ONLY PARTIAL INSURANCE.

Wednesday morning a short time past mid-night, the livery stable of W. D. Wallingford, the residence of Dave Woods and the marble shop of S. N. Henry (all frame buildings) burned to the ground. The fire originated in the rear end of Wallinford's stable and spread with lightning rapidity. The breeze blowing from the south-west drove the flames into the residence of Mr. Woods.

The fire was first discovered by a couple of railroad engineers who were in the city waiting for the young Byford, who was sleeping in the office of the livery stable. In a short time a large portion of the The Democrats will have to learn city populace had been aroused and were on the scene. #### MONKEY FACED OWLS.

A Queer River Cliff Colony In Southern California.

On the banks of the Santa Ana river, in southern California, is a queer colony. It is situated in the cliffs which rise above the surface of the river and has a multitude of inhabitants. In passing along the river by daylight one would not imagine that the cliffs were inhabited, for the members of the colony are fast asleep in the chambers of the cliffs. But at dusk there is a change. At every one of the openings with which the cliffs are perforated appears a countenance so human-like in its expression that the beholder is apt to imagine that these must be the faces of the pixies and elves of whom he delighted to hear in his childhood

The tiny faces belong to a family having a name nearly as large as the individuals are small. It is the family of Strix pratincola, or monkey faced owl. So much do their faces resemble those of human features that they are often called the human faced owl. In the holes of the cliffs they pass their days and rear their young. At night they emerge in flocks and search the fields for mice, gophers and insects, upon which they live. This owl does "I was taken severely sick with not hoot as do most owls, but utters a low, chuckling whistle as it flies

In College Athletics Good Is Mixed Mith Evil

By SAMUEL J. ELDER, Prominent Lawyer and Graduate of Yale.

NE of the most direct benefits which a college receives from athletics is in the matter of college discipline. The control of the student body is in no way more effectively maintained than by the power of the faculty to regulate athletics. When a college class knows that in case of any exceptional outbreak its members may be debarred from all form of athletic contests for a season or a term, it keeps a strenuous supervision over its unruly members. Although a class will not "peach" on its own members and disclose who was to blame, yet it visits of its own accord upon wrong-doers a social discipline which may amount to ostracism of men who are actually to blame. Of course the instances are rare in which a sweeping penalty of this kind has been imposed, yet the knowledge that it may be, holds the student body very well in hand.

Even more salutary is the discipline of individuals, and the holding of athletes to a respectable grade of scholarship and a high grade of behavior is well nigh perfect. Most of the leading colleges rigorously insist that no one shall take part in athletic contests whose standard is not at least respectable. Yale, until within a year or two, went further than this and required 25 points higher rank for athletes than it required for graduation, and this rule was rigorously enforced. remember several years ago when a man who was practically sure of two firsts was debarred by the faculty because of a fractional failure in rank, and was refused a reexamination.

In addition to these direct and paipable benefits, the college gains very noticeably in good behavior. Several hundred or thousand young men gathered together are quite explosive, there is an amount of surplus energy which must be worked off. In the old days it took the form of extreme hazing, violent conflicts between classes, riots with townspeople, in some instances with fatal results. All that has passed away. It is only in the smallest and most provincial institutions that hazing now amounts to anything. A legitimate channel of exercise is furnished in a great variety of sports. The necessary training and the strict adherence to rules have done more than college laws could possibly do to repress lawlessness.

Just how much the general health of the college is benefited by athletics it is difficult to say, but it is considerable. Years ago, when there were only two or three lines of sports and only a few men engaged in them who were sure of places on teams and crews, the general benefit was not widespread. At present, however, the lines of sport have so multiplied and the chance of selection on teams has so increased that a much larger proportion of the student body gets regularly into the gymnasium and into the open air than formerly, and the resultant good is all the more widespread. There is besides this the impetus to the whole student body which comes from athletic enthusiasm in the various lines. Harris & Shopbell

In addition to this, the work is very much better handled than formerly, because heads of the athletic department and of the gymnasium keep a close supervision over men desirous of competing in any form of sport, and to a large extent prevent excessive or ill-advised work, and direct the lines along which men of slight physique, or defective lung capacity, muscular development, or heart action, shall go. It is rare nowadays to hear of men who have been seriously injured by college athletics.

By DR. A. H. STEPHENS. Pastor Cumberland Presbyterian Church, Chicogo.

lust for big things has led many men and nations far out into the desert to perish, forgetting tenderness and looking only to the accomplishment of the ambition for greatness. In our life, military and civic, we are cursed with an overwhelming desire for bigness. May God call us back from our following after this mirage that has led so many men and nations far out into the desert to perish, simply of their own lust for big things. It is still true that the victories of peace are greater than the victories of war. We must attune our ears afresh to hear the voice of truth and tenderness, which is only too faint, because of the Niagara roar in which we live.

In the bitter competitions and dealy strifes by which society is beset we have come to emphasize power, might and magnitude, forgetting that the race is not always to the swift nor the battle to the strong. Have men come to believe that God is always on the side of the largest navies and strongest armies? Do we, like Napoleon, see as important only cavalry, infantry and artillery?

The true disciple of Christ will learn from his Master, who found in a cup of cold water a ministry, tender and sweet, to human thirst. Sad is that heart to which want and suffering make no ar peal, and sadder is that life that gives out none of itself in tenderness for the benefit of its kind.

The church to fulfill her true mission to men must not allow herself to be led into the riotous assembly that thunders in the theater at Ephesus, but must rather go to the upper room in Jerusalem, where she may for a time be alone with her Lord to gain power for her ministry of tenderness.

Me Marry Tin Cate

By REV. WM. 5. KELSEY. Associate Pastor Berkley Temple, Boston-

am a firm believer in early marriages, and do not think that people to-day marry too young. From an experience as a minister in Boston for 14 years, in a church where all classes come to be married, I am convinced that the tendency is toward marrying late in life. My observation teaches me the same lesson.

So much is regarded as necessary before one can marry nowadays that a young man dare not marry. The real young couple is the exception, yet those whom I have konwn to be thus married have been the most peaceful and prosperous. If married before the age of 25 they are more likely to live happily.

When young the husband and wife easily adjust themselves the one to the other. Habits are not fixed, peculiarities are not strong. It is easy to give up one's way. The burdens of life are taken up together instead of being borne alone, waiting for the day of prosperity and marriage, and a joyous, happy union is much more seen as the result.

Be Moderate in Taking Your Athletic Exercise

By ROBERT J. ROBERTS. Director of the Boston Y. M. C. A. Gymnasium.

HERE is nothing like athletics of the body and mind to teach a man how to economize his powers. If he follows the advice of a wise trainer, the use of his powers physically can be carried on competitively in a moderate way into the 40s, while to that of the mind no man can surely set the limit.

A young man is told to rejoice in his strength and the normal young man joys in showing off his powers athletically, but with these great blessings of strength, endurance, speed, activity, skill, etc., comes the temptation to over-do. If one finds that he cannot sleep well and do good work at his studies, business or at the work bench while he trains for or engages in athletic work it will be wise for him to only exercise, but not to compete against others. The pleasant sensation that the doing an exercise correctly gives one is reward enough for doing it. The good book puts it, be temperate in all things, and the Greeks still more simply put it, nothing over much. With this nothing over much constantly before his eyes, young the time during which Isalah prophesied America may indulge in athleticism with the knowledge that it will give him more joy in living and prolong his days to five times the period it took to make him a full-grown man.

Rowing and swimming, to my mind, make an almost ideal combination for moderate exercise. Dr. Meylan, once my associate in the B. Y. M. C. A. gym, wrote a paper on the value of rowing. His investigation shows that rowing as an athletic exercise tended to prolong life. Those who have rowed in the crews for the past 41 years have an expectation of five years longer life than others. Of the 152 traced 122 are now living. Not a single death was traceable to overdoing in athletics. Of the 32 dead, six were killed in war, two by accident and one died of consumption. Only two said that their health was poor. Only one confessed to dyspepsia. They say they have lived longer and felt better for the hard rowing that they did. Not one of these men made a failure of his career. On the average only 2.1 per cent. of the college graduates earn a place in "Who's Who." Of this list of oarsmen 8.3 per cent. have won places as representative Americans. Twenty of them are men of national and international impor-

Does athleticism tend to shorten or prolong life? It tends to prolong life if taken every day in moderation, and shorten life if taken in over doses.

Too Self-Absorbed

By MRS. FRANK LESLIE.

Women cannot tell the truth about themselves. For one reason, they do not know themselves. Their sex, their upbringing, society conventionalities, the restrictions of their methods of living, foster a self-absorp- The history of God's dealings with Istion, which develops a second woman entirely different from the original woman. A woman sits and sews, her mind is occupied by petty details, them from bondage, molded them into she becomes supersensitive and imagines insults and injuries where none a nation, gave them a "land flowing are intended. The artistic temperament is based on the same lines. The painter studies the minutest details of his picture and his horizon becomes narrowed in consequence.

Man from his boyhood is trained for big enterprises, and his mind expands as his body develops. He learns to know himself, because he from the bondage of sin (John 3:16); must, in his battle with the world, would he be successful. Woman's He has given a goodly heritage (Rom. horizon is bounded by the four walls of her home, by the smallness of her womanly pursuits, and she comes to live in a dreamland, creating finally a creature of her imagination, which is far removed from the Ungrateful and Selfish - "Doth not woman as God made her.

Besides, she cannot tell the truth about herself. Society would be shocked were she to disclose the impulsiveness, the good and evil passions which surge in her heart, one warring against the other.

Would the world really believe a woman who told, the truth about herself? Would it not scoff and say: "You are fooling us! The woman you tell us of is not ! the real woman, but a woman of your imagination."

Therefore why trouble to force people to think you other than as you appear on the surface?

The real woman is cloistered in the heart of every woman, and to but one or two during a lifetime does she tell the truth about herself. When she does it is a sacred revelation of the high aspirations-the idealism which is in reality the fundamental part of every woman's nature.

PLACE.-Jerusalem. Introductory Note.

The prophecy of Isalah carries us into a period of the history of Judah somewhat later than that which we have been studying. Following the 40 years' reign of Joash, we have Amaziah's reign, 29 years, and then the long 52-years' reign of Azariah, or "Uzziah," as in 2 Kings 15:13, and in Isaiah. It was during the latter part of his reign that Isaiah began prophesying, and, as is indicated in the opening verse of his prophecy, his ministry continued through the reign of Jotham, 16 years; Ahaz, 16 years, and into Hezekiah's reign of 29 years. The kings of Israel during this period were Jereboam II., 41 years; Zachariah, his son, six months; Shallum (usurper), one month; Menahem (usurper) ten years; Pekahiah, his son, two years Pekah (usurper), 20 years, and Hoses, nine years, during whose reign the kingdom of Israel came to an end. This occurred during Hesekiah's reign. For the history of see 2 Chron. 26-32.

The Lesson Outline. THEME:-A Message to the Wayward. Introductory .- v. 1. II. The Charge.-vs. 2-9. (1) God Speaking.-v. 2.

(2) God the Faithful Father .- v. 1. (3) A Rebellious People.-vs. 2-9. (a) Ungrateful and Seifish. (b) Sin laden. (c) Unresponsive to Discipline,

(d) Utterly Corrupt. (e) Their Land Desolate. (f) Monuments of God's Mercy. III. The Appeal (Salvation's Requisites) .-

(2) Turning from Sin (1) Doing Good. IV. Promise and Threat .- vs. 19, 20. (1) God's Hand of Mercy and Blessing .-

(1) The Cleansing from Sin.

(2) God's Hand of Judgment and Pun-

Comparing Scripture with Scripture. I. Introductory, v. 1.-It identifies the author, "Isaiah, the Son of Amoz;" it declares the nature of what follows, "the vision;" it fixes the objective of the prophecy, "Judah and Jerusalem," and the time "in the days of Uzziah, Jotham, Ahaz and Hezekiah." Here is a suggestion for preachers, teachers and class leaders, all who would give instruction out of God's Word. Be clear as to the message; definite as to its objective point, and fit it to the times and needs of those to whom it is addressed.

II. The Charge. (1) God Speaking, v. 2.- The heavens and the earth are filled with the voice of God. He spoke of His ancient people. He is speaking today through His Son .- Heb. 1:1, 2.

(2) God, the Faithful Father, v. 2 .-"Nourished and brought up children." rael is one long story of love, patience, goodness and mercy. God redeemed with milk and honey," and made them a great nation under David and Solomon: This is but a picture, a type, of what God has done and is doing for every human soul. As the faithful Father. He has sent His Son to deliver 8:17), and He has shown the way of victory (2 Cor. 2:14).

(3) A Rebellious People, vs. 2-9.—(a) know, doth not consider." How like people to-day in their attitude towards God (Isa. 53:6). (b) Sin Laden. Compare Rom. 1:18-32. (c) Unresponsive to Discipline.-"Why should ye be stricken any more?" It is an awful thing when God has to leave a soul alone in its sin. The doom of a soul is sealed when God ceases to strive with it Compare first part of Gen. 6:3 with Matt. 12:32. (d) Utterly Corrupt. - "The whole head is sick, and the whole heart faint." This, with verse 6, indicates the desperate moral condition of Israel Man, in the sight of God, is a hopeless, helpless sinner (Rom. 3:10; Isa. 64:6). (e) Their Land Desolate, vs. 7. 8.-Ah, how the world is suffering omes to reign supreme. (f) Monuments of God's Mercy, v. 9 .- God has no Court Officials and delight in the death of the wicked (Ezek. 23:11; 1 Tim. 2:4.)

III. The Appeal. (Salvation's Requisites.) (1) Cleansing from Sin "Wash you, make you clean." "The L. Grayot. blood of Jesus Christ cleanseth from all sin." John 1:7. This is the first step. (2) Turning from Sin. "Put away the evil of your doings." "Cease to do evil." This is the next step Conversion means turning about Rom. 6:1-2. This is the negative side of the Christian life. (3) Doing Good. "Learn to do well." Phil. 1:9-11. side of the Christian life. Learn to do well: (a) By study of God's Word. kindly ministry. Phil. 2:5-7; Jas. 1:27. IV. Promise and Threat. (1) God's hand of mercy and blessing outjudgment and punishment falling upon such as refuse to hear. shall it be? "The mouth of the Lord hath spoken it."

The Golden Text.

"Cease to do evil; learn to do well." The theory of evolution cannot stand pon this text. The natural lendency of man is downward and away from God. "evil" and "well" (good). The one identifies the inherent tendency and quality of man. The other describes the nature and attributes of God. The we emphatic words are "cease" and "learn." Cut loose from the natural God. This two-fold operation is realized in repentance for sin, and salvation to righteousness.
