TENNESSEE CENTRAL

Establishes Improved Service—
Direct Connection With This City.

The Tennessee Central change of schedule of trains, which were announced a few days ago, will have the effect of materially bettering the passenger service of the road by giving it closer connection with Illinois Central trains to points in Indiana, Illinois, Missouri, and Tennessee. The changes in schedule were effective Sunday.

The road inaugurates through passenger service, in connection with the Illinois Central to Louisville, Evansville, Paducah, Memphis and all points. This service is the beginning of the installation of a first class passenger service to all the principal Western points.

Double passenger service, daily, is inaugurated on the Western division. Train No. 10, the Paducah express, leaves Nashville at 8:30 a. m., and reaches Clarksville at 10:45 o'clock; it arrives at Hopkinsville at 12:01 p. m., where close connections are made with the Illinois Central for Paducah, Evansville, Louisville, Marion and intermediate points. Returning, this train leaves Hopkinsville at 4 p. m., arriving at Clarksville 5:15 p. m. and Nashville 7:30 p. m. The incoming Illinois Central train connects with this train at Hopkinsville.

The other western division train established Sunday is No. 12, the Clarksville and Hopkinsville local. It leaves Nashville at 5:15 p. m., Clarksville at 7:30, and reaches Hopkinsville at 8:45 o'clock. It Hopkinsville returning at 7 a. m., reaching Clarksville at 8:15 a. m., and Nashville at 10:30 a. m.

Killed His Son.

W. W. Armer assaulted his son at Sacramento, Ky., with a wagon brake from the results of which the boy died next day. He had left his father's home and was working for other parties, when the father went for him; and tried to persuade him to go home; failing in this he lost his temper and attacked him with results as stated above.

Elder Armer was formerly a Methodist minister from Illinois and later a Cumberland Presbyterian minister, and still later was refused license to preach.

A NARROW ESCAPE.

N. E. Calmes, former editor of the News-Democrat of Sturgis, and family had a narrow escape from death in a runaway last Friday night. They were being driven home by B. W. Dyer, when his team became unmanageable and runaway. Fortunately none of them were seriously hurt, but Mr Calmes was bruised and scratched up considerably.

The Boatner-Schlitzbaum Case.

At Hartford, last Monday, J W Boatner was put on trial on indictment for receiving stolen money.

This is the famous Boatner-Schlitzbaum case in which collusion to rob the American Express company was charged. Boatner claimed to send $2,800 in a package from Owensboro to Fordsville. The package and Boatner went to Fordsville on same train. He was seen talking to Schlitzbaum, the agent at Fordsville, soon afterwards Schlitzbaum was robbed. He and Boatner were arrested next day and after a trial Schlitzbaum was sent to the penitentiary at Eddyville for one year for embezzling the funds of the I. C. R. R.

Boatner claims that his father gave him the money in California, five miles from the tracks of the Southern Pacific railroad. He said the money was given to him by his father in the presence of his mother. It was wrapped in a white handkerchief. His father won the money on a California race track. He afterwards killed a man and was forced to leave for South America. He instructed his son to purchase mineral lands. Boatner is now in jail at Hartford.

THE WEEKS SCALE.

The Weeks Combination Triple Beam Scale has been before the public for a period of thirty years and is used in almost every city and town from coast to coast. Some competitors during all these thirty years have endeavored, by misrepresenting facts, to injure others in the same business, but, in most instances, the injury has only reacted upon themselves. The Weeks Co. have never made a practice of these underhanded methods, believing in the "live and let live" policy, and their constantly increasing trade testifies to their good business methods, and the real merits of their up-to-date scales.

This Company make a weighing machine which is built with a special view to accuracy and durability. There is none more accurately and durably made, and the thousands of satisfied customers will testify to this fact. The Weeks Scale is KNOWN to be reliable in every respect, and the public know its worth. Many of them are used in Kentucky, and are giving the highest satisfaction. The Weeks Scale Co.

HIS OPINION.

Two men were disputing over their respective churches. Finally one of them called a neighbor who was passing by and asked his opinion as to which was the only church in which to be saved.

"Well neighbors" said he, "I've been hauling wheat to mill for 30 years. Now there's two roads lead to the mill. One's the valley road, the other takes over the hill; and never yet friends has the miller criticised the road I took, but just asks, 'Is your wheat good?'" —Gallatin Rep.

On Wm P. Terry's land, adjoining the Witherspoon survey, Col. Fred Robertson has opened a fine spar mine. He has sunk a shaft 73 feet deep and is taking out some fine examples of fluor spar. The vein is five feet wide and already they are hauling to this market, several tons being delivered last week.

Our New Salem correspondent sends the following:

There has been thousands of feet of lumber passed down this week going to the big mill being erected at the Cullen mine.

The big whistle at the Nancy Hanks is heard three times every day.

Work has been resumed at the Stevens fire clay mines, with a full force of hands.

The Sheridan country, in its actual development work, is pressing to the front. On all sides are evidences of thrift. Shafts are being sunk and for this alone hundreds and thousands of feet of lumber is being used. It is progressing much more rapidly than many of us realize who have not been on the ground. Many who had early opportunities may wish they had been on the ground floor.

Eloped to Get Married.

On Wednesday of last week Mr. Eb Guess and Miss Minnie Driver, the fifteen-year-old daughter of H. S. Driver, eloped to Elizabethtown, Ill., and were united in marriage. They were accompanied by Mr. Rufus Elder and Miss Carrie Hughes.

Mr. Driver opposed his daughter's marriage to Mr. Guess, but love laughs at locksmiths and irate parents, so the young lovers, failing to gain parental consent, resolved to elope.

With this most desirable end in view Miss Minnie, with the consent of her unsuspecting parents, went Tuesday evening to spend the night at the home of her friend, Miss Carrie. There during the darkness of night Eb and Rufus also made their appearance and found the girls in readiness for the journey. Getting into a carriage, the four drove off at a rapid rate of speed toward the river, conversing in whispers and scarcely daring to breathe, lest the "old man" should overtake them with his shotgun and compel them to return.

No such calamity befel them, however. They reached Elizabethtown in safety and after procuring the necessary paper, they found an obliging justice of the peace, who happily united the couple in wedlock.

They then returned to the home of the bridegroom in this county.

An inquest was held over the body, and Dr. G. C. Moreland of Fords Ferry was summoned. He gave it as his opinion that liquor was the prime cause of the man's death, and that the blow of itself was insufficient to kill him. The verdict of the jury sustained this opinion. Edmonson immediately gave himself up and gave bond for his appearance before the grand jury.

Resolved, That a state convention be held in the city of Louisville on Wednesday, June 8, 1904. Said convention shall be called to order at 2 o'clock, p. m. standard time. Delegates to said convention shall be chosen at county mass conventions, to be held at the various county courthouses in counties having but one legislative district, of which due notice shall be given by the various county chairmen. In counties where circuit courts may be held in two different towns, as provided for in House Bill No. 271, of the general assembly of 1904, the convention shall be held in the larger town.

In counties having more than one legislative district there shall be a convention for each legislative district, to be held at some convenient point to be indicated by the chairman of each legislative district committee, who shall advertise in the local papers the location for said convention at least ten days prior to the date fixed by this committee. Said county and legislative district conventions shall be held at 2 o'clock, p. m., on Saturday, June 4, 1904. Said conventions shall be called to order by the chairmen of the respective county or legislative district committees.

The basis of representation of each county to the said convention shall be one delegate for each two hundred votes and fractions thereof, consisting of one hundred or more votes cast for the lead of the democratic electoral ticket at the presidential election in 1900, provided that each county shall have at least one delegate vote.

All persons who will at the November election, 1904, be legal voters in this state, who are devoted to the principles of the democratic party, and desire to see those principles succeed, and who, by participating in the mass meetings will feel honor bound to support the nominees of the national democratic convention, shall have the right and are hereby invited to participate in the said meeting.

A casket containing the most precious of all jewels—domestic happiness.

A little hollow scooped out of the windy hill of the world as a shelter from its cares and vexations.

A NEW GAME.

A new game has been recently introduced into good society. The following are directions how it shall be played:

Take an ordinary envelope and a piece of writing paper upon which is written your name and address. Tear out of your check book note upon which is inscribed figures sufficiently large to pay up all arrearages and one year in advance. Hand or mail this little package to the editor, and if he smiles the trick is played. The game is easy and any one can play it successfully. Instead of a bank note, a post office money order or currency of the land will do just as well. Every time you play the game successfully, you win a point which is counted in your favor in a little book kept by your opponent.

The game can be played at any time by any one. Spring and summer weather is said to conduce wonderfully to its success. There is no patent on it yet. Suppose you try it, just for the fun of the thing. You have no idea how a successful hit in this game refreshes and invigorates the conscience.

No arrests have been made.

"I was taken severely sick with kid-trouble. I tried all sorts of medicines, none of which relieved me. One day I saw an ad. of your Electric Bitters and determined to try that. THE NASHVILLE REUNION.

The Reunion Committee sends the Southern Press the good news that all arrangements have been perfected for entertaining the United Confederate Veterans at Nashville June 14-16.

The Camps of Veterans, the Sons of Veterans and the three Chapters of the Daughters of the Confederacy are working in harmony with the business organization of Nashville to furnish an entertainment as nearly faultless as possible.

The fact that these conventions had become so expensive to cities entertaining so deterred action that it was left for Nashville to be come host again sooner than was expected. But the capital of the Volunteer State, aided by adjacent communities, is ready. All of the people are in hearty accord, and the arrangements are such that this invitation, to Confederate Veterans everywhere, is extended without misgiving in any particular. Arrangements are far better than ever before for Veterans to meet their old commands on the campus of Vanderbilt University.

The only variation from former rules of entertainment is the giving of the "old soldiers' preference. This action will be approved by every loyal, beautiful woman who comes to do them honor. While sponsors and their maids of honor will be entertained by their Department, Division and Brigade Commanders, provision is being made for many of them in the homes of our best people, so the committee is confident of as perfectly delightful reunion as has ever been held. The orator of the occasion will be Rev. S. McKim, of Washington, D. C., who served in the Army of Northern Virginia, a most loyal Confederate and an eloquent speaker.

The Confederate Southern Memorial Association—that of the "Mothers of the Confederacy," who never ceased their labors after caring for the sick and wounded, but went right on erecting monuments to the dead, will hold their annual convention. The United Sons of Confederate Veterans will also hold their annual convention, with promise of more active service and zeal than ever before, hence the importance of this reunion is second to none in the history of the organization.

Reasons not heretofore appealing to the heroes of the Confederacy should bestir every Southern patriot. An impression prevails that only a few more of these general reunions will be held, and as this meeting will be the first since the death of that magnetic and a matchless man, the only Commander in Chief while living, General John B. Gordon, it will be fitting to do his memory honor by the largest attendance possible. At this service Judge Thos. G. Jones, ex-Governor of Alabama, has been selected to prepare resolutions in honor of Gen. Gordon.

Don't let your bravest and best soldiers fail to come from lack of means; provide this small sum for their railroad fare; and when they arrive we will feed them and provide them lodging absolutely free of expense.

While first consideration is given the Veterans, as open hearted hospitality to all, as was ever given a worthy, patriotic people, will be extended.

It is earnestly requested and urged that all camps report properly to Secretary R. L. Eastman, the number of Veterans for whom free entertainment is to be supplied.

Remember the date—June 14-16. The low rate of one cent per mile each way, plus 25 cents, with extension privilege of several weeks upon the payment of fifty cents for the deposit and care of ticket by the railroad agents, has been given.

Committee: M. B. Pilcher, President Frank Cheatam Camp and Bivouac; Oliver J. Timothy, merchant; S. A. Cunningham, Editor of Confederate Veteran; Edgar M. Foster, Manager of the Nashville Banner.

General Committee: Charles F. Frizzell, Chairman; R. L. Eastman Secretary.

THE HELPFUL MAN.

There are statues and monuments over the earth to men who have won renown. There are portraits and paintings of more or less worth of others on walls of each town. There are pictures in papers for millions to scan of those who gained fame during life—but where is the shaft that is raised to the man who is helpful at home to his wife? Alas! There is none, but the moment is ripe to remedy such a neglect, and therefore this monument for the true hero we erect. But as he is too modest to be on it in glory enrolled that others may copy we'll proudly proclaim his virtues in letters of gold. At dawn he will rise without waking his spouse and start up the heater and range and see that a warmth is all over the house and then, without thinking it strange, he'll put on the kettle and something to cook for breakfast, the table he'll set, and when his dear wife hurries downward to look a joyful surprise he will get. After supper at night to his wife he will say, "My dear you are tired I know You've worked for me and the children all day without any stop. Now I'll wash the dishes and look after things while you have some moments of rest." If ever an angel there is without wings this man is surely the best. He'll sweep and make bread and the washing he'll do in case there is no servant about. The baby he'll hold and take care of it, too, so his wife has a chance to get out. He'll never leave articles scattered on the floor for his wife to put away. If a myrtar deserves to be crowned he does—and he will be some day. Now take off your hats to his monument, raised to the man who is helpful at home, and copy him, too, if you want to be praised by wives and adored by your own. Although such a paragon never is seen upon pedestal here upon earth, in Heaven you'll find him, with angels loud chanting his worth.

Exposure

To cold draughts of air, to keen and cutting winds, sudden changes of temperature, scanty clothing, undue exposure of the throat and neck after public speaking and singing, bring on coughs and colds. Ballard's Horehound Syrup is the best cure.

Mrs. A. Barr, Houston Texas writes, Jan. 31, 1902: "One bottle of Ballard's Horehound Syrup cured me of a very bad cough. It is very pleasant to take." 25, 50c, $1.00. Sold by Woods & Orme.

In a Friendly Sort o' Way.

When a man's aint got a cent and he's feelin' kind o' blue, An' the clouds are dark an' heavy an' won't let no sunshine thro', It's a great thing, oh my brethren fer a feller just to lay His hand upon your shoulder in a friendly sort o' way.

It makes a man feel curious, it makes the tear drops start, An' you feel a sort o' flutter in the region of the heart; You don't look up and meet his eyes; you dont know what to say When his hand is on your shoulder in a friendly sort o' way.

Oh, the world a curious compound with its honey and its gall, With its care and bitter crosses; but a good word after all. An' a good God must have made it leastwys that; what I say; When a hand rests on my shoulder in a friendly sort o' way.

—James Whitcomb Riley.

Mrs. Josie Sumner, Brenond, Texas, writes, April 15, 1902: "I have used Ballard's Snow Liniment in my family for three years. I would not be without it in the house. I have used it on my little girl for growing pains and aches in her knees. It cured her right away. I have also used it for frost bitten feet, with good success. 'It is the best liniment I ever used.' 25c, 50c, $1.00. Sold by Woods & Orme.

A Strong Law in Kentucky.

Kentucky is the latest addition to the number of license states. Up to two years ago Kentucky was without even an active association of funeral directors. But through the agency of the association a bill was introduced into the legislature which has recently adjourned, and successfully passed. This was not accomplished without hard and persistent work. The following is the bill as it was finally passed:

AN ACT to establish a State Board of Embalming, defining the duties thereof, to provide for the better protection of life and health and to prevent the spread of contagious diseases, to regulate the practice of embalming, in connection with the care and disposition of the dead, and to provide a penalty for the violation thereof.

The law is as sweeping as that enacted in any state. It requires all persons practicing embalming in Kentucky to be examined and licensed. The governor is required to appoint a board of embalmers before the first of June and the board to meet and organize on the 2d of July. After September 1 next, none but licensed embalmers will be privileged to do embalming in Kentucky. It is proposed to arrange the first examination just following the meeting of the Kentucky Funeral Directors' Association, which is to be held in Louisville, beginning in August.

Disastrous Wrecks.

Carelessness is responsible for many a railway wreck and the same causes are making human wrecks of sufferers from throat and lung troubles. But since the advent of Dr. King's New Discovery for Consumption, Coughs and Colds, even the worst cases can be cured, and hopeless resignation is no longer necessary. Mrs. Lois Cragg of Dorchester, Mass., is one of many whose life was saved by Dr. King's New Discovery. This great remedy is guaranteed for all throat and lung diseases by Woods & Orme. Price 50c. and $1.00. Trial bottles free.

A life saved by FOERG'S REMEDY

the great blood purifier

Read this grateful letter from a prominent Kentuckian

Princeton, Ky., Feb. 4th, 1902.
I wish to state for the Foerg Remedy Co. of Evansville, Ind., that I believe their great Remedy, known as Foerg's Remedy, the great blood purifier, saved my brother's life some ten years ago. He was troubled with a blood disease, and it seemed he could get no relief until he took Foerg's Remedy same as manufactured by this company. After taking five bottles he was entirely relieved of his trouble, and when he died some five years ago he was entirely well of that disease. I also took two bottles as a blood purifier and was much benefited.

People do not become interested in these subjects until failing health or a distressing outbreak of the skin reminds them sharply of their ignorance. Is it any wonder then that so many become the easy prey of vipers both inside and outside the medical fraternity, and too often find a tragically early grave, where a little common sense knowledge would have shown them the signs of recovery and spared their lives. Know thyself!

AND HERE'S THE REMEDY
I forewarned is forearmed—let this warning sink deep in—obtain from us or from your druggist a trial quantity of the Remedy—test its efficiency the first time you have the opportunity, so that you may know for yourself and become an enthusiastic convert to the virtue and strength of our marvelous blood remedy—from then on you will refuse to be without it until your cure is effected. Why take chances? Why procrastinate a single day? Act now.

MRS. ANTOINETTE FUNK.

A Professional Woman Who Advises Women to Remain Domestic.

Mrs. Antoinette Funk is one of the cleverest women lawyers in Illinois. Mrs. Funk really grew up in the law office and the courtroom. Her father practiced law at Dwight, Ill., and when he died she went to live with her uncle, C. C. Strong, at Pontiac. In her uncle's law office she began her studies simply because she was fascinated with the business and not because she ever expected to enter the profession. In time she was married. After her two daughters were born she moved to Bloomington and there resumed her studies in the Illinois Wesleyan university. Before she finished her course she decided to take up the practice of law as soon as she could be admitted to the bar. Five years ago she was admitted to practice and since then has continually followed the profession.

For a professional woman Mrs. Funk has some extraordinary opinions about women in the professions. She does not believe in it. She is herself a lawyer by accident and not by design, and she deprecates the fact that women ever chose to enter public or semipublic life. She takes great interest in her work, but she says any woman is out of place in any of the professions.

"A woman is better off with a few babies at home than in a law office," says Mrs. Funk. "Woman's place is in the home, as it has always been. No change in social or economic conditions can alter that. The woman who enters a profession and assumes the duties and hardships of public life gets out of her natural environment. The continual and increasing drift of women toward public action is working an ill effect upon society, and the ill will grow greater as the proportion of professional women increases. "I have two young daughters. Both of them were born before I took up the practice of law. I shall do everything in my power to turn those girls from the thought of entering any profession. I shall teach them all the domestic arts so far as I can, for that is what they should know.

"The professions rob women of their domestic tastes. It cannot be denied that woman loses interest in her home duties the minute she begins her public work. Housework, which the old fashioned woman delighted in, has come to be scorned by the great majority of the well to do women. Of old it mattered not how much money a woman had at her command she did at least a considerable part of her own work. The same condition should exist today, but it does not. The only semblance of it left is fast disappearing under the influence of new tastes acquired by women."—Chicago Inter Ocean.

Be Careful How You Sit.

In sitting women are guilty of a number of sins of awkwardness. The stout woman, for example, invariably sits squarely, with feet planted about twelve inches apart and her toes turned out.

The lean, long legged woman, on the other hand, winds her feet round the legs of her chair or else crosses her legs and thrusts her feet out in front of her.

Now, the stout woman should "poise" herself and sit very erect. The lean woman should choose the highest possible seat and plant her feet firmly on the ground, thus reducing her excessive angularity.

The small woman also does some peculiar things. She either sits with her small feet dangling in a helpless way or perches herself on the edge of a high seat, with the toe of one foot touching the ground and the other foot hooked round the ankle of the first. Instead of aggravating the smallness of her stature she should choose the lowest chair in the room and sink gracefully into it.

But the greatest offender against this physical art is the mannish girl. Her very attempt to assume man's ease and freedom is the cause of her downfall. Her exaggerated attitudes indeed become absurd mimicry.

Beautifying a Door.

In a room recently seen tapestry was utilized in a most attractive way. The owner of the room explained that the doors of an otherwise promising apartment which she wished to convert into a library were of cheap wood with an ugly finish and hopelessly spoiled every decorative scheme that was tried. In this dilemma an artist friend suggested covering them with tapestry, which was done. The material is the good upholsterer's variety, to be had almost anywhere in satisfactory reproductions of antique designs. This was put on the doors to cover them entirely and evenly. Small invisible tacks were used, and afterward a narrow cord braid of so dull a shade that it was almost invisible was put on over the tacks. The casings were stained in a dark tint corresponding to the background of the tapestry, and outside of them, flat on the wall, was placed entirely around each door frame, from the floor at one side to the floor at the other, a band of the tapestry about six inches wide.—Table Talk.

Lighting the House.

In the lighting of houses plenty of light judiciously shaded is what best suits the majority. The idea in artificial lighting is to suggest the brightness and warmth of sunlight within the house walls. The only real sunlight color being pale yellow, this should be used largely. It is far more comfortable and more economical to have the light down low, surrounding and warming the occupants of the room, than to have it standing out cold and chill from a distance. The wax candle is untidy, and its light is not practicable for reading purposes, but for general purposes there is no purer or softer light. Many women prefer to have their drawing rooms underlighted.

To Clean Benares Brass.

Many of our flower-pots and vases in the fashionable "Benares brass work" will soon lose their luster, and readers may be glad to know that they can be kept bright by the following method of cleaning: The skins of lemons that have been used for culinary purposes may be utilized by turning them inside out and dipping them in silver sand. Apply these scourers to the cut brass, but never to a polished brass surface, and rub and polish afterward with a soft cloth. If lemons are not handy, powder some bath brick in a saucer, pour over it some vinegar and apply this with a piece of coarse flannel to the cut brass surface and polish with a soft duster.

The Kitchen Apron.

For the woman who must go into her own kitchen, even in afternoon dress, there is an apron to be had that will protect the daintiest gown from contact with pots and pans. It is made of heavy gingham in Mother Hubbard shape, the neck being cut out square and buttoned behind, reaching to the floor, where it is finished by a ruffle that makes it stand out from the gown to catch the drops that might fall. To go with these aprons are sleeves of the same material that cover the bottom of the dress sleeves, and then, too, there is a cap to cover the hair.

A Woman's Enterprise.

I obtained the use of one window in a grocery store, where I displayed for sale each Saturday afternoon such home cooked delicacies as would serve nicely for Sunday dinner or luncheon. Bread, cakes, salads, desserts, cold meats, etc., were prepared on Friday afternoon or Saturday morning. I planned a different variety each week. In addition to this I filled small orders during the week and have made on an average about $5 a week for two years, or nearly $500 in all.—Ladies' Home Journal.

The Baby's Gums.

Inflamed gums caused by teething are quickly relieved if a little lemon juice is rubbed on. Dip your finger in the lemon and then rub it on baby's gums. There will probably be an increase of crying at first, but relief will soon follow. If the skin is stretched tightly over the tooth and the gum hard and swollen it probably needs lancing. The first sign of coming teeth is an increased flow of saliva—dribbling, as it is usually called.

Warming Dishes.

The practice of putting dishes in the oven to warm them for the table is a bad one. The dry heat causes the enamel to crack in time, and then the grease soon penetrates them to their utter ruin. Put the dishes to be heated in a dishpan and pour boiling water over them. Let them stand and steam until ready to serve the meal, then wipe with a clean, dry towel.

The Dominant Sex.

No matter what may be the cause of the prominence now given to the fads and fallibilities of womanhood, there can be no gainsaying that at the present moment woman is the dominant sex, and we begin to wonder how she ever came to be called the "weaker."—London Court Journal.

Be Young as You Can.

Let no old woman be afraid some one will say, "Why, she goes about like a young girl!" If you feel light and easy in motion, even if you are old, why be staid, moping, artificial, because you are supposed to be so, being no longer young?

A Berlin woman's club, of which Frau Cauer is the leader, has a membership of 5,000, all working women. The organization publishes a paper and finds situations for the unemployed.

Whenever a woman's house shall be her palace, her pride, her delight, she will not be the victim of ennui or vanity or discontent.

Delicate crockery such as tea services should never be washed with soda, as this tends to make the ware brittle.

Milk will keep sweet longer in a shallow bowl than in a deep jug.

YOUR KIDNEYS ARE THEY WELL?

Unless they are, good health is impossible.

Every drop of blood in the body passes through and is filtered by healthy kidneys every three minutes. Sound kidneys strain out the impurities from the blood, diseased kidneys do not, hence you are sick. FOLEY'S KIDNEY CURE makes the kidneys well so they will eliminate the poisons from the blood. It removes the cause of the many diseases resulting from disordered kidneys which have allowed your whole system to become poisoned.

Rheumatism, Bad Blood, Gout, Gravel, Dropsy, Inflammation of the Bladder, Diabetes and Bright's Disease, and many others, are all due to disordered kidneys. A simple test for Kidney disease is to set aside your urine in a bottle or glass for twenty-four hours. If there is a sediment or a cloudy appearance, it indicates that your kidneys are diseased, and unless something is done they become more and more affected until Bright's Disease or Diabetes develops.

FOLEY'S KIDNEY CURE is the only preparation which will positively cure all forms of Kidney and Bladder troubles, and cure you permanently. It is a safe remedy and certain in results.

If You are a sufferer, take FOLEY'S KIDNEY CURE at once. It will make you well.

Some Pronounced Incurable

Mr. G. A. Stillson, a merchant of Tampico, Ill., writes: "FOLEY'S KIDNEY CURE is meeting with wonderful success. It has cured some cases here that physicians pronounced incurable. I myself am able to testify to its merits. My face today is a living picture of health and FOLEY'S KIDNEY CURE has made it such."

Had Lumbago and Kidney Trouble

Edward Huss, a well known business man of Salisbury, Mo., writes: "I wish to say for the benefit of others, that I was a sufferer from lumbago and kidney trouble, and all the remedies I took gave me no relief. I began to take FOLEY'S KIDNEY CURE, and after the use of three bottles I am cured."

KITCHEN CONVENIENCES.

A Compact Cabinet That Saves Many Steps When Cooking.

The simple homestead kitchen cabinet devised by a reader of the Tribune Farmer and here illustrated has compartments for flour, flour sifter, mixing bowl and baking tins, with a sliding pie or bread board at convenient height, and above this shelves for spices, baking powders and the various ingredients used in cooking. Another useful addition where one has a small room to work in would be a hinged table, which may be dropped when not in use. And still more convenient is the small table fitted with casters, which may be easily rolled from one place to another. With a light, high stool in the kitchen, dish wiping, looking over fruit, preparing vegetables and even ironing may be done sitting down instead of standing, thus relieving the aching back and tired feet.

Tissue Paper and Hangers.

There is no better way of keeping sleeves, especially blouse sleeves of thin fabrics, in good condition than by stuffing them with tissue paper. If this paper is placed beneath flounces it gives an added freshness and avoids the drooping that so often follows a day's wearing. A good way of keeping a walking skirt in shape is to see that it is always carefully hung by two loops. The contour will be much better kept if the hangers can be arranged for a skirt that has either wide or narrow width in the front. Care is taken by the well groomed woman that her coats, especially her walking coats, are placed on hangers. Silk petticoats keep their crispness much longer if they are hung upside down. When hung in this way the loops are placed among the flounces and made so small as to be invisible when the skirt is worn.

Cleaning Hints.

The Cooking Club gives some good cleaning methods. A tablespoonful of vinegar mixed with three of pure linseed oil will freshen and polish mahogany. Alcohol cleans piano keys; kerosene, oilcloth table and shelf covers. For sponging out bureau drawers or sideboards use tepid water containing a small quantity of thymol. To clean a clock lay in the bottom a rag saturated with kerosene. The fumes loosen the dirt and cause it to drop out. In a few days place another cloth saturated in kerosene in the clock. The fumes lubricate the works.

A Woman Press Agent.

Miss Ida McGlone Gibson is a very successful theatrical press agent, whose home is in New York. Her services are retained by a well known company, and, besides securing newspaper notices, she is called upon to arrange matters of transportation, the billing of towns, etc. Miss Gibson says that she would advise any woman to take up the work who possesses good health, executive ability and newspaper training.

THE PROPOSAL.

He thought that he would woo her as a lyric poet might.

Enthused about her sapphire eyes, and fair like sunshine bright, And vowed he'd wooed her by day and dreamed of her by night.

The medieval style he mused may be the best, perchance—

He'd tell his lovely lady faire that for a favoring glance Against all other rival knights He'd fearless break his lance.

Perhaps a simpler way were best:

"Sweet maid this earthly life Is but a hard and stormy path with clouds and shadows rife,

My strong arm would protect you, dear; oh sweet one be my wife."

But this is what he really said, in very husky tones,

While sweatdrops on his forehead stood and trembling were his tones,

"Dear Kate—er Miss Kate—er I mean I ought to say Miss Jones

If we get married—er—I mean, his voice was none too clear,

"I'm earning—er—fifteen a week, it's not enough, I fear."

The maiden blushed and murmured low, "let's try it, Willie, dear."

—Elsie Duncan Yale in the June Woman's Home Companion.

Greatest Ocean Depths.

The deepest sounding ever made by any vessel was by the U. S. ship Nero, while on the Honolulu and Manila cable survey, and with cable borrowed from the Albatros. When near Guam the Nero got 5,260 fathoms, or 31,560 ft. only 66 feet less than six miles. If Mount Everest, the highest mountain on earth, were set down in this hole, it would have above its summit a depth of 2,612 feet, or nearly half a mile of water.—National Geographic Magazine.

MARION WOOLEN MILLS WILL BEGIN BUSINESS MAY 1.

They have in their employ a wool comber of 45 years experience and will guarantee first class work on first class material, and will replace same on return of roles to our mill where fault is due to our neglect or carelessness. A $25.00 Bed Room Suite will be given away. Every customer of Marion Woolen Mills will get a free draw at this suite for every 10 pounds of wool to be carded and those who buy their roles from us to the amount of 2 pounds of first class wool at 40 cts. per pound or 4 pounds second class at 20 cts. per pound. There will be a committee of three disinterested men who shall seal a number between 1 and 1,000 and hold that number until December 1, 1904, when the contest shall close. Even the committee will not know what the lucky number is.

Two will choose 12 numbers, place them in a cigar box, shake them well, place them on a table, blindfold the third man who is holding an envelope. They lead him to the box, then the other two will take their seats in the rear of the room. The man who wears the hood-wink will raise the lid, draw one of the 12 tickets, placing it in the envelope and sealing it. He will then close the lid to the box, remove the hood-wink, take the box and remaining tickets and place them in the fire, burn them up. One thousand tickets will be placed in envelopes same as lucky number and placed in shoe case. Customers will draw one envelope from the case, place his name on envelope and drop in ballot box, keys to to which are held by the committee, which will be opened on closing day of contest by the committee. The one holding same number as held by committee gets the suite free. Not a living soul will know what the lucky number is until close of contest and opened by the committee, who will take and carefully examined customers' numbers. All who ship or send their wool shall get a draw.

Whooping Cough.

"In the spring of 1901 my children had whooping cough," says Mrs. D. W. Capps, of Capps, Ala. "I used Chamberlain's Cough Remedy with the most satisfactory results. I think this is the best remedy I have ever seen for whooping cough." This remedy keeps the cough loose, lessens the severity and frequency of the coughing spells and counteracts any tendency toward pneumonia. For sale by Woods & Orme.

When you find it hard to feel kindly toward any one, when the sight or memory of him awakens bitterness, stop thinking for a little while of the wrong he has done you, and going deep into your own heart, try to discover what injustice or injury you have been guilty of toward him. It is almost sure to be there somewhere, for the wrong that is unforgivable is never the one we have received, but always the one we have done another.

A Positive Necessity.

Having to lay upon my bed for 14 days from a severely bruised leg, I only found relief when I used a bottle of Ballard's Snow Liniment. I can cheerfully recommend it as the best medicine for bruises ever sent to the afflicted. It has now become a positive necessity upon myself. D. R. Byrnes, Merchant, Droversville, Texas. 25c. &c., $1.00. Sold by Woods and Orme.

THROWS CHILD IN RIVER.

Des Moines, Ia., May 20.—Swinning her three year old baby girl about her head so as to give to the body the greatest momentum, Mrs. Trussler, a demented woman from St. Paul, today threw her offspring from the bridge into the muddy waters of the Des Moines river. Then deliberating until the water had closed over the little form she climbed upon the railing stood poised for a moment and leaped close to the spot where her child had gone down. A riverman saw the act, rowed to the scene, and was able to rescue both. The child may die.

Saturday night burglars broke into the hardware store of Cochran & Pickens and into Schwab's produce house. At each place the burglars made an entrance through a window, after first demolishing the glass. At the hardware store they got about $2.50 in silver, and a number of pocket knives were also missing, just how many could not be ascertained. At the produce house they also broke into the money drawer, getting about 100 pennies. A box of postage stamps remained unmolested. Sunday morning the City Marshal of Morganfield was telephoned for, and he came with his blood hounds, but the dogs failed to find a trail of the burglars. A number of other burglaries have occurred here recently, but so far the city authorities have been unable to find any clue that would lead to the arrest and punishment of the guilty party or parties.

HINTS FOR FARMERS

The Farmer Has the Best of It.
Many farmers have had a dull and hard winter. The fearful cold, has prevented them from doing their usual work and has made the season lonely and disagreeable. They would not complain if they could know how workmen in town and city have been doing. If a farmer cannot work as he would like he at least has his home, and if he has been thrifty there are fuel and food on hand. When the town workman loses his job his cash expenses still go on, and he must eat into his little savings. The past winter has been tough on the mechanic. He has lost many days at his trade, and his incomes have been cut down. The cost of fuel and rent have been high, and there has been little left for food and clothing. If a farmer who thinks his life is lonely and hard had come to the city and seen how workmen were living, he would have been very thankful that he had a farm to go back to. If we hunt for them we can find things about farm life that are not just what we would like, but if we could see city life as we see our own we would be very slow to change.—Rural New Yorker.

Keeping Black Horses Black.
It is a little trouble to keep a black horse black, but it can be done, remarks a writer in Michigan Farmer. Never allow a horse to stand in the sun for any length of time, especially if he is black, as he fades too easily. Five minutes in the hot sun when the horse is wet with sweat is sufficient to start the color. At any time a black horse will fade if allowed to stand so the sun's rays get fixed on that powerful heat pulser, his black coat. I drive a black team that is as black in July as January, and the team does the work on an eight-acre farm, with the occasional help of the driver, as in haying. My plan is to have a few shade trees scattered around the field. Along the fences they take up little room and grow where we usually stop. It takes only a little extra time to place the horses in the shade when standing and saves their color, which is worth as much for a farmer to look at as it is to any other class of people. And if it is a horse you wish to sell his looks will enable you to sell him for enough more to more than pay for the extra trouble.

Co-operative Elevators.
Co-operative farmers' elevators in the grain producing states, wisely planned and conducted under good business environment, are an unquestioned success, not always, but with enough frequency to warrant the assertion. The movement has grown until a considerable number are in successful operation in the central west, hinting at what might be accomplished in Michigan, Ohio, etc. Farther west, in Illinois and Iowa, where some signal successes have been recorded, the average gain of well conducted farmers' elevators is regarded sufficient to warrant further wise extension of the general plan, which has long since passed the experimental stage. But it does not mean unwisely rushing into a proposition of this character any more than in the case of farmers contemplating the establishment of a canning plant or similar co-operative enterprise. In all cases the situation must be thoroughly canvassed and the wisest judgment and management used in attaining success.—American Agriculturist.

Bordeaux Mixture.
Material for this standard preparation should be kept on hand by every orchardist or gardener. Its composition is as follows:
Copper (bluestone), five pounds; quicklime, five pounds; water, forty-five gallons.
Dissolve the copper (bluestone) in a barrel containing ten or twelve gallons of water. Slake the quicklime and thin it to a creamy whitewash. Pour the whitewash very slowly through a wire screen into the copper solution. Stir the mixture thoroughly and add enough water to make forty-five gallons in all. Stir occasionally while applying as a spray to the trees.
In the preparation of the bordeaux mixture it is necessary that the ingredients should be mixed in a wooden vessel. If an iron one is used the copper will go to the iron and the effect of the spray is largely neutralized. Apply the wash cold and as soon after it is prepared as possible. Never allow it to stand overnight.

Aspiring Wheat.
Macaroni wheat is by nature a spring wheat. This fact is important in view of the general wheat situation of the southwest at this time. Much fall sown wheat has been destroyed by dry weather. Planted late in the fall a large portion came up partially and died down in the face of dry weather. Much of this land is still in good condition for wheat. Think on the price of May wheat and arrange to plant a sure crop wheat by seeding some land to the hard wheats now available.—Dallas Farm and Ranch.

Lime For Small Fruits.
Experiments have shown that by the use of nitrate of soda greater yields of Fay and White Dutch currants are produced than with sulphate of ammonia. Liming is extremely helpful to each of these varieties. In raspberry growing lime has proved beneficial when used in connection with both sulphate of ammonia and nitrate of soda. The best results followed where it was used in connection with sulphate of ammonia.

Nitrate of Soda For Small Grains.
At the New Jersey experiment station a top dressing of nitrate of soda at the rate of 150 pounds per acre sown broadcast about April 1 increased the yield of wheat, rye and millet and

The grave of the German poet Heine, in the Montmartre cemetery, Paris, is said to be visited by more persons than Zola's, which is quite near it. It is customary for visitors to leave their cards. All the region of the upper Amazon and its tributaries offers magnificent facilities for cattle ranching. Expert estimates of the probable manufacture of automobiles in several states of the Union in 1904 give the principal place to Michigan, with Ohio second. Even Massachusetts and Wisconsin surpass New York in the list, while Illinois makes an extremely poor showing. Detroit and Cleveland are the two cities which surpass all others in this republic as centers of the production of the self motors. It seems odd that New York and Chicago should lag behind them so far.
The $1,236,000 asked by the secretary of the navy for gun practice during the year seems enormous until one considers the cost of firing the big guns now in use. To fire a thirteen-inch gun costs for powder and shell about $500. Four times a year they are exercised in big gun practice with regulation charges, each man of the gun crew firing four shots at these trials. There are seven men in the gun crew on these guns. To fire a four-inch gun costs $17.75 for powder and shell, and a one-pounder $3.47.

FEARED HER HUSBAND.

Hodgenville, Ky., May 20.—Fearing bodily harm from an irate husband, Mrs. Lettie Skaggs, of Green county, bedridden with fever, crawled from her couch, and getting a shotgun leveled it across the foot of the bed and pulled the trigger, the contents taking effect in the right side of Wallace Scags as he entered the door of their home last night about 10:30 o'clock. Too weak to notify their neighbors of the tragedy, the woman crawled back into bed and remained there alone until morning, with the corpse of her husband lying where it fell.
At the coroner's inquest it developed that Scags came to his death from a shotgun wound at the hands of his wife. Frequent quarrels had taken place between the husband and wife of late, and which finally resulted in the tragedy.

Weak lungs should be careful. Coughs and colds are dangerous then. One Minute Cough Cure cures coughs and colds and gives strength to the lungs. Mrs. G. E. Fenner, of Marion, Ind., says, "I suffered with a cough until I ran down in weight from 148 to 92 lbs. I tried a number of remedies to no avail until I used One Minute Cough Cure. Four bottles of this wonderful remedy cured me entirely of the cough, strengthened my lungs and restored me to my normal weight, health and strength. Sold by all druggists."

MISHAPS.

A mercantile company pasted a large poster on a bridge. The wind caused it to flutter and scare a team. The team tipped the wagon over and broke two dozen eggs, a hame strap, the driver's leg and an axletree. They ran away and through a garden, tipping a beehive over. The bees stung a young lady of the house until her lips swelled to such immense proportions that her best fellow left her and went to the Philippines. The driver sued the firm for damages. One hundred and eighty witnesses were called. When they were asked what was advertised on the poster not one could tell. Moral: Paste your advertisement on the page of the home paper and keep it alive—not the paper, but the ad.—West Baden Journal.

LET IT GO.

If you have had an unfortunate experience this year, forget it. If you have made a failure in your speech, your song, your book, or your article; if you have been placed in an embarrassing position; if you have fallen and hurt yourself, by a false step, or if you have been slandered and abused do not dwell upon it, forget it. There is not a single redeeming feature in these memories, and the presence of their ghosts will rob you of many a happy hour. There is nothing valuable in them. Wipe them out of your mind forever. Drop them.

If you have been indiscreet or imprudent, if you have been talked about, or if your reputation has been injured so that you fear you can never outgrow or redeem it, do not drag the hideous shadows of the rattling skeleton about with you. Rub them from the slate of memory; wipe them out. Forget them; start with a clean slate and spend your energies in keeping it clean for the future.

Resolve that, whatever you do or do not do, you will not be haunted by skeletons nor cherish shadows. They must get out and give place to the sunshine. Determine that you will have nothing to do with discords, but that every one of them must get out of your mind. No matter how formidable or persistent; wipe them out. Forget them; have nothing to do with them; do not let the little enmities, worryings and forebodings, anxiety and regrets, sap your energy, for this is your success and happiness capital.

A gloomy face, a sour expression, a worrying mind, or a fretting disposition is a proof of an absence of self control. It is an earmark of your weakness, a confession of inability to cope with your environment. Drive it away, dominate yourself.

Dismiss from your mind any suggestion that has to do with illness. If you have had an operation, it is over; let it glide into the shadows, the background of memory; do not dwell upon it, do not think upon it.

A despondent young writer remarked that while he was in the west he used to watch the cows on the prairies, and could not help envying them. "I used often to heave a sigh and wish I were a cow," What keeps them so content?" he asked a farmer. "Oh, they are enjoying themselves, and chewing their cuds," replied the farmer.

The trouble with many of us is that we do not relish chewing our cuds—letting go of our aches, pains, and anxieties and just enjoying ourselves. We cannot bear to let them go; we cling to them like a thrifty housewife, who can not bear to throw away a rag or a scrap of anything but pile useless rubbish in the attic. We can not bear to let our enemies go; we can not seem to kick out of doors the things that worry, and fret, and chafe, and you never do us a particle of good.

We Americans keep our muscles tense and our nerves up to such a pitch that it is the hardest thing in the world for us to drop things. We chafe and fret instead of just resting without being haunted by the skeletons of care, of anxiety and of business.

Who can estimate the medicinal power of one cheerful life in the home—of one serene, balanced soul?
The workman who rejoices in his work and laughs away his discomfort is the man who is sure to rise, for it is what we do easily and what we like to do that we do well.

The most of us make our backs ache carrying useless, foolish burdens. We carry luggage and rubbish that are of no earthly use, but which sap our strength and keep us jaded and tired to no purpose. If we could only learn to hold on to the things worth while and drop the rubbish, letting go the useless, the foolish, the silly, the hamperers add the things that hinder, we should not only make progress, but we should also keep happier brighter and more harmonious.

CHARGES FRAUD.

Mayville, Ky., May 20.—R. M. Pindell, representing the National Civil Service Commission at Washington, is here investigating the examination held last fall for rural route carriers. Charges are made that the examination was unfair and irregular, and that the routes were given to Democrats over the Republicans who claim to have higher per cent than the former.

A Cure For Piles.

"I had a bad case of piles," says G. F. Carter, of Atlanta, Ga., "and consulted a physician who advised me to try a box of DeWitt's Witch Hazel Salve. I purchased a box and was entirely cured. It is splendid for piles, giving relief instantly, and I heartily recommend it to all sufferers." DeWitt's Witch Hazel Salve is unequalled for its healing qualities. A PLUCKY WOMAN.

Snoqualmie, Wash., May 20.—Mrs. A. J. Barlow, wife of a section foreman in Snoqualmie, saved the life of C. J. Ingraham, a telegraph operator who was shot by a bandit, and then telegraphed the alarm to headquarters, resulting in the capture of the guilty outlaw.
Ingraham was shot twice in his office by a robber, who then looted the place. Mrs. Barlow heard the shots and found Ingraham lying on the floor, desperately wounded.

In response to her telegram to the train dispatcher a special train was sent for Ingraham, whose wounds she meanwhile had dressed. He was taken to the hospital while a detail of railroad men captured the robber.

An Open Letter.

From the Chapin, S. C., News: Early in the spring my wife and I were taken with diarrhoea and so severe were the pains that we called a physician who prescribed for us, but his medicine failed to give any relief. A friend who had a bottle of Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy on hand gave each of us a dose and we at once felt the effects. I procured a bottle and before using the entire contents we were entirely cured. It is a wonderful remedy and should be found in every home hold. H. C. Bailey, Editor. WASHINGTON LETTER

(Special Correspondence.)

Representative Gibson of Tennessee was in the commissary department of the Union army during the civil war. In December, 1863, he was ordered from Washington to a point on the eastern shore of Maryland. It was desperately cold. There was no way of getting there except by wagon, and Gibson took an ambulance and two mules and started to drive. It took him two days to get there. When he arrived his mules were in such bad condition that they died. Gibson was court-martialed by order of General Birney, who was in command in that department, on the charge of over-driving the mules, and it was with great difficulty that he cleared himself.

A short time ago Representative Gibson made a speech at an entertainment at one of the Lutheran churches in Washington. After he had concluded an aged, gray bearded man approached him and said:

"Gibson, I still maintain you over-drove those mules."

The gray bearded man was General Birney, whom Gibson had not seen since the court martial episode of 1863.

Looking For Walker.

Rear Admiral John G. Walker devotes more time to canal matters than to fashion plates, and could hardly be called spick and span in the civilian clothes he wears at his work. A stranger would be far more likely to take Admiral Walker for a countryman than a retired navy officer. His long whiskers are of the type so popular in rural dramas, and his rolling walk might well be taken for the movement acquired by following a plow.

A brusque young man in search of the canal commission encountered Admiral Walker in a corridor of the Corcoran building and asked perily:

"Can you tell me where I will find Walker?"

"Yes," Admiral Walker replied. "Just come with me."

The dapper young fellow followed Admiral Walker into his office. The admiral took a seat behind his desk and invited the young man to sit down.

"Well, what can I do for you?" Admiral Walker asked of the young man, who began to squirm uneasily in his chair.

Mixed on the Classics.

A newspaper correspondent in Washington was chatting with ex-representative Gill of Ohio when the latter said something in an indistinct voice which the correspondent thought was a reference to Charlie Landis, the Indiana congressman.

"Yes," said the correspondent; "Charlie Landis is a very nice fellow. So is his brother, Fred Landis. Speaking of Fred Landis reminds me—"

Mr. Gill upraised his voice in tones of haughty scorn. "I did not say 'Charlie Landis,' he said in icy tones. 'I said Coriolanus, he who, as the classics tell us, was called from the plow to the helm of state.'"

The correspondent subsided and slunk abjectly out of the room.

When the correspondent told this story to his colleagues one of them said: "The joke was not on you, but on this haughty man Gill. It was Coriolanus who was called from the plow, not Coriolanus."

"The idea of Gill not knowing that!" exclaimed the correspondent indignantly. "And he comes from Ohio too."

Quoted Scripture at Him.

Milt H. Saul, a well known Washington correspondent, had been hammering in his newspaper a certain congressman whose conception of his public duties did not appeal to him. For some time hardly a week had gone by that Mr. Saul had not taken a shot at his victim. One day Mr. Saul was standing in the corridor of the capitol when the congressman hove in sight and immediately bore down upon him. Mr. Saul was uncertain whether the congressman intended merely to upbraid or to inflict bodily harm, and he prepared for all emergencies. He stood his ground and cast at the congressman an inflexible and determined gaze. The latter seized him by the lapel of his coat, bent over and looked him in the eye with a searching stare. Then he said sadly:

"Saul, Saul, why persecutest thou me?"

Thought Taft an "Easy Mark."

Secretary Taft was hurrying away from the White House after Friday's cabinet meeting when one of the newspaper correspondents pursued him down the steps from the office building and asked him a question relating to the isthmus of Panama.

"Isn't that a matter under the control of the state department?" he asked as he stopped in the middle of the street.

"That may be," agreed his interlocutor, "but I know that it is also a matter in which you are greatly interested and know a good deal about, so I thought I'd ask you instead of Secretary Hay."

"Now, say," exclaimed Mr. Taft, looking sharply at the scribe, "Isn't it a fact that you ask me because you think I'm an easier mark than Secretary Hay?"

Tillman's Definitions.

Mr. Tillman instructed the senate the other day about farming, and in the course of his talk asserted that "a farmer is a man who makes his living with his hands, while an agriculturist is a man who makes a living with his mouth." He added, "I fear there are too many agriculturists in the senate."

But this was hardly less entertaining than his dissertation about African broad tail sheep and Brahmin oxen, rare breeds of live stock in South Carolina during the former palmy days, which breeds, according to Mr. Tillman, have now disappeared by reason of "negroes, dogs and poverty."

BREAKING PROMISES.

Thousands of people look upon breaking a promise as lightly as they do on telling things that are not true. Let me tell you, every time you break a promise you lower your standard of honesty just as much as when you tell an untruth. If you wish to be successful in the business world you must be very careful and never break a promise once made. Each thing grows and if you get into the habit of breaking promises they in the end will be your undoing.

Just so with telling things that are untrue; he who follows this course will unconsciously invite others to be untruthful and dishonest in their dealings with him. He who allows himself to practice this too long finds himself so deeply grounded in this evil that it will be hard for him to detect truth from falsehood. The man who will entertain truth only and is always truthful with others knows intuitively whether one is truthful to him or not. And this knowledge is worth lots of money to one in the business world. Try to remember always that we reap just what we sow.

BLACK-DRAUGHT STOCK and POULTRY MEDICINE

Stock and poultry have few troubles which are not bowel and liver irregularities. Black-Draught Stock and Poultry Medicine is a bowel and liver remedy for stock. It puts the organs of digestion in a perfect condition. Prominent American breeders and farmers keep their herds and flocks healthy by giving them an occasional dose of Black-Draught Stock and Poultry Medicine in their food. Any stock raiser may buy a 25-cent half-pound air-tight can of this medicine from his dealer and keep his stock in vigorous health for weeks. Dealers generally keep Black-Draught Stock and Poultry Medicine. If yours does not, send 25 cents for a sample can to the manufacturers, The Chattanooga Medicine Co., Chattanooga, Tenn.

ROCHESTER, GA., Jan. 30, 1902. Black-Draught Stock and Poultry Medicine is the best I ever tried. Our stock was looking bad when you sent me the medicine and now they are getting so fine. They are looking 50 per cent better. S. P. BROCKINGTON.

JURY DISPLEASED.

Bristol, Tenn., May 14.—It is learned tonight that the jury of inquest today wired Dr J. Wentz father of the late Edward Wentz, a protest as regarding his comments on the verdict of the jury, and asking him what he meant by saying that the verdict was probably intended to clear the skirts of the men who murdered his son.

The jury is very much displeased with the remarks credited to Dr. Wentz and will take such steps as may be necessary to vindicate themselves.

A telegram from Wise, Va. this evening states that nothing whatever has been seen of the Wentz will. The will has to go to Wise to be probated. The telegram discredits the idea that Wentz ever made a will, but the impression at Big Stone Gap is that there can be no doubt about the existence of a will and that it provide for about $100,000 in stocks and bonds for Miss Cornelia Brookmire, of St. Louis, the young lady who was to marry Wentz.

The will, it is claimed, has no reference to the interest young Wentz had in the the Virginia Coal and iron company of which he was manager. The fact that a will existed has been closely guarded all those months and the attorneys for the company have declined to give any information on the subject.

Only Himself to Blame

Von Humbolt once said: "it is my conviction that a man has only himself to blame if his life appears to him at any time void of interest or pleasure." He was an authority for he filled his own life with the greatest and most varied work, the noblest friendships and the highest thought, and 90 years still found him young in spirit. His secret was that he put so much into life, in his energies and affections, that he inevitably received a great deal from it in return, and this method is within any one's reach.

RISKS OF FEATHERED TRIBE

Birds Liable to as Many Accidents as Other Creatures.

Of all creatures birds are most exempt from liability to accident, yet they not infrequently lose their lives in most unexpected ways. Once above trees and buildings they have the whole upper air free of every obstacle and though their flight sometimes equals the speed of a railroad train they have little to fear when well above ground. Collision with other birds seems scarcely possible, but it sometimes occurs. When a covey of quail are flushed occasionally two birds will collide, at times meeting with such force that both are stunned. Flycatchers darting at the same insect will now and then come together, but not hard enough to injure either bird. In the English papers a few years ago a rare accident was recorded—a heron had spiked itself on one of the pointed iron arms of a cross surmounting a church steeple. Even the smallest and most wonderful of all fliers, the humming bird, may come to grief in accidental ways, as was recently shown by the case of a tiny bird of the ruby throated variety which became entangled in the hooks of a burdock bur and died a prisoner before help could free it.

Young phobes sometimes become entangled in the horsehair which are used in the lining of the nest. When they are old enough to fly and attempt to leave they are held prisoners or left dangling from the nest. When mink traps are set in the snow in winter owls frequently fall victims, mice being scarce and the bait tempting.

Lighthouses are perhaps the cause of more accidents to birds than any other obstacle they encounter on their nocturnal migrations north and south. Many hundreds are found dead at the base of such structures. The sudden glare is so confusing and blinding as they shoot from intense darkness into its circle of radiance that they are completely bewildered and dash headlong against the thick panes of glass. Telegraph wires are another menace to low flying birds, especially those which, like quail and woodcock, enjoy a whirlwind and attain great speed within a few yards. Such birds have been found cut almost in two by the force with which they struck the wire.

The elements frequently catch birds unawares and overpower them. A sudden wind or storm will drive coast flying birds hundreds of miles out to sea, and oceanic birds may be blown as far inland. Hurricanes in the West Indies are said to cause the deaths of innumerable birds, as well as other creatures. Small islands are known to have become completely depopulated of their feathered inhabitants from such a cause. Violent hailstorms, coming without warning in warm weather, are quite common agents in the destruction of birds, and thousands of English sparrows have been stricken in a city during such a storm.

Ruffed grouse have a habit of burrowing deep beneath the snow in winter and letting the storm shut them in. They spend the night in this warm, cozy retreat, their breath making its way out through the loosely packed crystals. But this becomes a fatal trap when a cold rain sets in during the night and an impenetrable crust cuts off their means of escape.—New York Post.

The Crater of Mount Etna.

A writer in Forest and Stream, telling of his view of the crater of Mount Etna, says: I threw myself flat upon the ground with my head over the rim and took a look down into what the Sicilians call the mouth of hell. A vast column of steam was shooting up into the heavens. This was so impregnated with sulphurous fumes that I was obliged to keep several thicknesses of my shawl over my mouth and nose to prevent strangulation. Occasionally a blast of wind would drive back the steam, allowing me to see far down into this horrid inferno. The crater itself is three miles in circumference. The inner side of the rim was variegated with colors of red, orange and yellow from the sulphur fumes. A Milton or a Dante could not do justice to the terrific grandeur of the scene. According to the ancient Greeks and Romans, this is the workshop of Vulcan, where he forges his thunderbolts for Jove. I could not see the old fellow, but the rumbling sound I heard far down in those black depths must have been he grumbling at his work.

Since our last writing a little altercation occurred in one of our business houses, on which occasion some very uncomplimentary remarks were indulged in by both parties, and as things were growing unpleasantly warm, and one of the parties realizing that there was more than one way out of a thing, made a rush for the back door which, luckily, happened to be open; and through which an exit was easily made, and in less time than it takes to pen this he was at home under his own vine fig tree and all in one piece.
