BRIGHT OUTLOOK.

With Coal on Both Sides of Us and Lead, Zinc and Fluor Spar all Around Us, What Can Hold Us Back?

The Mountain Lead, Zinc and Spar company are putting in new machinery at their lead and zinc mines near Crittenden Springs.

Prof Reed of Paducah says the Glendale mining company are sinking on a dike rock and are off on one side of a large body of lead and zinc.

We understand the Kentucky Fluor Spar company have bought the output of the Noe mines, which is twenty-five tons of No. 1 spar per day.

The Wheatcroft mining company have resumed work again at the mines near Mexico, and are figuring on building a large spar mill at that point.

In speaking of the fine hoisting machinery at the Pogue mine the Marion Mineral company forgot to mention anything about their big pump in last week's issue.

The mines of the Wheatcroft Coal and Mining company at Wheatcroft were closed down last week. Lack of orders is the reason given for the shut down. The mine will be closed down for an indefinite time.

Harry Watkins sold another very rich piece of lead and zinc property near Columbia mines to some parties from Union county. A company will be organized at once and two shafts will be sunk on this property on the Eureka vein.

The shipment from Earlington included the very unique model of the St Bernard coal washing and coke crushing plant made by Col. W. A. Tombs and his able assistants, which was exhibited in Earlington for several days before its shipment.

The Blue & Nunn mine at the "nine acres" on the Columbia vein, are showing up to be very rich in lead; in fact this is the richest lead strike that has been found yet in the district. They pump their water with a steam jet, and the other day they turned the steam on without the jet.

A company composed of W. B. Smith, president of Globe Banking and Trust Co., Paducah, Ky., F. A. McClellan, of Ill., W. D. Archibald and others have acquired by purchase and lease 2,000 acres of coal land in Morgan county, Ky., and will develop the property by opening coal mines as soon as preparations can be made for doing so.

The second car load of exhibits to be shipped from Kentucky contained Hopkins county coal coke, agricultural and forestry products. The bulk of this shipment is to be made up of coke and coal of various sizes and grades, from the dust to entire sections of veins. These large sections go both to the state and national exhibits. The entire exhibit is well arranged and most interesting.

The Morganfield Mining company will install two big washers at their mines at the old LaRue shaft, about the first of next month. They will also open and clean out the old LaRue shaft to the bottom. This is one of the oldest shafts in the district. It was sunk about thirty-five years ago for silver. Prof Reed thinks this shaft may turn out to be nearly as rich as the Columbia.

The Deer Creek mining company, near Sheridan are going down rapidly with their shaft. The vein, which was six feet wide, has now widened out to nine feet and is getting much richer in lead. Their zinc is found in much richer cubes than anywhere else in the district. They have no fluor spar mixed with their lead and zinc; therefore the separation will be an easy proposition. The company will put up a fifty ton mill this spring.

The miniature coke washer made by Col Albert Tombs and men for the St. Bernard Mining company is now on exhibition at the company's store and is creating quite a lot of favorable comment. This washer represents the St Bernard company's coke washer and is a perfect reproduction of it every detail having been faithfully carried out. This small washer will be shipped to St. Louis in a few days where it will be placed on exhibit at the Worlds Fair.

The Columbia Mining company ran a cross-entry from the bottom of their 145 foot shaft to cut the Eureka vein, and last week they ran into it at 47 feet. The vein is about 5 ft wide and very rich. The company will run two levels on this vein and several overhead stopes and double their output. The Mary Belle on this same property is putting out about 15 tons of spar per day; so Dr. Drescher says. But that's not as much as one hundred and twenty-five tons per day.

A special from the Kentucky Commission headquarters says a car of agricultural products left Louisville last week, and that a car of mineral exhibits will go from there at once. It is expected that a car load of lead, zinc and fluor spar will go from Marion about Friday, which will include exhibits from Blue & Nunn, the Givens Mining Co., the Kentucky Fluor Spar Co., and the Columbia Mining Co. Car loads of coal will later go from the Northern Coal & Coke Co., of Pikeville, and the Kentucky Block Cannel Coal Co., at Cannel City. The latter is to be used in the erection of a coal arch as one of the entrances to the Kentucky Mineral exhibit.

A car load of mineral from the various mining camps in this district will leave Marion depot one day this week. Blue & Nunn will send carbonate zinc and lead; also sulphides in lump, just as mined, from the "Old Jim" and "9 acres".

The Kentucky Fluor Spar company will send samples of No. 1 lump, gravel and ground spar.

The Columbia Mining company will send lead and zinc concentrates and examples of their product in its various stages.

The Givens Mining company will send samples of cobalt and manganese ores.

The Marion Mineral company may also send samples from some of its properties.

In addition to the coal and coke the shipment contained the collection of native woods, 123 varieties, made into picture frames, which are the property of Mr Jno B. Atkinson, and the fine collection of grasses grown on the St. Bernard farms in 1902. These grasses were exhibited at the Kentucky State Fair held in Owensboro last year. These include pure timothy, red clover, red top, orchard grass, and mixed samples, grown under different treatment, as to fertilizer and soil.

The picture frames were likewise shown at the State Fair. They have been exhibited at the Columbian Exposition at Chicago, and the Tennessee Centennial Exposition, Nashville, and constitute the most complete collection of woods known in Kentucky.

Ollie James Complimented.

A telegram from Washington telling of the visit of a party of Indiana Democrats to that city says: "The Hoosiers went to see Representative James, of Kentucky. They complimented him on his speech against Durbin and Mr. O'Brien said: 'Indiana is going to be a Democratic state, Mr. James, and when that day comes your man Taylor will be shipped back on the first boat.'"

Author of a Good Measure.

REPRESENTATIVE BUTLER, of Livingston, Who Introduced a Bill to Extend the Common School Term.

"If we work upon marble, it will crumble; if we work upon brass, time will efface it; if we rear monuments, the elements of nature will tear them away; but if we work upon the human mind, we rear monuments that will brighten into eternity."

Mr. Thomas Everett Butler, who introduced the bill which lengthens the public school term, has made the people of Kentucky his everlasting debtor. No bill passed by the present legislature is so popular or more fraught with untold good to masses of the people.

Mr. Butler, author of the bill, is a young, lion-hearted, true blue democrat from the First district, the shrine and candle of democracy. He is serving his first term as legislator and has made an enviable record. Always at his post of duty, eager and active, he has been to the front in the battles against the trusts so forcibly fought by the present general assembly. He was one of the leaders of the fight for a uniform school book bill; has been honored by being placed on a great number of the most influential committees, where he has served with great credit to himself and his constituents. Said Mr. Butler: "I represent the greatest, grandest, biggest-hearted, brainiest and bravest people on earth. In all my actions have steadily looked to their welfare, and when I go home I can look into their faces and the sweetest music that will ever sound in my ear is the 'well-done' which I have tried to meet."

Mr. Butler is yet in his twenties. He is thoroughly educated, pleasant and filled to the brim with enthusiasm, which is "the very genius of sincerity and with out which truth wins no battles." He is a speaker of great force and pleads with much fire and force. He is destined to become one of the stars in the bright galaxy of Gibraltar democrats of whom the "trist" is so justly proud.—Lexington Democrat.

WIRELESS TELEPHONE.

The March number of the Woman's Home Companion contains a general summary of about what has been accomplished in wireless telephony by scientists of Europe and America, up to the present, that is publicly known, by one of the editorial staff of the Scientific American.

Nathan Stubblefield and son Barnard, with their original wireless telephone apparatus, appear in the picture. These gentlemen claim that in the last two years they have made various advances along the line, that are not known to the public, and that they have been kept close to the end that they might enlist capital in their enterprise before disclosing the technical nature of their improvements.

Stubblefield claims that he has developed wireless telephone apparatus of as high a standard as wireless telegraph apparatus, now in use, for short distance work. He claims that he is able to transmit messages one fourth of a mile through brick or stone walls, or any intervening object without earth connections, and says his instrument will prove at sight its adaptability for a great distance work at economic cost, and also claims for his new device a fair development in point of secrecy of messages, and portable instruments for the various needs that might be thought of.

The department of electricity at the World's Fair has made Mr. Stubblefield a tentative allotment of space for the exhibition of his system, in actual practice, which will consist of an installation in electricity building, the distant station being placed at some point on the grounds.

RUSSELL COUNTY.

This county lies on both sides of the Cumberland river about three hundred miles above Nashville.

The hill land is poor, much of it valued at fifty cents an acre, yet there is some good ridge land; the bottom land is good and can hardly be bought at any price.

The oil excitement is getting up. A gusher was struck lately just over the line in Cumberland county, the oil gushing out to the height of one hundred and twenty four feet. This scribe went down to see it. It was rather a wonder. Full sight to see it come forth from the earth of its own accord.

Oil is found at a great depth. Nature has so arranged it that there is a rock roof over it so as to exclude all the water. The oil is below the water, most always found in sand.

As transportation is so poor the oil is piped over the mountains to a point in West Virginia.

The first boat load went up the river this week to the point where the pipe crosses the river. The river is in fine boating stage at present.

The timber business is quite an interesting feature with these people; millions of staves are on the bank waiting for the water.

Large rafts of fine poplar, walnut and cedar are constantly passing on their way to Nashville.

These hills are decked with very fine cedar for telegraph poles. Oil wells and rafts have caused farmers to complain of a scarcity of hands.

There is not much wheat in this section of the county and that little is not very promising.

Russell is very much helped up over a railroad prospect, but as railroad talk is cheap no one need to get excited. E. S. M.

LETTER FROM FLORIDA.

DADE CITY, FLA., March 15th, 1904.—FRIEND JENKINS: I will try to tell you a little about Dade City Fla. I can only tell you about the city as I have not been able to get out in the country.

Owing to my shake up in the railroad wreck near Atlanta, Ga., on our way here, I have not entirely recovered from my bruises yet.

Dade City is the county seat of Pasco county. Situated in the high lake region, about 30 miles from the Gulf of Mexico and 50 miles from the Atlantic ocean. There are 600 inhabitants, two rail roads, Seaboard Air Line and the Atlantic Coast Line; has 3 churches, Baptist, Methodist and Presbyterian, and some negro churches; 1 bank, 1 hotel, 6 stores, no saloon, 1 drug store, a fine school. Being in the high region there is no such thing as malaria. Do not even use skeeter bars; ice factory and mill, one newspaper, Pasco County Democrat.

All kinds of vegetables and fruits are grown here, with the exception of apples, which do not do well. Corn will make from 10 to 25 bushels per acre; oats and rye do very well. No attention given stock raising, only for milk, and that but very little; cattle are all Jerseys and the smallest I ever saw, but they have their own living to make, only a few of them are fed at all, and that when giving milk. Hogs are all regular sang diggers; horses principally ponies and small ones at that; the wagons all one horse plows all one horse, mules imported here from Kentucky and Tennessee bring from $400 to $600 per pair to the turpentine and sawmill men; any good horse will bring from $200 to $350.

Fruits and vegetables are shipped from here every day except Sunday and bring good prices. Property is cheaper here than any place I ever saw. I have just organized a real estate agency—Threlkeld & Embury. Any of my friends wanting a winter home in this beautiful vegetable, fruit and flower garden, where the climate is as near perfect as it is possible to be, will address the above styled firm stating kind of property wanted, price to cost, etc. We can suit them in improved farm, city, or town lots, or unimproved pine of hammock land.

Living here costs about the same as in Kentucky. I know I can eat any and everything put on the table here and it tastes good. I have gained five pounds in the last two weeks. I am gaining in strength also. When I came here I could not walk fifty yards nor climb up steps without getting almost out of breath, and having to rest. Now I can walk a mile by taking it slow.

I will come home in June. I will, I think, be almost a new man in that time. I have not been able to go fishing or hunting yet.

I will tell you more about this country so soon as I learn and see more of it. This city has a great many Kentucky people living in it.

I fear I have written enough now for the waste basket, so will close. Bye-bye. Regards to all my friends in Crittenden and Livingston county.

I am yours truly,
FOSTER THRELKELD.

SUITS WITHDRAWN.

Auditor's Agent Lucas Disowned by Auditor Hager.

The sensational suits filed by "Auditor's Agent" Lucas against the State banks all over Kentucky, have all come to grief. Auditor Hager, in a strong letter, disowns the "agent" and disclaims any intention to allow the suits to go to trial, saying all of them will be withdrawn. His letter is characteristically strong and entirely worthy of the gentleman. We give it in full:

State of Kentucky, Office Auditor of Public Accounts, Frankfort, Ky., March 19, 1904.—To Mr. Frank A. Lucas, Paducah, Ky.—Dear Sir: I have received information through the medium of the press, and from letters from individuals and banks that you have recently instituted suits in various counties of the State against numerous banks, in which as Auditor's Agent for the State-at-large, which position you claim to hold by virtue of an appointment made by my predecessor in office, which suits you seek to have assessed against said banks in some form or other retrospectively certain deposits made with them for persons throughout the State for taxation, and I have before me one of your letters addressed to one of these institutions setting out at length the nature and purpose of these suits.

Without intending to be in any sense personal, but solely with a view to discharging an official duty which I consider incumbent on me, I address this communication to you for the purpose of giving you notice that according to my construction of the law your term as Auditor's Agent ceased and terminated upon my qualification as Auditor of Public Accounts, but if the courts should hold otherwise, you could not commence these proceedings or any other of like nature for the collection of taxes or the assessment of property of any description without my direction as Auditor, this provision being clearly and plainly expressed. The reason for this provision is manifest, the Auditor of Public Accounts, whose duty it is to see that persons whose property has for any reason escaped taxation, shall be required to list such property and pay the taxes thereon, being officially responsible for the acts of his agents.

These actions have been brought by you without any direction from me, waiving the question of your authority to act under my predecessor's appointment, I shall feel constrained to take the necessary steps to have these several suits dismissed, and any further action with reference to their subject matter postponed until such time as upon proper investigation I shall deem it necessary and proper to institute legal proceedings for the assessment and collection of any taxes that may be due, or which to have been assessed against, and paid by the actual owners of the funds claimed by you to have been deposited in the various banks of the Commonwealth and not assessed for taxation against the depositors as provided by law.

It is unnecessary at this time to argue the question whether or not your position, if you were duly authorized to act in the matter, can be maintained in the courts, or whether either of the contentions made by you in these suits is correct as a legal proposition. The sole object of this communication is to notify you of my repudiation of your pretended official action and of my purpose to take such steps as may be necessary to have each and all these actions dismissed.

Very respectfully,

S. W. HAGER, Auditor.

Monday afternoon Mr. Lucas mailed a reply to this. The substance of the reply is that Lucas declines to withdraw the suits. He claims he was appointed for four years, that his duties are clearly defined by law, and that the Auditor has nothing to do with him except in one or two instances, and these do not include the collection of back taxes.

RESOLUTIONS OF RESPECT:—$1.00

Now that the legislature has adjourned and the lawmakers gone home, 'tis not out of order to give praise where due to our own young representative, Hon T Everett Butler, who so ably represented this and Livingston counties in the House of Representatives. Besides introducing the bill extending the common school term from 5 to 6 months, which was one of the most important bills of the session, he also introduced House Bill No. 57, of which the Courier-Journal has the following to say: H. B. No. 57, by T. E. Butler.—So reapportioning the sheriff's revenue as to provide 26 1/2 cents instead of 22 1/2 cents for the common school fund, in order to meet the increased expenses incurred through the passage of Senate Bill No. 30, extending the common school term from five months to six months. This is one of the most important bills passed by the General Assembly. The only question was whether the term should be increased or whether the state tax rate should be reduced, the revenues having grown until they were in excess of the requirements. It was thought wiser not to reduce the tax rate, but to give the children of the state the benefit of this money.

Besides these Mr. Butler was alert and on the floor when Carl Day's bill prohibiting the co-education of the races was up, and at the request of the author of the bill he made the first argument in its favor.

Another instance was Senate bill No. 26. Mr. Butler was the only member of the house who spoke in its favor. The bill provides that persons summoned for jury service shall be paid for first day, whether accepted or not. This is eminently fair. A man is sometimes taken away from his work and loses an important day, but does not qualify as a juror. This law does not, as we understand it, affect any jurymen who is summoned and does not appear or any who is excused at his own request.

Mr. Butler did not forget to introduce a resolution in the House endorsing Congressman James in his effort to enforce the Federal constitution in regard to the return of fugitives from justice.

In Frankfort the editor of the Press learned that Mr. Butler was very popular, and on the closing night of the legislature he was honored by being one of the few called on to make a goodbye speech, and he made a good one we are told. The Press thinks "Everett" all right, and is proud to say he is a Crittenden county boy and is glad he is located in our good sister county of Livingston, where other honors await him we confidently hope and believe.

While it was a foregone conclusion that Congressman James would have no opposition, unless the unexpected had happened, his friends nevertheless are congratulating him on the fact that the date for entries has passed. Last Monday, the 21st, was the last day on which an announcement to enter the primary could be made, and as none was made, the 1st Congressional District Committee will meet Saturday, the 26th, at Princeton, and will declare Mr. James the nominee and order his name placed on all ballots under the Democratic emblem.

It is but a fitting tribute to our distinguished citizen, of whom all Marion feels proud, and to whom Crittenden county, the First Congressional district, the Commonwealth of Kentucky and indeed the United States of America will many times in the future do honor.

FAVORS A NEW COURT HOUSE.

Judge Gordon, in his charge to the grand jury, calls especial attention to the condition of the court house. His remarks were indeed timely. It is a fact not remembered or known by many that the Crittenden county court house has burned twice since the breaking out of the civil war, and the present walls are but the repaired and rebuilt portions of the burned structure. Our records are all exposed to the fire demon, which you never know when to expect, and which usually comes "like a thief in the night," and when the least expected. The hall for holding the sessions of court is not only inadequate but is sorely in need of renovating. The fact is, Marion and Crittenden county is in the line of advancement and our progressive circuit judge believes in "keeping the ball rolling." There is not a county in Kentucky with the wealth and natural resources that we have, but what has better quarters for its county officials, not to mention the records. Even Bell county, has a $40,000 court house at Pineville; Laurel a $25,000 one at London; Whitley a $30,000 one at Williamsburg; and so on all over the State. If the court house and records should burn here now it would almost ruin the county. Let's take Judge Gordon's cue and have a hall of justice worthy of our county, and one where all matters of record will be secure from destruction.

THOMAS HOLMAN DEAD.

Mr. Thomas Holman, whose home was near Fords Ferry in this county, died of consumption Tuesday in Clay, Webster county, at the home of his mother, widow of the late Dr. Holman, of that place. Mr. Holman had been in bad health for several months, was a farmer by profession and a well-known and respected citizen. He was about 30 years of age. He was married a few years ago to Miss Sallie Rankin, daughter of the late Abe Rankin of this county. His remains were brought to the Gill House in this city Wednesday morning and conveyed to the Mt. Zion cemetery, where they were interred.

Mrs. Holman, his mother, Mrs. Judge Dow and S. W. McGill, of Clay accompanied the remains to this place.

CIRCUIT COURT

March Term Crittenden Circuit Court Convened Monday

The Crittenden Circuit Court convened Monday with Judge J. Fleming Gordon on the bench. Despite the inclement weather a large crowd was in town and the court room was comfortably filled. After the usual reading by the clerk and the swearing in of the sheriff and his deputies, the names of those persons who had been summoned to serve as grand jurors were called and all responded except two. The following out of the published list given last week, with two by-standers, were chosen to serve during the present term: Willoby Guess, J. H. Bettis, E. E. Harpending, H. F. Dalton, J. L. Clifton, J. L. Walker, W. I. Tabor, Geo. D. Hughes, Charles Clement, J. A. Lewis, Al Dean and Henry Farmer.

Judge Gordon then gave his instructions to the grand jury, which were listened to attentively by all present. The instructions were lengthy but plain and ably delivered, covering the various crimes and misdemeanors and other violations of law, from murder to a breach of the peace. Law, he said, was for the protection of our life, liberty and pursuit of happiness. Any interference with these was a violation of law.

The grand jury is a very important part of the court and are the most independent of all citizens. They can not bring indictments against themselves or each other, but no other citizen is exempt if the jury thinks the evidence against him sufficient to indict.

The Judge called attention to the different violations of law, explained the nature of each and the penalty. Homicide, the taking of human life, may be justifiable or unjustifiable. When taken offensively and with malice, premeditation, however recent or remote the malice may have dated, it is murder. If taken wilfully and intentionally, but without malice, it is voluntary manslaughter. If done in sudden heat and passion, in sudden impulse, it is involuntary manslaughter. Justifiable homicide is where life is taken in self-defense or in defense of family or friend. Various other offenses against the law—rape, seduction, burglary, concealed weapons, blind violation of election laws, selling intoxicating drinks to minors or inebriates—were each dwelt upon by the Judge. As to house-breaking, he said, one did not have to hammer down a door and enter a house in order to constitute house-breaking. If the door was closed and tied by only a toe string, or simply propped by a chair, opening the door and entering without the knowledge or consent of the owner, is, under the law, house-breaking.

He told the jury it was their duty to inspect the court house to see if it was a fit building and in proper condition for the holding of the courts and the protection of the public records. We should have a court house of which the people should feel proud and the public records would be safe. Of course some people would kick and petty politicians would talk much and loud but let them do so. If the grand jury thought the present building not in keeping with the growth of the town and the needs of the people it was their duty to condemn it. If they would condemn the present house, he would do the rest, so far as the old building is concerned.

From the list of persons summoned by the sheriff, as published last week, with three bystanders, the following were chosen to serve on the petit jury: Elijah T. Franklin, F. B. Croft, Simon Stallions, W. L. Moore, R. M. Franks, Geo. D. Kemp, Edgy Gregory, J. R. Clifton, J. H. Bruster, Sam Woodson, Alex Jones, Thos. M. Hill, John W. Arslack, T. C. Campbell, H. W. McKee, Jerry Croft, Wm. A. Ringo, A. J. Eskew, D. E. Gilliland, Ellis Ralston.

A number of cases were called and continued to the next term of court. The following cases were disposed of: Commonwealth vs Heasakiah Simmons for selling liquor to minor. Fined $50. Same vs Dr. Ben Franklin emperidism. Tried and jury hung. Same vs John Alvie for breach of the peace. Plead guilty, fine $15.

A BUG IN HIS EAR.

It was not a metaphorical "bug in the ear," but a real insect in his organ of hearing. "I would give you my name for publication," said the young man who lives a few miles out in the country, "but your readers would question my veracity. But it is as true as gospel. About a year ago one day the thing buzzed into my ear unannounced and, of course without my consent. It kicked around and raised sand in general in there, and it sounded to me like the seven trumpets had all sounded at once. A few drops of sweet oil, however, quieted the kicking, and I thought it was settled his hash. I thought no more about the occurrence, though at times ever since I have had queer feelings in my ear. But yesterday that same bug, after having had undisputed possession for twelve months, came out. Yes, the blamed thing was still alive and took his departure without even saying goodbye.

POLICE COURT.

The following cases have been disposed of in the police court: Case against Charlie Haury for selling liquor to minor. Plead guilty. Fined $50 and costs—$62.50.

A. Byford, breach of the peace. Released on bond of $10 for appearance at court April 9, 1904.

Joe Turley, breach of the peace. Judgement $5 and costs—$14.95.

B. Henry, drunkenness, fined $1 and costs and sent to jail.

H. Moore, Edgar Hughes, Walter Washam, H. F. Yates, Mac White, and Walker Fritts, drunks, each fined $1 and costs—$9.50.

The I. C. depot at the Cerulean springs was robbed at an early hour Saturday morning and the agent, C. L. Layman, so badly injured that he was taken to Paducah and put in the I. C. Hospital. Mr. Layman gives this account of his struggle in the darkness: "As soon as I could strike a light I made an examination and found that he had forced an entrance to the money drawer and stolen $200. The room was badly disarranged and it may be that something else was taken, but of that I am not certain.

They later gave bond for their appearance at trial and were released from custody.

A day or two after Ollie James had broken into the ranks of the Congressionally conspicuous by his Goebel speech, Adam Bede took a seat in the House restaurant at the table with the big Kentuckian. He knew James was of Kentucky but had never seen him to know him. The two Congressmen discussed the doings of the day for awhile and then Bede remarked:

"What sort of a fellow is this man James from your state?"

Ollie put on his Goebel memorial face and said that James was a "nice sort of a fellow."

"Well, I wish I had heard his speech. They tell me it was full of fire and brimstone and blue lightning. But I don't see how he could —"

Just then some one stepped up and called James by name. Bede looked all over the big Kentuckian and whispered:

"I wouldn't finish that sentence for a farm."

Thus it happens that Bede and James are "chums."—Fulton Leader.

MY WISHES.

BY O. G. W.

Robins sing at morning, noon and night far sped;
Threads of yesterday are spun;
am I comforted?
Neighbor Death, I have no fear of thy strong hand;
Thou wilt lift the stones I tread, plowing sterile land.

Sometimes clover, sometimes wheat grow round my feet;
Fruit and bitter root I meet and equal eat.
Pardon if I hide from pain and years of bliss;
Heights long sought I may attain;
'tis only this.

IN MEMORIAM.

Mrs Sallie T. Wofford was born Nov. 26, 1854, married to Fillmore Wofford May 5, 1881; converted about sixteen years of age and died Feb. 16, 1904.

These are dates outlining the most important events in human life. Between these dates was lived a pure, true and noble life, shedding the rays of its sweet influence over all whom it touched.

Here was a strong, courageous and cheerful nature, in which her friends loved to confide and seek for help and comfort in the trials of life. She was a true follower of the Lord Jesus Christ, and about twelve years ago consecrated herself wholly to God and His cause.

She was a quiet, unassuming christian, but such a true "soldier of the cross" that she was ever ready to fight, if need be, for what she believed to be right, and according to the word and will of God.

Her strong faith in God and her perfect abandon of trust are best shown in her own words in her last letter to a loved friend she said: "I'm trusting, trying and striving, and 'tis sweet to say and to know, I've Jesus with me all the time." "I am trying in my weakness to serve God. God help us both to have the perfect trust and abandon of the consecrated Salvation Army merchant, who said that if he did not sell anything but a paper of pins in a day, that it was not his business, but God's." Many such quotations could be given but these will suffice to show her faith, and the Godward trend of her life.

She leaves a husband and five boys sorrowing her loss. They miss her sorely and will continue to miss her, and realize their great loss more and more, as the years go by. May God bless and comfort them as He alone can, in this their hour of grief and bereavement. May they all be drawn closer to God and their lives be made purer through the furnace of affliction.

She leaves also a sister, Mrs. Clara Nunn, and two brothers, H. B. and J. M. Phillips besides a host of loving relatives and friends, who keenly feel their loss. Through this agony of loss Thou dost point us to the cross; Through the blinding tears that fall, Thou with trumpet voice dost call We with heart and soul reply, "We will follow till we die." Her loving friend, Lillie Flanary.

Do You Want Strength?

If you want to increase your strength you must add to and not take from the physical. In other words, the food that you eat must be digested, assimilated and appropriated by the nerves, blood and tissues before being expelled from the intestines. Kodol Dyspepsia Cure adds to the physical. It gives strength to and builds up the strength in the human system. It is pleasant to the taste and palatable, and the only combination of digestants that will digest the food and enable the system to appropriate all of its health and strength-giving qualities. Sold by all druggists.

I WOULD SEE JESUS THERE.

"Sir, we would see Jesus"—St. John, 12:21.

Oh when among earth's busy throng, The lowly mingle with the proud,

With yearning heart and restless eyes I scan the eager, hurrying crowd

I see the beauty, wealth and pride The glittering, grand display of men,

I turn away unsatisfied; I would see Jesus then.

In sorrow's hour, my heart bowed down With woes so great no words I speak

No earthly friend can sympathize No earthly friend can comprehend,

Yet in my time of deepest grief All else unheeded and unseen, My soul would find a sweet relief

Could I see Jesus then.

When by affliction's hand I am laid low I rest upon a dying bed,

My race is run, I know that I Shall soon be numbered with the dead,

How vain the help of earthly friends, How vain to turn to earth again

No, when these eyes grow dim in death, May I see Jesus then.

Now all these earthly woes are past, Grief, pain and death I fear no more,

The heights of love are gained at last I stand entranced at heaven's door,

In realms of bliss so pure, so bright, Surpassing words of tongue or pen,

With new, glad eyes, oh glorious sight, I shall see Jesus then.
