ANOTHER BIG MINERAL DEAL MADE THIS WEEK

Big Output of Zinc Carbonate at the Miller. Lead and Zinc Strike at the Ebba Hodge.

The Kentucky Fluor Spar company shipped a car of lead last week.

The Columbia Mining Co. had a number of wagons hauling lead last week.

It is reported that Harry Watkins is going to sell out lock, stock and barrel and remove to Mayfield.

The Commodore Mining Co. are pushing their new shaft down rapidly and expect to strike the vein next week.

Mr. J. M. Persons thinks the Commodore Mining Company's property equally as rich as the Columbia Mining Company's property and has as many veins, if not more.

Our New Salem correspondent writes: Nothing new this week in mining operations. We can now hear the whistles, morning and evening, from seven mining plants while others who are now using horse power will install steam.

Messrs Wm. Miller and John Sheas, the "mineral sharks" of Louisville, were in our town last week looking after their many mines, now being operated in this field. They left on Sunday morning well pleased with the outlook.

The Marion Mineral company's Pogue mine is in full blast; there has been something near 4,000 tons of spar hauled from this mine to the railroad in the last few weeks and the company are shipping eight to ten cars a week and are behind with orders. Such work as this is good for the country.

The Miller zinc mine is fast becoming the Comstock lead of Crittenden. It has suddenly surprised its owners and they are very jubilant over the output of zinc there and will run it in full blast until the winter weather forces a shut down on all open cut work. This property belongs to the Marion Mineral company and is now considered one of the big guns of old Crittenden.

The Pittsburg Mining company have discovered a fine vein of carbonate of zinc on the Ebba Hodge property. They also have a 11 foot vein of lead and spar on the Marion Break. The Marion Break has proved to be one of our leading veins in this district. The Lucile is on the Marion Break. It has a 11 foot vein of spar. The Leander White, which is a fine vein of No. 1 fluor spar, and several others that have been opened are on this Break.

The Ada-Florence has proved to be a wonderful mine and is talked about a great deal among the "Mineral Kings." Lead and zinc covers the bottom of the shaft without any fluor spar. This shaft has turned out more rich mineral to the depth than any other shaft in the district. The shaft is now deep enough to start six levels on lead and zinc and this will be done as soon as the company strikes water and decide where to locate their mill.

Work is being pushed rapidly by Pierce, Gugenheim, Porter and Harpending on the Ed Flannery property. The prospects look favorable for a large vein of lead and zinc. We are glad to see that some of the Marion capitalists have taken hold of some of the golden opportunities in the mining field in this district, instead of letting foreign capitalists come and swallow up all the fortunes. We would be glad to see other capitalists follow the example of these bright young men.

Last week the Commodore Mining Co., bought a fine tract of mineral land from Harry Watkins that joins the Franks property on which the company are sinking a new shaft and have struck a 12 ft. vein of lead and fluor spar. This puts the Commodore Mining Co. in the lead in the mining business. They have over a mile on the famous LaRue vein, and also the Eureka, Glendale and Dike veins and some others that have not been developed. It is reported by all well posted mineral men that this is one of the richest as well as one of the largest tracts of mineral lands in this section. We are glad to see our Louisville friends successful in getting hold of these rich mineral properties. They are ever welcome and we wish them great success.

One of the benefits arising from the developments in this county, though collateral, will be of the highest importance. The original "Old Jim" boom attracted attention to the State, and was the direct means of opening up property in many sections a great many miles from the new El Dorado. The boom now on will have a still more marked effect along those lines. We have other great districts, and the mining men coming here attracted by the production of the "9 Acre," Miller, Columbia and Memphis, and others, will, in many instances, look into others which shall be called to their notice. For instance, Salem and its great district will be made more familiar to mining operators through their coming into Kentucky, attracted by Little Jim, the Eagle and the Riley. They will learn of the wonderful riches of those camps, and a great many of them will go to them; others will go to the Ada-Florence, others to the Noe, and some to the Franks; some into Trigg county and others to various points in the mineral belts of Livingston county; some to Deer Creek, Mexico, Caldwell county; etc. The result will be that, following close upon the heels of the starting of the great Eagle fluor spar mill upon its career of steady production, with the beginning of the New Year, dozens of mines in other localities will be opened and worked with larger forces and at great profit. Kentucky has more undeveloped mineral territory than any other two States in the Union, and the calling of attention to its riches is all that is needed to insure their being developed.

There is much for which producers of lead and zinc ores should have been thankful for this past week. The previous weeks had turned much in the way of prosperity into the laps of the owners of good mines. The spelter and lead markets are in a very satisfactory condition, the demand for both metals being seasonable, and at prices highly satisfactory for the latter commodity. With the price of zinc ore and spelter on a parity the zinc smelter would have had his share of the season's good times, but conditions now point to a resumption of more normal conditions. On the whole the general situation could be worse, decidedly worse.

There is less difficulty in placing a value on developed mine than on a prospect no matter how good it may be. In the case of the mine the ore reserves can be estimated; with real assurance of an average value, for with the aid of the shafts, tunnels, crosscuts and drifts, with numerous connecting wings to show the extent and character of the ore, it may be expected on three or four sides. This, together with the averages of the width of vein and metallic contents can be estimated with very satisfactory accuracy. To secure all this information and arrive at the deductions therefrom requires time and care, being a work in which experience both with the mineral values in hand and the district in which the mine occurs, lends a very material assistance.

When attempting to arrive at the value of a prospect no such advantages exist, save in a more or less limited extent. The development is naturally limited and there is not so much on which to estimate the value of the property. Regarding the value of the prospect the owners and the examining engineers usually disagree on their estimates although it is by no means unusual that a prospect

MINERAL LANDS FOR SALE.

I have about 4,000 acres of mineral land in Hardin and Pope counties, Ill., and claim to have 50 miles of fissure vein minerals in this holding, with 35 cross veins with about 100 open cuts and shafts down, with mineral showing in all of these.

I have the following mineral: Zinc, lead, fluor-spar, oxide of cobalt, manganese, nickel, copper, silver and barytes.

The railroad company are now securing the right-of-way for a railroad through the heart of this mineral belt and say they are ready to begin building the road.

I know every vein of mineral in these two counties, and what they are and where the largest deposits are and am ready to serve all comers, and can sell you first-class mineral so cheap it will surprise you.

Whose picture we present herewith, has been chosen principal of the shorthand department of Lockyear's Business College at Hopkinsville, which is a branch of the Evansville school. In awarding her the place the directors said: "We give this position to Miss Moore for the reason that she has the necessary tact and skill as a stenographer and teacher, to conduct our Shorthand and Typewriting Department, and we selected her in preference to others out of a list of several hundred graduates from our Shorthand Department, for the reasons above stated." Miss Moore's many friends will regret to have her leave Marion but at same time congratulate her on her good fortune.

S. S. Teacher's Training Class.

The Sunday School lessons for the first six months of 1905 will be taken from the Gospel of John. In order to familiarize the Sunday School teachers with the Gospel of John and to correlate it with the general life of Christ, they are asked to keep up the following daily readings. Notice carefully the topics as well as to read the scriptures.

Wednesday, Dec. 7, Luke's Preface, Luke 1: 1-4.
Thursday, Dec. 8, Annunciation of Zacharias, Luke 1: 5-22.
Friday, Dec. 9, Zacharias' Return Home, Luke 1: 23-25.
Saturday, Dec. 10, Mary's Espousal to Joseph, Mt. 1: 18b; Luke 1: 27a.
Monday, Dec. 12, Mary's Visit to Elizabeth, Luke 1: 39-56.
Tuesday, Dec. 13, Annunciation to Joseph, Mt. 1: 18-25.

Mr. Radcliffe, the traveling auditor of the Standard Oil Co., was here last Thursday to install E. H. James as agent to succeed A. J. Duval.

J. B. Champion and wife went to Dixon Friday. Mr. Champion had legal business there and Mrs. Champion accompanied him to visit relatives.

We have some prospects of getting mails on Sunday. The hotel and transient trade demand it. Traveling men need their mail on Sunday and won't go where they can't get it.

Geo. Nunn of Sullivan came over to see his mother, Mrs. Kit Nunn, who is here with her son, R. I. Nunn. Geo. is an old Crittenden county boy who is driving in Union county.

Geo. Russell has moved to Frances from the Miller Mines. He says they will start up the Pogue soon.

Mrs. R. H. Woods got quite a severe fall last Saturday on the sled which formed on the walk in her yard. She was not seriously hurt but was pretty badly shaken up and scared by her experience.

Mansfield Moore & Co., shipped Saturday five car loads of stock worth probably $5,000. Marion is getting to be quite a shipping point on stock. We hear they have absorbed Oliver, Alley & Company.

Physicians everywhere should be on their guard and should isolate the first case and vaccinate all exposed at once. Grown people almost never have chicken pox. When unvaccinated grown people have a contagious eruptive disease under existing circumstances they should be isolated and treated as suspicious until the health authorities decide that it is not smallpox. All should remember that there is no such disease as "elephant itch," "African itch," "ar m y itch," "cedar itch," or "Cuban itch," and are "nigger" names for smallpox. Every person in the State who has already been vaccinated should do so at once, and the ignorant or negligent should be compelled to protect themselves for the benefit of their communities, by the proper authorities. The laws on this subject are ample and sufficient and whenever smallpox spreads in any community it is the fault of the health or fiscal officers. In preventing the spread of this horrible disease the Board asks and expects the support of all intelligent people. Copies of circulars describing the modern methods of preventing this and other contagious diseases may be had free of expense upon application to the Board at Bowling Green.

EGYPT'S HOARDED GOLD.

The world's supply of gold, says the Omaha Commercial, will shortly be tremendously increased by a revolution of sentiment that is to be inaugurated in Egypt and India. It appears odd that a mere change of sentiment will produce gold, but in this case the oddity is very likely to become a reality.

The Moslem character, through a principle inculcated by the decree of the Koran, abhors usury and this feeling has through centuries become so strong that even legitimate interest will not be taken by a Moslem. There are about 20,000 bank depositors in Egypt, and of these less than 2,000 are Moslems, and among these no one of them will accept interest legally accruing to them, from their savings deposits.

In India the same condition exists, and for centuries it has been the custom there as in Egypt for those who are thrifty to place their savings in the purchase of gold and jewels. Statistics show that although India is a gold producing country the imports of gold have exceeded the exports by over one billion dollars during the last forty years. The supposition is, and it is probably well founded, that the Indian people have an almost incalculable amount of their wealth hidden away in nooks and corners, all expressed in gold and jewels.

To bring this wealth to the light of civilization, students of economy have spent their efforts for years, and it seems that at last a solution has been found. Lord Cromer, the British plenipotentiary in Egypt, has, through several conferences with the grand mufti, and other executive officials of the Egyptian law, obtained a revision of their views regarding financial institutions, and the payment or acceptance of legitimate interest upon loans, securities and savings deposits. These officials have consented to promulgate a new interpretation of the law of the Koran, which will modify the restrictions of that document, so as to aid in dissipating the inherent prejudice among the Moslems towards financial institutions. If this interpretation works as it is intended it is expected that many millions of the present hidden treasure will be placed in circulation.

VITAL BLOW.

London, Dec 2.—The correspondent at Chefoo of the Daily Telegram says that the attack on 203. Meter Hill resulted in heavy losses to the First Division of the Japanese stormers. Simultaneously with the assault, the correspondent says, men of the Ninth and Eleventh Divisions advanced and menaced the Rhilung and Kekwan forts. It is stated, the correspondent adds, that within the last 24 hours the Japanese casualties have totaled 15,000, and it is asserted that the attacks have been placed to continue until December 10th, when it is hoped the capture of Port Arthur will have been completed.

The Russian War Office officials reluctantly agree that such a big breach in the chain renders the situation extremely critical, and, though the garrison might be able to hold out on Golden Hill Tigers Tail and Liaotes forts for some time longer, it may mark the beginning of the end. The Russians admit that this is a fatal blow to the gallant defenders of the fortress. The position commands the harbor and if the Japanese can succeed in mounting siege guns upon it they can force out the Russian squadron or destroy it at its anchorage.

NUNN & TUCKER.

Lockyear's Business College.

Readers of the New Era will remember that we chronicled the visit of M. H. Lockyear, of Evansville, Indiana, President of Lockyear's Business College, two weeks ago, who was here at that time looking over the city with a view of establishing a business college. We are reliably informed that this institution will open a school here on the first of January next.

The faculty will be composed of two of the best teachers now in their Evansville Colleges. Courses of instruction will be afforded in all business branches, including shorthand and type writing.

Lockyear's College is one of the largest and best known institutions in the middle west, having graduated hundreds of young people who are now employed by leading mercantile establishments throughout the country. That kind of education is extremely practical as the branches taught can be put into use in the every day walks of life.

The office will be opened up during the next ten days and quarters in which the school will be housed will be announced in a short time. Any person desiring to secure a thorough preparation for business life will do well to arrange to enter at the beginning of the winter term.

Any information desired at this time will be gladly furnished if you will write to the college at Evansville Ind. — Hopkinsville New Era.

The Truth About Santa Claus.

I write myself down as one who still believes in Santa Claus; don't you? Are you one of those very literal folk who have their doubts whether they ought to let their children cling to the beautiful old myth? My dear, wherever you are, come sit down by me and let me reason with you.

Without imagination, without dreams, without poetry this world of ours would be a very wearisome place. Its road would be steeper than it is—very much like sleighing over bare ground would our progress be, as compared to sleighing over deep, hard packed snow.

The poetic myth of the old saint with his reindeer, and his jingling bells and his bulging pack of toys and bonbons, has charmed a thousand generations. The stockings hung by the chimney on Christmas eve; the children staying awake until sleep pounces on them like a strong man armed; the presents filling them from top to toe in the morning; the rush of the bare feet hurrying fast across the floor; the merry uproar; the bubbling laughter; the shouts of joy—the whole of this family pageant belongs to dear old Santa Claus. We owe it to him. Gradually as the golden mists of childhood clear before the sun and the trailing clouds of glory fade, our small men and women discover that Santa Claus is not one, but ten thousand; that he is better than they knew, being just the spirit of love, good will, and beautiful unselfishness, that makes the world a beautiful place to live in now, and makes it a good starting point for heaven by and by. For you and me there is hope that we may do our duty in this world lovingly, while we keep the child heart, and believe in Santa Claus.

Trouble in Venezuela.

Washington, D. C., Dec 1.—Reports reached the State Department of a very serious state of affairs in Venezuela. Many citizens have been put in prison for alleged political offenses, public opinion is inflamed, and serious apprehension for their safety prevails among the foreign element. The State Department is closely observing the trend of events there. It is patiently awaiting the decision of the Supreme Court of Venezuela, in the case as the asphalt concern. When that decision is handed down announcement will be made of the policy to be pursued by this government.

Frequent reports reach the European Embassies here of the troubles of foreigners in Venezuela and of the slowness with which the foreign governments are obtaining their awards.

PRESIDENT'S MESSAGE

President Roosevelt's message has been delivered to congress. Its main features are as follows:

The enlargement of scope of the functions of the national government required by our development as a nation involves, of course, increase of expense, and the period of prosperity through which the country is passing justifies expenditures for permanent improvements far greater than would be wise in hard times, but abundant revenues and a large surplus always invite extravagance, and constant care should be taken to guard against unnecessary increase of the ordinary expenses of government.

Capital and Labor.

The relations of capital and labor, and especially of organized capital and organized labor, to each other and to the public at large come second in importance only to the intimate questions of family life. Our peculiar form of government, with its sharp division of authority between the nation and the several states, has been on the whole far more advantageous to our development than a more strongly centralized government. But it is undoubtedly responsible for much of the difficulty of meeting with adequate legislation the new problems presented by the total change in industrial conditions on this continent during the last half century. In actual practice it has proved exceedingly difficult, and in many cases impossible, to get unanimity of wise action among the various states on these subjects. From the very nature of the case this is especially true of the laws affecting the employment of capital in huge masses.

With regard to labor, the problem is no less important, but it is simpler. As long as the states retain the primary control of the police power the circumstances must be altogether extreme which require interference by the federal authorities, whether in the way of safeguarding the rights of labor or in the way of seeing that wrong is not done by unscrupulous persons who shield themselves behind the name of labor. If there is resistance to the federal courts, interference with the mails or interstate commerce or molestation of federal property, or if the state authorities in some crisis which they are unable to face call for help, then the federal government may interfere; but, though such interference may be caused by a condition of things arising out of trouble connected with some question of labor, the interference itself simply takes the form of restoring or deterring regard to the questions which have caused the breach of order. In the District of Columbia and in the territories the federal law covers the entire field of government. But the labor question is only acute in populous centers of commerce, manufactures or mining. Nevertheless both in the enactment and in the enforcement of law the federal government within its restricted sphere should set an example to the state governments, especially in a matter so vital as this affecting labor.

Labor Unions.

I believe that under modern industrial conditions it is often necessary and even where not necessary it is yet often wise that there should be organization of labor in order better to secure the rights of the individual workman. All encouragement should be given to any such organization so long as it is conducted with a due and decent regard for the rights of others. There are in this country some labor unions which have habitually and other labor unions which have often been among the most effective agents in working for good citizenship and for uplifting the condition of those whose welfare should be closest to our hearts. But when any labor union seeks improper ends or seeks to achieve proper ends by improper means all good citizens, and more especially all honorable public servants, must oppose the wrongdoing as resolutely as they would oppose the wrongdoing of any great corporation. Violence, brutality or corruption should not for one moment be tolerated.

Entire Right to Organize.

Wageworkers have an entire right to organize and by all peaceful and honorable means to endeavor to persuade their fellows to join with them in organizations. They have a legal right, which, according to circumstances, may or may not be a moral right, to refuse to work in company with men who decline to join their organizations. They have under no circumstances the right to commit violence upon those, whether capitalists or wageworkers, who refuse to support their organizations or who side with those with whom they are at odds, for mob rule is intolerable in any form.

The wageworkers are peculiarly entitled to the protection and the encouragement of the law. Wherever the national government has power there should be a stringent employer's liability law, which should apply to the government itself where the government is an employer of labor.

Prevention of Railroad Accidents.

The ever increasing casualty list upon our railroads is a matter of grave public concern and urgently calls for action by the congress. The passage of a law requiring the adoption of a block signal system has been proposed to the congress. I earnestly concur in that recommendation and would also point out to the congress the urgent need of legislation in the interest of the public safety, limiting the hours of labor for railroad employees in train service upon railroads engaged in interstate commerce and providing that only trained and experienced persons be employed in positions of responsibility connected with the operation of trains.

The safety appliance law, as amended by the act of March 2, 1903, has proved beneficial to railway employees, and in order that its provisions may be properly carried out the force of inspectors provided for by appropriation should be largely increased. This service has passed the experimental stage and should receive generous recognition by the congress.

Unions in Government Offices.

There is no objection to employees of the government forming or belonging to unions, but the government can neither discriminate for nor discriminate against nonunion men who are in its employment or who seek to be employed under it. Moreover, it is a very grave impropriety for government employees to band themselves together for the purpose of extorting improperly high salaries from the government. Especially is this true of those within the classified service. The letter carriers, both municipal and rural, are as a whole an excellent body of public servants. They should be amply paid. But their payment must be obtained by arguing their claims fairly and honorably before the congress and not by banding together for the defeat of those congressmen who refuse to give promises which they cannot in conscience give. The administration has taken steps to prevent and punish abuses of this nature, but it will be wise for the congress to supplement this action by legislation.

Bureau of Labor.

Much can be done by the government in labor matters merely by giving publicity to certain conditions. The bureau of labor has done excellent work of this kind in many different directions. I shall shortly lay before you in a special message the full report of the investigation of the bureau of labor into the Colorado mining strike, as this is a strike in which certain very evil forces, which are more or less at work everywhere under the conditions of modern industrialism, became startlingly prominent. It is greatly to be wished that the department of commerce and labor, through the labor bureau, should compile and arrange for the congress a list of the labor laws of the various states and should be given the means to investigate and report to the congress upon the labor conditions in the manufacturing and mining regions throughout the country, both as to wages, as to hours of labor, as to the labor of women and children and as to the effect in the various labor centers of immigration from abroad. In this investigation especial attention should be paid to the conditions of child labor and child labor legislation in the several states.

Corporations.

When we come to deal with great corporations the need for the government to act directly is far greater than in the case of labor, because great corporations can become such only by engaging in interstate commerce, and interstate commerce is peculiarly the field of the general government. It is an absurdity to expect to eliminate the abuses in great corporations by state action. It is difficult to be patient with an argument that such matters should be left to the states, because more than one state pursues the policy of creating on easy terms corporations which are never operated within that state at all, but in other states whose laws they ignore. The national government alone can deal adequately with these great corporations. To try to deal with them in an intemperate, destructive or demagogic spirit would in all probability mean that nothing whatever would be accomplished, and with absolute certainty that if anything were accomplished it would be of a harmful nature. The American people need to continue to show the very qualities that they have shown—that is, moderation, good sense, the earnest desire to avoid doing any damage and yet the quiet determination to proceed step by step, without halt and without hurry, in eliminating or at least in minimizing whatever of mischief or of evil there is to interstate commerce in the conduct of great corporations. They are acting in no spirit of hostility to wealth, either individual or corporate. They are not against the rich man any more than against the poor man. On the contrary, they are friendly alike toward rich man and toward poor man, provided only that each acts in a spirit of justice and decency toward his fellows. Great corporations are necessary, and only men of great and singular mental power can manage such corporations successfully, and such men must have great rewards. But these corporations should be managed with due regard to the interest of the public as a whole. Where this can be done under the present laws it must be done. Where these laws come short others should be enacted to supplement them.

Bureau of Corporations.

The bureau of corporations has made careful preliminary investigation of many important corporations. It will make a special report on the beef industry.

The policy of the bureau is to accomplish the purposes of its creation by co-operation, not antagonism; by making constructive legislation, not destructive prosecution; the immediate object of its inquiries; by conservative investigation of law and fact and by refusal to issue incomplete and hence necessarily inaccurate reports. Its policy being thus one of open inquiry into and not attack upon business, the bureau has been able to gain not only the confidence, but, better still, the co-operation, of men engaged in legitimate business.

The bureau offers to the congress the means of getting at the cost of production of our various great staples of commerce.

Of necessity the careful investigation of special corporations will afford the commissioner knowledge of certain business facts, the publication of which might be an improper infringement of private rights. The method of making public the results of these investigations affords, under the law, a means for the protection of private rights. The congress will have all facts except such as would give to another corporation information which would injure the legitimate business of a competitor and destroy the incentive for individual superiority and thrift.

The bureau has also made exhaustive examinations into the legal condition under which corporate business is carried on in the various states, into all judicial decisions on the subject and into the various systems of corporate taxation in use. I call special attention to the report of the chief of the bureau, and I earnestly ask that the congress carefully consider the report and recommendations of the commissioner on this subject.

The business of insurance vitally affects the great mass of the people of the United States and is national and not local in its application. It involves a multitude of transactions among the people of the different states and between American companies and foreign governments. I urge that the congress carefully consider whether the power of the bureau of corporations cannot constitutionally be extended to cover interstate transactions in insurance.

Rebates.

Above all else we must strive to keep the highways of commerce open to all on equal terms, and to do this it is necessary to put a complete stop to all rebates. Whether the shipper or the railroad is to blame makes no difference. The rebate must be stopped; the abuses of the private car and private terminal track and side track systems must be stopped, and the legislation of the Fifty-eighth congress which declares it to be unlawful for any person or corporation to offer, grant, give, solicit, accept or receive any rebate, concession or discrimination in respect of the transportation of any property in interstate or foreign commerce whereby such property shall by any device whatever be transported at a less rate than that named in the tariffs published by the carrier must be enforced. While I am of the opinion that at present it would be undesirable if it were not impracticable finally to clothe the interstate commerce commission with general authority to fix railroad rates, I do believe that as a fair security to shippers the commission should be vested with the power where a given rate has been challenged and after full hearing found to be unreasonable to decide, subject to judicial review, what shall be a reasonable rate to take its place, the ruling of the commission to take effect immediately and to obtain unless and until it is reversed by the court of review.

Steamship companies engaged in interstate commerce and protected in our coastwise trade should be held to a strict observance of the interstate commerce act.

The president here discusses the city of Washington, making numerous recommendations looking to its better government. He asks that laws be passed preventing overcrowding in the tenement districts, for the abolition of blind alleys and the proper housing of the poor. He also recommends changes in the criminal code, and would have wife beaters corporally punished.

Irrigation.

During the two and a half years that have elapsed since the passage of the reclamation act rapid progress has been made in the surveys and examinations of the opportunities for reclamation in the thirteen states and three territories of the arid west. Construction has already been begun on the largest and most important of the irrigation works, and plans are being completed for works which will utilize the funds now available.

The forest policy of the government is just now a subject of vivid public interest throughout the west and to the people of the United States in general. The forest reserves themselves are of extreme value to the present as well as to the future welfare of all the western public land states. They powerfully affect the use and disposal of the public lands. They are of special importance because they preserve the water supply and the supply of timber for domestic purposes and so promote settlement under the reclamation act. Indeed they are essential to the welfare of every one of the great interests of the west.

I have repeatedly called attention to the confusion which exists in government forest matters because the work is scattered among three independent organizations. As I have recommended, all the forest work of the government should be concentrated in the department of agriculture, where the larger part of that work is already done. The Canyon of the Colorado should be made a national park, and the national park system should include the Yosemite and as many as possible of the groves of giant trees in California.

Pensions.

The veterans of the civil war have a claim upon the nation such as no other body of our citizens possess. The pension bureau has never in its history been managed in a more satisfactory manner than is now the case.

Consular Service.

Our consular system needs improvement. Salaries should be substituted for fees, and the proper classification, grading and transfer of consular officers should be provided. I am not prepared to say that a competitive system of examinations for appointment would work well, but by law it should be provided that consuls should be familiar, according to places for which they apply, with the French, German or Spanish language and should possess acquaintance with the resources of the United States.

It is desirable to enact a proper national quarantine law.

I call your attention to the great extravagance in printing and binding government publications and especially to the fact that altogether too many of these publications are printed.

Currency.

The attention of the congress should be especially given to the currency question and that the standing committees on the matter in the two houses charged with the duty take up the matter of our currency and see whether it is not possible to secure an agreement in the business world for bettering the system. The committees should consider the question of the retirement of the greenbacks and the problem of securing in our currency such elasticity as is consistent with safety. Every silver dollar should be made by law redeemable in gold at the option of the holder.

Merchant Marine.

I especially commend to your immediate attention the encouragement of our merchant marine by appropriate legislation.

The growing importance of the orient as a field for American exports drew from my predecessor, President McKinley, an urgent request for its special consideration by the congress.

The importance of securing proper information and data with a view to the enlargement of our trade with Asia is undoubted. Our consular representatives in China have strongly urged a place for permanent display of American products in some prominent trade center of that empire, under government control and management, as an effective means of advancing our export trade therein. I call the attention of the congress to the desirability of carrying out these suggestions.

Immigration and Naturalization.

In dealing with the questions of immigration and naturalization it is indispensable to keep certain facts ever before the minds of those who share in enacting the laws. First and foremost, let us remember that the question of being a good American has nothing whatever to do with a man's birthplace any more than it has to do with his creed. In every generation from the time this government was founded men of foreign birth have stood in the very foremost rank of good citizenship, and that not merely in one but in every field of American activity.

There is no danger of having too many immigrants of the right kind, but the citizenship of this country should not be debased. It is vital that we should keep high the standard of well being among our wage-workers, and therefore we should not admit masses of men whose standards of living and whose personal customs and habits are such that they tend to lower the level of the American wage-worker, and above all we should not admit any man of an unworthy type. Similarly we should take the greatest care about naturalization. Fraudulent naturalization, the naturalization of improper persons, is a curse to our government, and it is the affair of every honest voter, wherever born, to see that no fraudulent voting is allowed, that no fraud in connection with naturalization is permitted.

Revision of Naturalization Laws.

There should be a comprehensive revision of the naturalization laws. The courts having power to naturalize should be definitely named by national authority, the testimony upon which naturalization may be conferred should be definitely prescribed, publication of impending naturalization applications should be required in advance of their hearing in court, the form and wording of all certificates issued should be uniform throughout the country, and the courts should be required to make returns to the secretary of state at stated periods of all naturalizations conferred.

Not only are the laws relating to naturalization now defective, but those relating to citizenship of the United States ought also to be made the subject of scientific inquiry with a view to probable further legislation. The power of the government to protect the integrity of the elections of its own officials is inherent and has been recognized and affirmed by repeated declarations of the supreme court. There is no enemy of free government more dangerous and none so insidious as the corruption of the electorate. I recommend the enactment of a law directed against bribery and corruption in federal elections.

Delays in Criminal Prosecutions.

No subject is better worthy the attention of the congress than that of the report of the attorney general dealing with the long delays and the great obstruction to justice experienced in the cases of Beavers, Green and Gaynor and Benson. Were these isolated and special cases I should not call your attention to them, but the difficulties encountered as regards these men who have been indicted for criminal practices are not exceptional. They are precisely similar in kind to what occurs again and again in the case of criminals who have sufficient means to enable them to take advantage of a system of procedure which has grown up in the federal courts and which amounts in effect to making the law easy of enforcement against the man who has no money and difficult of enforcement, even to the point of sometimes securing immunity, as regards the man who has money. At present the interests of the innocent man are amply safeguarded, but the interests of the government—that is, the interests of honest administration; that is, the interests of the people—are not recognized as they should be.

(The president discusses the progress of the territories of Alaska.)

and Porto Rico, with recommendations for changes in the present system of government of the first named. He desires to see a delegate from Alaska in congress.)

Foreign Policy.

The steady aim of this nation, as of all enlightened nations, should be to strive to bring ever nearer the day when there shall prevail throughout the world the peace of justice, but there are kinds of peace which are highly undesirable, which are in the long run as destructive as any war. The goal to set before us as a nation, the goal which should be set before all mankind, is the attainment of the peace of justice, of the peace which comes when each nation is not merely safeguarded in its own rights, but scrupulously recognizes and performs its duty toward others. Generally peace tells for righteousness, but if there is conflict between the two then our fealty is due first to the cause of righteousness. Unrighteous wars are common and unrighteous peace is rare, but both should be shunned. The right of freedom and the responsibility for the exercise of that right cannot be divorced. One of our great poets has well and finely said that freedom is not a gift that carries long in the hands of cowards. Neither does it tarry long in the hands of those too slothful, too dishonest or too unintelligent to exercise it. The eternal vigilance which is the price of liberty must be exercised sometimes to guard against outside foes, although, of course, far more often to guard against our own selfish or thoughtless shortcomings.

It is our duty to remember that a nation has no more right to do injustice to another nation, strong or weak, than an individual has to do injustice to another individual; that the same moral law applies in one case as in the other. But we must also remember that it is as much the duty of the nation to guard its own rights and its own interests as it is the duty of the individual so to do. Until some method is devised by which there shall be a degree of international control over offending nations it would be a wicked thing for the most civilized powers, for those with most sense of international obligations and with keenest and most generous appreciation of the difference between right and wrong, to disarm. If the great civilized nations of the present day should completely disarm, the result would mean an immediate recrudescence of barbarism in one form or another. Under any circumstances a sufficient armament would have to be kept up to serve the purposes of international police, and until international cohesion and the sense of international duties and rights are far more advanced than at present a nation desirous both of securing respect for itself and of doing good to others must have a force adequate for the work which it feels is allotted to it as its part of the general world duty. Therefore it follows that a self respecting, just and farseeing nation should on the one hand endeavor by every means to aid in the development of the various movements which tend to provide substitutes for war, which tend to render nations in their actions toward one another and indeed toward their own peoples more responsive to the general sentiment of humane and civilized mankind, and, on the other hand, that it should keep prepared, while scrupulously avoiding wrongdoing itself, to repel any wrong and in exceptional cases to take action which in a more advanced stage of international relations would come under the head of the exercise of the international police.

Arbitration Treaties.

We are in every way endeavoring to help on, with cordial good will, every movement which will tend to bring us into more friendly relations with the rest of mankind. In pursuance of this policy I shall shortly lay before the senate treaties of arbitration with all powers which are willing to enter into these treaties with us. It is not possible at this period of the world's development to agree to arbitrate all matters, but there are many matters of possible difference between us and other nations which can be thus arbitrated. Furthermore, at the request of the Interparliamentary union, an eminent body composed of practical statesmen from all countries, I have asked the powers to join with this government in a second Hague conference, at which it is hoped that the work already so happily begun at The Hague may be carried some steps further toward completion. This carries out the desire expressed by the first Hague conference itself.

Policy Toward Other Nations of Western Hemisphere.

It is not true that the United States feels any land hunger or entertains any projects as regards the other nations of the western hemisphere save such as are for their welfare. All that this country desires is to see the neighboring countries stable, orderly and prosperous. Any country whose people conduct themselves well can count upon our hearty friendship. If a nation shows that it knows how to act with reasonable efficiency and decency in social and political matters, if it keeps order and pays its obligations, it need fear no interference from the United States. Chronic wrongdoing or an impotence which results in a general loosening of the ties of civilized society may in America, as elsewhere, ultimately require intervention by some civilized nation, and in the western hemisphere the adherence of the United States to the Monroe doctrine may force the United States, however reluctantly, in flagrant cases of such wrongdoing or impotence, to the exercise of an international police power.

Rights of American Citizens Abroad.

It is necessary for the government to secure the rights of American citizens abroad.

born here or born abroad, proved very difficult. Russia the right for a citizen to receive passport through Russian territory against which a protest to refuse his passport without regard to his character, merely on racial grounds.

The Navy.

The strong arm of the nation in enforcing respect for its international matters is the United States Navy. I recommend that there be no work of upbuilding the Navy. We have undertaken to maintain our navy. We have secured ourselves on the trade of the ocean. We have undertaken to protect our commerce. We continue steadily to application of the Monroe doctrine in the western hemisphere. attitude in these and all others is to be a mere boast cannot afford to abandon a programme. Our voice is for peace and is so potent that we are not afraid of war. But if stations upon behalf of peace neither receive nor deserve the attention if we were impo make them good.

The Army.

Within the last three years the United States has set an example of disarmament where disarmament proper. By law our army is a maximum of 100,000 and a minimum of 90,000 men. When there was a rebellion in the Philippines we increased the army at the maximum. Peace came. The Philippines, and now our army has been reduced to the minimum which it is possible to keep it with regard to its efficiency. We should be able, in the event of some sudden emergency, to put into the field a first class army corps, which should be as a whole, at least the equal of a body of troops of like number belonging to any other nation.

Great progress has been made in protecting our coasts by adequate fortifications with sufficient guns. We should, however, pay much more than at present to the development of an extensive system of floating mine for use in all our more important harbors. These mines have been proved to be a most formidable safeguard against hostile fleets.

The Philippines.

In the Philippine Islands there has been during the past year a continuation of the steady progress which has obtained ever since our troops definitely got the upper hand of the insurgents. The Philippine people, or, to speak more accurately, the many tribes and even races sundered from one another more or less sharply who go to make up the people of the Philippine Islands, contain many elements of good, and some elements which we have a right to hope stand for progress. At present they are utterly incapable of existing in independence at all or of building up a civilization of their own. I firmly believe that we can help them to rise higher and higher in the scale of civilization and of capacity for self government, and I most earnestly hope that in the end they will be able to stand, if not entirely alone, yet in some such relation to the United States as Cuba now stands. This end is not yet in sight, and it may be indefinitely postponed if our people are foolish enough to turn the attention of the Philippines away from the problems of achieving moral and material prosperity, of working for a stable, orderly and just government, and toward foolish and dangerous intrigues for a complete independence for which they are as yet totally unfit.

On the other hand, our people must keep steadily before their minds the fact that the justification for our stay in the Philippines must ultimately rest chiefly upon the good we are able to do in the islands. I do not overlook the fact that in the development of our interests in the Pacific ocean and along its coasts the Philippines have played and will play an important part and that our interests have been served in more than one way by the possession of the islands. But our chief reason for continuing to hold them must be that we ought in good faith to try to do our share of the world's work, and this particular piece of work has been imposed upon us by the results of the war with Spain. We are endeavoring to develop the natives themselves so that they shall take an ever increasing share in their own government, and, as far as is prudent, we are already admitting their representatives to a governmental equality with our own. There are commissioners, judges and governors in the islands who are Filipinos and who have exactly the same share in the government of the islands as have their colleagues who are Americans, while in the lower ranks, of course, the great majority of the public servants are Filipinos. Within two years we shall be trying the experiment of an elective legislature in the Philippine legislature. I the Filipinos act with wisdom and self restraint, if they show that they are capable of electing a legislature which in its turn is capable of taking a same and efficient part in the actual work of government, they can rest assured that a full and increasing measure of recognition will be given them.

Every measure taken concerning the islands should be taken primarily with a view to their advantage. We should certainly give them lower tariff rates on their exports to the United States. If this is not done it will be a waste to extend our living laws to them.

CALEB POWERS.

Court of Appeals Reverses Sentence of Death Against Him.

Frankfort, Ky., Dec. 6.—The Court of Appeals today reversed the judgment of the Scott Circuit Court in the case of Caleb Powers, the three times convicted Goebel murder conspirator, and remanded his case for a fourth trial. Four separate opinions were delivered by the seven judges. In addition to the majority opinion by Judge Barker, that Judge delivered a separate opinion: Judge O'Rear delivered another opinion, and Judge Paynter delivered a dissenting opinion, concurred in by Judges Nunn and Hobson.

The judgment of reversal was concurred in by Judges Barker, Settle, O'Rear and Barham, four of the seven judges.

According to the dissenting opinion of Judge Paynter the reversal is on three grounds: First, the court refused to give the defendant time in which to discover and file additional grounds for new trial; second, that sentence was pronounced on the same day the verdict was returned; third, because of the remarks of attorney T. C. Campbell, representing the Commonwealth, in his argument to the jury.

Three judges, Burnham, Barker and O'Rear, discuss in the separate opinion of Judge Barker the Federal question of summoning the jury from both political parties. Judge Barker holds that there is a Federal question involved in the appeal, but Judge Settle, who agreed with the three judges in a reversal, does not agree to this. Judge Barker says in his opinion and that of Judges Burnham and O'Rear, "the trial Judge should have passed upon the question of fact presented by appellant as to the summoning of the jury, and if there was even a well grounded suspicion that unfairness had prevailed, the jury should have been discharged and others summoned under such safeguards as would preclude inducement in partisan methods."

Judge O'Rear's separate opinion concurs in this opinion. Judge Paynter, in expressing the dissenting views of himself and Judges Hobson and Nunn writes:

"That William Goebel was assassinated by some one concealed in the private office of the appellant, millions of dollars of treasure will be placed in the hands of the appellant."

appellant was in, if not the chief one, in the conspiracy that resulted in the assassination of Wm. Goebel. This is shown by the evidence of co-conspirators, by the evidence of political friends, and by facts and circumstances too numerous to mention. Under such a state of case the court should in this as it has done in many other cases in obedience to the provisions of the criminal code, refuse to reverse a case for errors which could not prejudice and did not prejudice the appellant's substantial rights.

"Nearly five years have elapsed since the fatal shot was fired in the hearing of three members of this court which caused Wm. Goebel to sleep in his grave. The Commonwealth has strenuously endeavored to bring to justice those who were guilty of his murder. This is the third time this case has been reversed. It is to be regretted that it is reversed for two reasons which this court time and again has held were not grounds for a reversal. In doing so it has failed to regard two sections of the criminal code of practice and many of the court's previous decisions."

It is intimated by Republican friends close to Powers and his lawyers that he will, regardless of the awarding of a new trial, take an appeal to the lower court. Such an appeal would delay another trial in the Scott Circuit Court for at least a year.

HAULING CONTRACT.

The Kentucky Flour Spar Co. will receive bids between this date and Dec. 20th, for hauling spar from and coal and supplies to the following groups of mines during the year 1895:

Group 1—Yandell-Matthews.
" 2—Asbridge-Tabor.
" 3—Wheeler-Tabb-Blue & Marble.

Parties will submit bids for groups separately, and also for the whole job of hauling flour spar, to be delivered to, and weighed by Kentucky Flour Spar Co. at Mexico, Ky., and unloaded by hauler on the Kentucky Flour Spar Co.'s yards, or in railroad cars if same are in waiting, all as directed by Kentucky Flour Spar Co. Parties shall load spar as directed by foreman at respective mines. Hauling to be on basis of 2000 lbs to the ton.

MINING MATTERS.

has been condemned by good mining engineers and yet turn out of great value as the result of future development work. A prospect always has a speculative value, indeterminate, and yet one which must be more or less dependent upon the character of the management. In the prospect stage of the mine, the ability and reputation of the man or men in charge of the work should be recognized at all times in considering the desirability of an investment. In the event of a purchase then the honesty of the man to be placed in charge of the property should be unquestioned. Many prospects have been seriously injured by conservative examining engineers, but more have been eternally damned by the manner in which their management has conducted operations. Therefore, investigate the man as well as the prospect.

During the week the Joplin lead market has been phenomenally high, prices touching $60 per ton. The zinc market has also been firm, with prices ranging up to $49 per ton. There is big money in these figures. During the week one lot of 475,000 pounds of lead changed hands at the extremely high figure of $60.50 per ton. The stimulation of the ore markets by the present conditions has attracted the attention of Eastern capitalists and this district will reap its full share of the resulting prosperity.

SAMUEL J. WATSON

A Fredonia Boy Killed in St. Louis.

St. Louis, Mo., Dec. 6.—The body of Samuel J. Watson, a miner, twenty-five years old, who died yesterday at St. Elizabeth's Hospital from the effects of injuries received in a fight near the boarding-house of Harry Jamison, in Belleville, a week ago, was sent to Fredonia, Ky., his home. The man who it is alleged struck Watson the fatal blow over the head with a hammer, knocking him unconscious, has not been apprehended.

Watson, who roomed at Jamison's house, with Jamison, became engaged in a quarrel, it is said, with Jack Greene, who lived next door, because someone had thrown a bowlder against Jamison's house. Watson and Jamison received the worst of the fight.

Entertained at Euchre.

Miss Ruby James entertained at cards at the handsome home of her father, L. H. James, Tuesday evening from 9 till 12. She was assisted by her sisters, Miss Lizzie and Mesdames O. M. and E. H. James. Refreshments were served and the evening most delightfully spent. Those who attended were: Mr. and Mrs. Tonkin, Mr. and Mrs. Sayre, Mr. and Mrs. Porter, Mr. and Mrs. Roberts, Misses Barnes, Gray and Wilborn and Messrs. Drescher, Morris, Cook, Tucker and Givens.

Hill-Daniel.

Richard Hill, of Onalaska, Arkansas, a former Crittenden county boy, came in last week on a visit to see his old friends and while here he met and proposed to his sweetheart, Miss Susie Daniel, the handsome daughter of the late Thos. Daniel, of the Ford's Ferry vicinity. Wednesday morning accompanied by several friends and her sisters and brothers they drove to Marion and repaired to the residence of Rev. W. T. Oakley, where they were pronounced husband and wife. They took the 11 o'clock train for Cairo and thence via the Cotton Belt line home. The Press extends congratulations.

Cook-Bennett.

Last Tuesday week Thomas Cook of this city and Miss Clay Bennett of Kelsey drove to Princeton and were married. They remained there until Wednesday, when they returned to the residence of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Pate Bennett. Mr. Cook is in the insurance office of Crider & Pickens.

Celebrated 88th Birthday.

A venerable and much respected old couple celebrated the 88th birthday of the husband last Monday, December 5th. It is hardly necessary to state that Uncle Harvey Travis is the man referred to. He is one of the few in the county who has attained that ripe old age and fewer still who have had the blessing of a good wife spared to him to console his declining years.

On the day named his sons and daughters, grandsons and daughters and great-grandsons and daughters to the number of 50 were present, and those who attended only represented a part of his descendants, which in reality number over 100.

A fine dinner was spread and enjoyed by all. Uncle Harvey has friends all over the county who hope and pray he may be spared to round out his century with his good wife.

OLLIE JAMES AT WASHINGTON

Washington, Dec. 3.—Ollie M. James burst upon the national capital yesterday evening like an aurora borealis. In fact his naturally brilliant color, heightened by many months exposure to a warm, Kentucky sun, and the added heat of political conflict, not excepting an expansive smile which would not rub off, made the northern light look shopworn in comparison.

The young giant from Marion is here for the approaching session of Congress and is feeling "finer than silk." He is loaded moreover for the exponents of the "safe and sane" Democracy and fired a preliminary shot at it tonight.

"There is one thing," he said, with an emphasis becoming a man of his stature, "which the recent election proved and that is, that the Eastern Democrats and their Western allies are unsafe and insane, and the masses of Democrats are going back to Bryan.

"He is their natural leader and the next campaign will find him in his proper place in the party.

"Do you expect to be a candidate for the United States Senate to succeed Senator Blackburn?" Representative James was asked. "No," he replied, "I do not know that there will much if any opposition to his re-election."

"Are you for him?" "Now that is a thing I do not want to be quoted on just now," he said with a broad smile.

DAMAGE SUITS.

Henderson, Ky., Dec. 3.—Three damage suits, aggregating $28,800 were filed today against the Illinois Central railroad company. William Cox's administrator sues for $2,000 alleging that Cox was killed by being knocked from a train by cross ties. Peter Cohen, who was injured by the explosion of the boiler of an engine sues for $25,000. Sylvester Baurall, who claims to have been thrown from a train, asks for $1,800 damages.

FIRST BABY IN CAMP.

Dillon, Wyo., Nov. 30.—Half-holidays were announced at the camps here and the town is on a jubilee on account of the birth to Mr. and Mrs. Stanley Calkins of the first babe ever born in this mining camp.

Dillon is about ten years old, but is high on the crest of the mountains, and very few wives follow their husbands here. Those who do come hurry away when expecting a visit from the stork.

The Calkins received many presents for their daughter. Rough miners, who could find no suitable presents at the general store dumped nuggets in the dishpan, and told the parents to buy the first thing the kid asks for when he gets big enough to talk. Every woman in town was at the Calkins camp today and a big crowd surrounded the house all the afternoon. It is estimated that the presents have an intrinsic value of more than $1,000.

Dragging Pains

2525 Keeley St.,
Chicago, Ill., Oct. 2, 1902.
I suffered with falling and congestion of the womb, with severe pains through the groin. I suffered terribly at the time of menstruation, had blinding headaches and rushing of blood to the brain. What to try I knew not, for it seemed that I had tried all and failed, but I had never tried Wine of Cardui, that blessed remedy for sick women. I found it pleasant to take and soon knew that I had the right medicine. New blood seemed to course through my veins and after using eleven bottles I was a well woman.

Wine of Cardui

Mrs. Bush is now in perfect health because she took Wine of Cardui for menstrual disorders, bearing down pains and blinding headaches when all other remedies failed to bring her relief. Any sufferer may secure health by taking Wine of Cardui in her home. The first bottle convinces the patient she is on the road to health.

WINE OF CARDUI

IN MEMORIAM.

The death angel has again visited our community and another home is made sad and lonely.

Maggie, daughter of Mr. Lewis Daughtry and wife, was born Nov. 11, 1876, died Nov. 28, 1904, making her 28 years and 17 days of age.

She had been suffering for a long time, having that dread disease, consumption. Maggie had been confined to her bed the greater part of the time for two years, and although suffering greatly she never complained but was always patient and cheerful, with a kind word and smile for all.

She professed religion early in life and joined the M. E. church South, having her membership at Hebron, and was a useful and active member until she was called home.

She was married about 8 years ago to R. C. Flannery, and the husband and two children survive her. The last two and a half years of her life were spent in the home of her parents, and all that love and money could do, was done for her, but all to no avail, for Jesus wanted her to live with him.

It was the privilege of the writer to be present when the summons came, and hers was a most glorious and triumphant death. She clasped her little wasted hands and shouted for joy, "I am so glad I am going home to be with Jesus and the angels!" She requested them to have prayers, and as the family and friends knelt around her bed her father led in prayer. While others were weeping bitterly she was shouting praises to her Saviour. She then called for a song, and as we sang, "Jesus, Lover of My Soul" she joined her feeble voice in the words, "All my help, from Thee I bring," and continued to praise the Lord to the end.

Maggie was laid to rest in the Love graveyard, there to await the resurrection morn. Funeral services were conducted by her pastor, Bro. McConnell.

Dear parents, brothers and sisters, weep not for your darling, she is now living in a country where there is no heartaches, and the dear eyes that watched so anxiously for the coming of her loved one will watch for you in the land of glory.

Asleep in Jesus,
Blessed sleep,
From which none ever
Wakes to weep.

MARRIED FIFTY YEARS.

St. Louis, Mo., Nov. 30.—Two hearses will leave the late home of William Skellett this afternoon, and in Bellefontaine cemetery two graves will claim their tenants.

Mr. Skellett, for fifty years a coal operative and merchant, in St. Louis died Sunday evening of pneumonia. Tuesday morning at 9 o'clock Mrs. Skellett died in the same house of exhaustion. The time for the funeral of Mr. Skellett had already been set and will not be changed, but when the body is taken to the grave that of his wife will be taken also.

Mrs. Skellett's death is due, according to her family and her physician, to her untiring care of her husband during his two weeks illness.

Despite her seventy three years and her weakened physical condition she would not abandon her post at his bedside till the certainty of his death realized by her Saturday caused her to lose all spirit. Exhausted nature gave up the battle and she permitted herself to be put to bed. When twenty-four hours later her husband died, she was not told; but there was no hope to sustain her and she continued to sink steadily until her death.

-BISHOP OF KENTUCKY.

Detroit, Mich., Nov. 30.—Rev. Dr. Charles E. Woodcock, rector of St. John's Episcopal church in this city, announced today that he had accepted the offer tendered him several weeks ago as bishop of the diocese of Kentucky.

Dr. Woodcock mailed his acceptance late last night to the Kentucky church authorities. He said he would probably continue as rector of St. John's until his consecration, which can not take place for about two months.

A Waiter's Retort.

Ollie James, Representative of Kentucky, says that while he and certain friends were studying the bill of fare at a hotel on the New Jersey coast, a mosquito alighted on the card.

It instantly lost its life by a quick blow from the man holding the card, its little carcass remaining on the bill. With a smile the man pointed to the remains and said to the waiter.

"Do you serve these on toast here?"

"They're on the bill, sir," was the witty retort of the waiter.—Sunday Magazine.

FIFTY YEARS

From a small beginning this firm has grown until our factories now cover many acres. Some of our machines sold fifty years ago are still giving faithful service.

WHEELER & WILSON SEWING MACHINES

The Rotary Hook, a distinctive feature, originated with this machine, operates in one continuous revolving motion. Compared to a shuttle it works on exactly the same principle as the circular buzz saw in contradistinction to the cross cut saw. The work that can be accomplished, the speed that can be made, and the ease and convenience of operation all are features that have combined to give this machine its present enviable prestige.

KEHOE LOSES OUT.

At the Dec. 1 morning session of the Kentucky Court of Appeals Judge Nunn overruled the motions made by attorneys for Congressman James N. Kehoe. The matter hinged on the admission of two precincts, one in Fleming and the other in Harrison county. With these two precincts unreported Mr. Kehoe has 75 majority. With them reported his opponent Mr. Bennett, has a majority of 43 on the face of the returns, and has been awarded the certificate of election. In overruling the motion Judge Nunn said:

"We conclude that the validity of an injunction granted by a Circuit Judge or court when brought to a Judge of this court for review under Section 297 of the code does not depend on whether the party to whom the injunction was granted has carried it into effect, by executing the bond required by law. Until the bond is given in no event is the injunction effective. Still, the party against whom it is granted may immediately apply to a Judge of this court, for a dissolution or modification, for the other party otherwise has the right thereafter to go ahead and execute his bond and thereby make it fully effective, should it not be dissolved or modified. The principle is well established that a mandatory injunction will not be against an officer to compel performance of a duty which in its nature is judicial, but only when it is ministerial. It is evident that these votes were cast for Bennett, and that he is entitled to them. There is no pretense that the officers referred to were guilty of wrongful conduct. If there was anything in the record to show fraud, the case would be different. Defendants claim that mandatory injunction ought not to be resorted to when the party has adequate remedy. It does not appear he had such remedy. If he is elected he is entitled to certificate of election. Motion accordingly overruled."

This decision gives the Republicans two members of Congress from Kentucky. A Frankfort dispatch says it created some surprise. We fail to see why, if Bennett was elected he is certainly entitled to the certificate; and so the court decides.

THROWN OUT OF COURT.

Owensboro, Ky., Nov. 29.—Federal Court adjourned at noon today. The famous Boatner case was stricken from the docket. Boatner shipped a package alleged to contain $28,000 from Owensboro to Fordsville by the American Express Company. That night the express agent, A. B. Seulitzbaum, was said to have been robbed. He is now in the penitentiary for embezzlement, growing out of the same charge. Boatner brought suit against the express company for $28,000 and the case was set for trial today. He failed to appear in court and the case was dismissed.

No More Suffering.
If you are troubled with indigestion get a bottle of Kodol Dyspepsia Cure and see how quickly it will cure you. Geo. A. Thomson, of Spencer, Ia., says: "Have had dyspepsia for twenty years. My case was almost hopeless. Kodol Dyspepsia Cure was recommended and I used a few bottles of it and it is the only thing that has relieved me. Would not be without it. Have doctored with local physicians and also at Chicago, and even went to Norway with hopes of getting some relief, but Kodol Dyspepsia Cure is the only remedy that has done me any good, and I heartily recommend it. Every person suffering from indigestion or dyspepsia should use it." Sold by Woods & Orme.

To the Bright Girls of the Country.

The expenses for one year at a leading Southern college will be paid for a bright, worthy girl of Crittenden county, Kentucky, who will secure for me one hundred and fifteen subscribers to my book, "Lee and Longstreet at High Tide." The college expenses include board, books, tuition, laundry and incidentals.

For the double purpose of giving the truth of our civil war history, and of extending a helping hand to the struggling ambitious girls of the country, I am pleased to place a year at college within reach of a girl of this county who desires an education enough to exert herself a little. Should the girl availing herself this opportunity prove particularly deserving, I pledge myself to the endeavor to open the way for her to complete the college course.

The girl who is interested in this offer should communicate with me at once, and her communication should be accompanied by the endorsement of her county School Commissioner, the editor of this paper and the teacher of the last school she attended.

I would be glad to communicate with every ambitious girl in the county who is struggling to educate herself.

Marion's Improvements.

Marion is a town where people do not wait until a house rots or burns down to keep step with progress. Gradually the old landmarks are giving way to better buildings. The old Black house was torn down and a street run over its site. G. C. Gray's house is being moved back and a new and handsome home will soon adorn that corner. The elegant new post-office building has taken the place once occupied by Henry's marble shop. On the site of Foster's barber shop stands a handsome new two story brick with iron and glass front not yet completed.

Hayward's mansion with its beautiful outline and exterior, has taken the place where a few years ago R. N. Walker built what was then one of the best houses in the town.

Henry Wood's new and modern home occupies the site of a little cottage in which some of our most worthy couples made their start in life. All these are only a few of the homes and buildings where improvements have been made. There is Dr. Moore's and James' two stately residences that have grown to two stories with columns and beautiful contour within the last year or so. The last 2 years also shows approximately 100 new homes built in Marion and what better—they are all occupied—and more are needed to supply the demand. Hurrah for Greater Marion! Hurrah for the Commercial Club! Come along with us

Detroit, Mich., Nov. 30.—Editor Press: Enclosed one dollar, for which please continue to send me the Press. It is like getting a letter from home. I get it on the eleven o'clock delivery Saturday, and I am always sitting at the window at that time watching for the postman. I first look for the Fredonia news and then "Pinckneyville—my dear old Kentucky homes, and then I read every thing in the paper. It has been the cause of me letting more than one dinner burn. Wishing you the best of success.

Older Than the Chinese.

Older even than China, the oldest existing nation, are the cliff dwellings of Southeastern United States, homes of a race whose very name has perished from the earth. Explorers puzzling through the Mazos and Casa Verde canyons of Arizona and New Mexico have found the houses of this strange people in the wildest and most inaccessible of the mountain sides. Did the cliff dwellers ante-date the pyramids of Egypt? Were they of blood relationship to the early inhabitants of the land where the Nile is god? Some students are prepared to answer both questions affirmatively and to give what is to them abundant proof. The pottery from their long wrecked homes suggests Egypt, and the few inscriptions found suggests the same thing. Mummies, bodies wrapped up in cloth, feathers from the breast of the turkey, have been dug from burial places among the cliffs and in bone and hair much unlike the Indian of the present day, there is a hint of resemblance to a more oriental type. If the cliff dwellers left any descendants however remote, they are doubtless the Moki and Zuni Indians, who resembling them in habits and appearance, are their nearest and closest kinsmen.

May's Trip to the Moon.

"Papa, did any one ever take a trip to the moon?" asked little May as she put her book down on the table.

"I think not my little girl," said her father.

The subject was dropped but it remained in May's mind till she fell on the sofa and went to sleep among the pillows.

She went to the door and saw an airship out in the yard. "Will you take me to moon?" she asked of the man in the ship.

"O yes, Miss May," was the answer, "and I will bring you back too, when you wish."

They got into the ship and sailed far up in the air, so high that the earth below them became a tiny black spot.

May was looking all around her when she said, "What is that I see in the West that looks like my big rubber ball?"

"It is the moon and we will soon reach it," said the man.

May was very busy looking at the pretty little fairies and other strange sights about her, when the man said, "Jump out little miss, for we are in the moon now."

"We will go and see the King first, as you promised him you would," said May.

They went to see him and he gave May a beautiful gold ring. They stayed so long at the King's Palace that they didn't have time to go to see anything else but the sun.

On the way to the sun the airship tilted. May was frightened very badly and cried, "Oh!"

She fell down, down and opened her eyes in much surprise to find her self in her father's arms again.

It was all a dream but she had taken the only way to make a trip to the moon.

The ring she looked for the first thing and found it was one of her own golden curls wound round her little fat finger.
