MINING NEWS

The Ore Producing Properties in Fine Condition for the Autumn Shipments.

ZINC OBTAINS HIGH PRICES.

A MEMBER of R. W. Wilson's family reports the sale of 190 acres of Crittenden Springs property to Blue & Nunn for $10,000.

DANA CLARK, of the Henderson company was at the company's property last week.

BEN FENWICK shows some very fine samples of fluor spar from his Marion break property.

AT JOPLIN the highest price for the week was $40 per ton for zinc and $52 per ton for lead ore.

W. S. Rice, of the Rose Mining Company, is delivering fluor spar at Sheltersville on the Ohio river for shipment via Golconda.

W. S. LOWERY at 40 feet depth has a heavy body of lead ore and fluor spar on the T. J. Babb farm.

MAJOR CLEMENT has contracted for sinking deeper his "Bitter Apple Mine" near Crittenden Springs.

THE HENDERSON COMPANY will ship forty tons of zinc carbonate from their Lady Farmer mine on Saturday.

JOE DOLLAR and Ed McFee have the extension of the Charley LaRue property and are doing some prospecting upon it.

THE PELL MINE under the Superintendence of Lawrence Cruce is loading quite a bunch of fluor spar on the Golconda Incline.

THE FIRST CAR load of "Jack" or zinc blende dressed by the hand Japs from the "nine acre" tract of Blue & Nunn was shipped this week.

SUCCESSFUL WORK is being done on the Donakey property in sinking on a vein of lead and zinc ore which outcrops near the Marion Sheridan road.

D. C. PORTER has invested a portion of his mining profits in the purchase of the Cort Pierce 10 acres adjoining the Pickens-Cochran subdivision north of the city.

It is stated that the Marion Zinc Company are building a "pike" from the Riley mine to both Salem and Mexico. This will lessen the cost of transporting their product very materially.

D. C. PORTER, T. P. Tanner and J. L. Harpending have taken an option on the 75 acres belonging to Ed Flanary, adjoining the Crittenden mining company's purchase.

THE WHITE PLACK which the Crittenden mining company have been prospecting with more than usual success will probably be transferred to other parties by its owner, Mr. White.

ROBERT DRESCHER is delivering an exceedingly clean gravel fluor spar from the Mary Bell mine of the Pittsburg Mining and Manufacturing Company is again in active operation and will shortly commence shipments.

THE UNITED STATES Coal and Coke Company at Sturgis, have a labor trouble. The union men have struck, it is reported, and the manager of the company will if possible, use non-union men in the future.

THE ILLINOIS PURCHASE by the Gray, Persons, Louisville company some seven miles from Elizabethtown seems to be another good thing for that company. The fluor spar in that particular section is of exceptionally high grade.

RADIUM has been discovered in three different places in the Cripple Creek district. It is said thousands of dollar's worth of this ore has been thrown over the dumps by the people operating the mines because they knew nothing of its value.

THE CRITTENDEN COAL and Coke company of Marion, have lately made some very large contracts for the future delivery of their high grade coal. The output at their mine has been gradually increasing in tonnage until at the present time it is most satisfactory.

IT IS A VERY gratifying fact that at nearly 200 feet depth in the Memphis mine shaft, the peculiar high grade "Memphis Spar" again asserts itself in a splendid manner. The Kentucky Company are averaging 20 tons per day from this mine and will largely increase this tonnage as soon as levels are run.

A LETTER to the Record from Balesville, Ark., offers what appears to be a valuable zinc property with a completed mill, tramway etc., and some 60 acres of developed property for $30,000 cash and $20,000 in stock. One car of concentrates is ready for shipment. This property is in Lawrence County.

P. G. Cox, on his 247 acre farm adjoining the Big Four Mining Company near Sheridan, has uncovered a three foot vein of fluor spar and lead. This is on the famous La Rue vein. He began sinking a shaft last week and at 20 feet in depth the fluor spar was heavily impregnated with zinc and lead.

IT IS VERY probable that a strong company will be organized for the mining and separating of the heavy ore bodies on the Beard estate near Levas. The original owners, Crider, Haury and Farmer have yielded to the requests of several of their friends for an interest in what seems to be an extra soft snap in mining.

THE ENGINE on the river incline of the Illinois Central at Golconda hooked on to a couple of cars loaded with fluor spar last week to pull them up to the main track, but the two cars were too much for the locomotive and they quietly went into the river but the engine escaped the bath. One of the cars was so badly wrecked it had to be unloaded and sent to the repair shop.

A MR. MILLER of Evansville has been extensively entertained during the week by all of our local and foreign mining representatives. If there was a piece of idle property that he was not shown, it must have been owned by a non-resident and who had no Marion agent.

MESSRS. ARCHER AND DELKER, presidents of the Owensboro Chautauqua Co. and the Owensboro Street Co., respectively, have secured the mineral right on the Widow Beard property, three miles from the river and four miles from Fords Ferry, and are rapidly developing it. They have uncovered the LaRue vein and a new lead vein running parallel with it. The spar and lead ore found is of a superior quality, and the property will be a paying proposition from the start. It will be worked by the individual capital of the two gentlemen who are already contemplating the construction of a tramway to the Ohio river.

ARE CONDUCTING THE HURRICANE CAMP-MEETING.

Wm. Charles, of Dycusburg, Singing Evangelist.

Miss Bertie Crow, of Joplin, Mo. Evangelist.

Miss Luna Anderson, of Fruitland, Mo. Evangelist.

J. J. Smith, of Clinton, Evangelist.

Mrs. J. J. Smith.

THE KENTUCKY FLUOR SPAR Company is shipping more fluor spar from its Marion field than for a great many months past. C. S. Nunn, its President, has finally forced their old Memphis mine to show itself in its proper colors and as a result this particularly high grade product is again an active factor in the company's grinding department.

THE HOPKINSVILLE New Era states that Lusterine, the new mineral polish or abrasive is attracting a good deal of attention from the soap manufacturers of country. Very likely a soap plant with this material as a base will be established in Hopkinsville and will employ several hundred people. The New Era says:

"The Lusterine polish and Lusterine soap have both been fully tested by the operatives of the New Era, who give it their unqualified indorsement as the best soap they have ever used. It has also been fully tested in this city to machinists, printers, painters and housekeepers, all of whom say it is a very superior cleaning, toilet and bath soap, and metal polish. The character of men behind the enterprise, together with the great and unquestioned merit of the goods warrants the New Era in believing it will be a great success. Lusterine was discovered by J. T. Boynton, of Princeton, Ky., in the mining field near Hopkinsville. It is an extremely fine grained mineral and is mined in large blocks and afterwards finely ground. Judge W. T. Fowler and L. Hayden, Esq. represent the company at Hopkinsville.

LOST.

WITH THE CHURCHES.

At the First Presbyterian church Sunday Rev. S. J. Martin read the morning lesson from the 61st chapter of Isaiah. Text, Zechariah 14, 7 and 8. Subject, "At Evening Time it Shall be Light." Bro. Martin treated his subject in a thoughtful but entertaining manner, making some very beautiful illustrations from the Bible. He said that John the Baptist, the forerunner of Christ, was the morning star of redemption and with Christ came the light that grew brighter and stronger until the evening of redemption, the time of the crucifixion, the light through Him was in its highest glory. And so, he said, with the life of the Christian, there are the morning stars, the flickering but never failing lights that gladden his heart here and there and at least at the end of the devoted life, faith is strongest, the heart is made to rejoice and the light to the soul is brightest.

Having been sick about four weeks, Elder McDonald failed to fill his appointment at the Christian church on the second Sunday but last Sunday he was here to fill his regular appointment. He preached at 11 a. m. and conducted the Union services at the Christian church at night. In the morning he preached from the text, "Behold I Stand at the Door and Knock." He said there was proof in the text that Christ is not only willing to save every one but that he was trying. He said God manifested his desire to save us and his love for the world when he gave his son to die. He said if any had not heard Christ knock, to whom he had not been revealed, their mistake was such as that of Elijah when he thought God only revealed himself in a miraculous way as by consuming the sacrifice in the test of the true God when Ahab and the followers of Baal were convinced, or in the earthquake or the thunder. He never thought of the hand of God in the brook, in the trees, the flower, and the dew, and so he became sorrowful and sad and prayed to die but his eyes were opened. So with you, said Bro. McDonald, when the hour of distress comes, Your eyes will then be opened and Christ will be revealed to you and you will hear him knock, but to turn them away you grieve Him.

At night Bro. McDonald preached to a large crowd. His lesson was the 91st Psalm and text, "Be sure your sin will find you out," was taken from Numbers 32:22. His sermon contained deep thought, and his conclusions were well brought out. He said that the text had been true from the beginning of time until the words were spoken by Moses to the children of Israel after forty years of wandering in the wilderness, and when they had arrived at the Jordan and he had commanded them to go over and take the land from the Canaanites, and they made a compromising proposition, but their sin had already found them out as they showed where they stood and a lack of consideration for what they were commanded to do, hence there Moses gave utterance to a truth as old as time, even till now. He discussed the effects of sin and said that all good deeds may not be known, but that crime would ever come to light. He referred to the magnitude, or degrees of sin, such as murder, theft and drunkenness, and stated that there were many avenues through which sin was disclosed, such as public opinion, action, conscience, and the effect it has on the daily conversation of the individual. He said as we were so we thought others by nature, and our opinion, or rather what we expected of others, was the surest index to our characters, because individual sin causes a lack of confidence in others. As is our confidence in our fellow man, so is our integrity, and our religion is the impression we received at this point. That "every man had his price" he declared false. Every sin, he said, made a man sceptical about that particular sin, and if you believe every man has his price, it is the surest reason that you have yours. He declared that scepticism would cause us to try to pull the Bible down to our level; that there is something wrong with the man who thinks of the evil in others, and were there no heaven and hell sin would be a blunder, man being built as he is.

Terry-Finley.

Monday evening at the residence of Rev. S. J. Martin on Salem street, Jas. H. Terry and Miss Fannie E. Finley were united in marriage. Mr. Terry is a young man of good standing and the adopted son of Louis Terry, of this city. Miss Finley is the accomplished daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. R. Finley, of this city, having graduated here a few years ago. We wish them long and happy lives.

New Firm.

DENNIE HUBBARD, son of assistant cashier, J. B. Hubbard, of the Farmer's Bank, and W. C. Carnahan, son-in-law of J. B. Hubbard, have rented the new brick building on Salem street, belonging to J. P. Pierce and will go in business under the firm name of Carnahan & Hubbard. Mr. Hubbard has been in the general merchandise business at Shady Grove for some time and the stock of dry goods he now has will be moved here. This is to be closed out as speedily as possible to make room for the new stock of groceries that Messrs. Carnahan & Hubbard will put in.

Mr. Carnahan is one of the former teachers of this county and was reared at Blackford.

Both young men are energetic and attentive to business and we bespeak for them success.

Mammoth Peach.

Mrs. A. D. McFee, of this city, presented us Tuesday with the largest peach we ever saw. The peach measures 11 1/2 inches in circumference and weighs a jeweler's pound. Mrs. McFee raised the peach in her own garden from a tree the seed of which she planted herself. On a small limb less than 1 foot long, five such peaches were grown.

Sleep Walking Accident.

Monday night after the show was over, Howard McConnell went to his room on the second floor at the McConnell boarding house, known as the Dr. Crawford dwelling, and retired. He had not been in bed long when he got up in his sleep and walked off the second porch floor, falling 20 feet to the ground breaking an arm and bruising his face and body considerably.

Young Bride.

Last Friday after being sick less than three weeks of typhoid fever, Mrs. John Kemp, of this place, died. She was the daughter of Harvey Marvel and just seventeen years of age, having been married only six months ago to John Kemp who is the son of Robert Kemp, of this place.

The body was placed to rest Saturday in the Kemp family grave yard near Shady Grove, in the presence of many sympathizing friends and relatives of the young husband.

Huns Displace Negroes.

It is enough to make all the old Mississippi river men who have passed away and gone to their reward stir in the tomb could they know that Hungarians are to be substituted for negroes as roustabouts on the river. This, says the St. Louis Globe-Democrat, shatters the last tradition. We can not imagine these silent, taciturn little men of Central Europe making the moonlight nights vocal with their minstrelsy on the lower deck or scrambling with each other for nickels thrown by sportive passengers.

Nor shall we believe that the mate dare unwind that panorama of picturesque profanity at his long, wavering undulating line of roustabouts as they move from deck to shore with the cargo. The darky roustabout hears these aobjurgations with a joyous and appreciative ear and well comes a burst of originality in it by rolling the whites of his eyes expressively at his fellows, or, if it is particularly moving, by a loud "Yah, yah, yah," that is reward enough for the objurgator. What will the Hungarian care for the expletive wit that stirs the responsive negro heart so deeply? He will not understand it, and if he did, his perception of the humor of swearing is not of the open and ready nature of that of the sons of Ham. He would get mad about it. Everything is changing on the river. The passengers are not the same, the boats are smaller, the table fare is sadly scant and luxury has long since departed.

Sure Source of Trouble.

A teacher in Philadelphia who found herself obliged to keep order in a school where four different sorts of pupils were gathered, says that she put an end to fights by forbidding the use of the words "dago," "nigger" and "sheeny." Restrained from calling offensive names, the children got along peaceably enough, although it is probable, says the Washington Times, that birds of a feather flocked together out of the school, as they usually do when let alone. . . . The popular epithets applied by children and thoughtless grown people to fellow-beings whom they consider beneath them cannot possibly do any good, and they undoubtedly do harm. Nobody knows how much bitterness has been engendered by American youngsters shouting "Paddy" at Irish children, or by the Irish, in their turn, dubbing the Italian "Dago," or by any of the other thoughtless and cruel verbal persecutions common among children. The abandonment of this form of rowdiness will not lead to undesirable racial mixtures, because such things cannot be furthered or prevented thus arbitrarily; and the cultivation of ordinary politeness certainly will tend to peace.

Feminine Teachers and the Danger of Social Degeneracy

By PROF. GRANVILLE STANLEY HALL,
President of Clarke University.

THE graduation of boys from the grammar schools without male influence means degeneration. Coeducation has a tendency to give to women a wrong conception of the opposite sex. The great need of education is to make women more womanly and men more manly. As civilization advances the difference between the sexes must become more and more pronounced instead of becoming less. The predominance of feminine influence in the public schools means racial degeneracy.

The great trouble is that the nature of the child is not understood. It is deeper than any science. This failure to understand the child is largely due to the feminization of the high schools. No one appreciates woman more than I do, and the influence of woman is invaluable at certain periods of every child's life, but the farther we get away from savagery the more distinct must the sex differences become.

It is often urged that the woman's sentimentalism stands in the way of her progress. A girl that isn't full of the greatest kind of sentiment, who does not want to weep at times and laugh at times, is no girl at all. The girl above everything else must be feminine, and so must the woman. I have no respect at all for the boy in his middle or latter teens who can properly be called a "perfect gentleman."

Coeducation often gives a woman a wrong impression of men. The woman often excels intellectually during the period of her school days. She thinks, therefore, that she can win her own way and her own career. She judges mature men by the boys who were in her class, and by doing this makes a serious mistake. The predominance of girls in the schoolroom is a great mistake. We must try above all else to build maturity up. If we are going to go higher, and if man, in the words of Huxley, is the tadpole of an archangel, progress lies in the hands of the high school teacher.

MANY NEW LAWS

Of Much Interest to the Public—Adopted by the Last Legislature.

The Acts of the Legislature, session of 1904, just issued, contains many new laws of general interest, among the most important being the following:

Providing for a uniform system of text books.

Requiring voters in the towns of fifth and sixth class to register.

Repealing that part of the exemption law which exempts the wages of persons not exceeding $50 a month from attachment or garnishee for debt.

Extending the term of the common school from five to six months.

Requiring a merchant to give five days notice in writing to each of his creditors before disposing of a stock of goods in bulk.

Making it a felony of one to five years to steal $2 worth of chickens.

Submitting to the voters the question of whether or not they will abolish the secret ballot. This is to be voted on at the regular November election.

Reducing the number of trustees of a graded school from six to five.

Prohibiting the shooting of rabbits or squirrels between the fifteenth day of September and the fifteenth day of November.

Defining vagrancy and fixing the punishment at a fine of $10 or imprisonment for 30 days for the first offense, for the second offense and all subsequent offenses 60 days imprisonment; all persons convicted being required to work at hard labor until fine and costs are satisfied. Vagrants are declared to be able-bodied males with no trade, calling or profession, and no visible means of support, who habitually loiter and ramble. Any court has jurisdiction to try vagrants.

Placing national banks on the same footing as state banks in the matter of taxation.

Creating the office of fish and game warden in each county and defining his duties.

Making it unlawful to sell whiskey by wholesale in local option districts.

Regulating the sale of fertilizer so that the tag on each package shall show the name of the manufacturer, name of fertilizer, number of net pounds in each package, estimated value per hundred, and the minimum percentage composition.

Prohibiting white and colored persons from attending the same school.

Allowing town marshals in towns of the sixth class to discharge the duties of constable in the magisterial district in which the town is located.

Making it unlawful to buy, sell or expose for sale wild turkeys, pheasants, grouse, partridge, or quail which are killed within the state.

Making it unlawful to drive a horse hired from a liveryman a greater distance for a longer time than that for which the horse is hired, and requiring liverymen to keep a register showing to whom every vehicle is hired, the time to be used, distance to be traveled and the exact hour of the day or night such vehicle is delivered to the person hiring it. The fine is $3 to $50, or imprisonment for 30 days, or both.

Changing the time of assessing property for taxation from September 15 to September 1.

Making it a fine of $25 to $50 to lodge for record any deed, mortgage or other instrument required by law to be recorded without disclosing the next immediate source from which the grantor derived title. If the source of title be a deed or other writing the deed offered for record shall refer to the former deed, and give the office, book and page where recorded and the date thereof, if dated. This law means that all deeds must be recorded, whether the owner of the property wants it recorded or not, and if you have a deed in your possession that has not been recorded, you had better have it put on record and without delay.

Bull and Automobile.

Dr. John Phillips owns several farms in Essex, England, and, as he visits them frequently, he purchased an automobile and discarded the carriage in which he had traveled over his broad acres for many years, says the New York Herald. With his new acquisition he was mightily pleased until he happened one day to drive through a field in which a savage bull was grazing. The moment the animal saw the automobile it started to its feet and in the twinkling of an eye came helter-skelter for Mr. Phillips. The latter was equal to the emergency.

Increasing his speed, he charged for the infuriated animal and promptly knocked it down. In a second, however, the bull was again on its feet, and with head lowered was preparing for a second rush, but the farmer was too quick for it, for, turning the automobile, he charged again, and struck the bull in the rear with such force that it was almost knocked senseless. This was the end of the combat, for as soon as it recovered from its amazement the bull sneaked away, and never since then has it ventured to renew the attack, though Mr. Phillips frequently drives quite close to it.

OUR NATIVE SHRUBS

Many of Them Are Indigenous to Foreign Soil.

Perhaps few of the little folks who are so fortunate as to have been in the country during the month of June, where the rhododendrons and "wild honeysuckle" and mountain laurel grow, would ever think that those three and many others like them are cousins to the Scotch and English heather, of which overseas stories so often speak, and which is seldom seen in this country outside of florists' shops. But this is the fact, nevertheless, and, while English heather has been made immortal the world around, many an American does not even know laurel when he sees it, says the New York Tribune.

In England these American shrubs are carefully cultivated on the large estates, and several private parks are thrown open to the public at the time of their blooming. People come many miles from the surrounding country to see what hundreds of American boys and girls never take the trouble to notice, though very likely it grows on their own farm or that of their next door neighbor. Laurel and rhododendron time in England excites more interest than chrysanthemum and rose shows here, and is written of in the big London dailies as an event of importance.

The wild azalea, sometimes called by the old Dutch name of Pinxter bloom, which gave the name of Pinxter Hill to the village that has grown to the present city of Albany, though a May flower, often lasts over late into June, and is called a member of the many faced heath or heather family. This, too, grows almost everywhere throughout the United States, and yet few people think of cultivating it near enough to their homes to be a household pleasure during the months when it is in bloom. Instead, many persons will spend quantities of money for foreign shrubs that are not nearly so effective or so beautiful and fragrant, and entirely neglect the native blossoms that would cost them only a little trouble.

All of these wild shrubs grow finely if intelligently transplanted and cared for, and the laurel and rhododendron, being evergreen, are a pleasure all the year around. June, which in England is called "the month of roses," might very well be called "the month of mountain laurel," for it grows all through New England and the middle west, and as far south as northern Georgia and Alabama.

Technically Trained Men in Many Lines Are in Demand

By WILLIAM W. CROSBY,
Principal of the Lowell Textile School.

THE fact that sciences and mathematics were so late in developing makes it clear to see why the classics and so-called culture studies received so large an amount of attention in the curricula of the earliest schools and colleges. To-day we recognize in the sciences means for the very best mental development, and also means for supplying the wants, to say nothing of the luxuries, of everyday life. There never was a time in the history of the world when the development of technical studies was carried to such an extent as now, and in these same studies there is the foundation of nearly all that conduces to our material welfare.

In motive powers we find that the waterfall was one of the earliest forces to be harnessed, and that even to this day it forms an important source of power. There was a time when the water wheel was falling rather into disuse, except upon streams and water courses which were very near the point where the power was used, and that by the development of electrical machinery with what science has taught in the matter of insulating electrical conductors, it is now possible to use the remote waterfall and transmit its energy to a distant point where it may be used profitably. For over a century steam has been of great importance and still holds a foremost place, but the development of the reciprocating steam engine itself has been most remarkable. Hero's engine known to antiquity was but a toy up to within a decade, yet to-day the steam turbine is attracting the attention of our leading engineers; and users of large amounts of power, such as our electric light corporations and traction companies, are using this new machine to drive the generators.

From Franklin's kite and key to the modern electric automobile, rolling smoothly along the road, is a long step; and again, we owe it to science that the development of the electric current has made this possible. Then there is our means for signalling and transmitting thoughts from continent to continent by means of the cable; there is the telegraph for land; there is the telephone; there is the modern system of submarine signalling, whereby a ship may locate at a distance of several miles the position of a shoal marked by a submarine bell—to say nothing of the means by which we signal without conductors, making use of the higher wave vibrations.

We are completing more bridges every year, longer in span and capable of carrying greater loads than ever before, and we are burrowing under the earth and under the harbors to secure quicker and more direct communication between the different sections of our cities. Land is becoming more valuable, and where once as the height of the building increased, so we increased the thickness of the wall to carry the added load, now we change the construction of our buildings so that we may waste as little as possible of the land and yet carry our buildings higher. Where once we were well satisfied with the several chemicals of nature, or those which required but a comparatively small amount of manipulation, now we are making synthetically, a purer and cheaper chemical than we once obtained directly from nature.

Once, the skins of animals served man as clothing, but now the highest skill is commanded to produce for him fabrics varied in texture and ornamented to please his eye; and the textile industries alone demand the services of those skilled and trained in designing, harmony of color, mechanics, heat, light, electricity and chemistry. It is a fact worthy of note that most of the dyestuffs of the present time are by-products of gas works coming from the oils carried by the coal tar being made serviceable for the dyer and printer by the chemist. The indigo plantations in India have been seriously affected by the production of artificial indigo, this being made from the coal tar and requiring the services of trained chemists.

Through all the example cited, it is to be seen that an increasing number of technically trained men is demanded by the industries, and as new applications of the forces of nature are made, opportunity for advancement is offered to those who are willing to apply themselves to the solution of the problems involved. If there were no more to do than replace wornout or broken constructions, these fields would have little interest, but it is the fresh developments that add fresh interest, and these applications demand the very best energies that a man can possess.

Sovereignty of Man

By DR. LEACH,
Eminent Chicago Pastor.

not, there is no excuse.

In politics men are slaves. We talk of complete sovereignty, but it is not so. Everything is cut and dried even before the primary. The leaders lead us. The only thing is to be led and not know it. And yet we think we are kings.

But I turn again to the dictum, "Every man is a king." If he does not wish to exercise authority over self, then he must suffer.

To say drunkenness is a disease is sheer nonsense. Men would like to have all sin disease. Death comes from sin and yet it is not disease in the true sense of the word. Men love sin better than sovereignty. Let us be kings, then, in the fullest sense of the word. We can be, we ought to be. There is no throne so big as a pure manhood. We can in it sit and rule self. Will we do it or not? Let us be up and doing at once ere it is too late. Kings are we. God's kings. Thrones we have. Let us reign.

Teacher's Salaries

By PRESIDENT HARPER,
Of the University of Chicago.

The demands of the teacher's work can be met only by those whom nature has endowed with a high order of talent. The teacher to whom is intrusted the fostering care of our children should surely be one whose ability we respect. How is it possible to satisfy the conscience if a policy other than this prevails? Is there anything more precious than the child, whether viewed from the point of view of the family or the state? Is not his training a thing of preeminent importance? And yet we are willing to pay to his teacher a salary far less than is paid in many cases to the keeper of our horses, or to the keeper of our cattle.

Who cannot see the utter absurdity of this? The teacher, everything being considered, should be, and in many cases is, the equal of the man or woman who enters into any other professional life.

REPUBLICAN NATIONAL TICKET.

FOR PRESIDENT
THEODORE ROOSEVELT
OF New York.

FOR VICE PRESIDENT
CHARLES W. FAIRBANKS
Of Indiana.

ANNOUNCEMENTS

FOR SHERIFF

DUVALL.—We are authorized to announce Alonzo J. Duvall a candidate for the office of Sheriff of Crittenden county, subject to the action of the Republican party. Election 1905.

A few weeks ago we came to the conclusion that Russia had something up her sleeve which would appear when the Japs finally got in front of Port Arthur. Later, events make us doubt whether Russia has a sleeve.

A recent exchange quotes a portion of Gassoway Davis' speech of acceptance of the vice-presidential nomination adding the following: "The above portrait is a true one, and it is that of—A Man." It would have been painful if the portrait had been that of "A Bicycle" or even had the portrait been that of "A Horse." What does the editor suppose Gassoway is? A Woman?

Bishop Potter, of the Episcopal church diocese, of New York City, is receiving very vigorous protests for the position he assumed the other day in dedicating a saloon with prayer and the singing of a doxology. Many good people are very greatly disturbed over the matter and insist that the saloon is already too attractive, that our churches have more empty seats than full ones while the drinking ones are crowded. Possibly the good bishop had this in mind, and that the same sort of services that has caused vacant churches will produce empty saloons.

We note in the news columns of the Mayfield Daily Messenger that a new kind of water melon has been brought before the public. It goes on to state that on Monday after the local option carried on Saturday that there was an unusual sale of water melons in the town and on account of the unusual sale, an investigation revealed the fact that there were Methodist, Baptist, "Campbellite" and Presbyterian water melons. It was also found that the "Campbellite" melons met with a rapid sale on account of the great amount of water they contained. Possibly next Sunday there will be no preaching in the town, since by example the various pastors were wont to show the popularity of their church melons, so we are informed.

Explanations are generally boomerangs—they return to plague the maker. If the Hon. Ollie James of the first congressional district, happened to be in a Louisville pool room when the police made a raid upon it, as stated in several of our exchanges, what more natural than to jump out of the window, especially if the door was barred as it evidently was. Mr. James' avoirdupois is such that jumping up through the chimney upon the roof was not to be thought of and the window was quite the natural place of exit, in fact, there don't seem to have been any other opening to the outside world except where the police and patrol wagons were located. Mr. James was not trying to find any police as he had not lost any. He simply, if our exchanges are correct, jumped through the window, and leisurely sauntered to the railroad station where a car was boarded for Washington. Up to the present writing, however, the main question has not been touched upon—What became of his pool tickets? Did they win or lose?

LOCAL OVERFLOW.

Joe Tudor went to Sturgis Wednesday to visit relatives.

Rev. J. F. Price will preach at Sullivan Saturday and Sunday.

C. E. Weldon's new dwelling on Cherry street in the O'Brien addition is about complete.

Miss Malinda Metz, who has been visiting her brother, C. E. Metz, for some time, returned to her home at Caseyville Tuesday.

Herbert Whitney will return to his home the last of this week, but his wife will remain here a few weeks as the guest of her mother, Mrs. R. F. Dorr.

Sheriff J. Watts Lamb, of Crittenden county, who umpired the great ball game here yesterday, proved himself equal to the occasion from start to finish, and as much of a gentleman on the ball diamond as in the sheriff's office. —[Sturgis Herald.

D. M. Young, of Wellsford, Kas. arrived Sunday night to visit friends and relatives for two or three weeks. Mr. Young formerly resided here but has resided in Kansas twelve years, this being his first visit in five years.

All persons interested in Mt. Zion grave yard are requested to be there on the second Saturday in September to help clean it off, as it rained on day previously advertised. If it rains on Saturday this time, come following Monday.

Nunn & Henry have the concrete floor in their new store building complete, and they will begin to ceil, plaster and rearrange the doors and windows at once. When finished they will have a splendid building for their new furniture stock.

Dr. R. J. Morris will leave Saturday for St. Louis to attend the Fourth International Dental Congress which convenes in that city on Monday. This will be the largest gathering of dentists the world has ever known. All civilized nations will be represented. Dr. Morris will be absent about ten days.

Messrs. R. M. Franks, J. A. Hill, Percy Threlkeld, Mrs. J. A. Hill, Mrs. Emma Rochester, Mrs. H. F. Morris, Mrs. Kate Rochester and Misses Willie Clement, Ada Hughes and Atta Copher left Wednesday to represent the county Sunday Schools at the State convention which convened at Henderson the 25th.

C. B. Hina, of the Marion Hard-Co., is meeting with such success in his position, and his work is so fascinating that he often forgets little things. The latest evidence of this is that after supper Wednesday he drove to the store and hitched his horse. Thursday morning, when the grocers came up town early, the horse was still there, while Mr. Hina was sleeping soundly and serenely at home.

TELEPHONE

RIVALRY

Cumberland and Peoples' Both Preparing to Put Exchange In at Salem.

LINES WILL BE EXTENDED.

That the Peoples' Independent Telephone Company and the Cumberland Telephone and Telegraph Company are both preparing to construct a local exchange at Salem, is the latest news we have in that line. The Peoples' already has some of its material on the ground and is preparing to go ahead with the work while we are informed that the Cumberland has ordered material to be shipped. As stated in our last issue, the Cumberland intends to connect the exchange at Fredonia with the proposed Salem exchange, taking in Mexico, Dyeusburg and Pinckneyville, also to build a line from Salem to Golconda. It is also stated that both companies have made propositions to the citizens of Tolu to put a local exchange in that town. The Peoples' proposes to cross the river at Carrsville and extend its lines to Golconda, Elizabethtown, Cave-in-Rock and other local points in Southern Illinois, which are already generally using the Independent systems and they will also take in Ford's Ferry on this side of the river, and put all these points on the proposed exchanges. However, we are informed that the citizens of Tolu and Salem have not fully determined to which of the companies their support will be given, but, it is stated, at meetings to be held Monday night the matter will be settled.

Mr. Smith states that the Peoples' will, and is now preparing to put in a new exchange board here, to put up three cables, one on Main street extending to the Maxwell corner, one on Salem street extending to the residence of J. L. Clifton, and one on Belleville street extending to the railroad, and in addition to that he says the entire system here will be made a metallic one, which means that two wires will be used in every instance instead of one sometimes as now. The polls are already on the ground for the construction of the Peoples' line from Mattoon to Sturgis. This latter extension will be a great benefit to all the local towns in this section as it will render direct metallic connection with Morganfield, Henderson, Owensboro, Louisville and other important points. There has been some talk of the city council here issuing a franchise to the Cumberland people to put in another exchange, but with the completion of the contemplated improvements here by the Peoples', there is no likelihood that another franchise will be given. The service here will then if properly attended to, be all the citizens of the town could wish for, besides, they would not like to give up many of the points that are now on the free exchange and in return have to have the expense of keeping two telephones in their business houses and offices, all of which would be an almost inevitable result, while as now as compared with the expense we obtain more service than is usually given by any system anywhere.

Mrs. Lightle has returned $15,500 of the insurance money.

The Worst Day in the World Is What We Call "To-morrow"

By HERBERT W. TOMPKINS.
Author of "Marsh Country Rambles," Etc.

PROCASTINATION, irresolution, languidness, idleness, weakness of character—these are milestones on the broad road that leads over the precipice of failure called "To-morrow."

How many readers of this paper can honestly say that the word "to-morrow" has not interfered with their lives? The thing which has no real existence, the day which you will never see, is to-morrow. Yet how often you wait for that day which will never be here!

You should begin some new work, and you think you will begin it—TO-MORROW.

You ought to give up some foolish custom, and you think you will do so—TO-MORROW.

The dearest of all the nations is Spain, and in Spain the national word is "TO-MORROW."

To-morrow is the soft lounge on which the weak human lies down to rest.

The power, the dangerous influence of the word "to-morrow" is fortunately not a sign of going backwards. It is a sign that we are not yet fully developed mentally.

It takes an effort of the brain to say of a disagreeable thing, "I will do it to-day."

The will, the expression of the soul's intellectual purpose, is the most recently-developed feature of the human being, and it is often the weakest.

Our primitive animal faculties have full swing, and "to-morrow" does not interfere with them. The man who wants to eat or drink or indulge himself in any animal attraction has no thought of to-morrow. His animal will is well developed, and when the animal is in command, to-day rules.

Unfortunately, to-morrow controls the mental processes, and, therefore, the processes which are most important.

It is hard to reform, so we say "I shall reform to-morrow."

A million men say every day, "I mean to save money and live more sensibly. I will begin to-morrow."

If what we write, and what has already been written, can persuade a hundred thousand people to try TO-DAY to cut TO-MORROW out of their list of words, a useful work will have been done.

Take this for a motto: "I shall not think of to-morrow, for to-morrow can never come. My only possession is to-day, and I will do all that I can in it. I will not lull myself to sleep promising myself about a time that will never come. I shall be man of to-day."

Better Not Tell

By ANNA McCLURE SHOLL.

If a woman really knew the truth about herself I think she would hesitate to tell it, for in that case the greatness of her comprehension would raise her far above the incidents of even the most intricate confession. Becoming sibilant—for knowledge of character is sometimes knowledge of the future—her narrative would be less a personal revelation than a triumph of spiritual insight. Mrs. Browning told the truth about herself in her sonnets to Robert Browning, but between such a confession and the morbid self-analysis of a Bashkirsteff what a gulf!

It is the men rather than the women who have invited the world into their dressing rooms. From St. Augustine to Rousseau, from Marcus Aurelius to Amiel, they have kept journals for posterity and made their confessions to whomsoever would listen. Women have kept silence, or, like the gifted little Parisian, have broken it at their peril. The more women have to tell, as a rule, the more silent they become, not because they are afraid to tell the truth, but because truth does not need to be told.

As a rule their self-revelations have been involuntary, and involuntary self-revelations are perhaps the most accurate of all. Emily Bronte would have had nothing to tell in "A Story of My Life," but in "Wuthering Heights" her personality is as a flame seen through a tempest. We know she could have loved profoundly, whereas little Marie's elaborate explanations of the truth about herself in matters emotional leave us doubting. She had, however, the courage to give to the world her own name as proof of her belief in her illusions. Her sisters in this country, if we except the hysterical young person from Montana, hide behind a "Mary Adams," or, hard pressed, behind a Mr. Edward Bok.

But, after all, why should a woman tell the truth about herself under her own name, or that of the innocents? Her betraying and dramatic silences are worth a thousand self-records. Besides, truth, like love, is dependent for its perfecting on the agreement of two spirits, and though a woman proclaimed the truth about herself from a hotset, who would believe her? If she said she was a saint her audience would mock her with "Impossible, madam! You are too good looking." A sinner, and they would say, "You have not enough charm to be a sinner."

If she proclaims that her thoughts were busied with profound questions of philosophy or social sciences they would cry in refutation, "You dress too well."

If she then bared her innocent soul in the story of her immortal passion they would smile and say, "You are not a woman in love; you are a novelist. Go and see your publishers!"

Cause of Race Suicide

By PROF. G. STANLEY HALL,
President of Clark University.

marry late and have few children.

A large percentage of high school girls actually wish they were boys. We seem to be developing a female sex without a female character.

The rapid feminization of our schools encourages women teachers to give their own masculine traits and ideals free rein. Something is wrong with the girl in the middle teens who is not gushy or sentimental, at least at times.

It is said that the presence of girls is humanizing for boys, but there is something wrong with the boy who can truly be called a "perfect gentleman." I do not like to urge that he should be a little rowdy, but vigor must not be sacrificed to primness.

Coeducation and higher education have reduced the rate of both marriage and offspring. Scarcely three-fourths of our male and only about one-half of our female graduates marry, and those who do so

INSIDE INFORMATION.

New Concern Will Aid Those Betting on Election Results.

Politicians of New York are greatly interested in the National Election Association.

The object of the association was explained by an official of the new company. He said:

"We are going to make careful canvasses in every district in every state in the Union with the idea of furnishing information on the result of the coming presidential election to those disposed to make wagers. We think that we can give complete information on every congressional district, every state and every group of states, and by a month before election we are certain we can call the turn correctly on any contest, from the Assembly districts to the National contest."

He added that branch offices will soon be opened in the principal cities of Kentucky and also other states.

CAPITALISTS: Responsible parties in this city desire to obtain a loan of $18,000 at rate of 6 per cent interest on ten year's time. Money to be repaid in yearly installments after first year. Will furnish ample real estate security. For particulars send your inquiry to THE RECORD, Marion, Ky 4t

Wakeful?

Sleeplessness Is a Sign of Nerve Trouble and Should Be Looked To.

There are three different manifestations of sleeplessness.

First, hardly to sleep a wink all night, failing to be awake a long time before falling asleep; third, to fall asleep soon, waking up after several hours and then find it hard to sleep again.

They mean that somewhere in the nerve fibres, somewhere in the brain cells, somewhere in the blood vessels that carry blood to the brain, something is radically wrong, and must be righted, or the end may be worse than death.

To right it, take Dr. Miles' Nerve.

Some other symptoms of nerve trouble are: Dizziness, Headache, Backache, Worry, Restlessness, Irritability, Melancholy, Lack of Ambition.

They indicate diseases which may lead to Epilepsy, Fits, St. Vitus' Dance, Nervous Prostration, Paralysis, Insanity. Nothing will give such quick and lasting relief as Dr. Miles' Nerve.

"My husband had been sick for weeks, could not get up to have his bed made. With all the medical help we could get he continued to grow worse. He could neither sleep or eat. Our baby girl was sent away, and all callers barred, because he could not stand a bit of talking. I read of a case of nervous prostration cured by Dr. Miles' Restorative Nerve. We began giving it to him, and in a few days he was able to be dressed. From that time he steadily improved. Nerve saved his life."—MRS. A. G. HARKIN, Freeville, N. Y.

SEASONABLE BEE NOTES.

If you see clusters of bees hanging out in front of some of your hives, it may mean that these colonies will soon cast swarms. If not, it means that they need more super room, or a larger entrance.

Have a handy receptacle for all the bits of comb and wax which collect in the apiary. It will not take long to save a dollar in this way, for there is always a good demand for beeswax, and at a good price.

A frame of unsealed brood placed in a hive with a newly-hived swarm, will keep them from absconding. If anything will. If the weather is very hot, give shade and good ventilation to the hives for a few days.

Swarms can be taken from the bodies of trees, fence posts and other like places by dipping them off carefully with a tin dipper, dumping a few on the frames, and the remainder at the entrance to the hive.

Starters of foundations, fastened in the top of the section boxes, do much good, but full sheets are far better. The sections will be much better filled with a tin dipper, dumping a few on the wood, where full sheets are used.—Farm Journal.

USEFUL LITTLE FOUNTAIN.

Where Little Chicks Are Kept in Large Numbers It Is Almost a Necessity.

The illustration shows a drinking fountain for little chicks that can be constructed by anyone who can drive nails and saw off a board square.

Take a piece of inch board six inches square and one piece six by twelve inches and nail them together to form a right angle as shown. Fasten a bottle to the upright board with a strap, a, place the lid, b, of a baking powder can under the bottle with a nail, c, under the mouth. The nail is to allow a little water to escape from the bottle.—Farm and Home.

Incubator Is Indispensable. With the aid of a good incubator, it is possible to bring forth a greater number of chicks with less worry than is required to look after perhaps a dozen or more setting hens. The advantages of using an incubator are many: It is ready to "set" whenever needed; not necessary to wait until it gets "broody." It will do the work of dozens of hens in hatching and isn't half the trouble. It starts the chicks off free from lice and consequently has advantage here over hatching with hens. The incubator is as indispensable to the poultryman as the mower or reaper to the farmer these days.—Midland Farmer.

I will sell round trip tickets to Louisville Tuesday, Aug. 30th, on train leaving Marion at 11:20 a. m. returning, leaving Louisville Thursday, Sept. 1st, 12 o'clock noon for $2.25 round trip.
