THE MISSOURIANS

Royally Received at Frankfort-The Howard Trial.

EDITOR PRESS: This week was another one that was not prolific in law making, as neither branch of the legislature made much attempt at active work, except the muscle or the slightest change of introduction of scores of bills, These bills relate to most all subjects and are perhaps the most sin gular ever passed to the clerk of any tegislature.

Tife 'Missourians' came the first of the week and they were a company of celebrated ex-Kentuckians indeed. Notably were ex-Governors Stone, Frances and Crittenden, who made stirring session. The appeal to Kentucky as the mother of Missouri was pathetic. Gov. Beckham was present and made a splendid address. His youthful appearance called forth many compliments from the distinguished ex-governors, who thought he might come to Misson ri at the expiration of his term and still not be too old for a Governor of that great commonwealth.

Many members took advantage of the opportunity to attend the Heward trial, between sessions. The arguments were able on both four hours, as he detailed the man- Journal.

ner and motives of the greatest crime ever committed against this commonwealth. Dramatic indeed were his words, when he held aloft Goebel and asked the jury to wipe away that great stain upon our statehood's flag. Deathlike silence reigned in the audience; strong men wiped the tears from their eyes, and to add to the great, solemnity of the scene sat the prisoner as one who had no concern in the trial, without the move of a countenance, like one with a heart of stone and nerves of steel.

The jury on the following day, which was the second anniversary of thr great crime, rendered a verdict of guilty and for the second time was Jim Howard sentenced for the murder of Wm. Goebel.

We hope next week to be able the calendar for passage.

With best wishes to the PRESS and its many readers,

The crown princess is the daughter of the late duke of Edinburgh, and is, of course, a princess of Saxe-Coburg and Gotha. She was educated with the greatest care, for the duchess of Edinburgh believed in a real higher education for her daugh-

But book knowledge cannot make the Roumanian prince forget his sweetheart of humbler birth. His aunt, the famous "Carmen Sylva," took a deep interest in the love affair of the young nephew. There was a pretty lady-in-waiting, Mlle. Helene Vacaresco, whom the prince loved most devotedly, and his affections were reciprocated. The king objected to such a match and forbade the proposed marriage.

The lady-in-waiting left the court and only returned after the crown prince and the daughter of the duke of Edinburgh had been married. It seems, according to report from Roumania court circles, that the prince has fallen in love once more with his old sweetheart, and hence the domestic woes in the royal palace.

BEDLAM OF EARLY ENGLAND

An Institution for Poor and Insane Patients That Was Nothing More Than a "Horrible Prison."

In the twelfth century madmen were taken to St. Bartholomew's in London, and, according to the monkish narratives, many wonderful cures were effected. Up to the sixteenth century monasteries and prisons and ecclesiastical hospitals contained cells into which lunatics were received, but it is probable that they were given little care or treatment, and that the public at large was the chief beneficiary by their incarceration. In 1547 the first lunatic asylum not under ecclesiastical administration was established in England. The priory for the order of St. Mary of Bethlehem, founded by Simon Fitzmary, a sheriff of London, in 1247, in St. Botolph's without Bishopsgate, London, had for a century and a half been used for the reception of luna-

In this year, says the Popular Science Monthly, the institution, for long before called Bedlam, was transferred by Henry VIII. to the authorities of the city, with an order that it be converted into a house for the reception of lunaties. It stood in an out-of-theway place, close to many common sewers, and accommodated but 50 or 60 patients. For very many years, however, the place remained a "horrible prison," says Sibbald, "and not a hospital in any sense of the word. "Up to the year 1770 the patients were exin cages, on payment of a penny, and they are said to have afforded much sport to the visitors, who flocked to see them in numbers estimated at not less than 48,000 annually. Some whose condition was so ameliorated that they were no longer considered dangerous to the public were licensed to go began armilla-an iron ring for the arm about four inches long, which they

About 1675, when the licensing of beggar lunatics was stopped by law, a new Bedlam three times the capacity of the old was erected in Moorfields, the necessity for increased accommodations being greater "as the country came more and more into systematic government and as the wholesale burning of unfortunate persons as wizzards or witches died out."

Story of a Stick,

The reformers who hold up the German army as a pattern to be admired will perhaps allow that even its excellent discipline has some drawbacks. Among the many regulations of the military code is one which forbids anybody to present himself before a recruiting officer with a cane in his hand. Trunk Secures Space

The Grand Trunk Railway Company has completed arrangements for an extensive exhibition in connection with the second annual Sportsmen's Show to be held in Chicago from February 3 until February 22. The Show is being held in the Coliseum, a large building admirably suited for the purpose. The exposition will prebably be the innest that has ever taken place in America, excelling even that held in Philadelphia during last December. The Grand Trunk exhibit will include the collection of large photographs of scenes throughout the summer resort districts situated on its line, including the Muskoka Lakes, Lake of Bays, Magnetawan River, 30,000 Islands of the Georgian Bay, Kawartha Lakes, and Lakes Simese and Couchiching, as well as views on the Portland division, combining land and water scapes, scenes in the White Mountains, and surf bathing scenes taken on the Maine sea coast. The Grand Trunk Railway Company has Maine sea coast.

The space to be occupied by the Grand Trunk will be about 4,000 square feet, and will be one of the most attractive and most interesting exhibits at the show. The Grand Trank has expended thousands of dollars in bringing before the people of the United States and foreign countries the beauties of the Canadian districts. In the districts embraced in what is known as "the Highlands of Ontario," nearly 30,000 tourists were carried during the summer months, the majority of whom were from the United States. These districts have become so popular that each year finds the hotel accommodation increasing and modern and up-to-date structures are being erected to accommodate the ever increasing travel that is being brought

FARMER AND PLANTER. ABOUT LATE IRISH POTATOES.

The Advantages of the Tubers as Southern Farm Crop Are Not to Be Overestimated.

The many and great advantages of he late Irish potato crop south can hardly be over-estimated. In the first place potatoes dug in November will keep perfectly all winter in barrels or boxes in a closed house. The temperature may go down to freezing, but if the barrels are covered there will be little if any danger of injury. In fact Irish potatoes need to be kept cool. We have kept them perfectly piled up under a shed and covered with only about one foot of pine straw.

This wonderful keeping quality of the late Irish potato enables the grower to market them to advantage. There is at least six months in which to dispose of the crop, and the grower can watch the market and place them when the price is good. Another advantage of this crop is that our southern home market throughout the winter is the best in the country for Irish potatoes. The price last winter in Atlanta ranged from 75 cents to $1 per bushel, while at present, owing to the short crop north, they are bringing $1.40 per bushel.

The south is a large consumer of this vegetable, and throughout the winter the supply has come principally from the north and west. The city of Atlanta alone consumes between two and three carloads a day during The manager came before the curtain with | this period. Outside of the market and keeping
