VOLUME 1.

MARION, CRITTENDEN COUNTY, KENTUCKY, FRIDAY, JANUARY 20, 1905.

NUMBER 28.

CANDIDATE

For County Judgeship.

Walter A. Blackburn Makes His Formal Announcement

In Response to Petitions That Have Been Published, Calling Him to Enter the Race.

We take pleasure in presenting to our readers elsewhere in this issue the name of Mr. Walter Blackburn, who makes the announcement of his intention to ask the Republican party to give him the nomination for the office of judge of Crittenden County. In presenting his name to our readers we take pleasure in saying that we have known this young man for many years and have nothing for him but commendation.

Walter Blackburn is thirty years of age. He is a son of Rev. E. B. Blackburn, who has been a Baptist preacher in this and Caldwell county for many years. He taught school and went to school until admitted to the practice of law at the age of 21. Ever since he was 17 years old Walter Blackburn has been preaching Republican doctrine, and during every campaign he has been found making speeches for the cause whenever and wherever necessary.

He was elected chairman of the Republican county committee when only 22 years of age, and served with distinction in that capacity until he resigned to accept a position in the office of the United States Marshal at Louisville in 1897. He was promoted to the office of Chief Deputy Marshal in 1901.

He made the race for commonwealth's attorney in the Fourth district, a Democratic stronghold, in 1903, and, while unsuccessful, yet he carried Crittenden county by more than 400 majority, 25 votes more than the Republican candidate for governor received.

Walter Blackburn is a clean man politically, morally, or any way you take him, and THE RECORD makes bold to predict that if the Republican party sees fit to select him for its standard bearer the result at the polls will be all the Republicans desire.

If he gets the nomination we are for him.

JOHN B. PARIS

A Candidate for Re-election to the Office of School Superintendent.

In this issue of THE RECORD School Superintendent John B. Paris announces for re-election, subject to the action of the Republican party. He is already well known by our readers, and is commended to the public both by his official record and his life struggle to be worth something to the county schools. He has never engaged in any avocation except that of the school room. He enabled himself by economy and perseverance to attend school at Bowling Green and Lexington that he might better fit himself for his work. He is a married man, 31 years of age, and is filling the first and only office he ever held. His letter follows:

Owing to the fact that for three weeks passed I have been seriously ill, I have thus far deferred announcing myself a candidate for re-election to the office of Superintendent of Schools. After a very careful consideration I have concluded to ask the people of this county for an endorsement of the administration just about to close. I am indeed very grateful for the honor that has been conferred on me and wish to say to all my friends who have so generously aided me, please accept thanks in all sincerity.

If an honest effort to do a simple duty, a constant endeavor to be faithful, an attempt to lift the standard of teaching, a life devoted to school work, an attempt to be judicious in all official acts, and administering the affairs of the office without personal discrimination mean anything or have any commendable features; then, please consider my case, and if you feel that I should have an endorsement, all very well, and I assure you your kindness will have an appreciative recipient. What I conceive to be right has been my guiding star during this term and from that course I have earnestly endeavored not to swerve. With an abiding faith in the ability of the people to do what is right, I submit my case to you and the verdict rendered by you will be accepted by me, if in my favor, gratefully; and if adverse, without a murmur.

"Very truly,
"John B. Paris."

J. FRANK CONGER

Chairman of the County Republican Committee Enters Race For Sheriff.

The reader will find in these columns the announcement of Mr. J. Frank Conger, of Marion precinct, who desires the Republican nomination for sheriff.

Mr. Conger is a man of a family, and the son-in-law of the late Louis H. Paris. He is 41 years of age and has never held any kind of office. Two years ago he made the race for representative in a hopelessly Democratic district and was defeated.

At the earnest solicitation of friends he thought very strongly of announcing his candidacy for sheriff four years ago, but for various reasons did not.

He has now been chairman of the county Republican committee nearly six years, and has always been liberal with the party, contributing his share both of time and money.

THE RECORD desires to state that should the Republicans elect him for their standard bearer, he will hold up his end of the log and not prove a dead weight in any sense. Frank Conger is a very popular man, and well liked by those of all parties and creeds. Should he receive the nomination we will be found on his side.

Enjoyable Banquet.

At the Christian church Friday evening a splendid banquet was enjoyed by the Sunday school. Several months ago the Sunday school was divided into two bodies to be known as the Blues and Reds, every member wearing a red or blue button containing an appropriate motto.

A record was kept of the number of Blues and Reds present each Sunday and it was proposed that the side showing the highest average attendance by New Years should be given a supper by the other side.

The Blues showing the highest average attendance were therefore the guests of honor. The Reds having been assisted in the preparation of the supper by the ladies of the church, they were required to act as waiters for the occasion.

A nice supper was served and the occasion proved to be one of much social merriment long to be remembered by the Reds and Blues of the Sunday school.

"EVERYMAN"

To be Played in Marion

On the Night of Wednesday, January 25th.

A High Class Morality Play That Will be of Interest to the Refined and the Educated.

We wish to especially recommend to the theatre-goers of Marion the famous old English morality play, Everyman, which will be at the opera house next Wednesday night, January 25th.

This play makes only the larger towns, and it is their misfortune that gives Marion the pleasure of witnessing this superb entertainment. It is billed for Paducah on the 24th and Evansville on the 26th, and owing to the fact that the intervening date was open at neither Hopkinsville or Henderson, Marion was taken as a last resort rather than miss a performance. On the 27th it will appear at Owensboro and on the 28th at Louisville.

Everyman will be by far the best attraction that has visited Marion this season. It is a very old play and is supposed to have been presented in England several years before the birth of the sixteenth century. It occupies a field peculiarly its own and reads a lesson broad in its view of life—and the ultimate end of all existence. Allegoric and beautiful, it has none of the elements of a play that the public is used to seeing on the stage. The change in the character of Everyman from his buoyant entrance, in festive attire, exulting in his joyous full-blooded life, to the time when deserted by everyone save his Good Deeds, he fully realizes that he must obey the command to accompany Death to the Great Beyond, makes a deep and lasting impression.

Four early imprints of "Everyman" are at present known and are carefully preserved in the British Museum, Bodleian Library, Salisbury Cathedral, and the Britwell Library. The edition in the British Museum, believed to be the oldest, bears the imprint: Imprynted in London in Flete Strete by me Rycharde Pynson pynter to the kyngs moost noble grace Mr. Rudolph E. Magnus' portrayal of the role of Everyman and his staging of the play have been highly commended by many well-known critics. The production of Everyman at Lake Chautauqua (N. Y.) Assembly, in August, 1903, by Mr. Magnus, was a notable event, each performance being witnessed by over 7,000 people.

This season Mr. Magnus and his company will play principally in the large cities of the Middle West and South.

A High Class Entertainment.

The Wells-Greenawalt Unique Musical Company is a high class and pleasing attraction that will be at the Marion opera house on Tuesday night, Jan. 25th, and will skillfully introduce such musical novelties as the wonderful Organ Chimes, Xylophones, Swiss Hand Bells, Saxaphone, Banjos, Guitars and Mandolins, interspersed with Humorous and Dramatic Readings, Impersonations and rapid Crayon Caricaturing.

This company (formerly The Asetteam Trio) has played all over the United States and Canada, and this is their second appearance before a Marion audience, and we feel safe in making the assertion that all who saw them before will make it convenient to see them again. They are circulating a very neatly arranged folder which is filled to overflowing with clippings from leading United States and Canadian newspapers praising the ability of these entertainers, and the list is headed with the following from Opie Read, the novelist: "It is with pleasure that I recommend the Asetteam Trio. The combination is most artistic, and must appeal to the lovers of genuine music in every community."

It is, indeed, an entertainment of rare versatility, made up of novel and delightful features, and we predict that the amusement-loving citizens of Marion will greet them with a well filled house.

PATRICK C. GILBERT

Announces as a Candidate for the Office of Jailer.

In this issue Patrick C. Gilbert makes his announcement as a candidate for the office of jailer subject to the action of the Republican party. Mr. Gilbert is the son of Jno. M. Gilbert, of near Gladstone, who is 80 years old. Patrick, as his father before him, has been a Republican all his life. He is 47 years of age, a man of a family, a member of Repton Baptist church, and has never asked for an office in his life.

He is a native of this county, having been born and reared within three miles of Marion. He was a nephew of the saddle and harness maker, A. C. Gilbert, deceased, who was in business here, and who served the county as jailer, having been elected by the Democratic party.

That this aspirant is a loyal Republican can not be doubted. His father ever adhered to the principles of that party from boyhood, and although he had five brothers who were Democrats and who sometimes strained family ties in their effort to induce him to vote the Democratic ticket, yet he remained firm in his belief. When we asked this aspirant how his father could be a Republican under such circumstances, he said: "He was like Collins' ram—he had a head of his own," and added that he was proud to say that politically he was built in the image and likeness of his father.

And so it was, for when the civil war broke out and when men were called upon to take their stand for the Union or Confederacy, the five brothers entered the cause of the South and Jno. M. Gilbert entered the army of the North and fought for the cause of the nation—the Union.

The aspirant has filled places of trust in the capacity of school trustee, etc., where he lives. He is upright and faithful, and should he get the office to which he aspires, no doubt he would fill it with credit to himself and his party. We bespeak for him earnest consideration at the hands of the party, and should he be made the nominee, he will receive our support.

INTERVIEW

With Mr. W. D. Glenn

A Prominent Mining Engineer of Joplin, Missouri.

He is Favorably Impressed With This District and States How Ores Should be Handled.

mous as to demand other methods. I believe a careful sizing system would result in a better recovery, but it should be remembered that as you increase efficiency in this direction you not only increase cost but lower the purity of your product, so that commercial results must be considered jointly with mechanical results.

"Personally, if I were installing a separating plant for the treatment of these ores, I think I should work along the lines of a table system with the elimination of jigs altogether. I should crush fine, elevating and passing the mineral through a trommel, with a mesh sufficiently fine to admit of the undersize being treated on shaking tables, but before conveying the undersized material to the shaking tables it would be further sized or separated into two products by means of a simple hydraulic classifier; the tables of course being adjusted for the treatment of the two sizes respectively. The oversize from the trommel would be re-crushed until the proper degree of fineness was obtained. A plant of this character would be much less expensive in both first cost and maintenance than a close sizing jigging system.

"I should add, however, that in suggesting experiments in this direction I have in mind the zinciferous ores that are comparatively free of spar. As a matter of fact the varying conditions and characteristics of the ore bodies require different methods of treatment, and a careful study of these matters is essential before the proper system can be determined. That such questions will be satisfactorily solved I haven't the least doubt with such men in the district as Messrs. Reed, Hearne, Haase, Crider, Noe and Folsom and no doubt many others whom I haven't had the pleasure of meeting.

"There is one other matter I wish to mention," concluded Mr. Glenn "and while it has no direct connection with the mining interests, indirectly it plays a prominent part in favorably impressing strangers and investors and that is the unfailing courtesy, kindness and assistance of the residents of this section. With me these qualities will recall many pleasant memories."

Mr. Glenn has been looking over the district at the invitation of Messrs. Delker and Archer, of Owensboro, who have interests here.

THOMAS H. COCHRAN

Asks the Democratic Party for Nomination for Representative.

We present to our readers elsewhere in this issue the announcement of Mr. Thomas H. Cochran, of Marion, asking at the hands of the Democratic party the nomination for Representative in our State legislature.

Tom Cochran is known all over the two counties of Crittenden and Livingston, and wherever known is well liked. He is a prominent hardware man of this place, a member of the official board of the Methodist church, president of our commercial club, a stockholder in various other enterprises, and, in fact, is an all-round, up-to-date young business man with a clean record. He is 42 years of age and married. For the last two years he has been chairman of the county Democratic campaign committee, and has never held an office, excepting those mentioned above.

New Millinery Store.

Miss Ada Harrig, of Madisonville, will open a millinery store in the Pierce building on Salem street for the spring season. Miss Harrig presents her advertisement to the public in this issue of THE RECORD.

She comes well recommended and will doubtless receive a fair portion of the millinery trade.

It is reported from Cleveland, Ohio, that $250,000 worth of precious stones handled by Mrs. Chadwick had been located and it was expected that nearly or all of $100,000 worth of jewelry will be uncovered by Secret Service men.

Senator Blackburn says it is not Democratic for Blackburn to want to be senator, Hager governor, McChesney something else and so on. He says it is a system of perpetuation maintained by a political machine, true—another instance showing that a two-edge sword will cut both ways.

In an interview at Washington, Senator J. C. S. Blackburn says he is receiving letters every day from Democrats who are telling him that he will have no opposition for reelection. He says, however, he can see evidences of secret opposition everywhere. Doubtless he has had an inspired vision.

It is quite interesting news to Kentuckians to learn that Senator J. C. S. Blackburn sought to charge the State a fee for collecting a claim against the national government which he as U. S. Senator should have tried to adjust. But he did it, says Beckham, who has the papers and who ought to know whereof he speaks. So this is in part the official record of a gentleman who for over 30 years "has been the meretricious beneficiary of popular indulgence." It is an old but a true saying that "truth will ever assert itself." Senator Blackburn belongs to the past and that he will return to the United States Senate we do not believe. There are many young and ambitious Democrats in the State that should and will be considered, one of whom we believe will succeed Senator J. C. S. Blackburn.

Uncle Samuel Coram Dead.

Many of the older citizens of this community will learn with regret of the death of Uncle Samuel Coram, which occurred at his home near Berry Ferry in Livingston county on Saturday morning, January 14. He had suffered a severe attack of la grippe and this together with heart failure caused his death.

He was born in what is now this county about 72 years ago, in the neighborhood familiarly called "The Kirk Bluff" near New Salem.

He was married in the summer of 1861 to Margaret Franklin, daughter of Col. Franklin, of this county.

The following fall he joined the Union army and participated in an active campaign in Kentucky and Tennessee, until he was stricken with typhoid fever in the fall of 1863 at Bowling Green, Ky. He never entirely recovered from this attack and soon after received an honorable discharge on account of his health.

He was elected jailer of this county in 1878 and served until 1882 when he was nominated by the Republicans for sheriff, but was defeated in a close contest by E. C. Flanary. Since then he has lived at Ford's Ferry and at Goleonda, Ill., running a ferry across the Ohio river at each place. For the last dozen years he has lived quietly on the farm near Berry Ferry in Livingston county.

He was an earnest member of the M. E. church at Goleonda, Ill., a prominent Mason, a thorough temperance man in habit and belief, and was honored and respected by all who knew him.

His wife, who is very low with pneumonia, and four children survive him. The sympathy of this city and county is extended to the bereaved ones.

OPEN LETTER.

To the Republicans of Kentucky:

Colonels, Office-seekers and Gentlemen:—You know that our State has a reputation, good or bad, depending entirely on the standpoint from which it is viewed. More is expected from us than any other people in the world, for good or bad, one or the other, or both. When we go away from home our personal appearance attracts more attention than any other people. Now I propose that we redeem the State. My plan is this: We are all going to the inauguration March 4th—the Colonels, the Office-seekers and the Gentlemen. Let us all be Colonels for that day, and join in the parade, attired in black frock coat, black slouch hat, each Colonel carrying a stick, cut from a Kentucky forest—"A Big Stick."

If this proposition meets with favor, we can arrange with the Kentucky Colonels, Office-holders and Gentlemen, that are now in Washington, to secure Kentucky head-quarters.

What say you?

Very truly, R. R. PERRY.

Book of Poetry.

Geo. W. Brooks, principal of the city colored schools, is the author of a book entitled "Refreshing Poems" which has just been published. The work contains a number of well written and interesting poems. The style is quite free and natural and considering the sentiment that runs through the work, the author hopes that it will be a benefit to his race—uplifting. "A Tribute to Herod Travis," "Mind How You Say Good Morning," "Drifting From the Right," "The Voice of Conscience" and "As the Eagle Stands Up High Nes'" are among the poems contained in the work.

Messrs. W. G. Archer and J. G. Delker, of Owensboro, were in the city this week looking after their mines on the Beard place.

Wednesday morning Mrs. Addie Dunn, of Smithland, died at her home of puerperal septicemia. She was the wife of D. A. Dunn, Sr., of the Livingston County Bank. She was the mother of thirteen children, the birth of the last resulting in death. She was the sister of Messrs. Kit and Jno. Haynes, of Cairo, and Miss Julia Phillips, of Paducah. She had many friends and relatives in the county that will grieve to learn of her death.

The announcement that "Everyman," the famous fifteenth century morality play, will be presented at the opera house on the night of Wednesday, January 25th, will undoubtedly create considerable attention. Prices 75 cents and $1.00.

THINGS TO DO

BY MEL.

Tell the truth.

Tell the whole truth.

Tell nothing but the truth.

Consider every person good for something—he may be a good whistler.

Live within your means if you have to live poor.

Read every good book you can.

Read none but good books.

Drive away the sorrows of other people with a kind word and pleasant smile.

Bathe the brow of the sorrowing one with the milk of human kindness.

Remember that the mind as surely casts its shadow as the body, make that shadow bright.

Keep your premises clean and you will be rewarded by better health.

Drink none but boiled water and you will not have typhoid fever.

Cultivate the friendship of dumb brutes and they will love you.

Pay your subscription to the paper—editors have to live.

Say the baby is pretty whether it is or not—the mother will like you better.

Take home good things to eat—they will please the family.

Eat your cabbage regardless of snakes.

Insure your property—you might burn out."

Insure your life—you might die.

Always get to the station on time—the train won't wait.

Look for a train before you cross across the railroad.

Go slow up hill.

Vote the Republican ticket if you want to sleep good.

Be loyal to your county, state and nation.

Be courteous to the telephone girl—it pays.

Be faithful to your friends and you will always have them.

Pay your doctor bills and you can always get a doctor.

Drive a horse moderately, even if it is a hired one.

Raise more hay and less "taint."

Be consistent. "Consistency, thou art a jewel!"

Announces as Public School Should Organize

MARGARET A. HALEY.

The National Federation of Teachers.

The public school, as a branch of the public service, is not receiving from the public the moral and financial support it needs to accomplish its purpose. The teachers who are in the United States are awakening to the realization of the fact through their own sufferings, caused by the following conditions: Greatly increased cost of living, to meet the constant demand for higher standards of living and professional attainments and culture which are not met with practically stationary and wholly inadequate salaries; insecurity of tenure of office and no provision for retirement; lack of recognition of a teacher as an educator, and the tendency towards "factoryizing" education, making the teacher—a mere factory hand whose duty it is to carry out the unquestionable ideas and orders of those in authority of position who may or may not know the teacher or how to minister to them. The individuality of power of initiative are thus destroyed and the result is regulations and equipment which the teachers not only have voice in selecting, but which often have no relation to the needs, and which prove a hindrance instead of a help.

Let the public understand the effect which teaching conditions is having upon the education of the children. It can be brought to the attention of the public only by the teachers, and the teachers can work effectively only through those who think of the welfare of the children as separate from those of the teachers. They think of the bettering of the teachers' conditions as something wholly apart from the interests of the children and not positively opposed to the latter. While the immediate organization may be the bettering of the teachers' conditions, the public must realize that the ultimate end is the bettering of the service. Any organization of teachers whose object and lot in harmony with the best interests of the children and just eventually work its own destruction.

An intelligent and organized effort to better the conditions will come better understanding of the relation of the public community. The relation is still too often comprehended by the R's and public in but one of its respects, the viz., as a means to facility in the R's. Important as this work is it is merely to the great object of the public school and a means to an end, in itself. A grave responsibility rests on the public school and one which no fear of opposition or misunderstanding exempts from meeting. It is to organize for the purpose of securing that will make it possible for the public school, as a demonstration, to perform its proper function in the social organism, the preservation and development of the democratic ideal.

Only must the teachers themselves organize, but to work most for and through the public school they must learn to cooperate in every field whose object is the public good.

In our nation's history have the need and opportunity for organization been so great. Organization is the recognized of all intelligent effort to-day.

—Dr. M. A. HALEY.

Don't Tell It All

By AMELIA BINGHAM.

akes a woman more interesting, and which would be lost were the whole truth known about her. She would not be half as fascinating, off as attractive, were she to tell the whole truth about herself.

Conventions force us to tell "white lies." Form and social customs forbid us to speak the truth at all times. For my part, I would always be bluntly honest, always strike out from the shoulder, but I cannot.

How many times the society woman, as well as the actress, acts a lie! How often one is wearied almost beyond endurance, and yet one must hide that weariness and smile and be gay, because one's duty as hostess demands it of us! How often we must simulate a laugh when we would weep, or weep when we could laugh!

The whole world is a stage. Women must act a part, must conceal their real feelings or give offense. One cannot always consider oneself; one must consider the feelings of others, and oftentimes to spare another we must lie.

Aye, and we have more power over our fellow men when we conceal something. When we give just a touch of mystery, just a suspicion that we are keeping something back, we create a curiosity to know more of us, to probe deep enough to solve the riddle of what we are hiding, and become of greater importance in consequence.

If we told the truth about ourselves, if we were all perfect, then that would be the need of churches and ministerial preachments and exhortations to be good? Besides, I do not think men crave to know the whole truth about a woman. The spice of mystery which something withheld adds to a woman is very seductive to a man, and he puzzles his brain to probe to the bottom of what he feels certain is hidden from him, and while thus mystified he is interested.

Were the woman to tell the whole truth of how absolutely without mystery or past or hidden faults and virtues she is he would turn from her contemptuously and declare: "Le jeu ne vaut pas la chandelle!"

The Governing Power of the Christian Faith

By DR. A. T. HADLEY,
President of Yale University.

Seven years ago when England was celebrating the fiftieth anniversary of the accession of her queen, and when every part of the British empire united in offerings of patriotic pride, the chorus of congratulation was broken by a sharp note of warning from that empire's greatest poet:

"If, drunk with sight of power, we loose
Wild tongues that have not thee in awe,
Such boasting as the Gentiles use,
Or lesser breeds without the law—
Lord God of Hosts, be with us yet,
Lest we forget—lest we forget."

If wealth and dominion follow as a result of faith and enthusiasm, they are good. But if wealth and dominion are made a primary object and are trusted as a source of national strength instead of its consequence or evidence, they prove a false reliance. And it is an unfortunate fact that very few nations have achieved wealth or dominion without suffering loss of faith and enthusiasm and remaining with the empty husk of greatness at the very moment when they deemed themselves most powerful.

Our chief danger comes from the other quarter—from trusting to the work of reason in places where we are imperfectly prepared for its operation. Most of us are so constituted and trained that the relaxation of discipline will not leave us at the mercy of blind passion, but it may leave us at the mercy of an almost equally blind spirit of selfish calculation.

To make human unselfishness the fundamental standard of right conduct is as disastrous as the attempt to make our unchecked animal instincts the standard of right conduct.

Almost every evil—political, social or commercial—which constitutes a serious menace to the permanent prosperity of our country can be traced directly to our tolerant acceptance of selfishness as a basis of morality.

Do not be blind to this truth: That if you have no higher motive than your own personal interest it means that your soul is for sale if the price be made sufficiently high. It is for you to show in your lives that honor of a gentleman is not for sale, the faith of a Christian something more than an empty form of speech.

The really fundamental thing in a man's life is his choice of a religion. Two religions are to-day struggling for the mastery. There is the religion of mammon, whose dominant purpose is selfishness and whose creed is indifference to moral considerations, except so far as they may be regarded as instruments of individual advancement. There is the religion of God, whose purpose is service and whose creed is loyalty to something larger than yourselves.

Pulpit Sensationalism

By DR. WILLIAM M. LAWRENCE.

If a preacher does not exaggerate he will have no audience. I make a plea for pulpit exaggeration. Sensationalism is justifiable in the pulpit because spiritual truths must be driven home to the hearts of the modern churchgoer by arguments that will appeal to the imagination as well as the reason.

Exaggeration in the pulpit is entirely allowable. If the modern minister stated things as they actually are people would not listen to him. I do not give this as an apology for lying, but it is a fact that the audience of to-day demand sensationalism. They want to be impressed by big and extraordinary things, and the preacher must supply this demand. This necessitates exaggerated statements. The audience is attracted to them, discounts them, and accepts them at their real worth, while without the exaggeration they would never have noticed them.

The minister who understands the psychology of the crowd can easily see how exaggeration governs a multitude. The swaying of a crowd in different ways illustrates the power of unionism and clubs. The congregation succumbs to this government and really loves to be mastered.

A congregation's attention falls off if the sermon is on its own level. It does not like to be defeated or reason, and objects to being compelled to reason. The members of a congregation are never able to appreciate the truth when placed in doctrinal relations. So the popularity of a minister depends on his power to impress his hearers with such language that they will spread his message of their own accord.

The tearful preacher has no place in the pulpit nowadays. People despise him. They would rather have frowns and scowls than over-worked tenderness or sloppy sentimentalism.

A Minister's Education

By DR. J. H. GEORGE.
President of the Chicago Theological Seminary.

The finishing touch to the young minister's education should be one or two years' experience as a reporter on a daily newspaper. The distinctive characteristic of the American of to-day is his deep interest in education, as demonstrated in our public school system, and in the development of our colleges and universities. As a result, America is a nation of educated men and women. Hence it is necessary that we have a thoroughly educated ministry to serve them.

The minister's education must be exact, scientific, and philosophical. As a foundation there should be the primary college degree, to which should be added a close intimacy with Biblical literature, church history, the progress of civilization, and a thorough knowledge of the conditions of life as they are to-day.

For this knowledge of social conditions and the problems of life there is demanded an extensive actual experience which shall bring him in contact with all sorts and conditions of men. To my mind there is no better way of acquiring this experience than by doing regular reporting in a great city. The news gatherer comes in contact with real life in all its phases. His knowledge of people does not come from books but from a study of their actual relations and attitudes. He deals with human nature and its puzzles constantly.

The theological graduate who for a year or two does newspaper work and studies the men with whom he comes in contact has an almost inexpressible advantage over the bookworm who has acquired all his knowledge of men from theses on the subject of "Man!"
