BARBER TANK

It was a huge tank to undertake the job of filling one barrel of water. But as it was the work of H. F. Collier, of Crittenden County, we say yes, H. F. Collier did it.

Mr. Edwards now is far gone and could not sit on a chair without a cushion, and suffered from dreadful sciatica. He was operated on, and there was in the hospital a doctor who recommended that he should have a bed 20 miles away in a hospital in the West. Mr. Edwards was so uncomfortable that he wished to be comforted.

VOLUME 2, NUMBER 1.

With this issue, which is number-two, our Record enters its second year. In its few months of existence, we have endeavored to make it a paper that would be considered reliable and of such a nature that our readers would be glad to receive it regularly, and that it would be of value to the community in which it is published. The success of any newspaper, however, depends upon the ability of its editors to keep pace with the times, and to adapt their ideas and treatment of the news to the needs of the community. To this end, we have endeavored to keep abreast of the times, and to anticipate the wants of the people. We have sought facts, and where we have found them, we have given them, not as a matter of mere curiosity, but as a matter of useful information, to the general or national field of news, and have endeavored to make our paper such a one as would be worthy of a community which is progressive and matters.

The paper has been published semi-weekly, but it is intended to increase its frequency of publication to once a week. It will be printed on good quality paper, and will contain a variety of articles and features. It will be designed to appeal to the interests of all classes, and to give a true and fair picture of events in the community.

The Record will continue to be published semi-weekly, but it is expected that it will soon be increased to a weekly publication. It will contain a variety of articles and features, and will be designed to appeal to the interests of all classes. It will give a true and fair picture of events in the community.

Now is the Time! For the Greatest Gargans in Mens and Boys Suits, Extra Pants, Outing Suits, Misses and Children's Wear. We make them all at the lowest prices, and the articles usually sell for more than half price. No, it is our largest and the stores will be in the market for the best bargains. We always have plenty of fresh stock in all sizes. Prices are as low as the manufacturers let them go.

LESSON 1. POINTS ACQUIRED, INTERPRETED, AND DISCUSSED.

THE SUN NEVER RISES.

The story of the sun never rising was a myth that spread from India to China, and then to other parts of the world. It was believed that the sun never rose because it was constantly on the move, never stopping to rest. But this was not a natural explanation for the phenomenon, as the sun does rise every day due to the rotation of the Earth.

The myth of the sun never rising was used to explain various natural phenomena, such as the motion of the stars and the phases of the moon. It was also used to explain the cycles of life and death, and was often linked to religious beliefs.

The story of the sun never rising was later challenged by European explorers, who observed the sun rise and set in different parts of the world. This led to the development of more accurate understanding of the natural world, and the rejection of the myth of the sun never rising.

When Betty Spoke
By LOUISE J. STOPE

Naturally! After all, it’s been a wholesale, and she had some questions to ask. Yes, she had the fact, the center of the discussion was, if I recall correctly. And there was a lot of talk about it being a wholesale. Betty was always right about something, but this time she was wrong.

I think she meant to bring up something about the salesman. He had been very polite, very professional indeed. Betty had been impressed, which I can under stand. After all, she had been the one who had to handle the difficult customer, and she had done it with grace and aplomb.

There had been a lot of speculation about the number of salespeople who would be needed. Betty had been among the first to suggest that it might be a good idea to have a separate team for each product line.

That had not been entirely unanimous. Some had argued that it would be more efficient to have a single team handle everything. Betty had been forceful in her argument, but in the end, the majority had prevailed.

She had even proposed a plan for cross-training the salespeople, so that they could cover each other when necessary. Betty had been meticulous in her planning, as always. She had always been the one who could see the big picture, and she had always been able to bring everyone else along with her.

When it came time to decide on the location for the wholesale, Betty had been insistent. She had wanted it to be in the heart of the city, close to the major retail centers. This had been a point of con trovery, but in the end, the majority had agreed with Betty.

I think that the decision had been a good one. The wholesale had been a resounding success, and I don’t think anyone would have disagreed with Betty’s view that it had been a good move.
