of his second wedding.

"Neighbors," he said to those who had witnessed the simple ceremony,
"you all know that this good friend that's consented to marry me is something of a stranger in our town. Now, I feel kind of insufficient, being only a man, to make her acquainted with everybody as quick as I'd like to. So I'm a-going to depend on you women folks," he added, with a confiding smile at the members of the gentler sex, "to make her feel at home among us, just as my first wife would do if she was here today. I miss her considerable all the time, but more'n usual on an occasion like this!"

JOHN K. HENDRICK

In an Open Letter Opposes G. W. Landram's Re-Election.

Paducah, Ky., Dec. 15.—In the Register there appears a three column open letter from former Congressman John K. Hendrick to James W. Babb, a prominent merchant and Democrat of Carroll county, charging county clerk George V. Landram, of Livingston county, with "farming" out to deputy warden Dooms, the deputy warden-ship of the Eddyville penitentiary. Incorporated in Hendrick's letter is a letter from deputy Dooms to C. B. Davis, a prominent merchant of Smithland, acknowledging that Landram has been paid fifty dollars per month of the official salary.

The exposure is the culmination of Landram's opposition to Hendrick being elected a delegate-at-large to the Kansas City convention. Hendrick is having 3,000 copies of the letter printed to circulate in opposition to Landram's candidacy for re-election.

Now will say to readers of Crittenden Press: I have been writing for the Press more than three years, and now the year 1900 is about to close and here is success to you all, hoping you a merry Xmas and a prosperous New Year, and a bountiful harvest to reap, and the Press may give you all the news of the county, to entertain you through the year. And to our most amiable Editor I wish you a pleasant and profitable new year; that your paper may go far and near, until its circulation doubles itself, and the people all over the United States will be reading it. Now, thanking you all for the past we welcome the new year 1901.

The wind is sweeping from the north, Is blowing fierce and cold, The leaves are falling everywhere, And our time is drawing near.

Santa Claws

Has made his headquarters at Hearin's this year. He left the largest and nicest line of Xmas goods there that was ever offered in Marion before and we have them open and ready to sell. Everybody invited to call and see them at once. Try to be first; Don't wait until they are picked over.

We have the finest line of dolls on the market and prices from 5c. to $2.00; doll buggies, doll chairs, stoves, vases, dishes, and iron trays of all kinds, guns, drums, trains, wagons, pistols, horns, mandolins, flutes, cups and saucers, jumping frogs, moving bugs, McKinley going to the White House. There is hardly a toy made that you will not find in our large stock. There will be no one to undersell us. We mean to sell the Xmas goods this year regardless of cost. Everybody knows where to come to get the best candies, fruits, and nuts. Don't buy chalk candy when you can get the pure sugar candy for a cent or two more on the pound. We handle the best goods on the market. Don't buy until examine and see what you are doing.

We always knock out the town with our nice filled baskets of fruits and candies and will do so again this year. Don't forget we still have the choicest line of groceries, glassware, queensware and tinware in town.

All we ask is a chance to price you goods, and we will sure please you.

Eggs 18c per dozen now. Hold your poultry for a few days; the market is off at present.

Very resp'y, HEARIN & SON.

To the Public.

We will not receive any tobacco here Christmas week.

Stegar & Dollar, Crayneville, Ky.

We are determined, regardless of cost, to close out our holiday goods. They are fresh and new. Next year we will have fresh goods gain.

Miss Jennie George Married.

Sunday evening Mr. Spencer Dorr, son of Mr. R. F. Dorr, of this city, and Miss Jennie George, daughter of Mr. Thomas George, of Salem, were united in marriage in the parlor of a hotel in Clarksville, Tenn. The news of the wedding was a surprise to the many friends of the happy young couple in this city. Mr. Dorr came to Marion Sunday afternoon from Princeton and left on the night train, meeting Miss George at Kelsey, where she was visiting.

Miss George is a popular young lady of Salem. She has many friends in this city, having attended school here two years.

Mr. Dorr is a popular Marion boy. He is manager of the Cumberland telephone exchange at Princeton.

The Press extends heartiest congratulations.
