KILLED AT MINES

Falling Tub at Noe Mines Strikes Allen King, Breaking His Neck.

A LAMENTABLE ACCIDENT.

Saturday morning about 10 o'clock a most serious accident occurred at the Noe mines about 8 miles west of here near Sheridan in this county which resulted in the death of Allen King, age 19, and a bruised arm for Bob Jones. Both were miners and engaged in underground work in the shaft at the Noe mines, which is about 60 feet deep. At these mines we understand the old fashion horse whim is used for hoisting the tubs or buckets of ore and other material from the shaft. Two tubs were in use and as one tub ascended the other descended, the tubs being hooked to the hoisting ropes by means of a patent hook called a safety hook. When the tubs are in transit it is impossible for the tubs to become unhooked and a tub never falls unless the rope or hook breaks, or unless for carelessness on the part of the miner in properly hooking when at the bottom of the shaft or careless handling at the top.

Bob Jones, who had been out of the shaft had just descended and as he went down on one tub, the other tub, which, it is reported, was empty, had ascended to the top and had no sooner reached there than for some reason unknown to us, it became unhooked and fell with terrific force, striking King, crushing his head and killing him almost instantly. It was also found that his neck and thigh were broken and crushed and his body bruised severely. Jones, who almost miraculously escaped with only a bruised arm, removed the heavy iron tub from King's body just in time to see the body quiver for the last time.

Allen King was the son of Bob King who resides near Sheridan. He leaves a father, mother, brothers and sisters to mourn his untimely death.

This is the second death that has occurred in this mining district within the last five years, a Mr. Paris having been killed at the Memphis mines a few years ago. The nature of the mining here is such that with due precaution on the part of the employer and employee there is no need of any one getting injured at the mines and it is to be hoped that this incident will bring about better precaution on the part of the parties concerned and it would be well for the dependent families of the employers to be protracted by liability insurance.

THE BARACA GRIP

Awaits You Next Sunday in the Young Mens' Baraca Bible Class.

The Baraca Society will meet at the Knights of Pythias' hall in Marion, Ky., at 3:00 o'clock p. m. next Sunday. The baraca hand points the way, but when you reach there, many baraca hands will greet you, and a man behind every hand.

Married at Kuttawa.

At the bride's home in Kuttawa Wednesday morning at 7:30 o'clock, Rev. J. W. Oliver officiating, David Adams, of Smithland, and Mrs. Ella Green were united in marriage in the presence of a few immediate friends. The couple left immediately for Smithland. Mr. Adams is a prominent Livingston county farmer and Vice-President of the Livingston county bank.

KEPT A SECRET

Was the Marriage of W. L. Adams and Miss Stovall.

Miss Dora B. Stovall and W. L. Adams, of Crayneville, were married at Belleville, Ill. October 12th, Rev. Wm. Gardner, a Presbyterian minister of that place officiating. On Tuesday, October 11th, Misses Mabel Minner and Dora Stovall and W. L. Adams bought tickets here for St. Louis ostensibly to attend the World's Fair. That Miss Stovall and Mr. Adams were anything more than acquaintances was never thought. The trio arrived in St. Louis Tuesday afternoon and Wednesday took a street car line for Belleville where the marriage ceremony was performed, after which they returned to St. Louis and enjoyed the Fair together with the other people who left here about the same time but no one except Miss Minner knowing of the marriage.

After the party had seen all the sights at the Fair they returned home, Mr. Adams to his home and Miss Stovall (Mrs. Adams) to her home, nothing being hinted of the happy union. Matters remained this way until last Sunday afternoon when Mr. Adams went to the bride's home and took her to his home introducing her to his parents as his wife. Both bride and groom were born in this county and grew up together.

The bride is the attractive and accomplished daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Stovall and possessed the qualities that will make her a good wife.

The groom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Adams. He has always resided with and looked after the welfare of his parents. Besides being a farmer, he is a hustling insurance agent and also sells fertilizer to the farmers of his section, having built up a good trade.

A HORSE KILLED

A Loose Horse Was Killed Sunday Morning by Freight Train.

Sunday afternoon, Spurlin McCord secured a horse and buggy at Ordway Bros. and Guess' livery stable and drove to Crayneville to call on a young lady. He left the horse standing hitched to the buggy. After telling his girl good bye and returning to the place where he left the horse, he found both buggy and horse gone. He returned to Marion and reported the fact at the livery stable.

Monday morning, however, it was discovered that the first section of freight train No. 354 which passed through here at 1:10 a. m., had run into the driverless horse and buggy at the Illinois Central railroad crossing on the Crayneville road just south of the city. The buggy was demolished and the horse cut to pieces, parts of each being strewn from the crossing to the depot.

The loss to Ordway Bros. & Guess is about $185 and a claim of that amount is likely to be readily settled by the railroad company.

Arm Broken in Runaway.

Ramsey King, of Weston, while driving to Marion Saturday, happened to an accident that resulted in a broken arm. His horse became frightened and ran away and Mr. King's foot was hung in the buggy in attempting to jump out. John Marvel, who was also in the buggy, escaped uninjured. The accident occurred near Crooked Creek bridge.

WHICH DO YOU PREFER?

There is not a farmer in Crittenden county or Livingston county that does not know and realize that every sort of business that affects him directly or indirectly, stands on a better financial basis today than at any time during the administration of Grover Cleveland from March 1893 to March 1897. For almost eight years the whole country has prospered uninterruptedly. During this time the nation was involved in the war with Spain, but at the time there were no frightened capitalists, money flowed freely, factories were in operation, mills ran on full time, labor was in demand, good prices for products obtained everywhere and the price of manufactured articles remained the same. This, notwithstanding the fact that a slight mistake in the affairs of state, a breach in the army or navy might have involved other nations in the war which might have bankrupted this nation, yet the whole country knew that in the personage of Wm. McKinley and his advisers the matter was in "safe and sane" hands and that nothing of the sort would happen. In his second term Wm. McKinley died a martyr, beloved and mourned by the whole nation. All parties had learned to know the real McKinley and recognized the wisdom of the choice by the party that placed him at its head and elected him to office. His death was a heavy blow to the nation but still there was no change in business and the confidence of the country sought to abide with Theodore Roosevelt, successor to Wm. McKinley. Roosevelt was known in the east and the west, and those who knew him not, looked upon him as the man of the hour, knowing full well that had it not been for his ability and power, his integrity and personal worth, he would never have been chosen by the party of McKinley to fill a position on which might and did rest the safety of the nation.

Again, the time has come for the American people to choose a man to be president. The question to be decided by every voter in helping to make that choice is this:

Do I prefer Roosevelt on his record and what he has done insuring prosperity to the country or do I prefer Parker and what he, as the head of a certain party promises to do, which party has not itself placed a single law on the federal statute books that benefits the farmer?

Again, would I prefer Roosevelt to Cleveland? If I take Parker I would practically take Cleveland. Parker represents everything for which Cleveland stood and for which he stands today. Cleveland is behind Parker and Parker is the champion of the Cleveland wing of Democracy.

BURNED TO DEATH

Clothing Catch on Fire and Child Dies in a Few Hours.

Friday morning the little 21 months old child of Bob Dollins, of near Tribune, was burned to death. Baby Ruth, as she was known, was playing out in the yard where there happened to be some fire and her clothes were caught and the flames soon covered the body. The screams from the child brought the mother to its rescue, but, too late, the body already being badly burned. She lived only a few hours. The burial took place at Sugar Grove cemetery Saturday afternoon, the services being conducted by Rev. W. T. Oakley.

HIGH IN THE AIR

Was the Poet Laureate of Crittenden County Thrown at the Fair.

R. C. Haynes, local editor of the Press and poet-laureate of this county, while attending the World's Fair last week attempted to alight from a moving street car. He came into sudden and unexpected communication with the pavement, suffering injuries, while not serious, yet they prevented him from attending the fair further. He was accompanied by Messrs. Chas. Clement and Albert Elder, of this county. They returned with Mr. Haynes Saturday and he was taken immediately to his room where Dr. Driskill examined his injuries.

River Low at Smithland.

The Ohio river is so low now that the shovel-bill cat fish have to shovel channels through the sand bars for themselves and other fishes to go up and down the river.—Livingston Banner.

J. C. SPEIGHT

Spoke Here Saturday to a House Full of Voters.

Saturday Hon. J. C. Speight spoke here to a court house full of Crittenden county voters. Mr. Speight spoke for nearly two hours and his speech was well received and applauded by his audience. Mr. Speight covered all the ground. He expressed his regret that he was unable to get his opponent, Hon. Ollie M. James, of this city, to make a list of appointments with him for debate. Mr. Speight said that by chance he had learned of a few of the appointments of Mr. James, after asking him for them and not getting them, and had gone to such places and obtained a division of time. He said that his opponent was much concerned about negro domination and presented the great claims of the Democratic party in behalf of the common people. He said he had repeatedly asked his opponent to point out on the federal statutes a single law for the benefit of the farmer that was placed there by Democrats in Congress, and he could not do so. He said that James' position regarding the farmers and the tobacco trusts was like a farce comedy and left the impression that his position was of the Dr. Jekyll and Hyde sort. He said that on this end of the line Mr. James was for the farmer and Alton B. Parker, on the other end he said on the authority of Mr. Stealey closely associated with the Democratic Campaign Committee, it was given out that the tobacco trust was contributing to the Parker campaign fund. On this subject in a private conversation Mr. Speight said the way in which Mr. James sought a denial of this fact through Taggart, was like trying to make a baby laugh. He said if the matter was to be denied, the man who should do so is the man who is quoted all over the United States as having given it out. If Ollie James and the tobacco trust are both for Parker and all three should be elected, what would the result be when Congress convened?

REV. JAS. M. SCOTT

Venerable Methodist Minister Passes Away at Fulton.

Death has claimed Rev. James M. Scott, the venerable minister of Fulton. His remains were taken to Ripley, Tenn. for burial.

Mortgage Lifter.

County Court Clerk C. E. Weldon, Monday, left an ear of yellow corn at the Record office which grew on his farm near Tolu and which measures 14 1-2 inches in length, weighs 2 pounds and has 1200 fully developed grains on it. The ear is labeled "A Mortgage Lifter" and Mr. Weldon says the best part of it is that many others are to be found on the place. He says the corn crop in that section will prove unusually good this season.

Daughtrey—Wilborn.

Thursday night at 7 o'clock at the home of the bride at Ford's Ferry, Jas. Daughtrey, of that section of the county, and Miss Minta Wilborn were happily united in marriage, Rev. J. R. McAfee, of this place, performing the ceremony in the presence of a few immediate friends of the bride and groom.

After congratulations were received the couple drove to the cozy little home which the groom had fitted up on his farm on the river.

The groom is the son of Lou's Daughtrey who resides near Hebron. He is a hustling young farmer, comes of a prominent family, stands high in his community and is well known and liked throughout the county.

The bride is the attractive and highly accomplished daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. B. Wilborn, of Ford's Ferry.

Mrs. Jennings Dead.

Mrs. J. R. Jennings, after being confined to her bed several months at her home two miles west of Marion, died Monday night as the result of paralysis, being about 79 years of age. She was a native of Connecticut and resided in Henderson and Union counties before coming to this county with her husband, J. R. Jennings, many years ago.

They were married about 50 years ago and he preceded her to the "great beyond" several years ago. Their union was blessed by ten children eight of whom are living; Walter, who resides in Texas; William, of Arkansas; Frank, of Hampton, Charley, John and Miss Hele, who resided with their mother, Mrs. J. M. Catlin, of Illinois, and Mrs. S. N. Henry, of this city.

Mrs. Jennings was a member of the Cumberland Presbyterian church, and her funeral was conducted by Rev. Jas. E. Price, of this city. The body was laid to rest Tuesday afternoon in the new cemetery at this place.

Party of Three Enjoy Western Trip.

About the 20th of August, Dan Riley, of this county, left for a tour of the west. He went to Selden, Kan., from there to Calhan, Col., where he was joined by H. A. Brown, formerly of this county, who left here about two years ago. They proceeded to Ramah, Col. where they met up with Edgar Howard who left here about six months ago. Here the three fixed up a hunting and camping outfit and spent 10 days on the prairies covering about 250 miles. Returning to Ramah they went to Cripple Creek, Colorado Springs, Kansas City, and St. Louis, spending a few days at the fair, arriving here Tuesday night. They left immediately for the View neighborhood. Mr. Riley says he is well pleased with his trip.

Messrs. Brown and Howard will spend a short time here visiting relatives and friends, after which they will return to Colorado. Mr. Riley contemplates selling out and moving out there.

ON THE PLAINS OF MALVERN HILL

(By W. Gracy Montgomery.)

Across yonder plains on Malvern Hill

Lie heroes, patriots and sages,

Each with life so mute and heart so still

Slumbering with the passing ages.

From the brink to the very spiral crest

Creeps the wild rose vine in its splendor;

While tawny shrubs mark the quiet rest

Of the brave and dauntless defender.

With crest-fallen thought of infirmity,

From every glen and hermitage spread,

Heedless of endless eternity

They wait like birds that feast on the dead.

With indignant curses on their tongue

And Spartan blood within their breasts,

Over obstacles grenades were flung

To send puny mortals to their rest.

Though generations may wax and wane

By the vile hands of unholy toil;

Yet when tyrants shall attempt to reign

Our blood shall flow deep on mother soil.

Let worlds be stilled by Jehovah's Hand

Amid waters that lisp and rebound,

For life is a bubble that plays on the sand

Only to burst so soon as it is found.

Buried in the trenches crowned with dismay

Lie the blue with sacred souls contrite,

While the cannon of relentless gray

Are melting into the sombrous night.

Through reek of battle they bend and reel

As they think of ones at home so dear,

While the work of cadaverous steel

Leaves for the lover only a tear.

Before the dawn of the dusky eve

Hundreds upon the battle field lay,

Breathing their hopes with a gasp and heave,

Passing in ag'ny their lives away.

Falling helmets and banners askew,

It was surely Beelzebub's day;

Bombshells and javelins smote the blue;

The wavering wand of Time, the gray.

Many lives are imbued with pain

And impressions received that day

While others by the poniard were slain

Or silenced by stratotic play.

Many now sleep under mouldering dew

Who met on that eventful day;

Those who vied to honor the blue

And accept the challenge of the gray.

When the gates shall open for the few

On that great and final Judgment Day,

In shall go the heroes tinged with blue,

In, the heroes with laurels of gray.

Let pomp of war and the glorious day

Be banished from the minds of the true;

Mercifully, with roses shroud the gray;

Tenderly, with laurels deck the blue.

COUNTY ASSESSORS

Are Not Entitled to Commission on Exempt Property.

Frankfort, Ky., Oct. 22.—In affirming a judgment of the Menifee circuit court in a case of F. M. Powers against J. F. Osborn the court of appeals holds that county assessors are not entitled to receive commissions on the valuation placed on personal property exempted by law to persons with families, it being merely ascertained for statistical purposes, and only taxable property being required to be assessed. The court says that, while the assessor is required to ascertain facts for statistical purposes outside of his duties as assessor, there is no provision of law for paying him for doing so.

Why Does Parker Object?

The Democratic Presidential candidate says, in substance, that President Roosevelt advocates violent methods of diplomacy; that is, he has departed from the old style, believes in a straightforward expression of exactly what the attitude of this nation is, and does not hesitate to say that this nation is quite prepared to take care of itself.

Well, what would you have? Are we not a great nation, practically covering with our Canadian brothers, a great continent and quite prepared, not merely to suggest, but to assist in the affairs of the world? And is it not a duty?

Why does ex-Judge Parker, David Bennett Hill's ex-political manager, object to this?

A Love Letter.

Be-less Charge.

The charge that Mr. Roosevelt is "an unsafe man" is disproved by history. He was governor of New York for a full term and has been President for three years. These are the two highest executive posts in the nation. In neither of them did he ever do an executive act that has turned out disastrously for the country. Where does the unsafeness come in?

The pretended alarm of Democrats on this score is really a great compliment to Mr. Roosevelt. It is equivalent to saying that he is an energetic President. We Americans are an energetic people, accustomed to doing things instead of sitting down and dreaming about them, and why should not we have that kind of a President? Mr. Roosevelt's energy is of the healthy American kind, and it has had a wholesome effect upon our own people and in other countries. A President who has spent his life doing things is greatly preferable to one who has spent his life writing judicial opinions.

ALWAYS YOUR MONEY'S WORTH.

WILL HAVE THEIR WAY

The Plain People and Their Candidate for President.

It is about time that the plain people had their say; the farmers, mechanics, railroad men, storekeepers, sailors, teamsters and general workers all along the line of American industrial life.

These men are tired of the ceaseless adulation given to the fortunate few; tired of the neglect in which the fortunate many are left. The fortunate few are the accumulators of vast wealth and corresponding houses, lands and the appearance of ease. The fortunate many are the workers who live in comfort, but do not have race horses, yachts or automobiles to kill time, yet these last named fortunate men want to be heard in the councils of the nation. They are determined to have a President who respects and cares for the plain people, one who has declared and who has lived up to the declaration that "EACH MAN, NO MATTER WHAT HIS OCCUPATION, HIS RACE OR HIS RELIGIOUS BELIEF, IS ENTITLED TO BE TREATED ON HIS WORTH AS A MAN, IN ANY AND ALL PLACES, UNDER ANY AND ALL CONSIDERATIONS."

That is the kind of Democracy which is real—not a name merely. It is the Democracy of the first citizen of the United States, a man born into the Republican party, a consistent Republican all his life and one who puts to shame the injustice and inhumanity of the party which calls itself "Democratic." This man of common sense, justice and Christian brotherhood is Theodore Roosevelt, our President now, and our President to be until 1908.

The plain people will have a chance to speak out loudly early next November. And they will give no uncertain sound when their play comes. They will elect their man by such a majority as will astonish the world.

City Ordinance.

The City Council of the City of Marion, Kentucky, do ordain as follows:

That a sidewalk be built on the east side of Cherry street, abutting on the lots of R. C. Lucas, J. W. Gore, William Fowler, King Travis, John Paris, Jim Rankin, S. H. Ramage and S. H. Cassidy, said walk to commence at the south end (or side) of said lots and extend north as far as said lots extend. Said walk to be 3 feet wide, the pavement to be made of plank, two inches thick, and laid on 4x4 pieces, and the whole to be done in a good and workmanlike manner. Said walk to be built within thirty days from the passage of this ordinance.

Passed and approved this, the 18th day of October, 1904.

Base Ball.

Saturday evening, October 15th, the Tolu-Elizabethtown boys crossed bats with the Levias boys, resulting in a defeat for Tolu-Elizabethtown of 26 to 7.

On Saturday, two weeks before, the Levias boys were challenged by the Tolu team to play at the Tolu grounds which the Levias boys accepted. The game stood 23 to 22 in favor of Tolu, the regular pitcher for Levias being absent.

The game was called at 2 p. m., under some fear of a defeat for the Levias boys, as Tolu came up with four new men having the appearance of men who were out of Boston league and on investigation they were found to be imported from Elizabethtown, Ill., and dreading the Levias team so, they even brought a "coon" to catch, though they failed to use him as was discovered.

Never were boys treated more kindly and with more hospitality than the said Tolu boys were treated, but notwithstanding the courtesy that was shown them, they acted all but fair toward the Levias boys as they had to import half their team to play a team of little country kids. We are surprised at the lack of nerve they showed all the way through but it was characteristic of them else they would have meant to play a fair game.

We want one more game and can play the "imports" if the Tolu boys fear us as it has been shown.

Temme and Wright are good batters but they failed to hit Dye.

We are sorry for the ladies who came from Tolu to see the walk-over for Tolu but it can't be helped as they failed to encourage the Tolu boys to import enough players. Next time, get Elizabethtown's whole team, then you won't be left so badly.

REPUBLICAN NATIONAL TICKET.

FOR PRESIDENT
THEODORE ROOSEVELT
OF New York.

FOR VICE PRESIDENT
CHARLES W. FAIRBANKS
OF Indiana.

The man who does no more than he is paid for never gets paid for more than he does.

And Parker thinks the army and navy are too expensive. But nothing can frighten those national defenders.

West Virginia may turn out to be the little joker of the campaign. Wait and see who plays her in November.

It is freely predicted by those who ought to know that Ulster county, New York, Judge Parker's home county, will give Roosevelt a good majority.

There will be a ballot-box famine in the middle west unless the election officials provide a good stock of new ones to hold the first voters' ballots for Roosevelt.

Everybody cheerful. Everybody busy. Business booming. Crops selling for big prices. The nation at peace, and on good terms with the whole world. WHAT'S THE MATTER?

If the American people really want a change from the present conditions to those which prevailed before McKinley's election in 1896, they know how to get it. Every vote for the Democratic party is a vote for such a change.

The election next month will indeed turn upon the trustworthiness of the respective parties, and Republicans bide the result with the confidence born of a stewardship faithfully, courageously and successfully administered.

If there is a citizen of the United States anywhere who has too much business and too much employment and longs for the stagnation that prevailed from 1893 to 1896, he can contribute to that end by voting the Democratic ticket this year.

The Railway Employees' Twentieth Century Club, of Illinois, is up-to-date. It adopted a resolution indorsing President Roosevelt and denouncing the Democratic national platform as "devoid of sincerity." It's hard to fool a good railroad man.

A vote for Judge Parker in the coming election will be a vote of censure on Theodore Roosevelt. It is inconceivable how any patriotic, fair-minded American can take that position toward a man of President Roosevelt's character and record.

Likewise, Parker has heard something about illegal and dishonest trusts, but he doesn't know that there is anything to be done about them. And nobody cares about his ideas on that question. He'll never set any river afire in his indignation over the trusts; not even a river of petroleum would be ignited by such a match!

Democratic legislation has never erected a factory, or given a workman a job or increased his wages. On the contrary, it has put out factory fires that Republican legislation had lighted; it has closed mills that Republican legislation had opened, and it has taken jobs from thousands of workmen to whom Republican legislation had given employment. No American workman owes anything to the Democratic party.

Parker declares that the American nation is extravagant in its expenditures. But the people know what they want, and they mean to have it. They are working hard to earn more money; that's the way they meet necessary bills.

Grover Cleveland originated the phrase: "It is a condition that confronts us, not a theory." Applying it to the present situation it may be remarked that the condition is Republican prosperity and the theory consists of Democratic promises.

The question as to where Judge Parker would apply the pruning knife to national expenditures, whether in the post office department, the army, the navy or on pensions—has not been answered, and won't be, because national honor, safety and mail facilities are dependent on the appropriations for these purposes.

Since 1896, the last year of Democratic administration in national affairs, the rate of interest on farm mortgages has fallen from eight per cent to six. This reduction in the rate of interest means a great deal to farmers who borrow money to buy more land or to make improvements, and it is due to Republican prosperity.

After an exhaustive review of the situation in the Hoosier state, Walter Wellman, the staff correspondent of the Record-Herald, says: "With the Republican ranks virtually solid, with the Democracy bound to lose a few thousands of the Bryanites, with nothing present in the public mind to lead to an upheaval, and with Indiana a Republican state to start with, one does not need to be a seventh son to foresee the result." And he estimates the Republican plurality at "somewhere between 15,000 and 20,000."

"SWING LOW."

"Swing Low, Sweet Chariot." Swing low over New York, New Jersey and Rhode Island. We know you will swing low enough to brush the clover blossoms, but we want to remind you that it is your business—for the good of the world—that you swing low enough to insure a Republican success in the states just named; "Swing Low, Sweet Chariot!" And we know you will swing!

HOW TO CAST YOUR VOTE.

Below we publish the names of the Republican electors for the state of Kentucky which will appear in the column on the official ballot under the log cabin. This is where every voter in Kentucky should cast his vote, who appreciates the wonderful prosperity the country has enjoyed these last eight years. What a contrast between Cleveland-Parkinson and McKinley-Rooseveltism. Cleveland is for Parker and Parker is for Cleveland's ideas. An attempt to discount the difference between the Cleveland administration and the McKinley-Roosevelt administrations is useless.

The farmers of Crittenden county and all other counties remember the hard times when Cleveland sat in the chair.

Speaker Cannon, the other night in Chicago passed one up to Alton Brooks Parker in a way that delighted his audience immensely. Here it is:

"Parker's past political record reminds me of two acquaintances of mine down in Danville who went asking for employment. The man to whom they applied asked the first one what his qualifications were, and he replied:

"For fifty years through all the months I have been an industrious, sober man, and always performed my duties as a citizen to the satisfaction of conscience and have commanded by all my actions the respect and honor of my neighbors and townspeople."

"What are your qualifications?" the second man was asked, and he replied:

"In all my former life I've been a drinking man. I have turned night into day. When called upon to perform my duties as a citizen I always was found on the wrong side from this other man."

"Then what reason can you give why I should send away this man and employ you?" asked the questioner.

"Because," was the reply, "in the last thirty days I went up to Dwight and took the gold cure."

Parker took the gold cure all right despite the efforts of the radicals headed by Bryan.

HARD TO SMOKE

A Man of the Hour—or the Cleveland House Again?

Following are some extracts taken from the great speech delivered by Uncle Joe Cannon the other night, before the Marquette Club, of Chicago:

o o o

If I had the power of Deity, or you had the power of Deity, collectively or individually, and were to turn the hand backward on the dial of time, you would not perform any official act differently from what Theodore Roosevelt has performed.

o o o

There was a deficit of $72,000,000 under Cleveland, but he borrowed the money at 4 per cent interest to pay housekeeping expenses. And, oh, Lord! What a house he did keep! Great heaven! What cheek! What gall! to talk about extravagance.

o o o

Coming from the club here to-night I met nineteen policemen. I can now count six in this hall, under the administration of Carter H. Harrison. Yet I have journeyed for thirty days, over Indiana, Iowa, Kansas, Wisconsin and other states and back this far in Illinois, and had both my eyes wide open all the time, and I haven't seen one blessed, confounded or infernal soldier.

o o o

They rail about the size of the army. Why, it was more than 100,000 strong, and this man on horseback, this strenuous man, this Caesar, this imperialist, who devotes his waking and dreaming hours to devising means for destroying the liberties of Henry Watterson, of Louisville, reduced it to 50,000—one soldier for every 2,000 men, counting in the Porto Ricans, the Sandwich Islanders, the Filipinos and all the rest.

OLD METHOD OF VOTING

Constitutional Amendment to be Voted Upon by the Voters of Kentucky

AT THE NOVEMBER ELECTION

At the election two weeks from next Tuesday the voters of Kentucky will vote upon an amendment to the constitution which has for its object the abolishment of the ballot and to return to the obsolete method of viva voce voting. The Democratic politicians in presenting this amendment would have Kentucky to go backward and not forward, and to be the only state in the union that discards the ballot. This amendment is not proposed for the good of the state, but for the benefit of scheming and unscrupulous politicians who live off of the taxpayers of the state. With viva voce voting the machine can bulldoze, intimidate and in numerous ways force many a voter to aid them in making the machine victorious.

The amendment should be defeated, for the reason that every man has a right to vote as he pleases and no other man has the right to know how he votes. When and where does anyone acquire the right to know how another votes? Whose business is it how a man votes? In America every man stands equal, and the self constituted bosses who demand to know how any free American citizen votes should first show his right to pry into a fellow citizen's own private affairs. So far as we are concerned, we vote as we please and will continue to do so in the future, without regard as to whom it pleases or displeases.

With the open ballot the merchant who votes against the local gang that may be in power will be boycotted and denounced by the heelers on street corners. The employee of unscrupulous employers who are interested in politics will lose their jobs and be hounded by the gang.

The very fact that an impudent politician might criticize a man's vote is liable to lead to a difficulty and perhaps a killing.

The people of Kentucky have put up with enough from the political cut-throats of the state and it is the duty of every good citizen to be sure to vote against the amendment when he goes to the polls in November.

The Australian ballot was a great stride towards purity in elections, for under the viva voce system the man with the money could buy votes and see them delivered, but under the ballot he cannot do any buying and have evidence of the delivery. The open voting is but a move to protect the election briber. The workmen of this city should see to it that they vote against the amendment. Under the ballot system no employer pays any attention to how his men vote, but under the open voting the politicians will expect him to take an interest in the matter or be boycotted.—Paducah Register.

DUVALL--We are authorized to announce Alonzo J. Duvall a candidate for the office of Sheriff of Crittenden county, subject to the action of the Republican party. Election 1905.

INSINUATION AND OMISSION.

The Press in an editorial in its last week's issue states:

"Should the Democrats elect a House this autumn, its duty will be to investigate the rottenness of the departments and along with it, might well be instituted an investigation of some of Chairman Cortelyou's fat-frying operations with the trusts and other corporations."

First, the Press intimates that there is "rottenness" in the various departments of the government.

Second, when the Press says "Cortelyou's" it means "Cortelyou's." It intimates that Cortelyou, Chairman of the Republican Campaign Committee, while he filled the office of Secretary of Commerce, secured certain knowledge of the corrupt manner in which trusts operate, the information from the public, he is now using it as a prize with which to secure from them campaign contributions. Then it stated that "some" of Cortelyou's operations on this line should be investigated. Now we have heard that the great American tobacco trust has contributed to the Parker campaign fund. In case of an investigation, Cortelyou would have to testify as to what he knew of the operations of trusts and naturally, if he knew anything detrimental to the tobacco trust he would be expected to tell it. So, possibly the Press uses "some" since it might not be wished for him to consider the tobacco trust.

We would have our readers know that the Cortelyou matter is a simple insinuation calculated to injure the cause of Roosevelt, and it is not based upon a word of truth.

Also, when the Press speaks of rottenness in departments in a way meant to injure the opposition they should not withhold from their readers the fact that Theodore Roosevelt in his whole public career and not least of all as President of the United States, has done more to drive corruption from places of public trust than all the Democratic "Houses" that ever sat in Washington. As Police Commissioner, he cleaned up New York City, and it won him the governorship of the State, and as governor, his record won for him the second place on the McKinley ballot which was crowned with victory and from which he ascended to the Presidency. His record in the President's chair called forth the endorsement of his party and we doubt not that it will win for him the highest office in the gift of the American people. Besides, this as the head of the Civil Service Commission, a government institution that has for its purpose the recognition of worth before politics in many appointive places in the machinery of the United States government, he proved himself its greatest champion. And in addition to all this, President Roosevelt has cleaned up the corruption in the postoffice department and weeded it out thoroughly. Now, with such a man as President, is there any particular need to elect a Democratic House to investigate rottenness?

No, the truth is that the Press in its failure to tell the whole truth, and by its insinuations, is maintaining the record it has had for the last 25 years. Possibly, simply because there has been no organ of the opposition here to point out its insinuations and omissions.

THE RECORD LEADS.

If The Press, our distinguished contemporary, continues to follow in the way marked out by THE RECORD, it will surely be a better paper in the future than it was six months ago, or rather, we might say, before the publication of THE RECORD was begun. Following, did we say?—Yes, following—The Press has, at last, made an effort to give its readers the market reports, but not until we had been doing so for some time, and now it comes forward with the report, attempting to offset in part the popularity THE RECORD is gaining among the country people. This feature of THE RECORD has won for us much approbation. That we are penning these lines is because we are jealous of our own ideas, but alas! the imitators are not all dead. However, we console ourselves in so much that while the Press follows it will not lead, and its following will increase the popularity of THE RECORD, which leads and points out the way. That our country people might have read and continued reading THE PRESS for years without obtaining through it the market reports, had it not been for our advent, is a fact that will be appreciated. That while both papers will be received at the same time and that our reports and news will be always twenty-four hours later is also another fact that will be appreciated by the majority of our patrons—farmers—who, after working through the week, will call Friday afternoons or Saturdays for their mail at their respective offices. We would suggest that THE PRESS might go one or two points further and imitate our Sunday school lesson, and local pastors' church, court and county officials' directory columns, etc. However, it is fair to say that the children's corner is original with THE PRESS.

The citizens of Madisonville and Princeton will vote on the question of water-works November 8th. The citizens of Marion will also vote on the same question—when?

Before he was boomed by the Wall street interests of New York for the nomination for President, we never heard of Alton B. Parker, (nor will we any more after November 8th) and had the vote been taken at the time of his nomination he would have received more votes than he would now. It seems that Parker fails to grow any stronger and naturally grows weaker because Roosevelt grows stronger.

"Everlasting oblivion is better than assisting Roosevelt's election." —Wm. J. Bryan.

If Mr. Bryan thought he was destined to oblivion it would kill him. Since "out of the abundance of the heart the mouth speaketh," the utterance stands out as the exponent of a belittled character and justifies us in saying that Mr. Bryan would vote for Roosevelt or possibly anything before he would suffer oblivion's shroud to fall over him.

Joins the Army.

It has just lately been learned that Eugene Guess, son of J. W. Guess, of Tolu, lately deceased, has joined the United States army at Ft. Riley, Kansas. It will be remembered that at the time of his father's death, repeated attempts to locate him in the west resulted in failures. Nothing was known of his whereabouts until a friend of his at Tolu received a letter from him last week.

MRS. ANNA HAYNES

A Most Estimable and Christian Lady Passes Into the Great Beyond.

Mrs. Anna Chastain Haynes, wife of the late Robert Fulton Haynes, passed away at the residence of her son, Harry A. Haynes, in this city at 9 o'clock a. m., October 26th, 1904.

Mrs. Haynes was one of the old settlers and will be remembered by most of the older residents of this county.

She was born September 8th, 1833, at Saltville, Va. Her father moved to Clay county, this state, when she was 8 years old. From there she was sent back to Abingdon, Va., and received her education at that place.

In February 1854 she was married and moved to Marion, Ky., where she lived until January 28th, 1883 when she moved to Florida. She joined the Methodist church at that time in Florida which membership she retained until her death.

Her husband, R. F. Haynes, Sr., was a lawyer and at one time was County Attorney for this county. He died Oct. 19th, 1896, and was buried in the new cemetery here.

A full history of Miss Anna Chastain would read like a work from the pen of a Hugo. She was a French Huguenot. Both her father and her mother were French Huguenots and her great grandfather was an exile from France at the time of the persecution of the Huguenots. There is only one living member of the Chastain family—a missionary in Mexico.

Mrs. Haynes leaves quite a family of children. Harry A. Haynes, who was for over 20 years Circuit Clerk of this county. R. F. Haynes, a business man and at present, druggist in Marion. Duke Haynes and Sep Haynes, both of DeLand, Florida, and Zan Haynes, of Florida and Michigan. There is only one sister and daughter, Mrs. Mamie Gordon, of Florida.

Mrs. Gordon and Mr. Sep Haynes were not at their mother's bedside on account of sickness.

And so one by one the landmarks of Crittenden leave us. Another good woman has gone, but she leaves a rich heritage in a family of children who bear an honored name. Her remains were followed to the cemetery by quite a concourse of people.

The funeral services were very simple and conducted at the house by Rev. McAfee, assisted by Rev. J. F. Price. The floral offerings were very profuse and beautiful.

And now peace to her ashes. May all her children strive to emulate her example and walk the path she trod so long.

Mrs. Geo. Phillips, of Livingston county, enroute home after visiting relatives at Hopkinsville, registered the New Marion Tuesday.

Young School Teacher is Attacked by an Enraged Father.

Carl Buchanan, a school teacher of Union county, who has relatives and friends in this city, and who is a young man of sterling worth, deserving much credit for his hard efforts to amount to something in this life, was last week shot from ambush by the father of a girl he had whipped for bad conduct, and by direction of the trustees of the school, and while the girl's brother was engaged in personal combat with him. The son used a club and the father a gun. The shot took effect in Buchanan's jaw and a third more deadly might have followed had Buchanan not pleaded for his life. Jas. Fletcher, the man who did the shooting is a prominent farmer of Union county. Buchanan is a former student of the Marion Graded School. He will likely recover from his wounds.

REILLY REPLIES TO JEFFERSONIAN

Reasons Given Why Bryan Men Do
Not Support Parker.

To the Editor of the News:

Fort Wayne, Ind., Oct. 14, 1904.
I have read what "Jeffersonian" said in your paper of Oct. 12th, and while I had no idea that any friend of mine would reply to my interview. I find that as he took occasion to read me a lecture and ask me some pointed questions that a reply to him in your paper is the proper thing and therefore ask for space to answer him.

First, in reply to question No. 1 I will say that if the conventions, caucuses and committees had not been packed by the use of dishonorable methods, Parker and Davis would not be the leaders of the Democratic party. If fairness had been practiced in a number of districts in Indiana, the Indiana delegation would have gone to the St. Louis convention instructed for Hearst and methods of the Indiana kind were resorted to in other states to get Parker delegations. Dirty politics on the part of Tom Taggart is all that ever carried Indiana to the Parker column. As a volunteer supporter of Bryan in the campaign of 1896 and 1900 my services are over, as I am under no obligations to follow the traitors. No good American soldier would have considered it his duty to follow Benedict Arnold after his betrayal of the American cause to the English at West Point, and why should any of the privates who followed Bryan in two campaigns support a ticket that was put up by the Benedict Arnolds of the Democratic party, like Cleveland, Hill, Belmont and others, who stabbed us in the back and kept our beloved Bryan on the benches of the Platte and sent McKinley to the White House.

In reply to question No. 2 you say the Democratic platform "means what it says." That is the reason I will not vote for it, because it means nothing. I am like Pat in a boarding house when he was handed a plate of hash, he asked "what it was." The landlady told him "it was hash." He told her "the man that chewed that let him eat it," and that is like the Democratic platform. The man that likes that let him vote it.

"Jeffersonian" says protection and free trade is not the only issue and asks what is the matter with trusts, imperialism and organized labor. On trusts I will say that the Democratic platform does not mean what it says this year because the trusts are giving liberally to the Parker campaign fund and they know that their money is going where it will do them the most good, and I understand that the king of all trusts, John D. Rockefeller, is supporting Parker and he was against Bryan four and eight years ago. On imperialism it is a stand-off between Parker and Roosevelt as shown by Parker's letter of acceptance, and of the two I believe Roosevelt is the most favorable to a Republican form of government. On organized labor the Democratic party can show no better record than the Republican party and I challenge "Jeffersonian" to produce evidence to the contrary, besides I claim that protection is better for labor than free trade.

Then "Jeffersonian" says our beloved Bryan is delivering sledge-hammer blows for Parker as an evidence that the trusts are not with Parker. I wish I was in Roosevelt's place; I would not feel the sledge-hammer blows very hard, because Bryan is appealing to those supporters of his who were loyal when the gold Democrats deserted, and while all respect is due to Bryan, it is the duty of us all to let the gold Democrats vote in the ticket as we owe it no obligation.

Your statement that you want the party brought back to Bryan principles and for that reason you are going to vote for Parker is one of the greatest inconsistencies I can imagine. Why, don't you know that Parker was nominated to kill Bryan and Bryan principles, and that if Parker is elected the old gold Democrat element will eternally crow about how they won when they got the party back to Clevelandism? And with the gang of gold Democrats and mercenaries who will be appointed to office under Parker will so arrange to control the Democrats' organization that the principles of Bryan will be everlastingly placed beyond resurrection in the Democratic party? If you do not know it, I do, and I will not support a ticket made up by the element that disorganized us four and eight years ago, and now since they have reorganized the party, are patting us on the back in order to get us to vote for Parker and Davis. Respectfully, JAMES A. REILLY.

IN KANSAS.

Through "Kentucky Settlement" Our People Are Showing Their Mettle.

Blackford, Ky., Oct. 24, 1904.—
EDITOR RECORD:—We are at home again, after making a tour through the state of Kansas, and with the hope many good people who read the contents of THE CRITTENDEN RECORD may, with a certain degree of satisfaction, peruse these items, we shall endeavor to write something concerning the "Kentucky Settlement" in Phillips county, Kansas, Sheridan county, Kansas, Decatur county, Kansas, etc., but especially the south.

The "Kentucky Settlement" is in the northeastern part of Phillips county and is composed of ex-Kentuckians who were former citizens of Crittenden and Caldwell counties in Kentucky. The Kentuckians and their descendants are too numerous to remember the names of all of them, but the most familiar names are the following: Alexander, Blackburn, Brantley, Bugg, Cannon, Crider, Farmer, Fralick, Hillyard, Jacobs, McCain, McDowell, Morse, Paris, Thomason, Wilson, etc.

Among the many farmers of Phillips county, who have made it pay by attending strictly to business, are the following Kentuckians: F. B. Cannon, J. B. Moss, A. A. Hillyard, John Jacobs and various others. The worth of those distinguished former Kentuckians but now Kansans is estimated from ten to fifty thousand dollars.

Phillipsburg, the county seat of Phillips county, is centrally located on the Chicago, Rock Island and Pacific railroads, and the transportation facilities are hard to beat.

The important information that we gained and the pleasant time that we spent, by being intimately associated with A. A. Hillyard, J. G. McCain, F. B. Cannon and others, while in Phillips county, English words are inadequate to express.

When we made our advent into Sheridan county, we were met at Selden by W. D. (Bud) Brantley and Sherman and Woodall, two former Kentuckians whose courtesy, sociability and hospitality are unsurpassed. They soon equipped a conveyance—Brantley furnishing two horses and Woodall a surrey—we spent two days driving over the level country and seeing the farmers, towns, jack rabbits, prairie chickens, ground-squirrels, etc. While making this drive we saw the families of two or more former Kentuckians, T. H. Carter and J. A. Hillyard. We spent one night with Mr. Hillyard, partook of his hospitalities, talked about the country, and had a general good time. We also heard of other Kentuckians who reside in Sheridan county, whose names are Allen, Asbridge, Beckner, Clift, Morse, Towery and Wilson. The time we spent in Sheridan county was brief as well as pleasant, and what we said and the things we saw and did, and the jolly time we—Brantley, Woodall and the writer—had, time and space forbids us relating.

Decatur county is in the northern tier and the third from the west line of the state; it is thirty miles square, with rich, productive soil, pure water and a healthful atmosphere, choice lands, a live, go-ahead people, two railroads, three newspapers, two banks, good public school houses in which a term of from six to nine months school is taught annually and a high school at Oberlin, the county seat, where a finished education can be had. Located as it is, we have reasons to believe that Decatur county bids fair to be among the leading counties in the northwestern part of the state. When looking over the various counties of Kansas, should you desire to invest in real estate, do not fail to see Decatur county, for good farm lands can be bought from $5 to $30 per acre, according to location and improvements.

The state of Kansas is all right for we have been there. It has churches, schools, railroads, banks, posts, lodges and all kinds of enterprises imaginable that may be found on the face of God's green earth. The inhabitants of Kansas are a live, up-to-date, go-ahead people and have ways and customs that seem somewhat peculiar to a person who lives in a southern state, yet at the same time, all fair-minded and healthy-brained citizens of the United States, who are willing to "do unto others as they wish others to do unto them," can not do otherwise than readily acquiesce, and cheerfully say: "Let the good work begun continue," and may the time soon come when the good people of other states may see their duty and willingness to do it.

When a person goes to the state of Kansas, it is immaterial with the good people of the "Sunflower State," whether immigrants can track their ancestral pedigree back to the Pilgrims who came across the Atlantic on the May Flower or to a gang of pedestrians who came over across the Isthmus of Panama from South America or to any other noted race or place, these things are not considered, but the all-important factor in the case of the "new comer" is—is he the right kind of material? Does his daily deportment render him worthy and well qualified for business? If so, come among us and abide with us. Should the "new comer" prove to be a regular egotistical, selfish, over-rated "ignoramus," he soon finds out that he is among people who do not tolerate that kind of "being" and his sojourn in Kansas does not last much longer than a "June frost."

Well, yes, we came by St. Louis to see the sights at the World's Fair and shall never regret the time nor the price that we spent while viewing the immense objects that are exhibited at the Louisiana Purchase Exposition.

We could write ten more pages telling of Kansas and the World's Fair and then not be half through, but for lack of time we quit to go and see a sick baby.

Yours from old Westber,
JOHN L. REYNOLDS, M. D.

PASSENGERS LEAVE HATS.

Quite a Number Walk Out of Elevated Cars Without Their Head Covers.

"Your hat?" said a young woman to her young man escort, as the two were walking down the aisle of an elevated car to get off at their station. It was a hot day, and as they sat in the car the young man had taken his hat off and laid it on a vacant seat beside him, says the Chicago Inter Ocean. When they got up to go he had forgotten all about it.

"Many people walk off and leave their hats?" another passenger asked of the guard, this being a light run on which there was a chance for the guard to say a word.

"A good many in the course of a year," was the reply. "In the case of the young man now who just passed out with the young lady, he may have forgotten his hat because he was thinking of her, but the next man might put his hat down and get to reading his newspaper, and forget all about the hat. Maybe he'd never discover that he'd left his hat behind him till he'd got down to the street."

"Couldn't the guard remind him as he passed out, seeing him without any hat? Well, no, he couldn't very well. The guard has two gates to look out for, and passengers to see on and off, and some people walk on or off holding their hats in their hands, to keep cool, and you could not very well inspect every passenger that passed by without his hat on to see if he wasn't carrying it down by his side. So really his hat is something that every man must take care of for himself."

"It isn't straw hats alone that we gather up," the guard continued, after the next station had been passed. "In the course of a year we get soft hats and derbies, a few silk hats, and some crush hats. All these kinds of hats come along, naturally, more in winter. You've seen men often enough fall asleep and their hats fall off? That's how we get 'em."

"The children's hats are easy to account for. They take them off themselves and drop 'em and never think of 'em again. It isn't quite so easy to account for the women's hats left behind, but some are left; and so in the course of a year, mixed in with the endless variety and the great quantities of things left in the cars by the millions of people that travel in them, we get a considerable bunch of hats, including hats of all sorts."

"Steenth street?"

THE OLD-TIME SWEATBOX.

Chamber Into Which Suspects Were Cast to Make Them Confess Crimes.

The mediaeval torture chamber still exists, if we may judge from the reports as to the "sweatbox" and the "third degree." What the concealed infamy of the last may be it is difficult to learn, says American Medicine. The "sweatbox" is a method of confining suspects in heated air until the torture becomes so irritating as to elicit almost any confession desired, especially when coupled with cunning questions and probings of the prosecutors. But where is the boasted trial by jury and by his fellows of the Anglo-Saxon love of justice? It has been supposed, wrongly it seems, that a man is held to be innocent until his crime has been proved by orderly and just trial. Punishment should not, therefore, begin until after conviction. The poor degenerates at best are poor matches for the subtle and astute questioners, without the added perplexity resulting from torture. Why not revive the rack and screw, and be done with them quicker and without trial? Will some one tell the simple truth about the abuses of the so-called examinations of prisoners before trial? What exactly is the proceeding in the "third degree" torture business? By what law are such things allowed, and what have the judges and lawyers been about to permit such barbaric anachronisms in the twentieth century?

In These Days of Mental Strain All Need a Vacation

By EDWIN GINN,
Well-Known School Book Publisher.

EVERY one needs a vacation. It is better for both employer and employe that at least two weeks every year should be free from all work and that such freedom should be given up to absolute rest and change of scene. Undoubtedly it is true that a large per cent. of the working people do not derive the greatest benefit from the vacation period. Many work harder physically, and perhaps mentally, at that time than when engaged in the performance of their regular duties. Such use of a vacation fails, of course, to accomplish its purpose, but when properly spent I believe the vacation period is as profitable as any portion of the year.

Not only do I believe in regular, stated periods of rest, but I also believe in a reduction in the hours of labor. The plan which we have adopted of closing our establishment one-half day each week is very satisfactory. Of course, whether nine hours' labor is as profitable to the employer as ten hours depends largely upon the individual. The person who works to the best of his or her ability nine hours a day will generally accomplish as much as the ordinary worker in ten hours; but unless there is extra exertion and a determination to do one's best on the part of the employe, less work will be accomplished in the shortened day. On general principles, therefore, no employer can afford to pay as much for nine hours' labor as for ten; neither should the employer expect to receive as much.

The number of hours a person should work depends upon the kind of work he is required to do. Brain work tires much sooner than manual labor. Work of an exacting nature is much harder on one than that which calls for the exercise of little thought. It is impossible to fix an exact limit upon the number of hours that one may safely work; for it is not the length of time a man works, that tells upon him, it is the mental strain occasioned by responsibility, risk and uncertainty that wears him out. Too many take their cares home with them. If people would only work a reasonable length of time each day, and play the rest of the time, much more would be accomplished and the active life of the business man would be considerably lengthened. The majority of business men to-day feel that they must exert themselves to the utmost in order to accumulate a property that some day they will take time to enjoy. It is only the few who ever reach that point, who know when they have enough. The most of them do not stop until failing health compels it, and then all power of enjoyment is gone. The best rule is to take time to enjoy each day as it passes.

I think we do need vacations more than our fathers did. Competition with them was confined to their immediate vicinity radius of from ten to twenty miles. Men of to-day have the whole world to compete with, and the demands upon them are many times those made upon our fathers.

When Girls Should Marry

By HON. EDWIN WARFIELD,
Governor of Maryland.

marrying until they arrive at that age.

Marriage for the purpose of settling a daughter in life is, as a rule, a failure and an unhappy one. No parent, and especially no true and loving mother, will wish to push her daughter into matrimony before she is fully matured and fitted for the grave responsibilities of married life. Young girls just out of school are not equipped for the ordinary household duties of wives and for the cares and trials of motherhood. They should, after leaving school, spend some time with their parents, giving their parents the pleasure of their companionship and learning something of the everyday work that will be theirs as wives.

I think that many lives are made failures by persons marrying before their characters have been formed. Young people are impressionable and romantic, and if left to their own free will are apt to rush into matrimony without properly considering the grave responsibilities of married life. Many cases have come under my observation where youthful and hasty marriages have resulted in unhappiness, discontent and lives of drudgery. The old saying, "Marry in haste and repent at leisure," proves too often true.

Young women and men should remember that the romantic attachments of youth generally are not lasting. I would not wish to be regarded as laying down iron-clad rules concerning the exact age when a girl should marry. It might be at 22, 24, 25 or 26 years—it all depends upon the physical and mental development of the girl.

Athletics That Kill

By JAMES L. WALSH,
Director of the Boston Public Gymnasium.

A man practices athletics from pure love of the game, and trains, or is trained, intelligently, and does not specialize too closely, and has a "crack" at track and field events, with a little baseball, tennis or golf on the side, he ought to be a long liver, because he is building up his whole body and not any one part to the detriment of another.

He is temperate in eating, drinking and training and in his pleasures. The mind, body and internal organs are all called upon to do their share of the work. The result of this kind of athletics is a good all-round development with a mental muscular balance that must be conducive of longevity.

The kind of athletics that demoralize and kill are many; football and Marathon racing are fair samples of this form of athletics. Temperance has no place in these games; they are nerve rackers, heart breakers and some times neck breakers, from start to finish. They develop brute force and "sand," but at a terrible cost to the human body morally and physically. The wear and tear on the lungs, heart and nervous system is so severe and the reaction which must follow an effort of this kind cannot be otherwise than injurious.

If a man is as old as his arteries there must be many prematurely old football and cross-country men. These are the games that kill.

QUEER OCULAR DELUSION.

Woman of Forty Had Never Known
That Everybody Did Not See Double.

A remarkable story can be verified by a well-known oculist in this city, says the Kansas City Journal. In one of the counties of western Kansas is a cattleman who has grown wealthy. His wife, a charming woman of some 40 years, recently began to have severe headaches. A local physician decided that the trouble was with her eyes. The family could not believe it, as she had very keen sight from both far and near. However, the husband took her to an oculist in Kansas City for expert examination. In the course of the examination the professional man held up a candle and asked her what she saw. "I see the two lights," she answered, calmly.

"Two?" exclaimed the surprised husband. "Have you always seen two of me when you looked at me?"

"Why, certainly, dear," was the answer. "Don't you always see two of me?"

And then came the revelation that this educated, intelligent woman had never known in all her 40 years of life that everybody didn't see double. She had accepted her own condition as a matter of course. It instantly accounted to the husband for little indefinite movements which he had frequently observed in his wife when she was reaching for an object, and it was a matter of great astonishment to the woman when by an adjustment of glasses and through treatment she began to see as other people do.

USE CONTRABAND TOBACCO

That Seized by the Customs in England Given to Criminal Lunatics.

What becomes of the contraband tobacco seized by the customs? The early practice was to bury it. This senseless waste was suspended for a time by the happy idea of distributing the tobacco among the troops, says Macmillan's Magazine.

That did not last long, and next year we hear of the contraband being smoked in the "Queen's pipe," a huge receptacle which could turn "hundreds of tons into smoke in a few hours." Again the misgivings of the waste troubled the authorities, and they took to regaling the criminal lunatics in certain government asylums. Any tobacco that was left over was ordered for the use of troops sent on foreign service. But that luxury seems to have been cut off once more although the criminal lunatics still enjoy their pipes and cigars. One attempt was made to throw the contraband, when it was slightly damaged, on the market, but this caused an outcry from the tobacco trade. The whole story is a pleasing tribute to the intelligence which administers the public service.

FEW STURGEON IN PACIFIC

Prodigal Waste of Few Years Ago Depleted Supply Almost to Extinction.

A sturgeon weighing 375 pounds was captured by a gill net fisherman near Astoria a few days ago, and sold for $20, reports the Portland Oregonian.

It has been less than 20 years since sturgeons of that size were almost unsalable, and thousands of pounds of the big fish have been carried off the Portland docks for fertilizer, after the consignees had refused to pay the steamboat freight on them.

The prodigal waste of these fish a few years ago, when their value was not appreciated, has depleted the supply to such an extent that they are now almost extinct.

It requires nearly as much time to produce a 375-pound sturgeon as it does to produce a six-foot saw log, and the time is approaching when the big saw log, like the big sturgeon, will pass out of existence, with nothing growing up to take its place.
