MINING MATTERS.

The Big Riley Separating Mill Now in Operation.
What is Doing at the Cullen.

General Manager Finley of the Lucile mine has some very fine samples of "Jack", which were taken from the Lucile mine. Sulphide of zinc is worth almost double what carbonate is, and we hope he will find it by the ton.

At the mines of the Louisville and Marion Mining Co. they are on the move. They now have 100 tons apart on the dump ready to ship. They have struck a rich vein of lead, which is as good as has been found anywhere in this field. The price now of lead is $50 a ton, and it don't take many big chunks to make a ton either. The owners of this mine are much elated over the developments. The farther they go the richer it gets.

C. S. Knight, the General Manager of the Marion Zinc Co., is here. The big mill at the Riley mine will soon be running regularly. The crushers were tested yesterday and worked like a charm. The company has completed several houses for their men and are now erecting a telephone line. They are also figuring on putting in their own teams and wagons to haul to the railroad. Everything that is being done is of the quality which means reliability and permanence. They are in the business to stay, and are now in position to reap the profits on their property.

THERE IS NO SUBSTITUTE

Our New Salem correspondent sends the following:

Everybody and their grandpa and grandma attended the barbecue at the Cullen mines on the 30th. We never saw a more orderly crowd.

John Harpending was in Ill. last week looking after some mineral property in that state.

There will be considerable prospecting done by our farmers as soon as the push of farm work is over; that is, men who have signed no options on their land.

What great changes have come over this part of Ky. in the last 5 years we can see; what is in store for us in the future no one can tell. We look back a few years and see our farmers, 90 per cent of them, bending their backs over a tobacco plant; every industry seemed dead; 75 per cent or more of the money they handled came from the sale of their tobacco crops at the end of the year, and what little money it brought them did not get to stay in their hands no longer than they could get to their merchant and their doctor, and 10 chances to 1 the crop failed to pay them out and they had to give their notes for what the tobacco money failed to pay. What changes have come since. Our county's were found to possess an abundance of the best paying minerals except gold and silver, etc., in the world. Now how different with the farmers! The tobacco acreage is beat down 90 per cent, if not more; our highways are crowded with wagons and teams, loaded with sugar, zinc, lead, etc, making their way to the nearest railroad or to the nearest steamboat landing. And then once every month each and every company pays off its employees, they go where they please to trade. Why? Because they have the cash to pay for what they get. Our county court clerk and deputies are not kept busy recording mortgages against a crop of tobacco or maybe the only horse or milk cow the family owns. But the word of prosperous times has not reached us yet; no, sir, not yet.

Your correspondent visited the now famous Cullen and Nancy Hanks mines one day last week. At the Cullen the last story is up and covered. We don't know how we would feel were we on top of this stupendous building, and that is one of the things we will never know. It makes our head swim to stand on the ground and look up to the top of this house. We say it will pay any one to lose a day to see this wonderful building, with its mammoth crushers, rollers, stamps and in fact machinery that no one except those interested knows what they are. The Nancy Hanks was looked up but from the hundreds of tons of fine mineral lying around in bins, shows that they are not idle. What all this vast amount of labor and expending of tens of thousands of dollars means to this county no one can tell; but only a few years and we will see our people among the most prosperous in Kentucky.

There is no competition in mining; every one has the same opportunity, and courage to grasp it is indispensable to success. In summing up the situation we believe that if an investor is reasonably sure that the people connected with a mining company are honest, that the money invested will be used for the purpose specified, and that the management will be conservative, he may feel that he has a reasonable chance to get a good return for his investment.

The business outlook is growing clearer, and sentiment is becoming more imbued with a spirit of hopefulness. The general trade situation is certain to improve greatly if crops prove large enough to lay the foundation for another period of prosperity. It is obvious that better times are anticipated, and there are several factors at work to produce them. Money is plentiful supply, and when increased activity develops there will be ample funds to promote legitimate enterprise.

Our Levas correspondent says: Mining fever is raging in this section. A great deal of prospecting is being done and several deals are on the way. Work commenced on the Marion Beard property Monday. This is regarded as one of the choice "showings" in the district, and we look for a valuable "strike" there most any day.

Bertha Williamson's Murder.

No wonder Kentucky is called "the dark and bloody ground" when such black and bloody crimes go unpunished as is committed in Crittenden county. I think it a shame to our State for a young and innocent girl murdered, and then after my child has been murdered to have some one try to stain her spotless character and then to say if I had but one flower I would put it on her grave.

I had rather my child's grave would be as bare as the desert than to have a flower from his hand on it. But it is not bare. There are sweet and innocent flowers blooming on that grave, just like the sweet and innocent girl who now sleeps beneath.

Her bright eyes are closed in death; her sweet voice is hushed on this earth, but she is a bright and shining angel around the throne of God, singing His praises for ever more. She can not come to me but I can go to her. Time may obliterate history's pages; earth may forget, but heaven will remember. I am old and the trouble of life's battles has bleached my brown hair until it is white, and tear drops that sparkle like diamonds have stole from my eyes their old light, and lo! where the cold marble is gleaming I laid what the Lord gave to me. But high, where the pure ones are waiting, my treasure again I will see. I am weary of travel. Life's pathway is lonely to me, the breeze that whisper about me seem filled with a voice from on high, and now I am tired, so tired, and sometime I will lie down and rest and dream till I wake in the morning in peace in the home of the blest. I listen in dreams for her footstep, I can almost see her white hand as it lifts from my heart life's dark shadows and

BOMB'S DEADLY WORK.

Famous Russian Official the Victim.

St. Petersburg, July 29.—Minister of the Interior Von Plehwe was assassinated this morning while driving to the Baltic station to visit the empress at Peterhoff palace.

A bomb was thrown under the minister's carriage, completely shattering it. M. Von Plehwe was terribly mangled.

The crime was committed at 10 o'clock and the assassin was arrested.

The assassin is said to be a Jew who has thus far declined to give his name.

The explosion was terrific and practically annihilated the wood work of the carriage.

The horses tore off the axle and two front wheels.

The animals galloped a short distance and fell with pools of blood under them.

The minister's servant was badly wounded and also two officers, who were driving in a cab, by the flying splinters.

The assassin was wounded in one eye. He took flight but according to latest reports is now under arrest.

News of the tragedy spread like wildfire throughout the city causing consternation everywhere.

The emperor was greatly affected by the news, coming as it did on top of bad reports from the seat of war, the apprehensions of international complications, and the strain incident upon the hourly expectation of the event so close to the father's heart, and almost broke down when informed of the minister's murder.

The assassin, who is said to be a Jew, was wounded and taken to Alexandria hospital, in so dazed a condition as to be unable to speak. His condition is accounted for by the fact that he took poison immediately after throwing the bomb.

Even in the midst of the consternation produced by the tragedy, every one is talking of Von Plehwe's probable successor.

The assassination was officially announced at 1 o'clock and was followed immediately by the issuance of extras.

Newsboys were fair imbedded by the crowd, and a detail machine gun up at the old staff where they expect to take 25 tons

Only the assassination of the emperor could have created a greater sensation, as, next to his majesty himself Von Plehwe was recognized as the most powerful personality in the Russian government.

BIG CAVE DISCOVERED.

One of the largest caves ever discovered in Eastern Kentucky and one that will perhaps rival the great Mammoth Cave in Edmondson county, has just been discovered on Pine Fork creek, in southern Letcher county near the Perry county line. A party of sightseers explored its mysterious confines to a distance of over seven miles. The party were unable to find any end to the natural wonder. A large and swift flowing stream of water was discovered, rushing on into undiscovered regions. Fearing to go any farther the party returned. Another party will be organized to explore the cave to its extremity. Several other caves have been discovered in the Pine Fork region but this is the most extensive yet discovered.

She doctored with several eminent physicians and at a great expense, only to grow worse until she was unable to do any kind of work. ## God Will Sprinkle Sunshine.

BY JAMES WHITCOMBE RILEY.

If you should see a fellow-man with trouble's flag unfurled, An' lookin' like he didn't have a friend in all the world, Go up and slap him on the back, and holler, "How'd' you do?" And grasp his hand: warm he'll know he has a friend in you.

Then ax him what's a hurtin' him, and laugh his cares away, And tell him that the darkest night is just before the day. Don't talk in graveyard palaver, but say it right out loud, That God will sprinkle sunshine in the trail of every cloud.

This world at best is but a hash of pleasure and of pain; Some days are bright and sunny, and some all slosh'd with rain And that's just how it ought to be for when the clouds roll by, We'll know just how to 'preciate the bright and smiling sky.

So learn to take it as it comes and don't sweat at the pores Because the Lord's opinion don't coincide with yours, But always keep rememberin' when cares your path enshroud That God has lots of sunshine to spill behind the cloud.

Mr. H. Higgins of Millbourne, Fla., writes, "My doctor told me I had Consumption and nothing could be done for me. I was given up to die. The offer of a free trial bottle of Dr. King's New Discovery for Consumption, induced me to try it. Results were startling. I am now on the road to recovery and owe all to Dr. King's New Discovery. It surely saved my life." This great cure is guaranteed for all throat and lung diseases by Woods & Orme.

THE SISOO TRIAL.

The Smithland Banner, in commenting on the acquittal of Geo. Sisco, very pertinently remarks:

"We know none of the parties to this awful tragedy, but then we do know, the real murderer of the poor, unfortunate, innocent country girl that now lies silent in a bloody grave, her once queenly form and lovely face now mouldering back to dust, should be hunted down, tried, convicted and hung. It is to be hoped that the officers of the good old county of Crittenden will not shirk in their efforts to ferret out the author of this awful crime, and bring the murderer to justice and nothing short of a broken neck will meet the merits of this crime. Should the guilty party be found, the murderer yet lives and walks the earth, and was doubtless present in the court room when Geo. Sisco was on trial for his life. Whoever he is he should die, not a natural death, but an ignominious death on the scaffold. His life should pay the penalty of his awful crime."

We wonder if he, in his heartless and depraved nature, ever thinks of the poor old broken-hearted mother, weeping for her murdered child. Of the aged father sorrowing for his darling girl, and the brothers and sisters as they with bowed heads, heavy hearts and silent lips visit the lonely grave that holds the once lovely sister, to place flowers on the mound that covers her silent remains."

The good name of Crittenden county should be reinstated and elevated out of the dust of disgrace, and this can not be done until that black crime, the murder of Bertha Williamson, is avenged.

STOCK BARN BURNED.

On Thursday of last week the large stock barn of Mr. James B. Carter, living near Levas, in this county, was burned, including his entire crop of hay, two binders and other farm impliments, also a fine mule that had remained in the barn, the rest of the stock having been turned into pastures the evening before. It was a new building and one of the finest stock barns in the country. The origin of the fire is unknown, but it is thought to be the work of an

PUBLIC SPIRIT.

BY O. G. W.

"A public spirited man"—how often we hear the phrase, how seldom we meet with a person whom it really fits! Arlimes Ward was willing to sacrifice all his wife's relations rather than see the war for the integrity of the union prove a failure. Many persons in every life, community such as this, are enthusiasts for civil progress provided they are not to be called upon to help defray the necessary expenses. We are cold and indifferent oftentimes toward those to whom we owe a large debt of gratitude for valuable services rendered for the good of the general public.

Amid the windy debates about the blessings of free silver and the sacredness of the Monroe doctrine, etc., etc., and the valiant outcries of the Jingo statesmen who are eager to pour out somebody's else blood to show that Uncle Sam is not afraid of foreign power,—amid this empty rhetorical froth and foam at the National Capital, which has attracted such undue public attention, there is being quietly pushed forward, here at home, a much needed local improvement of great public value.

You will bear with me, I trust, friend Jenkins, in availing myself of this occasion, as I am about to do, to emphasize, in somewhat varied phrase, the credit due our friends and neighbors.

A short visit was all the time I could give to a place that might profitably be studied for days. It is therefore only a simple and a very brief impression that I can offer in regard to this inestimable improvement and surroundings.

My neighbor, Mr. James Pickens, a practical farmer and philanthropist has introduced and almost completed a much needed "watering trough" for the welfare of the public,—accessible at all times, day and night, and free to all.

The trough is a substantial one and built of oak plank 1 1/2 inches thick, 9 feet long, 12 inches wide and 12 inches deep. A large size 1-2 barrel is placed about 5 or 6 feet from trough (an annex), which the surplus water from the trough runs into through a 1-2 inch iron pipe that connects the two. The trough rests two feet above the ground, upon two large firmly set blocks. An iron pipe, half inch bore and 200 feet long, supported on mulberry posts conducts the water from the spring. The water has a fall of 10 inches from mouth of pipe to trough, and close by hangs an old style gourd and tin dipper for use of those who desire a clear, cool drink. The spring is a never-failing one, and is situated at the base of a high and imposing hill. It gushes from a rock-bound miniature cavern, and the sparkling liquid rushes forth roaring under the eyebrow of rock that supports the weight of the hill. Moss clings in masses to the damp walls. The soft bland air, coming through the foliage of the forest trees, caresses your senses. All so tranquil, and restful that, the cares of this world and the deceitfulness of riches fall away.

Man seems such an accident in a place like this,—an inexhaustible teacher of wonder, reverence and love.

Turn your quick eye to find life's noblest things,
Petter the self and give the angel wings.
Every aspiration is the angel, undeffiled.

And in every "O My Father" sleeps the answer here my child!
Friend Jenkins: I dream through sweet swift flight years:
Therefore excuse my own rude, half-formed thoughts perhaps I find,
Come like a voice from some long-vanished maid,
Distant, but for the moment close at hand.

Let us return to the trough. It has a history, per se. Its birth was a combination of heaven and earth.

Dragging Pains

2825 Keeley St.,
CHICAGO, ILL., Oct., 2, 1902.

I suffered with falling and congestion of the womb, with severe pains through the groins. I suffered terribly at the time of menstruation, had blinding headaches and rushing of blood to the brain. What to try, I knew not, for it seemed that I had tried all and failed, but I had never tried Wine of Cardui, that blessed remedy for sick women. I found it pleasant to take and soon knew that I had the right medicine. New blood seemed to course through my veins and after using eleven bottles I was a well woman.

Maudie Bush

Mrs. Bush is now in perfect health because she took Wine of Cardui for menstrual disorders, bearing down pains and blinding headaches when all other remedies failed to bring her relief. Any sufferer may secure health by taking Wine of Cardui in her home. The first bottle convinces the patient she is on the road to health.

For advice in cases requiring special directions, address, giving symptoms, "The Ladies' Advisory Department," The Chattanooga Medicine Co., Chattanooga, Tenn.

WINE OF CARDUI

man—of Iron Hill, donated the log, as a starter. Mr. Marion Dean, the expert sawyer of Iron Hill, with his eagle eye constantly on the gauge, sawed the plank and with that exactness for which he is noted, never varied the breath of a hair-pin from end to end. Mr. John Stewart, the robust and stalwart boss-carpenter of Iron Hill, squared the timber leveled it off and joined it together ready for service, donating his services, mental and physical "free gratis, for nothing." The man who "carried" the trough from Iron Hill—some three or four miles, and did other laborous work, was none other than our affable and accommodating Mail Carrier, Mr. Silas Guess. From the start to the finish Silas was "in it," and deserves a big lift. He is an entertaining companion and a star driver. Those thoroughbreds he drives would shame a cannon ball train when Silas says "go." Silas is quite enthusiastic, too. With untiring energy he kept pace, side by side, with friend Pickens in enthusiasm. Without money, without price and without stint, he enthused wonderfully until he rushed the "thing" through to completion; and in good trim delivered it "on the spot." When the trough was filled, Silas was full too—of joy. Silas is truthful too. When a man has the confidence of his wife he's bunk. Silas and Silas has the confidence in him, for she says, she "believes every word he says—in his sleep." Silas is always open for inspection. He has no fears for the future and no regrets for the past, and feels as solid as a sand bank. Silas is a little gritty at times, especially, when he has the sand to grind out poetry. He is a home man, and fondly loves his wife and family. It is customary, and a rule with Silas, to help his better-half with the house work. One evening he was scouring knives, and began to hum "Harp of Memnon, sweetly strung." This was hardly in accord with the harsh sounds he was producing, and he composed the following lines as a substitute:

Meatious knife, and thou harmonious sand,
Touched by the poet's scourer's rugged hand,
When swift ye glide along the scouring board,
With music's note your happy board reward.

Now friend Jenkins this is what might be called constructive imagination, it is the great power of the poet as well as the artist. The educated world needs to recognize the new varieties of constructive imagination. I use the term "constructive imagination" because that implies that creation or building of a new thing.

greet you with uncovered head, and ungloved hand, Selah! I have been closely enough associated with good Bro. Pickens, to warrant me here, in making this statement. He is a practical farmer. He is a man of attainments. He is a christian. His face is an index to his massive brain. No thought of devilry in that sweet face, but a prophetic glance into futurity, and a resolve to develop his God-given intellectual powers. Great resolutions, great intellect, perfect developed body, possessed of fair education, and the "God bless you my boy" of father and mother ringing in his ears, he enters the vast arena of usefulness and public benefaction. I said he is a Christian, he is, too, and a good one. If I were to select a person to treat the subject of the devil James Pickens, of Crittenden county, Kentucky, is of the last I should choose. First, because James Pickens knows nothing of the devil from personal acquaintance. He has never lied, stolen, cheated, murdered, or broken the Sabbath day "go in a fishen." He is such a moral stalwart that, if it came to personal encounter his adversary would not stand the ghost of a chance. It would not be at all fair to ask the devil to risk any such conflict. If I were to seek a man qualified to treat the devil from the standpoint of practical and personal experience, I should find the wickedest man in Marion, and ask Marshall Cannan for his address.

There is a supposition that the "devil" works in a printing office, but if he does not work in the legislature, in the courts, in politics, and very often in religion, then I am mistaken. I am reminded of the familiar story of the old lady who always made it a point to say something good of everybody, and who hearing some one abuse the devil, said "Would that we were as industrious!"

Let me call your attention to one virtue which he seems to have possessed. It may occasion surprise when I state that the virtue is of fidelity. My familiarity with devil love is not sufficient to enable me to give him a certificate of absolute honesty; but so far as my memory goes, the devil could always be trusted to keep a bargain. So let us heed the bidding of the familiar proverb to "give the devil his dues."

Personally I have no doubt but what the old scotch, with the spear pointed tail and cow-foot is a "dark horse," and black enough to deceive the best of the saints on a dark night; but I don't think he's after preachers on promised salaries, or star-route mail carriers; he only hangs around where there is money to burn. As for some preachers and some doctors, I think it will be as hard for them to get a cinch on the "high up," as it is for a billy-goat to do its butting backwards.

So, my dear Silas, and brother James don't let it escape your memory that there are two world's in the great beyond.—one "way up yonder" and one "way down thar." In both there is an abundance of light, in both you will be received with a bright and warm welcome. And when death comes to find thee, arise and follow fast; The road may be through darkness, but leads to light at last.

In closing I feel bound as a friend of both, to donate, as a slight memento, to be inscribed on the monument the good public will erect over your cadavers,—the following beautiful "poem."

Here lies two worthies, G. and P.
Here lies him; and here lies he.
Hallelu-jah and Hallelu-jah,
A-B-C-D-E-F-G.

A Washington telegram to the Chicago Record-Herald says: Rivaling the Irish potato in flavor, exceeding it in production and furnishing at the same time from its blossoms an exquisite perfume, a new white potato is being exploited in France. Thorneill Haynes, United States consul at Rome, has reported it to the State Department.

Mr Haynes says that this wild, aquatic vegetable was introduced from the banks of the river Mercedes, Uruguay, and distributed in France by Prof Hecker, director of the Colonial Institute of Marseilles. In its original state the tuber is very bitter, but Dr. Hecker pronounced marvelous the results of four years' experiments with it.

In the same soil the yield is greatly superior to that of the ordinary potato. The Early Rose in one instance gave 3,000 pounds to the acre; the American Marvel 3,000 pounds, and this new marvel 5,500 pounds.

An Animal Story For Little Folks

A Long Headed Dog

Rover had been disturbed long enough. His sleep had been broken constantly for nights by the endless dispute of two big tomcats that nightly sat upon the wall of his yard and fought it out till morning. He determined the thing should cease.

"I should think you two would get very tired of standing with your backs hunched up like a croquet wicket all night long," he said.

"We do," said the cats, "but don't see how we can well help it. This thing of right of way on that fence has got to be settled somehow."

"HELP! HELP!"

"It must be fought out," said Nibs.

"Of course it must," replied Nobs.

"But that means that we must get our backs up," they said in one breath.

"All right," said Rover. "If it must be, let me give you a fine scheme for holding them up. There are two iron spikes with round knobs on them just over here on this side of the yard. You both jump on these, let your feet hang down on either side, and the iron will hold your backs up."

"Clever! Clever!" said they both.

But when they went to get down neither could move. They couldn't lift up nor move to the side, for the wall was too narrow. Rover had them.

"Help! Help!" they cried.

"On one condition," said Rover.

"We grant it!"

"That you stop this nightly row."

"Agreed!" they said. And Rover called the maid, who removed them—Atlanta Constitution.

HOW MR. SNAPPER FIXED THE STYLES

Old Mr. Snapper wandered leisurely out of the pond one bright spring morning and made for the back yard of the farmhouse. He had lain in the mud all winter and was now glad of the chance to get out and see something. While he was meditating in his slow fashion as to the probable crop of spring gnats he was startled by loud caterwauls.

He crawled to where the noise seemed to come from, and there, on the top of the chopping block, were Tom and Jerry in a most awful dispute.

"It ought to be six inches, and you know it, you horrid thing," said Tom.

"No, sir, it oughtn't to be but five. That's the style at Newport, and I don't care what you say!" yelled Jerry.

"They're quarreling about the length of their tails, I do believe," said Snapper to himself. "Did you ever hear anything so stupid? Well, I'll just fix the styles for them myself."

Tom was standing with hatchet raised to cut his tail off at the length he considered fashionable. Jerry's tail was hanging temptingly over the edge of the block. Snapper grabbed the hanging tail in his iron jaws.

"Wow! Kiy! Phz!" yelled Jerry, and, making a gigantic leap in the air, he knocked the hatchet out of Tom's paws, which, falling on Tom's luckless tail, cut it off about halfway up. He gave a yell of pain and made a leap backward. Jerry made a brave attempt to tear his tail free, but Snapper was too quick for him, and like a pair of scissors his jaws closed on his caudal appendage and severed it completely.

"Oh, oh! What shall we do?" sobbed both kittens as they sat down and looked at their stumps of tails.

"Never mind," said Snapper, crawling up to where they sat. "They're both the same length now."

"That's so. We hadn't thought of that," they said and went on their way sorrowfully. Worcester Post.
