Blue & Nunn Receives Deed for Wilson Land—The Joplin Zinc Market.

MOVEMENT OF FLUOR SPAR

Dr. R. L. Moore, of Marion, has leased 125 acres of his coal land near Blackford to Messrs. High Skinner and C. H. Wilson, of Sturgis. These gentlemen are arranging for a switch from the main line of the I. C. Railroad to their shaft where they have it is said, a strong four foot vein of coal.

The sale by R. W. Wilson to Blue & Nunn, of this city, of some 152 acres of land adjoining the "9 acre mine" has been concluded, the price paid being $50 per acre an aggregate of some $7600.

Robert Drescher, of the Columbia mine, tells us that the sluuge tables recently installed at that mine are beginning to show some results, the adjustment is a matter of course taking more or less time as "Fines" handled here are in a class by themselves, previous experience on other ores being of but little if any service, actual work alone being the necessary qualification for adjusting the flow of water and the ore feed.

F. M. Barnard, of the Pittsburg Mining & Manufacturing Co., in company with S. Garrison, of Pittsburg, Pa., who is largely interested in this Company, visited their various properties both in Illinois and Kentucky last week. The Vicksburg Fluor Spar mine on the Cumberland river near the town of that name is one of the most promising properties that this company has in this state. Mr. Geo. P. Roberts is shipping some six hundred tons of both grinding and fluxing fluor spar from this mine. It will be moved by Capt. Woolfolk's tug, the Monie, with one or two barges which arrived at Vicksburg late Sunday evening and will leave for Brookport to load on cars by Wednesday noon. The well equipped mill on the lead mine near Golconda belonging to the Pittsburg Company was also inspected with it is understood most satisfactory results, it is likely that very considerable improvements both in mining and milling will result at both mines from this visit.

The Elbide Hodge mine belonging to F. M. Barnard, who by the way, visited Marion on Monday last, is said to have reached a very promising vein of both galena and fluor spar at a depth of some 100 feet. A drift was run at this depth passing through the hanging wall of calcite some four feet where it opened into a vein of lead and fluor spar six feet in thickness, part of this however is a class of carbonate dirt in which very strong lead boulders are found. They are not of the kidney shape as is usually found in that section but are of a more pronounced ledge ore both in makeup and quality. The miners at the foot wall of this section of the vein continued drifting through 14 feet of an exceedingly white, heavy body of calc spar. Just before leaving the mine on Monday at noon, Mr. Barnard was told by the foreman that the drill was showing a body of fluor spar beyond this calc and lying against the real foot wall of the vein. This property has been prospected in the past quite extensively by other parties but up to the present time the vertical vein has never been shown although a very considerable tonnage of fluor spar was taken out by surface work.

The highest price reported paid for zinc ore in the Joplin district during the past week was $46 per ton for 100 tons of the King William mine of the consolidated Jack mines company at Duenweg. The Turtle, on the Roaring Springs land, in Joplin, and a couple of bins at Alba and Neck City, are also said to have brought this price. It is industriously rumored on the street that the Bumblebee mining company sold its output at $47. Prices were higher during the past week than they have been at any time since 1899. The assay basis closed the week strong at $42 to $43 per ton for zinc. There is certainly something doing in the zinc ore market, and the high prices are making good mines much sought after. Lead ore sold at the same price it brought all month, $53.50 per ton. The zinc ore producer appeared to have the upper hand during the past week. The man who had a bin filled with ore was in a position to name his own price, so long as it is within the bounds of reason. It is reported that a company has organized with a capital of $1,000,000 to build a zinc smelter at Coffeyville, Kan., where the gas supply is said to be unusually strong.

The Watson Carbonate of zinc property near Pleasant Ridge church is again in operation with increased facilities. Mr. Keys, one of the owners, who resides in Cleveland, Ohio, while here the other day made arrangements for the active working and shipment of product from this mine.

Conductor Fred Hayden Hurt.

In the depot yards here Monday, conductor Fred E. Hayden, of Paducah, a conductor on a work train happened to an accident. His train was switching and he was on the ground running along by the side of the track in an opposite direction when a crane on one of the cars struck him on the head cutting an ugly wound and knocking him senseless. Dr. A. J. Driskill, the company's local physician, dressed the wound and Hayden was taken to the hospital at Paducah.

ELECTRICAL STORM

Heavy Damage Done by Wind and Swollen Streams.—Hail Damages Tobacco.

BARN IGNITED BY LIGHTNING

Monday night an electrical storm passed over this section, lasting the greater part of the night. There was some wind in the immediate vicinity of Marion, but not so much as reported from nearby towns. The rain fell in torrents in many places. The Record correspondent at Hampton reports that the wind did considerable damage in that section. A large store under construction by Postmaster H. C. McCord at that place, which would soon have been completed and ready for occupancy, was blown down to the ground, the loss amounting to something near $500. Some hail fell in that vicinity, damaging tobacco. Fences were blown down and in many places washed out by the swollen streams.

Near Salem, and about 12 miles west of Marion, the large stock barn belonging to T. J. Babb and his son, Ramon, was struck by lightning, burning to the ground over seven head of fine mules and three head of fine horses, besides their vehicles, farming implements and a considerable amount of hay. Messrs. Babb were left without a horse or mule on the farm, and, in all, their loss will amount to $2,000 or more, with only $900 insurance.

WHAT WOULD PARKER DO?

The Country Wants to Know His Attitude Toward Pensions.

MR. CLEVELAND'S ACTION

It is about time for the Democratic party to make some distinct declaration in regard to the celebrated pension order of President Roosevelt, which they constantly declare to be an encroachment by the Executive upon the powers of congress. Mr. Roosevelt, with characteristic bravery, and with that frankness and honesty which has so endeared him to the people, has challenged his opponents to declare what they would do, if entrusted with power, regarding the order pensioning veterans at the age of sixty-two.

It is time for Judge Parker to come out of his cave and tell the people whether or not he would repeal that order. Would he issue an executive order, amending that made by President Roosevelt, which was in itself an amendment of those previously made by President Cleveland and President McKinley?

Will Judge Parker tell the people plainly and frankly what he will do? Will he let the veterans know his position in this matter? Will he pledge himself to fix the age for partial disability at 70 years, instead of 62, or will he restore the age limit to 75, as it was fixed by President Cleveland?

The people of the United States are tired of the evasion, the duplicity, and the mystery which has surrounded the Democratic candidate for the presidency. He and his party have sought to characterize an ordinary executive order of the President as an encroachment upon the powers of congress. He and they have intentionally ignored the fact that this action of President Roosevelt was not a new order, but merely a modification of an old one. He and they have sought to deceive the people of the United States into the belief that President Roosevelt, of his own motion, and to secure his own political advantage, has without the consent of congress issued an executive order pensioning a large number of old veterans who would not otherwise receive a cent from the national treasury.

Judge Parker's ignorance of national affairs may possibly excuse him, but Senator Gorman, ex-Senator Davis, the Democratic candidate for vice president, and ex-Senator David B. Hill, Judge Parker's lifelong friend and political manager, each know by personal experience that just such an order was issued by Grover Cleveland without exciting the slightest comment, except among the veterans themselves, who believe that the age of partial disability should have been made much lower than it was.

The law passed by congress provided that a veteran of the army of the United States, who was wholly or partially disabled, should be entitled to a pension. Somebody had to decide when the disability existed. President Cleveland decided by an executive order that it was fair to presume a veteran was wholly unable to earn his living when he had reached the age of 75 years. This was a proper order, which was never questioned, and least of all by the Democratic party.

President McKinley decided that it was fair to presume an old soldier at the age of 65 was at least half disabled.

All President Roosevelt did was to reduce the age limit and to fix the presumption of partial disability at 62 instead of 65 years. There was no secrecy about his order, and he has himself now challenged the Democratic party and Alton B. Parker, their candidate for the presidency, to stand up and be counted.

If Judge Parker is elected president, will he modify the existing executive order? Will he declare that a veteran of the civil war must be 75 years of age before he can be presumed to be incapacitated? Will Judge Parker fix a new limit of his own? Will he refer the matter to congress, and if so, what will he do with the veterans in the meantime? Will Judge Parker tell the people whose votes he is seeking exactly what he proposes to do on the pension question? President Roosevelt's demand for a show of hands is a fair one. He has justified his own action, and he insists that it cannot fairly be criticised by his opponent for the presidency unless some alternative plan is proposed.

Not only the veterans themselves, but all of the people, young and old, have a right to expect, inasmuch as this issue has been raised by the Democrats, that Judge Parker should declare himself once and for all. If he is elected president, will he fix the age at which partial disability is presumed at 62, or at 65, or at 70, or at 75, or at 80?

If he would not alter the executive order made by President Roosevelt, why is he willing to make political capital out of that order? If he would modify it, just what age would he fix? If he did modify it, would that not be just as much an encroachment upon the rights of congress as the order issued by President Roosevelt and the previous one issued by President McKinley and the original one issued by President Cleveland?

Judge Parker was once offered a government position by President Cleveland. They have been friends for years and Cleveland may take the stump for the Democratic nominee. Does Judge Parker believe that Grover Cleveland usurped the functions of congress when he made the original order fixing an age at which disability might be presumed? If Cleveland was not guilty of executive usurpation, how can Roosevelt be charged with this crime?

It is time for Judge Parker to answer these questions. President Roosevelt has honestly challenged him to do this, and unless he accepts the challenge the people will have a right to presume that he is not only manifestly ignorant of national affairs, but that he is dishonestly endeavoring to deceive them. This is no time for quibbling. The people want an answer to a fair question and they will not be put off with evasion or trickery.

Would President Parker modify President Roosevelt's executive order regarding pensions, and if so, how?

PEARY UNDISMAYED

Former Expeditions. He Says. Have Given Experience for Success.

Undismayed by former failures to reach the north pole Lieut. Robert E. Peary, the arctic explorer, recently told a large audience at the World's Fair that the distant goal in quest of which so many lives have been lost is about to be reached.

Showing clearly that his confidence in the feasibility of the project and in his own ability is unshaken by his eight failures. Lieut. Peary talked most interestingly of his plans for the next dash for the pole, and told why he believes that this time he will be successful.

He regards his former expeditions as only partial failures, inasmuch as he holds that they have equipped him with the necessary knowledge and experience to make a successful attempt. The conquest of the pole is the consuming ambition of the explorer's life, and he is eager to be away again in renewed search of it.

Lieut. Peary intends making his dash for the north pole some time between July 1 and 15 next.

COTTON SPINNERS.

International Meeting for the South—American Product Unsurpassed.

Practical, definite steps have just been taken toward holding in some Southern city this fall the international convention of cotton spinners suggested in the Manufacturers' Record recently. An invitation has been cabled to the cotton spinners of England, and the details are being worked out for what promises to be the most important convention ever held in the South, with results of incalculably far-reaching character not only locally, but in an international way.

While experiments in cotton-raising may still be carried on to advantage in South Africa, India and elsewhere, it is pointed out that to the cotton-growing States of our own country must the world look for most of the increased production required. Here cotton is native; here climatic conditions conduce to its thrift; here it can be cheaply and profitably raised and here are all conditions which are needed for the industry of cotton growing—men who understand the business, and who have at hand the machinery, implements, facilities and systems for raising and marketing the staple. Given the needed labor, the South could expand production enormously, and without the costly experimentation incidental to all attempts to establish the cotton raising industry in an unknown and untried country, where, even if climatic and labor conditions are found to be favorable, there are necessarily lacking the machinery—financial and commercial, as well as physical—which raising and marketing a crop requires. In America, also, there is, in addition to the advantage of natural habitat, the important fact that the best inventive genius and mechanical skill of the world are at work on improved mechanisms and methods applicable to various features of cotton growing, handling and marketing.—Manufacturers' Record.

Fearful Odds Against Him.

Bedridden, alone and destitute, such, in brief, was the condition of an old soldier by name of J. J. Havens, Versailles, O. For years he was troubled with kidney disease and neither doctors nor medicines gave him relief. At length he tried Electric Bitters. It put him on his feet in short order and now he testifies. "I'm on the road to complete recovery." Best on earth for liver and kidney troubles and all forms of Stomach and Bowel Complaints. Only 50c. Guaranteed by R. F. HAYNES.

LEADERS ALARMED

Will Vote for Watson in New York State. 25,000 Democrats.

The Democratic campaign managers are trying to hoodwink the mass of the party by saying all Democrats are working earnestly for the election of Parker. The truth is, there is now more disaffection in the Democratic party than there was when Bryan was nominated the first time. Neither Bryan Democrats nor friends of W. R. Hearst will support Parker. In New York State the Bryanites have put a state Populist ticket in the field and will vote for Watson, the Populist nominee for the Presidency. In New Jersey the Hearstites have organized the "People's Democratic party" and will fight the regular organization. In Indiana and other states the free silver and Bryan Democrats are in arms and will worry the Parker party.

Bryan's bitter denunciation of Parker is bearing fruit. Dispatches from several states report that the Nebraskan's admirers are flocking to the Populist standard. Some of Judge Parker's close friends are accusing Bryan of directly inspiring the desertion of such men as Melvin G. Palliser, the leader of the Bryan forces in New York.

There are a large number of Bryan Democrats in New York state, and their present attitude is viewed with alarm by the Hill-Belmont-Sheehan organization. It is said every follower of W. J. Bryan will vote the Populist national ticket. The Parkerites are charging Bryan with bad faith, asserting that the defection of the Bryan Democrats will cost Parker at least 25,000 votes in New York.

Political Speaking.

Judge William H. Taft, Secretary of War, will speak in the Masonic Theater in Louisville on the afternoon of Oct. 3. Judge Taft will be the guest of the Louisville Horse Show Association during the evening.

Parker's Neighbors Against Him.

Congressman George J. Smith, of the Twenty-fourth New York district, in which is Judge Parker's home, told President Roosevelt a few days ago that he had made a tour of the district and found no Republican who would vote for Parker. If the Democratic candidate gains no votes among his Republican neighbors, he certainly should gain none elsewhere. In other words, if his popularity is not sufficiently great to draw votes from those he daily comes in contact with, he need not expect to secure the support of Republicans who know him only by what he has said and done.

PARKER'S SCARE

It is Easily Exploded by an Appeal to Facts and Figures.

The Ulster county candidate, laboring hard over Judge Parker's speech to the faithful Democratic editors, scissored out some statistics with which to hammer the Republican administration. But while the judge was toiling over his empty sentences,

"His cogitative faculties immersed in cogibundity of cogitation," his aptitude for figures went on a vacation and he prepared, or accepted, some very queer conclusions, which he gave to the admiring editors with much pomp and circumstance.

The trouble is that the Ulster county politician's deficit is not a deficit at all, when it comes to realities. The Republicans delightedly accept the challenge of the Democratic candidate, for it gives them a chance to show a few statistics themselves.

"Judge Parker asserts," says a Washington dispatch to the Chicago Chronicle, "that there is now a deficit of $42,000,000, instead of a surplus of $80,000,000, which Mr. Roosevelt found on becoming president. Both statements are reckless, as a careful examination of the records of the treasury will show. In regard to the deficit, the receipts and expenditures for the fiscal year ending June 30, 1904, show an apparent deficit of $40,000,000 in round numbers, but during that time the United States paid $50,000,000 for a Panama canal and advanced $4,500,000 to the Louisiana Purchase exposition, which latter amount is to be returned to the government. If Mr. Parker will deduct his apparent deficit of $42,000,000 from the $54,000,000 paid for the purchase of the Panama canal and the encouragement of an exposition of world-wide scope and importance, he would find a balance of $12,000,000 and upwards on the other side of the ledger."

What is Life?

In the last analysis nobody knows, but we do know that it is under strict law. Abuse that law even slightly, pain results. Pneumatic Mail Carrier.

A pneumatic tube eighteen inches in diameter between Chicago and Milwaukee that will transport packages of mail between the two cities in forty minutes—at the rate of more than two miles a minute—and give a lightning express service to all the towns along the route, is proposed by a concern which has installed pneumatic tube systems in some of the largest Chicago business houses.

The cost of the line is placed at $5,000,000. As the distance is about 84.5 miles, this is at the rate of $62,500 a mile. Expenses of maintenance and operation will be small, it is asserted, that the company can afford to carry freight at less than the price now charged by any common carrier.

GOOD IMPRESSION

President Roosevelt's Letter Well Received in England.

British comment upon Mr. Roosevelt's letter is, as was bound to be the case, flattering in the extreme. The President's promise to conduct the government in the future as it has been conducted by Republican administrations in the past seems sufficient for European sensibilities. The hope is expressed that, in the event of another Roosevelt term, the fine, clear mind of John Hay may direct America's foreign relations, now assuming "an importance of which the founders of the republic and the framers of the federal constitution never dreamed of."

Mr. Parker's "difficulty in harmonizing the two contradictory elements of this party—the water and the fire—is a more serious matter than Europeans can understand," says an able summary of the factors in the Democratic campaign. "But the heaviest handicap of the Esopus statesman is the bad company he keeps in politics." Mr. Hill is described as a "curious medley of talent and moral infirmity, who has secured a position in American public life that would have been unattainable in this country with a doubtful record."

GENERAL NEWS.

It is reported that on account of black rust the wheat crop of the northwest and especially in North Dakota has been cut in two. It is expected that wheat will be marketed at Minneapolis and Duluth at $1.12 with a probable advance.

The standing army is 6.1 per cent, smaller per 10,000 of the population than it was under Jefferson. It is difficult for the Democrats to make much headway with their alleged fear of "militarism."

It is reported that a Louisville official of the Illinois Central, has made a statement to the effect that an arrangement is to be made with the Tennessee Central railroad to run I. C. trains to Nashville.

Eighteen months ago while walking across the floor of her room, Miss Willie Gaddie, the twelve-year old daughter of Dr. D. W. Gaddie of Hodgenville, stepped on a needle. The steel was completely buried in her heel and a surgical operation failed to locate it. Last night she was surprised to discover the steel point protruding her shoulder, the needle having traveled entirely through her body.

SCHLEY'S STORY

"Forty-five Years Under the Flag" to be Told in Book Form.

Announcement is made that Rear Admiral Schley will shortly publish his autobiography under the title "Forty-five Years Under the Flag." About one-third of the book will be devoted to the Spanish War, concerning which the Admiral will say in his preface:

"In the chapters which relate to the operations against Cervera's fleet, the purpose has been to record the events from the writer's own viewpoint, to criticize in a spirit of fairness, but without malice, bearing in mind that wherever it has been necessary to refer to apparent inconsistencies in the statements of others, the author has endeavored always to avoid unnecessary personalities. Through the courtesy of Secretary Moody, recourse has been had to official papers which were not available before his accession to office."

The remainder of the large volume will be given to the narrative of Admiral Schley's service in many seas.

REPUBLICAN NATIONAL TICKET.

FOR PRESIDENT
THEODORE ROOSEVELT
Of New York.

FOR VICE PRESIDENT
CHARLES W. FAIRBANKS
Of Indiana.

ANNOUNCEMENTS

FOR SHERIFF

DUVALL.—We are authorized to announce Alonzo J. Duvall a candidate for the office of Sheriff of Crittenden county, subject to the action of the Republican party. Election 1905.

The gold standard is remarkably popular.

All residents of incorporated towns who expect to vote in November, should register Tuesday.

The chances are that four years from now the Democratic party will be claiming the present Republican platform.

The city of Mayfield is building a new city hall that will cost about $6000. The second floor will be occupied as a city court room and as offices, the lower floor being occupied as a store room. The fire department will occupy the new building near the city hall.

The annual report on the coal industry of Illinois, furnished by the state bureau of statistics, shows that miners were never so prosperous as under the McKinley and Roosevelt administrations. The coal output of the state now is nearly twice what it was under Cleveland; 15,000 more men are employed than six years ago, and wages are fully 50 per cent. higher than in 1897.

The Republicans of New York, in convention assembled, nominated Lieut. Gov. Frank W. Higgins by acclamation for Governor of the State of New York. In convention assembled the Democrats nominated Judge D. Cady Herrick, of the supreme court of the state of New York for the same office. The conventions were as usual, characteristic of the meetings of the two parties, the Republicans being decided, judicious and harmonious in action as regards what they advocate while the Democrats were undecided their proceeding being rather stormy before they could get in line with Tammany.

It is a pity that Kentucky's metropolis can not have a mayor whose hands are not tied by political obligations to a lawless class of individuals.

As was expected after Mayor Grainger's return from his vacation pool rooms and betting places resumed business again in Louisville last week. To prevent the lawless state of affairs from being published abroad by the gallant Knights that recently invaded the city from all parts of the country, which would have put the city government to shame for neglecting to enforce the city laws, the Mayor went off so that acting Mayor Barth could close up all the gambling dens. The Mayor being a Pontius Pilate sort of a fellow in the matter, knowing what should be done but being too weak to do it, he left it to Barth to enforce the laws and he it said to his credit he pursued a policy that was effective, which if enlarged upon and continued would soon give to the state an administration in its metropolis of which it should justly be proud.

A billionaire club will raise a Parker and Davis silk campaign banner at Great Neck, N. Y. The club is composed of Wall street and trust magnates. Cord Meyer, chairman of the New York Democratic State Committee, a resident of Little Neck, will approve of the action.

The tobacco trust and other great trusts are freely contributing to the Democratic campaign fund, but there has also been issued to the Democratic party at large from campaign headquarters in New York, an appeal for campaign funds. From reading the platform adopted at St. Louis, we would judge that the party could not hope for support from the trusts.

"We demand," says the Democratic platform, "an enlargement of the powers of the interstate commerce commission to the end that the traveling public and shippers of this country may have prompt and adequate relief from the abuses to which they are subjected in the matter of transportation."

"We demand a strict enforcement of existing civil and criminal statutes against all such trusts, combinations and monopolies, and

"We demand the enactment of such further legislation as may be necessary to effectually suppress them."

But Judge Parker does not agree with his platform as from his speech of acceptance it is readily implied that there will be no trust legislation should he be elected president. He says that "common law as developed affords legal remedy against monopoly."

"The growth of the monopoly of which complaint is justly made," says Judge Parker, "cannot be laid at the doors of the courts of this country." The decisions of the supreme court of the United States, the Court of Appeals of this State, and the courts of last resort in other states warrant the assertion that common law as developed affords legal remedy against monopoly."

Editor W. L. Clark, of the Livingston Banner, discussing the "blind tiger" evil in his frank conscientious style, an evil that all counties seem to be heir to, says: "The grand jury of this county last week returned thirty indictments against persons in this county for violating the local option law. Now it is safe to predict that before those thirty indictments are disposed of, there will be enough lies sworn in court to send a carload of convicts to the penitentiary should all who perjure themselves be indicted and convicted. The practice in this county is for fellows to go before the grand jury and have others indicted for violating the local option law and then come before the trial court and lie about it. While in the grand jury room they swear hard enough to turn a white elephant black, but when in the trial court, in the presence of the fellow who sold them the goods, they change their story. 'It was only a cool, refreshing drink that exhilarated them, but did not intoxicate.' Another thing we may expect, and that is for the limber-back juries that try these indictments to turn about half of the violators loose on the flimsy pretext of a 'reasonable doubt'—when in truth their real reason will be that they themselves love their 'toddy' and they don't want the Blind Tiger business broken up, for they themselves like to be 'EXHILARATED' occasionally. The open and notorious violation of the Prohibition law of this county is a burning disgrace and will remain such till the good citizens in every community where blind tigers are run take the matter into their own hands by organizing law and order leagues and demolishing all shacks where liquor is sold, horse whipping the sellers and driving them out of the country. Our courts have no terror for the bootleggers, for too many of our officials owe their positions to that class of voters. And just as long as the better element of our people wait for the officers of the law in this county to break up the illicit sale of whisky, just that long will they wait in vain. Therefore we say unto you—take the matter into your own hands."

A MOST ATTRACTIVE YOUNG LADY.

The above picture represents a most business-like and popular young lady of this city, Miss Carrie Moore, daughter of Judge James A. Moore. She has just completed a course in short hand and typewriting in Lockyear's Business College, at Evansville. She completed her course with high honors and left the college in the highest favor of all the teachers and pupils associated with it.

Miss Moore is a young lady of remarkable attainments. As a vocalist, pianist or organist she is quite noted. For the First Methodist Episcopal church, south, of this place, she is the organist and also leads the choir, which is assuredly the best organized and efficient choir in the city.

She graduated from the Marion High School in 1901, and went before the county board of examiners and received a first class certificate to teach in the schools of the county. She has taught school for the last three years and last year was principal of the Tolu schools.

Miss Moore has a judicious mind and possesses quick and clear perceptive faculties, which will prove a valuable asset in performing the duties of her present calling. She will have an office with her father and brother—Moore & Moore, lawyers—whose office is on the south side of court square. Traveling men, lawyers and the public in general desiring to have letterwriting or manuscript work done or depositions made are invited to give Miss Moore a call.

THE TOBACCO TRUST.

All farmers who have been complaining about the tobacco trust should read this in Kentucky's leading Democratic newspaper—the Courier Journal:

"There is a good deal of talk about the manner in which administration at Washington 'got even' with the American Tobacco Company for its support of Judge Parker and its liberal contribution to the Democratic campaign fund. Domestic manufacturers of cigars had appealed to the treasury department to rescind the rule requiring a large red stamp to be affixed to every box of imported cigars. Their claim was that this stamp served as a government certificate of genuineness of the imported cigars within the box and was, in fact, an advertisement for the imported goods, etc."

So the tobacco trust is for the Democratic ticket! The farmers should remember this when they vote in November.—Paducah Sun.

DEMOCRATS FLOUNDER.

It is difficult to find out from the utterances of our opponents what are the real issues upon which they wage this campaign. It is not unfair to say that, having abandoned most of the principles upon which they have insisted during the last eight years, they now seem at a loss both as to what it is they really believe and as to how firmly they shall assert their belief in anything.

We make our appeal to no class and to no section, but to all good citizens in whatever part of the land they dwell. We stand for enforcement of the law and for obedience to the law. We hold ever before us as the all important end of policy and administration the reign of peace at home and throughout the world; of peace, which comes only by doing justice.—Theodore Roosevelt, in letter of acceptance.

Be sure register Tuesday.

Court House Gleanings.

Elden Stone, formerly of this county, now of Paducah, who was arrested at the Hurricane camp meeting a few weeks ago on a warrant charging him and others with injuring cattle and destroying property not his own, was tried Monday and found guilty. His punishment was fixed at $20 and cost, coupled with hard labor.

Quarterly court convened Monday and fifteen cases were called and passed upon, judgment being rendered by default.

Wednesday Ellis Akers was tried for fornication and plead guilty to the charge. His punishment was fixed at $21 and cost. Being unable to pay the fine he was remanded to jail and ordered to perform hard labor. A particular phase of the case was that in an effort to assist his friend, Marion Ryan, in the Ryan-Bagwell seduction case, Akers had sworn in open court that he himself had had sexual intercourse with the plaintiff. Therefore, Wednesday, Akers had to either plead guilty or go to the penitentiary for false swearing.

Horse Thief Wanted.

Town Marshal John Wilson, of Princeton, arrived in the city Thursday morning with a warrant for the arrest of horse thief Chas. Rodgers, of Providence. Rodgers and his brother who has been arrested and is now in the Webster county jail, stole horses belonging to a man near Providence. Rodgers is a young man 21 years of age and has red or sandy hair and dark eyes. He was seen Wednesday in the vicinity of Repton with woman's costume on. He is supposed to be carrying a Winchester rifle. There is a standing reward of $50 for his arrest. Wilson, accompanied by Frank Loyd, is in search of Rodgers, and it is expected that he will turn up at Weston, Ford's Ferry or Tolu, and he may get a skiff and attempt to row to Missouri.

The groom is the son of J. W. Rice who resides in the same vicinity.

The ceremony was performed by Rev. John A. Hunt.

In answer to an inquiry made by a reporter for the Record as to what led to the union of such a youthful pair it was stated that the couple had been sweethearts some time, neither having ever had any other sweetheart and believing that they fully realized what true love meant, they pressed their guardians for their permission and approval and it was granted.

CIVILIZED MAN LOSING HIS TOES

Little Toe Will Gradually Disappear
Along With Vermiform Appendix.

Dr. George F. Shady, in commenting on the theory of Sir John Murray that the little toe of man is disappearing, said: "It is true that while civilization develops man in some ways it also degenerates him in others. For instance, prepared foods weaken the stomach; whereas when men had to eat coarse foods they had not only sound digestive organs, but magnificent teeth. These facts have led philosophers today to prophesy that the time will come when man can live without a stomach by eating prepared foods.

"The principle of disuse is well exemplified in the foot. The toes are spread out to support the arch of the foot and balance the body. In savages who do not wear shoes, or, at the most, soft moccasins, the toes are spread out like a fan, as if to grasp the earth. Compressing the foot within an ill-fitting shoe distorts it, makes the toes grow smaller and is driving the little toe into disuse.

"Disuse is proved in the case of women. Their feet are much smaller than men's because during all ages they've been coddled and have done so little walking."

A REVELATION

Ice Box Proved to Be An Effective Remedy.

Francis McKoon, of Louisville, a ten-year-old boy, was cured of lock-jaw by being placed in a refrigerator. Dr. W. J. McCann was the attending physician and when all other known remedies had been tried such as anti-tetanic serum spinal cord injections and the application of ice to the base of the brain, the doctor decided that a little cold was good, so more cold would be better. Arrangements were made with the Jetter Brewing company and a cot fitted up in their cold storage vault, to which the patient was removed in the midst of convulsive spasms. Within a few hours a decided improvement was manifested, and this improvement continued until the boy was entirely cured and removed to his home.

LUCAS WINS

Court Holds That He Cannot Be Ousted From Office.

Auditor's Agent Frank Lucas, of Paducah, has an important victory in the circuit court at Frankfort. In a suit argued last week, involving the question whether or not the state auditor can remove his agent without cause before his term has expired, Judge Carroll, in circuit court, rendered an opinion.

He holds that the auditor has no authority to remove before the four years term is over an auditor's agent, unless some cause exists. The agents are appointed for four years, he says, and four years means four years.

This is the first time the question has been passed on since it was raised early in the year by Auditor Hager's effort to oust the auditor's agents appointed by former Auditor Gus Coulter, of whom Mr. Lucas, of Paducah, was one. James Campbell, of Paducah, was appointed to succeed Mr. Lucas and the auditor refused to receipt the new bond of Mr. Lucas when it was presented.

A great deal of interest has been taken in the case, and the auditor will at once take an appeal, and the court of appeals will settle the question finally.

The case decided was a mandamus proceeding against Auditor Hager to compel him to accept Mr. Lucas' bond, which has to be renewed every two years, and which auditor Hager refused to remove and file a few months ago.

TOM TAGGART

At Home—An Indiana Opinion of His Management.

It was not until Mr. Taggart undertook to run the Democratic machine of this State that the party was regularly beaten in its State campaigns. As a Democratic leader Mr. Taggart has proved to be about the most successful "hoodoo" that has ever handicapped our organization. After a politician has led his forces to defeat in one campaign after another he usually has the good sense to retire and make way for some other person. We would suggest to Mr. Taggart that instead of swaggering around the country pretending to be the boss of the Democratic party of Indiana, a more appropriate thing for him to do would be for him to retire and give place to some one who has greater ability as a leader.

We feel free to make a suggestion of the kind because, like many other Indiana Democrats, we like Mr. Taggart personally. He knows how to run a hotel and shows a fine sense of discrimination so necessary in the composition of one who successfully caters to the stomach of the public.

What he doesn't know about politics would fill all the Carnegie libraries in the State. If Taggart will sit down in the solitude of his Sunday barroom where drinks are regularly served in violation of the State laws, and carefully meditate on the various defeats into which he has steered the Democratic party of this State, we feel confident his own sense of decency, blunted though it may be, will suggest to him that a seat away back in the rear is where he belongs.

That, at least, is what the Democrats in this part of the State would advise Brother Taggart to do.—Evansville Courier.

THE SUNDAY BIBLE SCHOOL

Lesson in the International Series for October 2, 1904—"Elisha Succeeds Elijah."

(Prepared by the "Highway and Byway" French.)

(Copyright, 1904, by J. M. Edson.)

LESSON TEXT.

(11 Kings 2:15-22; Memory verses, 12-14.)

12 And Elisha saw it, and he cried: My Father, my Father, the chariot of Israel, and the horsemen thereof. And he saw him no more, and he took hold of his own clothes, and rent them in two pieces.

13 He took up also the mantle of Elisha that fell from him, and went back, and stood by the bank of Jordan.

14 And he took the mantle of Elisha that fell from him, and smote the waters, and said: Where is the Lord God of Elijah? And when he also had smitten the waters, they parted hither and thither, and Elisha went over.

15 And when the sons of the prophets which were to view at Jericho saw him, they said: The spirit of Elijah doth rest on Elisha. And they came to meet him, and bowed themselves to the ground before him.

16 And they said unto him: Behold now, there be with thy servants fifty strong men; let them go, we pray thee, and seek thy master, lest peradventure the spirit of the Lord hath taken him up, and cast him upon some mountain, or into some valley. And he said: Ye shall not send.

17 And when they urged him till he was ashamed, he said: Send. They sent therefore fifty men, and they sought three days, but found him not.

18 And when they came again to him (for he tarried at Jericho), he said unto them: Did I not say unto you: Go not?

19 And the men of the city said unto Elisha: Behold, I pray thee, the situation of this city is pleasant, as my lord seeth; but the water is naught, and the ground barren.

20 And he said: Bring me a new cross, and put salt therein. And they brought it to him.

21 And he went forth unto the spring of the waters, and cast the salt in there, and said: Thus saith the Lord, I have healed these waters; there shall not be from thence any more death or barren land.

22 So the waters were healed unto this day, according to the saying of Elisha which he spake.

SCRIPTURAL SECTION.—The entire chapter, with a review of Elisha's call in 1 Kings 19:16, 19-22.

GOLDEN TEXT.—"Let a double portion of thy spirit be upon me."—1 Kings 19:20.

TIME.—Immediately before the events of the lesson for September 11. The prophet's ministry extended through about fifty years.

PLACE.—The scene of Elisha's translation, and at Jericho.

Beginning of a Great Mission.

The Place of Endowment.—Elisha was destined to fill the place of a great prophet, and our lesson to-day introduces us to the initial events in his career, which are preparatory to and prophetic of the future success of his mission. If Elisha were to fill Elijah's place he must be endued with Elijah's spirit. The disciples to perform the Lord's service must wait for endowment of power, for the descent of His Spirit (Acts 1: 8, 2: 1-4). The servant of the Lord to-day must wait for the power and inspiration which will equip for service. What had brought Elisha here? The place of such endowment is always marked by (1) Watchfulness. Elisha watched. (2) Revelation. Elisha saw the presence and glory of God as Elijah was snatched from earth to Heaven, and M quickened his heart to a new consciousness of God and His power. The soul that watches eagerly and persistently will be rewarded with a revelation of God which will thrill the whole being and call into life new capabilities and create new possibilities.

The Place of Testing.—The place of testing always lies just beyond the place of endowment. Elisha in the wilderness beyond Jordan gazing up into the heavens, would never prove an efficient or worthy successor of Elijah. The too-long gazing up into Heaven needs Divine rebuke (Acts 1: 11). Elisha must return, and in the pathway of the return lay the broad, unfordable Jordan, the Place of Testing. All that he had was the bare word of the prophet and the mantle of Elijah, which was the evidence of Elijah's departure. The testing was for the double purpose of revealing to Elisha himself and to the sons of the prophets gazing from the hills of Jericho the fact that Elijah's spirit had descended upon Elisha. "Elisha went over"—the place of endowment and the place of testing were just behind, but the place of discipline lay before him.

The Place of Discipline.—For three days while the willful, unbelieving students of the college pursued their fruitless search, Elisha waited at Jericho. Those were days of discipline. While the search was on for Elijah, Elisha must wait, and waiting is the most trying kind of discipline.

The Place of Service.—And now we come to the place of service. Endowment, testing, discipline and at last service. The discipline ended, Elisha finds his position strengthened in the city. Doubtless during those three days there was much discussion in the city of Elijah's disappearance, which tended to advertise Elisha. People got to discussing the miraculous events of the past few days and as a result faith in Elisha increased. Then came the opportunity of service. The men of the city came making request that the noxious waters might be healed. Here was a call to service. But why salt to cure the brackish waters? "Like cures like" has long been a familiar saying. The use of salt suggests God's method of healing the world's sin. The shedding of blood to cleanse the crimson stains of sin. Death to cure death.

Suffering

Will Not Help Your Disease, but Will Weaken Your Nerves.

Folks who think it is better to bear pain than soothe it—are wrong.

Old-fashioned doctors used to say it was better, because they had nothing with which to ease pain but dangerous, heart-paralyzing drugs.

But now, that a safe remedy has been found, Dr. Miles' Anti-Pain Pills, it is wrong to suffer, for nothing can be gained but weakened nerves.

A safe rule to remember is: When in pain, take an Anti-Pain Pill.

This will soothe your quivering nerves. Dr. Miles' Anti-Pain Pills relieve pain by restoring the natural secretions, in which they differ from opium and similar narcotic drugs, which relieve pain by checking the action of the glands.

They are sure and harmless, and are the latest medical treatment for the cure of Headache, Neuralgia, Backache, Rheumatism, Dizziness, Toothache, Stomachache, Menstrual (Monthly) Pains. Also nerve irritations like Sea-Sickness, Car-Sickness, Sleeplessness, Indigestion, etc.

Pleasant to take, quick in results.

"I have used Dr. Miles' Anti-Pain Pills for sick nervous headache, and have received the best results. I heartily recommend their curative properties, for they are successful."—REV. RAY A. WATROS, D. D., Iowa City, Ia.

THE OTHER FELLOW'S JOB.

There's a craze among us mortals that is cruel hard to name. Wherever you find a human you will find the case the same. You may seek among the worst of men or seek among the best. And you'll find that every person is precisely like the rest. Each believes that his real calling is along some other line. Than the one at which he's working—take, for instance, yours and mine: From the meanest "no-too" creature to the leader of the mob, There's a universal craving for "the other fellow's job."

There are millions of positions in the busy world to-day. Each a drudge to him who holds it, but to him who doesn't play. Every farmer's broken-hearted that in youth he missed his call. While that same unhappy farmer is the envy of us all. Any task you care to mention seems a vastly better lot Than the one special something which you happen to have got. There's but one sure way to smother Envy's heartache and her sob: Keep too busy, at your own, to want "the other fellow's job."

—Strickland W. Gillman, in Success.

CASE OF KIDNAPING.

BY LOUISE G. STRONG.

Dora pushed back her sunbonnet, and looked up with furtive admiration at the stalwart figure giving the finishing touches to the huge load of hay.

"Ethel had to help about dinner and couldn't get away, but she made me come. She said it was too bad for you to have no company for the last load."

"I am sorry you were compelled to come," he replied, a little stiffly. "Oh, I wanted to; I wouldn't have missed it for anything. I was never on a load of hay. But mercy! how shall I ever get up there?"

He glowed at her warmth, but with a brief "I'll help you," he slid to the ground, placed a short ladder against the load, preceded her, and reached for her hands.

With little shrieks of alarm, and declarations that she never could do it, Dora at last gained the top of the ladder and put her hands in his. His heart leaped fiercely, and he paled a little under his tan, but made no sign of the tumult her touch had aroused within him.

But she was as well aware of it as he, and with malicious intent, clung to him in affected fright, noting, with pleasure, his suppressed agitation. It was a short ride from the field to the hay barn; besides, he had the horses to attend to, so there would be no chance for him to go beyond the limit she had set for him, and ask the question she had been fencing for weeks. She was not sure that she was ready to be bound; but she was certain that she did not want to give him a negative answer; she wished to postpone it; besides, there were "others," and she, being a born coquette, was enjoying herself and did not want a definite change.

With much skill she had played him and evaded his effort to obtain an opportunity to bring matters to a crisis. She meant him no harm; she reasoned that a little suspense would perhaps do him good, and she loved the excitement of the game and reveled in the narrow escapes she contrived to experience.

"This is the last of the hay, now there is nothing to prevent you joining our tennis party this afternoon," she said, cuddling down in the hay at his feet, while he stood easily and firmly, guiding the team through the gate into the big road. "If you will be my partner," he replied, sitting down beside her, letting the horses, now they were through, go their own gait.

"But I've promised Harry Payne; and Jessie Carpenter plays much better than I—besides, she is always trying to get you," she insinuated, demurely.

"Hang Harry Payne, and Jessie, too, for that matter! See here, Dora—"

"Oh, there's Ethel on the porch waving to us," she interrupted, hurriedly. "Harvest home! Harvest home!" she shrieked as they passed the house, scrambling to her feet, with one hand on his shoulder. The wagon lurched, and she dropped down again, flushed and laughing, and began scattering hay over him. He did not respond, but sat with averted face.

"Crosspatch!" she said, lightly. "He wants his dinner, so he does! Well, it will not be long now. Dinner is to be unusually early on account of our party; the men are going to the house."

He was still silent, and she posted. Suddenly she shrieked again: "Why, Nat! Bruner! you're passed the gate—it's away back there! Didn't you see it?"

"I didn't want to see it," he said, shortly.

"What do you mean?" she cried. "I mean that you're not going to get away from me this time till I've had my say?"

"I won't listen! I won't listen!" She thrust back her bonnet and put both her hands over her ears.

He drove on quietly, with no attempt to coax or compel her attention, down a long hill, up the other side and around a corner.

"It's all right, boys," he said to the horses, as they turned their heads with an inquiring look, when the noon whistle blew at the village. "It's all right," and they plodded along soberly, perhaps reflecting on the unreasonableness of a master who set off to market from a hard forenoon in the field, without dinner.

Dora sat, obstinately stopping her ears, and watched the long mile slip by, then another, and he showed no sign of relenting. Once he turned, saying politely: "I'm afraid the sun is making it rather uncomfortable for you. I am sorry I have no umbrella."

Though she did not hear, of course she scowled an answer.

They made several turns, and she noted, hopefully, that they seemed to be going in the direction of the farm. He was giving it up? Not so! To her consternation, they finally came out in the broad road, headed for the village.

"You're just scotching me," she complained.

"Well, you've scotched me often enough," he growled.

Being so near the noon hour they had seen few people, but now, down the road a crowded wagonette whirled toward them, the tennis party from the village. She jerked her bonnet over her face and tumbled flat on the hay, moaning:

"Oh, I wouldn't have them see me for a million dollars!"

When they had passed, with gay banter at him for deserting them, she straightened up with blazing cheeks and the fire of battle in her eyes.

"It's the silliest, the most ridiculous thing I ever heard of! And you're the meanest, meanest man alive! I should think you'd hate yourself to death!"

"I don't aspire to great wisdom or perfection," he returned, serenely, driving on.

"You know how I've looked forward to this afternoon, and what plans we've made for it!"

"If you hadn't systematically disarranged so many of my plans I might be more considerate of yours."

"It's contemptible, your trapping me like this!"

"You came voluntarily. I've a right to market my hay when I please."

"You don't mean—" But they were entering the village, and she crouched down again out of sight. He did not stop, and when they had left the last house behind, she began, piteously:

"I was never so hungry in my life! I'm positively faint!"

"You'll know how to sympathize with the poor, then," he suggested.

"You don't care how much you make me suffer, and you profess to—" She broke off in some confusion, conscious that she was too near the brink.

"Yes, I profess to love you," he finished for her. "I've never tried to hide it—and I suppose, after all, there is little need of words. I ought to have understood without having it said. You've shown me plain enough that it is useless, and yet—" he halted, meditatively. Some intuition within him declared that she was not so indifferent as she had assumed to be.

"No," he continued, "I will have it in words! Dora, you know I love you devotedly, with all my heart; will you be my wife?" He turned to her with a deep tenderness in his face and shining in his serious eyes.

"Cousins can't marry," she evaded.

"My stepmother's niece isn't a very close cousin," he commented. "But I ought to thank you," he went on, presently, with a rather wan smile. "You might have been more harsh in your refusal of me."

He turned the horses about, saying: "You will not be very late at the game." Then he turned his back in a stolid silence. If he suffered, she should not see it.

The minutes passed slowly as the horses jogged along the hot, dusty highway. The sun poured down its scorching rays. Nat sat at his post like a graven image, oblivious alike to the blazing heat and the presence of his pretty and unwilling passenger.

The silence was suddenly broken by a storm of sobs from Dora. He writhed anxiously, until he could bear it no longer, and burst out:

"Don't cry, Dora, darling! I'm a brute, a perfect beast! I don't know how to treat a girl, even when I love her so—you did right to refuse me!"

"But—but—I haven't refused—y—you! I—I said cousins couldn't marry—I didn't say—"

"Dora!" he spoke sternly. "You must not play with me any longer, I can't bear it."

"I'm not playing now. But if you—you don't want to understand—or if you—you think I'm going to say 'Yes' any pl—plain—"

She sobbed the rest on his shoulder.—Housekeeper.

SENTENCE OF JAM THIEF.

Small Pilferer of Sweets Is Ordered by Ship's Captain to Eat All
She Wants.

Capt. Kreech, of the Hamburg-American line's steamship Graf Waldersee, was called upon during the trip to pass sentence upon a thief who was caught stealing aboard the vessel. His manner of conducting the case and his judgment were commended by all the passengers, reports the New York Times.

Several steerage passengers on the earlier days of the trip frequently missed food and sweetmeats which they had taken aboard and nothing was known of the culprit until one day a woman, going to her bunk, found a little flaxen-haired girl busily engaged in emptying a pot of jam which had been concealed there. The little one had the jam plastered all over her face and hands, and in that condition the woman who discovered her led her to the chief steward. He in turn took her before the captain on the bridge.

Many of the passengers, seeing the little girl being dragged crying before the captain, gathered about to learn the cause of the trouble. Captain Kreech, who, on his ship, like all other captains, is judge, jury and court of appeals, listened to the charge with a stern look. Besides learning that the little girl had taken the jam he also learned that her father and mother were poor and could not provide any sweetmeats for her. When the case had been presented Captain Kreech thought over the evidence for a time and as the girl was caught with the evidence all over her face and hands he pronounced her guilty.

"This is a very serious case," he said, "and must be dealt with accordingly. The penalty for the first offense is imprisonment. For the second it is spanking and for the third it is hanging or exclusion from America. But the facts in this case are such that I shall have to be more severe. I, therefore, sentence you to eat the best jam this ship can produce every time you feel like it. The jam will be supplied by the steward."

The little girl could not understand the meaning of the talk, but when the steward brought forth a big pot of jam as ordered she gave the captain a pretty little smile and marched off with it. From that time on her face was never clean.

Birds and Mammals.

Why do birds live so much longer than mammals, which are often a hundred times their size? Possibly, among other things, because they have beaks instead of teeth. All the felidae become weak and liable to starvation as their teeth drop out or break. Neither are the herbivorous animals in much better case. On some of the fells the fell ponies have to be killed when advanced in years because their teeth are worn away by cropping grass so close to the rock. Rodents constantly die from injuries to the teeth. But a bird's beak neither wears out nor drops off, and as it constantly swallows fresh grit to aid in grinding food in the gizzard that needs no repairing, either.—Country Life.

Cut Down the Loss.

"Were you out at the races every day, Sputter?"
"No, the day it rained I stayed at home and wasn't out a cent."—Detroit Free Press.
