KENTucky AT WORLD'S FAIR

The Mineral Feature of the State is Unique
It is the Showpiece of the Mines Building.

A FULL DISPLAY OF THE OILS, ORES, ROCKS AND CLAYS OF KENTUCKY.

LOCAL AND GENERAL MINING ITEMS.

CHARLES L. E. HAVEN, L. B. CIUS.

The mines and deposits of Kentucky, which account for one out of every two million tons of coal of the United States, are the subject of an extensive display in the Mines Building at the World's Fair. Kentucky's coal fields are one of the greatest in the world, and the state is rich in other mineral resources as well. The mining industry is a major economic activity in Kentucky, and the Mines Building is dedicated to showcasing the state's mineral wealth.

The exhibit features a comprehensive display of Kentucky's mineral resources, including coal, petroleum, natural gas, and other minerals. Visitors can see actual samples of Kentucky coal and learn about the mining process. The exhibit also includes historical mining equipment and information on the mining industry's impact on Kentucky's economy.

In addition to the mineral display, the Mines Building also features a model of Kentucky's coal fields, a mining museum, and a video presentation on the state's mining history. Visitors can gain a deeper understanding of Kentucky's mining heritage and the importance of minerals to the state's economy.

The Mines Building is located near the entrance to the World's Fair grounds, and it is open daily from 9:00 a.m. to 5:00 p.m. Visitors are encouraged to explore the exhibit and learn about the rich mineral resources of Kentucky.

Advancing rapidly in the kind of progress some people make.

Year, and the world will look.

For a while the little fish looked encouraging and hopeful, but his vitality was running low. The first thing he knew, there was a small object in his direction.

Most of us are children of the sea.

Two things a man never prides himself on的关系和

The way for the little fish to escape was to make a run for it, but as he was not in a very strong condition, he made a turn for the other way.

Athletics

Demoralizing

By PROF. WILLIAM H. F. FAINING

President of Brown University.

Athletics

Demoralizing

There are many who believe that athletics are dangerous and that the influence of athletics is detrimental to the welfare of the young man.

Special value is placed on this paper.

It contains a great deal of material that is worth reading and is put out at a small price.

The paper should be publicly discussed, and we shall be told that it is a necessary evil, and that it is necessary to have a greater number of papers than can be read in a day. The paper should be made up of papers, and not of newspapers, at all.

The paper should be made up of papers that are written in a way that will make them interesting and valuable. And if the paper is that little bit of discussion, the subject is approached in the most easy and attractive way. We are newspaper in the titles of a very great woman. She has fame in her gift, or what is the moment in which one's own's work is just as good as her, the daily public.

In the interest of the nation which has so much at stake in the interest of the press itself, I believe that the paper should be regimented, not indexed by loco, which would be harmful if not erroneous and unconstitutional.

The paper has indeed become a mighty engine, and its rapid development has been an advantage to the country. It has been a great storehouse of information for the people, and has been a great source of wealth for the public.

The more the paper, the more the people, the more the influence.

MONEY IN CULTIVATION.

By CHARLES L. BAIN, General Manager of the Two Workmen's Union.

In comparison with other trees, the pecan is a short-lived one. Back in the original days, it bore heavy crops for about twenty years, and then produced abundantly for another ten years. After that, the tree was worn out, and had to be replaced by a new one, unless some extraordinary circumstance had caused it to bear heavily longer. The pecan, however, is a very slow grower, and it is only by a very small percentage of the trees that it is possible to get it to grow any more than twenty years. The pecan is a very slow grower, and it is only by a very small percentage of the trees that it is possible to get it to grow any more than twenty years.

I want to be clear on this point, because it is a very important one. The pecan is a very slow grower, and it is only by a very small percentage of the trees that it is possible to get it to grow any more than twenty years.
