Twentieth Annual Convention of the International Christian Endeavor Society.

CINCINNATI FILLED WITH DELEGATES.

The Gathering Promises to Be the Largest in the History of the Society-Synopsis of President Clark's Annual Address and Secretary Baer's Report.

Cincinnati, July 6 .- The twentieth international Christian Endeavor convention began a five-days' session in central insane asylum at Indianapolis | this city. The registration of delegates to ascertain if any sane persons are and visitors is unusually large, and the indications are that the attendance will be the largest in the hisfailed, together with the Mansfield tory of these great gatherings. In addition to the receptions and rallies at different state headquarters, the business session of the United Society of Christian Endeavor was held during Omaha. mote harmony and brotherly love and united service for the kingdom of our Lord and for their native land." Synopsis of Secretary Baer's Report.

The report of General Secretary John Willis Baer was, in part, as follows: "In 1891 the close of the first decade of Christian Endeavor, there were 16,274 so cieties, and we returned hearty thanks to God for what He hath wrought. In this year 1901, at the close of Christian Endeavor's second decade, we must employ the same numerals though differently arranged, to tell our numerical ly arranged, to tell our numerical strength, for the 16,274 societies have beme 61,427. The nearly one million members have become nearly four millions. S. D., aged 57 years.

Thomas Dunn English, author of the old song, "Ben Bolt," celebrated the eighty-second anniversary of his birth at his home in Newark, N. J. that we have in late years accepted that fact as commonplace. I remind you of this wonderful numerical extension of Christian Endeavor because it proves to me beyond a doubt that ours is not a man-made society, but a broad, interdenominational, international, and interractal brotherhood. 'Man can organize a society God creates a movement. a society, God creates a movement. The net increase in numbers of new societies since we met in the great Lon-don convention last July, is nearly two thousand members. In other words, the net increase during the past year equals the total number of societies organized during the first seven years of our splendid history. There have been more than 2,000 new societies added to the lists, but the net gain has not been quite that, because we have had to drop from our fellowship societies that have disbanded for various reasons or that have descended.

various reasons, or that have become ea various reasons, or that have become ex-clusively denominational societies.

"The interdenominational fellowship, which has been from the first a blessed fruit of Christian Endeavor, has, during the past year, been fostered as never before. There was a time when it seemed that this unique feature of Christian En-deavor would be imperiled, but those days have gone, never to return, we believe. The denominational loyalty of local Christian Endeavorers is seldom challenged, but, on the contrary, we find it officially and heartily commended by many clelestastical courts and assemblies in many denominations.

"One of the most gratifying facts to report is steady growth in 'foreign' and missionary lands. Secretary Chaplin, of the British section, reported an increase of 500 societies, particular mention being made of the number of Episcopal Christian Endeavor societies that have been organized the past year in the Church of England. This, and other splendid achievements by our English brothers show conclusively that the great London convention was blessed of God.

"Indeed, nothing shows the adaptability of Christian Endeavor to every climate and country more than the fact that there are national Christian Endeavor unions in the United States, Canada, England, Scotland, Ireland, Wales, Australia, France. Spain, Germany, Scuth Africa, India, China, Mexico and Japan, and that Christian Endeavor leaflets and constitutions may now be found in Chinese, Japanese, Malagasy, Persian, Arabic, Turkish, Bulgarian, Armenian, Siemese, German, French, Italian, Greek, Spanish, Swedish, Dutch, Norwegian, Welsh, Australian, Hungarian, Coptic, Mexican, Portuguese, Indian, the many dialects of India and Africa.

"Very naturally the increase in Junior

Africa.

"Very naturally the increase in junior and intermediate societies continues to be interesting. There are now over 16,000 junior societies and 1,285 intermediate societies, the first with 483,000 members, and the second with 38,500.

"A larger number than ever of our so-cieties have adopted some systematic and proportionate plan for giving money to the cause of missions, to their home churches, and to other benevolences. More and more is Christian Endeavor becoming an evangelistic agency for Christ. In all. 160,000 young people have in the last 12 months joined the church from the ranks

WILL NOT BE RELEASED.

Americans Captured With the Boers Will Be Held Till the War Is Over.

WASHINGTON, July 7 .- Americans fighting in the Boer armies and made prisoners by the British will have to The Trial in the House of Lords endure their captivity until the close of the South African war.

Great Britain has declined to comply with the request of this government to release an American now confined on the island of Ceylon, and this declination will probably prove a bar to further representations by the state department in behalf of Americans A Course of Proceedure that Has captured as belligerents in South Africa. The test case was that of a naturalized American named Morgan, who claims residence in Virginia.

Sir Alfred Milner, the British high commissioner in South Africa, disapproves of the release of foreigners who fought with the Boers. He has announced that a person who serves as a belligerent with the Boer forces loses his nationality and must be treated as an enemy. This view is concurred in by the legal officers of the state department.

The department is satisfied, from investigation made by American consuls and the British authorities, that all reports that the British are illtreating their priscuers are without the house of lords. foundation. The only hardship that Americans captured in South Africa will have to undergo will be that of confinement until hostilities cease.

In order to secure prompt settlezens for personal and property damages sustained in South Africa, as a result of the actions of the British troops, the state department has officially requested all claimants to submit memorials setting forth the facts in connection with their claims, which will be transmitted through Ambassador Choate, to the British claims commission, now sitting in London.

The department is in receipt of complaints from numerous persons, claiming American nationality, which are the basis of claims, but the records are not complete and in many cases the citizenship of the claimants is not established. The claims, which submit estimates of the damage suffered, amount to several hundred thousand dollars. The department does not see how it will be possible to secure a validity of the divorce under the settlement of claims arising out of laws of Nevada and the decisions of damages following upon acts of the the United States supreme court. een established.

WASHINGTON, July 7 .- Consent to the arbitration of British claims against the United States will not be given These last are always served after by this government until Great Britain agrees to the arbitration of American claims pending against her.

> This is the decision of the state department upon a request of Great Britain that certain claims arising out of the expulsion of British subjects from Hawaii during the royalist troubles in those islands be referred to arbitration.

> This government is not, of course, opposed to the principle of arbitration. Great Britain has, however, consistent ly declined to arbitrate claims pre sented by this government, including the Fiji claims, which have greater merit than those which resulted from the conditions in Hawaii. American claims amount to several hundred thousand dollars, while those submitted by Great Britain have a much smaller aggregate.

> The department is anxious to clear two governments, and if Great Britain will agee to arbitrate the American claims the United States will undoubtedly be willing to adopt this course with respect to British claims.

TERRIBLE HEAT IN TEXAS.

Fruit Being Cooked on the Trees-Cattle on Ranges Seriously Menaced.

GAINESVILLE, Tex., July 7.—This has been an awful day for heat, the thermometer standing 107 in the shade and 132 in the sun.

The situation here is very serious. The cotton crop is not only in jeopardy, but the apple and peach crops are cooking on the trees. They will amount to nothing.

The worst feature of all is that the little green bugs are appearing in many fields of cotton and have begun to do serious damage.

There is a water famine of the worst description, and the leading ranchmen say that if it does not rain in a in the east can not be notified of her few days they will lose heavily, as their cattle are suffering severely from the excessive heat and dry weather. Hot as it is, however, there have

New York, July 6 .- The London correspondent of the Tribune, writing of the Russel case, says:

The case of Earl Russell, involving the trial of a peer by the house of lords after the suspension of functions of this kind for 60 years, may offer an object lesson in the form of a majority verdict, which will tend to dignify the traditional rights and dignities of twelve ordinary men in the box. New precedents may be created by a fresh committee empowered to examine the journals of

The Essential Facts.

The essential facts will be that a radical peer will be exposed to a majority verdict from a house representing the old toryism of the privment of claims filed by American citi- eleged classes, and that any member answering the roll call of the lord high steward will be both an unanswered juryman respecting issues of fact and a judge regarding complex questions of divorce law in England and in America. The results of so remarkable an experiment in criminal proceedure can not be safely forecast. An abandonment, or at least. a reconstruction of the antiquated procedure of trial by a privileged jury would seem more likely than the substitution of a majority for a unanimous verdict in ordinary criminal practice.

> The Nevada judge who granted the divorce decree to Earl Russell has, indeed been instrumental in raising a series of questions of exceptional interest. This is the first issue of the

The best consolation which the stern moralist can find is the hope that the Russell case may lead to the enactment of uniform divorce laws in the states of the American union, and may open the way for a closer approach between England and America in legislation for the defense of the sanctity of marriage.

The secretary of the treasury rules that this government can not debar Chinese immigrants of the favored classes because of political offenses.

Wheat is quoted at fifty-five cents. Evidently the wheat growers and harvest hands have not formed a trust. Prof Evans was conductor of the Trigg county teachers institute last week. The Cadiz Record says of his work: "The teachers were much interested in the drill given them by Prof Evans. His skillful drawing out of the members of the institute of the mental pictures formed by the reading of the poem was especially noticeable. It is no exaggeration to say that for efficiency as an institute instructor, for power to draw out and interest the teachers, Mr. Evans has no superior among those who have appeared before the teachers of Trigg."

National Capital a City of Colleges and Universities.

Titans of Every Age Were Men of Humble Parentage Who Secured Their Education by Applieation and Self-Denial.

> The national capital is becoming more and more an educational center. Colleges have been here from the early days of the past century, that each university is composed of a number of colleges. The college bears the same relation to a university that a king bears to an emperor. An empire comprises kingdoms, and a university comprises colleges.

It is well known that George Washington advocated the establishment of a national university in the national capital; and his desire is gradually being developed. But the national university is yet only in embryo. It will not be perfected until the congress definitely acts upon the proposition which a number of good men have been projecting for more than a quarter of a century, out of their own individual means.

The secretary of agriculture says that the ideal national university would be a term of service in the executive departments for young men who have been graduated from secular or religious colleges and universities; a term of service in which they would learn all about the federal government, as government not the sons of the rich who were ing the congressional debates, the experience, all history shows that of the states.

There is no doubt in the minds of experienced educators of the effect of this double struggle for existence and education upon the character of a poor young man. It can be but for the best, in every instance. This is one rule to which there seems to be no exception. For, no matter how hard the struggle, he is independent. He feels his independence and soon becomes self-reliant. Sometimes he is offensively self-conceited, but that's all right. His self-reliance and his self-conceit are parts of the development of ambition, and at the end of four years he is better able to face the world than some of those who have not been through a poor young man's experiences. When he was a professor of exegetical theology, President Dwight, of Yale, said to the writer: "The college is truly democratic, no matter whether it be located in a reupblic, in a kingdom or an empire. The sons of rich men and of noblemen stand on a level with the sons of poor men. In college a young man is esteemed for what he is and for what he does; and the worthy poor man may stand far in advance of the unworthy rich."

range from 12 to 16 feet, according to the amount of stock fed from the silo. I do not think it advisable or practical to build a silo smaller 'han 12 feet square or 12 feet in diameter. And rather than go above 16 or 18 feet in diameter I advise increasing the capacity by building more silos. The craze just now is for the round stave silos, but I think the average farmer who expects to build a silo would better build a square frame with rounded corners, for the following reasons:

A square wood silo with ribs or girts around it horizontally, lined up and down inside and weatherboarded outside, whether built in a barn or outside, whether tied to another building or standing alone, will always be firm and rigid, and will not made him keep a diary of how he spent his suffer from the drying-out process that occurs during the hot weather, when the silo is empty. And this, I think, is a strong point in favor of the frame silo. I have learned of round siles that went to wreck, like shirt waist! That's one of last summer's the Wisconsin bulletin No. 83 the writer says he visited a number of stave silos that were badly damaged and wrecked in this drying-out process and by the wind. In my judgment this wrecking process would be worse in a silo where the staves had been spliced, for they must be made weaker in splicing the staves.

CORNER OF THE SILO.

As I am not a draughtsman, I inclose an illustration from the Wisconsin bulletin that exactly indicates the framework of my sile, except that my silo is 30 feet high and that the girts are closer than here indicated. The corner pieces or segments are not properly indicated in the cut, so I have drawn another sketch that more clearly indicates them. In Fig. 2 you will see that I have the corner well rounded. From the inside of the corner (A) to the face of the segment (B) is 12 inches, and we have no trouble in going around this corner with ordinary tongued and grooved flooring. We lined this framework with yellow pine flooring and gave it a coat of hot coal tar every year; one dollar's worth of tar and one dollar's worth of labor are ample for this work. It is air-tight and preserves the silage perfectly, and I believe if the tarring is not neglected the lining will last indefinitely. Some advocate a brick lining, but I do not think this practical, for the crevices would let in the air and the outside woodwork could not well be made airtight. While in wood-lined silo, tongued and grooved, the moisture of the silage will at once swell it into an air-tight condition, and when the tarring is well done the drying out is reduced to the minimum and the wood protected against decay.

The next pit I will build will be of the same construction, but larger. I believe it is practical to build them firm enough and strong enough against any bulging, up to 16 feet square. I do not think cement at all practical in silo construction (except as a foundation), for the least swelling or contraction would crack and break the coating and let the air in .-M. C. Morris, in Ohio Farmer.
