JOPLIN PRICES

For Lead and Zinc Ores at a High Point—Barytes Looking Upward.

SALEM FIRECLAY IN TRANSIT

THE HIGHEST PRICE paid for zinc during last week at Joplin was $40 per ton. Lead prices were unchanged at $52 per ton.

THE BARYTES PRODUCTION for the year 1903, according to the latest geological survey report written by Dr. Pratt, amounted to 50,307 tons. The average price of a ton last year at the mine was $3.02. Dr. Pratt says Missouri is the chief source of supply. Fredonia, Ky., is mentioned in this report as having made shipments last year, but the development was not sufficient to determine the extent of the deposit. Deposits near Cave-in-Rock were developed last year, but no mineral was mined. It is stated that Barytes is now recognized as a good pigment on its own merits, replacing other white paints as it has a permanent pure white color which remains unaffected by weather or by gases.

A BLACK LINE very similar to that made by a chalk line being struck against the rock, has been followed in the Illinois portion of this fluor spar district from one great bunch of fluor spar to another with almost invariably good results. In other words the vein closes in or pinches, and the only thing to do is to sink down on this line. The fluor spar in that section at least seems to be in chambers running into several thousands of tons. In following this line it has been quite the general experience that the black line eventually shows fluor spar and the widening commences at that point. No mining man should be discouraged at these pinches, as it is almost an invariable rule that they come in.

ON THE SENATOR MINE a few miles from Princeton, Ky., work was resumed Monday. Mr. W. B. White, the superintendent or captain of the mine, as they put it in the copper country, will mine the Senator ore for as little money per ton as it can be done in any section of the country. "The Senator," named for our Senator Deboe, has always had a strong body of zinc and lead ore and fluor spar. Mr. White's intentions are to sink the main shaft 30 feet deeper, which will make the depth 110 feet. At this point a station will be cut and levels run both ways on the vein. As this ore chimney reaches very close to the surface ground the sloping ground will yield from this ore level an immense tonnage of all three minerals. Mr. B. F. Weitzel, of Louisville, who practically owns this splendid property, has in contemplation the erection of a modern concentrating plant at the mine, and the shipments will be made from the "Senator station" on the Illinois Central R. R., for which purpose side tracks for the main line will be constructed. Mr. Weitzel seems to have the enterprise and hustle of a typical western mining man, and evidently believes in making preparations for a great output of ore before the mill or plant is installed. Such a producer near Princeton means a great deal to that city and its future interests. THE RECORD congratulates Mr. Weitzel on his acquisition of so valuable a piece of property as the Senator.

IN UNIONTOWN, the Wabash Grain Co., with $10,000 capital, has been incorporated. G. J. Harris, J. W. Pieffer and F. Rathman, incorporators.

THE KENTUCKY MILL & LUMBER Co., with capital stock of $50,000, has been formed in Paducah to manufacture lumber. H. A. Rose is president, H. H. Loving secretary and W. G. Dycus vice president.

THE STEVENS FIRE CLAY COMPANY commenced its movement towards the Western Tube Company's works on Monday. All of the teams possible to procure will be utilized in hauling this product from Salem to the railroad station for shipment to Kewanee, Ill. In all, some 8,000 tons will be moved this season.

THE OLD JIM is still taking out carbonate from a 15 foot depth, a vein of ore of possibly 18 to 24 inches being mined. It is, of course, more than probable that one of these veins will open out into a large deposit of carbonate as is often the case in properties of this character.

FIFTY-SEVEN NEW BANKS and trust companies and many other financial institutions were formed in the South during the month of July. Kentucky reports the Fourth Street Bank, Owensboro, capital $15,000; Farmers and Merchants National Bank, Franklin, $25,000; Union Bank and Trust Company, Henderson, $100,000.

SULLINGER, OF IRMA, is showing the results of careful prospecting in the shape of carbonate of zinc which he found about two miles from his general store at that place. So near as can be ascertained without personal inspection, Mr. Sullinger has a very handsome property and one that should make him a great deal of money.

SCHWARZ & BEMENT have a very attractive carbonate prospect in the near vicinity of the Mann. To quite an extent it has been uncovered and shows a good grade of zinc. Probably good mining work, directed by one familiar with this rather freaky ore, would result in something substantial to the present owners.

SOUTHERN PROSPERITY is strongly illustrated in a recent interview with W. J. Harahan, general manager of the Illinois Central railroad, who says that his company has added 50 locomotives to its equipment, making 1,150 engines in service. "We look for good business this year," continued Mr. Harahan "particularly in the South." The South alone keeps up its gait of uninterrupted prosperity.

JOHNSON BROTHERS, of Lola, who were reported as having found a large vein of high grade fluor spar in the creek bed a mile or more from their store, uncovered this vein two or three years ago at that identical spot. The matter of transportation cuts so great a figure to the railroad or to the Ohio river from this point that it is hardly possible the product can be put upon the market for a long time to come at least.

THE BONANZA MINE, some two miles from Lola in the Salem district, has a very complete mining plant including an electric light system. For some unknown reason this property has remained idle for two years or more. It may be possible that the original owners have sold their stock in comparatively small certificates and that no one or two persons are the owners of shares sufficient to cause them to take active measures for resuming mining work. Inquiries have recently been made regarding the machinery at this plant with a view of purchasing it if it can be secured from the owners.

THE MANN CARBONATE property, in the western part of the district, is still in statu quo so far as active work is concerned. While the matter has been dismissed from the Federal court, the various leases executed by the owner at different times and to various people has put the property in such form that neither one of the lessees feels quite safe in going ahead and developing more fully this really fine property.

THE NANCY HANKS shaft at Salem is now at a depth of 170 feet. Capt. Haase tells THE RECORD that at this depth a wonderfully rich body of lead ore and fluor spar is in evidence. Sinking will be continued and levels will be driven probably every hundred feet, and a very great tonnage will be placed "in sight" before a mill is erected on this property.

HARRISBURG is making a claim in the daily press as having in operation one of the most extensive fluor spar mines in the South. The letter says: "The product is fine; other product of the mine is ground into sand, which, when mixed with cement, makes the finest building stone." We rather fear that this sand will make what little fluor spar is mixed with it of no value. It would probably make good building stone if mixed with cement—almost any clean sand will do the same.

THE SALE of 190 acres of land in the vicinity of Crittenden Springs, owned by Mr. R. W. Wilson, to Messrs. Blue & Nunn for the sum of $10,000 was reported last week on what THE RECORD deemed good authority. This report was not only premature, but lacking in several other important elements which usually precede the transfer of real estate. It is understood that a contract for the purchase of some 120 acres of land has been made by the parties mentioned and when completed THE RECORD will have the facts in some detail.

MR. A. D. NOE, the active mining partner of the Big Four Sheridan Company, informs THE RECORD that from their comparatively small open cut on the LaRue vein something over 1,150 tons of fluor spar has been mined and marketed. Besides this actual weight, he estimates that the company has nearly 400 tons of a zinc and lead milling ore already in stock to start their jigs with. Mr. Grange, of Wisconsin, has undertaken to provide the company with the latest improved hand jigs and to have them on the ground as quickly as possible.

A NARROW GAUGE road bed of about 24 inches in width to run from the Livingston water tank, just below Mexico on the Illinois Central railroad, has been practically arranged for. This line will pass by the Ashbridge mine of the Eagle Fluor Spar Co., the Tabb, Yandell, Hodge, Elba Hodge, Jap Riley and Cullen mines to Salem. All of these properties are now producers, and this much cheaper method of transportation will unquestionably cause more development through that section of country than any other proposition that could be mentioned. The matter of financing this road is in first class hands and will be pushed from now on as rapidly as possible. It really means a question of self-preservation, as the more distant properties cannot pay wagon hauling rates and mine either fluor spar or fire clay.

JUDGING FROM APPEARANCES the Eagle Fluor Spar Company will make their first run in about six weeks from this time. The installation of such heavy machinery is not only a question of time, but of foundations. The concrete must have an opportunity to settle and dry out, and that means in this instance a great many days. The Cullen mine, on which this great mill is being erected, will possibly not furnish sufficient tonnage the first year to keep the plant busy 24 hours per day, however, more applications from outside mines to handle product have already been made than even this large proposition can handle. We believe it is the intention of President Hearn to comply at a fair rate per ton with the requests of these outside producing properties and so far as possible give them the opportunity of marketing their ores in a condition ready for the smelters. This in itself will do nearly as much to develop outside properties as cheaper transportation, as it lessens the bulk and increases the value of all ores.

A MINING PLANT of some considerable magnitude has been erected upon the Blue & Nunn Nine Acre tract. The building that covers the rock breaker, cornish rolls and the battery of jigs is 30 by 40 feet in size. A 14 by 20 engine house has been completed and the engine placed in position. A small blacksmith and repair shop is also under cover and everything about the mine looks like business. The shaft has been sunk to 90 feet depth, disclosing a heavy body of zinc and lead ore. An air shaft has been made from which a drift will be run to the main shaft, insuring an ample supply of pure air. The regular levels on the vein will likely be run at 100 feet depth and a big slope opened. It is very probable that a winze will be put down from the drift between the air and main shaft extending to the 100 foot level, which will drain the entire work to the lower level, where one pump will keep the water out and the upper ore will also be let down this winze and all hoisted from the 100 foot level to the crusher above.

THE CULLEW COAL MINE, which was rather hastily inspected on one of the pleasant days of last week, has been a non-producer for some two score years. During the "fuss" between ourselves and our northern friends this mine was closed down. Originally owned by the father of Mrs. John F. Harth, of Caseyville, it finally passed into the hands of Mr. Harth, who, with his characteristic enterprise, has this property now being put in the best class of coal mining enterprises. The lease for a long term of years was made by Mr. Harth to a financially strong Philadelphia company. The surface work is being splendidly reconstructed. The tippie tracks being of sufficient capacity for 40 to 60 cars, a railroad track scale with heavy concrete foundation is about completed. A large repair and blacksmith shop is already enclosed, while the tippie frame is progressing rapidly. The No. 9 vein is opened by a slope of sufficient size for two tracks. The heavy rock roof over this vein makes an ideal coal mining proposition, the vein itself averaging about five and one-half feet. The lessees of this property are to be congratulated on being able to make a large tonnage output almost from the moment of starting their rope. Above the No. 9 vein, and outcropping on the surface, is the No. 11, a canal coal of very fine quality. Besides these two veins there is the No. 10, or Briar Hill vein, midway between No. 9 and No. 11. This is an exceedingly fine coal, very free from sulphur, and is pronounced by Pennsylvania coal experts to be one of the finest bituminous coals in America. The celebrated Bell coal underlies the entire field, besides the numerous other veins between the No. 9 and the Bell—eight in number. This Philadelphia company have a colliery already in workable form, air shafts, etc., and the moment the tippie and power is ready the coal will be moving toward the consumer.

OHIO RIVER ASSOCIATION

Baptists Met in Twenty-Second Annual Session at Deer Creek Church.

MUCH GOOD WORK DONE.

The twenty-second annual session of this body of Baptists was held with Deer Creek church August 24th to 26th, and proved one of its most interesting and profitable sessions. The body is composed of ministers and messengers from thirty-seven churches in Crittenden and Livingston counties and a few on borders of adjoining counties. There were about 80 present out of a full representation of 130.

The introductory sermon was preached by Elder M. E. Miller, of Fredonia, from the text "We walk by faith and not by sight." Elder Miller was at his best and the sermon was felt throughout the meeting. He emphasized "Faith" as opposed to "Sight" and "Reason" unaided by "Revelation" and as strong as in its object.

The officers were re-elected—Elders W. R. Gibbs, moderator, and R. A. LaRue, clerk and treasurer. The Association lost no time in organizing, but proceeded at once with its regular order of business. About one day was given to hearing and discussing the reports on missions. The reports show a slight decline in contributions to missions and benevolences, but for home purposes a large increase. There were 251 baptisms last year, making a total membership of 3,510. One new church—Ohio Valley—was received into membership.

The visiting brethren added greatly to the interest of the meeting. Elder D. M. Green, the veteran minister from Calvert City, was welcomed by his many friends, especially the older ones who have known and loved him so long for his work's sake. He is nearing 90, and yet maintains the vigor and zeal of youth. Also Elder I. M. Wise, of Owensboro College, Prof. W. H. Harrison, of Bethel College, Russellville, and W. S. Coakley, of Georgetown College, assisted. Elders H. C. McGill, in the interest of the Western Recorder, H. E. Cleaton, for the Baptist Argus, T. E. Richey, for the Baptist Flag, and J. S. Miller, for the Foreign Mission Journal, were also in attendance.

Among the former officers of the Association who were present were Elder J. S. Miller, who served as clerk for twenty years—from the beginning of the Association until two years ago when R. A. LaRue was elected—and Geo. McGrew who served as moderator for the last fifteen years up to the time of Brother Gibbs' election two years ago. Rev. J. S. Henry has served as treasurer of the mission fund for the last twenty years and was re-appointed this year.

The great day of the feast proved to be Friday, when orphans' home and ministers' aid were being considered. A hand-shaking and collection could not be resisted. About sixty dollars was raised and a spiritual feast enjoyed by all present.

Blooming Grove church, Livingston county, was elected as place of next meeting, and Elder J. S. Henry to preach the introductory sermon. Elder M. E. Miller was elected messenger to the Southern Baptist Convention in Kansas City. Deer Creek church and vicinity are royal hosts and gracefully met every demand of their many guests.

A Big Baptizing.

At New Union church, better known as Ditney, as a result of the recent revival held there, thirty persons were received into the church last Sunday by baptism. On Enoch Belt's farm near the church the ceremony occurred, being witnessed by a very large crowd. Revs. Dutton and Kennon were the officiating clergymen and in the beautiful grove through which wended the little creek, services were held because there was "much water there." A month previous to this, ten were baptized at the same place by Rev. Kennon, making a total of forty who joined New Union church since the revival.

'Will Locate in Arkansas.

Robert Montgomery, of Iuka, passed through town Tuesday enroute to St. Louis where he will attend the Fair after which he will enter Barnes' Medical College to complete his course there. This will be Mr. Montgomery's fourth year in one of the best colleges in the country and when he finishes this year's course he will be well fitted for the practice of his profession. But his many friends in this county and Livingston will be sorry to know that he intends to locate in Arkansas, but we wish him well and hope to hear from him. Before leaving he gave us a dollar and said he wanted to take the Record so that he could hear from his old home every week.

The Guiding Star Whistle.

THE GUIDING STAR, a little river steamer hailing from Evansville and owned by Elizabethtown, Ill., people, is made up principally of a whistle. The owner, or engineer, or captain, or someone connected with the craft, has such a decided penchant for blowing its whistle that it is really unsafe to attempt the ferrying of a team of horses in the crazy little ferry boat plying between the shores of Kentucky and Illinois whenever the Guiding Star is in evidence. Luckily this whistle is only dangerous when the horses and ferry boat are within a radius of fifty feet from the shrill squeakings of this little whistle, yet there is grave danger that some day a team of horses will float down the Ohio feet upwards if this special amusement is carried to the excess it was last week.

Soap Bubble Party.

Little Miss Ruth Hearin entertained her young friends Monday afternoon from 3 to 5 o'clock, at a soap bubble party, it being the fifth anniversary of her birth. Many enjoyable games were indulged in and refreshments were served. Allie Catherine Moore was given the prize for blowing the largest soap bubble. Each guest gave the young hostess a present, and each guest was given a pipe dressed as a doll as a souvenir of the pleasant event. The following young people were present:

Mattie and Walter Henry, Fannie Morse, Elizabeth Coak, Allie Catherine Moore, Ruth Moore, Mason Givens, Dora Walker, Orbon Foster, Mildred Bourland, Virginia Flanery, Ruth Haynes, Mildred and Eugene Summerville, Elizabeth Johnson, Vivian and Elizabeth Rochester, Ruth Chandler, Birdie and Dulcie Travis.

School Announcement.

As school begins Monday, Sept. 12, I shall be at home through the week beginning Sept. 4th, and shall be pleased to see all who are interested in securing board, about grading or any school matter. Let me say that all pupils who wish their promotions to be respected, must show good reason why they did not enter Monday, Sept. 12, 1904, the first day of school.

ELECTION COMMISSIONERS NAMED.

Democrats Attempt Sly Game, but Are Themselves Caught Napping.

Election Commissioners for the 119 counties in the State were selected at a meeting of the State Election Commission held in Frankfort August 25.

The Election Commission is composed of J. Morgan Chinn, Democrat, Clerk of the Court of Appeals; Charles Poyntz, Democrat, of Maysville, and Judge James Breathitt, Republican, of Hopkinsville. Mr. Chinn, by virtue of his position, is chairman of the commission. Ollie F. Poyntz was re-elected Secretary without opposition.

The statutes provide that every county in the State shall have an election commission composed of the Sheriff of the county, one Democrat and one Republican.

But few people knew that the State Election Commission was to meet. Judge Breathitt, himself one of the three Commissioners received no notice of the meeting until Wednesday morning. It had been anticipated that a meeting of the commission would be called with suddenness and accordingly due provision and preparation by sending out notices and thereby securing a complete return from every county in the State. Under the law each county submits five names to the State Commission from which one name is chosen.

Mr. Walker, with a complete list in his possession, went to Frankfort Wednesday evening and filed it with Secretary Poyntz, receiving a receipt for the same.

The Democrats, on the contrary, were not so ready to meet with the sudden call for a meeting. When the commission convened it was found that the Democrats of about twenty counties had failed to file their lists. Chairman Chinn and Mr. Poyntz were, therefore, compelled to complete those unfilled lists by telegraph and telephone.

In some cases they merely reappointed the Commissioners of last year without waiting to hear from the counties.

For the counties in our immediate vicinity the following were named:

Caldwell; Jno. T. Lamb, Republican, R. H. Akin, Democrat. Crittenden; W. B. Yandell, Republican, P. S. Maxwell, Democrat. Livingston; Philip A. Clark, Republican, O. C. Lasher, Democrat. Webster; Wm. Wilkey, Republican, W. E. Bourland, Democrat.

What Is Life?

In the last analysis nobody knows, but we do know that it is under strict law. Abuse that law even slightly, pain results. Irregular living means derangement of the organs, resulting in constipation, head ache or liver trouble. Dr. King's New Life Pills quickly re-adjusts this. It's gentle, yet thorough. Only 25c at R. F. HAYNES' drug store.

Campaign Fakes Redivivus.

From the Limbo of the Roorbacks wink and wake

The Forged Quotation and the Same Old Fake.

The leading editorial, "What Lincoln Said" in the Hon. John Roll MeLean's Cincinnati Enquirer, reads thus:

"There has been a revival in the newspaper of what Abraham Lincoln declared, a short time before his death, to be one of the dangers of the times ahead of him. 'I see in the near future,' said Mr. Lincoln, 'a crisis approaching that unnerves me and causes me to tremble for the safety of my country. As a result of the war, corporations have been enthroned and an era of corruption in high places will follow, and the money power of the country will endeavor to prolong its right by working upon the prejudices of the people until all the wealth is aggregated in a few hands and the republic is destroyed. I feel at this moment more anxious for the safety of the country than ever before, even in the midst of war.'"

This was duly "exposed" in 1896 and 1900. It has so burlesque a face, its talk about "corporations" and the "money power" is so grotesquely premature that its author must have had an unholy joy in making it. "In the midst of war" is another betraying phrase as if Mr. Lincoln had long survived the war. He died before Joe Johnston had surrendered. Of course, Nicolay and Hay know nothing of such a letter. It is the cheapest sort of a forgery, but it will be solemnly used again by the Democratic thinkers.

Why don't the fake foundries turn out something new? For example:

"I view with alarm the great aggregations of capital called trusts."—George Washington.

"Imperialism and the departure of Jeffersonian simplicity are the twin dangers of American civilization."—T. Jefferson.

"If any man refuses to haul down the American flag, boot him down."—J. A. Dix.

Why must the campaign fake be the same old fake?—New York Sun.

A Boy's Wild Ride for Life.

With family around expecting him to die, and a son riding for life 18 miles to get Dr. King's New Discovery for Consumption, Coughs and Colds, W. H. Brown, of Leesville, Ind., endured death's agonies from asthma; but this wonderful medicine gave instant relief and soon cured him. He writes: "I now sleep soundly every night." Like marvelous cures of Consumption, Pneumonia, Bronchitis, Coughs, Cold and Grip prove its matchless merit for all Throat and Lung troubles. Guaranteed bottles 50c and $1.00. Trial bottles free at R. F. HAYNES.

CAPITALISTS: Responsible parties in this city desire to obtain a loan of $18,000 at rate of 6 per cent interest on ten year's time. Money to be repaid in yearly installments after first year. Will furnish ample real estate security. For particulars send your inquiry to THE RECORD, Marion, Ky 4t

INDIAN DUEL

On Crowheart Butte Was a Bloody
Battle to the Death.

Two miles from the JK ranch house is Crowheart Butte, a landmark famous all over Wyoming. Situated near the center of the Shoshone Reservation, it is visible for miles in every direction. Many years ago it was the scene of a great Indian fight. There are Shoshones living along the creeks now who were in that battle, and this is what they tell about it:

One fall several hundred Crows came down from the North on to the buffalo ground of the Shoshones. They got a supply of meat and had started home, when they met a large Shoshone party. There was a running fight for many miles.

The Crows cut their horses' packs, but still the Shoshones overtook them. When some of the fleeing Crows reached the rimrocks around the big butte they made a stand to give the others a chance to get away. Finally a lot of the Crows took refuge on top of the butte. Here the Shoshones could not dislodge them, but they formed a cordon around the butte and kept the Crows there for three days without water. Then the Crow Chief came to the edge and dared Washakie, the Shoshone Chief, to fight a duel. If Washakie was killed the Crows were to go home in peace.

Washakie, with the advantage of food and water within him, went up, and with him his warriors to see fair play. On the flat top of the butte they met. On one side stood the beleaguered Crows, across from them their enemies. The two Chiefs fought with knives, and Washakie killed his opponent. With yells of delight the Shoshones fell upon the poor Crows, and not one on the butte escaped. The Shoshones cut out the heart of the dead Crow Chief, hung it on a pole and danced around it, and finally cut it into small pieces which they ate, to give them the courage of their departed foe.

At one end of the butte a little monument of flat stones is piled to commemorate the Shoshone victory. Washakie lived until very recently and when he died he was given, at the fort that bears his name, a Captain's burial. The Shoshone Reservation will be thrown open to settlement, and its valleys will be penciled with irrigating ditches. But a thousand years from now, when Crowheart Butte perhaps shall have lost its name, the eagles above it will have seen no more stirring spectacle than Washakie's victory of long ago.—Scribner's Magazine.

STATE NEWS.

Sim N. Leonard, a prominent banker of Eddyville, dropped dead one day last week of apoplexy. He was 80 years of age and President of the Farmers' Bank of Eddyville.

Draughan's business school of Nashville, Tenn., is to open up a branch college at Paducah in the near future.

Thos. Maybrier, who killed Geo. W. Thompson, the jailer of Robertson county, was sentenced for life to the penitentiary. Death penalty was expected.

It is reported that the greatest crop of tobacco known in Montgomery county in ten years is being harvested there and that the yield will readily command $10 per hundred.

The State Sunday School convention of the C. P. church, colored, was held at Mayfield last Friday, and Saturday. M. S. Wilson was the delegate from Marion.

Cadiz, Aug. 29.—"Sooner" Hite, a young negro, was brought here and lodged in jail charged with a criminal assault on the nine-year-old daughter of Mark Clark, a prominent farmer near Roaring Spring. Hite was employed as a farm hand by Mr. Clark, and the offense is alleged to have been committed early yesterday morning.

Kuttawa, Aug. 29.—J. L. James, Sr., of Eddyville, died of infirmities due to old age. Mr. James was for many years a traveling salesman and toured Western Kentucky before the railroads offered their present advantages. He represented Regan Bros., of Evansville, for nearly twenty years and quit the road because of failing health.

Hopkinsville, Aug. 29.—Medley Cansler, a well-known young farmer who lives about five miles west of Crofton, swallowed half an ounce of laudanum, but prompt medical attention saved his life. About a year ago he attempted suicide by hanging but was discovered and cut down before strangulation.

SNAKE CHARMER

Lured Reptiles From Houses and Laughed at Cobra Bite.

Some years ago our regiment was stationed at Peshawar, famous for its beautiful gardens which in the springtime are a mass of foliage and blossom, relates an English army officer.

The roses grow in wild profusion and the soil is so productive that, as an old gardener once said "you have only to put a dry stick into the ground and it will shortly sprout and flourish."

But before long we found that a snake had crept into our Eden, leaving its trail on the paths between the rosebushes and the servants' houses.

Armed with a stout stick I made a search in the quarters, but without any successful results.

Some months later I was taking my usual siesta after "tiffin," when the bearer came into my room saying, in the supercilious manner usual to him when speaking of his fellow-countrymen:

"Sahib, there is in the compound a snake charmer who says that by his music and enchantments he can lure a snake from its hiding place. If it please your honor, shall the man show this thing to you?"

Welcoming any sort of diversion in the hot weather I got up, put on my topi—sun hat—and strolled out into the direction of the servants' quarters.

On my approach the snake-charmer arose, salaaming deeply.

Nude, save for his loin cloth, the snake-charmer stretched himself full length upon the ground, and placing a reedlike pipe to his lips played a sad, monotonous, wailing tune in the direction of the quarters in which the snake was supposed to dwell.

In a few moments and to my intense astonishment, a brown form wriggled across the threshold of one of the native huts, and, as we all gazed spellbound at it, the snake crawled straight toward the pipe which charmed it.

As it neared him the snake-charmer arose, and seizing the reptile quickly, proceeded to put it into a bag he had with him.

In doing so, I plainly saw the cobra rear its head and strike the man's hand.

I darted forward to his assistance but in calm and reassuring accents he said: "No matter, Sahib, with me it is not as with other folk."

Then from among his heaps of clothing he produced a stone, with which he rubbed the bite, which apparently had no evil effect upon him.—Pall Mall Gazette.

Your Heart

May Be Weak. One Person in Four Has a Weak Heart.

One of the surest signs of a weak heart is shortness of breath after exercise. Your heart is not able to pump the blood fast enough to your lungs.

Some of the other symptoms of Heart Trouble are: Pains in the Side, Back and Shoulder; Fainting or Weak Spells; Dry Cough; Swelling of Feet and Ankles; Cold Feet or Hands.

No one can afford to allow a weak heart to go without medicine, because weak heart means poor circulation, and poor circulation means weak lungs, stomach, liver, kidneys, etc.

If, therefore, you suspect heart trouble, begin taking Dr. Miles' New Heart Cure. The Heart Cure will do you good, as it is a splendid tonic for the blood and nerves, and will revitalize your entire system.

Finally, remember, Dr. Miles' New Heart Cure is sold under a guarantee that the first bottle will do you good.

If it doesn't—your money back.

"I was afflicted with heart trouble for three years. I would be apparently all right, and without a moment's warning would fall as though shot. The attacks were frequent, and a terrible dread possessed me, as I never knew when or where, nor under what conditions, I would be attacked, and whether I would survive them. I consulted and was treated by some of the most eminent physicians of the state. Not finding relief from this source, I began taking Dr. Miles' New Heart Cure, and began to improve at once. I used ten bottles, which entirely cured me, as I have not had an attack for five years."—MRS. JOHN DREHBACK, Leipsic, O.

Modern Workmen Have Too Much Leisure Time

By O. M. WENTWORTH,
A Retired Marble Manufacturer of Massachusetts.

THE leisure which the shorter workday confers on the workman were used with discretion, there could be perhaps no reason for criticism of the movement which resulted in the eight-hour law. But the fact that only a very small percentage of the workmen devote to profitable uses the increased leisure which they enjoy to-day, is in itself a refutation of the wisdom of the shorter workday.

It is sometimes said that the shorter workday gives to workmen the opportunity to improve their minds and to make of themselves better family men and better citizens, but I have observed that on a Saturday afternoon or on a holiday the public libraries are deserted, while a baseball game, for example, is attended by no fewer than 15,000 persons, nearly all of whom are workmen.

In answer to the argument, that the shorter workday produces a better type of workman, I am competent to say that 50 years ago, when I worked at my trade with my companions, and all of us put in no fewer than 10, and more often as many as 12, hours a day, the type of workman was finer than I have seen at any time since. I do believe there never was a more temperate, industrious, loyal, intelligent and productive body of workmen before or since than existed in my trade 50 years ago, before people began to talk of the 10-hour movement. And I may add, that man for man, and hour for hour, the productiveness of the eight-hour workman of to-day cannot compare with that of the 10-hour workman of those times. A marble-cutting job, which would have taken a given number of men, working ten hours a day, from 14 to 15 days to do in those times, will take now the same number of men, working eight hours a day, from 26 to 27 days to complete.

I have often heard a man say that he earned all he was getting. Even if that was true, the argument was a poor one as an excuse for any man not doing his best. A man gets more than he is worth when he earns no more than he gets. Not much capital would be employed if the capitalist did not expect that every workman would earn a little more than he gets, for the capitalist also is entitled to his reward, not alone for the actual labor that he performs to make the business a success, but for the hazards and responsibilities that he bears.

I am in hearty sympathy with the reform of every abuse to which wage-earners may be subjected, but it seems to me that labor is in danger of injuring itself by excessive and unreasonable demands. Wage-earners claim that they ought to have more leisure, but how often is the leisure which they possess put to that profitable use which enables a man to rise above his environment? Leisure is a good thing if employed to good advantage, but leisure is a bad thing, for a rich man as well as a poor man, if it be frivolously expended.

In almost every industry to-day there is complaint that the cost of labor is so high that business must be conducted at diminished profit. Some employers have gone so far as to say that labor should consider whether it is not in danger of killing the goose that lays the golden egg.

Virtue in Material Age

By DR. WOODROW WILSON,
President of Princeton University.

prises, the number of men entering the ministry, are either diminishing or falling below that proportionate increase demanded by the position of organized Christianity. The laboring classes are coming to hate the churches as representatives of the employing class. Wealth in the second generation is too frequently the minister of pleasure rather than of social service. This age of transition is becoming, if, indeed, it has not already become, an age of religious indifference.

I am well aware that there are facts that can be pleaded against such a statement. It may be urged, and justly, that there never was a time when men are more interested in the study of religion and the Bible or when Christian helpfulness was more widespread and effective. It may be urged, and justly, that atheism has given place to agnosticism and that religious faith stands more strongly entrenched philosophically than ever before. Such facts as these are to be given due consideration, but I cannot see that they affect the general situation. How many cultured and well-to-do people you know who are really interested in religion? How many college graduates are entering the ministry? The massing of statistics will not quiet the anxiety caused by truthful answers to these questions. The age is religiously indifferent.

There are two outstanding reasons: The scientific attitude of the mind and the moral callousness of a commercial age. The scientific attitude of mind makes the modern age. It is by no means monopolized by the men of the library and the laboratory. For all matters are under investigation. We investigate the Bible to discover when and by whom its various parts were written. We hang new-born children to sticks to study the survival of reprehensible habits. We seek to learn whether men are more religious after eating or before eating. The spirit in inquiry is like the sun—its going forth is from one end of the Heaven to the other, and there is nothing hid from the heat thereof.

found in every community, who are able, willing and anxious to help their fellow men for the sake of humanity. Boards of trustees so composed may spend money more freely, but the greater part of the money thus spent would be for a good purpose, and the central advisory board whose recommendation would be necessary for yearly appropriations should act as an effective check on wastefulness.

The system of centralized control appears to check philanthropic effort or real charity to a considerable extent; in other words, public-spirited citizens are thereby eliminated from the service they would be glad to render to humanity, and the whole matter reduced to the cold level of official action.

If we are to believe the reports made, and there is no reason to doubt their accuracy, politicians, as such, commonly keep their hands off the management of charitable institutions. There seems to be a determined and wholesome effort on the part of the people to keep professional politicians from trading on the unfortunate inmates of such institutions.

Theoretically, at least, it would seem that the administration or control of charitable institutions should be left to those citizens to be

A story regarding a converted cannibal is told in the English papers. A negro clergyman was entertained at tea by the president of a college. The guest, who came from West Africa, related some particulars of his early life, when a woman asked him how he became a Christian. "The story of Jesus converted me," he answered; "you know, we are told the dogs did not touch the palms of her hands. Well, that convinced me of the truth of the narrative, for we never eat the palms of the hands in my country. They are too bitter."

ANNOUNCEMENTS

FOR SHERIFF

DUVALL—We are authorized to announce Alonzo J. Duvall a candidate for the office of Sheriff of Crittenden county, subject to the action of the Republican party. Election 1905.

"Damon and Pythias certainly did Louisville handsomely last week," says one of our exchanges, but what did Louisville livery men do to Damon and Pythias?

The "Farm and Store" is the name of a new paper that is to appear at Paducah soon. It will be under the supervision of Messrs. J. P. and H. E. Thompson, who many years were with the Paducah News.

The price of Kentucky coal at the mine or tipple is now absurdly low. At current prices there is hardly a new dollar received for the old one paid out. Without a coal company has the latest labor saving machinery for mining, commissary stores to help pay labor, its own yards in the larger consuming cities for the retail trade, its balance sheet will show a deficit month by month. The remedy seems to be, too, in the hands of the companies. The middlemen make the prices on their coal and their yards are located in every important city that Kentucky coal supplies. The coal mining companies, always anxious for a great output, will furnish these middlemen at extraordinary low rates rather than shut down their collieries. They hope for better prices in the future, next month or the month after, and the better prices do not materialize. And the remedy, of course, lies in eliminating this blood sucker. A President's agreement, an agreement which is made by gentlemen and lived up to as gentlemen by the heads of the various companies fixing the prices for the future months, prices figured on a fair return for the capital invested, will remedy all this. It will put the middlemen out of the business of telling the coal companies what prices they will receive for their product. It will reverse this. The companies will control their own product; they really don't today.

HUNTER-EDWARDS FIGHT.

Richard P. Ernst, of the Republican State Central Committee, has issued a call for a meeting of the committee on Monday, Sept. 5, at Louisville, to take up and pass on the merits of the controversy over the Eleventh district primary. Each member of the committee has been notified and asked to be present at the meeting in person. Addressing the members of the committee, Ernst says:

"In view of the vital importance, not only to the Eleventh district, but to the entire state of Kentucky, of a settlement of this controversy, which shall command the respect and confidence of the Republican party throughout the Commonwealth, you are most earnestly requested to be present in person.

"BLIND TIGERS"

Attempt to Run at Hurricane Camp Meeting But Are Caught.

The annual camp meeting is now in session at this place and the attendance is as good as expected. Last Sunday the crowd was a bit slower than usual in coming in but by 11 o'clock a large crowd was on the ground. Rev. J. J. Smith and Evangelists Misses Crow and Anderson are doing some good work and preaching some good sermons. Rev. Smith, as usual, is accompanied by his wife and daughter, Miss Mary.

Only the hotel people are allowed to sell anything on the grounds and that is such as lunch goods, ice cream or watermelons.

It appears that "blind tiger" resorts were wont to spring up on camp grounds but by some means the eyes of many of the tigers have been opened and their masters have found enlivening pursuits elsewhere and most all who were under suspicion have been apprehended, but possibly one or two others may yet be caught.

Next Sunday is expected to be the biggest day of the meeting. The ground on the inside of the camp enclosures is all covered with grass and the many shade trees make it a pretty grove, hence the grounds will not be dusty and judging from the present condition of the atmosphere, it will rain before Sunday and there will be no dust.

Other Arrests at Hurricane.

Besides Eldin Stone, two other arrests have been made at Hurricane camp meeting. Ed Ford was arrested and lodged in jail here charged with selling whiskey without license. The same day his brother, Elmer Ford, was arrested there and brought here charged with contempt of court on account of fines assessed against him for carrying concealed deadly weapons at a previous session of court. Bill Dalton was also arrested on the charge of selling whiskey on the camp ground without license, and put up $40 in lieu of bond which he expected to give.

OLL TUCKER

After Seven Years in Haynes' Store Goes in Business For Himself.

For seven years or more Oll Tucker has been found at his post in the R. F. Haynes' drug store, and has always greeted you with a smile and never hesitated to try to please you in the smallest matters. He is a registered pharmacist and stands high in his profession, but he has now decided to go in business for himself. Jas. Henry, of the furniture firm of Nunn & Henry, being compelled on account of his health to retire from the furniture business, Mr. Tucker saw a good opportunity to go into business and took advantage of it. There is no one who stands higher here or is more popular than Oll Tucker and there is not any one who knows his sterling qualities that will not congratulate him and wish him well.

The transfer of the Henry interest was made Tuesday and the style of the firm became Nunn & Tucker, but on account of R. F. Haynes being absent at the World's Fair, Tucker will not resign his position at the drug store until next Tuesday. During the seven years he has resided here, Mr. Tucker has only taken two weeks vacation but now he says he thinks he will spare enough time to attend the World's Fair. The new firm has a large advertisement in this issue of the Record. Read it and give the young men a complimentary call.

FOR SALE—A few choice lots in O'Brien addition. Prices reasonable, terms to suit purchaser.

C. E. WELDON

FOR SALE—Fine thorough bred Duroc Jersey pigs, 8 to 10 weeks old, $5. each.

MRS. BENNETT DEAD
Friends Shocked and Mourn With the Mother and Young Husband.

Mrs. Melville Glenn Bennett, wife of County School Superintendent, Z. A. Bennett, of Livingston county, died Tuesday afternoon at 1 o'clock at the age of 21 years. She was taken sick a short time ago with malarial fever, then there was a premature child birth from which death resulted. Mrs. Bennett was born in this county and was the daughter of Frank and Susan Glenn who resided at the place of her birth near Caldwell Spring church until she was about ten or eleven years of age, when they removed to Marion. Shortly after this her father died and here under the protection of her mother she grew up to beautiful womanhood. She was a student of the Marion graded school from which she graduated in 1900. She was a close student and at one time appeared to be failing in health, therefore the winter before her graduation was spent on the Florida sea coasts. After her graduation she was offered a position in the Ohio Valley Baptist College at Sturgis which she accepted and filled with credit. The place was again offered her but she declined, choosing to remain at home with her mother which she did until her marriage here to Z. A. Bennett, Dec. 21, 1902. After her marriage she immediately removed to Smithland taking her mother with her.
When 15 years of age Mrs. Bennett confessed Christ and joined the Baptist church here, ever after living a true and faithful Christian life. She became the organist and leader of the choir in her church which place she faithfully filled. Her body was laid to rest at 1 o'clock Wednesday afternoon at the New Bethel cemetery in Lyon county by the side of her father and brothers in the presence of many loving friends from Smithland, Princeton, Kuttawa, Fredonia, Marion and the surrounding country.
The funeral was preached by Rev. M. E. Miller, pastor of the Fredonia and New Bethel churches.
The death of Mrs. Bennett was a shock to the host of friends she had in Marion. She was independent in spirit, sweet in disposition and possessed a noble character. She is survived by a husband, mother and two sisters, Mrs. Albert Butler, of near Salem, and Mrs. John Bennett, of Caldwell Springs.

MRS. JENNIE DORR
Marries Young Tennessee Farmer— Ceremony Performed at Paducah.

TWO MEN HURT
Accident at Belt Mines Came Near Being Fatal.

Mrs. Jennie Dorr, of this city, and C. A. Love, of Halls, Tenn., were married Monday evening at 8 o'clock at the Palmer House in Paducah. Elder G. W. Perryman, of the First Baptist church, officiating.
Mr. Love was here last week and accompanied Mrs. Dorr and Mrs. Lena B. Elder, who left on Tuesday for St. Louis to visit the Fair and purchase the fall stock of millinery for the Farmers' Mercantile Co. of Halls, as far as Paducah.
He either returned home or left Paducah but returned in time to meet Mrs. Dorr and Mrs. Elder, returning from St. Louis, and claim his bride. He is a young man of worth and means, owning a large farm near Halls.
Mrs. Love was the pretty young widow of the late Spencer Dorr, of this city, who was killed two years or more ago in St. Louis, as the result of a fall from a telephone pole caused by an electric shock. She is the daughter of Thos. George, of Livingston county, who is a big farmer and is a leading citizen of this end of the State.

DR. C. L. GRAY. OPHTHALMOLOGIST.
Will return to Marion, on his way back to Paducah, Sept. 12th and remain one week only this trip. See him about your eyes when he comes, as he will not be this way again for several months. Office at New Marion Hotel. Examination and Testing Free.

Vacations Are a Necessity of Present Conditions

By BISHOP SAMUEL FALLOWS.

THESE days of school and college commencements bring forcibly before us the truth that human life is a school. For intellectual, social, moral, business and spiritual ends this school exists. Nothing in its teachers, instructions, means or methods can be valueless or purposeless. A power above ourselves has placed us in school even as we send our children to school by a power beyond themselves.

That power very largely determines for us the agencies and instruments of instruction as we determine those of our children. Where and how we were born and what the nature of our environment in which our life was first unfolded was not ours to settle. But we were at school. The very air we breathed, the changes of the atmosphere and a thousand other things connected with nature and man have been shaping our lives. But organism and environment have thus been potent factors. Environment may be credited with nine-tenths of our education and heredity with a scant one-tenth. A change in environment has changed a carnivorous bird into a granivorous one and the latter into the former.

As in school there must be moments of play, so must there be in the school of life. Vacations are needed in the one, so are they also in the other. Russell Sage to the contrary notwithstanding. One Sage is enough to a million of ordinary men. Too many of us older children do not know the meaning of relaxation in our restless weariness and the unrelenting, joylessness of our consuming, strenuous American life.

A wise physician of our city placed his daughter in one of our best public schools and solemnly forbade the teachers from imposing any lessons which should require more than one hour's study at home. And now in full bloom and beauty and healthful vigor she is able to assume the duties of responsible womanhood. Every teacher should be placed under bonds to do likewise.

The school of life is crowded with hard lessons. Trials, sorrows, disappointments, bereavements come. But the divine Providence which has permitted them will help us solve them. The great Teacher, with His heart filled with sympathy and love, never gets out of patience with us. If he cannot give us the meaning of them here he will make good his promise to each of us, "What thou knowest not now thou shalt know hereafter."

Strength of Love

By REV. W. J. MCKITTRICK,
Pastor First Presbyterian Church, St. Louis.

melodrama in life and in literature has strung along it rows of gew-gaws and balls of red fire, and tinselled it with spangles of flashing little stars that have no legitimate place in its neighborhood.

The two things from which it is remotest at the foundation are often foolishly poured into it on the surface, and they are passion and self-interest. Love is unacquainted with either of them. Both of them are centered in and draw their nourishment from that region of our human nature that knows least and cares least about the divine altruisms of grace.

Passion is a moral sickness. When it is weak it is the weakness of a baby. When it is strong it is the strength of the devil. It never rises to any supernatural altitude. It creeps and crawls along the lower levels of our personality and feeds itself on the hot breaths of the desert, or the malarial poisons of the swamp.

Passion burns us and greed dries us because neither of them stretches its roots down to the depths where the waters of life are. In the attempt to drive our lives into peace we break them into pieces. When love comes there is a new horizon and a new flush of color, and the light that never was on sea or land. We die and we rise again. Old things pass away before the expulsive power of a new affection under the blessedly destructive breath of a new spirit.

Then we get hold of the key of life. Then we are strong. Then we see its glory glowing around us, and we hear the choirs of another Heaven chanting their great Te Deum over our souls.

Love is stronger than death, because it is stronger than life.

Vanity is sensitive. It cries before it is hurt.

Pride is always ready for a clash, and foams and tosses in a cataract of unloosened greed.

Envy runs into vice and crime at a gallop.

What is it that makes a man stand as still as a rock and let storm after storm of freezing hail pour into his bosom without bringing a curse to his lips, and without sending despair into his soul? What will enable him to endure uncomplainingly the woes of isolation, where there is no comradeship for him save the roar of the storm? What is it that will make him dumb with the dumbness of a red Indian at the stake when calumnies are piling their fagots about his feet? It is love, the love that suffers long, that can live on a crumb of hope, that can live and grow without hope at all, that keeps a woman clinging to her son when she sees him careening down toward hell, that ties a child to a father when that father is beating it with blows, and staggering into a drunkard's grave, the love that is mightier than anything that is born of man because it is born of God, and is clothed, and shielded and armored with the all-prevailing, all-conquering power of God.

Achieving Freedom

By DR. FRANK W. GUNSAULUS,
President Armour Institute, Chicago.

There was never a more interesting falsehood than "All men are created free and equal." The Declaration of Independence was the work of an hour of intense excitement, and on every national anniversary this phrase is misquoted because when it is taken from its context it is false.

Freedom is something to be won. Men are not born free. Every power into whose control a man comes is a conquered freedom. There are no equals in this universe of God's. God is no socialist.

The problem of problems is to get a humanity that is energetic and militant—that is restful. The world needs men who can observe the approach of tremendous coming events as the engineer does the engine and still remain placid in the face of this force. Get the utmost efficiency into life with the least waste just as in the principles of physics. Put your methods into life so as to make the engine of life go ahead accurately and with power. The young man of to-day has an errand unto the world and must make himself a captain.

Humanity Has Profited by Shortened Work Hours

By HORACE G. WADLIN,
Former Chief of the Massachusetts Bureau of Labor Statistics.

DURING the nineteenth century the workday has been shortened from 12, and in some industries 14 hours, to eight. The condition of the workingman has steadily improved, socially and industrially in all progressive countries. I do not speak of the individual, but of the class, and individual exceptions, easily found, do not disprove the general statement. Certain industries have been destroyed by changes and processes or by the introduction of machinery, leaving some workmen stranded because they have been unable to adapt themselves to the new conditions. It is also true that the change to industrial freedom has removed the protection which, under the old regime, the workman received from his master; intensifying the struggle for existence, and introducing serious problems which society is bravely facing, but has not yet solved.

There is far less acquiescence in things as they are than formally but this is itself evidence of progress, since the workingman now measures his condition by his changed ideals and not merely by his present state. My contention, therefore, holds—opportunity for the workingman has widened with the lessened number of his hours of toil; opportunity for recreation, for family life, for reading and general improvement, for cultivating the little plot of ground adjacent to his house, since all workmen do not live in cities—for the many things that you and I and all men do when not entirely engrossed in toil. His children are better clothed and fed; he reads, not always the best books or papers, that his forerunners had neither time nor inclination to read at all; and he listens to music, such as his predecessors neither cared for nor had opportunity to hear—witness the crowds, mainly workmen, at the free concerts in every factory town.

In the mass, he is orderly and honest, and in intelligence is far in advance of those of his class who, in the old days worked without respite from sun-up to sun-down.

It is easy to criticize or to compare unfavorably the mixed population of our great cities with the favor and, in a sense, selected population of the early days in New England. A time of transition like that through which the world is now passing, a time of turmoil and upheaval, of strenuous competition and intense material energy, brings conspicuously to the front its own peculiar vices, and democracy is by no means pervaded as yet with sweetness and light. It would be strange, indeed, if there were not some who either misused or did not rightly use the superior advantages which come through the shortened workday; but it has never yet been found—and I speak advisedly, although limitations of space prevent the introduction of evidence in proof—that reductions of working time increased general disorder of crime, or lead to any of the social evils feared when such reductions are proposed.

Morality is not advanced nor is intemperance to be overcome by increasing the number of hours of labor. Indeed, the danger lies in the other direction so far as intemperance enters into the case at all, in labor so prolonged that the enervated system craves stimulant, or the workingman seeks relief from the treadmill of the factory in the temporary exhilaration which alcohol affords.

Dependent Children

By SUPERINTENDENT FAULKNER,
Of the Washburn Memorial Orphan Asylum,
Minneapolis.

Children may be dependent when they are not neglected, or neglected when they are not dependent, or be both dependent and neglected. Those of the first class predominate in the institution homes supported by religious, fraternal, or philanthropic benevolence, while the others predominate in the institutions supported by public taxation. These children go out from care to one of three conditions in life—to a rehabilitated home life, to self-support, or to foster homes.

The work which can better be done by an institution than by a home-finding society is that connected with the effort to restore the home life of children, or to fit them for self-support.

The grandest fruit of institution care is the power of self-support bestowed upon children who are able to receive and enjoy it.

Girls suffer more in their dependence than boys. Some social crusade should be begun to make the kitchen an art sanctuary for young women, and insure that a self-respecting young woman who becomes an artist in breadstuffs, shall be as secure in her social position as one who becomes an artist in stone or oils.

Institution children are better schooled, better trained in mental, moral and physical poise, and better equipped to push their way on the hustings where self-confidence counts than the great majority of those who are regarded as more fortunate in their inheritances of kindness and opportunity.

Scripture directs that "if a man compel you to go a mile, go with him twain." Every man is called upon and compelled to go the first mile. It is the expression of exacted service. It stands for what is due the family, the state.

The Second Mile

By DR. J. F. LOBA,
Pastor First Congregational Church, Evanston, Ill.

To refuse to go that mile is to fail in the simplest duties of life. The second mile includes all the refinements, all the joys, all the amenities of life. The very essence of scholarship is the freedom of the uncompelled second mile.

Neither in literature nor in science has any progress been made purely at the demand of necessity. It is only when the scholar or poet has written or sung out of the inner compulsion of life, the up-welling of the inner life, that true literature has been born. Men could make comfortable houses square and solid, but the uncompelled mile leads on to the graceful outlines, to gable and windows, to lawns and gardens.

We know that we cannot live by bread alone, bread is only the first mile. There is something else demanded by the inner life to which we respond with the enthusiasm of the heart. Philosophy may not bake bread, but it reveals God to us, and on the whole we prefer God to bread.

Let us remember that we must go the first mile; for that we shall have our wages in kind, in houses or goods, or power in church or state, but it is only out of the free, glad, joyous second uncompelled, self-forgetting and overflowing race of the second mile that we shall get joy, peace, power and life.

FELLING A LEANING TREE.

Rules Here Laid Down Apply to All Cases Where the Wood Is Not Brittle.

This is my way of felling trees that lean in a line away from the direction desired. A denotes line of gravitation, C the way we want the tree to fall. The circle represents the body of the tree. We begin to saw at C, and work around until E touches A, when we should be one-third sawed on the line E. Now chop above the saw; keep in direct line with C or felling line one-fourth of diameter, which should bring you into the line marked F and intersect E at bark of the tree. The space between E and F is sawed but not chopped out. When this is done start saw at D on other side and saw one-half off at right angles with your felling line C, which should intersect the leaning line A, but which leaves one-fourth of the diameter between B and E of solid wood. If the tree starts to raise before the line A is reached, I take off one saw handle and start a wedge at D, and if leaning heavily also at X. One man saws the intervening space between A and E, while the other at the same time strikes the wedges alternately X and D, which if timber is sound usually brings the tree in the desired direction. Variations from this rule must be taken if wood is brittle or unsound.—Rural New Yorker.

THE BUSY LITTLE COPPER.

Ernest Thompson Seton Says That as a Maker of Black Loam He Has No Rival.

I have visited nearly every state and province west of the Mississippi. I have availed myself of the researches of the agricultural department made under Dr. C. Hart Merriam's careful biological survey of the west, indeed, of all sources of information, and I am satisfied that the ordinary earthworms are not native to any part of America south of the Saskatchewan or west of the Mississippi valley, exclusive of the narrow humid belt along the Pacific coast.

There exists, nevertheless, a fine stratum of humus in all parts of the country where there is moisture enough to produce annual vegetation. The black earth in Manitoba is one foot to two feet thick, an amount probably not exceeded over any large area elsewhere in the world. This is not a solid bed of decayed vegetation, but is thoroughly mixed with the upper formation, and forms the black loam.

There is no doubt, then, that in the absence of earthworms this mixing is done by a number of species of burrowing animals, but by far the most important of these are the Geomys, or pocket-gophers.

Gophers are found in the whole of the region west of the Mississippi valley, as far as the Pacific coast, south well into Mexico, and north as far as the Saskatchewan. In other words, their distribution is general over the whole region that is without earthworms, though it is not likely that the rodents had to do with this limitation.—Ernest Thompson Seton, in Century.

HELPFUL LITTLE NOTES.

Quit dabbbling—one thing and stick to it.

If it's worth keeping it's worth keeping well.

Are you farming for a living or as a business?

Speak well of an enemy and regain his confidence.

Life is an age to the miserable, a moment to the happy.

Good management is three-fourths of profitable success in farming.

Honesty of soul is a virtue that brightens all that is good in us.

Speaking about fair and the people who come to see them, reminds me that the fellow is always glad to see you whom you treat fairly.

Cheap beef cattle and high-priced roasts show that something is radically wrong. There is an injunction against the beef trust, but that outfit doesn't seem to mind it the least bit. Prices are controlled at both ends by the packers just the same as of yore.—Farm and Home.

Don't Confine Young Turkeys.

Do not keep the young turkeys in close quarters, as they cannot stand confinement. If you have no lot that you can fasten them in, keep the hen in a large, roomy coop, on a dry place, with a hole for the young turks to go in and out at will. As soon as they are strong enough to follow the hen, she can be turned out with them after the dew is on the grass. Care should be taken not to let them stay out too long at first, as the hen is apt to trail too far and tire the little turks.—American Agriculturist.

BOOKS READ BY CELEBRITIES.

Beethoven was fond of history and novels.

Cowper read only his Bible and his prayer book.

Chopin rarely read anything heavier than a French novel.

Rossini for nearly 30 years read nothing but French novels.

Voltaire's favorite classical author was Juvenal, the satirist.

Jean Paul Richter had only five or six books, all philosophical.

Lord Clive said that "Robinson Crusoe" beat any other book he ever read.

Bach was no great reader, but much enjoyed books of jokes and funny stories.

Hogarth was fond of joke books and farces and enjoyed them immoderately.

Franklin read everything he could find relating to political economy and finance.

Michael Angelo was fond of the books of Moses and the psalms of David.

Mario, the great tenor, read anything he could obtain relating to sports or hunting.

"Papa" Haydn liked stories, and he said: "The more love there is in them the better."

Baxter read only the Bible and best enjoyed the prophecies of Isaiah and the Psalms.

George III. for many years of his life read nothing but his Bible and prayer book.

Swift made a special study of the Latin satirists and imitated their style and language.

Da Vinci read Pindar and thought him the noblest poet who ever wrote in any language.

Wordsworth was fond of the poetry of Burns, but said the latter was too rough and uncouth.

Heine seldom read anything but poetry, but he read that with the most scrupulous attention.

WORLD'S FAIR EXHIBITS.

A collection of pearls, taken from the waters of Iowa and valued at more than $50,000, is exhibited in the Iowa building at the world's fair.

The Indians camping in tepees on the grounds surrounding the Indian building at the world's fair number more than 200 and represent many different tribes, some of them almost extinct.

A school of English has been instituted for the Philippine scouts on the reservation at the world's fair. Chaplain John C. Granville is in charge. The school is providing much interest to visitors.

To protect the Liberty bell from fire while at the world's fair, the Pennsylvania commission has erected trackways from the rotunda of the Pennsylvania building to the roadway below, so that the bell may be taken from the building in short order.

The New Zealand exhibit in the Palace of Forestry, Fish and Game, at the world's fair, consists of a splendid collection of trophies of the chase, wild boar heads, a fine exhibit of Kauri gum, from which varnish is made, and an interesting display of photographs and paintings of Maori life in New Zealand.

The Japanese-American Commercial Weekly, a newspaper published weekly in Japanese in New York city, has been transferred to the St. Louis fair for the joint purpose of making an exhibit of a Japanese newspaper plant and reporting the fair. Hajima Hoshi is the editor. Nine Japanese reporters and native typesetters get out the weekly.

The Ohio exhibit in the anthropological building at the world's fair is composed of relics taken from the mounds of the mound builders in the southern part of the state. In the display is a collection of beads made from shark's teeth, beads of fresh water pearls and gorgets of human jaws, and copper ornaments, pipes and bone fishhooks in all stages of manufacture. The exhibit has never been shown before.

FRAGMENTARY FACETIAE.

The Japs have administered a severe blow to the further advance of Russian nomenclature.

The entire town of Carlisle, Ark., is to be put up at auction. This is not the first time cities have been sold out.

The biggest fish story of the season has been reported. A man went fishing in White river and actually caught a fish that was not a carp.

The Russians are not the first people to float mines. Wall street has been in the business for years. And many an innocent craft has been wrecked thereby.

A Georgia woman was cured the other day of a long-standing case of rheumatism by being struck by lightning, and was not disembodied in the process, either. When two pairs came together they neutralized each other, probably.

A Pennsylvania man says he fed poultry food to his horse by mistake and in a day or two the animal was out in the yard trying to scratch and plainly wanted to sit. There is no use to look over the other manuscripts received—this contributor takes the prize.

WISPS OF WISDOM.

Some men mistake heartlessness for candor.

When we turn a man down, why, of course we pass him up.

Gentlemen will not listen to stories that are unfit for women to hear.

We are seldom made wiser by advice, but every experience has its lesson.

When people take the law into their own hands they end by putting it under their feet.

The pessimist mourns over the blossoms that have fallen to the ground; the optimist looks at the blossoms that remain upon the tree.

THE SUNDAY BIBLE SCHOOL.

Lesson in the International Series for September 4, 1904—"Elijah Encouraged."

(Prepared by the "Highway and Byway" Preacher.)
(Copyright, 1904, by J. M. Edson.)
LESSON TEXT.

1 Kings 19:1-18; Memory Verses, 15-18.

9 And he came thither unto a cave, and lodged there; and, behold, the word of the Lord came to him, and he said unto him, What doest thou here, Elijah?

10 And he said, I have been very jealous for the Lord God of hosts: for the children of Israel have forsaken Thy covenant, thrown down Thine altars, and slain Thy prophets with the sword; and I, even I only, am left; and they seek my life, to take it away.

11 And he said, Go forth, and stand upon the mount before the Lord. And, behold, the Lord passed by, and a great and strong wind rent the mountains, and broke in pieces the rocks before the Lord; but the Lord was not in the wind; and after the wind an earthquake; but the Lord was not in the earthquake.

12 And after the earthquake a fire; but the Lord was not in the fire; and after the fire a still small voice.

13 And it was so, when Elijah heard it, that he wrapped his face in his mantle, and went out, and stood in the entering in of the cave. And, behold, there came a voice unto him, and said, What doest thou here, Elijah?

14 And he said, I have been very jealous for the Lord God of hosts: because the children of Israel have forsaken Thy covenant, thrown down Thine altars, and slain Thy prophets with the sword; and I, even I only, am left; and they seek my life, to take it away.

15 And the Lord said unto him, Go, return on thy way to the wilderness of Damascus: and when thou comest, anoint Hazael to be king over Syria:

16 And Jehu the son of Nimshi shall thou anoint to be king over Israel: and Elisha the son of Shaphat, of Abel-meholah shall thou anoint to be prophet to thy room.

17 And it shall come to pass, that him that escapeth the sword of Hazael shall Jehu slay; and him that escapeth from the sword of Jehu shall Elisha slay.

18 Yet I have left Me seven thousand in Israel, all the knees which have not bowed unto Baal, and every mouth which hath not kissed him.

19 So he departed thence, and found Elisha the son of Shaphat, who was plowing with twelve yoke of oxen before him, and he with the twelfth; and Elijah passed by him, and cast his mantle upon him.

GOLDEN TEXT—"Fear thou not, for I am with thee."—Isa. 41:10.

TIME.—About forty days after last lesson.

PLACE.—Mount Sinai, or, as it is often called, Mount Horeb.

Comparing Scripture with Scripture.

The Place.—"Come thither unto a cave," in the Mount of God, the place where God appeared to Moses in the flaming bush (Ex. 3:1-2) and the place where Israel had received the law (Ex. 19:1-2). A place hallowed by sacred memories, and yet not the place for Elijah, as God's twice repeated question and His command: "Go, return on thy way," prove. Elijah spent over 40 precious days in getting alone with God, when he might have found Him in Israel. May not the prophet have erred as the Samaritan woman did who sought to engage Jesus in argument about Mount Gerazim as the only place to find God and to worship? John 4:20. How many weary days the discouraged Christian often spends in getting alone with God. Elijah made up his mind he would go to Sinai to meet God, and the Christian often foolishly fixes place and time for meeting God and spends weary days in finding Him.—Acts 17:27, Ps. 145:18.

It Was the Place of Heart Searching.—(1) God Became the Examiner. Jer. 17:10. The prayer of the Psalmist should be our prayer. Ps. 139:23-24. But we must submit. Jas. 4:7. Then God will reveal true conditions to us. Phil. 3:15. "What doest thou here, Elijah?" is the question God often has to ask us.

(2) God Became the Teacher. The Christian often makes a long journey of it to God's school, even as did Elijah. But it is a blessed place to come. John 14:26; 16:13; 1 Cor. 2:12. God sought to turn Elijah's thoughts away from self. It took the rock-rending winds; the mountain-moving earthquake; and the fierce fire to turn Elijah's thoughts to God. Oh, how hard it is to bring the soul to listen to God. How God has to almost strip us naked, and afflict us sore, before we will turn from self to Him.

It Was the Place of Encouragement.—It was humiliating to Elijah to realize that his boast of standing alone for God was 7,000 below the true number, but surely he was rejoiced and encouraged to know how many faithful ones there were. Do you ever feel you stand alone for God? Get away in His school, and let Him give you the correct census. Alone! Never, for Jesus is ever present, Matt. 28:20; He is ever working with us, Mark 16:20; by His Holy Spirit, John 16:7-11.

It Was the Place of Fresh Commission.—When Elijah fled from Jezebel he lost his commission. He needed it renewed. The runaway servant of God generally loses his commission, and it is only as we get alone with God that we may receive reappointment in the Lord's work. God's first word to Elijah was: "Go, return on thy way." Elijah must be (1) submissive to God's will. (2) Obedient to His command; God made Elijah retrace his steps, and many a Christian has to do this very thing before he can do God's work. It takes submission and consecration and obedience to do this. And when Elijah was ready to go back; when his spirit of self-importance had been subdued; when he was wholly given to God's will; when he was eager to obey, then God revealed His plans for him.

THE GOLDEN TEXT.

"Fear thou not, for I am with thee." Immanuel—"God with us." Matt. 1:23.

Marvelous truth. The angels said to the frightened shepherds, "Fear not!" for Jesus is come. Jesus said to His trembling troubled disciples, "Fear not" for it is I your risen Lord. And His message to the human heart is still "Fear not." Fear not, for He comes to save. He comes to help. He comes to bless. May He who speaks the message "Fear thou not, for I am with thee," hear faith's response from our hearts, "I will fear no evil, for Thou art with me."
