VOLUME 1.

MARION, CRITTENDEN COUNTY, KENTUCKY, FRIDAY, DECEMBER 2, 1904.

NUMBER 21.

OUR DARK TOBACCO

What is Doing at Various Points— Weather Against Stripping.

On account of the unfavorable condition of the weather, there has been very little activity here among the tobacco buyers and the farmers. The conditions of the weather are such that the tobacco is too dry to handle or strip and buyers do not like to risk their judgment on the crops while in this condition. However, R. L. Moore & Co. who will handle tobacco at the Moore house on contract, have bought a few crops with which they were familiar while it stood in the field. The prices they have paid so far are 4 to 5 cents. A. H. Cardin, who is this year a member of the R. L. Moore & Co. firm, will also handle some tobacco at his home place at View.

A. B. Jarvis, of Henderson, will also handle tobacco here again this year, but as yet his buyers are not in the field.

We are informed that the quality of tobacco is much better this year than last year in both body and quality. For the benefit of the Record readers we hope to be able to publish in the near future an article on the best way to handle the crop, written by an experienced tobacco man who is familiar with the local conditions.

The following notes are clipped from the Western Tobacco Journal:

In the Henderson District nothing has been done.

From Paducah we hear the local manufacturers there opened the market in the country by paying 5 and 5 1-2 cents for good crops, followed by the Imperial Tobacco Company at Paducah as the largest buyer so far, it is understood, at about the same figures for about 200,000 pounds.

At Murray, the Italian buyers have bought about 100,000 pounds.

Mr. Henry Barrett, of Wickliffe, in Paducah district, offers his house for rent, his former buyer now being with the Imperial Tobacco Company.

At Princeton, Ky., the market was opened by Mr. Ladd, of Clarksville, with a local buyer, and reported as buying 50,000 pounds at 4 to 5 cents for common to medium crops, intended not to pay over 5 cents round for anything. Messrs. Stigar & Dolland have engaged to put up on order for the Gallagher Company, while Mr. John S. Orr will operate for the Imperial Tobacco Company, but neither of these firms have done any thing.

At Hopkinsville, Ky., we hear of the Italian Regie having bought about 150,000 pounds at prices ranging from 5 1-2 cents round to 7, 7 and 2 cents.

At all other points heard from the season has been too cold to touch tobacco.

At Madisonville, Ky., it is stated that none of the firms there have even arranged for hoghead material for the coming season. Messrs. Holloman, of Madisonville, and Weir, of Hanson, are now in England trying to sell stocks on hand there, and are expected home shortly.

At Seabree, Ky., the large new factory built by the Imperial Tobacco Company is about completed and will be in every respect an up-to-date house for 800 to 1,000 hogheads, under the management of Mr. Hugh Smith. Alex McEwen has made no move at Seabree yet, nor any one else we hear of so far.

At Slaughterville the Imperial Tobacco Company are the only parties likely to operate there, all arrangements being to fill the house there with good tobacco only.

At Manitou, Messrs. C. J. Pratt & Co. will operate this season with A. E. Hill as manager.

At Nebo the Imperial Tobacco Company will operate with Wm. A. Hodge as manager.

From Providence we hear Henry Barret will not operate the coming season.

The Gallagher Company are expected to operate at Providence, but nothing definite has been done.

Mrs. Carl Flanary Dead.

Mrs. Maggie Flanary, wife of Carl Flanary, who resided about eight or nine miles north of this city and near Hebron, died Monday at 4 p. m., of Tuberculosis. She was the daughter of L. J. Daughtrey, about 28 years old and was the mother of two children, both boys, who are six and three years of age.

About a month or two ago Mr. Flanary had left for Missouri on a prospect trip. He had written to his family from Charleston, Mo., and Osceola, Ark., and stated that he would go to Dexter and Broomfield in Missouri. Attempt was made to reach him at all those points but he could not be found and wherever he may be he does not know that death has entered his home.

Mrs. Flanary had been in bad health for more than a year and sometimes her husband was somewhat despondent.

She was a member of the Methodist church at Hebron and lived a devoted christian life. She had friends wherever she was known. Her body was interred at the cemetery Tuesday at 1 p. m. in the presence of a large crowd of her neighbors and friends.

Kentucky Exhibit Will Be Preserved.

At its meeting yesterday the Kentucky Exposition Commission decided to turn over all of the available staple Kentucky exhibits at the World's Fair to the Kentucky Geological Survey at Lexington, to be held there until the new capitol is completed, when they will be installed there as the nucleus of a permanent exhibit.

The exhibit is valued at about $20,000.

The Kentucky Building was sold for $325, the wrecking company agreeing to pay for the proper restoration of the grounds according to the rules of the exposition company. The beautiful $1,000 piano donated by a local piano firm will be placed in the Kentucky mansion for the use of the Governors of Kentucky.

The commission's report showed that of the fund allowed for the expenses of the commissioners about $1,000 will be returned to the treasury.

Tackwell Improving.

Billie Tackwell was taken to his home near Irma Thursday. Since he was struck on the head a week ago and brought here he was cared for at the Gill House. His nose was badly broken and pieces of bone were removed from it by Dr. Frazer, the attending physician. His face was also bruised. Before he was taken home Mr. Tackwell was able to sit up. During his confinement here he was attended upon by members of his family and L. E. Hardin, of Irma.

Committeemen Elected.

Monday, at Smithland, the Democratic committee for that county met and effected their reorganization by electing W. I. Clarke chairman, and Alfred Hendrick secretary. Eleven of the twelve committeemen were present, and eight of the number were anti-machine men.

Mr. Clarke is editor of the Livingston Banner. Mr. Hendrick is the son of Hon. John K. Hendrick, of Paducah.

REAL DAUGHTER OF REVOLUTION

Aged Woman, Whose Father Fought Under Washington, Expires.

Smithland, Ky. Nov. 28.—Mrs. Susan Stringer Bennett, the last Daughter of American Revolution in Kentucky, and one of the few in the country, died at her home five miles from here yesterday. She was ninety-four years old last April, and until a few years ago, when she sustained severe injuries from a fall, was in splendid health and very active. Mrs. Bennett's father, Leonard Stringer, was born in Georgia in 1760, and entered the Revolutionary army, and drove a provision wagon until old enough to enter regular service. A grant of land of 287 acres in Washington county, Ga., was given him for his services by Edward Telfair, Captain, Governor and Commander-in-Chief of Georgia.

Mrs. Bennett claimed her father was intimately acquainted with George Washington, and that she had often seen him riding with Andrew Jackson. She remembered well when her half-brother and stepbrother returned from the War of 1812. The bed in which she spent the last few months of her life is over a century old, and the old log cabin in which she resided had been her home since she entered it as a bride over seventy years ago. Mrs. Bennett was the grandmother of Zed A. Bennett, County Superintendent of Schools of Livingston county.

Mining Brieflets.

W. C. Uren resigned his position as superintendent of the mines being operated by Blue & Nunn, the resignation taking effect on the 1st instant. Mr. Uren was formerly the superintendent of the "Old Jim" mines, but lately his attention had been confined more particularly to the operations on the "Nine Acre" tract. His home is at Mineral Point, Wis., however, he has been engaged in this district for over three years, during which time he has proven himself a practical and successful miner. Mr. Uren will remain here indefinitely, he informed a representative of the Record, and his headquarters will be at the New Marion Hotel. He will offer to the general public short services on expert mining, investigating and establishing veins.

Last week Harry Watkins sold the Dave Franks place to Messrs. Wm. Miller and Jno. Scheas, of Louisville, and we understand that the price paid was $20,000. This property contains the well known LaRue vein, which has already been uncovered, showing a fine body of ore. As soon as the transfer of this property was made, articles of incorporation for the formation of the Commodore Mining Co. were filed, who will work this and other properties already acquired or which may be acquired in the future. This company is making rapid progress, and the snap and vigor with which they push things along is commendable. In the old shaft, which was about 25 feet deep, a cross cut at the depth of 18 feet revealed a 12 foot vein of ore. This was to the complete satisfaction of the company and they at once began sinking a permanent shaft. Messrs. Persons and Watkins say that this is one of the best properties in this field.

It is understood that Andrew Carnegie will donate to Louisville $200,000 to establish five branches in that city in addition to the $250,000 he donated to the library.

Mrs. Carrie Flanary Dead.

Mrs. Carrie Flanary, wife of Eli Flanary, of near Weston, died Thanksgiving day of consumption, at the age of 55 years. Her maiden name was Hill, and she was first married to Alonzo Nunn, deceased. This union was blessed by one daughter who is the wife of Frank Daniel, and resides at Anniston, Mo. The husband that survives was also married twice, his first wife being a sister of the lately deceased. To his first union was born two daughters, Ethel and Gertie, who in the second marriage became the step-daughters of their aunt. They are single and reside with the father. Mrs. Flanary was a noble and highly respected lady. Her body was interred at Mt. Zion cemetery in the presence of a large crowd, Rev. W. T. Oakley, of this city, conducting the services.

Consolidate Millinery Stock.

Mrs. E. S. Love and Mrs. Denman have put their stocks of millinery goods together and will occupy the Mrs. Frank's stand where Mrs. Denman sold goods this season. They are offering some good bargains and closing out their present stock to make room for spring goods.

Shoots Himself at Cadiz.

At Cadiz, Monday morning at 8:30 o'clock, E. F. McIntire, a druggist 33 years of age, shot himself with suicidal intent. He lingered until 12:45. Before his death he said he did not know what induced him to commit the rash act.

Stray Mare.

LOST—A bright bay mare. She is a medium size and has a knot on hock of joint and one on stifle joint fore top trimmed off. Will pay liberal reward for her return.

CIRCUIT COURT

Adjourned Wednesday — Grand Jury Returned 33 Indictments.

The docket for this term of circuit court was short as compared with former dockets. Several minor cases were called and disposed of and a few others might have been considered, but on account of Judge Gordon's becoming sick the court adjourned Wednesday about noon until the next regular session. Some of the most important cases that were disposed of are as follows:

Commonwealth vs Pete Campbell. On a plea of guilty for cutting and wounding Bud Williamson the defendant was given one year in the penitentiary.

In the suit of R. F. Scott vs Will Kirk for personal injuries sustained by being driven over on public road, the jury gave Scott judgment for $200.

H. T. Martin vs I. C. R. R. For personal injury plaintiff received damages to extent of $100.

In the case of S. J. Hooks vs I. C. R. R. Co., a verdict was rendered in favor of the defendant.

The grand jury returned 33 true bills.

Found Dead Near Crayneville.

Early Wednesday morning the dead body of an unknown negro was found on the big fill near Crayneville with a pistol shot wound in the head. The body was brought to this city, where it was identified as being that of Dow George, of Hopkinsville. It was turned over to Undertaker Dorr and Thursday was delivered to the father and a half brother, who shipped it to Hopkinsville for burial.

From the appearance of the body when found it is supposed that George was shot and dropped from an early freight train. It is rumored that he and another colored man boarded the train at Princeton.

Severe Drouth.

The citizens of this city and county are suffering the severest drouth for this season of the year known to the present generation. The water in wells and cisterns has given out and stock in some instances is suffering for want of water.

Dispatches from over Kentucky indicate that the State is in the clutches of the severest drouth experienced since 1854. With but few exceptions, the drouth is general, no rain falling to amount to anything for four months. In the wheat growing sections the grain sowed this fall has lain without sprouting, in many instances decaying. No tobacco has been stripped for the market. The scarcity of water in the districts not bordering on large streams has resulted in great loss to farmers. Many stockmen have had to sell their stock in order to prevent their decline. In other cases farmers have secured water at a great cost or loss of time. Southern Indiana is also experiencing an unprecedented drouth.

Perhaps the worst feature of the present situation is that the Weather Bureau is unable to hold out any for the breaking up of the drouth just now.

WHAT A MONSTER

BY THE "DEVIL."

'Twas Thanksgiving Day. We did not get a holiday because it was publication day, but I didn't care, for I had a splendid appetite. The clock struck twelve and I joyfully wended my way toward the boarding house with visions of turkey, cranberry sauce and pumpkin pie floating before me. I saw in my imagination a large turkey with a pumpkin pie under each wing being chased by little dirty-faced demons on stick horses, but when I started to enter the chase they vanished. I hurried on, and upon opening the front door at the boarding house I was greeted by a savor arising from the kitchen that reminded me of schoolboy days when I used to read about Thanksgiving in "ye olden tymes."

But hark! What a commotion. Listen!

"Oh, my, isn't it awful—what a monster—ugh; the horrid thing—well, I'll be gol darned," and many similar ejaculations escaped the party of boarders who were gathered in the family room awaiting the dinner bell.

And one wee little voice which sounded suspiciously like one that is frequently heard on the phone, said "Do you suppose it could devour a live man?"

At last I mustered up courage to enter the room and, seeing me they all shouted: "Oh, look; we've captured a monster cabbage snake." But I did not look—my mind was fixed upon Thanksgiving turkey, and I had worked up a good appetite which I had no intention of destroying by gazing on such a hideous monster.

After doing ample justice to a bountiful repast I returned to the office. I had only been there a short time when in the editor's sanctum I heard a female voice which was familiar to me at both the office and the boarding house:

"Here is a cabbage snake that the landlady sent you—now look out, don't let it get away. She said you could make a little mention of it in the paper and keep it here on exhibition."

The editor said not a word, but I heard his foot-steps coming in my direction. I turned, ready to threaten his life if he approached me with that venomous reptile, but the amused expression on his countenance caused me to hold my peace. Holding it up he said:

"Look what a wonder our typo brought us."

I looked and in his hand he held a bug juice bottle in which was imprisoned—a very insignificant and inoffensive little angle worm. We are going to use it for fish bait next spring.

We teased the young lady about it and she pouted, but I had hard work convincing the landlady and when I finally succeeded she said:

"Well, don't tell anybody but what it was a real cabbage snake because it gives the house a good reputation—sounds kind of dignified like, you know."

A Visit to My Old Home

BY R. M. FRANKS

Some time ago as the sun was hiding herself away behind the western hills I was wending my way to the place where my wife and children call home. I chanced to see the light in the window of my old friend Robt. C. Fritts; the thoughts of my early days came rushing to my mind, and the chilly breeze of the night impressed me that it was policy to announce to my friend that I desired to lodge with him. So I met with the welcome of my old time visits. So I was soon snugly seated by the old fire-side, which was loaded with knots, sticks and chunks of coal, but it seemed to be more inclined to smoke than burn; but with the poker and shovel my friend continued to work until it seemed that everything was fire and more fire. It seemed that supper had been ready for some time, but as I am so well known they had to add on in quantity. Well, to say we sat up and talked would be using brevity. Incident after incident was recalled that happened more than 40 years ago; were both sad and joyous. At a late hour in the night we were reminded of the Giver of all good and perfect gifts, and by request of the good woman we united around the family altar to give thanks to Him who had preserved our lives for these long years. Next morning I went to the old spring, the fountain from which I took my first drink of water more than 50 years ago. While Duey, my faithful horse, drank from the trough I knelt and drank with him. The old gullies were more numerous and deeper, but the bunch of tansy was still standing. So with our usual "come down—well, you come back—all right" I took my leave for home, feeling that my ties on earth were great. So on I went over the old school road that I traveled when a boy. Passed the old sugar haw tree where I plucked the hawes the first day of my first school. Crossed the path of our fox chase, where we used to spend many of our play hours. Our old fox was Robt. L. Casick, who some years ago was killed by a mule. The leading hound, old Rolly, was Rev. J. J. Franks. I almost imagine I hear his screams yet. Listen! listen! Well, my friends, what sustains life is the good things we eat and the good things we think about. More anon.

Hard to Beat

J. S. Stevens, who resides over in East Marion, brought to this office Saturday a rather odd selection of garden beets from his truck garden. One measures 14 inches in circumference and is 26 inches long. The other, which is almost a freak of nature, resembles the hind quarters of a hog just after the hair has been scalded off. Mr. Stevens has labeled one, "hog beet" and says the other is "Hard to Beat." He says he offers a challenge for beets in this section of the State that will surpass these in oddity or size.

No Use. He's a Democrat.

Marinette has a Presidential election story that matches the reply of Quentin Roosevelt that the President voted for Parker because Parker needed the vote. One of the Garfield teachers was questioning her pupils upon citizenship.

"Now," she said, slowly, "as every boy has ambition, I would like to know how many boys would like to be President of the United States?"

Every boy save one raised his hand.

The teacher looked in a surprised manner at the little fellow whose hands remained in his lap.

"Why, Willie," she exclaimed, "haven't you any desire to become President of this great country?"

"I'd like to, all right," replied the boy, mournfully, "but 'tain't no use, I'm a Democrat."—Inter Ocean.

Fight Will be Bitter.

Those who will persist in closing their ears against the continual recommendation of Dr. King's New Discovery for Consumption, will have a long and bitter fight with their troubles, if not ended earlier by fatal termination. Read what T. R. Beall, of Beall, Miss., has to say: "Last fall my wife had every symptom of consumption. She took Dr. King's New Discovery after everything else had failed. Improvement came at once and four bottles entirely cured her." Guaranteed by R. F. Haynes, druggist. Price 50c, and $1.00. Trial bottles free.

Successful Meeting.

AN OPOSSUM MULE

A CRITTENDEN WONDER

We have often heard farmers in this section proudly boast of their unexcelled opossum curs, in fact, they are very common things, but an opossum mule—one that can actually scent an opossum, and, by its acute sense of smell, distinguish the slim-tailed specie from the other vermin of the wood—is something new under the sun. The story of this talented quadruped is told by Mr. Larkin Hard, of near this city, the truth of which he vouches for, his father having raised His Mule-ship, whose genealogy and characteristics are matters of personal knowledge to our informant.

He is a very ordinary, unpretentious sort of mule, with ears of average length. His name is Beck. There is nothing in a name, however, for no less than 500 mules in the county bear the same title. But this Beck enjoys an instinct that the common herd of Becks can't boast of.

Beck was purchased of the elder Mr. Hard by G. W. Parish, of Frances, at which time nothing was known of his canine qualities, and they were not discovered until one night when Mr. Parish rode Beck to services at Caldwell Spring church. Nothing unusual occurred until they were on their return trip, when at a certain point on the road Beck began pawing the earth, prancing and snorting, and conducting himself in a manner that was greatly alien to his wonted disposition. Being somewhat surprised at the usually docile Beck's disorderly conduct, Mr. Parish at once began looking about to ascertain, if possible, the cause of the disturbance, when he espied on a fence nearby a large, fat opossum, which he captured much to the pleasure of our hero of the trail, he proudly prancing around and expressing his joy in his own mule-ish fashion.

The next exhibition of this wonderful instinct was made when the Parish family, on hearing a commotion in a field near the house, went out and found our distinguished domestic triumphantly trampling under foot an object of his muleish malevolence. Members of the family thereupon rescued the captive and started from the field, the captor bringing up the rear laughing as best a mule can laugh.

Again Beck's enmity for Brer 'Possum was displayed three or four weeks later, when the brays of the former announced the fact to the Parish household that again there was something doing in the pasture, and surmising the trouble they hurried to the scene of action to find that Beck had another of his unfortunate victims at bay in a persimmon tree.

These are the only instances where the varmint has been caught, but a number of times when persons have been riding Beck he has been known to attempt leaving the road and taking to the wood, the cause of which is supposed to be that he scented a trail crossing the road and his inexplicable characteristic gave him an inclination to follow it.

Mr. Parish contemplates putting his opossum mule on the trail to compete for honors with the best dogs in the county, and is confident that Beck will wear the blue ribbon. Beck is only eight years old and doubtless has a great future.

VERMONT

Legislators Take Action in Regard to Having Attorney-General.

Since that State was incorporated Vermont has worried along very comfortably without any attorney-general on her pay rolls. Recently, however, events have transpired which opened the eyes of the thrifty Green Mountain legislators to a realization of their penny wise, pound foolish policy.

Vermont, like other States, had a claim against the government for money expended during the war of the rebellion. There being no State official qualified to prosecute the claim, it was intrusted to non-resident attorneys, and eventually $208,453.56 was recovered. The Vermonters were delighted. Even to a greater extent than other "Yankees," they love the chink of coin—and this sum, picked up in the streets, as it were, represented to their minds wealth beyond the dreams of avarice.

But there was a fly in the ointment—as there nearly always is. It was revealed in the governor's message reporting the collection, in which he incidentally mentioned that he had paid the lawyers $40,000 for effecting the collection. The Vermont solons were paralyzed. The majority of them are horny handed sons of toil who have eked out a precarious existence on their rocky hillside farms. One member was so moved that he broke the bonds of silence and made his maiden and only speech.

"I've farmed it for thirty years and have averaged to make $500 a year," he said. "That makes $15,000. I've allus heard that lawin' was better'n farmin', and now I know it." Then he sat down.

A clamor for an attorney-general went up from press and public. It was pointed out that the State had bitten off its own nose; that it had lost the services of legal talent for fifteen years only to pay a fortune to outsiders, and what was worse, it could never get the cash back.

A bill was framed creating the office of attorney-general, rushed through both houses, and the other day became a law. Before the legislature adjourns the first incumbent will have been elected with a salary fixed at $2,500 per year, wherefore the Vermonters breathe more easily.

But when the Vermont legislators hear, as eventually they must, that her sister commonwealth of Kentucky, which has enjoyed (?) an adjutant-general time out of mind at a salary of $4,000, paid to a private attorney $72,000 for collecting a similar claim of $1,000,000, what will they think: that all Kentuckians are imbeciles; or that the governor, by whose authority it was done, has taken leave of his senses or that he prostituted his public office to reward a personal henchman, or both, or all? There is food in this reflection for the Vermonters—and for Kentuckians as well if they were not too busy fixing up private political fences to care a rap about public interests.—Paducah Register.

Beware of Ointments for Catarrh That Contains Mercury.

As mercury will surely destroy the sense of smell and completely derange the whole system when entering it through the mucous surfaces. Such articles should never be used except on prescriptions from reputable physicians, as the damage they do is ten fold to the good you can possibly derive from them. Hall's Catarrh Cure, manufactured by F. J. Cheney & Co., Toledo, O., contains no mercury, and is taken internally, acting directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system. In buying Hall's Catarrh Cure be sure you get the genuine. It is taken internally and made in Toledo, Ohio, by F. J. Cheney & Co. Testimonials free. Sold by Druggists. Price, 75c. per bottle.

Damages for False Arrest.

Paducah, Ky., Nov. 26.—Sam Stone has sued Chief Collins, Captain Joe Wood and Driver John Austin, of the patrol wagon, for $5,000. He says he was working at Fifth and Broadway August 29, 1904, when defendants arrested him, and Capt. Wood that night took him to Marion, Ky., on some charge of which he was acquitted. He now asks compensation for injury to character by reason of false imprisonment.

Oom Paul's Vast Fortune.

New York, Nov. 25.—Paul Kruger the late president of the Transvaal republic, left a fortune estimated by the Amsterdam correspondent of the World at $3,750,000. He bequeathed $125,000 to various societies in Holland and sums to all the funds opened after the South African war for the support of the Boer widows and orphans. Bequests were also made for the maintenance of the Dutch language.

CONGRESS TO CONVENE.

Many Important Bills Left Over Will Be Taken Up.

Washington, Nov. 30.—The third session of the Fifty-eighth Congress begins next Monday. Members of Congress are already arriving in the Capitol to attend its meeting, and by the time the gavel of the presiding officers of the two bodies fall a full attendance will be on hand. The calendars of both Senate and House have been prepared and show that many important measures are pending that may be called up and passed. This business is left over from the session which closed on April 28, when 2,290 bills, resolutions, etc., passed the House, leaving 468 to be disposed of. The total number of laws enacted by the present Congress up to date is 2,160, or about 700 more than the best previous record.

On the first day of Congress the President's message will be read and an adjournment taken until the following day out of respect to deceased members. The real work of Congress will then begin.

Revolution Imminent

A sure sign of approaching revolt and serious trouble in your system is nervousness, sleeplessness, or stomach upsets. Electric Bitters will quickly dismember the troublesome causes. It never fails to tone the stomach, regulate the kidneys and bowels, stimulate the liver, and clarify the blood. Run down systems benefit particularly and all the usual attending aches vanish under its searching and thorough effectiveness. Electric Bitters is only 50c, and that is returned if it don't give perfect satisfaction. Guaranteed by R. F. Haynes, druggist.

INITIATIVE AND REFERENDUM.

In THE RECORD of November 18, by Veritas, smells like a Democrat on a hunt for a paramount issue but looks like a Republican who sees the handwriting on the wall, or if he is a Populist, that there is one whose shoe latchet he is not worthy to unloose, who has that very identical Initiative and Referendum in a platform without waiting for two or more successors to Mr. successor is elected.

Mitchell near East End Cemetery, Rev. John J. Alexander officiating. Mr. Presnell is a middle aged man, is a farmer, and has four children. His bride was originally Miss Lula Johnson, and is a highly respected lady.

Mr. and Mrs. Presnell will spend several days in the county with friends before returning to their home in Livingston.—Cadiz Record.

To Disfranchise Voters.

Washington, Nov. 25.—Lieut. Gen. Chaffee, Chief of Staff of the United States army, in his annual report says in his opinion little new general legislation is needed at this time. He says sufficient time has not elapsed since the reorganization of the army to determine wisely what legislation is necessary. He suggests the enactment of State laws disfranchising deserters from the army, adding:

"If all States and Territories should by law withhold from deserters exercise of the right to vote at national, State and municipal elections, unless the act of desertion be atoned for by lawful discharge, subsequently earned by service, it seems probable that the most healthful remedy practicable would be applied to the evil, and that the result would be surprisingly great."

ANNOUNCEMENTS

FOR SHERIFF

DUVAL.—We are authorized to announce Alonzo J. Duval a candidate for the office of Sheriff of Crittenden county, subject to the action of the Republican party. Election 1905.

FLANARY.—We are authorized to announce J. F. Flanary a candidate for the office of Sheriff of Crittenden county, subject to the action of the Republican party. Election 1905.

Living as we do in a southern, a Democratic state, we may be accused of strenuous party bias when we advocate Republican measures which seem to reflect upon local custom and government.

The Republican National platform declared emphatically for a change of the basis of representation (for an inquiry as to its expediency) from that of the caucus to that of the poll-books. The utter fairness and justice of such a change is apparent to the most casual observer.

If Massachusetts, Delaware, Maine or Texas choose to limit their vote; by requiring extraordinary qualifications such as poll-tax receipt, ability to read and explain sections of the constitution, to be owner of a specific amount of value in realty or other property, or to have travelled to foreign ports, or any such qualification, it would be scarcely fair, 50 per cent of their voters being deprived of their suffrage, that as many representatives should be sent to Congress from those states, proportioned to the census returns, as from Kentucky when no such limitation prevailed.

That Kentucky with her 3,000,000 population and 600,000 voters should have her 11 members of Congress, but Massachusetts with 3,000,000 population and 300,000 voters should have but one-half as much to say in Governmental legislation, no more palpable truth could be uttered.

The abandonment of the old doctrine of "manhood suffrage" should be accompanied with a corresponding reduction of official positions, and the most dull citizen can easily see the justice of it.

This being true, and the 14th amendment to the constitution recognizing the propriety and necessity for such change in the basis of representation and the Republican National platform pledging relief and equity in the matter, we feel it the duty of a Republican paper to call attention and demand action on the reassembling of Congress.

When the amended constitution made the census reports the basis of representation all the states recognized manhood suffrage but since then divers states have added further conditions down to the latest "Grandfather" clause of several southern states, by which the negro, a citizen, has been practically eliminated from the polls of some of these states; and while it is not susceptible of proof that this grandfather clause was inserted solely to effect and bar the negro vote, few or none have the hardihood to deny that that was the purpose.

Under "census basis" the negro actually conferred representation to the extent of 3-5 of the negroes, and yet they had no vote while now, in states referred to the whole negro population is counted and represented without a vote. The Republican party owes it to the country (and the Republican party pays its debts) to correct this.

California and New Hampshire have an educational qualification for their voters and if it proves that there is as large a percentage of illiterates in those states as in some others, cutting the voting population down 10, 12 or 20 per cent, none will contend that those states should continue to retain representation at same rate and to same extent as states having 3 or 4 per cent of illiterates.

Then, why should states deliberately reducing their votes by further limitations on their suffrage. This is written on the assumption that such limitations on the suffrage are constitutional but possibly they are not so, and if not, then steps should be taken to declare them void and nugatory, but if constitutional, justice and equity demand a change in the basis of representation.

The southern counties of Missouri that are circulating a petition to be joined to Arkansas, because the petition states, that honorable men can not acknowledge citizenship in Missouri without shame and disgrace since it was carried by Roosevelt, have our permission to get off the face of the earth. That's too rank for civilization.

We would suggest to Gov. Vardaman, of Mississippi that Roosevelt was also well pleased with his plurality.

To prevent the spreading of small-pox a wholesale vaccination is in progress in Christian county.

Messrs. P. S. Maxwell and C. S. Nunn, the old chairman and secretary, respectively, of the county executive committee of the Democratic party, were re-elected Monday.

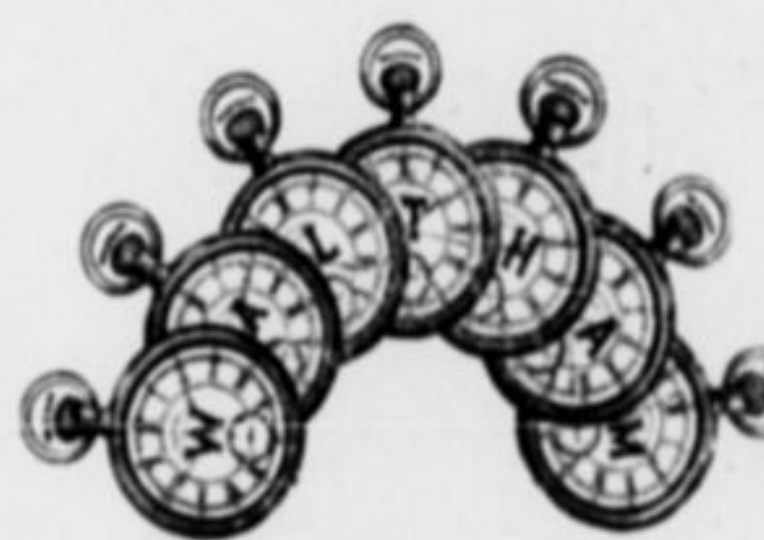

A Typographical Enigma

BY THE OFFICE FORCE

We are a quiet, peaceable aggregation and bear our fellow man no malice, but the endurance of mortals is limited, therefore hear our say.

For the past several months the typographical appearance of the Sturgis Herald has been enough to make the dust of old Guttenberger writhe in the grave. In their last issue they say they now have a cylinder press and intend to improve the paper in all respects. We can't, for the life of us, see that it makes any difference whether they have a Washington hand press or Four-deck Goss so long as they allow themselves to be imposed upon by a rattle-brained foreman who hasn't sense enough to put the forms on the press without getting the last page where the first should be. The paper is actually a disgrace to newspaperdom. Its ads. look like Chinese catechisms, the heads resemble relics of the Galveston flood or St. Louis after the storm, and typographical errors are more numerous than flees on the back of a "yaller" dog. The editor is a good man, and has our sympathy, yet we think he should either yoke his foreman out of the display-type cases, discharge the galoot, or suspend publication. If printers are scarce in that locality he might put his own two boys in the office, and if they can't do any better than the present incumbent, it would be advisable for him to kill them before they grow up. We have no doubt but what the above mentioned foreman could sharpen a plow point, or even shoe a horse, but in a printing office he wouldn't make a good galley boy. We would say to him: Go back to the farm that you learned your trade on and begin over.

Again Roosevelt has demonstrated the fact that he is the President of the whole United States. He has offered Senator Cockrell, of Missouri, the Isthmian canal commissionership made vacant by the resignation of Col. Hecker, of Michigan, and has also told him that if he feels that his health will not permit him to take the place the President desires to offer him a position on the Interstate Commerce Commission. Mr. Cockrell, as is well known, was a confederate soldier, and has for many years represented the State of Missouri in the United States Senate. He is a Democrat of the strictest school. The successor to Senator Cockrell will be elected by the legislature of that State, which is Republican. The exercise of this unbiased principle by the President in matters the importance of which materially concerns every State in the Union is what patriotic citizens vote for when they vote for president. This act, as well as that of appointing Wright, of Tennessee, to the governorship of the Philippines, should be commended. This is a clear demonstration of the fact that a party is in power that recognizes worth in men. We believe, with Andrew Jackson, that "to the victor belongs the spoil," but it does not follow that a great percent. of the clerical force of the various departments of government be removed on account of the principle, nor that the spoil system should be strictly followed in matters more international than national.

To Uncle Harvey Travis.

BY O. G. W.

You dear old Harve whom we love so well,
If we the half of all our love should tell.

You would grow red, as was that famous rose
Of York which blushed, as every poet knows,
To Lancaster on some soft bosom's swell.

And that would not be right and fit; for you
To York's white rose have ever been as true

As saints to God—have worn it in your heart,
Have made its whiteness of your soul a part,
Fresh as that rose imperaled with morning's dew.

We like to have you round; we like to see
That crown of glory which so jauntily

You wear, as if already you had been Promoted, and the blessed things had seen
Which at life's best, we know are sure to be.

We like your shining face; it does us good
To see it beam; it makes our lazy blood
Move faster, and our quickened hearts expand;
And, when you hold us by your mighty hand,
Some doubtful things are better understood.

How is it Harvey? We who strive with you
Some noble work for God and man to do,

We avow, we fret ourselves to prove
The Perfect Life, the All-embracing love;
But you just feel and know these things are true.

What is the secret? If you can impart
Your cheery gospel of the trusting heart—

But, if 'tis not transferable, why, then,
No whit the less we bring a glad amen—
Glad that you, somehow, know the blessed art.

There are two fountains, one of tears, and one
Of wholesome laughter; and they play and run
Anear each other. You to both have gone
And drunk your fill, and then have led us on
To where they gleam and ripple in the sun.

You are so human; here's the central fact
Of which your life and speech are all compact.

All things that touch the single, common heart,
These have you chosen—these, the better part!
You are so human, feeling, thought, and act.

And yet the other things you know as well.
And love almost as much; the wondrous spell
That nature weaves in grasses, trees and flowers;
The doing of the busy, tireless hours,
What the birds know and what they sometimes tell.

Stay with us Harvey! Do not go away!
Stay with us yet for many a happy day!

Huge, joyful, tender, help our duller ways
To ring with music and to laugh with praise.
God bless you! and let all the people say,

Amen!

And now farewell! God's blessing rest with you, and may
He give you peace! Farewell!

A TARTAR TRICKSTER.

The Way He Tried to Sell a Valise to a Foreigner.

At the annual fair in Nijni Novgorod I stepped with a German-Russian friend into a saddlery, where he wished to purchase a valise. He picked out one for which the Tartar merchant named a price that was evidently much in excess of its real value. My friend was making the usual feint under such circumstances of leaving the store when he noticed that the dealer, with a rapid movement, stuck a paper in the outside pocket of his valise. Not being a greenhorn in Russia, he knew immediately what the Tartar was up to.

"But, barin," said the latter, calling him back, "come. Look at the leather and the lining, silk all through. Please examine it carefully." He handed the valise again to my friend and turned back to his stock, apparently looking for other satchels to show. With a sly wink my friend extracted a ten ruble note from the outer pocket of the valise and hid it in his hand. Then he said: "Don't trouble yourself any longer. This valise seems to be what you say it is, and I will take it."

The Tartar grinned broadly as he turned around, satisfied that his little trick had succeeded. Then while my friend pretended to count out the purchase price he took hold once more of the valise in order accidentally to discover the bank note in it. I shall never forget his eyes, which bulged out of their sockets, or the petrified smile on his face when he found his money gone. He was so bewildered that he stammered like a drunken man.

"The fellow really ought to get a lesson," my friend said to me in German, while he kept the trickster in suspense for several minutes before handing him back the bank note, together with the valise, which the dealer now offered for less than half of what he had demanded before.—Sigmund Kranz in Booklovers' Magazine.

CONVERSATION "DON'TS."

Don't indulge in personalities. They invariably return worse than they started out.

Don't mention family feuds. It embarrasses the listener, and you are sure to regret it.

Don't talk of the cost of things. It gives the rich a chance for boastfulness and may be embarrassing to the poor.

Don't tell your personal interests, occupations, hopes or aspirations. Nobody wants to hear them, and you give your dignity a mortal stab.

Don't discuss children. If you have any the chances are you are boring those who have not. If you have none, you are sure to be mortally wounding those who have.

Don't discuss dress. The lady whose evening gown you are scoring may have come direct from Paris, wearing the newest thing, and the whole subject is a hopeless one anyway.—Harper's Weekly.

The Korean Language.

Korean is a difficult language to learn. Trifling errors are likely to lead a foreigner into great embarrassment. It was only the smallest mistake that led an impassioned preacher to warn his congregation that unless they repented they would be relegated to "a cellar," the Korean words for cellar and the nether world being almost identical. In like manner the story of Lazarus, who fell sick, was told to a Sunday school class with an unauthorized ending. The native form of expression is "entering a sickness," and by a trifling confusion the teacher was made to declare that Lazarus entered a bottle.

Size of the British Empire.

The British empire occupies about one-fifth of the surface of the habitable globe and consists of the United Kingdom, with its attendant islands, and about forty-three dependencies under separate and independent governments varying in size from Canada, which is thirty times the size of the United Kingdom, to Gibraltar, the area of which is two square miles. Thus the area of the British empire is ninety-eight times that of the United Kingdom, while the area of the self governing colonies alone is nearly sixty times as large as that of the mother country.—London Globe.

Books.

Of the things that make for happiness the love of books comes first. . . . A book, unlike any other friend, will wait not only upon the hour, but upon the mood. It asks nothing and gives much when one comes in the right way. . . . Is your world a small one, made unendurable by a thousand petty cares? Are the heart and soul of you cast down by bitter disappointment? Would you leave it all, if only for an hour, and come back with a new point of view? Then open the covers of a book.—From the "Master's Violin."

Didn't Know It All.

"Oh," sneered the self important lawyer who was cross examining, "you think you know it all, don't you?"

"Not quite," replied the witness. "For instance, I don't know how you manage to secure an occasional client."—Chicago News.

The Drawback.

Old Gentleman—Since your uncle left you that legacy, Mrs. Casey, you must find your path in life much smoother. Mrs. Casey—Shure Oi dunno, sor. Oi foind the more ye how to at the more dishes there is to wash.—Brooklyn Life.

Maddening.

Judge—Had you any provocation for assaulting this man? Prisoner—Oi had, yer honor. He wasn't foightin'—Puck.

MORAL DILEMMAS.

When Man Is Forced to Make a Choice Between Two Evils.

The rules of logic are unknown to the mass of mankind, but no one possessed of intelligence is unfamiliar with the process of balancing alternatives. Even the animals use it when they choose between two paths or two actions, as between flight and flight. Men use it in every dilemma, great or small, from the choice between the simplest actions to the issue of life or death. Is the thing under consideration good or bad? Shall I vote for A or B? Shall I act now or postpone? Shall I take a risk? Shall I stop or go on? Shall I change my course? Shall I do this or that? In these and other dilemmas we balance the consequences of one alternative against the other and choose what appears to be the better. Facing death in two forms, we choose the better way. Balancing alternatives, one will jump from a high window to the pavement to escape fire.

The moral dilemmas presented to us are not always limited to a clear choice between right and wrong. It is wrong to steal, but should one starve or permit those dependent on him to starve rather than steal? It is right to tell the truth, but should one tell the truth when it involves the betrayal of his comrades, his country, his family? It is wrong to deceive, but would not one be justified in deceiving the enemy who would destroy him? It is wrong to kill, but may not one kill in self defense?

The problem of morals presses constantly upon the human race, presenting to each individual in turn new trials, difficulties and repugnant choices. Each must to a large degree choose his own way to fight his own battle. These are the facts which confuse our ethical counselors. It is not possible to act always in exact harmony with our moral code. If one is so placed that he can save his mother from starvation only by stealing, he will violate the fifth commandment if he permits her to starve, and he will violate the eighth commandment if he chooses to steal. The choice between two evils often comes to the individual suddenly and imperatively. He must act at once, rendering a decision for which there is often no precedent known to him. The Decalogue, which he can recite; the philosophical analysis of the evolutions of ethics, do not aid him.

He who is thus tried and who desires to do right will choose the course which is least evil. He will balance the alternatives, exactly as does the one who jumps to the pavement rather than remain in the burning building.—From "Balance: The Fundamental Verity," by Orlando J. Smith.

A Trickster Skipper.

"Talking about rats," said a stevedore on a Sixth street pier, "reminds me of a pretty slick trick I witnessed the other day on the part of a down east skipper who wished to rid the ship of a number of troublesome rodents. His vessel was moored near to an English freighter, and he noticed that she was taking in a quantity of cheese. So one evening he found an excuse for hauling out to her and taking his own packet alongside. The next step was to procure a plank, smear it well with an odoriferous preparation of red herring and place it through an open port on board the Englishman. The result was that during the night there was a wholesale immigration of rats from the American ship's hold to the cheese laden vessel alongside."—New York Press.

Fitted For the Business.

"Have you ever had any experience in canvassing for subscription books?" asked the man at the desk.

"No, sir," said the applicant for a job, "but I can put up a good talk."

"Well, take a copy of this work and go and see if you can get an order. I'll give you half a day to make the trial."

The applicant went away. In an hour or two he returned. "What luck?" inquired the man at the desk.

"I've got an order for this book in full morocco from your wife, sir."

"The deuce! You'll do, young man."—Chicago Tribune.

Japanese Toys.

"Our children," says a Japanese lady, "are not children long, and we can do most with them when they are little. Then we show them only beautiful things, you know—only beautiful things—little silken balls and little carved ivory things. Oh, your children's things—toys, don't you call them?—are so ugly. We would be afraid of what our children would be if we gave them your children's toys."—Melbourne Leader.

Laziness.

One of the principal elements of safety to life and property in our society is the indolence and the consequent stupidity of many of the evil disposed. There are malicious persons who are harmless only because they are afflicted with the germ of laziness.—Philadelphia Record.

Remodeled.

Kwoter—"He laughs best who laughs last." There's a great deal of truth in that old saw. Wise—Yes, but there's more truth in the new saw that he laughs best who laughs first and whose laugh lasts.—Exchange.
