A Heavy Body of Carbonate in The Miller Mine---Large Lead Shipments From Rosi Clare.

WHAT HAS BECOME OF THE SURVEY?

A REPORT from well authenticated sources states that at 300 feet in the Rosiclaire mine a very strong body of lead was met with and that the output at the present time is almost entirely of galena. As galena is worth in market some ten times that of fluor spar it is very possible that the regular shipments of spar may be interrupted for some time to come. Recently about 80 barrels weighing about 36 tons have been delivered to the up packet each evening. The company has a warehouse at Evansville where it is stored for shipment to the consumers. Capt. Thomas, who has had charge of this property for the past eleven years has brought it to its present productiveness by the best of executive ability coupled with a thorough knowledge of practical mining. The captain can at the present time make a greater tonnage with two miners than many properties with twenty. Of course this indicates a thorough understanding of how to mine our fissure veins with the best results for the least money.

IT IS STATED that Mr. NURN, of the Kentucky Fluor Spar Company has given an order for pumps of sufficient capacity to unwater the Tabb mine. It will be remembered that during the sinking of the great shaft on this property an immense flow of water was encountered at a depth of over 200 feet, the underground men having barely time to make their exit from the shaft leaving the large steam pump submerged where it has remained all these years. This undertaking if successful and it goes without saying that it will be, is one of the most important mining events of the year. It indicates the purpose of one of our most intelligent and successful mining managers to revert to the best class of mining methods, methods which have proven most successful in all of the great dividend paying properties of America.

SEPT. BROOKS, of the Fairview Fluor Spar Co., accompanied by Mr. Lawrence, of 56 Wall Street, New York, a very well known mine owner of Colorado properties reached this city on Saturday. They were the guests of D. C. Roberts, who accompanied them in his survey from Elizabethtown, Ill. A stop was made at Sheridan and a visit to the Noe properties was made as well as to the Columbia mine. The gentlemen expressed their pleasure at the large ore bodies that appeared on the surface at the Noe Mine. Mr. Lawrence was very desirous of visiting the underground workings of the Columbia but it being the regular monthly pay day of the Company his desire could not be gratified as the men were all at Marion. The two gentlemen returned to the river later in the afternoon where the Company's steamer, "Ruth" was held in waiting to convey them to the Fairview mine.

THE SILICIOUS CONTENTS in most of our surface mined fluor spar caused largely by the surface and enriching waters carrying sand and clay in the interstices of the mineral and even forming a portion of the makeup of the spar itself cannot be fully eliminated by any class of "Washers." Our gravel floor spar in this district is a notable example of high Silica contents which cannot be entirely removed without a recourse to "Jigs" if even they will do anything like complete elimination of Silica. The getting rid of Silica in surface mined spar has been the thorn in the flesh of almost every fluor spar shipper. The consumers of this product are confessedly correct in insisting upon a high grade product as more or less of the active principle of fluor spar must be wasted to overcome the silica and alumina with which it is mixed. In the manufacture of hydro-fluor acid Silica is a positive detriment. The only remedy for our producers and shippers is deep mining and we are glad to observe that this is at last being carried out by several of our more observant and enterprising mine managers.

THE CAVE IN ROCK Mining property that Miller & Company, of Evansville, bought from Lawrence W. Cruce, of this city, reported in last week's Record, will open a lead mining district of great possibilities, probably no part of the country outside of the wonderful veins of the Idaho mines will at all compare with what is locally known as Lead Hill a few miles from the Ohio river near the landing of Cave-in-rock. The ore in the hill is in regular fissure formation, the walls sharply defined and the galena in great boulders of singularly high percentage in lead. Mr. Cruce has an enviable reputation so far as his representations of property sold by him proving to be of a much greater value than his statements would lead the purchaser to anticipate. The gentlemen from Evansville obtained more valuable mining property than possibly they have any idea of. A great proportion of this lead ore is so entirely free from gangue that it can be melted into pig lead in any kind of a furnace. Indeed, one can place this ore on an ordinary grate fire and as soon as the sulphur is volatilized the lead runs freely and can be shipped as lead instead of ore making a difference of fully $50 per ton in the receipts beside a saving of one-third in freight. The people of Evansville have been somewhat late in recognizing the wealth of the Kentucky-Indiana Mining District. But they are certainly making up for their tardiness in securing some of the most valuable property in the mining world.

SOMERSET, KY., has been chosen by the Queen & Crescent Route as the location for the railroad building and repair shops which are to be removed from Ludlow, Ky. and Chattanooga, Tenn. The Cincinnati, New Orleans and Texas Pacific Railroad contemplate extensive improvements to its buildings and repair shops which are now located

Mr. J. H. SOERY and Mr. SMITH of the firm of Poindexter, Smith & Co., of Owensboro, Ky., reached the city on Friday evening to consult with D. C. Roberts regarding the purchase of three of the largest mine holdings in the district. The aggregate value of these properties will exceed six hundred thousand dollars and it seems very probable that the sale will be satisfactorily completed. It is understood the purchasers are members of the Paris France Mining Association, who have been purchasing zinc and lead mines in this country for the past three years.

LAST WEEK'S ISSUE of the RECORD had a clipping from the Hopkinsville New Era regarding a supposed vein of coal found six feet below the number 9 vein in the Nortonville section. This week's issue of the Era calls it a vein of fluor spar of absolute purity and beyond doubt the best in the country. Some one in or around Nortonville or Hopkinsville must be smoking dope.

THE OUTPUT of oil in the State of Kentucky for the month of August was 120,000 barrels which shows that the oil industry is on a sound basis. Some 60 to 70 completed wells were reported during last month, Wayne county being the center of the field.

AT GREENVILLE, KY., a water plant consisting of a 32000 gallon tank on a 50 foot tower is being constructed. This plant will have a daily capacity of 14,000 gallons and the entire cost will not exceed $10,000.

THE AMERICAN BARYTES CO., with a capital stock of $100,000 has been formed in Cincinnati to mine Barytes in the vicinity of Hubble, Ky.

THE LOUISA KY. WATER CO. has been incorporated with a $15,000 capital to purchase and operate the water plant now being constructed by W. B. Cox & Co.

DANVILLE, KY., is to build an electric lighting plant; the bids for the material are now being passed upon.

THE PADUCAH ELECTRIC light plant is to be enlarged and improved by the city authorities.

AT STUBBS an ice plant will shortly be erected by W. W. Wynns.

MUST REGISTER

New Law Applies to Marion and Dycusburg in This County.

CITY COUNCIL TAKES ACTION

The last session of the legislature is noted for the passage of many useless and worthless measures, some being unconstitutional.

Among others a registration law was passed requiring the voters in all fifth and sixth class towns (all incorporated towns not classified being regarded as of the sixth class) to register. Marion being a fifth class town and Dycusburg being a town of the sixth class, the clerk of this county will have to furnish the various precincts in these towns with registration books, registration officers will have to be appointed, and all the voters in the two towns will have to register or forfeit their votes in the final election.

At the time of registration every voter will be given a certificate of registration which will have to be preserved and presented in the final election, else not be permitted to vote.

The law makes the first Tuesday in October the regular registration day and says that another and additional day may be provided for at the expense of town or city. In the case of Marion the extra day for registration will cost the town about $50, but aside from that particular phase of the law its large scope will be a heavy expense to the state, however that made no difference with the Beckham type of Democracy so long as it was thought that a large per cent. of the negro vote of the state might be eliminated on account of the certificate plan, as it was thought that it would be easy for negroes to forfeit their votes by losing or selling their registration certificates.

The city council of Marion has already taken action in the matter. The regular registration day being Tuesday, October 4th, the city council appoints Tuesday, October 11th as the second day. Following is the city ordinance passed at the last meeting of the council.

CITY ORDINANCE.

Whereas, under the law it is necessary for all persons residing within the corporate limits of the city of Marion, Ky., to register in order to entitle them to vote in the coming November election, and whereas under the general law there is only one day provided for at which the voters of said city can register, unless another day is provided by the city council of said city, and whereas many persons from sickness, absence from the city or other causes may be prevented from registering on the first Tuesday in October, the day provided by the general law for registration; now therefore in view of the aforesaid premises, the city council of the city of Marion, Ky., do ordain as follows:

That the third Tuesday in October, 1904, be and the same is hereby fixed by the city council as an additional day, to that provided for by the general law, at which time persons who were absent from said city, or who from sickness or other cause failed to register on the first Tuesday in October, 1904, the day provided by general law for said registration, may register and the expense holding said additional registration on the third Tuesday in October, 1904, shall be paid by the said city of Marion, Kentucky.

Passed and approved, in a regular meeting of the city council of Marion, Ky., held on the 13th day of September, 1904.

J. W. BLUE, JR., Mayor.
J. C. BOURLAND, Clerk.

Tobacco Growers' Meeting.

A meeting of the growers of tobacco in the dark district has been called for Sept. 24 at Guthrie for the purpose of discussing plans whereby the growers may protect themselves from the tobacco trust and secure a fair price for their product.

Many matters of interest and importance to the farmers and independent buyers will be discussed at this meeting.

Farmer-Sisco.

Wednesday afternoon at the bride's home, Fred Farmer and Miss Dolcie Sisco were united in marriage. The groom is the son of J. B. Farmer, who resides near town, and the bride is the daughter of Geo. M. Sisco, also of this county. After the ceremony was performed the bride and groom accompanied by several friends, drove to the residence of the groom's parents where the table was spread and a nice supper was awaiting them.

Hutchen-Hale.

At Shawneetown, Ill., last Sunday morning, Walter S. Hutchen, of this city, and Miss May Hale, of Uniontown, were united in marriage at the office of the county clerk.

Mr. Hutchen came to Marion some weeks ago from Henderson and is a printer on the Crittenden Press force. Miss Hale is one of Uniontown's fairest and has many friends there.

THE RECORD welcomes them to Marion and wishes them success.

Union Tabernacle.

There seems to be a movement on foot to build a union tabernacle here. It is a good movement and a building of this sort is very badly needed here. One should be built and we believe that it should be built large enough to hold one or two thousand people. The citizens of Hopkinsville built at a minimum cost a tabernacle that will seat 5,000 people and it can be used either winter or summer. This building would afford a good model for the tabernacle to be built here, which of course, would be on a smaller scale.

W. J. Hill is taking steps to secure a lot now and will be pleased to investigate all suitable and available lots. We trust that the leading citizens of the town will assist in the movement and that before long the work on the house will begin.

HEALY COCHRON DEAD

For Third Time Within Eleven Months Cruel Death Visits Family.

Saturday night at 11:35 o'clock the life of Healy Cochron passed away after about three week's sickness of typhoid fever. He was just in his 22nd year, having been born Nov. 24, 1882. He was born and reared in this county and educated mainly in the Marion Graded School. After his graduation he was for sometime salesman in the Cochron & Baker hardware store at this place, now Cochron & Pickens, the senior member of the firm, T. H. Cochron being his brother. He was attentive to business, always ready to do anything required to be done, pleasant and sociable, and soon became well known among all the customers and business men in general. Here he obtained much practical business knowledge and about one year ago he decided to go into business for himself, purchasing one-half interest in the S. R. Adam's blacksmith and machine shop, where, until his death, a successful business was transacted under the firm name of Adams & Cochron.

He is survived by a mother, three brothers, T. H. and Jno. Cochron, of this place, and Geo. Cochron, of Kansas, two sisters, Mrs. R. A. Rogers, of Henderson, and Mrs. J. G. Rochester, of Marion, and also two half sisters, Mrs. Sallie Dunlap, of near Smithland, and Mrs. Mary Miller, of Marion. In the presence of these, with possibly one exception, conscious to the last, with a clear mind and a bright Christian faith, his life passed out.

To these and especially to his lately widowed mother, his death came as a sad blow, his father having died June 20, less than three months ago, his brother, Will Cochron, having died in Kansas Nov. 2nd, which was less than eight months preceding the death of the father.

Every effort was made to prolong his life but all that a trained nurse and skilled physicians could do was of no avail.

Healy was just at the beginning of a bright and useful career in life with friends on every side who watched his progress with admiration. Especially was he a favorite of the young people of the town, jolly, full of life and spirit, a social gathering was not complete without him.

He was a faithful young worker in the M. E. church here having been converted at the Union services conducted here in the tent in 1902 by the local pastors. He joined the church at the first opportunity and was at once made a steward, accepting the place cheerfully and willingly.

At 4 o'clock Sunday afternoon the funeral services were conducted from the M. E. church, Rev. T. V. Joiner officiating. The body was laid to rest beside father and brother in the new cemetery in the presence of one of the largest throngs that ever witnessed a funeral service in Marion.

Healy was a member of the Blackwell Lodge Number 57, Knights of Pythias, of this city, having been made a Knight in said lodge, Jan. 1, 1904. The lodge would have taken charge of the body and performed the burial ceremony but Healy and all the members of the Cochran family believing that the church should ever be first, the burial ceremony was under the auspices of the church, although the lodge attended in a body.

A floral design given by the K. of P. lodge and many beautiful flowers presented by friends, and left on the grave, gave it the appearance of the living rather than of the dead, all as a token of the memory that would live after.

NEWS OF THE MINERAL WORLD

IT IS QUITE POSSIBLE that the old Mexican methods of caring for wet shafts might be adopted in this section of country with great advantage to the mine operator. As a general if not almost universal rule the water comes from near the surface of our shafts, the Mexicans always made a wall of solid masonry down 50 feet from the surface ground which kept out most of the water. In those days there were no pumps available for unwatering mines hence their efforts were always toward stopping the surface flow of water. Many mining districts still utilize a combination of these old measures with the aid of oakum and wedges driven in the rock crevices from whence the water issues. It might be well worth the trying in our Kentucky District.

THE PELL MINE located some three miles from Shertersville on the Ohio river is being examined by gentlemen from this city with the purpose of making a large producing property of it. On Saturday last the water was jettied out to a depth of fifty odd feet and the vein examined to that point. The ore is in a solid mass of zinc and lead, running about 30 per cent of the former and 12 of the latter. Above and below this pay streak there is a very considerable body of crystallized fluor spar of the most beautiful colorings. An auxiliary shaft has during the past two months been sunk to a depth of some 40 feet where the ore was struck on the dip of the vein. It is the intention of the new owners to continue this shaft to the same depth of the working or mill shaft some 100 feet and run a level between the two and continue the level so long as the ore bodies show their present strength. A very large tonnage of high grade fluor spar will be mined as well as zinc and lead ore, the latter two being concentrated in the newly erected 50 ton Joplin mill.

A VERY STRONG RUN of carbonate of zinc has been opened at the Miller mine of the Marion Mineral Company. It is the best and the heaviest body yet encountered.

THE WORLD'S FAIR exhibit of minerals, ores, etc., contributed by Kentucky is commented upon in last Sunday's Courier Journal. There was nothing especially interesting in this article save the names of the exhibitors. Lemuel Clark, glass sand; Blue & Nunn, carbonate of zinc; The Columbia Mining Company, zinc blende; The Kentucky Co., fluor spar.

"The Fluor Spar Deposits of Southern Illinois" is the subject of a paper by H. Foster Bain, of the United States geological survey.

The fluor spar mines described by Mr. Bain are in Pope and Hardin counties. The principal mines are near Rosiclare, Elizabethtown and Cave-in-Rock, small towns on the Ohio river, in Hardin county, and an important group of prospects is located in the northwestern part of Pope county. There are minor deposits at various other points in these counties, as well as in Saline and Johnson counties. The Illinois mines were first developed in 1842, and were for many years worked intermittently for lead. At a later period the dumps which had accumulated in the course of lead mining were re-worked for fluorspar, and still more recently mining has been directed mainly to the production of this mineral. Fluor spar is used in different forms in enameling, chemical and glass trades and in steel making and foundry work.

THE HIGHEST price paid for zinc ore last week in the Joplin district was $41 per ton. The zinc market continues strong, with the assay basis as high as $39 per ton of 60 per cent zinc, and down to $37. Lead remains steady and in good demand at $53.50 per ton for the best lots around Joplin, and on this basis, less freight, at adjoining camps. The zinc shipment was a little larger and the lead shipment a trifle smaller than the preceding week.

LOOKING BACKWARD to the days of long ago when we all chipped in and made up a few hundred dollars to aid the United States Geological Survey in defining the ore veins of Crittenden county and mapping out the dikes and the various things that the average Geologist delights in may not have been ages but it seems a long, long time. Of course, there are many of us who are too young to remember how eagerly their grandfathers were to reach the Crittenden Springs Hotel and watch the geological cortege start out for the day's doings sometime in the early forenoon. Dudley Wallingford's horses seemed to feel their oats too, although as a matter of fact they never were fed any, still the feeling was in the air, and when Prof. Ulrich appeared flanked on the right by F. Julius Fols, on the left by A. Foster Crider, the rear being brought up by Somebody Smith who also parted his name somewhere in the middle, we have forgotten just where, as this cortege passed the porte cochere of the hotel caparisoned in their handsome yellow legs and cob pipes something very near a cheer was their reception. It was in those early days something to look forward to and really was the day's event. The balance of the time we consoled ourselves with the thoughts of their return laden with their geological spoils. Of course, this is all very ancient now. There is a legend current, however, that someone was to tell us about the mysterious underground country and draw lines to show Dave Clark, of Henderson, and the rest of us whether the old Jim dike really asserted itself in the Lady Farmer land and whether there was more carbonate of zinc anywhere in the country or not. We have had to be sure one or more brochures, cenotaphs, and contributions to economic geology which nobody in the county understood and we have been told by people like Foster and others who can pronounce such words as Permo-carboniferous without a gasp, that it was fine. It really doesn't make a penny's difference with the people of this county whether a corrugated, wrinkled bit of limestone is a Cretaceous humpty dumpty fossil or simply a Fredonia mussel shell, both go into our lime kilns and they eventually appear as our house plastering. Nor does it matter much whether our ore veins are or were produced in the Tertiary age or the time of year that old man Mann, of Lola, was born in, what we want just now is that map and a plain statement of the results obtained by the professional gentlemen who make such things their business. Its the living present Mr. Geological Survey who wants this help, not the future dead, and when are you going to give it to us?

A New Book.

"Of the making of books there is no end," but of the making of valuable books there is an end. There has just come to our review stand a little book by Mrs. Martha Grassham Purcell, entitled "The Settlements and Cessions of Louisiana." The book contains only 28 pages but these pages are replete with valuable historical matter. Within the scope of ten brief chapters the subject is dealt with concisely, fairly and at the same time entertainingly. The style is not breezy nor "catchy" but, for lack of a better term, we would designate it as a historical style—neither an overflowing nor dearth of adjectives.

The period of discovery and settlement is taken up in four chapters and discussed in the order, as Norsemen, Spaniards, French, English. Undoubtedly acting upon the fact that the author briefly deals with the four inter-colonial wars and the Revolution, and that as they directly or indirectly had their bearing upon the settlements, transfers, etc., of Louisiana.

There is a brief sketch of Thos. Jefferson, who was at the time of the purchase of Louisiana, President of the United States. A more extended sketch of Napoleon Bonaparte is the concluding chapter, he being at that time ruler of France and who is designated as "the strong, stern, scintillant son of the 19th century."

The book is readable and especially is it interesting as the Fair is in progress which celebrates the purchase.

BARLEY GROWERS

Combine to Handle Present Crop
Backed by Strong Syndicate.

At a meeting of the Executive Committee of the Kentucky Barley Tobacco Growers' Association, held at Lexington recently, it was decided to convert the association into a company with $500,000 capital stock.

The value of the crop proposed to be handled by the company at schedule rates will be about $10,000,000, and of the money necessary to purchase it this company will furnish $500,000 proceeds of stock to be sold to the growers, and the syndicate which has agreed to furnish the remainder of the money necessary to pay for the tobacco, about $9,500,000. By the terms of the contract between this company and the syndicate, this company is to have 40 per cent of the profits that may be realized on the sale of the tobacco, and the syndicate the remainder. The result is that while we furnish about 5 per cent of the capital necessary to handle the crop, our company will be entitled to 40 per cent of the profits.

No Plowed Roads After September 15

At the meeting of the Fiscal court in October, 1903, it was decreed that no credit would be allowed for the use of plows and teams on the county roads between the 15th of September and the 15th or the next April. The object of the ruling was not to have the roads plowed up in the fall or spring on account of the loose dirt being susceptible to the fall and spring rains and easily washed away. The ruling is a good one and shows due consideration on the part of the magistrates and the County Judge who constitute the Fiscal court. If it becomes necessary to work the roads between the above dates it will be far better for the roads that the work is done with pick and shovel.

BRYAN'S LUNCH

On the Cross of Gold and Crown of Thorns Described by Gov. Pardee

Gov. Pardee, of California, in introducing Secretary of the Treasury Leslie M. Shaw to a San Francisco audience on Saturday last made these illusions to the Democrats and their change of base:

And think of Bryan, the apostle of free silver, the man who four years ago denounced as "minions of Wall street" every one who was not for free silver; think of Bryan supporting for President a nominee who says that there is no cross of gold and crown of thorns! Without that cross and that crown there would have been no Bryan. And now, "most unkindest cut of all," Judge Parker says that he and Bryan and all the rest of the Democratic party were chasing shadows in 1896 and 1900 when they were all denouncing gold. The swallowing of Jonah by the whale has always been considered a miracle. But this gastronomic feat was nowhere near so miraculous as that which the Democratic nominee for President made his party devour when it swallowed its platforms of 1896 and 1900, and forced Bryan to lunch on the cross of gold and crown of thorns. If that meal does not give the conscientious rank and file of the Democratic party an acute attack of political indigestion they can safely be trusted to partake of any sort of a political dish of crow.

Four and eight years ago our opponents could talk of nothing but free silver and they prophesied all manner of evils if gold was made the standard. This year you can't get them to say a word about silver. But they are trying to make an issue out of Roosevelt.

I, for one, am glad they are. They say he is impetuous. Maybe he is. But where has his impetuosity gone wrong? We wanted the Post-office thieves prosecuted. Roosevelt was impetuous enough to send a half dozen of them to jail. We wanted the railroad mergers broken up. Roosevelt's impetuosity did it. We wanted the coal strike settled. Roosevelt's impetuosity settled it. We wanted the isthmus canal. Had it not been for Roosevelt's impetuosity it would still be in the dim and misty future. I like that kind of impetuosity. It is the kind of impetuosity that does things. It is the kind of impetuosity that sounds good to Americans and gives them a feeling that we have as President a man who can be depended upon to do whatever is necessary to be done.

Lincoln once said to some one who complained to him that Grant was drinking whisky: "You don't know what kind he drinks, do you? I'd send a hoghead of it to each of our Generals if I thought it would make them as good. Generals as he is." And, as for me, I would like to give all our public men a dose of Roosevelt's impetuosity if it would make them do the things he has done.

Fearful Odds Against Him.

Bedridden, alone and destitute, such, in brief was the condition of an old soldier by name of J. J. Havens, Versailles, O. For years he was troubled with kidney disease and neither doctors nor medicines gave him relief. At length he tried Electric Bitters. It put him on his feet in short order and now he testifies. "I'm on the road to complete recovery." Best on earth for liver and kidney troubles and all forms of Stomach and Bowel Complaints. Only 50c. Guaranteed by R. F. HAYNES.

Col. Watterson Heating Up.

It is glorious to hear the calm and steady voice of Col. Henry Watterson pointing out rainbow tints to the rural roosters of the Democratic press and exposing mercilessly the faults of Theodore Roosevelt. Col. Watterson is himself so cool, so sedate, so cautious, so thoughtful as against the mad suggestions of the impetuous nature that he can read Roosevelt like a book. In politics Col. Watterson is a cold thinking machine, although some inspired poet has reminded us that

You can lead him to the thought tank But you cannot make him think.

That is, of course, if Col. Watterson does not want to think. When he does prefer to think, however, he does it fluently in words and ideas that suit his cold and reserved thinking mood perfectly.

He is thinking at the present time with great fluency. Once again he is the whole works Democratic for Kentucky. The idiots, Igorrotes and insane fools of free silverites, as he pleasantly calls them, are being dragged by the hair at his chariot wheels. He is put up to speak for Kentucky by the Gold-Bug conquerors of the party. He is received at Esopus with honors, while the Hon. Ollie James is handed a cold potato at the side gate and sent about his business. Beckham cannot even get in. Col. Watterson and Urey Woodson are having the time of their lives.

It is as a student of character and a prophet that Col. Watterson stands pre-eminent above all his fellows. When he coldly sums up the impetuous nature he shines like an electric bulb at the top of a dark stairway. "I admit," he said coldly of Roosevelt at the Democratic press meeting in New York, "that he is as sweet a gentleman as ever scuttled ship or cut a throat; indeed, very much that kind of a gentleman. For, hoisting the black flag over the South, has he not scuttled the ship of civil service reform and cut the throat of reciprocity?" Terrible Teddy! He should be put under bonds to keep the peace and not alarm and terrify sedate fathers of families like Col. Watterson.

As a prophet hear Elijah boom down the corridors of Time: "In my belief, as surely as Tilden was elected Parker will be elected. And when elected he will be inaugurated and all will be well." Now, Lord, let thy servants depart peacefully to their beds for they have heard the real thing in prophecy. As surely as Tilden was elected so Parker will be! The gentlemanly leader of the band will kindly favor the audience with, "Honey, ain't you got to Moan for Me?" while the berths are being made down.

The Hon. Thomas Taggart has a powerful conditor in Col. Watterson. The country is ripe to be edified and instructed by statesmanship of such quality.—Louisville Herald.

STATE NEWS.

The Kentucky Liquor Dealers' Association will hold its annual convention in Louisville, beginning next Wednesday.

Robert Mathley, white, for the murder of Emma Watkins, his sweetheart, and Roy Green, colored, for the murder of James Coomes, were sentenced by the Circuit Court at Owensboro, to be hanged October 21. Both cases will be appealed, a motion for arrest of execution having been entered for that purpose.

The inmates of the Home of the Aged and Infirm at Louisville were maintained at a cost of 82-3 cents per day each during the year ended August 31. The average number of inmates was 342 per day.

The first woman to make application before the steamboat inspectors at Evansville for license as master and pilot of a steamboat was Miss Vera Mae Kennedy, of Bowling Green, Ky.

Col. Herbert H. Holson, Circuit Clerk of McCracken county, is dead from the effects of a fall several weeks ago.

Miss Margaret Ingels, a pretty and talented girl of Paris, Ky., has tendered her services to the Democratic committee and will take the stump in the interest of Parker and Davis. She has been given notice that she will be assigned to the western states.

Through lack of a quorum the Goebel Monument Commission was unable to pass on the model for the statue of William Goebel at Lexington, Ky. Another meeting will have to be called.

Mrs. Fredonia Brown-Haralson-Sanderfur-Faulkner, well known in Henderson county, Ky., where she lived for many years, is under arrest on a charge of robbery, and is now on her way to Chickasaw, Indian Territory, to be tried in the United States Court for her alleged offense. She was arrested here.

What Is Life?

In the last analysis nobody knows, but we do know that it is under strict law. Abuse that law even slightly, pain results. Irregular living means derangement of the organs, resulting in constipation, head ache or liver trouble. Dr. King's New Life Pills quickly readjusts this. It's gentle, yet thorough. Only 25c at R. F. HAYNES' drug store.

THE HOTEL INTRODUCER.

An Occupation Which Affords the Summer Girl Chance for Profit.

Many a bright young woman is spending the summer at seaside and mountain resorts and making money there. She is the summer hotel introducer, reports the New York Sun. It is no new occupation, but more women than ever are holding such places this season simply because there are more places open to them. New hotels are being built all the time, and the men who put their money in them don't leave anything undone to make their places as popular as possible.

That is where a clever, bright woman makes herself generally useful. If she is an agreeable person—and she must be if she wants to be successful—there are great possibilities in her place. She watches for new arrivals and tries to make them comfortable.

Her first duty is to introduce them to the other boarders. That is her chief duty. Every one who goes to a summer hotel knows that the first few days after arrival are not very pleasant unless you know some one there. A man manages to worry along, but a woman is likely to be lonesome unless some one formally introduces her.

Once the ice is broken things go along smoothly. When there are no newcomers to make comfortable, the girl introducer can find plenty to do. She can suggest games to pass away the time, on the piazza, and she can get up trips to interesting points. She acts as a sort of guide to the hotel. If she can play the piano or sing she makes herself more valuable.

Such a young woman greatly increases the popularity of a summer hotel, and has her own vacation for nothing. When the season ends she comes back to town, and may possibly have a little bank account to show for her summer occupation.

One bright girl, who is doing this work in a Catskill hotel, gets $20 a week for it. The work is pleasant and she has just as much fun as the persons who are paying dearly for it. She has the same food as they, and has a pleasant room besides. She is making money by being agreeable.

THE CLEANING OF MEXICO.

Government Will Be Forced to Carry Out Promises of Sanitary Improvement.

The cleaning of Havana and Santiago has practically left Mexico the worst fever district. That country is never free from the disease, though the indications are that, as a result of the severe epidemic of last year, a different story may soon be told. With Mexico out of the way—for it may be expected that the Mexican government will carry out the promises it recently made to representatives of the United States marine hospital service to destroy the plague spots and enforce sanitary regulations—the Central and South American countries are left to deal with. Some of the latter have said within a year that they would clean their ports, but such statements cannot be relied upon, says the Buffalo Express.

It is for this reason that the sanitary work which the United States will be obliged to do along the canal strip will have more beneficial results than simply making the district a healthy place to live in. The influence of that work will be felt in Central and South America, and it unquestionably will spur the negligent governments to do their share in preventing epidemics. This phase of the canal question has attracted little attention, but it is of far-reaching importance. The building of such a waterway as the isthmian canal will be a great attainment, but of hardly less value to mankind will be the cleansing of the foul cities to the north and south of the isthmus.

REPUBLICAN NATIONAL TICKET.

FOR PRESIDENT

THEODORE ROOSEVELT

OF NEW YORK.

FOR VICE PRESIDENT

CHARLES W. FAIRBANKS

OF Indiana.

ANNOUNCEMENTS

FOR SHERIFF

DUVALL.—We are authorized to announce Alonzo J. Duvall a candidate for the office of Sheriff of Crittenden county, subject to the action of the Republican party. Election 1905.

It is announced from Democratic State Headquarters that Governor Beekham will take the stump early this fall and make a complete tour of the state in the interest of Parker and Davis. It is very likely that his labors will be rewarded as when he stumped the space occupied by the Kentucky delegation at the St. Louis convention in the interest of Haldman, of Louisville, for national committeeman.

The Salem, Marion and Crayneville mail route is the subject of a brown paper circular issued from the Press office, whose editor couldn't tell you the difference between an editorial and an ordinary news item, and is headed "Who Was Your Friend?" Like most matter of such a character, no signature is attached and it should be relegated to the place at which anonymous letters and all such communications usually arrive.

Referring to the statement given out by David B. Hill who is responsible for the nomination of Judge Parker, the Kansas City Star says: "The time for Mr. Hill to have withdrawn from politics for the purpose of helping his party, was about two years ago. But it is too late now to save Judge Parker from the effects of the Hill sponsorship. Those who object to Parker because of the Hill influence have such an opinion of Hill as will not permit them to accept his announcement under the circumstances."

The Evening Post adds: "The retirement of Hill and men like him will be a forcible retirement decreed at the polls. No other retirement is irrevocably fixed."

Mayor Grainger, of Louisville, who had been absent some time, while Barth, President of the Board of Aldermen, acted as Mayor, returned recently and it is expected by the anti-pool room element that all pool rooms will be in full operation shortly. They allege, when the bi-ennial encampment was to take place a short time ago, that in order that the city might be cleared up for the visitors, and all pool rooms closed, that it became necessary for Grainger to leave so the acting Mayor might do the work. It is claimed that Grainger's political allegiance to the followers of the d. o. p., who elected him to office of Mayor, will not permit him to purge the city of lawlessness therefore the reason the gambling dens and pool rooms prosper when the Mayor is in town, and also the reason for the unexpected raid just before the bi-ennial encampment, the result of which was as the explosion of a bomb, the vibrations extending to the "Pennyrite."

Referring to the requests sent out by the Republican Campaign Committee, asking for contributions to the campaign fund, an exchange says:

"The brazenness of the demands and the fact that names of leading Republicans are used so freely have attracted notice. The signers of the demands seem to have made little effort to conceal their identity."

The truth of the business is that there is nothing to conceal and the fact that prominent names "are used so freely" is the surest proof that our Democrat friends are making a big noise about nothing. Strange that the Republican party has not the right to look to its members for support, when every other organization in the land exists in that way unless perhaps it be the Democratic party as run this year by D. B. Hill & Co., of Wall street. Possibly that party is so flush this time that the legitimate manner in which the opposition secures its funds, amuses them and they are only teasing us.

NEW GAME LAW

You Can Kill and Use on Your Own Table But Not Sell.

The last session of the state legislature authorized the county judges of each county to appoint one or more fish and game wardens whose duties shall be to see that all laws relating to the preservation and propagation of fish, birds and game shall be enforced. The game warden shall have full power to execute and serve all warrants in order to enforce above laws in the same manner and to a like extent that a sheriff or a deputy would. To arrest on sight and to seize any game, guns, nets, seines or traps, and to require assistance.

As regards the game law you may kill game for your own table, and if necessary you may be transported with the game on your person, but otherwise, it is unlawful to kill or transport the game. Below we give the full text of law as passed, but we see therein nothing to prohibit fishermen from following their occupations as heretofore, laws pertaining thereto remaining the same.

Following is the text of the new law:

An act prohibiting the sale or transportation of wild turkeys, pheasants, grouse, partridge and quail, within the State of Kentucky.

Be it enacted by the General Assembly of the Commonwealth of Kentucky:

First—That it shall be unlawful in the State of Kentucky, at any time, to buy, sell, expose for sale, offer for sale, or have in possession for the purpose of bartering or selling any wild turkeys, pheasants, grouse, partridge or quail which have been killed within this State.

Second—That it shall be unlawful for any person, corporation or common carrier to receive for transportation or to transport, or cause to be transported, or to secure the transportation of, within or without this State, any of the birds or fowls mentioned in Section 1 of this act which have been killed within this State.

Provided, however, that it shall not be unlawful for such person, corporation or common carrier to transport a hunter with his game lawfully killed by him within this State.

Third—Each bird or fowl so bought, sold, offered for sale, had in possession for sale, or transportation, received for transportation, or transported contrary to the provisions of this act, shall constitute a separate offense.

Fourth—Whoever violates any provisions of this act shall be fined not less than $10 nor more than $25 for a first offense, and not less than $25 nor more than $50 for any subsequent offense.

Approved March 24, 1904.

Incinerating Closets.

In pursuance of an order given them by the last grand jury the fiscal court has proceeded to have an incinerating closet system put in for the benefit of the court officials and persons attending court. Judge Towery has contracted for the outfit which has been shipped and is being removed from the car today. The closet when complete will be 10x20 feet and will contain four 30 inch dry closet stalls and two dry closet urinals, the metal stack to send the heated fumes up into the air, being 35 feet high.

We are informed by the County Judge that work on the closet will begin next Tuesday and when complete it will be worth about $500. It will be built in the court house yard.

The only question we would raise is whether the closet will be large enough and whether it would not be wise for the city council to make an appropriation and have it built larger with additional stalls and also for the reason there could be no question as to the town's right to use the plant.

If this system proves a success which it is more than likely to do, the trustees of the Marion Graded School will have a similar plant put in at the school building for the benefit of the school. This will be very commendable and shows a due consideration on the part of the officers and patrons of the Marion Graded School for the health of the large crowd of students attending the school.

Resolutions of Respect.

WHEREAS, God in his infinite wisdom has taken from us our dear friend and brother, Healy H. Cochran, therefore be it resolved,

1. That in his death the members of our order are shocked and saddened at the thought of such irreparable loss to the community, the church, and to our beloved order of which he was a true and loyal member and one whom we could ill afford to lose.
2. That there is left a void in his home, his Sunday school, his church and his lodge which can not be filled.
3. That it is hard to realize that he has been taken from us, yet while his mortal body has died, his clean, pure, lofty spirit lives and will live forever more.
4. That we tender his bereaved relatives and friends our sincere sympathy; for we too, are sorely afflicted, and realizing how entirely inadequate words of sympathy are to comfort broken hearts, we commend them to the love and care of our heavenly Father.
5. That a copy of these resolutions be sent his family and that they also be published in both the Crittenden Press and CRITTENDEN RECORD and spread upon the minute book of our lodge.

Graded School Opens.

Monday morning the Marion Graded School opened for its eleventh session under the principalship of Chas. Evans. The enrollment of over 400 pupils and the many visitors filled the chapel to overflowing. After the devotional exercises conducted by Rev. T. A. Conway. Prof. Evans, ex-Senator Deboe, Jno. A. Moore, Ed Flanary, Prof. J. R. Brinson, the new eighth grade teacher and others made interesting talks which proved that there was a loyal sentiment on the part of teacher and patron—an everlasting legacy to the success of the school.

The $5000 addition to the school building is progressing and will be ready by the 15th of December.

This bids fair to be the biggest and best year of Marion Graded School work.

CITY ORDINANCE.

The City Council of the City of Marion, Kentucky, do ordain as follows:

That a side walk be built on the west side of North Main street, abutting on the lot of J. R. Finley, W. R. Gibbs, Ben Wright and D. C. Said walk to be 3 feet wide to be made of 2 inch lumber nailed pieces not less than 2x4 inches, and the same be done in a good and workmanlike manner. Said walk to be built within 30 days from the passage of this ordinance.

Passed and approved this the 18th day of Sept. 1904.

The Relation of Religion to This Commercial Age

By Dr. N. LUCCOCK.
Eminent St. Louis Divine.

BUSINESS" is one of the first recorded words of our Lord. "I must be about My Father's business." He lifted it into the highest associations, where it ought always to be held. All our human interests and stirring activities have qualities in them and carry responsibilities with them, which touch another world. As brave old Martin Luther used to say, "The transaction may be profitable, and seem fair enough now, but what will God Almighty say about it in the end?" The age in which we live is preeminently a commercial age. The highest order of intellectual gifts and the noblest energies of the race are to a good degree drawn into the channels of trade. Men seek a career in commerce as they once sought it on the field of battle or in the arena of political life. One may designate the centuries by the central interests which dominated them. The twelfth century was the age of the Crusades, when nation touched nation and separated people united; it was early dawn of the modern era. The thirteenth was the age of chivalry—a century of splendor; the fifteenth was the century of discovery, when new continents arose out of the sea; the eighteenth was a century of revolution, when great ideas of truth and freedom reorganized political and social life; the nineteenth century was one of invention, when man by his skill and wonderful contrivances began to play with the mighty forces of nature; the twentieth century is destined to be one of commerce, in which the ends of the earth will meet face to face and exchange gifts and wealth and service.

Now, what is to be the relation of religion to this busy, dominant, commercial age? In the past centuries religion was a guiding force in life. The knights of the middle ages sought to rescue the sepulcher of Christ from alien influences. The explorer took possession of new lands under the banner of the cross, and with hymns and prayers. In like manner religion will continue to be the inspiring, regulative and constructive influence in this commercial age.

The message is the same in all the centuries—"Follow Me." But the movement, the form of service, may be varied and manifold.

But if one suppose that to follow Christ implies the abandonment of life's business and ordinary duties he is much mistaken. Take the case of the young nobleman. Christ's words to him, "Sell and give to the poor and follow me," seemed like a sharp, clear military call. So it was at the time. But that was not Christ's final teaching concerning wealth. That is found in his final direction—"Now he that hath a purse, a wallet, a sword, let him take them." It means that men are to lay hold of the forces of this world—wealth, organization, government—and dominate them in the spirit of the Master, use them in the service of the kingdom. "I pray not that those should take them out of the world, but that those should keep them from the evil of the world."

"Let every one wherein he is called therein abide with God." In a word, this is the gospel message to this commercial age: The disciple is to follow Christ in the administration of things as the apostles did in turning from them. It is possible to live on the heavenward side of one's occupation, making his daily business build up his truest and highest manhood, or, as we know, one's very success in life, as he calls it, may leave him a moral ruin. The honor and glory of life lie in clinging to the highest, in whatever form it may come to us, and in great companionship with Christ.

An Optimistic Outlook

By BISHOP SAMUEL FALLOWS.

into active life of thousands of young men and women of the land. I failed to find in any of these baccalaureate discourses any evidences of pessimism. In some of them references were made to the grave problems which modern society has to meet and the possible dangers which menace our civilization from unhappy existing conditions. But there was an emphatic strain of hope and cheer along with the note of alarm. However dark the clouds that lower upon our horizon, they are not so threatening as those which have shrouded the heavens in blackness in the days gone by.

These prophets of coming good are the true seers and teachers of our youth. It has been said, "Revolutions never go backward." It can be said with perfect truth, "Evolution never goes backward." There may be an apparent retrograding here and there. Things may be worse in a particular period or in a circumscribed area. There may be stagnation of thought and paralysis of action and ensuing death in a nation or community, but the progress of the race is ever upward.

Why should we not believe in the sentiment of the poetic line, "The grandest times are before us"? The God of nature and humanity has never abdicated His universe. He did not create that universe to be a failure, else He were not the God of wisdom, love and power. On every ample page of the great book he has written progress is emblazoned. His word of truth in the Old Testament is instinct with the promise and potency of the grandest times which are before a waiting and watching and working world. Christ declared that greater works should be done by His believing disciples than He Himself had performed. The best days the world has ever known are the present. To deny it is to deny that the sun shines. But better days are to come.

Change in Religious Thought

By PROF. SHAILER MATTHEWS,
University of Chicago.

One or two changes in our religion are apparent. The child itself can see a difference in our way of keeping the Sabbath. Theological study of the Bible has changed.

It may be a sad thing that certain truths are questioned, but no attempt to argue to-day with the arguments of the last century is as foolish as to try to fight Indians armed with the rifle as they were fought when they had only bows and arrows.

Religious experience is the same as it always was. If we cannot understand and accept all the theology of the church, let us look to the body of faith, and seeking we shall find.

I have been greatly interested in the accounts of the sermons and addresses delivered at the various commencements of the schools of learning, marking the ushering

JOYCE AND THE MINE LEASE.

BY FRANK H. SWEET.

Joyce Killian was only two weeks from a select boarding school in the east, where the young ladies were zealously guarded from all contact with the rough outside world; yet this morning she was tearing down Snake Rock canyon upon a mustang not three months from the hands of a bronco buster, a mustang with gaudy, cumbersome horse trappings that had been brought up from Mexico more as curiosities than for use.

But there was no fear nor self-consciousness in Joyce's face, and instead of trying to check the mustang her hand went out from time to time to stroke and pat its neck encouragingly as her voice urged it on.

When she left the canyon she struck a more level country, and here the mustang was let out to its full speed. Bedrock was still ten miles away, and she must reach it and be back to the mine before night, and it was already well on toward noon. As she swept across the prairie she broke into a ringing class song. It was the keynote of her spirits, a tribute to the outdoor life and freedom, and in her eyes was a dancing buoyant gladness which flushed her cheeks and smiled from her lips.

Bedrock was a one-street town which began and ended in tents, with a few unpainted frame buildings in the center. It was an hour after noon when Joyce slipped from her horse in front of the office of "Gragg & Graw, mine brokers and operators." Both of the proprietors were in, and both rose at her entrance. Young ladies of Joyce's type were not yet common at Bedrock.

"I wish to see you about the Snake Rock mine lease," Joyce began, graciously.

Gragg bowed, but not before the visitor imagined she saw a swift glance flash between the partners. "I understand; it expires in ten days, I believe," said Gregg, blandly. "You are Miss Killian?"

"Yes; we wish to renew the lease on the terms you proposed."

"Visiting at Snake Rock camp with your brother?" went on Gregg. "It's very picturesque up there, but—er—a little wild for an eastern young lady's conventionalism, I'd think. Are you in business with your brother?"

"In a way. But about the lease. Will you kindly make it out as soon as possible? I have some shopping to do in town, and it is a long ride back to camp. My brother will sign the papers and return them at once. There are only ten days, and he wishes to have the matter arranged with out delay."

"Why didn't he come down himself?" demanded Graw, bluntly.

"He is very busy at the mine, and I convinced him that I could attend to it just as well," Joyce answered. "He said it was to be made out at five thousand—your own offer."

Graw laughed aloud. "That offer was made four weeks ago," he said, "and your brother declined it."

"You mean you will not renew it for that?"

"Exactly."

Joyce lost some of her color. All the money they had was invested in the mine, and the lease ran out in ten days.

"Well," she said, slowly, "I am authorized, in case you should decline to continue your offer, to raise the amount to what was paid last year, ten thousand."

"Which we must decline," said Gregg, suavely; "with real regret, you understand. And I will add that we would decline a hundred thousand just as promptly."

"You mean that you will not release on any terms?" the girl's white lips asked.

"Exactly. We expect to resume operations there ourselves."

Joyce gazed at him steadily for a few moments, then the color surged back to her face. "I understand," she said; "you have heard the news, and I suppose you call this business. You made a fortune out of the mine, and then when you lost the vein you sold it to my brother through misrepresentation. He paid you ten thousand, and has sunk more than ten thousand in searching for that vein. Until day before yesterday, from nearly a year's work, he took out less than one thousand dollars. He told me that you were up there yourselves only a short time ago, trying to induce him to re-lease the mine for five thousand, believing it to be exhausted. Some of the men heard you talking to each other, and you said that the mine was not worth the cost of a pickax. Now—"

"As your brother has re-discovered the vein, richer than ever," finished Graw, coolly, "we propose to operate it ourselves. But we are not so hard as you think, Miss Killian; and we really feel for your brother. You may tell him that if he will turn the mine over to us at daylight to-morrow we will pay him back one-half the year's lease—$5,000."

"And let him lose the other fifteen thousand?" flashed back Joyce. "No; thank you. We will hold the mine until the very last moment of the lease."

But once outside she wondered if she had done the very best she could. Would not the five thousand—but no, he would not agree to that. Like her, he would rather fight to the very last ditch.

She must do something, however. Her brother was down in the mine, working fiercely with his men at the almost pure vein which the explosives had discovered, and believing that she would return with the new lease. Only ten more days, and he did not know it. What could she do?

Before she had gone a hundred yards she knew, and instead of keeping toward the stores she hurried to the only printing office Bedrock contained. An hour later the town was conspicuously posted with:

"Men wanted at Snake Rock mine for ten days. Wages, ten dollars a day, pack mule seven."

Ordinary wages for good laborers were three or four dollars per day. Bosses and superintendents did not average ten. In an hour men were leaving regular jobs of work and ruthlessly breaking engagements. When Joyce finished her necessary shopping and started for home she found stragglers and groups with picks and shovels scattered along the trail for two miles or more. But she reached the mouth of the mine first, and sent an imperative summons for her brother to come to the surface. When he joined her, a half-hour later, 20 men were waiting for jobs, with 50 more hurrying up the slope, and between the 50 and Bedrock several hundred more.

The regular force of the mine was less than a hundred men; but the next morning half a thousand names were on the pay roll, divided into day and night shifts, with a hundred more who were owners of pack mules. Every working space large enough for a man had its laborer with pick or shovel, dynamite or car; and every laborer, under the stimulus of the ten dollars a day, was working with a heartiness that had never been his before. A great stream of ore rolled up out of the mine to the backs of the pack mules, and on to the smelter at Bedrock, whence came certificates of credit with figures that would have staggered a mine owner of moderate ideas. But the owner of Snake Rock did not see them. He was down in the mine, working and watching day and night to see that the great stream should not lessen in production for even an instant.

Joyce insisted on a share in the work, and remained at the mouth of the mine with book and pencil, keeping a record of the stream as it flowed past; and it was she who took charge of the credit slips as they came in. But even to her inexperienced eyes the figures brought an odd look of amazed delight that grew stronger day by day.

So a week went by, eight days, nine days, and the tenth was nearing its close when her brother came up from the mine, and staggered weakly to where Joyce was standing with her book and pencil. Behind him came the men of the day shift, slipping through the mouth of the mine like the coils of a huge serpent. The vein had again disappeared, and four hours of the lease remained.

When her brother looked over the credit slips the weariness left his face. "I knew it would be something tremendous," he said to Joyce, with a long breath; "but I never suspected anything like this. We will go back to the east."—Young People.

THE SUNDAY BIBLE SCHOOL

Lesson in the International Series for September 18, 1904—"Israel Reproved."

(Prepared by the "Highway and Byway" Preacher.)

(Copyright, 1904, by J. M. Edson.)

LESSON TEXT.

(Amos 5:4-15; Memory verses, 14, 15.)

4. For thus saith the Lord unto the house of Israel: Seek ye Me, and ye shall live;

5. But seek not Bethel, nor enter into Gilgal, and pass not to Beersheba; for Gilgal shall surely go into captivity, and Bethel shall come to naught.

6. Seek the Lord and ye shall live; lest He break out like fire in the house of Joseph, and devour it, and there be none to quench it in Bethel.

7. Ye who turn judgment to wormwood, and leave off righteousness in the earth,

8. Seek Him that maketh the seven stars and Orion, and turneth the shadow of death into the morning, and maketh the day dark with night; that calleth for the waters of the sea, and poureth them out upon the face of the earth. The Lord is His name;

9. Hate the evil, and love the good, and establish judgment in the gate: it may be that the Lord God of Hosts will be gracious unto the remnant of Joseph.

10. They hate him that rebuketh in the gate, and they abhor him that speaketh uprightly.

11. Forasmuch therefore as your treading is upon the poor, and ye take from him burdens of wheat; ye have built houses of hewn stone, but ye shall not dwell in them; ye have planted pleasant vineyards, but ye shall not drink wine of them.

12. For I know your manifold transgressions and your mighty sins; they afflict the just, they take a bribe, and they turn aside the poor in the gate from their right.

13. Therefore the prudent shall keep silence in that time; for it is an evil time.

14. Both good and not evil, that ye may live; and as the Lord, the God of Hosts, shall be with you as ye have spoken.

15. Hate the evil, and love the good, and establish judgment in the gate: it may be that the Lord God of Hosts will be gracious unto the remnant of Joseph.

SCRIPTURAL SECTION.—The entire chapter should be read, and it would be well to read the nine short chapters of the book.

GOLDEN TEXT.—"Seek ye the Lord and ye shall live."—Amos 5:4.

TIME.—Amos prophesied during the latter part of the reign of Jeroboam II. (see Amos 1:1). Jonah, Hosea and Joel were contemporaneous with Amos. It was a period considerably later than that of the lessons which we have been having.

PLACE.—Amos' home was at Tekoa, a few miles south of Jerusalem, but his field of labor was in Israel, with Bethel as probable center.

INTRODUCTORY NOTE.—Amos period was marked by great national prosperity (11. Kings 14:25-27), but great moral corruption. The book of Amos is made up of a series of discourses, (1) Concerning the nations—Chaps. 1-2; (2) Concerning Judah—2:4-5; (3) Concerning Israel, 2:6-9:15. The lesson is taken from the fourth discourse against Israel.

God and the Sinner.

In the lesson to-day we have strikingly emphasized that which has been brought out in the lessons of the quarter, namely: (1) God's patient, persistent effort to turn His people from sin. (2) The certain punishment for sin, and (3), the equally certain reward of righteousness. If individuals are to be lost and nations destroyed, as the result of sin, it must be in spite of God's reproof, and appeal; it must be in the face of God's infinite love and His exceeding great mercy and saving grace. During the consummate wickedness of Ahab's reign, God sent His greatest prophet Elijah, to seek to turn the hearts of the people back to God. And when the whole world was lost in the darkness of sin then it was that God sent the Light, His Son, into the world to light every soul back to Him.

Evidence of God's Love.—The rebukes and warning which God sent to His people through the prophets was one strong evidence of God's love and faithfulness. Rev. 3:19, Heb. 12:6. True love does not condone or overlook sin, but on the contrary it reveals and rebukes it, that it may be put away. The proof of God's love to man is that He condemned sin and provided deliverance in Christ. The proof of man's love to God is that he receives God's rebuke and obeys him.

God's Reproof.—God was qualified to rebuke Israel because (1) He was the All-knowing God. He knew all about the idolatrous and iniquitous practices at Bethel, and Dan, and Gilgal and Beersheba and Samaria (v. 5), and the corruption and oppression which prevailed (vs. 7, 10-12). Man may sin and hide it from the eyes and knowledge of men, but he cannot so do with God. Ps. 9:2; Jer. 16:17; 32:19; Prov. 5:21; Job 34:21. God saw every wicked act. The hatred in the heart against any who dared to denounce evil (v. 10); the oppression of the poor, the extortion, the luxury (v. 11), the judicial corruption (v. 12). (2) He was the All-Powerful God. (Vs. 8-9). He who rebuked Israel was the Creator, the Ruler of day and night, the Giver of sunshine and rain, bringing life and sustenance to man, the destroyer of the wicked and the preserver of the righteous. What weight has rebuke, if behind it there is not the power to execute judgment. The God who rebukes is the God who is able to punish. (3) He was the Gracious God. No matter how steeped in sin, if Israel would only seek Him He would be gracious unto them (v. 15). Where sin abounded, grace did much more abound.—Rom. 5:20; Ps. 85:15; 111:4. (4) He was the Appealing God. Four times over in the 12 verses of the lesson He pleads with Israel to seek Him, and promising abundant blessing if they would. (5) He was the Warning and Avenging God. Note vs. 5, 6, 11. The punishment that is to fall is captivity and the consuming fire of war, pestilence and famine. The only way of escape was to seek the Lord. Life could be had in no other way.
