LAMENTABLE OCCURRENCE

Miss Agnes Travis Cuts the Throat of Milton Corley With a Razor and Then Slashes Her Own Throat.

SAD ENDING OF LOVE'S ROMANCE !

(By G. M. Russell.)

Crittenden county seems determined to contribute her full share toward perpetuating the tradition of Kentucky as "The Dark and Bloody Ground." But a few months have elapsed since a young and handsome girl, going quietly to her home after attending divine service a few miles from this city, was cruelly assassinated by a concealed murderer, who to this day walks the earth free and red-handed, doubtless gloating over his hellish work. And now we are called upon to record a tragedy no less sad and unfortunate in its general surroundings and which may blot out the lives of two prominent and promising young people.

Milton Corley is a son of Mr. John Corley, and Miss Agnes Travis is a daughter of Mr. Marcus Travis, all of the Tribune neighborhood and all highly esteemed in that community. In the years gone by Milton and Agnes, or "Aggie," as she is more familiarly termed, were "sweethearts," and they have doubtless sat together, many a time and oft, and woven rose colored dreams of what the future was to bring to them, and of the love that was to abide eternally in their hearts and home. But another story was to be written and it becomes our painful duty to recite it.

Without any intimation of his intention to Miss Aggie, so far as can be ascertained, Milton Corley went to Illinois last week and on Wednesday married Miss Ollie Turner, a resident of that State, returning with his bride to the home of his father. Miss Aggie at the time was attending a neighborhood school, and when this marriage was announced to her by her schoolmates she refused to believe it. Being finally convinced of its truthfulness, she remarked that she would go and get her letters and trinkets from him, and on Friday last, at the noon recess, she left the school house, went home, some two miles distant, and informed her mother that she was going to the store at Tribune. Instead of doing this, however, she secured her father's razor, an old fashioned Wade & Butcher, with very broad, keen blade, and secreting it in her dress started for the home of Milton Corley's father, two miles distant. Six persons were seated at the dinner table when she arrived there, among them Milton Corley and his young bride. Miss Travis did not enter the dining room but called Milton out onto the front porch, where she was standing. They conversed together a few moments, both apparently laboring under some excitement, when finally, as is supposed, Miss Aggie demanded her letters of him, as he entered a room and returning with the bundle of letters was in the act of handing them to her when, quick as a flash of lightning, swift as a gleam of light the deadly weapon was plunged into its victim's throat and immediately turned upon the would-be suicide.

When struck, Corley screamed in agony and his father, rushing out, caught him as he staggered and placed him in a rocking chair in charge of his daughter, and again rushing back to the porch, caught the arms of Miss Aggie, who was still hacking away at her own throat, and disarmed her of the deadly weapon, when she sank to the floor, exhausted and faint from loss of blood.

The alarm quickly spread throughout the neighborhood and soon several hundred people were on the ground. From the station at Tribune a telephone message was flashed over the wires to Marion for medical assistance, and in an hour and a half from the time of the occurrence Dr. T. Atchison, Frazer, of this city, arrived on the scene. The Doctor at once saw that he had serious work on hand. An examination of Corley's wound disclosed the fact that the gash in his throat, 7 inches in length and extending almost from ear to ear, was both wide and deep and had penetrated the windpipe, the blade severing three arteries in its passage. These were attended to at once and skillfully secured. In sewing up the wound, four stitches on each side were necessary.

An examination of the young lady was then made and it was found that her injuries were not so serious as those of Corley, although she was dangerously wounded, the blade of the razor going deep enough to reach and pierce the windpipe. Both parties are able to talk a little, however. As soon as her wounds were dressed, a buggy was procured and the unfortunate young lady removed to the home of her heart-broken parents.

It is too early at this date to predict the final ending of this sad affair. Dr. Frazer thinks that of the two the chances of Miss Agnes for recovery are the best, but that both have a "fighting chance" to live, should no graver complications intervene.

A Press reporter was sent to Tribune Saturday, where the above facts were gathered, and for which he is indebted to Miss Canada and his old friend, Billy Joel Hill, who was promptly on hand a few moments after the blows were struck and held the severed arteries of Corley while Dr. Frazer secured them. Billy Joel is always on hand when his services are needed in time of distress.

Miss Agnes Travis, the unfortunate author of all the trouble, is a beautiful blonde, tall, stately and of commanding appearance. She is 24 years of age, is possessed of many amiable and lovable attributes, and disappointment must surely, for the time being, have unhinged her well poised intelligence.

One of the saddest results of the whole affair is the effect it seems to have had on the mind of her aged father, Uncle Mark Travis, whose intellect has become, for the time, at least, totally unbalanced. He is one of Crittenden's oldest and best citizens, and the universal sympathy of our people has gone out to him in his heavy affliction, as well as to the grief-stricken father and mother of Milton Corley.

During the short stay the Press representative made at Tribune, he conversed with a number of people of the neighborhood, who had gathered in Mr. Canada's store. We found that a repressed feeling of excitement was universal with them, and were told that the entire community were deeply concerned over the lamentable occurrence. But on seeking other information we were given to understand that the best way out of the difficulty was to—JUDGE NOT. And with this charitable and christian invocation we gladly close the chapter.

DOWN IN A COAL MINE.

Tradewater Coal Mine at Sturgis—Steam Drills on the Lucile Mine—Barites at Irma—A New Carbonate of Zinc Property.

MINING NEWS OF THE WEEK.

The underground workings of a coal mine are laid out with as much care and precision as the streets of a city. The entries which are made from both sides of the slope or shaft might be termed the streets, while the air courses, which are a vital part of mining in all soft or bituminous coal veins could be called the avenues. The rooms which are cut out all along the entries, are numbered the same as the houses on city streets. These rooms have floors and roofs, the latter being supported mainly by pillars of coal, which remain intact until the limit of the coal lands are reached, when these pillars are also mined, letting the roof fall, without it is of such a character that it will bear the overburden. This "robbing the pillars," as it is technically termed, commences at the farthest point and is carried on until all of the coal is taken out.

A visit to the Tradewater coal company's mines at Sturgis the other day, in company with the principal owner and manager, Mr. J. L. Frankel, was extremely interesting. This company owns some 6,000 acres of what appears to be a very superior coal. The mining and shipping of an average of 1,000 tons daily is conducted with so little friction and with an automatic regularity so precise that it is really a delight for a mining man to witness.

Without going too largely into details, it is sufficient to say that this property has been opened and worked for eleven years, and of the hundreds of thousands of tons taken out and shipped the area of the number 9 vein has been decreased not quite 90 acres. There still remains to be mined 5,910 acres, or at the same ratio of progress several hundred years of productiveness of this one vein, while below it is the various other veins, numbering from one to eight.

Standing near the great tippie, underneath being the waiting cars receiving their loads of lump and nut and slack coal, with a regularity that nothing seems to interrupt, the work continued with a rhythm that was almost musical.

Seventy-five mine cars, with loads averaging about 3,000 lbs. each are hoisted every hour, one man at the extreme top attending to their discharge in the weigh pan, while in a little office adjacent two weighers, one representing the miners, the other the company, check each other on weight; a metal disc bearing the miner's number is firmly placed on each car in the mine and taken from it by the topman and passed into the weigh room, so that the mining account is rigidly exact, the scale beam being balanced after each load is discharged to the shakers, or great iron screens. From these shakers the coal quickly descends to a chute and falls into the waiting cars. As the coal passes down the incline plane one man's duty is to rake out any pyrite or sulphur that may be visible. Yet the coal is so free from this substance that but a few hundred pounds are daily thrown out.

The machine men in the mine can quite easily make a daily earning of $4.40, receiving 11 cents per ton, the company providing him with a helper, called an "ostler," and also two men to load his coal. Many days he completes his 40 tons and comes to the top by 2 o'clock in the afternoon. The pick men receive 82 cents per ton for mining lump coal, which will average about 52 cents for the run of the mine. Of course the miners under such a system make handsome earnings.

The shaft is 185 feet deep, and every approved appliance is in use for producing pure air and plenty of it, from one end of the working to the other. An air compressor is situated in the ground fully half a mile away from the main battery of boilers, which supplies the steam to run it. It is a model plant in every particular, and Mr. Frankel is proud of it and its product, as indeed he has a right to be.

The Lucile Mining company are installing another steam drill and will begin running a level on their vein at 115 feet this week.

Capt. Robinson, at 45 feet depth on or near the Memphis lands, has uncovered a very handsome body of lead ore and fine grade fluor spar. The lead ore is somewhat of a surprise in that section which has always been noted for its high grade white fluor spar. The Old Hickory strain is, however, uppermost somewhere, for the captain simply insisted that it was there, and finally proved it. It is a handsome showing indeed.

On the nine acres of land bought two years ago from the St. Louis owners by Blue & Nunn, it being a selected portion of the Columbia vein, developments this week are proving that it is one of the richest chutes of lead and zinc ores that this celebrated vein has ever shown. Some surprise was expressed at the time of purchase, owing to the price paid, $300 per acre being then deemed entirely out of line by several of our farmers and merchants. Really $300 per acre for potato raising or wheat growing would be high, but some time in the not distant future zinc and lead lands in this district will bring somewhere near their ore values, which in the case of the "Old Jim" lands would be about $6,500 per acre, and more than that for those nine acres on the Columbia vein.

Major Clement will probably install some hand jigs at the Clement mine and put his lead and zinc ores in shipping form. Everything that nature could do has been done; wood, the highest grade ore and now its up to the Major to do the rest, remembering that "the Lord helps those who help themselves."

The rates of hauling fire clay from the Stevens mine have been reduced from $2 per ton to $1.75. Over 8,000,000 pounds of this fire clay have been delivered to the Western Tube works in Kewanee, Ill., during the past two months or more.

At Blackford, a dozen miles north of Marion, very clean, white china clay, said to be in a large body, was shown the Press by Rev. Conway, whom we are pleased to know will participate in the outcome.

Judge Greer, of Paducah and others, who have a lease on the Wilson lands near Crittenden Springs, have opened an extraordinarily rich vein of zinc and lead ores very near the surface.

Wilson and Dean have reached gravel fluor spar on their 100 acres of land near the Memphis lands. Mr. Dean is celebrating the event in a tour of the State fairs of Kentucky and Illinois.

The Wilson Mining company are making a crosscut in their copper shaft, from the west wall, to determine the extent of their handsome copper bearing rock.

As clean out white barite as one ever sees is the product of Sulphenger's property near Irma. The extent of this body of mineral will soon be determined.

The Keystone Mining company, under the direction of Mr. W. W. Hopewell, has a shaft down 35 ft. At this depth a five foot vein of fluor spar and lead ore has been laid bare.

FROM NORTH DAKOTA.

CUSTAR, N. DAK., Sept. 18, 1903.
EDITOR PRESS: As I have many friends in Crittenden and Livingston counties who have requested me to write them about this country, and the Canadian lands, that I beg of you space in your valuable paper.

I have not yet visited Canada, but will say that North Dakota has very rich soil, mostly prairie, that is, the parts that I have visited. Wheat, oats and barley are the principal crops here.

Wheat will yield this year an average of 25 to 30 bushels an acre, oats 50 to 60 bushels, barley is yielding as high as 42 bushels per acre; rye is yielding about the same as wheat; speltz is about the same as barley.

There is some corn grown here, but on account of the early frosts it don't mature well.

There is some land in this state yet to homestead, mostly in the western part. Good land sells here from $13 to $25 per acre.

This is a most beautiful country in summer and wages are good. Threshers are paying from $2 to $2.25 per day and board, I am getting $75 per month, cooking for a threshing crew.

Work will last here till the first of November. It generally lasts about two months, but this year it will extend two months and a half.

We have had so much rain that there has not been much threshing done, and there has been one snow storm, but from all indications we are going to have nice weather from now on.

Will say for the benefit of some of my friends who are thinking of coming to this country that the best route to come is by way of St. Louis, thence over the Mississippi river to St. Paul. The scenery is most beautiful on the river and it is a nice trip. But it would not pay any one from my neighborhood to come at this late date.

Well, as my letter is growing somewhat lengthy, will close for this time. Yours truly,
Mark P. Malcolm.

Gained 40 Pounds in 30 Days.

For several months our younger brother had been troubled with indigestion. He tried several remedies but got no benefit from them. We purchased some of Chamberlain's Stomach and Liver Tablets and he commenced taking them inside of thirty days he had gained forty pounds in flesh. He is now fully recovered. We have a good one on the tablets.—Holly Bros., Merchants, Long Branch, Mo. For sale by Woods & Orme.

GEORGIA'S MARBLE BELT.

As a marble producing State, Georgia may rival Vermont. The marble belt is about 60 miles in length extending from a southerly direction from the North Carolina line through Pickens county. The supply is practically inexhaustible, as the depth of the deposit in many places is over one hundred feet. Both white and colored varieties are found. The characteristics of the Georgia marbles are purity of chemical composition, uniform texture and peculiar crystalline structure, rendering it remarkably durable because of its slow absorption of water.

DON'T WANT A TRIAL.

Allison and Riley, the Louisville Herald libellers, who stand indicted in the Livingston circuit court, appeared in court last week and gave bond for their appearance.

While pleading innocence through their lying sheet they did not want a trial at this term of court. Commonwealth's Attorney, John L. Grayot, announced that the Commonwealth was ready for trial but the defendants, through their attorney, asked for time and the case was set for the December term.

We are surprised that the gentlemen, who claim they were indicted for political purposes, did not take advantage of the opportunity for immediate vindication. Strange it is indeed.

The fact is, the defendants well know they have willfully libeled McChesney, and that when they are tried they will have to pay the penalty. Therefore they do not want a trial and the facts put before the people before the presidential election. That they asked for a continuance of the case is an admission of this fact.—Banner.

Robbed the Grave.

A startling incident is narrated by John Oliver of Philadelphia, as follows: "I was in an awful condition. My skin was almost yellow, eyes sunken, tongue coated, pain continually in back and sides, no appetite, growing weaker day by day. Three physicians had given me up. Then I was advised to use Electric Bitters; to my great joy, the first bottle made a decided improvement. I continued their use for three weeks, and am now a well man. I know they robbed the grave of another victim." No one should fail to try them. Only 50 cents, guaranteed at Woods & Orme drugstore.

The Printer Most Important.

Men may write and write, and men may think and think, but without the printer their thoughts would be of little value to the world. Among all the trades there is none more honorable or important than that of the printer—the man who edges up the metallic messengers of thought with nimble fingers, or who manipulates with dextrous hand the keyboard of that marvelous invention which continually excites wonder and admiration, the linotype—that monument to Otto Mergenthaler's genius, which the wisest man should be proud to claim. The composing and press rooms of a great modern daily newspaper never cease to be impressive to the thoughtful man, even though his days and nights may be spent therein. The world can not do without the printer.—Washington Post.

CHURCH DEDICATION.

Around the words, "He is Mindful of Man," Dr. Williams, of Memphis, weaved a masterly discourse on Sunday, the twentieth inst., at Sturgis. The sermon preceded the beautiful formula used in the dedication of the handsomely decorated Cumberland Presbyterian church in that city.

The church was filled to overflowing, chairs being placed in the aisles and many standing in the pews and on the steps. The reverend gentleman at the conclusion of the sermon proceeded in rather a happy way to raise the $1300 necessary to free the building from all debt. It was a foregone conclusion that he would succeed or that the congregation would still be in their seats. Luckily Mrs. Mary Ida Pierson, on behalf of the Ladies Guild, announced the first offering of $100. This was quickly followed by the Elders of the church, some 8 or 10 in number, paying in $50 each. In the $25 list some one from Merion whose name we did not catch, took the initiative, and before two o'clock had been reached the church was formally dedicated.

The auditorium is a handsome one, frescoed in delicate tints harmonizing with the rich stained glass memorial windows, of which there are several, and was made more attractive by beautiful flowers and potted plants.

A Great Sensation.

There was a big sensation in Louisville, Ind., when W. H. Brown of that place, who was expected to die, had his life saved by Dr. King's New Discovery for Consumption. He writes: "I endured insufferable agonies from Asthma but your New Discovery gave me immediate relief and soon thereafter effected a complete cure. Similar cures of Consumption, Pneumonia, Bronchitis and Grip are numerous. It's the peerless remedy for all throat and lung troubles. Price 50c and $1.00. Guaranteed by Woods & Orme druggists. Trial bottles free."

MORE WORK FOR GRAYOT.

The Livingston county grand jury, which adjourned Saturday, after two weeks work, certainly got a "bump" on itself. Perhaps the largest number of indictments ever returned by a grand jury in the county—126 in number—is the result of their labors.

Seventy of the above named are for selling liquor in violation of the local option law, and eleven for "totin' pistols; nine for breach of peace and five for gambling. The other indictments are for various crimes against the peace and dignity of the commonwealth.

The jury is to be congratulated on its splendid work.—Banner.

H. M. Ross, suit for $600 damages, judgment for $130.—Livingston Banner.

THE DUTY OF PARENTS.

Duty to children is not summed up in feeding, clothing and sending to a better or worse—at present usually worse—school. The parents' duty begins long before. It is as necessary that we should live healthfully and happily before our children are born, as that we should clothe them afterwards. Only by being in the best condition ourselves can we give the proper heritage to a child. To bring a being into the world, and handicap him by your own follies and negligence is a poor trick; and yet it is just the trick that nine tenths of the parents play on their off spring. Treat your child at least as well as you would treat a fellow man, and be thoughtful of its future. Then, having once given him the good heritage, see to it that his home life shall be such that his mental and moral nature may be rightly developed. Sick or weakly children will in their turn produce weaklings; halting, cowardly natures will have children who are dwarfed in the same way, and instead of the race being helped by these, its general average will be lowered. Consider, then, your duty to your children through yourself. Live in youth and manhood the sanest, cheerfulness and fullest life, and make your home reflect these virtues. So shall your children be in truth the gift of God, and you can say with the Psalmist, "Happy is the man that hath his quiver full of them"—October Woman's Home Companion.

SELF-CONFIDENCE.

Have confidence in yourself; do not allow yourself for a moment to doubt your ability. Take whatever befalls you as a matter of course, intended, in some way, to benefit you. The man who accomplishes is the man who asserts, "I can and I will," and who says it from his heart and means every letter of it. As a man "thinketh in his heart so he is," and his own valuation of his abilities will be the measure of his greatness.

As a stream can not rise above its fountainhead, so one can not rise above his own faith and ability. A self reliant man feels that he is born to conquer fate, and he takes hold with the firm conviction that he can do the work better than any one else under the sun, and he accomplishes the hardest tasks while the whiner is crying, "I can't." People call him lucky, but plucky is the better word, as all his success is due to his firm stand in the fight. The plucky man does not recognize the word defeat as meaning failure; if he fails he gets up and goes at it again, and every disaster leaves him so much further up the hill, if he heads the right way.

Few Pardons Issued by Governor Beckham.

Governor Beckham has been criticised by partisan newspapers for alleged abuse of the pardoning power. They had intended making their fight against him on this ground.

However when the official figures showing the number of pardons issued by Governor Beckham and the number issued by his predecessors, William O. Bradley and John Young Brown, were announced, the harangues of these newspapers were shown to be absolutely false.

In order that the people of Kentucky may know the facts, the following summary is submitted showing that Brown pardoned 478; Bradley, 428; and Beckham only 225.

Learn to Help Yourself.

It is the man who sits down and waits for help who has a close acquaintance with failure, for every one has enough to do to fight his own battles. Don't wait for some friend to start you. Start yourself. Lean on your own strength; ask no favors, and don't shirk the hard things. How much of the work do you suppose is necessary for fitting your strength to your work? Much of it is meant for discipline; can you not accept it as such? Do not whine if reverses come; do not expect disappointment, but if it comes, meet it like a man, with a sturdy strength that defies it. Face the fact that you are "down on your luck," sometimes, but also face the fact that you are not going to stay down. Make up your mind to the fact that everything worth having must be paid for, in some kind of coin, but see that "the game is worth the candle" before you begin it, and having begun it, play to win.

A BRIDAL DRESS-BOX.

One of the most delightful and suggestive things for a wedding present I have seen for a long time is a large, white, enameled box capable of holding the bridal dress. It is lined with white satin, delicately perfumed, and it is ornamented on the outside with the bride's initials in silver, the look being made of the same metal and the straps being of white leather. Altogether it is as bridal a looking article as the heart of woman could desire, and the snowy whiteness gives a decided touch of that delicacy which is inseparable from garments intended to be worn on what should, almost of necessity, be the greatest day in the life of a woman.

THE AUTUMN FASHIONS.

Fashions were never before so picturesque and charming. A revival of the Louis period is the color scheme of pale yellow or straw color with pale blue and pink. In the fashioning of evening toilettes this idea may be charmingly carried out. Pure white, it is said, will be less popular than it has been, but the off-color whites, mushroom and oyster, will have great vogue, while in colors, brown, ranging from a dark tone to lightest fawn, will be especially in evidence. Quite the newest fancy is brown as the relief note in place of the long-used black. Among the materials zibelines are the most prominent shown, and they are, if anything, more furry than ever. The solid color and the two-toned effects are the choice of the woman of conservative taste, though plaids and stripes are both fashionable. In trimmings there are developments of the dangling ornaments, fringes, button appliques and embroideries that bear an air of soft and pleasing touch and offer innumerable decorative possibilities. Cloth is used as a trimming for all the sheer fabrics. Perforated cloth with the perforated designs, but-embroidered a la the fashion of the popular broderie Anglaise, is another of the season's novelties that offers variety in trimming. Cape collars of embroidered batiste and lace that were so marked a feature of the Summer gown and coat will be replaced with those of panne in a delicate shade of white, ornamented with inset lace motifs or embroidery. The short skirt is more popular than ever, and, indeed, it is so generally adopted for morning wear that a skirt long enough to be held up is conspicuous. The sleeves of the shirt-waist pure and simple show no variation in style from year to year; fullness may accumulate at the top of bodice sleeves, but the shirt sleeve is a shirt sleeve always.—The Delineator.

NEVER DID.

The editor of an exchange being asked if he ever saw a bald-headed woman, replied in the following vein. "No, we never did; nor did we ever see a woman waltzing around town in her shirt sleeves with a cigar in her teeth, running in ever saloon she saw. We have never seen a woman go fishing with a bottle in her pocket, sit on the damp ground all day and go home drunk at night. Nor have we ever seen a woman yank off her coat and say she could lick any man in town. God bless her, she's not built that way."

UNSETTLED.

"Can you tell me what sort of weather we may expect next month?" wrote a subscriber to the editor of a country paper, and the editor replied as follows: "It is my belief that the weather next month will be very much like your subscription." The inquirer wondered for an hour what the editor was driving at, when he happened to think of the word "unsettled." He sent in the required amount the next day.—Herald and Presbyter.

Constitutional Amendment.

In order to place Kentucky on an equal footing with neighboring States in regard to municipal taxation, the last legislature very properly enacted a law amending the State Constitution, so as to allow towns and cities to adopt their own methods of taxation for municipal purposes.

To become operative, the Amendment must be ratified by a majority of the votes cast for or against it at the November election.

The Amendment does not change in the least the existing methods of taxation for State and County purposes, and therefore can not affect, except beneficially, the country districts.

Nearly every State in the Union has seen the wisdom of, and enacted, such a law, and Kentucky is badly handicapped by the failure of its law-makers to so far follow suit.

The only reason for its failure to become a law, and thus place Kentucky on an equality with other States, is a lack of knowledge of its meaning, and no citizen of the State can afford to ignore its importance.

The regular ballot to be used at the November will have a place for voting for or against the Amendment.

In casting your vote, be sure and vote for the Amendment.

If the Amendment fails to carry it will be five years before it can be voted on again.

You can do no better work for your State than by voting, and getting your friends to vote, for the Amendment.

CAPABLE.

A very jaunty applicant for the position of stenographer and type writer in the office of a gentleman in public life, was told that it would be necessary for her to be a good speller and to have a thorough knowledge of grammar. She gave proof of her entire efficiency by saying: "Well, I have always known how to spell, and when it comes to grammar I don't take no back seat for nobody, I don't."

Every Merchant

Thinks when he gets his opening stock of New Goods that never before has he shown so large, so pretty or so cheap a line, and that his competitors are "not in it" with him at all. So we are all pardonable for claiming each season to have the "best, prettiest and cheapest stock ever shown in the history of the town." For really most of us are honest in making these claims. Now we do not pretend to know what others are showing, BUT WE DO KNOW that the fall and winter stock that we are now showing pleases us more than any we have ever shown and we've been in the business many years longer than any other store in Crittenden county, and of course are not so easily pleased. We have worked very hard to buy the right kind of goods at the lowest possible price, and we think we have succeeded to a greater extent in doing this, this season, than ever before.

Owing to the fact that so many mills are closed down desirable goods of all kinds are very scarce. But we have the desirable kind—the scarce kind—and we own them at figures so low that we never felt so sure of your business if you'll do yourself the justice to see our goods before you buy.

We are Ready to Submit the Case to You!

Your interest demands that you hear the evidence, see our goods, get prices before you decide, and then if your judgment tells you that elsewhere you can do better we shall not complain.

The Right Kind of Dress Goods.
The Right Kind of Waist Goods.
Right Kind of Trimmings.

A Stock of Clothing so large, so good and so cheap that if you'll look, you'll buy and be glad you did.

M. P. Malloy, the banker at Edinville, accompanied by his wife, will attend conference here this week. Mr. Malloy is one of the pillars of the church at his place.

The PRESS comes to the front again this week with 2,500 copies, one for each visitor, besides plenty for our regular list. Any visitor who fails to get one through the mail will be supplied by calling at the PRESS office.

The PRESS is proud of its country correspondents, and has at present the best corps of them in the State. We sometimes are crowded for space when the items come in late and lay them over, but it's always unavoidable when that's done. With their help we cover the field and we reach the people.

Set the example. Any kind of action is better than none at all. The fellow who is content to sit around and do nothing, gets nothing for you, but they are sure to grow indolent and careless if they see you are unmindful of the interests in your charge and not attending to your part of the business. If you want your assistants to hustle and be "up and doing," ever on the alert for your best interests, you must set the example by keeping up with your business.

Men suffer for want of knowledge. No one realizes it more than a man who in early life was denied the advantages of educational facilities. If a man realizes the advantages of every progressive thought that comes to him every moment of his life and will try to act on the best that is within and around him he will not suffer losses, and the consequence of mistakes many make in business. Our mistakes are due to the fact that we do not understand ourselves, in that we fail to act out the better suggestions that present themselves to us. We are very apt to grow lazy and refuse to work out the thoughts that tell us how to acquire the knowledge we need.

If you who read this are one of these fellows, suffering on account of your lack of knowledge, try to revive your energy and know that these mistakes you are guilty of are the result of your laziness, in that you do not work out the progressive thought that knocks at the door of your mind.

Work well done broadens the mind, increases the abilities for higher work, strengthens the character and creates an opportunity for more work, and consequent elevation in all the walks of life.

The Latchstring on the Outside.

Marion is a willing captive this week of the gentlemen who control the destinies of the M. E. Church South in this district, and a most intelligent body it is. They are here as the guests of the city, and by invitation, and the PRESS extends its hearty greeting and assures them all that the "latchstring is on the outside."

RALLY AT SALEM.

Saturday was a red letter day for the Democrats of Livingston and Crittenden counties. Hon. J. F. Gordon addressed the voters at Salem; also Hon. J. K. Hendricks and Hon. John L. Grayot. About 1000 people were present. The speaking was in a grove and was much enjoyed by all present. The "grand old State of Livingston" is awake and up and doing, and promises the biggest democratic majority in her history, as one of her favorite sons is a candidate for Representative. T. Everett Butler is a Salem boy. His mother was a Loyd, of this county, and no better people live within the confines of the either county than the Butlers and the Loyds, and Everett is worthy of his family, and is making his mark in the world. The Salem rally will assist him and the entire ticket.

METHODIST CONFERENCE

Holds First Session at Cumberland Presbyterian Church Yesterday.

MAYOR BLUE'S WELCOME ADDRESS!

The Louisville district conference convened here yesterday and is presided over by Bishop Hendrix. There is a full representation of ministers here and all appear prosperous and happy. The "Historical" meeting at the M. E. church Tuesday night was largely attended and was very interesting. The address of welcome by Mayor J. W. Blue, was delivered at the C. P. church Wednesday morning, in his most felicitous style. He said:

MR. PRESIDENT AND BRETHREN: As the representative of the citizens of Marion, I have the pleasure of welcoming you to our midst. It is always a pleasure to welcome an invited guest, whose coming has been looked for with pleasant anticipation. It is especially pleasant in this instance, for we feel and believe that God attends your coming, and that He will be with you to bless our town, in a special way by His presence.

When we read of the pilgrim fathers, how they left homes, loved ones, and their native land to come to an unknown country, and then look upon the magnificent empire founded by them, we are filled with admiration of their courage and faith; and, as we respect those grand old pioneers who opened the way into the wilderness, and built magnificent cities and cultivated fields where savages and wild beasts had been accustomed to roam, and established government and order out of chaos, how much should we reverence you, the ministers of God who, leaving worldly pleasures and comforts behind, go forth into the wilderness of sin to establish God's kingdom and implant the principles of love and charity in the hearts where Satan reigned and that were filled with evil passion. Such men are pioneers indeed, for it takes a stronger courage and a more living faith for one deliberately to lay aside worldly ambitions and the hope of wealth and the comforts and pleasures it can buy to take up the toils, privations and disappointments of an itinerant minister's life. They are worthy, of the greatest honor and respect and as such we welcome you.

We feel greatly honored that your Conference should have chosen our little town for its meeting this year, the 200th anniversary of the birth of John Wesley, the founder of Methodism, whose preaching stirred up a revival of religion that has not ended to this day, and from the effects of which has doubtless sprung the great forward movement in all the Protestant churches for the evangelization of the world.

The Methodist church founded by him in the old Foundry building in 1743 has, in 160 years, grown from a weak and tottering infant to a strong and aggressive man, and today more than ten millions of its followers worship in magnificent tabernacles, and are wielding a greater influence f good and the advancement of God's cause than we can conceive. Your branch of this church, the Methodist Episcopal Church, South, organized in Louisville, Ky., in 1845, at a conference with only 98 members present, has today 1,500,000 members, sending its itinerant ministers over the whole southern half of our United States, building colleges for the education of the people, charitable institutions for the aid of the needy and infirm of every name, and sending its missionaries to every heathen country. It has not hid its light under a bushel, but has, indeed, set its light upon a hill, that the dark places may be lighted.

We feel that we are blessed by having you with us, and bid you a hearty welcome, and hope that you may go away feeling that you have done us good, and that when you go, you will not "shake the dust of our city from your feet," but that you may leave your benedictions upon us, and bear with you pleasant recollections of your visit.

Bishop Hendrix' reply to the Mayor's address was feelingly delivered and in most appropriate language. He was in fine humor and his remarks were most happy. As a presiding officer one has only to see him in the chair to appreciate his ability.

The next order of business was the election of a Secretary, J. J. Taggart being chosen, with J. S. Chandler 1st assistant; J. L. Kilgore 2d and F. E. Lewis 3d.

The hours of morning meeting agreed upon are 8:30; adjourn 12 sharp each day.

The report of Treasurers and Presiding Elders was next called for and the conference got down to work at once, and in a most business like way.

The boards and committees places of meeting are: Epworth League, Blue & Nunn's office; Statistics, C. P. church; Joint Board of Finance, C. P. church; Church Extension, Baptist church; Sunday School, Moore & Moore's office; American Bible Society Board, J. G. Rochester's office; Board of Missions, Presbyterian church; Conference Relation Committee, Presbyterian church; Committee on Books and Periodicals, Court House; Committee on Orphans Home, Jury room court house; Temperance, Christian church; District Conference Record, A. C. Moore's office; Committee on Sabbath Observance, James & James office; Preachers Aid Society, Over Haynes drug store; Education Board, J. B. Paris' office; Board of Education, H. A. Haynes office in court house.

A Farewell Party.

Misses Margaret and Frances Woods were given a farewell party for their little friends last Wednesday, at the residence of the grandfather, Mr. D. Woods, on Bellville street. The occasion was one of much pleasure to all the juveniles who were fortunate enough to be present.

"OLLIE" AND "CREPS"

Speak to Overflowing Houses in the Mountains.

Hazel Green, Ky., Sept. 25.—The second mountain tour of Governor Beckham and Congressman James is proving to be as great a triumph as their first tour. That was in the lower end of the Eleventh district, while this is in the Tenth, which, while Democratic is thinly feathered, but at every appearance of the Governor and his widely known speaking companion the population of each little town is increased to four or five times its original size. The outpourings and the enthusiasm indicate a full Democratic vote, and there is no doubt but the Democrats are thoroughly united.

AN UNFORTUNATE TRIP.

Fifteen young people in a four horse wagon started from Farmerville, Caldwell county to Cave-in-Rock, Ill., last Saturday afternoon on a jaunt. It is whispered that there were some eloping couples in the crowd, but this may be only a presumption. All went well until near Dan Green's, six miles north of Marion, on the Fords Ferry road. Here the wagon was upset, and every member of the party more or less seriously hurt except two. This was at 11 o'clock Saturday night. Dr. T. A. Frazer of this city was hastily summoned; also Dr. W. T. Daugherty. They found on arrival at the scene of the accident, that Miss Maud McNeely's arm was broken and her face and head badly bruised; Mrs. Jennie Deboe's arm was broken, Mrs. Dora Vanhooser, injured in back and hip, Mrs. Laura Deboe badly sprained; the others who were injured slightly were Misses Anna and Lola Deboe, Edna and Annie McChesney, R. C. McNeely, E. M. and H. Deboe, Leslie McChesney, Herbert and Gid Morse, and Fred Keney. The young people were seen to pass through here on their return home Sunday afternoon and all of the injured were "fixed up" all right, and though slightly disfigured were still in the ring, apparently enjoying themselves.

A New Club for the Ladies.

Ten ladies of Marion have formed a bowling club and will give exhibitions of their prowess in knocking out the "men" at some early date, in the bowling alley. The members are named below, and all of them have proven their ability at knocking the men out in every other contest, and we know they will all prove star winners in this new field:

Mrs. C. S. Nunn,
Mrs. Tom Clifton,
Mrs. Robert Haynes,
Miss Evalyn Shelly,
Mrs. H. H. Sayre,
Miss Kitty Gray,
Miss Leaffa Wilborn,
Mrs. John W. Wilson,
Miss Ruby James,
Miss Della Barnes.

STRAY NOTICE.

Visited by Grand Recorder, J. G. Walker.

Marion Lodge, No. 60, A. O. U. W., held a meeting Tuesday night at their lodge room in honor of their distinguished visitor, J. G. Walker of Louisville, Grand Recorder of the Grand Lodge of Kentucky.

The Lodge here is composed of some 75 of our best citizens, most of whom were present at this meeting. Mr. Walker delivered an interesting and pleasing address, explaining the advantages of the new rates, soon to go into effect.

Mr. Walker is a courteous and pleasant gentleman and has created a very favorable impression here. He is attending the conference and is Treasurer of the committee on Church Extension.

A Most Enjoyable Exercise.

Bowling parties are quite the fad in Marion and are a most healthful exercise.

Last Friday afternoon a fashionable party of young folks met and contested for the championship in the popular "alley." Three present on one side were Mrs. H. H. Sayre, Miss Kitty Gray, Miss Leaffa Wilborn and Mrs. John W. Wilson. Scores 174, 167, 205.

On the opposing side, Miss Ruby James, Miss Della Barnes, Mrs. C. S. Nunn and Miss Ruth Thomas. The scores were 177, 189, 206.

The best score was by Mrs. Sayre, 69, and Miss Leaffa Wilborn with a score of 61, carried off 2d 2d honors.

Mrs. Welford White and little daughter, Graham, of Helena, Ark., left Tuesday for her home, after spending the heated term with her parents here. Bebout is the well known merchant at Sheridan. The Press is always glad to hear of the boys away from home succeeding in any thing.

The many friends of Miss Bena Hill will be glad to know that the Green River Navigation company who owned the boat, reimbursed her in part for her effects which were lost or damaged in a steamboat disaster last summer on Green River when the boat sank, at which time she lost all her baggage and came near losing her life. Miss Hill is a most admirable young lady and is to be commended for her industry and thrift. She is always in demand where known in the millinery establishments—usually getting the choice places. Her many bereavements have been turned into blessings by her undaunted will power for which she should be highly appreciated.

Roy Daniels was arrested at Princeton and brought back to Marion last Friday charged with passing a worthless check on C. J. Haury, sr. The check was forged it is alleged, being signed by some one for an uncle of Daniels. Daniels confessed after being arrested and implicated Cecil Young and John Burget, two Marion young men. Young is in Indiana, but Burget was arrested and put in jail with Roy Daniel. The amount obtained on the check was twenty dollars. The young men are in a serious predicament if the case is as reported. Daniel was committed to jail Friday. Burget employed a guard and under his surveillance was out until noon Saturday when failing to give bond he also was locked up. The trials are set for next Tuesday.

Our distinguished guest, Bishop E. R. Hendrix and his cabinet who are the high dignitaries of the M. E. church are here with all the ministers who could attend belonging to this conference. He is being entertained by Mr. L. H. James and family on corner College street and Wilson avenue. The Louisville Times says of him: "Bishop Hendrix is well known to the preachers of the conference, having often presided over its sessions. His appointments in the past have given general satisfaction, and he is recognized as one of the ablest bishops in his church. Despite this fact, the ministers will, as usual, be on the quiver until the appointments are read and they know positively where they will be located for the next twelve months. There is no such thing as resisting Episcopal authority in the economy of the Methodist church, and once an appointment is made the preacher must accept, no matter what trouble and disappointment it may occasion him."

MODES OF THE MOMENT.

Revival of High Collars—The New Evening Dresses.

Collars are again worn high and are even boned at the back and sides. It is pleasing to see this neatness at the neck after the floppiness with which we have put up so long.

The new evening dresses are very gorgeous. Some old Louis brocades are beautiful, and jetted and pailletted robes will again be much worn. Gold and silver tissue, too, will form the foundation of many a beautiful empire frock, while accordion plaiting will be a feature of young girls' frocks. It is also effectively used in many tea gowns.

Some of the new little coats show the most fascinating small basques. There is no doubt that the basque is revived again, and very charming specimens of soft crinkled suede belts are seen. These are particularly effective in brown.

Many smart frocks for afternoon and evening wear are trimmed with small ruchings laid in large scroll designs. These are a little hard unless softened by lace entreeux.

As a covering for evening or against high winds when driving the pelisse or long loose sack coat will be popular, together with collars of lace, outlined with raveled colored taffeta ruchings, which will figure as wraps for dining at favorite open air restaurants or the casino.

The cut shows a costume of black lustrous veiling over black taffeta. It has a plaited hanging jacket and plaited sleeves.

USEFUL REMNANTS.

Short Lengths of Velvet, Silk and Serge Make Pretty Costumes.

Remnants of white serge or palest fawn and biscuit cloth are useful for little wraps reaching to the hips, and if the quantity is not too ample false stole fronts or wide revers and simulated undersleeves will supply the defciency in a picturesque fashion. An example of this is a dainty sack coat made from two yards of double width biscuit cloth and one and a half yards of duchess satin. Four yards of taffeta in deep ivory tint formed the lining.

Tucked lisse chiffon and silk can be used in many ways and cut in three parts will cover a silk or satin bodice lining without ripping the seams. This is especially true of an evening bodice with transparent sleeves.

Short lengths of velvet in emerald green, rose, tangerine, orchid pink and other bright and fashionable colorings are useful for belts, stocks, choux and tabs.

Remnants of chiffon are most useful for hair and collar rosettes. White tulle silk makes a dainty, dressy gown for a young girl, and it can be cleaned over and over again.

The cut shows a dinner toilet of white mousseline de sole trimmed with tiny embroidered frills over lace.

KINGBIRD AND ORIOLE.

The Difference in the Birds Shown by Their Nest Building.

The difference in the nature of the kingbird and oriole is strikingly exhibited in the style of their nests. The kingbird hasn't a particle of imagination, not an atom of the artistic. His shape, dress and voice declare it. He is hard headed, straightforward and serious, somewhat overbearing, perhaps, and testy, but businesslike and refined in all his tastes. His nest is himself over again—strong, plain, adequate, but, like its builder, refined. Contrast the oriole's. Romance, poetry and that indescribable touch—the light, easy, negligent touch of the artist—in every line of it! Why, the thing was actually woven of new mown hay—as if one should build his house of sandalwood—with all the scent of the hay field about it. I put my nose near and took a deep, delicious breath. The birds had selected and cut the grass themselves and worked it in while green. Some of it was still uncured, still soft and sweet with sap. One side, exposed to the sun through a leaf rift, had gone a golden yellow, but the other side, deeply shaded the day through, was yet green and making more slowly under the leaves. And this nest was woven, not built up like the kingbird's; it was hung, not saddled upon the limb, suspended from the slenderest of forks so that every little breeze would rock it. And so loosely woven, so deftly, slightly tied!—National Magazine.

Women on the Stage.

An attempt was made at Blackfriars theater in 1629 to introduce French women on the stage, but without success, and the appearance of Mrs. Coleman in Davenant's "Siege of Rhodes" in 1636 was of a private character.

On Dec. 8, 1690, an actress, whose name in no' certainly known, took the part of Desdemona at Killigrew's theater in Vere street, when a "prologue to introduce the first woman" was written by Jordan.

Letters patent were granted by Charles II., dated Jan. 15, 1692, to Sir William Davenant, and these recited that whereas women's parts had formerly been taken by men, to remedy this abuse it was now "permitted and leave given" that all women's parts then, and for the time to come, should be performed by women.

In Pepys' Diary, under date of Jan. 3, 1690, we find the record, "To the theater, where was acted 'Beggars' Dash,' it being well done, and here the first time that ever I saw women come upon the stage."—London Standard.

Blinking Eyes.

If you find yourself blinking your eyes rapidly without any cause stop the habit at once or it will grow into an incurable habit that will make your eyesight fail early in life. Natural blinking is necessary to clear and moisten the eye. The average number of natural blinks is about twenty per minute. But a nervous blinker will wink 100 times in a minute. The result of this will be an excessive development of the eyelid muscles. It also involves a counter irritation, which acts on the optic nerve and renders the sight daily more weak and irritable. Once contract this habit and you will find you cannot bear a strong light or read small types, and the eyes will get worse and worse. The symptoms may indicate a need of spectacles.

How Long Mosquitoes Live.

It is not known just how long mosquitoes can live, but their average life is much longer than is ordinarily supposed. Thousands of them live through winter, hibernating or asleep in dark places in barns or house cellars. In sparsely settled localities, where they cannot find such places for shelter, they live through the winter in hollow trees, in caves and holes under upturned trees, and even though the temperature may fall far below freezing they are not winter killed, but on the approach of warm weather become active again. Mosquitoes are frequently seen flying about in the woods before the snow has wholly left the ground.—William Lyman Underwood in Popular Science Monthly.

Turned the Tables.

An Irishman was called on to give evidence in a shooting affray. "Did you see the shot fired?" asked the magistrate.

"No," replied the witness, "but I heard it."

Magistrate (sharply)—That is not satisfactory. Go down.

As the Irishman turned his back he commenced to laugh, but was rebuked by the magistrate, who added that it was contempt of court.

Pat—Did you see me laugh? Magistrate—No. I heard you. Pat—That's not satisfactory. And the court laughed.

Savage Revenge of a Gypsy Band.

A young Hungarian gypsy who had betrayed his party to the authorities after a robbery begged the magistrates at Magyar Egres for protection, as his companions threatened to kill him. The man was given shelter, but the room was found empty on the following day.

Eventually his body was discovered in a field. The eyes had been burned out, the tongue excised and the man hanged by the feet on two acacia trees. The body had been cloven in two.

Well Connected.

Visitor—I hear I must congratulate you on the engagement of your son. What an extremely nice looking girl she is!

Mrs. Nolonger Brown—Yes, and so well connected too. In fact, I've been told that her ancestors were relations of the Spanish armada.

FARM GARDEN

FRUIT EVAPORATION.

A Cheap, Simply Built Homemade Drier For Apples Only.

All over the country are idle and abandoned fruit evaporators. Their present condition is due to the fact that the original outlay of cash was so large that dividends were not equal to first expectations.

I will illustrate the construction of a drier built in Newago county, Mich., for the evaporation of apples only. says an American Agriculturist correspondent. Though unattractive in appearance, yet in its cheap and plain construction lies its success. The first figure shows simply the frame without flooring or siding.

Choose a site where the ground is dry and high. Build a stone or brick wall just high enough to raise the sill off the ground. The building is 18 by 18 feet on the ground, and the posts are fourteen feet high. Thus fourteen boards will reach from sill to plate without cutting. The floor above is ten feet from the sill. A joist 2 by 6 can be used, but must be rather close together, as the floor to be laid on this is but one inch square strips. This is laid so as to allow for circles of about one-eighth inch, for on these strips the fruit is to be dried.

The lower room is latticed and plastered on four sides, while the ceiling is left so that heat may go into the chamber and out at the ventilators in the peak of the roof. No floor is needed. The ground, being fireproof, serves the purpose. On three sides are ventilators just above the sills. These are 8 by 24 inches and are for the purpose of supplying air from the outside.

The furnace must be very heavy and of cast iron, as the heat required is usually very great. Place the furnace in the center of the lower room and secure one that has two smoke flues. Place thereon two pipes and extend the same upward about eight feet, where they should be carried toward the front of the building and around the entire room and far enough from the joist above to insure it against fire. Possibly twenty inches would be about right. These pipes can be suspended from the joist by wires, thus making all secure. On the back side a T is supplied that connects the two ends of pipe and conveys the smoke up and out of the stack. This stack runs up and out of the roof on the back side. The fuel used should be wood.

An elevated platform extends along the front of the drier outside, and on this is a car. This is the manner in which fruit is supplied, being carried to place in bushel boxes.

The second cut shows how the bleacher is made and employed. The fire pit is seen at A. Place in an old iron kettle a few live coals and on the coals throw a piece of brimstone. Place the kettle in the pit A and close the door. The letter B shows rollers in the tramway that are to convey boxes of fruit through to the part marked C.

This tramway is open between tracks so that the fumes may pass upward and through the fruit. The bleacher may be made as long as desired.

Trees on the Plains.

There is a wonderfully rapid growth of trees in the plains country this summer, says the Kansas City Journal. It is related by men from western Kansas and Oklahoma that the trees there have done well for two or three years, and this year they have made a growth that is not surpassed in any section of the country. "The cultivation of trees in the short grass country is one of the most difficult things that the people there have to figure on," said William Bradley of Beaver county, Okla. "It is the ambition of every settler in the section of country where trees are averse to growing to have a grove of some sort about the house. Disappointments have been for the most part the result of their efforts, but recently the trees have taken a surprising grip upon life. I think it is due to the unusual rainfall we have had the past few years. The result of it is that there are groves of elms, oaks and poplars in the short grass country."

Celery Blanching and Late Keeping.

Where celery is intended for winter use blanching may take place after the crop has been removed from the field and placed in storage. In fact, it is best to blanch as little as possible before storing when the product is to be kept late, as the keeping qualities are better while it is unblanched.

Wordsworth's Secret.

And Wordsworth's secret? Any poet's secret? Well, for aught we can see, it remains a secret, a something as far beyond human subtlety to explain as it is beyond human ingenuity to produce. "The wind bloweth where it listeth," "Genius," "inspiration"—it is hard to get on without the old words, vague though they be. Nay, it is precisely because they are vague that they serve so useful a purpose. Even Professor Raleigh, after speaking almost contemptuously of "impatient critics" who seek to account for Wordsworth's "amazing inequality" by assuming that sometimes he was inspired, at other times not, is heard a little afterward lamenting that in Wordsworth's case, as in Coleridge's, "the high tide of inspiration was followed by a long and wandering ebb."

One feels like quoting Lowell, whose arrow in such competitions is apt to hit the white. Wordsworth, he says, "was not an artist in the strictest sense of the word; neither was Isaiah, but he had a rarer gift, the capability of being greatly inspired."—Bradford Torrey in Atlantic.

Phil May and His Models.

Many of the figures in Phil May's book "Guttersnipes" were sketched from memory while staying up the river.

"One day," he said, when speaking on the subject, "I saw a delightful little model for my purpose, a spike, ragged bit of girl humanity. I spoke to her and wrote a message on my card for her to give to her mother. Next morning she came in charge of an older sister, as tattered and unkempt as herself. When I had made my sketches of the two of them I asked the elder one if she had any more sisters like herself. 'Oh, yes, four or five, worse than I am.' 'Bring them round,' said I. 'Is the little un to come again?' she asked. 'No, I've done with her.' The next day they came, the little un included. She had persisted in it, for she said: 'He's my artist. I found him first.'"—London Tit-Bits.

Fireproof Wood.

Though there are a number of different kinds of wood, ebony, ironwood, etc., of such close, hard fiber that even the fiercest fire has difficulty in "getting hold" of it, there is only one sort, so far as now known, that is practically fireproof. This is a small, scraggy tree, a native of South America, called the shophala, with thick, tough, stringy bark full of a sort of fire resisting sap. This curious shrub grows largely on the great, grassy savannas, which are swept by fire almost every year during the heat of the summer. There it thrives splendidly, for the annual scourge only kills off its bigger and harder competitors and leaves the ground free for the growth of this vegetable asbestos.

Smart Sayings.

Lord Palmerston's reply to the illiterate member who asked him, "Are there two hens in 'Onion?'" is a specimen of his rather boisterous chaff. "No; only one. That's why heggas are so scarce there."

Mr. Disraeli's comment upon a portrait of himself, "Is it not hideous—and so like?" exhibited a discernment not common with unflattered sitters.—"Twenty Years in Parliament."

The Social Side.

Mrs. Waldo-Cecil—He has a barrel of money.

Mr. Waldo-Cecil—Oh, yes; he hasn't the least idea how he got it!—Pack.

Old Blunt—By all means. There's nothing nobler in this world, young man, than fighting for the truth.

DeWitt's Witch Salve For Piles, Burns, Sores.

Battleship Kentucky in Colors.

The Louisville, Henderson & St. Louis Railway has just completed for distribution a large order of pictures of the Battleship Kentucky, which is a work of art and should be in every Kentucky home. The picture is reproduced from a very fine, large, copyrighted photograph by Mr. Enrique Mueller, the official photographer for the United States Navy, taken as the ship is leaving New York harbor a cruise. It is done in colors, the grey fighter slowly plowing its way through the carefully shaded green of the sea, and carrying at the top of her flagstaff, the stars and stripes in their natural red, white and blue.

It is admirably suited for framing, but as it is gotten out on heavy, five ply enameled cardboard, it will prove an ornament to any home without framing. Six cents' postage sent to L. J. Irwin, G. P. A. of the popular Henderson Route, at Louisville, Ky., will bring this beautiful picture to your home.

Sour Stomach

No appetite, loss of strength, nervousness, headache, constipation, bad breath, general debility, sour risings, and catarrh of the stomach are all due to indigestion. Kodol cures indigestion. This new discovery represents the natural juices of digestion as they exist in a healthy stomach, combined with the greatest known tonic and reconstructive properties. Kodol Dyspepsia Cure does not only cure indigestion and dyspepsia, but this famous remedy cures all stomach troubles by cleansing, purifying, sweetening and strengthening the mucous membranes lining the stomach.

Mr. S. S. Ball, of Ravenswood, W. Va., says: "I was troubled with sour stomach for twenty years. Kodol cured me and we are now using it in milk for baby."

NEW SALEM.

(Last Week's Letter).

A good many of our people are complaining but no one is down sick.

This part of our county was visited by a big frost on the morning of the 18th. It killed tomato potato and pea vines, but no other serious damage.

Jesse Tyner left last week for Colorado. Jesse goes on a pleasure trip, hoping that his health will improve in that mountain country.

The dry weather will cut a big gap in the 1904 wheat crop. Not over 50 per cent will be seeded.

We understand that the owners of the Stevens fire clay mine will cut the price from $2 per ton to $1.75 after the 19th; we believe they will get all the wagons they want at that figure.

Miss Fay Harpending of Atchison, Kan., is the guest of relatives, the Harpendings of this county.

Vernon Fox is teaching the fall term of school at New Salem.

The Cave mine, on the White property, is one of nature's curiosities; it will pay any one to visit it.

Miss Ada Childress, daughter of Albert Childress, died at the home of her father Sunday evening the 20th Sept. The remains were buried at Union church on the 21st.

The man who says that old Crittenden county is not on a boom just simply does not know what he is talking about. How our people made it before our mineral interests were worked up, we venture the assertion there is more money changes hands in the run of thirty days than there did in six months before our mines were in operation.

Cade Gray and wife, of Salem, were the guests of relatives in this section Sunday.

Our old friend Jorish Pace has rented a part of the widow Alvis farm for 1904.

Dieting Invites Disease

To cure Dyspepsia or indigestion it is no longer necessary to live on milk and toast. Starvation produces such weakness that the whole system becomes an easy prey to disease. Kodol Dyspepsia Cure enables the stomach and digestive organs to digest and assimilate all of the wholesome food that one cares to eat, and is a never failing cure for indigestion, dyspepsia and all stomach troubles. Kodol digests what you eat—makes the stomach sweet. Sold by all druggists.

UNIQUE WEDDING GIFT.

A few months ago a French bride received from a friend a silver sugar bowl with a map of the world engraved upon it, and on this map the route which the newly married couple were about to take in the course of a very elaborate honeymoon tour was marked. The names of the towns at which the happy couple would make a more or less prolonged stay were lettered in enamel.

Investments in Southern Lands.

Such investments are not speculative. The South is not a new country. Market and shipping facilities are adequate and first class. The climate is mild and favorable. Notwithstanding these and other advantages, southern lands are selling for prices far below their real value, and at present prices net large returns on the investment. For a free set of circulars, Nos. 1 to 10, inclusive, concerning the possibilities of lands in Kentucky, West Tennessee, Mississippi and Louisiana, on and near the Illinois Central Railroad, for homeseekers and investors, address the undersigned.

F. R. WHEELER,
126 Main St., Evansville, Ind.

Accept No Substitute.

There is nothing just as good for Malaria, Chills and Fever as Dr. Mendenhall's Chill and Fever Cure. Take it as a general tonic and at all times in place of quinine. If it fails to give satisfaction mail the front of the cartoon to J. C. Mendenhall, Evansville, Ind., and get your money back.

ANOTHER DOWIE EDICT.

The Chicago Tribune says: Let the mercury stand where it may, the lake front is to be denied to all in Zion City on Sundays hereafter. In an edict just issued John Alexander Dowie has directed his policemen to turn all away from the water edge on the day of rest and worship. Residents and visitors are to share alike. Shiloh Park also is to be closed on the Sabbath. While Dowie gives no explanation of his edict, it is said that the residents of his north shore city have shown a tendency this summer to visit the cooling water front rather than the tabernacle, in which the overseer addresses his faithful.

Do Good—it Pays.

A Chicago man has observed that "Good deeds are better than real estate deeds—some of the latter are worthless. Act kindly and gently, show sympathy and lend a helping hand. You cannot possibly lose by it." Most men appreciate a kind word and encouragement more than substantial help. There are persons in this community who might truthfully say: "My good friend cheer up. A few doses of Chamberlain's Cough Remedy will rid you of your cold, and there is no danger whatever from pneumonia when you use that medicine. It always cures. I know it for it has helped me out many a time." Sold by Woods & Orme.

It is pointed out that more than two million tons of steel rails annually are being consumed in the United States, to say nothing of other steel products, and that the eight dollars per ton levied thereon solely for the purpose of "affording shelter to monopoly," amounts to a levy of $16,000,000 a year on the American people. The World adds:

"In the light of Mr. Schawb's letter it is easy to see why the steel trust is gathering in profits of more than $120,000,000 a year on the sale of its ten million tons of iron and steel products. Is it strange that the beneficiaries of this tariff for extortion only should believe with Mr. Hanna that the only way to preserve prosperity—their prosperity, at least—is to 'stand pat' and 'let well enough alone.'"

Kentucky News.

Lang Bros., Druggists, Paducah, Ky., write: "We sell more of Dr. Mendenhall's Chill and Fever Cure than all other remedies combined, having retailed over 700 bottles in one season. The physicians here prescribe it and persons who use it once will have no other." Children like it.

THE NEW YELLOW.

A new shade of the season is amaryllis yellow, pretty blend between a light canary and a vivid lemon color.

The fall silks and chiffons come in this exquisite tint, which can be worn by blonde or brunette with equal becomingness.

Warts on her fingers, corns on her toes she will be miserable wherever she goes, unless she uses Dr. Mendenhall's Corn Cure. 15 cents at druggists, or sent by mail on receipt of price by J. C. Mendenhall, Evansville, Ind.

Some employees have a habit of losing the last hour of the working day by watching the clock. Don't do that.

Strength and vigor come of good food, duly digested. "Force," a ready-to-serve wheat and barley food, adds no burden, but sustains, nourishes, invigorates.

If an artist draws a picture, an equine draws a dray; the man who marries draws a blank sometimes, we have heard them say; a thirsty man draws water; a blossom draws the bee; if I can only draw my pay that's good enough for me.

Happiness is a ray of sunshine between two clouds.

For a pleasant physic take Chamberlain's Stomach and Liver Tablets. Easy to take. Pleasant in effect. For sale by Woods & Orme.

Velvet ribbons will be much used for fall as dress trimming in blue and colors. Dresses of black net and striped with wide black velvet up and down the entire length.
