NUMBER 51.

WORK PROGRESSES ON NEW BUILDINGS

The New and Greater Marion
Will Soon be a Reality.

Marion Bank Building is a Beauty

E. Weldon's Residence in the Weldon-Blackburn Addition Will Soon be Completed.

The W. G. Carnahan residence on Leveille street has been completed.

The brick masons are going right up on the two Frisbee buildings on Main street.

Contractor Jennings has roofed and erected two of the Wheeler buildings
the work on the third is being done as rapidly as the North wall of bank building is completed.

The brick work on the C. E. Weldon residence on Elm street will be completed this week, and Contractor Stone, of Ash, will push the wood work to as early completion as possible.

The concrete foundation for the new office building has been prepared and the concrete stone blocks for walls are now being manufactured
on the ground.

There was little work done on the office building this week other than placing of some floor joists, but more has been concentrated on the Marion Bank building, the work on which so far signifies that it will be one of the handsomest bank buildings in Western Kentucky.

The brick work on the new Masonic temple has not been commenced, but material is being prepared. This temple is one of the handsomest structures in the city, being three stories
in front of cream pressed brick,
stone trimmings, and will be modern and up-to-date in every particular.

H. Orme has just about completed the 20x100 foot warehouse that he is using for the Cochran & Pickens ware firm, and Woods & Orme will use their drug store the first of next month from the hotel site on Bank street, the warehouse, so that the factor may begin work on the new

CRITTENDEN COUNTY BOY INJURED AT COAL MINE

Accident Deprives Young Elihu Ford
of His Right Leg.

A frightful accident occurred at the Marion Coal Company's shaft mine
Friday about noon.

Elihu Ford was assisting in operating
one of the electric mining machines.
Adjusting the machine Ford attempted to step over the rapidly moving chain, to which numerous steel claws or attached, when he was caught by the right foot, which was instantly horribly crushed and mangled.

He was immediately given surgical attention, but it was soon plain to the physicians that an amputation was necessary, and a few hours after the limb was taken off below the joint, Drs. Dixon and Williams were performing the operation.

The operation was very satisfactory
and the patient has been getting along as could be expected, but it is feared that complications may arise to jeopardize his life.

Elihu Ford is a son of Marion Ford, Crittenden county, and is a most industrious young man. He has a young wife and his misfortune is shared by his numerous friends.

Circuit Court Proceedings

Circuit Court has for consideration
this term a number of small cases, several of which have been disposed of
to date. Among those that have been disposed of are the following:

Comth vs Gillispie, etc., gaming.
Fined $20 and cost.

Comth vs Geo. Fritts, carrying concealed weapons. Acquitted.

Comth vs Book Buckalew, shooting
another person with intent to kill.

Bookalew agreed to pay $50 and costs
the case was settled without going to jury.

Comth vs Jessie Jones, breach of the peace. Fined $20 and costs.

The jurors empanelled are as follows:

Revenue Agent Files Suit.

Revenue agent B. F. Chambers, of Paducah, is in the city collecting data upon which several hundred suits will be filed against persons in this county, holding unlisted land notes and mortgages of $300 or over. Mr. Chambers has been at work on the books in the clerk's office since Wednesday morning and has only about half completed his researches. All notes and mortgages of over $300 and dating from 1900
which have not been listed for taxation are his quarry and he has already nearly filled a large pad with the names of parties holding these papers against whom suits will be filed, probably some time next week.

Mr. Chambers is working under Frank A. Lucas who has figured so conspicuously in the columns of the State press as a result of his suits against the banks of the State for alleged back taxes and fight waged against him on the grounds that he was legally authorized to bring such actions. —Hopkinsville New Era.

Where's The Eye of a "Hoss" Fly.

EDITOR RECORD: I wish you would tell us in terms that cannot be misunderstood, and to the satisfaction of all concerned, whether the eyes of a "hoss" fly are under its wings or on its head. This question cannot be settled by the town loafers as they are about equally divided. Your decision will be accepted by all.

J. PERPOINT MORGAN, JR.

Referred to our "fly catcher" the office devil, who says that all street
loafers ought to be good fly-catchers
and ought to know.

LATER: The office devil has just bought one, and says to be sure the eyes are just below the frontal bone, astride the nasal proboscis in the vicinity of the probe that is used successfully on all cattle and horses, except the hides of the cows the local butchers kill for beef.

Teachers' Institute July 17.

Instituts is coming with all its horrors (to the "un-professional") and you are hereby notified to be prepared to attend the full session—five days.
No enrollment will be allowed after the first day without a written and legal excuse. All who expect to teach within the confines of Crittenden county are expected to attend. As a teacher you need all the benefits of a good institute. Prof. Evans will be with us and with a hearty co-operation this will be a good one.

Be on hands the first day, July 17th.

Postoffice Re-established at Mexico.

The postoffice at Mexico, 7 miles South of Marion on the I. C. R. R. has been re-established and W. J. Roberts, the railroad agent at that place has been appointed postmaster, and will enter upon the duties of his office at once, which he will attend to in connection with his duties as station agent.
It has been but a few months since this office was discontinued by the department at Washington, because Postmaster Myers resigned and at that time no one wanted the office.

FOURTH OF JULY AT CRITTENDEN SPRINGS

Splendid Program Has Been Arranged to Celebrate the Occasion.

BARBECUE DINNER WILL BE SERVED

A Day of Pleasure and Amusement to Close With Beautiful Display
of Fireworks and a Dance.

Independence day at the Crittenden Springs will be a royal Fourth. It is expected that crowds of people, who have cast aside the cares of life for the time being that they may enjoy one whole day of pleasure and good fellow-feeling, will cover the old hills about the spring. The band will play, the birds will sing and music will reign
supreme, while the stars and stripes, waving in the breeze, will indicate that the dawn of the one hundred and twenty-ninth year of Old Glory's reign is at hand.

Proprietor Jno. W. Wilson, of the hotel, and his friends will have everything in readiness for the guests, who will come from all directions, and the grassy lawn and shaded seats will bid them welcome.

Among the events of the day will be a genuine shooting match at thirty, fifty and 500 foot range, two or more match games of base ball and many other incidental amusements, besides the evening dance, and, most important of all, the grand fireworks beginning at eight o'clock p. m. No time and money has been spared in preparing this part of the program, which will be under the direction of E. P.
Stewart, of this city. One of the best $100 outfits has been purchased for this purpose that could be secured. If possible, everyone should go prepared to stay all day and remain over at night
long enough to see these fireworks, which will be a rare treat for yourselves and possibly something your children have never seen before.

And not the least important part of the preparation for the entertainment of the crowd will be the cold drinks on the ground and the barbecued meats
prepared in the grand old Kentucky style. There will be plenty for everybody to eat and drink, and this year's Fourth for those who attend will be the best the county has had for many years.

COUNTY ROAD OVERSEERS MEET AT THE COURTHOUSE

Interesting Speeches Made Concerning Good County Roads.

All the road overseers in the county
did not attend the Good Roads Convention held at the courthouse Saturday
under the auspices of the Crittenden County Commercial Club. A few of those that live at some distance were not present, possibly on account of threatened rain, but a large majority was present and a congenial and interesting day was spent.

The meeting was called to order and presided over by County Judge Aaron Towery, who prefaced the purpose of the meeting in a few brief remarks.
The meeting was then addressed in the forenoon by Hon. J. W. Blue, Jr., C. S. Nunn and County Attorney Carl Henderson. The remarks made by Messrs. Blue and Nunn were practical and a plea for better roads. Mr. Blue stated that better results can be attained by the present system of working the roads, if the farmers and overseers would enter cheerfully into the plan, than would be possible under the taxation plan. Mr. Nunn, who is the chairman of the County Development Committee of the Commercial Club, stated to the overseers the Club proposition to give three medals to the three overseers in the county that could show the three best worked sections of roads. He said the first medal would be gold, the second silver and the third bronze. He also said that the name of the overseer and the statement that he had won a medal would be printed on a sign and put up on his section of road as an additional testimony of his good work.

County Attorney Carl Henderson also offered a prize of five dollars to the overseer who could show the best worked section of road at the least expense, and stated that this prize

could be awarded by the same judges who determined who should have the medal to be given by Commercial Club.
Of course this prize may or may not be won by those winning medals, because the matter of expense may make a difference.

After these talks the convention adjourned to the yard, where an old-fashioned hand-out barbecue dinner was given the overseers, and a pleasant hour was spent in eating, smoking cigars and drinking cold water. At this point all present for once were glad that they were overseers, and some on the outside who had served in that capacity years ago were sorry that they had passed the age limit for road working.

At one o'clock the convention met again in the court house and a general discussion of the road question was engaged in by those present, and before adjournment the overseers effected an organization.

Notes by the Way.

Wednesday night I left Marion, and Friday evening at 3 o'clock I arrived at Toronto, having spent half a day in Cincinnati, and another half day at Niagara Falls. The trip was a very pleasant one. The entire country northeastward seems to have been blessed with rain. Crops are late, but with a favorable season, will doubtless give a good yield. Ohio is a great State—great in agricultural products,
great in its manufactures, every town
of any size having one or more manufacturing plants, and it has splendid roads—the last two points are suggestive to Marion and Crittenden county.

Western New York, bordering on Lake Erie is a great vineyard. Thousands and thousands of acres are dotted over with the vine. No wonder Chautaqua has fresh grape juice every morning; but it must be fresh, as they allow nothing sold that is fermented.
Niagara Falls is the same stupendous wonder of nature, the more to be admired the more you see it. The ride on the steamer down Niagara river and across Lake Ontario is a delightful trip. Toronto is a great, modern city.
The bulk of its 250,000 inhabitants are cultured, enterprising people. It is a city of great educational facilities, having more colleges and universities than any other city of its size.

We are surely having a great Convention. Friday night was the opening session. Massey Hall, seating five or six thousand people, was filled to its utmost capacity, and a large overflow meeting was held in the Metropolitan church. The speakers of the evening were the Lieutenant Governor of Ontario and Mayor Verquhart, of Toronto, giving welcome to the delegates, and Cary Bonner, of London, Eng., and
Rev. Alan Hudson, of Brocton, Mass.
The speeches were all excellent, but the United States carried off the palm of victory in the response of Rev. Hudson. He simply and sublimely captivated and captured his immense audience.
With enough humor to enliven and
enough thought for ballast, he discussed the relations between America and England and showed what they ought to do in S. S. work.

REVENUE AGENT EMPLOYS COUNCIL

To Assist in the Prosecution of Suits
For Back Taxes.

In the prosecution of his suits for back taxes, revenue agent for the State at large, A. M. Harrison, of Lexington, retains the services of the following
well known lawyers: Ex-Chief Justice Hallzerrig, Chas. J. Bronston, Jno. R.
Allen and Judge Wm. Yost. The cases
for the suits recently filed in this county against several of the mining companies will not likely be tried before the August term of the county court. The cases may come up at the July term, but the defense will be given an opportunity to file an answer to the plaintiff's petition and this will very likely cause
the cases to be continued.

The companies who are made defendants in these suits are: Kentucky
Fluor Spar Co., The Eagle Fluor Spar
Co., Marion Mineral Co., Marion Zinc
Co., and the Commodore Mining Co.

Officials of these companies who have been interviewed on the subject express a willingness that the revenue agent should be permitted to go into the courts and show wherein the companies should be compelled to pay the back tax.

NEW MANAGEMENT FOR COLUMBIA MINES

Mr. Sam Gugenheim Enters Into the Mining Business.

CARBONATE OF ZINC IS DISCOVERED

Evansville Capitalists Are Reported
as Having Made a Rich Find at Lead Hill, in Illinois.

The Watkins and Drescher lease on the Columbia mines will expire to-day, and beginning with to-morrow the mines will be operated by Messrs.
Drescher and Sam Gugenheim, the latter the well known merchant of this city. It is said that Messrs. Drescher and Gugenheim have leased the mines for the period one year. For the last six months or more these mines have been operated by Messrs. Drescher and Watkins, who have seldom removed less than fifty tons of ore per day.
Under their management the Columbia property has been developed to a producing stage that ranks among the first, and still the operations have extended but little beyond surface operations. There is little doubt that with the use of proper machinery and a larger force the Columbia property could be made to produce from 100 to 125 tons per day. The announcement of the fact that Mr. Gugenheim has entered the mining field will be quite a little surprise to his friends, and to see gentlemen who have had the privilege of watching the development stages of the mining industry in this district enter the field is encouraging to those who strive to bring about the fullest development of the field, and it will have a tendency to encourage foreign capital to the field.

It is reported that Evansville capitalists have discovered a large body of carbonate of zinc on Lead Hill, across the river near the Lee mines that are operated by the Marion Mineral Co.
At the Lee mines the Marion Mineral Co. is taking out about forty tons of spar per day. The ore is still being removed from the level at thirty-five foot depth in their 100 foot shaft. The shipment of ore from these mines have been held up some time on account of high water, but that is now out of the way, and with the first of July the shipment of the 2,000 tons of ore on hand at the mines will begin. This ore is shipped by way of Shawneetown.

The Senator Mining Company, under the direction of Superintendent A. H.
Reed, formerly with the Kentucky Fluor Spar Co., is doing considerable prospecting work on their property near Princeton. They have uncovered two veins, the ore product of one being gravel spar and the other lead and lump spar. Heretofore the nearest shipping point to this property was Princeton, some four or five miles away, notwithstanding the property is within two miles of the railroad, but the company is now making arrangements to build a switch just opposite the mines, which will greatly facilitate the transportation, as the cars can be loaded from the wagons at the end of a short two-mile haul.

0-0-0

The Marion Mineral Company is operating the Pogue mines on a level at 150 feet depth. These mines are producing about 75 tons of fluor spar per day, and at this time from 80 to 150 tons per day are being hauled to the cars at Mexico. The bin at the mines contains about 2000 tons of ore.

0-0-0

The Marion Mineral Company is now shipping about two cars of zinc carbonate per week from the Miller mines.
The most of this ore is being taken from the bins at the mines while tim-bering and sinking is being done, but next week the company will begin taking out carbonate again.

The mineral shipments of the week ending June 28, were as follows:

8 cars gravel fluor spar 576,640
1 car lump " 40,015
2 cars ground " 98,352
311 bbls " 129,082
1 car carbonate of zinc 59,695

Joplin, Mo., June 25.—Three bins of zinc ore sold last week at $44.50 per ton, an advance of 50 cents over the prices offered for the highest grades of ore during the previous week. The demand all week was much better, and those having ore to sell had no difficulty in disposing of it at slight advances in prices. While the prices offered for zinc ore assaying as high as 64 per cent metallic zinc increased only 50 cents per ton, some of the lower grades sold at an advance of $1 per ton. Ore which was sold on an assay basis
brought $43 per ton for 60 per cent ore.
The sales were greater than for the week previous by 493 tons and the zinc value was increased $14,620.

Lead ore advanced $1 per ton, a few bins of the choicest ore selling at $60 per ton and 70 per cent grades at $59 per ton. The shipment was 48 tons less than the previous week and the value $2,620 less. A year ago zinc sold at $37 and lead at $53 per ton.

It is reported that County Attorney
R. W. Bingham, of Jefferson county, and a stockholder in the Columbia Mining Co., is soon to leave for England to be absent several weeks.

A. D. Noe, W. M. Query and W. C.
Higgenson, of Morganfield, all of the Big Four Mining Co., were in town last week looking after their mining interests.

The Kentucky Fluor Spar Company
is having a considerable amount of fine
fluor spar hauled from the Memphis mines to the concentrating plant here.

At the Paris mines, near Frances,
the company has discontinued stoping
for the present and are now sinking deeper. There is something like 200 tons of ore on the surface at this shaft.

THE RECORD CONTEST TO CLOSE JULY THE FOURTH

Handsome Prizes to be Given Away
at Crittenden Springs Hotel.

Just now one of the most important questions of local interest is who will win the Popularity Contest prizes.
The result of the voting this week
shows three candidates right close up to the front and just now it is of intense interest which of these will win
out and be in the lead at 12 o'clock,
standard time, July 4th, at Crittenden Springs, or whether a candidate farther down the list will rush to the front. The ballot box will be taken to the Springs early Tuesday morning by a representative of the RECORD who will be the custodian of the ballot box
until after the results of the contest have been decided by the judges.

There is not much chance for one contestant to tell what the other is doing, and it remains for each one to marshall her forces and command all the strength possible.

Remember that every dollar paid to the RECORD by new or old subscribers
on subscription carries with it the privilege of casting four votes in this contest, and the contestants in pushing their own interests may take new subscriptions or collect subscriptions from their friends who may be regular subscribers, and who desire to assist them.
And we might suggest that there are numbers of these who would do so if you would only ask them. You have the same right to push your own interests in this contest as a candidate who runs for office.

Who will the winners be?

The result of the voting at present
is as follows:

Miss Leaffa Wilborn	208
" Blanche Haase	108
" Clara Carter	100
" Leona Long	44
" Bertha Moore	24
" Clara Crawford	48
" Maude Babb	40
" Hattie Barrett	16
" Edna Cole	16

CHAPTER II.

WE heard no more of the voices. Uncle Eb had brought an armful of wood and some water in the teapot while I was sleeping. As soon as the rain had passed he stood listening awhile and shortly opened his knife and made a little clearing in the corn by cutting a few hills.

"We've got to do it," he said, "er we can't take any comfort, an' the man tol' me I could have all the corn I wanted."

"Did you see him, Uncle Eb?" I remember asking.

"Yes," he answered, whistling in the dark; "I saw him when I went out for the water, an' it was he tol' me they were after us."

He took a look at the sky after awhile and, remarking that he guessed they couldn't see his smoke now, began to kindle the fire. As it burned up he stuck two crotches and hung his teapot on a stick that lay in them so it took the heat of the flame, as I had seen him do in the morning. Our groto in the corn was shortly as cheerful as any room in a palace, and our fire sent its light into the long aisles that opened opposite, and nobody could see the warm glow of it but ourselves.

"We'll hev our supper," said Uncle Eb as he opened a paper and spread out the eggs and bread and butter and crackers. "We'll jest hev our supper, an' by an' by when every one's abed we'll make tracks in the dirt, I can tell ye."

Our supper over, Uncle Eb let me look at his tobacco box, a shiny thing of German silver that always seemed to snap out a quick farewell to me before it dived into his pocket. He was very cheerful and communicative and joked a good deal as we lay there waiting in the dreight. I got some further acquaintance with the swift, learning, among other things, that it had no appetite for the pure in heart.

"Why not?" I inquired.

"Well," said Uncle Eb, "it's like this—the meener the boy the sweeter the meat."

He sang an old song as he sat by the fire, with a whistled interlude between lines, and the swing of it even now carries me back to that far day in the fields. I lay with my head in his lap while he was singing.

I went asleep after awhile in spite of all, right in the middle of a story. The drowning voice of Uncle Eb and the feel of his hand upon my forehead called me back, blinking, once or twice, but not for long. The fire was gone down to a few embers when Uncle Eb woke me and the grotto was lit only by a sprinkle of moonlight from above.

"Mos' 12 o'clock," he whispered.

"Better be o'."

The basket was on his back, and he was all ready. I followed him through the long aisle of corn, clinging to the tail of his coat. The golden lantern of the moon hung near the zenith, and when we came out in the open we could see into the far fields. I climbed into my basket at the wall, and as Uncle Eb carried me over the brook, stopping on a flat rock midway to take a drink, I could see the sky in the water, and it seemed as if a misstep would have tumbled me into the moon.

"Hear the crickets holler," said Uncle Eb as he followed the bank up into the open pasture.

"What makes 'em holler?" I asked.

"Oh, they're jes' filin' their saws an' thinkin', Mebbe tellin' o' what's happened 'em. Been a hard day for them little folks. Terrible flood in their country. Every one on 'em hed t' git up a steeple quick 's he could er be drowned. They hev their troubles an' they talk 'bout 'em too."

"What do they file their saws for?" I inquired.

"Well, ye know," said he, "where they live the timber's thick an' they hev hard work clearin' t' mek a home."

I was getting too sleepy for further talk. He made his way from field to field, stopping sometimes to look off at the distant mountains and then at the sky or to watch the dark stalks of mulen with his cane. I remember he led down some bars after a long walk an' stepped into a smooth roadway. He stood resting, a little while, his basket on the top bar, and then the moon that I had been watching went down behind the broad rim of his hat and I fell into utter forgetfulness. My eyes opened on a lovely scene at daylight. Uncle Eb had laid me on a mossy knoll in a bit of timber and through an opening right in front of us I could see a broad level of shining water, and the great green mountain on the farther shore seemed to be up to its belly in the sea.

"Hello there!" said Uncle Eb. "Here we are at Lake Champlain."

I could hear the fire crackling and smell the odor of sleeping tea.

"Ye dopped round like a fish in the basket," said Uncle Eb. "Guess ye must 'a' been dreamin' o' bears. Jumped so ye scared me. Didn't know but I had a wil'cat on my shoulders."

Uncle Eb had taken a fish line out of his pocket and was tying it to a rude pole that he had cut and trimmed with his jackknife.

"I've found some crawfish here," he said, "an' I'm goin' t' try fer a bite on the pint o' rocks there."

"Goin' t' git some fish, Uncle Eb?" I inquired.

"Wouldn't say't I was er wouldn't say't I wasn't," he answered. "Jes' goin' t' try."

Uncle Eb was always careful not to commit himself on a doubtful point. He had fixed his hook and sinker in a moment, and then we went out on a rocky point near by and threw off into the deep water. Suddenly Uncle Eb gave a jerk that brought a groan out of him and then let his hook go down again, his hands trembling, his face severe.

"By mighty! Uncle Eb," he muttered to himself, "I thought we hed him that time."

He jerked again presently, and then I could see a tug on the line that made me jump. A big fish came thrashing into the air in a minute. He tried to swing it ashore, but the pole bent, and the fish got a fresh hold of the water and took the end of the pole under. Uncle Eb gave it a lift then that brought it ashore, and a good bit of water with it. I remember how the fish slapped me with its wet tail and sprinkled my face shaking itself between my boots. It was a big bass, and in a little while we had three of them. Uncle Eb dressed them and laid them over the fire on a gridiron of green birch, salting them as they cooked. I remember they went with a fine relish, and the last of our eggs and bread and butter went with them.

Our breakfast over, Uncle Eb made me promise to stay with Fred and the basket while he went away to find a man who could row us across. In about an hour I heard a boat coming, and the dog and I went out on the point of rocks, where we saw Uncle Eb and another man heading for us, half over the cove. The bow bumped the rocks beneath us in a minute. Then the stranger dropped his oars and stood staring at me and the dog.

"Say, mister," said he presently, "can't go no further. There's a reward offered fer 'on an' thet boy."

Uncle Eb called him aside and was talking to him a long time.

I never knew what was said, but they came at last and took us into the boat, and the stranger was very friendly.

When we had come near the landing on the "Ye-k state" side, I remember he gave us our bearings.

"Keep t' the woods," he said, "till you're out o' harm's way. Don't go near the stage road fer awhile. Ye'll find a store a little way up the mountain. Git yer provisions there, an' about eighty rod further ye'll strike the trail. It'll take ye over the mountain north an' t' Paradise road. Then take the white church on yer right shoulder an' go straight west."

I would not have remembered it so well but for the fact that Uncle Eb wrote it all down in his account book, and that has helped me over many a slippery place in my memory of those events. At the store we got some crackers and cheese, tea and coffee, dried beef and berring, a bit of honey and a loaf of bread that was sliced and buttered before it was done up. We were off in the woods by 9 o'clock, according to Uncle Eb's diary, and I remember the trail led us into thick brush, where I had to get out and walk a long way. It was smooth underfoot, however, and at noon we came to a slash in the timber full of briars that were all aglow with big blackberries. We filled our hats with them, and Uncle Eb found a spring, beside which we built a fire and had a memorable meal that made me glad of my hunger.

Then we spread the oilcloth and lay down for another sleep. We could see the glow of the setting sun through the tree tops when we woke and began our packing.

"We'll hev t' hurry," said Uncle Eb, "er we'll never git out o' the woods 'n'ight. 'S 'bout six mile er more t' Paradise road, es I mek it. Come, yer slower'n a toad in a tar barrel."

We hurried off on the trail, and I remember Fred looked very crestfallen with two big packages tied to his collar. He d-layed a bit by trying to shake them off, but Uncle Eb gave him a sharp word or two and then he walked along very thoughtfully. Uncle Eb was a little out of patience that evening, and I thought he bore down too harshly in his rebuke of the old dog.

"You shifless cuss," he said to him, "ye'd jes' 'dew nothin' but chase squirrels an' let me break my back t' carry yer dinner."

It was glooming fast in the thick timber, and Uncle Eb almost ran with me while the way was plain. The last ringing note of the wood thrush had died away, and in a little while it was so dark I could distinguish nothing but the looming mass of tree trunks.

He stopped suddenly and strained his eyes in the dark. Then he whistled a sharp, sliding note, and the sound of it gave me some hint of his trouble.

"Git down, Willie," said he, "an' tek my hand. I'm 'traid we're lost here 'n the big woods."

We groped about for a minute trying to find the trail.

"No use," he said presently, "we'll hev t' stop right here. Oughter know better'n t' come through s' near sundown. Guess it was more'n anybody could do."

He built a fire and began to lay out a supper for us then, while Fred sat down by me to be relieved of his bundles. Our supper was rather dry, for we had no water, but it was only two hours since we left the spring, so we were not suffering yet. Uncle Eb took out of the fire a burning brand of pine and went away into the gloomy woods, holding it above his head, while Fred and I sat by the fire.

"S' lucky we didn't go no further," he said as he came in after a few minutes. "There's a big precipice over yender. Dunno how deep 'tis. Guess we'd 'a' found out purty soon."

He cut some boughs of hemlock growing near us and spread them in a little hollow. That done, we covered them with the oilcloth and sat down comfortably by the fire. Uncle Eb had a serious look and was not inclined to talk or story telling. Before turning in he asked me to kneel and say my prayer as I had done every evening at the feet of my mother. I remember clearly kneeling before my old companion and hearing the echo of my small voice there in the dark and lonely woods.

I remember, too, and even more clearly, how he bent his head and covered his eyes in that brief moment. I had a great dread of darkness and imagined much evil of the forest, but somehow I had no fear if he were near me. When we had fixed the fire and lain down for the night on the fragrant hemlock and covered ourselves with the shawl, Uncle Eb lay on one side of me and old Fred on the other, so I felt secure indeed. The night had many voices there in the deep wood. Away in the distance I could hear a strange, wild cry, and I asked what it was, and Uncle Eb whispered back, "S' a loon." Down the side of the mountain a shrill bark rang in the timber, and that was a fox, according to my patient oracle. Anon we heard the crash and thunder of a falling tree and a murmur that followed in the wake of the last echo.

"Big tree fallin'," said Uncle Eb as he lay gaping. "It has t' break a way t' the ground, an' it must hurt. Did ye notice how the woods tremble? If we was up above them we could see the hole the tree hed made. Jes' like an open grave till the others hev filled it with their tops."

My ears had gone deaf with drowsiness when a quick stir in the body of Uncle Eb brought me back to my senses. He was up on his elbow listening, and the firelight had sunk to a glimmer. Fred lay shivering and growling beside me. I could hear no other sound.

"He still," said Uncle Eb as he boxed the dog's ears. Then he rose and began to stir the fire and lay on more wood. As the flame leaped and threw its light into the tree tops a shrill cry like the scream of a frightened woman, only louder and more terrible to hear, brought me to my feet crying. I knew the source of it was near us and ran to Uncle Eb in a fearful panic.

"Hush, boy," said he as he died away and went echoing in the far forest. "T'll take care o' you. Don't be scared. He's more 'traid uv us than we are o' him. He's makin' off now."

We heard then a great crackling of dead brush on the mountain above us. It grew fainter as we listened. In a little while the woods were silent.

"It's the o' man o' the woods," said Uncle Eb. "E's out takin' a walk."

"Will he hurt folks?" I inquired.

"Tow," he answered. "Jes' as harmless as a kitten."

Huge Task.

It was a huge task to undertake the cure of such a bad case of kidney disease as that of C. F. Collier, of Cherokee, Ia., but Electric Bitters did it. He writes: "My kidneys were so far gone I could not sit on a chair without a cushion, and suffered from dreadful backache, headache and depression. In Electric Bitters, however, I found a cure, and by them was restored to perfect health. I recommend this great tonic medicine to all with weak kidneys, liver or stomach. Guaranteed by Haynes & Taylor, druggists. Price 50 cents."

Gate of Odors.

By Rustic

When we studied physiology at school and were told that there were five senses, I do not think we gave smell the importance it deserves. For of all the mystic springs which unlock the odorous inward world, none act with such swift, secret magic as those of the gate of odors! There stealthily observed some delicate perfume of familiar field flower or garden herb; and straightway, ere one is aware, the soul is afar off in the world of the past, gathering posies among the fields of childhood or culling herbs in the shaded corner of an old garden, to be laid by and long since cold, in familiar chambers long since tenanted by other owners. "Ah! did you notice that whiff of perfume?" asked a gentleman with whom I was riding a few days ago. Why, it carried me back twenty years to a certain woodland path where I walked to school in my boyhood days. It was a warm, aromatic gush from a cool hollow, peculiar and suggestive. It had been in the wilds of Africa, it could have revived the same memories. Strange and wonderful, indeed, is the power of smell. With the savage it is perhaps a keener sense than with civilized man, and all animals have it in a strong degree. But even with us the factories are a highly sensitive power, perceptible to the slightest fragrant or odorous smell. There is an Arab proverb, "He who smells the desert air, smells it when he dies;" and sellers in the wilderness, when in the city, which smells quite different, have sometimes felt as if almost willing to let them if they could but smell the desert air more. The truth is that the desert air, of all things created, does not smell at all; and the Arab's sense of smell finds it infinitely restful to draw warm, unused air, without odor of any kind. Probably this is what the Arab proverb means.

Fragrance is everywhere associated with the country. There is a redolence about the fields and woods, an indefinable essence distilled from all trees and grass and grain fields and gardens and hercourses and cool, shady hollows of great breathing mountains, and which is to specific scents what the white light is to separate colors. It is so gentle yet elusive, sometimes dry and warm and aromatic, pervaded by the delicate emanations of leaves and wood blossoms, sometimes moist and like the black mould of a swampy forest, brewed only in the confined atmosphere of the woods, but, wherever breathed, a tonic better than that prepared by the pharmacist, an aroma sweeter than the ambrosia of fabled Olympus.

These country odors haunt you everywhere, envelop you like the cloud with which Athens surrounded Diomed, act on your jaded nerves like a steamy bath of frankincense and myrrh. They come out of ambush from hedges and meadows, from ploughed fields and meadows and grassy lawns and flower-gardens, and from old cobwebbed barns, where the cows come in from pasture with breath as sweet and clean as the dew-dew on which the fairy queen Pania tipples. Once imbibed, they never leave you. They may lie dormant for years, but are sure to suggest themselves sooner or later. I smell today, as I write, (with the organ of memory) the odor of box and lilacs and hedges and blossoming shrubs and ripe harvest apples from an old-time garden which I frequented when a boy. The garden has been destroyed long since, but the fragrance still lingers, like the precious memory of a good deed.

Even a farm house smells differently from a village residence. Its fine old aroma is as if distilled from nectarines that have ripened in the adjoining garden and from apples in the neighboring orchard. The garret has the true attic flavor, born of hewn timbers and nut-brown rafters unhidden by daubing plaster and bunches of garden herbs hanging there for the winter's using. A few days ago I stopped at an old farm house among the hills, and by chance I entered the attic. Instantly there came through the gate of odors a subtle, all-pervading aroma that carried me back years and years to another farm house garret where I played when a boy. The smell was the same, and it summoned up many an hour of dreamy sportive idleness, of tumbings and romps and whispered story telling and many naps while the rain drops chanted upon the moss shingled roof. Everything has its characteristic odor, even a book. Books that are of no value do not all smell alike, but have an individuality of odor, so to speak. Some books have a pungent, unpleasant odor, the larger number are really crisp and fragrant, depending somewhat on their paper and their binding. These individual smells of books are of no moment, but last for a long time, and are as characteristic as the odor of contents.

Visitors who have been to the Chateau Malmaison, near Paris, tell us that the rooms once used by the Empress Josephine are still fragrant with the odor of musk, of which she was passionately fond. Every nook and corner seems to be permeated by this fragrant, enduring perfume; and it seems to one as if the living presence of the beautiful Creole must have just passed through. It is almost startling, this sudden reminder of a dead queen. Nothing else in the house—not the delicate silken curtains, bordered with gold fringe, of her bed chamber, not the harp with broken strings that hangs in the gallery—are so suggestive of the living woman as this musk odor which the wife of Napoleon loved. The gate of odors takes across nearly a century of time by the whiff of a scent of musk.

Let us be thankful, Mr. Editor, that, having a nose, we smell. All have not been similarly blessed. The poet Wordsworth was deprived of this gift, and only upon one occasion was it vouchsafed to him to exercise the sense of smell. "He smelled a bean field, and thought it heaven." What would he have thought of a spray of water lilies?

To us, with our keen and delicate fifth sense, the wafted odors of our corrupted Eden should be but prophecies and evangels of a paradise to be regained.

Marion is rapidly rising from the ashes. A greater Marion is no doubt a reality within the next few years—Cadiz Record.

In deciding a fire insurance case recently appealed from Jefferson county the Court of Appeals holds that the term "noon" means "standard" time instead of "sun" time. This decision will be of interest to all holders of fire insurance policies, as cases have frequently arisen in which the loss occurred about the hour of noon at the time the policy goes into effect or expires. In the above case the fire loss occurred at 11:59 o'clock, a. m.

Saturday's Paducah Evening Sun reproduced a part of our article on the purchase of the Old Hickory Distillery and credited it to the Press, this, too, after our having called the Sun's attention to a previous error of this character. It appears that Postmaster Fisher, the gentleman who proposed that Wm. Goebel's picture should hang over the entrance to the State Building at the World's Fair, thinks that the city of Hon. W. J. Deboe, whom he tried to defeat for the district chairmanship, does not have a real Republican newspaper, but it has.

Damages Awarded.

In the circuit court at Hopkinsville, the jury in the case of Speigal Bourland against Dr. W. A. Lackey for $1,000 damages awarded the plaintiff $500. Bourland, who is a lunatic, claims he was knocked down by Dr. Lackey while the doctor was acting as superintendent of the Western Asylum. Lackey claimed he struck Bourland in self defense. Dies at Hospital.

Mr. R. F. Walsh, who for the past eighteen months has been serving as night telephone operator at the depot here, died at 2:30 o'clock this morning of typhoid fever at I. C. hospital in Paducah after an illness of about four weeks.

Mr. Walsh was twenty-two years of age and was an honest, sober, steady young man, commanding the confidence, respect and admiration of all. In business he was always reliable, and was a much valued employ of the company that he served. His home was in Oconto, Wis., and he has relatives in that State Michigan who have the sympathy of scores of his friends in Marion. Peace to his memory.

A Big Suit.

The Cumberland Telephone & Telegraph Company was made defendant in a suit filed in the Christian county court recently by J. T. Edmunds for Frank E. Lucas, auditor's agent, in the name of the Commonwealth of Kentucky, says the Hopkinsville New Era. The plaintiff claims that during the last five years the company, its headquarters being in this city, has failed to list taxable property to the amount of $5,000,000 and that the sum of $250,000 is due the State. The auditor's agent gets 20 per cent. of any money secured in the numerous suits he is filing in the various parts of the State.

City Ordinance.

The City Council of the City of Marion, Ky., do ordain as follows:

That a sidewalk be built on the south side of Salem street abutting the property of H. A. Haynes, said walk to begin at East end (or side) of said lot where the present brick walk ends, and extend West as far as said lot extends.

Said walk to be four feet wide, to be built of 2-inch oak plank, laid on 4x4 pieces placed four feet apart. Said walk to have banisters six feet apart, four feet above walk, top railing to be 2x4 in. with middle railing 1x4 in; the whole to be done in a good and workman-like manner. Said walk is to be completed within sixty days after the date of publication of this ordinance, and if said walk is not completed within said period of sixty days, the city marshal will advertise for ten days for sealed bids to complete said walk as required by this ordinance and let the contract to have said walk built to the lowest bidder, and the expense of putting down said walks, if done under contract with the marshal as herein provided, shall become a lien upon said property as provided by the charter of said city in such case made and provided.

Passed and approved June 29, 1905.

Dying of Famine

Is, in its torments, like dying of consumption. The progress of consumption, from the beginning to the very end, is a long torture, both to victim and friends. "When I had consumption in its first stage," writes Wm. Myers, of Cearfoss, Md., "after trying different medicines and a good doctor in vain, I at last took Dr. King's New Discovery, which quickly and perfectly cured me." Prompt relief and sure cure for coughs, colds, sore throat, bronchitis, etc. Positively prevents pneumonia. Guaranteed at Haynes & Taylor's drug store, price 50c and $1.00 a bottle. Trial bottle free.

THE CITY COUNCIL ORDERS NEW SIDEWALKS TO BE ERECTED!

City Ordinance.

The City Council of the City of Marion, Ky., do ordain as follows:

That sidewalks be built on the north side of Depot street abutting the property of A. M. Hearin and Mrs. M. E. Seed, said walks to be built the full length of such lots fronting and abutting on the north side of said street.

Said walks are to be built five feet wide, curbing to be of stone, top and edge of curbing to be dressed, pavement to be of brick, same to be hard and otherwise suitable for such purpose, and said pavement to be laid on a bed of cinders not less than twelve inches deep. The stone curbing for said walks is to be not less than eighteen inches long and not less than fifteen inches wide and not less than three inches thick, the whole to be done in a good and workman-like manner. Said walks are to be completed within sixty days after the passage and publication of this ordinance, and if said walks are not completed within said period of sixty days, the city marshal will advertise for ten days for sealed bids to complete said walks as required by this ordinance, and let the contract to have said walks built to the lowest bidder, and the expense of putting down said walks, if done under contract with the marshal as herein provided, shall become a lien upon said property as provided by the charter of said city in such case made and provided.

Passed and approved June 20, 1905.

J. W. BLUE, JR., Mayor.
J. C. BOURLAND, City Clerk.

City Ordinance.

The City Council of the City of Marion, Ky., do ordain as follows:

That sidewalks be built on the south side of Popular street abutting the property of Mrs. M. E. Hodge and O. H. Paris, said walks to be built the full length of such lots fronting and abutting on the south side of said street.

Said walks are to be built of 2-inch oak planks laid on 4x4 pieces four feet apart, and shall be four feet wide, the whole to be done in a good and workman-like manner. Said walks are to be completed within sixty days after the passage and publication of this ordinance, and if said walks are not completed within said period of sixty days, the city marshal will advertise for ten days for sealed bids to complete said walks as required by this ordinance, and let the contract to have said walks built to the lowest bidder, and the expense of putting down said walks, if done under contract with the marshal as herein provided, shall become a lien upon said property as provided by the charter of said city in such case made and provided.

NOW IS THE TIME TO USE HYOMEI

Far Easier to Cure Catarrh Now Than at Any Other Season.

Now is the time to use Hyomei, when the early summer days make it so easy to cure catarrhal troubles. The Hyomei treatment, breathed for a few minutes three or four times a day in May or June, will do good twice as quickly as it did in January, and nearly everyone knows that used faithfully then, it completely rids the system of catarrh.

Hyomei is a purely vegetable preparation whose active curative properties are given off when it is breathed by the aid of the pocket inhaler that comes with every outfit. It destroys all germ life in the air passages, purifies the blood by supplying additional ozone, and its healing, volatile, antiseptic fragrance reaches every corner of the respiratory tract as no medicine taken through the stomach can possibly do.

The complete Hyomei outfit costs but one dollar, and consists of a neat inhaler that can be carried in the purse or vest pocket and will last a life time, a medicine dropper, and a bottle of Hyomei. Extra bottles of Hyomei can be procured, if desired, for fifty cents.

At this season of the year when catarrhal troubles can be so quickly and readily cured, the merits of the Hyomei treatment should be carefully investigated by everyone and a complete outfit should be in every home. Haynes & Taylor give their personal guarantee with every Hyomei outfit they sell to refund the money if it does not give satisfaction. There is no risk whatever to the purchaser of Hyomei.

Notice.

Sunday School County Convention is to be held at old Piney Fork church on Tuesday, July 18, 1905. Everybody is most earnestly asked to attend this convention. Sunday schools will please come and let us all sing, talk and plan for better work in the future. Bring all of your family, bring your preacher, bring your basket full up to the handle. Don't forget the date.

Yours for a good convention,
R. M. FRANKS,
County President.

The Continued Story of Current Events

Rodney.

H. L. Sullivan visited his son, Lint, of Mattoon, Sunday, whose infant is quite sick.

Several from this vicinity attended church at Repton Sunday.

Louis Newcom went to Sturgis Friday.

Geo. King, Alvis Newcom and Los Morgan, of Rose Bud, delivered hogs at E. L. Nann's Saturday.

Misses Nannie and Rachel Phelps were in Sturgis Friday, shopping.

There is an epidemic of whooping cough in the Baker community.

John E. Roberts, of Piggott, Ark., will visit his old home near here on the 4th of July.

Dock Truitt went to Caseyville Saturday.

Mesdames Chandler and Duncan were in Sturgis Friday, shopping.

Mrs. Mayme Drury visited Mrs. C. M. Clift Sunday.

Chester Truitt was the guest of relatives in Weston Sunday.

Two missionaries representing the "New and Later House of Israel" were through this vicinity last week. Their names were James Miller and P. H. Osol. Miller is a Canadian and has traveled all over the Dominion of Canada as well as the United States and Mexico. Osol, who is a Russian from the Baltic region, has traveled extensively in Europe, Greenland, Iceland and America. He claims to have had a brother in the recently ill-fated Baltic fleet.

Lola.

Dr. M. M. Fowler and family, of New Brownfield, Ill., came over last Saturday.

The State Geological surveyors are at work in our vicinity this week.

The LaGardo family are having a series of shows here at present.

The ice cream supper that was spoken of last week was postponed until Saturday night, July 15th. A big time is anticipated, as there will be recitations and essays. The Lola Cornet Band will make music for the occasion.

Some of the farmers have begun to harvest their hay.

R. S. Paris has been granted a patent on a post of reinforced concrete for fence or telephone posts.

Uncle Dick Damron, of Salem, was in town last Tuesday.

Mr. Chas. LaGardo painted some nice stage scenery for the Lola Cornet Band.

W. M. Davis, C. E. Slaydon and John Lee, who have been on the sick list, are able to be out again.

W. T. Flannery, of whom we spoke several times, is still confined to his room.

Mr. and Mrs. T. E. Watson spent the day with their daughter, Mrs. Lucy Johnson last Tuesday.

W. L. Kennedy was re-elected superintendent of our Sunday school for the ensuing quarter.

H. L. Mahan, of the Riley Mines, spent Saturday night and Sunday visiting his father, J. B. Mahan.

B. L. Sullenger has purchased Dr. Fowler's property here, paying $500 for it.

I will be in the market during the next few weeks for old scrap iron at good prices. R. SCHWAB.

Sisco Chapel.

Misses Victoria Sisco attended the ice cream supper at Clem Moran's Saturday night.

B. E. Sisco and family visited the family of Mr. Stevenson Sunday.

Mr. Jap Riley, of Kuttawa, is mining on Ben Sisco's farm this week.

Mr. Willie Suggs and family visited relatives at Siloam Sunday.

George Daniels and family, at Lola, have recently been visiting in our midst.

Within the next few weeks sell all your old iron to R. SCHWAB.

Starr.

Aunt Pauline Morse is quite sick at Ed Crayne's.

Cam Crayne and Frank Crider are working with a wheat thresher.

Miss Nellie Thomason is visiting her sister, Mrs. Vernon Crayne.

C. T. Boucher visited his mother, Mrs. M. O. Crowder, in Caldwell county, last week.

Blackberry gathering is the order of the day in this neighborhood.

Fred Crayne has whooping cough.

Rose Bud.

Rev. T. F. Rowland, of Shady Grove, filled his regular appointment here Sunday.

Willie Hatley is talking of going to Missouri.

Miss Rossie Thurman, of Blackford, attended services here Sunday.

Miss Minnie Walker visited relatives near Baker recently.

Ernie Eddings and sister, Miss Florence, of Sullivan, attended meeting here Sunday.

Dr. John Reynolds, of Blackford, was in this vicinity Wednesday.

Ethel O'Neal attended Children's day services at Repton Sunday.

Mr. John Crowell, who has been very sick, is convalescent.

J. C. Pickens, of Marion, was here Monday attending to official business.

The Angel of Death has again visited this neighborhood, taking from our midst Mrs. Lizzie Arlack, who has been a patient sufferer for many months. The deceased, who was the wife of William Arlack, was a most estimable lady and a member of Rose Bud church. In her death the husband is called to mourn the loss of his best earthly friend, the church of which she was an honored member sustains great loss, and the neighborhood losses one of its best citizens. During her long illness, which was peculiarly severe, she manifested great patience, heroic endurance and a sublime trust in Him who doeth all things well. Her death, while it was not unexpected, was nevertheless a shock to her many friends who had so faithfully ministered to her in her afflictions. The final summons came on the 22nd of June, and the day following her remains were interred in the cemetery at Mt. Zion.

Protracted meeting will begin here on the fourth Sunday in July.

Joy.

The drouth that has prevailed for some time was broken last Tuesday by a heavy rain.

Jno. Myrick, of near Reelfoot, Tenn., came to Joy last Thursday.

Lee Johnson, of Marion, was here last week.

Mesdames J. W. Manhart, Luther Farrel and Sam Peters, and the little daughter of T. J. Chittenden are quite ill at present.

John Hensley went to Paducah last week in answer to a telephone message to the effect that his nephew, the little son of Sam Bohannon, of that city, was dying. He has returned, however, and reports the child's condition much improved.

The stork visited the home of Mr. and Mrs. Allen Garrett last week, and left to their fostering care a thirteen and one-half pound girl.

Robt. Threlkeld, who recently returned from his sojourn in Colorado, is now living at Joy.

Messrs. L. Bishop, Wm. Sullivan, John Hensley, Hugh Lanson and Louis Sullivan attended the LaGardo show at Lola Thursday night.

Bon Spees, of near Eli, was at Joy Friday.

Ye Carrsville scribe, in referring to the "scrap" that occurred over there, said Mr. B— escaped with a "black eye." Had he been a Boston writer he would have said that Mr. B— escaped with a contusion of the integument under the orb, with extravasation of blood and ecchymosis of the surrounding cellular tissue, which was in a tumefied state with abrasion of the cuticle.

Chas. Black and family, J. S. D. Chittenden and wife and Tom Chittenden attended McNair's "New Era" at Carrsville Saturday night.

What gave promise of being a very lively "scrap" here Saturday ended when one of the participants declared himself hors de combat.

Mrs. Thos. Senour and daughter, Miss Florence, attended the ice cream supper at Mrs. May's Saturday eve.

Dave Smith went to Hampton Saturday.

W. D. Bishop, of the Berry Ferry neighborhood, was here Saturday evening.

Dr. Fowler, of Illinois, passed thro' Joy Saturday evening enroute to Lola.

An infant of Luther Farrel died Friday.

James Bell, of Hampton, was here Saturday evening.

LATER:—A telephone message from Paducah announces the death of Mr. Bohannon's child, mentioned above.

If you are hard to suit and demand full value for your money, let us make you an "International" suit.

Kitchens in the Tropics.

The kitchens of tropical countries, such as are to be found in our Spanish-American lands, are like cells from the thickness of the stone walls—often two or three feet deep—and the projecting, omnipresent veranda, which gives a grateful shade and which looks out on a court. The cell resemblance is enhanced by the iron bars at the windows and the heavy double doors, which look as if they could resist a siege. The walls are whitewashed, and the floors are of tiles. The dining room is often separated from this room by a long staircase. Outside the kitchen in the court will stand table and closets to supplement the scant furniture of the small, hot apartment with a furnace-like fire.

Making an Old Pen as Good as New.

"My pen is spoiled, and I have no other," said the bookkeeper. The machinist happened to be in the office, and he took the pen and held it over the gas jet for thirty seconds. "You can make an old pen as good as new," he said, "by holding it over a flame like this for half a minute and afterward dipping it in cold water." He dipped the hot pen in cold water as he spoke, and it sizzled slightly. "Now try it," he said. The bookkeeper tried the pen and exclaimed joyously, "By George, it's as good as new again."

Two Expressive Quotations.

Some sentences are like autographs; you feel that they must have been written by these people; no one else could have written them.

Such is this, by Talleyrand: "To succeed in the world it is much more necessary to possess the penetration to discover who is a fool than to discover who is a clever man."

And Napoleon's character is drawn full length in this sententious remark of his: "I command or I am silent."

Love of Gain.

To cure us of our immoderate love of gain we should seriously consider how many goods there are that money will not purchase, and these the best, and how many evils there are that money will not remedy, and these the worst.—Colton.

Wishes He Was.

Mrs. Peck (contemptuously)—What are you anyhow, a man or a mouse? Henry Peck (bitterly)—A man, my dear. If I were a mouse I'd have you up on that table yelling for help right now!—Exchange.
