Number 42

REBUILDING OF MARION

RECONSTRUCTION WORK TO BE PUSHED.

PERMITS ARE GRANTED

For the Erection of Many New Buildings in the Burned District.

At the call session of the city council Wednesday a number of applications were made and permission was granted for the construction of new buildings in the burned district. Adams and Pierce made application for permit to build a brick machine shop on Bank street; Mrs. Frank Wheeler made application for permit to build three two-story brick buildings on her lots adjoining the Marion bank lot; and Mr. Harry Curran made application to erect a two story brick store building on the lot where the Taylor & Cannon dry goods store stood, and a one story frame cottage residence on Belleville street. E. J. Hayward will rebuild on the Yandell-Gugenheim corner. He has secured 10 feet from James H. Orme and this time his building will be over 30 feet wide instead of 20 feet as before.

In turn Mr. Orme will take in the space formerly occupied by the Morris-Hardin saloon and will also erect a larger and much nicer drug store building. These two buildings will go up together, in each case the structures having been secured by Boston & Paris. The buildings will be model structures with stone and red brick fronts and will be a credit both to the good name of our little city and the gentlemen themselves. Yandell-Gugenheim Co., Woods & Orme and Levi Cook will all have quarters at their old stands, but with greater opportunity to display their goods.

John Blue, Jr., president of the Marion bank, stated to a representative of the Record that plans and specifications for the new bank building were being prepared. It is understood that this building will be a modern structure and will be steam-heated. Mr. Blue also tells us that the new postoffice building will be constructed after the manner of the former, the plans in some minor points being modified. These plans are now in the hands of the architect. Whatever changes are made will have a tendency to make the building more beautiful than before.

Across the alley from this building, on the east, the new Record building will stand. Across the street in front of the postoffice and Record buildings Messrs. Yandell & Orme will erect a splendid two-story hotel building. The hotel will be handsomely and commodiously arranged. On the ground floor will be the reception office, sample, family and dining room, and also the kitchen. The second story will be comprised of twenty bed rooms, 10x15, properly and conveniently arranged. On the ground floor there will also be a barber shop, meat market and probably a grocery store.

Jack H. Orme has completed the brick work on a one-story warehouse to be in the rear of his new building when complete.

We have been requested to call the attention of the public to the fact that anyone building or attempting to build within the corporate limits of the city of Marion without a permit from the city council, will violate city ordinances and will be liable to penalties specified therein.

Everyone expecting to build should apply to the council for a permit. There have been a number of transfers in real estate, and by re-arranging and consolidating building lots many improvements will result to the city of Marion.

GREEN SEAL PAINT

is made right. That's the reason why so many of our best painters are recommending it. And they know, too. For sale by Hina-Babb Grocery.

CROP CONDITIONS

Fruit Likely Not Damaged as Much as Was at First Supposed.

As to the extent of the damage done by frosts and freezing weather reports received by the weather bureau conflict. It is certain that gardens and fruit suffered, but it is now believed that the damage is not as serious as was feared at first, and there is hope for an abundance of fruit. The peach crop will be short. The apple blossoms were extremely heavy, and although a great many may drop in consequence of the freeze it is believed that a good crop of the fruit will be produced. Wheat is doing fine, but corn is not very promising. Oats, rye, pastures and meadows are looking well. Garden planting has been slow. Tobacco plants are in good condition in most sections, and are uninjured by the frosts.

STATE BOARD

RESCINDS ITS ACTION IN COUNTY TAXES.

Wanted to Increase Taxable Value of Crittenden Prop- erty 25 Per Cent.

A telegram received here yesterday afternoon from O. M. James at Frankfort announcing the fact that after hearing the protests of the gentlemen who went from here to that place to appear before the State Board of Equalization to show cause why the action of this county should not be sustained by said board, the board rescinded its action and that the taxable value of the county property will be as assessed upon by the county board of tax supervisors.

Congressman Ollie James, County Clerk C. E. Welden, Judge Aaron Towery and County Attorney Carl Henderson left for Frankfort Tuesday to appear before the State Board of Equalization. They protested against this raise in taxes and their protests resulted in the action of the state board being rescinded.

These gentlemen did their work well and the result will be that hundreds of dollars will be saved to the tax payers of this county.

GOOD JOBS IN SIGHT.

Navy Department Will Take Paymasters From Civil Life.

Washington, April 24.—Announcement has been made at the navy department that there exists twenty-nine vacancies in the grade of assistant paymaster in the navy, the only grade of the pay corps to which appointments are made from civil life. The examination of candidates for this grade has been set for June 12, and for the first time no political influence is necessary to obtain designations for this examination.

By order of the secretary the examination has been thrown open to all applicants who are able to present satisfactory letters from reputable business concerns and also letters showing that the applicants are fit men to become officers in the pay corps.

Further information can be obtained by addressing the paymaster general of the navy. The examination will be competitive and the twenty-nine best men, provided that number make the required percentage on the examination, will be appointed.

New Bus.

Ordway Bros. & Guess sent to the river at Fords Ferry yesterday after their new bus, which we understand is "a thing of beauty and a joy forever." Our liveries are enterprising and believe in keeping pace with the prosperity and progress of our little city.

SUBSTANTIAL MOVEMENTS IN LOCAL MINING CIRCLES

CONSTRUCTION OF NARROW GAUGE RAILWAYS AND INSTALLATION OF AIR COMPRESSING PLANTS.

UNBOUNDED FAITH IN DISTRICT'S FUTURE

Era of Deep Mining Dawning.—Zinc Market Shows Advance in Price and Lead Remains Unchanged.— Coal Output of Kentucky.

Messrs. B. H. Roney, J. C. Tapp and J. S. Givens, of the Givens Mining company, came over from Providence and spent a few days here this week looking after their property on the Corn place.

O. L. Bass, of Pensacola, Florida, a member of the Marion Mining Co., spent several days in the district last week looking over the property of the company and advising with Secretary Crider relative to fuller and greater developments. At the Lee property across the river in a one hundred foot shaft this company is running a level at the depth of 35 ft and taking out 20 tons spar per day with a single shift. At the Pogue mines south of this city the company is operating with a double shift and removing 50 tons of spar daily. Operations will also likely be begun at the Miller property next week. There is now ready for shipment at these mines several car loads of zinc concentrates. These mines were shut down several weeks ago in order that the pump could be utilized at the Pogue mines for the purpose of unwatering the shaft leading to the heavy body of ore there.

And Tansig, of St. Louis, is in the city this week making preparations to begin the sinking of a 300 foot shaft on the Wheatcroft property near the Tabor mines. Mr. Tansig has leased this property and will operate it for St. Louis or eastern capitalists.

The Kentucky Fluor Spar company is having a practical engineer make a report and estimate of cost on a narrow gauge railway leading from Mexico on the I. C. to their various properties in the vicinity of Frances. On the Tabb, Marble, Yandell and Tabor properties in this vicinity the company will have twelve complete machine plants, the plant at the Tabb mines proper when completed will probably be the largest and most complete mining plant in the district. This week the company began the unwatering of the old Tabb shaft which was a pioneer in this district which has stood full of water for years. For the purpose of facilitating the unwatering process here Superintendent A. H. Reed designed and had especially constructed a large and heavy iron bucket. It is so designed at the bottom with a valve that it will fill or unwater itself automatically. Its capacity is 700,000 gallons. While the shaft here is one of the oldest in the district it is on one of the best properties and constructed for the purpose of deep mining. It is perpendicular and by reason of the great width of the Tabb vein and the almost perpendicular walls to the fissure, through its whole depth the shaft confines itself to the vein matter and touches neither wall. Excavations at the surface reveal that the vein has a width ranging from 16 to more than 20 feet. There is little doubt that this property is immensely rich in the deposits of fluor spar. When the machine plants are in operation the company will have an immense tonnage in this locality and the narrow gauge railroad will almost be a necessity but that it will be constructed is very probable as President C. S. Nunn, who has the matter in hand and has been giving it his personal attention tells us that he feels perfectly sure that the road will be built.

Wm. Miller and Jno. Scheas, of Louisville, member of the Louisville Marion and Commodore Mining Companies were in the district several days this week outlining and directing the large air compressor and heavy power plant that is being installed at the Commodore property. S. R. Evans of the Ingersoll-Sargent Drill Company is on the ground and has the matter of erecting the plant which was made and sold by his company. This will be a most feasible plant for deep sinking and mining and its installation will likely mark the era of ideal mining in this district. When capitalists interested in mines here become determined on deep mining the district will produce a pure, clean ore unsurpassed the world around. We make this statement advisedly because of the revelations made by the heretofore shallow mining. The outlook is most flattering when the small percentage of silicate in the surface ore is considered.

In commenting upon the report on the Western Kentucky mining district just published by the United States geological survey, the Manufacturers' Record says:

The ore deposits thus far developed are somewhat unevenly distributed through Crittenden, Livingston and Caldwell counties. At the present time, as in the past history of mining in this region, the mines of Crittenden county include not only the largest producers in the district, but the largest number of productive veins as well.

The successful development of the district is primarily dependent on the fluorspar, as in the majority of the veins the lead and zinc ores can be considered only as by-products, and in many cases perhaps as mere impurities in the fluorspar. Most of the mines are as yet in the oxidized zone, and much of the ore from this belt must be cleaned before shipping. With depth, however, the veins will become better defined and the ores cleaner. Further development along the veins now mined will undoubtedly be advantageous. Better transportation and shipping facilities will help to increase the output of the district.

KENTUCKY'S COAL OUTPUT.

The Manufacturers' Record says that Prof. C. J. Norwood of State College, director of the Kentucky geological survey and state inspector of mines, estimates that the coal output of the state shows a decrease for the year 1904 of about 90,000 tons from that of the previous year. While the report for 1904 is not ready for publication, it is estimated that the total production is about 7,108,600 tons. In explanation of this decrease the inspector is reported as saying:

"The decrease is caused mainly by strikes. The output in the southwestern part of the state was greater than the year before, but the closing of the mines in the north-eastern section, on account of the miners going out, brought down the average. The decrease may be accounted for by the fact that in 1903 the Kentucky fields were benefited by the strikes in the anthracite fields of Pennsylvania."

The state survey will shortly issue statements of the oil and gas in Kentucky, and the clay deposits, the former being prepared by J. B. Hoeling and the latter of Joseph H. Gardner.

LEAD AND ZINC MARKET.

Joplin, Mo., April 23.—The highest price paid for zinc ore in the Joplin district during the past week was $48 per ton, for one bin of Joplin ore. One bin of Webb City ore sold at $47.50. The assay basis advanced as high as $45 per ton of 60 per cent zinc, but some grades sold as low as a $40 basis early in the week before the advance came. Several buyers started in a week ahead buying and others found out on Friday that there was no ore for sale, without a material advance, and prices were in a few cases raised $2 and $3 per ton. Lead prices were unchanged, a few choice bins selling at $60 per ton, but the general price was $58 per ton. The shipment was practically the same as the previous week, being a gain of only eight tons of zinc, but 111 tons of lead. The value was $13,780 greater. Compared with a year ago, the shipment was 283 tons of zinc and 184 tons of lead larger and the value was $68,650 greater.

SAYS HE IS INNOCENT.

LEXINGTON, Ky., April 27.—Judge Hargin addressed the jury from the witness box today, stoutly declaring his innocence of any complicity in Cockrill's murder. King Ford testified in Hargin's behalf.

SERIOUS CHARGES

AGAINST THE ASSISTANT SECRETARY OF STATE.

Mr. Loomis' Friends Say That The Accusations Are False.

WASHINGTON, April 27.—Washington diplomatic circles and those who watch the state department's affairs are much concerned over the very serious charges against Assistant Secretary of State Loomis by United States Minister Bowen transmitted from his station in Caracas, Venezuela, and which the New York Herald published today.

Mr. Loomis, it will be remembered, was at one time United States minister to Venezuela. One of the allegations made is that a check, dated within that period, showing payment of $10,000 to Mr. Loomis and signed by the New York and Hernandez Asphalt Company, is in the possession of President Castro. Proofs of these charges are said to be by no means conclusive and friends of Mr. Loomis at New York declare them to be false in every particular.

Lamb Ordway.

Yesterday afternoon at 5 o'clock at the home of her uncle, J. A. Guess, of this city, Miss Stella Ordway, of Fredonia, was married to Andy Lamb, of Princeton, in the presence of a few immediate relatives and friends. Rev. Woodruff, of Princeton, officiated, and the ceremony was a pretty and simple one.

The groom is a young man of splendid business qualities and has many friends. The bride is a most attractive young lady and is very popular. A prosperous life for the happy couple is the wish of their many friends.

Williams & Rankin.

Geo. F. Williams and J. L. Rankin have purchased the Jerry Daughtrey interest in the Rankin & Daughtrey feed store, and have formed a co-partnership in the feed business. Their headquarters will be at the rear of the Pickens & Rankin grocery store on Salem street.

LIVINGSTON COURT ENDS

HOCKENBERRY CASE NOT TRIED.

THE JIM COWAN CASE

For Killing Warren Woodward Also Continued to Next Term.

Livingston circuit court, which had been in session at Smithland, for some time has adjourned.

The case against John S. Wells, for the alleged murder of a shanty-boater named Hockenberry several weeks ago, was not taken up the day set for its trial, because of the commonwealth not being ready.

John Hockenberry mysteriously disappeared last winter and was never heard of till last Friday, when found in a pile of drift, just above Green's Ferry on Cumberland river. The body was found by a man named Minners who lives on the north side of the river just above the ferry. An inquest was held and the body was identified as that of Hockenberry. After the inquest Nancy Decker, the stepdaughter of Hockenberry, made a confession, in which she stated that Wells had acknowledged to her that he had killed Hockenberry by knocking him in the head with a skiff oar, and then sinking his body in the river. Shortly after Hockenberry disappeared his skiff was found just below Green's Ferry, and blood was found in it, and suspicion of foul play was at once aroused.

Immediately following Hockenberry's disappearance, Wells took Hockenberry's shantyboat to Paducah, and sold it, and he and Hockenberry's wife and Nancy Decker, the stepdaughter, had been living together up to the time he was arrested for stealing chickens, and according to the Decker girl's statements, illicit relations existed between her and Wells, and also between her and Hockenberry, her stepfather, and the killing is supposed to have been due to jealousy on the part of Wells. Attorneys J. C. Hodge and J. W. Watts were appointed by the court to defend Wells.

The trial of Jim Cowan for the alleged murder of Warren Woodward over two years ago was not tried this time, the commonwealth and defendant both wanting time in which to summon witnesses.

One case in which a very delicate point of law was involved was won by attorney C. C. Grassham. This was the suit of Dr. J. N. Clemens against Henry Harmon for the possession of a farm in Livingston county. Clemens' and Harmon traded property, Clemens giving a deed to property in Carraway to Harmon for county property. Harmon wanted to repair this city property before moving and by consent of Clemens remained. He alleged to have discovered that Clemens' title was no good and refused to vacate at all and Clemens brought a forcible detainer suit to compel him to vacate.

The point involved was this. If the deed given Clemens gave the right of possession and if Harmon should be considered Clemens' tenant. The court decided that the deed did carry right of possession, but because Clemens had given permission to occupy the house, even if the defendant did not pay rent, it made him a tenant and that Clemens had the right to bring forcible detainer suit.

The result was the moving of Harmon off the farm and it was turned over to Clemens.

The grand jury returned the minutes in the case against Dr. LaRue, who shot Blount Hodge, marked "dismissed." This was one of the most sensational cases on the docket. Hodge has about recovered.

FOR OSLER ET AL.

NEW YORK, April 27.—It is announced today that Andrew Carnegie will give $10,000,000 to found a fund for the support of superannuated college professors.

REGISTER WON

IN THE STONE DAMAGE SUIT AT SMITHLAND.

Mr. Stone Was a Former Resident of Crittenden County.

PADUCAH, Ky., April 28.—The jury in the damage suit of Sam Stone against the Register Publishing Company, of Paducah, at Smithland, Ky., this morning brought in a verdict for the defendant, having had the case from yesterday afternoon about 3 o'clock until 11:30 a. m. today. It is understood the jury stood three for giving damages and nine for the newspaper.

The suit against the Register was filed several weeks ago at Smithland through Attorney J. M. Worten, of Paducah, for $10,000 damages for alleged libel. Stone claimed that a publication following his arrest in Paducah to be taken to Marion, Ky. was libelous.

It was alleged by the defendant that the portion of the publication alleged to have libelled the plaintiff, referred to another person. Attorneys Hendrick & Miller were counsel for the defense.

Terrific Race With Death.

"Death was fast approaching," writes Ralph F. Fernandez, of Tampa, Fla., describing his fearful race with death, "as a result of liver trouble and heart disease, which had robbed me of sleep and of all interest in life. I had tried many different doctors and several medicines, but got no benefit until I began to use Electric Bitters. So wonderful was their effect, that in three days I felt like a new man, and today I am cured of all my troubles." Guaranteed at R. F. Haynes' drug store; price 50c.

Mr. J. E. Chittenden,

Dear Sir:—

Received your issue of the 14th inst, it being the first copy of the Record that has reached me since your misfortune by the great fire that destroyed your outfit, March 28. I would like, if you have any left, copies of your issues of March 31 and April 7 sent me, as I do not like to miss a copy.

Hoping you will never again have such a fire and wishing you unbounded success, I am,
Yours truly,

"The Record,"
Marion, Ky.

Gentlemen:—We are obliged to you for copy of Record of March 31st: You had an experience which no one can envy you, especially those who have experienced the terrors of a fire. We are pleased to know, however, that you are coming out all right and that the primary was held and was satisfactory to you. May all good things come to you during the year that is before us.

With best wishes, we are,
Yours truly,

Hopkinsville, Ky., April 11, 1905.
Mr. Jas. E. Chittenden,
Marion, Ky.

Dear Mr. Chittenden: Two copies of your paper came to me and in it I read a full account of the big fire and of your loss, but as you so aptly illustrate it in your last issue, you are bravely surmounting the ruins with your paper under your arm. Of course the most sensible thing to do but sometimes the hardest. At any rate let me extend to you my heartfelt sympathy for your recent loss, and let us hope that all will turn out for the best.

Should you ever return to Hopkinsville you will find your old friends here as of old and ready to welcome you and wish you well.

Thank you very much for the papers.

With kindest regards I am as ever
Your friend,
FLORA RYAN.

Hopkinsville, Ky., April 6, 1905.
Mr. J. E. Chittenden,
Marion, Ky.

Dear friend:—

I received this morning a copy of The Record, for which I wish to thank you. I was afraid that since the great fire at Marion your paper was a thing of the past, but Phoenix-like it surmounts all difficulties and rises superior to all obstacles. I trust that this will be a blessing in disguise, as it proved to be to Hopkinsville in 1881—new buildings taking the place of old ones and the town growing up rapidly.

Now will be a good time for you to come back to old Hopkinsville, where you have so many friends who would give you a hearty welcome.

With kindest regards I beg to remain
Yours very truly,
MRS. J. M. CAMPBELL.

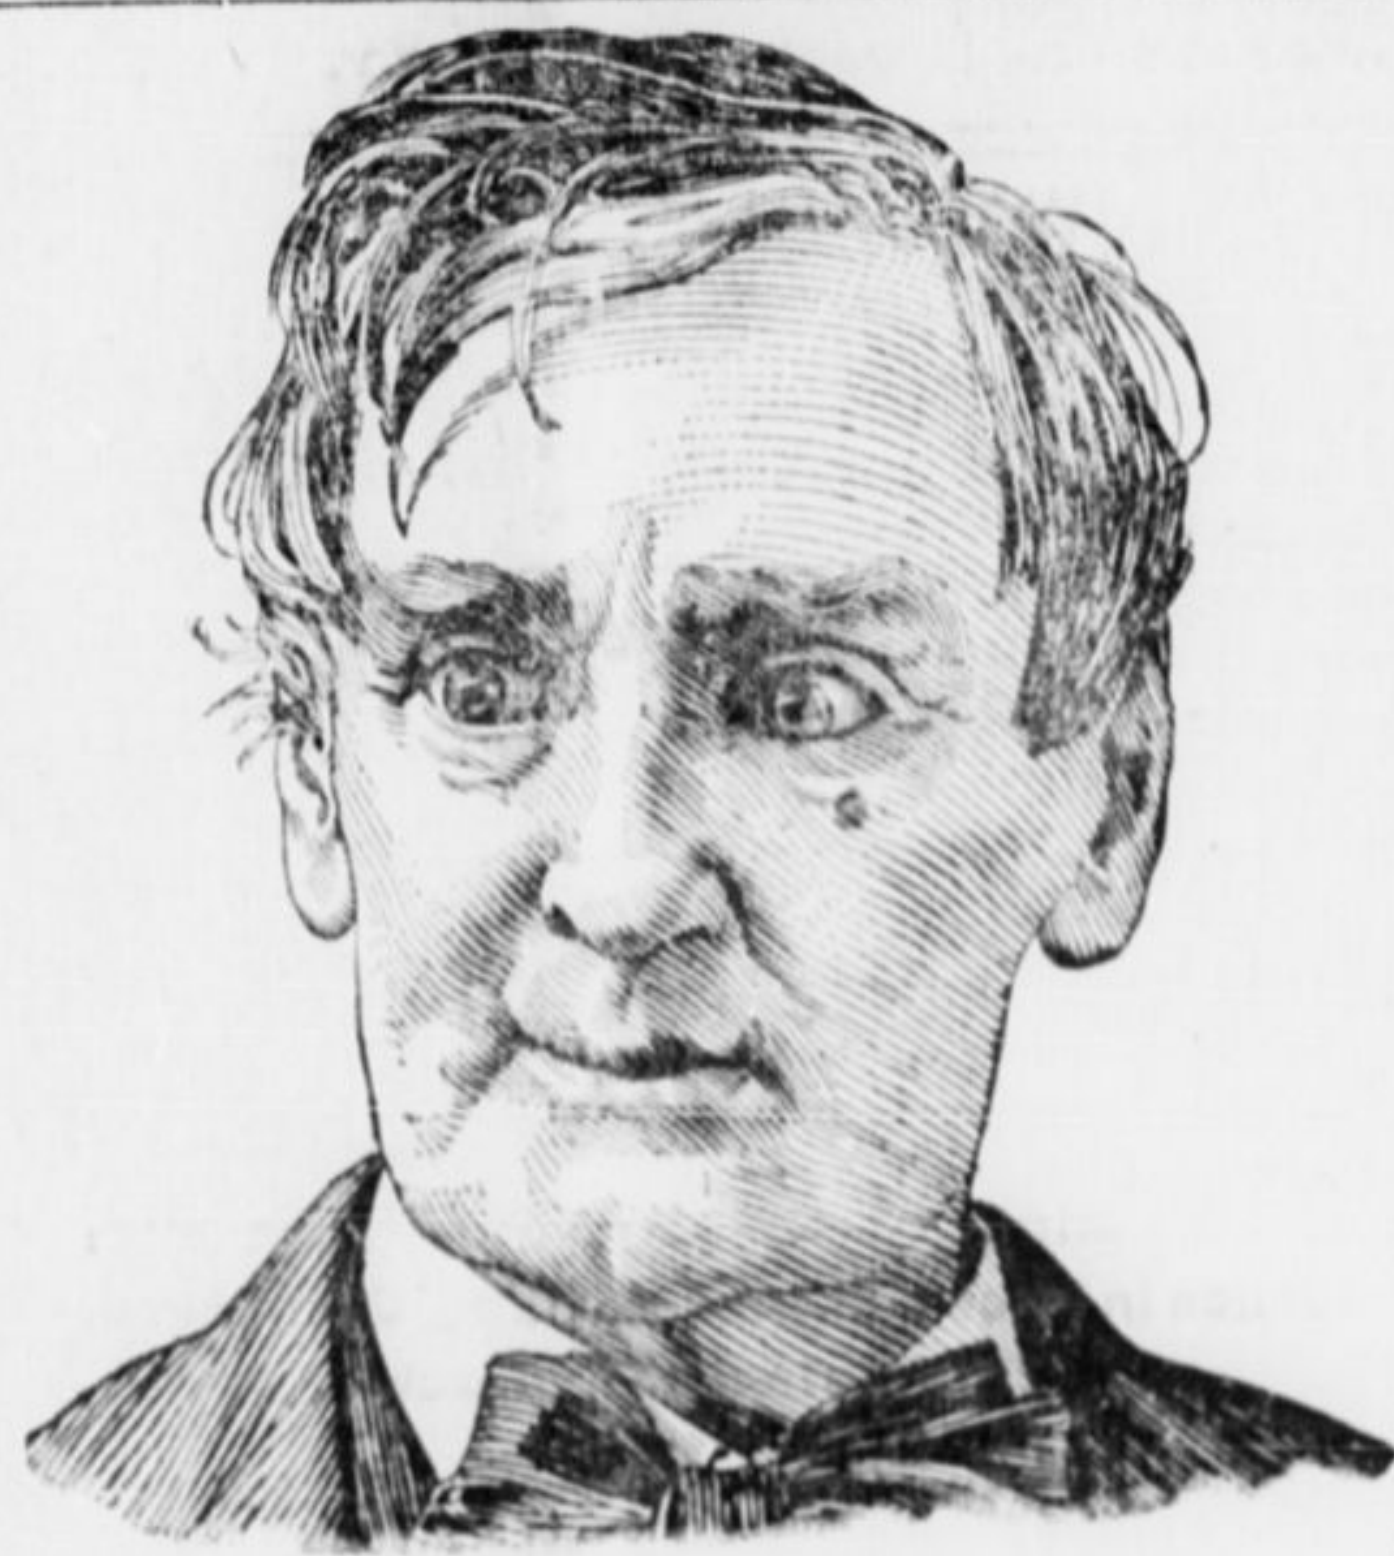

Cleared for Action.

When the body is cleared for action, by Dr. King's New Life Pills, you can tell it by the bloom of health on the cheeks; the brightness of the eyes; the firmness of the flesh and muscles; the buoyancy of the mind. Try them. At R. F. Haynes' drug store, 25 cents.

Educator Resigns.

LEXINGTON, Ky., April 22.—Prof. Ruric N. Roark, dean of the Normal Department of the Kentucky State College, and one of the most widely known educators in the State, has resigned, the resignation to take effect in June, at the end of the present academic year. While refusing to make known his reasons for resigning in a statement, the public can draw its own conclusions. For several years there has existed a rivalry between the academic and normal departments, the former, under charge of Prof. W. K. Patterson, a brother of the president of the college. It is openly charged that the normal department has been discriminated against in favor of academic department.

JOSEPH JEFFERSON, DEAN OF AMERICAN DRAMA, IS DEAD.

JOSEPH JEFFERSON.

WEST PALM BEACH, Fla., April 24.—Joseph Jefferson died at his home at Palm Beach at 6:15 o'clock last evening. The end came after a day of unconsciousness and after a heroic struggle of days which had exhausted his vitality. At his death-bed wife, his sons, Charles B. and Frank Jefferson, his nurse, Miss Mabel Bingham, Dr. R. B. Potter and his faithful old servant, Carl Kettler.

He was America's greatest actor and the best character comedian in the world. The body of Mr. Jefferson will be taken to Buzzard's Bay on a special train, leaving here this evening, accompanied by all the members of his family who are here. It will reach New York Wednesday morning and the family hope to reach Buzzard's Bay the evening of that day.

Joseph Jefferson was born at Philadelphia, Feb. 20, 1829. He was the fourth of his family and the third of his name on the stage. He made his first appearance as a child in "Pigaro" at the age of three years. Until 1856 he played minor parts and managed several Southern theaters. In 1858 he became prominent as Asa Trenchard in "Our American Cousin." Later he became a star and his "Dr. Douglas," "Bob Acres" and "Dr. O'Leary" were notable impersonations, though he was principally famous for his performance of Rip Van Winkle. He published his autobiography in 1890. He was a painter of much talent. He leaves seven children. He retired from the stage only a few months ago.

BRIDGE COMPLETED

Mammoth Structure Spans the Mississippi River at Thebes, Ill.

At a cost of three and one-half million dollars and three years' time the new Cotton Belt bridge over the Mississippi River at Thebes, Ill. was opened to traffic April 18th.

Ten years ago the construction of such a bridge would have cost probably a million dollars more. The Thebes bridge being a combination of the best points of the three accepted styles of bridge engineering, is unlike any other in this country, and improvement of method has materially reduced its cost. The plan involves what is known as the fixed, through and cantilever, and the bridge is as substantial as it is possible to make it.

It is a double track structure and its location is a particularly fortunate one, owing to the high bluffs on each side of the river which obviate the necessity of the usual long approaches.

The bridge consists of a continuous steel structure of five spans. The central, or channel span is 671 feet long; the two spans on either side of the channel span are 521 ft. 2 in. long; the two end spans are 518 ft. 6 in. long; the two fixed spans on either side of the channel span are 75 feet high between centers of chords; the suspended spans are 55 feet high between chords at the center; the distance center to center of trusses is 32 feet. There are approximately 14,000 tons of steel in the structure.

The six main piers supporting the steel superstructure are founded on bed rock. The total height of the structure from the bottom of the lowest foundation to the top of the highest point of the superstructure is 231 feet.

The bridge is approached at both ends by concrete arches. There are five 65-ft. arches in the east approach and six 65-ft. arches and one 100-ft arch in the west approach. The concrete in the approaches is of Portland cement. Its total amount is estimated at 35,000 cubic yards.

The road bed on both approaches is double track, ballasted and 85 lb. rails used.

The total length of the bridge proper, including the concrete approaches, is 3,807 feet. The total length of the entire construction, including earth approaches, is 4.7 miles.

The completion of this bridge does away with the Cotton Belt's car ferry transfer at Thebes, and will enable passenger trains to make an hour quicker time from St. Louis to Texas. It will shorten freight schedules five hours.

The Cotton Belt has spent $350,000 in terminal improvements at Ilmo, just west of the bridge on the Missouri side, and owns all terminal facilities and track connections on that side of the river.

This bridge puts the Cotton Belt at the front among the important lines from St. Louis to the Southwest. The management will at once inaugurate a new fast freight service between Texas, Arkansas, Louisiana and St. Louis. Through freight from St. Louis to Texas will be delivered in much shorter time than has ever before been attempted. In anticipation of heavy traffic, the company is preparing to double track the line from the river to a point 60 miles west. The fact that the Cotton Belt already has the lowest grade line to the Southwest and has been newly laid with 75 and 85 pound steel rails will make this road a vital competitor for Southwestern business, and is certain to make a strong showing in future earnings.

Saved by Dynamite.

Sometimes, a flaming city is saved by dynamiting a space that the fire can't cross. Sometimes, a cough hangs on so long you feel as if nothing but dynamite would cure it. Z. T. Gray, of Calhoun, Ga., writes: "My wife had a very aggravated cough, which kept her awake nights. Two physicians could not help her; so she took Dr. King's New Discovery for Consumption, Coughs and Colds, which eased her cough, gave her sleep, and finally cured her." Strictly scientific cure for bronchitis and La Grippe. At R. F. Haynes' drug store, price 50c; and $1.00, guaranteed. Trial bottle free.

SURVEYING PARTY

PUT IN FIELD BY T. C. KENTUCKY

Already at Work On Looking to Connections With Frisco.

According to advices from Hopkinsville, Ky., the Tennessee Central railroad is already making preliminary arrangements to extend line to Evansville and Joplin, and a surveying party has begun work there on the two lines, says the Nashville American.

No positive information was learned on the subject in Nashville, but it is said that the Tennessee Central will lose no time in extending its line to meet the Indiana Illinois lines of the "Frisco" and that the work will be completed by the end of this year.

The bridges to be built over Ohio river will of necessity have connections for months, but as the bridges can be completed, Nashville will have another line to Chicago and to St. Louis.

The name "Frisco" will be heard more frequently in Tennessee. No official announcement has been made of the company's plans for the connecting lines, but it is understood that the lines south of the river will be known as the Tennessee-Frisco system, and the north of the river will retain its present name.

It is said that a locating crew will follow the surveying crew in Kentucky, and that actual construction work will begin in a few days.

A Former Citizen.

Christopher, Ill., April 17, 1905

Mr. J. E. Chittenden,

Marion, Ky.

Dear Sir:

As you and some of my friends requested me to write about this part of the country, I take this mode of doing so.

This is a very fine country. The land is very rich as farming land, and this county (Franklin) is just now being developed for coal. They have an eight and ten foot vein of coal which is very fine. Nearly all the land is being optioned, and several parties have already sunk shafts to the coal at a depth of from five to six hundred feet. This is the place for the wage earner, for wages are good.

There was an explosion at one of the mines about two weeks ago which killed about sixty miners.

There are to be one or two more railroads built through here some time in the near future.

If this does not find its way to the waste basket I may write again. Hoping The Record success, I will close.

JAMES TALLEY.

We Risk It.

Druggists Who Sell Dr. Miles' Nervine Agree, If it Fails, to Refund Cost.

Of course we reimburse the drug gist.

You know him and trust him.

Dr. Miles' Nervine is medicine for your nerves.

It cures disease of the internal organs by giving tone to the nerves which make these organs work.

It is a novel theory—not of anatomy, but of treatment; first discovered by Dr. Miles, and since made use of by many wide-awake physicians, who appreciate its value in treating the sick.

If you are sick we offer you a way to be made well—Dr. Miles' Nervine.

This medicine is a scientific cure for nerve disorders, such as Neuralgia, Headache, Loss of Memory, Sleeplessness, Spasms, Backache, St. Vitus Dance, Epilepsy or Fits, Nervous Prostration, etc.

By toning up the nerves, Dr. Miles' Restorative Nervine will also cure those diseases of the internal organs due to a disordered nervous system.

GREAT SENSATION

CAUSED BY BANK PRESIDENT'S DEFALCATION.

MILWAUKEE, April 24.—President Bigelow, of the First National Bank, is a defaulter, and the institution has closed doors.

It is alleged that he has misappropriated $1,500,000 of the bank's funds.

The directors state that they will make the loss good and that none of the depositors will lose any money.

No arrest has been made yet.

The wildest excitement prevails in the city over the news of the defalcation, and hundreds of depositors surround the bank building.

The institution has been looked on as one of the strongest in Wisconsin, and president as one of the state's ablest and most successful financiers.

Wanted.

MEN AND WOMEN in this county and adjoining territories to represent and advertise an old established house of solid financial standing. Salary to men $21 per week, to women $12 to $18 weekly, with expenses advanced each Monday by check direct from headquarters. Horse and buggy furnished when necessary; position permanent. SOME ADVICE

From Kentuckian in the Northwest.

Zillah, Wash., April 10.—Dear Editor:—I feel very much like writing and telling you and my old friends of Kentucky what I think of my new home.

Since Mr. Hill has returned, we Kentuckians have been accused of writing good news about the country one time and bad news next time. I will just say to the good people of Marion and Crittenden county, among whom I have lived and always found a friend in time of need, which is a good sign that I have been counted reliable. I have never written anything for or against the country, but I have written my friends and told them that I could not advise them to come to this country, and through your paper I give them my advice not to come, not that I am home sick, for I don't grieve over spilt milk, but I know I would have been worth $500 more if I had stayed at home and fully as much thought of it is just one out of ten such as come here that can get a house to live in, and that is from one to two dollars per week if you are lucky enough to get one. I notice there are lots of people die here who are not able to bury themselves. I know wages are good, but you have to buy every thing you eat, even to the water you drink. But I guess I had better not write too much, for Mr. Hill gets this paper as quick as I do and he is my door neighbor, if I should say people neighbor here; but if he kicks about this I will write something about the country next time. A Kentuckian don't have to be knocked down to take a hint anyway. We get the Record regularly and read and re-read it and we like it on account of what it stands for. So may it live long and prosper is my wish. Your friend,

T. R. ROWLAND.

ANNOUNCEMENTS.

FOR REPRESENTATIVE.

COCHRAN—We are authorized to announce Thomas H. Cochran a candidate to represent the district composed of Crittenden and Livingston counties in the Kentucky legislature; subject to the action of the Democratic party.

Forest fires are raging in Minnesota and Wisconsin and threaten much damage.

In a speech at Calabazo, President Castro, of Venezuela, intimated that if war against his republic being planned he is ready for it.

Government Ownership

Our Friend, "Old Guard," Has Something to Say on It.

Editor of The Record:—As you know, Judge Dunne, of Chicago, nominally a Democrat, has been elected mayor of that city and there is general rejoicing throughout the entire country. This rejoicing is not because his opponent, Judge John M. Harlan, a Republican, was in anywise objectionable as a man, for no gentleman is held in higher esteem by all citizens of Chicago. It was because Judge Dunne was nominated by an element which stood uncompromisingly for municipal ownership of all public utilities, and the fight was made on this issue solely.

We will now see carried into effect the public ownership and operation of street car lines in a great metropolitan city—the second city in the United States.

There have been forming for a few years past little currents here and there in favor of the public ownership of the various utilities of the country, and these currents coming together have formed a strong stream that is daily gaining in strength and volume. Every day the trend of public opinion is more and more in that direction.

These things are coming. It is a part of the manifest destiny of this great country that government, both National and State, shall own these public necessities. The arrogance and domineering insolence of corporations and aggregated wealth has become such a menace to the country's safety that the Government, in sheer self defense, will be forced to do this, and when it is done, the wisdom of the act, the blessing with which it will be fraught will be so patent that everyone will wonder if had not been done long before.

No one denies the authority of a city government to fix the rate of telephone tolls, street car fares, and electric and gas charges for light, power and fuel. Then if a city is so empowered, why not own such utilities and profit by the use thereof instead of giving or selling the franchises to corporations—nineteenths of the owners of which are absentees, residents of other States and yearly take their profits to other fields for investment. The profits from the operation of street railways, telephones, electric and gas companies of a great city will very nearly, if not entirely, defray its expenses. They will come so near doing so that taxes will be only nominal.

Some people urge in opposition that such ownership would open such fields for graft and corruption the whole country would soon be in the hands of thieves entirely. That view is too pessimistic to even be considered. The United States Government owns and operates the postal system. Is it a seething mass of graft and corruption? Would the addition of telegraph and telephone lines make it a field for fraud? The State of Georgia has owned and operated a railroad for years—one of the principal roads in the State—which has been a paying investment from its inauguration to date. Has anyone ever heard of any corruption or graft in connection with that road?

The Government of New Zealand, one of the most important of the British colonies, owns all railroads, telegraph and telephone lines, and other utilities of this character. Everything works well there, and there is no dishonesty anywhere. Railroad freight and passenger rates and telegraph and telephone tolls are all cheaper there than elsewhere on the globe.

Government ownership will be a living issue in the next presidential campaign, and while it may not win then, it has come to stay.

BOATS OF HOLLAND

MAY BE PITTED SOON
AGAINST SCHWAB'S.

American Submarine Vessels and Cruisers in Japanese War.

NEW YORK, April 27.—John P. Holland, the submarine inventor, is said to have been notified by the Japanese government that the preliminary tests of submarines built secretly by him and shipped to Japan have proved successful. Further tests are to be made, to supervise which Mr. Holland has been invited to go to Japan.

An American, reputed to be an Annapolis man, is in charge of the boats. He is training the Japanese officers to handle them.

As Mr. Holland is personally building boats for the Japanese government, while the Schwab-Nixon syndicate is building boats for Russia, it results that Holland is to wage war on the boats that are being built by the men with whom he was formerly associated.

THE VITAL NECESSITY

There is no other one thing with which I have so much trouble as this lack of persistency among advertisers. They lack the nerve to fight long and hard.

While they will expend a good deal of cash and energy in making a single plunge, they will grow tired if called upon to expend the same amount through a campaign of six months.

The road to success is an uphill road all the way. Do not try to sport.

For a little way it goes easy, and you get over the ground fast, but the goal seems all the farther away when the nervous energy in that spurt is spent. There are but 40 per cent of advertisers who make their advertising pay.

The rest never learned that persistency in advertising is the one vital necessity.

They jumped into advertising without preparation in the way of the money to meet the expense or the experience to keep from wasting it. They failed to consider that the creation of trade through advertising was a long process.—Inland Printer.

Successful merchants use our columns persistently.

Questions Answered to Entire Satisfaction of the Editor.

Jennie, New Orleans.

How does a stone step? We are gratified that our labors are being appreciated throughout the entire country. Miss Jennie, of New Orleans, asks how does a stone step. We ancient's always claimed that there was a growth in rocks from year to year, that in fact a certain life existed and proved it to their satisfaction by measurements. We have looked the ground over carefully, including several stone quarries, and we are satisfied that a stone steps a good deal like a plank walks, except the stone doesn't get slivers in your feet when you are sliding down the back cellar door.

Under the heading "Sheriff's Sale" I notice it says "By virtue of a Vendition Exponas," etc. What is a Vendition Exponas?

It is somewhat rare to find in Kentucky a person who is not fully informed as to a "Vendition Exponas." You take three cups of sugar, sifted well, add four nutmegs and a half pint of Old Hickory whisky and you will catch it.

Do you always hear a gum drop? It is not absolutely necessary that you should always hear a gum drop. It depends a good deal on how far it drops and what it is made from. We once knew a health officer that was never known to let a gum drop except when drinking coca cola. He knows more about it than we do.

SEWING BEES AT THE CHINESE COURT.

Empress Has an American Machine—Putting Ladies to Work.

PARIS, April 26.—A French officer who, returning from Manchuria, visited Pekin, where he was presented at the imperial court, says the dowager empress of China has been presented with an American sewing machine. She is so delighted with it that she has decided to order one for every lady at the court, and intends to have regular sewing bees in the palace, to which daughters of all the highest mandarins are to be invited and try their skill on the wonderful machines.

The empress is at present even more interested in sewing machines than in the magnificent mausoleum which she is having built for herself and on which she has spent nearly $500,000.

She told the officer that she has no intention of dying for some time yet and that she feels as well as ever. She will continue to be the actual ruler of China until the war between Japan and Russia is over, but she will then retire.

POPULISM IN CHICAGO.

Judge Dunne's Triumph the Logical Outcome of Agitation Begun 15 Years Ago By the People's Party.

Every old gray-haired Populist in the United States is rejoicing the election of Judge Edward F. Dunne as mayor of Chicago. Municipal Ownership platform, because he sees, after years of the triumph of a principal which has never been clearly enunciated, national platform of any except the People's party. After years of the abuse and vituperation of the old party press, these people reform view with satisfaction the rapid growth of sentiment in public ownership of public utilities.

Nominally Judge Dunne is a Democrat—but his party has been declared for public ownership in its national platform. Nor has a publican party. And the Socialists scorn the victory in Chicago as in "State Capitalism," as reactionary and dangerous. The People alone has steadfastly upheld the principal which enabled Judge Dunne carry Chicago by 25,000, a city which less than six months ago elected Judge Parker by a plurality of 110,000.

That the Chicago election this spring was a distinct victory for Populism—and nothing else—is shown conclusively by Hon. Thomas E. Ryan in a spicy editorial which will appear in the May number of Insider's Magazine. Out April 25th. Price ten cents at all newsstands by mail, $1 a year. Address:

BANK CLOSING DOWN

BOWLING GREEN, Ky., April 22.—P. J. Potter's Sons, the oldest bank in Warren county, which was considered one of the safest and most reliable in southern Kentucky, has made an assignment for the benefit of its creditors. Col. E. L. Mottley is the assignee.

The assignment came like a clap of thunder from a clear sky and will general involve many business interests in the city and county, as the bank did a large business and had many depositors. The last quarterly statement showed deposits amounting to about $750,000. The institution has been doing a good business and the assignment is said to have been caused by the fact that they had a great deal of money out which they could not get in, and the further fact that the Louisville banks refused them loans to meet the demands that were being made on them. It is claimed the bank will be able to pay the holders dollar for dollar out of assets without touching its reserves which is worth $251,000.

THE SUNDAY SCHOOL.

LESSON V, SECOND QUARTER, INTERNATIONAL SERIES, APRIL 30.

Text of the Lesson, John xiii, 1-14.
Memory Verses, 12, 13—Golden Text,
Gal. v, 13—Commentary Prepared by Rev. B. M. Stearns.

Copyright, 1905, by American Press Association.

It is the last evening of His sojourn in a mortal body, for on the morrow He will give Himself into the hands of His enemies to be crucified. It is the feast of the Passover, concerning which He said, "I have heartily desired to eat this Passover with you before I suffer" (Luke xxii, 15, margin). He and the twelve are gathered in a certain guest chamber in Jerusalem, where Peter and John had prepared the feast at His command (Luke xxii, 8-12). Neither the city as such nor even the religious leaders knew or cared anything about this little company, but all heaven was interested, and here in the midst of this small gathering sat the Creator of all things, God manifest in the flesh, the Messiah of Israel, the Great Head of the Church, the King of kings and Lord of lords; truly a man and a poor man, yet truly God; the world which was made by Him knew Him not, and Israel, whom He came to redeem, would not receive Him.

None, however, did receive Him, and here at the table are the inner circle of such, but one of them is a devil possessed man who never was truly the Lord's, and ere the night is over all will forsake Him, and seemingly the bravest one among them will with words and curses deny that he ever knew Him. Yet the eleven now present who were truly His own in spite of all their weaknesses and sinfulness are those of whom it is written in our lesson, "Having loved His own which were in the world, He loved them unto the end."

Many times He had said, "Mine hour, or time, is not yet come" (chapters ii, 4; vi, 6, 7), and on at least two occasions His enemies could not take Him because His hour to be taken had not come (vii, 30; viii, 20), but now He knew that His hour had come to depart out of the world unto the Father. Death to the believer is simply an exit or departure from this life to a far better one, and the resurrection will bring the fullness of it. If we fully believed God, the unseen would be more real than this world.

Professing to be a disciple of Christ, Judas Iscariot deliberately chose to serve the devil, opening his heart to the evil thought and afterward letting Satan himself in. To keep the devil out we must resist his suggestions. Nothing will tend to give us true humility so much as the consciousness of our sinfulness with Christ in His glory and His kingdom. When we are sure that all things are ours in Christ (I Cor. iii, 21-23; Luke xv, 31) we will not be grasping the things of this world nor overmuch grieved when we lose them, nor will we think any service too menial for us to perform.

Contrast the proud rebelliousness of Peter under the guise of humility in verses 6 and 8. How rare is the grace of simple submission to Him, however humbling to us; the grace of just letting Him do what He will, whether it suits us or our ideas or not, knowing that some time we shall understand, and meantime we can trust Him implicitly. The great thing is to be sure that we have part in Him, are part of Him, by being born again.

When we truly receive Him as the Son of God and our own personal Savior, then we are washed in His blood and in the sight of God clean every whit, washed, sanctified, justified (Rev. i, 5, 6; I Cor. vi, 11), but there is a daily cleansing needed, a moment by moment cleansing, for we are in a defiling world, where every touch makes unclean, and hence the significance of the question, "Wherewithal shall a young man cleanse his way?" (Ps. cxix, 9) and the importance of the reply and of the statement in verse 1.

Believers are the unclean in the way who walk in the law of the Lord. The same truth is in Eph. v, 25, 26, "Christ loved the church and gave Himself for it, that He might sanctify and cleanse it with the washing of water by the word," and again in John xvii, 17, "Sanctify them through Thy truth; Thy word is truth." Before God we are by the blood of Christ, by His own great sacrifice, sanctified and perfected forever (Heb. x, 10, 14), but in our daily life we ever need the blood which cleanseth from all sin (I John i, 7).

We have seen in some of these passages just quoted that water is a symbol of the word, and doubtless it was in the washing of our lesson. Object lesson teaching is God's oldest method. It began in Eden with the tree of life, the coats of skins, the cherubim, the flaming sword; it is seen in every part of the tabernacle and its ritual, in Aaron's rod that budded, in the rock smitten and then spoken to, in the fringe and riband of blue and every where throughout the book. Here He by this object lesson, feet washing, and His application, "I have given you an example, that ye should do as I have done to you" (verse 15), instructs us that as His blood bought ones we are to manifest His life, not seeking their own, not judging others, but lovingly and meekly seeking to cleanse each other's walk through this world.

Be critical fault finding, but patient. Much effort, will cleanse many a way. The water must not be too hot, too cold; sharpness and anger will not do, nor cold, formal rebuke. Let Christ in us doing through us as He would Himself do; this shall prevail. Do we own Him as our Lord and Master? If so, a willing obedience to Him in all He asks (verses 13-17; Isa. i, 18, 19), and to know and not to do is (Isa. lv, 17; i, 22).

Talmage Sermon

By Rev.
Frank De Witt Talmage, D.D.

Los Angeles, Cal., April 16.—From the story of an iniquitous bargain and the use to which the tainted money earned by it was put the preacher in this sermon draws lessons of the evils that come from avarice and cupidity. The text is Matthew xxvii, 8, "Wherefore that field was called the field of blood."

A grewsome fascination hovers about the bricks, and the stones, and the boards, and the grounds where lived and wrought some of the world's evil workers. Island of Blennerhassett! Wonderful name, rich in historical associations! I see the boats every spring and summer and fall filled with sight-seers almost daily pushing out upon the Ohio river to seek this little island near Marietta. Why? Is it a summer playground? Is it an Isle of Wight? Is its center a mansion? Are its banks terraced? Are its trees filled with sweetest of songsters as they were once in the halcyon days when its owner, Harman Blennerhassett, took his bride there and changed this island into an Edenic garden, as Nebuchadnezzar, who had courted Princess Amytis among the hills of Ecbatana, to humor the whims of his queen, had lifted high for the wonderment of the world the famous "hanging gardens of Babylon"? Oh, no. Blennerhassett island today is of little intrinsic value. A few scrub trees, a few rocks, perhaps a few hovels such as can be seen in scores of islands in the middle of this Ohio river, are all the aesthetic beauties it has to offer to the landscape artist. But to the historian Blennerhassett has the same fascination as have the broken walls of Kenilworth castle. Blennerhassett is immortal on account of the infamous history of Aaron Burr. That is where the ex-vice president stepped on his way to establish a monarchy in the great southwest. It has an evil fame as the rendezvous of the traitorous conspirators of that day, just as is that house in a side street of Washington in which Mary E. Surratt welcomed the thugs of the later time who were plotting the assassination of Abraham Lincoln.

The people in swarms used to go to an old fashioned New England house where was kept a bloody shirt, the relic of a dastardly deed of the Revolutionary war. As I remember the story, an American officer was surrounded by the enemy while eating dinner in this very house. When called upon to surrender he handed over his sword, bled first, to one of his captors. Instead of the British soldier receiving it and placing his captive under guard, he took the sword and plunged it through the heart of his helpless victim. The rent in the shirt showed where the sword had pierced its way into the bleeding flesh. Of course such a cowardly act as this was condemned by the British army as well as by the Americans. But the condemnation of the murderer has not anything to do with my thought. The one fact I want to impress upon you is this: Scores and hundreds of people naturally seek in fascinated awe the places where a great crime has been committed. The star in the floor of the Pennsylvania depot, where Garfield was shot, for years had its thousands of sightseers. The scene of the Chicago Haymarket riot, the place where Edward Stokes shot James Fisk, the savage vat where Leutger disintegrated the body of his murdered wife, all have had their morbid sightseers even as the room in which George Washington breathed his last has its daily visitors.

"The Field of Blood."
Crowds of sightseers in Jerusalem for years after the crucifixion went to the scene of my text out of a morbid curiosity, as the multitude seek the island of Blennerhassett. Indeed, had they not gone out of a morbid curiosity they never would have gone at all. "Aceldama—that is to say, the field of blood"—is not, as some people might suppose, an Esdrasian plain where a mighty battle was fought. It was an old potter's field, filled with clay. It was too poor ground to be used for agricultural purposes. It had been turned into a paupers' cemetery. Yet this paupers' burial ground had for years hosts of sightseers. Why? Perhaps the best way to answer you is to tell you what some of the sightseers are now saying. "Yes, this is ground," says one, "that was bought by the priests with the thirty pieces of silver Judas received for betraying Christ." "Aceldama—that is, the field of blood"—says another; "it is well named." Could we have a better subject to preach upon than this potter's field, which became a paupers' burying ground, bought with the money Judas received for betraying Christ?

Aceldama, in the first place, teaches us that there is no honor among thieves. When a man becomes a Satanic hireling he is not likely to be true to his partners in iniquity. A murderer in order to save his own neck, as a rule, will turn state's evidence against his companions in crime. A pickpocket will be just as willing to empty the purse of an associate as he is to snatch the watch of a bank president. It is often vaunted that there is honor among thieves, but experience proves that it is a vain boast. The thief has no honor. The evil spirit who seeks to lead you into temptation is the evil spirit who will desert you as soon as you have been caught in a fatal trap or are foundering in the quicksands of shame.

No Loyalty to Kin.

A sly fox has no loyalty to her kin. She has but one desire—to save her own skin. This characteristic is essentially true of the Satanic devotees. All that you have to do to prove this premise is to study how this Aceldama was purchased. For weeks and months the priests were trying to destroy Christ. They knew not how they might capture him, for they feared the people. At last one of their spies came and said: "Ah, ha, I have solved the problem! One of Christ's apostles can be bribed. We will find out where Christ is in hiding at night. Then we will take some soldiers and go and arrest him and summon the sanhedrin and try him and convict him and crucify him before his friends can come to the rescue. Here is my man at hand. What say you, Judas? Will you betray your Master for thirty pieces of silver?" "I will," answered the apostate. Then what happens? No sooner is Christ betrayed and Judas is overcome with remorse than he comes back to these same priests and says: "I cannot take this money. It is blood money. Here it is." And he flings it at their feet. Then what happens? Why, the priests look down upon this blood money and say: "That money is too vile for us to touch. We cannot use a murderer's money in the temple. We are too good and holy for that. Let us take the money and buy a paupers' burial ground. That certainly will hurt no one. They got Judas to betray Christ. Then as soon as Judas had done this vile, underhand, sinful work they turned their backs upon him and said: 'Judas, you are too low, too mean and too contemptible for us to have anything to do with you. We will not even take back the money we paid you with our own hands, for it is blood money.'"

Ah, the evil genius who lead us into temptation will never stand by us when they have miserably destroyed us. In ancient Rome the defenders for months were defying the northern barbarians. The strong walls and the iron gates could not be broken down. At last these barbarians went to a Roman woman and said, "If you will open for us the gates at night and let us in, we will give to you our war shields, made of ornamental gold and silver." She opened the gates by night, and Rome fell. But as soon as the northern barbarians became masters of Caesar's throne they destroyed the woman who betrayed her country. They gave her their shields of ornamental silver and gold, but they buried those shields at her with all the force of their mighty arms until her mangled and bleeding and lifeless body lay buried under her prizes of war. After Benedict Arnold betrayed his country he was hated even more in England than in America. One day he was seated in the gallery of the house of commons when a statesman arose to address the house. Before commencing his speech he said: "I see in the gallery of this house a contemptible character who, by the betrayal of his own land, has forfeited every right to the respect of mankind. Before I enter upon my speech I hope that Benedict Arnold, known as Arnold the traitor, might be requested to withdraw from this body of honorable men." Yes, the very men who profit by a crime despise their instrument and desert him in his ignominy.

They Will Turn Against You.

Man treading the path of sin, do not be a fool. Do not suppose that those sinful people who are praising you now will fawn upon you after your morals and money are gone. All that the saloonkeeper wants is your gold; as soon as you are in rags his free lunch counters will no longer give a welcome to you and yours. All that gambler wants is your gold; as soon as your money is gone he will kick you out of his presence as willingly as he would put a bullet in the heart of a mad dog. Ah, yes, the far country held plenty of friends as long as the younger son had horses and wine suppers, but as soon as his money was gone his friends were gone, his wine was gone, his horses were gone, his servants were gone; there was a great famine in that land. Companions of sin will fawn at your feet while you live in a palace. They will crush you under their heels when they can destroy you. Aceldama, the field of blood, was bought by the evil priests, who had turned against Judas as your companions of sin will yet turn against you.

Aceldama teaches another lesson. The easiest way to make an apostate is not by denouncing or ridiculing the divine mission of Jesus Christ, but by developing the tendencies to sin which have not been eradicated from his nature. Let me illustrate my thought practically. You have all wandered through the northern forests in the winter time. Everywhere you have seen the tall trunks of the trees supporting the bare branches. Not a leaf is in sight; not a flower is blooming. Where are the millions upon millions of leaves which as an arched roof covered the mountain pathways last summer? All gone. But if you will rub your fingers lightly over the bark of those branches you can see where new buds and new sprouts will come forth just as soon as springtime places to her lips the silver trumpet of the warm winds. As I approach a man who is called a Christian man I figuratively find him without sin, but as I touch his heart I find, still figuratively speaking, that all over his heart are latent sinful buds easy to be developed. Unless a man lives close to Christ and continues to live close to Christ these evil buds will sprout and grow even as the white apple blossoms cover the tree branches almost in one May day. The reason Judas betrayed Christ was because he allowed his latent buds of sin to develop; that is all.

"Judas not different from his fellow apostles? How was that?" some one asks me. "Why, Christ called him a devil." Aye, my friend, that is true. But Christ did not call Judas a devil in the sense that he was in the beginning any different from any other of the apostles. Indeed, I know he was just about the same. The apostles at that time honored and respected Judas so much that they made him their treasurer. He was their almoner; he handled all their money. He was not impulsive like Peter. He was a calm, cool calculator. Why, if Peter had been elected treasurer in Judas' place, the first ten beggars who came to him would have got all that he had, and no provision would have been left for the needs of the little company. The reason Judas was elected treasurer was because at first he was loyal to his Master and he was very careful in handling the funds.

The Sin of Judas.

But when Judas began to look after the money the old latent sin of his life grew warmer and budded and sprouted. Covetousness was Judas' sin. Every penny, every piece of silver and gold which came into his possession, only maddened his passions. Methinks I can see him at night counting the gold while his companions slept. "Ah," he kept saying to himself, "if this gold was only mine." This passion, this evil passion, kept growing and growing upon him. It kept growing upon him just as the desire for gold or fame or social position may have been growing upon you. Once Judas would have knocked a man down who would have placed a menacing or murderous hand upon his Christ. But now he kept saying: "Gold, gold; I must have gold. I must have gold, even if I do destroy Christ to get it." Listen! Let me trace the downfall of Judas—first, the honored apostleship; second, the election to the treasurership of the apostolic band; third, the hugging of the gold bags to satisfy the cravings of his developing avarice; fourth, the protest because the box of ointment of spike-nard, very precious, was poured upon Christ's head; fifth, the selling of Christ's life for thirty pieces of silver. Judas was not a devil always. Judas went down to the betrayal step by step. He went down to the betrayal of Christ as some of us are going, slowly, surely, awfully, demoniacally, step by step, step by step.

The field of blood teaches us, in the next place, that the most awful danger that can be done against Christ is done by his apostates and not by his out and out bitter enemies. For weeks and months, as I said before, the high priests were trying to take Christ and crucify him. "But when they sought to lay hands upon him they feared the multitude, because they took him for a prophet." What is the meaning of this? They dared not touch him. Christ's beneficiaries at that time would have risen up and swept the high priests and the Pharisees from off the earth.

A Supposition.

Supposing toward the close of the Crimean war the English general had given orders that Florence Nightingale was to be shot as a spy, what would have happened? Methinks about the commander's tent would have been seen 5,000 poor fellows pleading and praying and threatening. One soldier would say: "She nursed me through a fever and saved my life. She shall not die!" Another would say: "She held my hand when they cut off my leg. She must not die!" Another would have said: "She bandaged my eyes, blasted by the gunpowder explosion. It was on account of her care that I now can see." So those whose limbs Christ had straightened and those whose eyes Christ had opened and those whose leprous skin Christ had cleansed would have risen up and cried out: "He shall not die! He shall not die!" But when Judas led the Roman officers by night to the garden of Gethsemane and showed where Christ was in retreat then Jesus was taken by stealth and tried while Jerusalem slept. He was tried by night. He was crucified on the early morning. Oh, my friends, shall it be that you and I as apostates have betrayed Christ into the hands of his enemies?

Another thought: "Aceldama—that is, the field of blood"—teaches that remorse for a sin committed does not necessarily wipe off the record of that sin from the Lamb's book of life. Judas was sorry for his sin. No sooner had he given that betraying kiss than he would have been willing to cut off his right arm to have undone the damage. He flung the money back into the priests' faces. He did more than that. Lacerated and agonized on account of his mental sufferings, he went forth and hanged himself. He practically said: "O God, my brain is crazed! Let me die!" But to be sorry for a past sin is not enough. Remorse is not salvation through Christ. Dr. Whitley well said in one of his sermons, "Judas had a sight and sense of sin, but no apprehension of the mercy of God in Christ, and so he pined away in his iniquity." O man, today you are sorry for your sins. You are sorry because they dragged you down and down and down. But are you more than sorry? Are you ready to renounce them and to plead with God for pardon through the blood of Christ? This pardon is offered to all who come in Christ's name. Remorse for sin does not necessarily mean salvation by faith. There are two facts in the life of the prodigal son I would have you well bear in mind. The one is, he was sorry; the second fact, he arose and went back to his father's house. Oh, my brother, will you repent of your sins? Will you do more than that? Will you turn your back upon sin and look at the loving, forgiving face of Jesus Christ?

God's Love Never Wanes.

But the last thought to me is the sweetest of all. Standing by "Aceldama—that is, the field of blood"—I find that, no matter how much we have sinned, God never loses his love for the sinner. God loves us and clings to us in exactly the same way as a mother clings to her children. I asked a dear friend of mine some time ago who was the favorite among her many children. She answered, "I love the youngest best until he is grown, and the absent one best until he returns, and the sick one best until he gets well." Yes, I said to myself, "And the prodigal best until he comes back to a mother's love." So God clings to his wayward ones. The more we sin the more he wants us by his side and the more he pleads with us and clings to us.

Do we not find this fact true in reference to Judas' life? When Christ knew that Judas was to betray him, did he drive Judas from his side? No; that was not Christ's way. He kept Judas with him clear up to end. He seems to be saying all the time, "Oh, Judas, why wilt thou betray the Son of man?" One of the last acts of Christ's earthly life was to honor Judas above all his brethren when he gave to him the sop at the supper. The giving of the sop was an act of love, not of hate. So Christ today is pleading with you and me. We may spit in his face, as did those who led him forth for crucifixion; we may place a crown of thorns upon his head; we may betray him with a kiss, as did Judas, but we cannot make Christ cease to love us. Oh, my friends, will not you and I yield to this love of Jesus Christ, which passeth all human understanding? We have wandered far, far away, but Christ is today still loving us. Will you accept his pardoning love? Will you accept it now?

A Worldwide Invitation.

This is a worldwide invitation which I am giving you to come to the saving cross. Indeed, so great, so far reaching are the possibilities of human redemption through Christ, that while I was writing this sermon in the quietude of my study the thought arose: "How do I know that Judas was eternally destroyed? God changed his mind in reference to the Ninevites when they repented of their sins. How do I know that Judas, even when he was dangling on the end of that rope, did not make such supplication as brought him within the influence of the divine Father's forgiving love? Perhaps in the death struggle Judas called upon Christ for rescue. If he did, who shall say that Christ did not pardon him? He could pardon Judas' sins just as he forgave Paul's, who was the 'chief of sinners.' If Judas did call for divine forgiveness, I know he received it, just as the penitent thief, as Mary Magdalene, as the woman of Samaria, received forgiveness when repentant, just as freely as you can be forgiven today. Oh, my friends, with such a divine love surrounding us, will you not throw yourself upon the mercy and atonement of Christ, which have saved in the past, which save now and which will save through all time? The cross can be changed into a crown by changing the last two letters. Remorse can be changed into triumph if today, in Christ's mercy, you will reach up and look and live."

REGULAR EPIDEMIC

OF HORSE STEALING IN THIS REGION.

Police Are Amazed at the Number of Animals Stolen.

The horse stealing mania which seems to be sweeping over the country has struck Henderson and Hopkins counties. Within the last week more horses have been stolen in these two counties than there had been in nearly a year previous, says the Henderson Gleaner.

The members of the local police force declare that the records will not show as many thefts of horses in a month as have been stolen in the last five days. They are appalled at the number of thefts and the success the thieves have in getting away from officers.

Almost daily reports come from other counties in the state and from adjoining counties telling of horses being stolen. The police daily receive circulars telling them about horse thefts and giving description of the property. Such reports have been coming the police regularly for several weeks past but the wave had not struck this section until last week.

It seems strange that horse thieves can get away so easily. The state offers a standing reward of $50 to every person who catches a horse thief and the officers never fail to work hard on such cases. Again it would seem to be a hard job to dispose of a horse without arousing suspicion in making a cheap sale and when the police are on the watchout for such deals.

BIGELOW ARRESTED

Claims Assistant Cashier Helped Him.

MILWAUKEE, April 25.—Frank G. Bigelow, until yesterday president of the First National Bank of Milwaukee, was arrested last night on a charge of embezzlement, and was held to the federal grand jury in bond of $25,000. Bigelow's arrest followed his confession before a meeting of the directors of the bank, when he admitted he was a defaulter to the extent of $1,450,000, the money having been lost in speculation. The directors of the bank decided to make good the shortage and steps were taken to prepare for the run on the bank. At the closing hour yesterday afternoon nearly $1,000,000 had been paid out to the depositors, and more than 2,000 persons were around the doors clamoring for their money. Bigelow says he was assisted in manipulating the bank's books by the assistant cashier, Henry G. Goll, and a warrant has been issued for Goll's arrest.

MILWAUKEE, April 27.—Frank Bigelow, former president of the First National Bank, who is charged with embezzling a million and a half dollars, filed a petition in bankruptcy today. His debts aggregate $3,000,000, and assets $1,500,000. Several large estates are involved.

Troops are Taken to Scene To Prevent Further Trouble.

HEMSTEAD, Tex., April 25.—At a mass meeting here last night, called for the purpose of petitioning the governor to send rangers here to enforce the local option law, J. N. Brown, leading lawyer and a staunch prohibitionist, began shooting, which became general in an instant. Three men were killed, one man was fatally injured and two others seriously wounded.

The dead—J. N. Brown, Congressman John M. Pinckney, Tom Pinckney.

John Mills, a leading prohibitionist, it is feared cannot survive. Doc Tompkins, private secretary of Congressman Pinckney, and Rolling Brown, son of J. N. Brown, are badly wounded, but just how seriously cannot now be determined. There are many armed men on the streets, but it is not believed there will be any more trouble.

The governor was notified and sent rangers here. A special train was run from Houston with surgeons to attend the wounded.

There has been bitter feeling for several years over the prohibition question and the recent election, when the "antis" failed to gain the victory they had expected, added to this. The whole county has been divided into factions as a result.

Recently Tucker Pinckney, a brother of John M. Pinckney, was shot to death by negroes.

HOUSTON, Tex., April 25.—The adjutant general left Austin shortly before last midnight for Hemstead aboard a special train with half a dozen rangers. At Manor the local military company was picked up and troops will arrive at Hemstead early this morning. The town is quiet, but feeling is tense.

Other members of the order from France, where the Trappists have been suppressed, will join those in Oregon. The Trappists tried to secure land in Kentucky, but the cost was too great, and they accepted the free lands in Oregon.

TICKET NOMINATED

BY THE DEMOCRATS OF LOUISVILLE.

LOUISVILLE, Ky., April 26.—The Democratic primary for the nomination of candidates for next November's election in Louisville and Jefferson county was quiet. The vote was unusually large, considering the inclement weather and the fact that the candidates for many of the perspective offices were without opposition.

Paul C. Barth, who will be declared the Democratic nominee for mayor of Louisville when the Democratic city and county executive committee meets Friday to canvass the returns, received nearly every vote cast in the primaries—nearly 16,000. This is quite a compliment to Mr. Barth.

General interest centered in the races for county judge, county assessor, city auditor and city clerk. Judge Charles A. Wilson ran a remarkable race, winning over J. J. Fitzgerald; Magistrate John M. Adams won over P. S. Ray for county assessor; Lyne Herndon won over Charles Neumeier for city auditor, and Alf Oldham received the nomination over Albert Gray.

Mrs. Rose Stonestreet was nominated for superintendent of county schools, defeating two men by a large majority.
