COAL DEAL MADE

John H. Tonkin, a Resident of Marion

THE NORTH AMERICA COMPANY

Represented by A. S. Ridley, of New York, the Buyers—Mining Notes of Interest

$250,000 has been invested this year in coal mining lands at Wheatcroft. Mr. John Tonkin of this city conducted the negotiations and it was through his untiring energy that the deal was consummated. The property which changed hands was the Wheatcroft Coal Mining Co. and the Black Spring Coal and Coke Co., which comprises some 1500 acres of coal land as there is in Western Kentucky, and this deal goes far toward proving the confidence felt in our coal lands by the great Northern syndicate which is investing so heavily in everything that is good in this western coal field.

The Ada-Florence mine, located in the Levis section and owned by local and Louisville capitalists has been sold to Muncie, Ind., parties for a handsome figure. We are not authorized to state the price but can say it takes five figures to represent the dollars. Wm. Miller and John Scheas of Louisville and C. H. Whitehouse and J. M. Persons of this city, are the fortunate sellers and have reaped a handsome profit.

We are reliably informed that Mr. Irving H. Wheatcroft has been offered a fancy price for his new railroad bed from Providence to Wheatcroft, by a company with ample means who will extend the line to the Ohio river below Caseyville by way of Sturgis, which will connect Madisonville with Shawneetown by a transfer boat.—Sturgis Herald.

Salem, Ky., July 13.—The Albany Mining and Investment company of this place began the erection of a 10-ton lead and zinc mill today at their Nancy Hanks mine, located one mile southeast of town. This will make four mills in the Salem district all of which are within four miles of this place.

The Kentucky Fluor Spar company is installing a new pair of boilers and 75 foot smokestack. The boilers are of 250 horse power, made by the Kewanee Boiler Works at Kewanee, Ill. These boilers are being installed at the company's large mill plant on the outskirts of Marion.

The Albany Mining Company, have purchased of the Pittsburg Mining Co., of Golconda, Ill., a water separator, to be used at the Nancy Hanks mines, where large quantities of lead and spar are awaiting the mill.

Fordsville, Ky., July 20.—The past few weeks have witnessed considerable activity in that portion of Grayson county supposed to abound in lead and zinc, and if it continues there will undoubtedly be important developments in the very near future. Capitalists from New York, Cincinnati and Chicago have been on the ground this week, seeking leases, and today the Pine Knob Mining company, an outgrowth of the present agitation, filed articles of incorporation with a capital stock of $50,000, with the county clerk at Hartsville.

R. W. Hines, a leading dry goods merchant of this city, who has secured valuable leases in the heart of the lead district, is President; M. C. Adair, a wealthy wholesale merchant of Cincinnati, is Vice President and C. C. Adair, a local banker, is Secretary. Specimens of lead taken from the company's lands, practically all of the surface and assayed, are found equal in richness to the best lead county ore. The company's new machinery and actual operations will begin in a few days.

Wanted.

Every citizen of the town of Marion, who has a pair of old shoes and doors at lowest BOSTON & PARIS.

The Farewell Reception.

Mesdames R. F. Dorr, R. I. Nunn and Luther Miller, the officers of the Presbyterian Aid Society, entertained in the Sunday school rooms Saturday afternoon, in honor of Mrs. Carrie Maxwell and Mrs. Charles Evans, who soon leave Marion for their western homes. Those present besides the guests of honor were Mesdames Joe Adams, R. W. Wilson, Sidney Dupuy, Marshall Jenkins, R. F. Dorr, Bob Nunn, Luther Miller, Henry Stone, Wm. Wooldridge; Misses Lena, Ina and Sallie Woods, Emma Adams; Miss Nona Blue of St. Louis; Mrs. R. A. Rodgers, of Henderson; and Mrs. Gregg of Cincinnati. Mrs. Rodgers, Mrs. Gregg and Miss Blue gave talks telling how their societies succeeded, and giving some good ideas. Mrs. Maxwell made a talk in which she expressed herself sorry to leave the old Kentucky home, bringing tears to the eyes of all.

Delightful refreshments were served, consisting of cakes and ices. Mrs. Maxwell was the president of the society for fifteen years, and her departure from Marion is much regretted in the church and all charitable institutions. In all the years she was the leader not an unpleasant meeting or a harsh word; and 'twas with much regret she severed her connection and she assured them that in spirit and prayer she would be with them often, although far away.

Songs were sung and the meeting closed, with feelings of sadness mixed with pleasure.

J. N. Dorr Dead.

Our fellow townsman R. F. Dorr was called to Princeton Saturday by the news of the death of his brother, John Nicholas Dorr, who died there Friday evening at six o'clock. Mr. Dorr's affliction was rheumatism of the heart, of which he had been a sufferer since last winter. He was 65 years of age and leaves a widow and five sons. He was a Presbyterian by faith and had been a Christian many years. The interment was in the Princeton cemetery.

Mr. Dorr was born in North Carolina and came to Kentucky before the war. He leaves three brothers, Valentine, of Claxton, Ky.; Richard, of Los Angeles, Cal.; Ralzman, of this city, and two sisters, Mrs. Ann Orange, of Scottsburg, and Mrs. John McElroy, of Murray.

Mr. Dorr was a man of highest integrity and had the respect and confidence of all who knew him.

Great Ball Game.

Last Saturday afternoon the Marion Juniors drove out to Iron Hill and met the local team of that place in a match game of base ball. They expected to play Iron Hill's third team and were a little shy of the stronger aggregation which Iron Hill put up. However, Marion Juniors took courage and when the smoke of battle had cleared away the score stood 18 to 6 in favor of the Marion Juniors. The club is composed of the following all of whom attended the game to see it well done:

Roy Hurley, Norval Chittenden, Elmer Walker, James Rankin, Dunde Ramage, Clarence Walker, Durwood McNeely, Elmer Franklin, Earl Mottsenbocker and Clarence Walker.

Midsummer Ball.

Tuesday evening the young folks who delight in tripping the light fantastic bled themselves to the Crittenden Springs Hotel where the "midsummer ball" which was heralded far and wide was to take place. The weather propitious, the roads excellent and the music inspiring all of which added charm to the otherwise enjoyable occasion. Marion and all local towns were well represented.

RUN FOR GOVERNOR.

Judge Nunn Said to Have Gubernatorial Bee in His Bonnet.

The tour of Judge Thomas J. Nunn over the First district is significant in connection with the rumor that Judge Nunn may become a candidate for the Democratic nomination for governor in 1907.

Judge Nunn, who is a member of the court of appeals from the First district, arrived in the city Wednesday night and to-day visited many of his friends, principally among them the lawyers of the city.

It is said by many of his friends that the jurist is contemplating entering the race for the nomination for governor.

This being the vacation from the bench at Frankfort, Judge Nunn is spending most of his time at Marion, Ky. He is now visiting the various towns and cities in the district and his visits may lead to his announcement for governor.—News Democrat.

Death Under the Wheels.

C. W. Van Hooser, a telegraph operator, was run over and killed by a train at Cedar Bluffs, Ky., some time last night. His body was discovered on the track of the Illinois Central company, near Cedar Bluffs early this morning by the railroad hands.

The body was picked up by a train and taken to his home at Claxton, Ky., where the burial took place.

Van Houser was a boy about 18 years of age and lived at Claxton, being the son of a well known and highly respected family.

He came to Paducah Friday and asked for employment at the Illinois Central dispatcher's office but no vacancy existed and he was not given a position.—Paducah News-Democrat.

A Youthful Marriage.

Jesse Tharpe the 18 year old son of John Tharpe and Miss Sallie Porter aged 16 were married at the residence of the bride's grand mother, Mrs. E. H. Porter, last Sunday afternoon by Rev. T. A. Conway. The groom has been in the employ of A. J. Chittenden for some time as clerk. The bride is the grand daughter of the late Harve Porter and is an orphan, being a daughter of Thos. Porter and Jane McDowell, his wife, both of whom died several years ago, since which time the bride has made her home with her grand mother, who resides on Belleville street.

THE GREAT SCHOOLFIELD-SPEES MINE

The great Schoolfield-Spees Mining Company's power house, located near Carrsville, Ky. Their shaft is one hundred feet deep, and on one of the best veins in the district. No doubt, this mine will prove a great dividend payer to its owners.

IN SOCIETY

Mrs. J. W. Trisler and her daughter Miss Bessie Trisler, issued invitations to an "At Home," Tuesday afternoon July 25, and the large attendance and delight of the guests proved them both charming entertainers. They were assisted by Miss Lillie Doss, who received the guests at the door; Mrs. A. J. Bennett who served the chocolate; Mrs. R. I. Nunn who presided at the tea table; and Miss Sallie Woods who dispensed the punch throughout the afternoon, and Miss Kittie Moore, who assisted in serving the guests. Some of the toilets noted were Miss Agnes Watkins white silk toile-de-nord; Miss Mabel Guess, sky-blue China silk; Miss Kitty Moore, white lace, elaborately trimmed, and many other handsome costumes. ## NATURE'S MAKING.

Fibrous Pith, with an Agreeable Odor, and Textile Strength on Trees.

There are in all about half a dozen lace-bark trees in the world, so-dallied because the inner bark yields a natural lace in ready-made sheet form which can be made up in serviceable articles of apparel. Only four of these curious species of trees are of much practical value. Tourists who have stopped at Hawaii or Samon may recall the lace-bark clothing of the natives—clothing of a neat brown color when new, of remarkable strength and of a fragrant odor, like freshly cured tobacco leaf. The native "taga" cloth, as it is called, is made of the bark of Brunetia papirifera, but is not usually included among the real lace-barks trees.

Of the lace-bark trees yielding a pure, snowy lace of utility, we have on the Pacific side of the hemisphere the sterquilie acerifolia of Australia (also called "flame tree," in allusion to its snowy red flower), and in Maoriland the plagianthus betulinus. On the Atlantic side there is only one lace-yielding tree so far known—the lagoterialia of the Caribbean islands. Of the dafne tenuifolia of South America I have never been able to discover a single specimen, despite careful search, nor have I ever met anyone who has seen the tree growing in South America.

In its natural state the lace-bark is of a most delicate cream-white tint. It is probably a kind of fibrous pith. When the outer bark is removed, it can be unfolded and unwound in one seamless piece, having a surface of a little more than a square yard. Washing and bleaching gives it a dazzling white appearance. It has a faint, agreeable odor not unlike that of freshly split bamboo.

Virgil Carlton left Sunday morning for Marion, Ky., where he has accepted a position on the Crittenden Press. We are glad to hear of his selection and believe that he will do himself credit in his new field.—Chrisney (Ind.) Sun.

Mr. Carlton takes the place made vacant by Jasper Riggins who is now owner of the Marion news agency.

In honor of Miss Nellie Gray, of Salem, Miss Verna Pickens entertained Wednesday evening.

Mrs. E. J. Hayward issued at home cards for Wednesday evening from 8:30 to 11:30 to meet Misses Pratt Spalding, of Morganfield, and Lillian Graves, of Dycesburg.

The flavor is half the battle. The purity is the other half. My sorghum is pure and has a flavor that is delicious. FRANK CONGER.

Developed Zinc Mine For Sale

This no prospect but the real thing with the ore sticking out of the ground—true fissure vein and inexhaustible. Seven or eight different parties own stock in this mine and no one of them will give it the attention that it requires and deserves. The order is given to sell and settle partnership.

Their Loss is Your Gain

Mine is situated in the highest mineralized spot in the Western Kentucky Mining District.

Eighteen acres—one shaft 63 feet deep; one shaft 45 feet deep, boiler, engine, steam hoist, steam drill, mining tools, about ready now for pump, about 400 tons of ore on the dump, carbonate of zinc, lead and jack, locations for other shafts in good stuff.

By putting in concentrator the mine is now in shape to pay good dividends.

Price of whole outfit $17,500, without the mineral rights $12,500.

60 acres, one mile from Hodge mine, fluor spar proposition.

70 acres, one-half mile from Riley mine, (same vein) lead proposition.

90 acres, 1 1/2 miles from Columbia mine, zinc proposition.

This 220 acres mineral rights (in fee) and the developed 18 acres are ample assets for a $100,000,00 company and will pay dividends on that amount from the start.

TEACHERS' INSTITUTE

Closed Friday Evening After One of the Most Interesting Sessions Ever Held in the County.

WEDNESDAY AFTERNOON.

Roll call—Teachers answering with quotations. Just here our paper agents Messrs. Williams and McNeely spoke of the Educational Journals. Mr. Williams made a strong plea urging teachers to some good Educational paper.

Mr. Evans said in connection with their Educational Literature every teacher should read their county papers, the Press and Record.

Higher grades in Reading was discussed by Mr. L. E. Hard. Reading elevates the mind and puts us in close touch with the outside doings of the world.

What should we read?
Miss Ethel Hard said we should read and give our pupils information that will lead them, and assist them in making a choice of good books.

TO MUCH READING.

Miss Ada Hill, said: We should not read more than we can gather in the mind and put to a proper use.

TEST OF READING.

Mr. J. B. McNeely spoke of reading as not what the eye passes over but what the mind takes in and remembers that keeps us in life.

PRESENTATIVE FACULTIES.

By Miss Sadie Rankins and Representatives Faculties by Miss Emma Terry. Each speaker brought out some psychology truths in a very impressive manner.

R. C. Moore made a fine talk on Faculties studies. He spoke of the earnestness of the teachers, let us do what we do. Mr. Evans said good.

CHILD STUDY.

By Miss Kitty Moore who said: We use pictures to teach the ideas of numbers and forms; try objects and this develops power of expression.

This was a model lesson showing the basis of child study in language teaching.

RECESS.

Round table discussion was conducted by Mrs. Fannie Walker. Several good points were brought out in this exercise. P. M. Ward was the principal speaker, making a strong plea in regard to the boy getting water in school—a voice louder, louder. So the discussion went on pro and con.

Just here Prof. Williams made one of the strong talks of the session. He allows pupils to quietly pass out and get water, but they must do this in a quiet way.

Mr. Pogue was the next speaker. He made a strong speech for good school discipline and the Institute heartily concurred with him, so the boys and girls may look out as we are going to draw new lines.

Character was discussed by Rev. J. F. Price. This was a strong appeal to the teachers, Climax—The teacher should have character and "tact" to back it. (cheers.)

THURSDAY MORNING.

Scripture Reading by Instructor. Prayer by R. E. Williams.

Instructor took for his theme The Pedagogy of the Master Teacher, how to conquer the miscreant boy. He said you are the teachers and if any of these evils exist in your school, such as loafing, swearing, telling falsehoods and smoking cigarettes—
"STOP IT!"

We should have less writing and more oral instruction in our schools. A voice: "You are right," and Mr. Groves was given the courtesies of the floor during the Institute.

HISTORY PRINCIPLES

W. O. Wicker says teachers should do a great deal of general reading and by so doing inform themselves on the principle History, followed by Miss Bessie Trisler who said study the lives of men.

Mr. Ke said if it was rightly taught it was no trouble to know history. Study the lives of such men as Lincoln, Grant, Washington and other great men. He spoke of the use of maps, charts and outlines to impress important facts and dates, what, when and how are the things to know in history.

Instructor says: We are living in the atmosphere of history, we are making history.

Having displaced our note book we failed to secure proceedings from noon recess until evening recess, but there was a number of fine talks on Language, Teaching and Discipline.

RECESS.

Prof. Evans and Prin. Kee each made some announcements. Prof. Kee called the attention of the Institute to the work of the graded schools announcing that he expected to do all in his power to keep it up to the high standard of which it occupies.

Round table discussion was opened by Miss Margaret Moore. She spoke of the use of pictures in school. She made a logical talk exhibiting to the teachers a number of pictures and a brown statue recommending that the teachers secure such pictures and make good use of them in their school. Miss Nannie Campbell who followed discussed the best method of Reading Circle work. Talk with the pupils about the best books they have at home. The Circle should take in every child. I strongly advocate the Reading Circle Work.

TEACHING OF MORALS.

Mr. Williams says we are great imitators and children are following the examples of others and in order to teach a thing we must act it. We as teachers must be gentle and orderly ourselves. Here Mr. Williams dwelt on the cigarette habit, giving some of his observations in controlling and bringing about an influence that will check many of the common and evil immoralities that is so common in our county. In conclusion he says "I mean to say, the teacher should be one of the best persons in the world."

Duke S. Hill followed in a short lively pointed talk, logical and practical which was cast upon a high plain, but yet reaching the ordinary masses in a practical sense. He dwelt with considerable interest upon physical culture.

FRIDAY MORNING.

The Institute opened by singing "Sun Shine in My Soul." Scripture Reading and prayer by Instructor.

Educational Principles were continued by our Instructor. The master teacher was held up before the teachers as Full of sympathy, wholly pure, he had authority, he was thoughtful, balanced, simple, graceful, ready, concrete and poetic.

Mr. Evans spoke at some length upon each point here mentioned and his talk this Friday made a fine impression on the minds of his hearers.

RECESS.

The assignment of lessons by W. K. Powell. He takes into consideration the ability of the pupils and calls the attention of the class to the difficult points in the assignment lesson. He was followed in the discussion by P. M. Ward, J. B. McNeely and C. B. Newcom.

Preparation of the lesson by Miss Mattie Perry.

The moral of the lesson should be thoroughly brought out. It is the teachers duty to instruct, every fact should lead on from one to another and their relations presented. The teachers should use clear language, prepare the lesson so as to require knowledge in order to impart it to the pupils and should read a variety of books.

RECITATIONS.

Miss Edna Roberts says we should oral and written forms. We should draw outlines of the states and the thirteen colonies, putting in dates, particular points of history and use various methods.

PRINCIPLES.

J. E. Pilant says we should know the lesson well and clear. He advocated short lessons and gave some very pointed illustrations showing the folly of wrongfully assigned lessons.

TEACHERS POSITION.

Miss Mary Towery says the teacher should prepare the lesson from the text books but do a great deal of work with out the text book.

NOON RECESS.

Music. Roll call. Teachers answering with quotations.

Good manners in the school room by the Instructor. He urged the teachers to drill the pupils in manners and personal neatness.

TASTE IN DRESS

Was discussed by Harve Babb. He says the teachers should dress neat, clean and keep his clothes in order. He was followed by the Instructor.

Committee on Resolutions made their report. The report was adopted. A number of talks were made which were very impressive.

Our president, E. E. Thomas, in a very brief way declared the Institute closed.

NOTES.

ROUND TABLE DISCUSSIONS.

A notable feature of the Institute work has been the round table discussions. In these discussions some of the very best institute work was done. The "bad boy" "Miss sweet sixteen" School room decorations "School room morals" and other intensely practical questions were ably handled each evening after recess by some of the best and most wide awake and experienced teachers in attendance. Not alone from these teachers did we receive many valuable points, but note-worthy among the visitors who gave us from the right of their experience were Prof. R. E. Williams, of Owensboro, Rev. J. F. Price, Marion, and Prof. D. S. Hill, Evansville, Ind.

Following is the list of teachers present and where they will teach.

HEIR TO $250,000.

Easton, Md., July 17.—The wife of Perry Cooper, colored, of Whitman, Talbot county, is an heiress to nearly $250,000. The woman's half brother went some years ago to California and purchased a small farm, which was afterward found to contain copper. He died this year, leaving over a million to his four half brothers and sisters.

The new thing, Paris (Imported?) Tolu flour, is par excellence. To say its good does not express it, for it is something extra fine.

Marion Girls Take Notice.

Miss Madge Pickler, daughter of a former well-known member of Congress, deserves a place in the front rank among plucky young American women. She left her father's mansion in Falkland, S. D., to take possession of and work a mine which she owns on the Cripple Creek Short Line.

The shaft of her mine has now been sunk to a depth that makes it no longer a prospect. It is a real mine and there is lots of ore in sight. Miss Pickler is her own superintendent. She has a force of men at work, but every morning dons a miners garb and, with a lighted candle goes down into the mine and spends the day underground. She is musical, too, and when the miners are through the days work she brings her guitar and sings to them the music she learned in her father's home from famous teachers.

Badly Burned in an Unusual Manner.

Hopkinsville, Ky., July 20.—A boy named Hershel Hayes was badly burned in a peculiar manner this morning. He was walking across a field near town with a lot of matches in the pocket of his trousers with his pocket-knife. By some means the matches were ignited and his clothing set on fire. The boy burned his hands severely in vainly trying to put out the fire, and then ran 300 yards to a pond and plunged in before the smoldering flames were entirely controlled.

First Bale of New Cotton From Texas.

The first bale of new cotton for the season was received by Courthouse & Keplinger of the New Orleans Cotton Exchange from Cohen & Co., of San Antonio, Texas. It was grown by F. M. Johnson of Moore, Frio county.

It was sold at the door of the exchange at auction, Newberger & Levy buying it at 20 cents a pound. The bale weighed 537 pounds and classed good middling. The custom of selling the first new bale received on "change at auction for the benefit of charity is an old one.

Schlitzbaum Wanted at Eddyville.

Frankfort, Ky., July 25.—Governor Beckham this afternoon made requisition on the governor of Oregon for the return to Lyon county of A. B. Schlitzbaum, fugitive from justice. Schlitzbaum is wanted to answer a charge of grand larceny, alleged to have been committed while serving a term in the Eddyville prison. The charge is made by the Kentucky Shoe Manufacturing company, a lessee of convict labor, which charges that the fugitive, while acting as a shipping clerk, stole $600 worth of shoes. Schlitzbaum was at the time serving a sentence of one year from Ohio county.

Advice to the Young

Speak kindly to the elephant
And gentle to the whale,
And when you meet the jaguar
Please do not yank his tail.
Respect the tiger's feelings, dear
His whiskers do not pull;
Oh, let your heart with kindness
Be ever, ever full.

Oh, do not pinch the python
Or punch the rattlesnake;
If you should hurt the cobra
His little heart would break.
Don't stick pins in the crocodile
Or irritate the yak;
Pray do not bruise the polar bear
By pounding on his back.

Don't make the lion cry, my child,
By walking on his toes;
Nor slight the hippopotamus
By standing on his nose.
For all good children, you must know,
Each morning gladly sing:
"Oh, help me be considerate
Of every living thing."

Tragic Fate of J. I. Martin,
An L. & N. Brakeman
At Crofton.

J. I. Martin, an L. & N. freight brakeman, was instantly killed at Crofton Thursday midnight by the Chicago and New Orleans limited No. 92. After Martin had thrown the switch for the purpose of letting his train in on the siding he sat down on the end of a cross tie to wait for the fast train to pass. He fell asleep and was struck and hurled forty or fifty feet.

Martin was head brakeman on first fifty-seven, south bound. It is said he fell asleep at New Empire about half an hour before the fatal accident at Crofton, but a fellow brakeman awoke him just in time to save him. He was about 25 years old and unmarried. His home was in Nashville.—New Era.

Wesley Hinton Tried on a Charge Of Perjury and Found Guilty By The Jury.

At Elkton, Wesley Hinton, formerly a well-known merchant of Todd county, was found guilty of perjury and sentenced to one year in the penitentiary. Hinton was, until September, 1900, engaged in the general mercantile business at Clifty, J. H. Heitley being one of his competitors. One night in that month while Hinton was in Elkton, his store was burned. He swore out a warrant charging Heitley with the crime. Mr. Heitley was given an examining trial and released, and the grand jury refused to indict him. Hinton, however, who swore that Heitley had met him in an obscure place, paid him $50 and acknowledged his guilt, was indicted for perjury. He left the county, and for a time was in Oklahoma, Arkansas and Benton, Ky. He was arrested about a year ago and brought back to answer for his crime.—New Era.

Light Plant Finished.

For several months past the people of Sturgis have looked forward with no small degree of pleasure for the day when our fine lighting plant should be completed and night turned into day. This long looked for day has at length come, and the lights are now running every night, to the entire satisfaction of everybody.

Mr. R. J. Giles, who has for some time past been in charge of the construction work has been appointed Superintendent of the Electric Light Co. and is filling his trust highly satisfactorily both to the company and its hundreds of patrons. While Mr. Giles has only been in our city a few months, he has won many friends here; being a young man of talent and culture and most genial disposition, which have made him a favorite in Sturgis society. He has been the recipient of congratulations from many friends, since his appointment to the new position, which carries with it a handsome salary.—Sturgis Herald.

Mr. Giles was connected with the Marion Electric Light plant for a short time and will be kindly remembered by numbers of our citizens, who will be pleased to hear of his promotion. Mr. Giles owes his present position largely to the good offices and recommendation of the President of the Marion Electric Light company.

A Grim Tragedy

is daily enacted in thousands of homes, as death claims, in each one, another victim of consumption or pneumonia. But when coughs and colds are properly treated, the tragedy is averted. F. G. Huntley, of Oaklandon, Ind., writes: "My wife had the consumption, and three doctors gave her up. Finally she took Dr. King's New Discovery for consumption, coughs and colds, which cured her, and today she is well and strong." It kills the germs of all diseases. One dose relieves. Guaranteed at 50c and $1.00 by Woods & Orme, druggists. Trial bottles free.

Frying on the Wires.

Louisville, Ky., July 21.—Rare presence of mind saved John Siegel, a lineman, in the employ of the New Albany Electric Light Co., from being electrocuted.

Siegel with three other workmen were engaged at East 4th st., when he climbed a pole and got entangled in live wire. With smoke and sparks issuing from his clothing and the flesh frying on his hand, he seized a hatchet from his belt and cut the wire, thus breaking the current.

Siegel was exhausted but maintained his hold until comrades assisted him to the ground.

Save 1-2 Your Paint Bills

By using Weir's Bavarian White Lead, the most durable and therefore the most economical lead or paint made. It has zinc in it. The zinc gives the paint a beautiful gloss and prevents the lead from destroying the LINED OIL WHICH IS THE LIFE OF
ALL PAINT. "Pure Lead" by itself will eat and destroy the lined oil, thus causing the paint to become porous or open and dust off. Weir's Bavarian White Lead is better and cheaper than mixed paints because one-half of every gallon of mixed paint is lined oil for which you pay $1.50 per gallon and get an old, stale, unsound lined oil. Buy fresh oil from your dealer's barrel at its true value. 4 1-2 gallons lined oil and 100 pounds of Weir's Lead will make 6 1-2 gallons best paint ready to use, that will cost you no more than other standard brands of lead and much less than mixed paint and will last twice as long as either. Write D. T.
Weir White Lead Co., St. Louis,
Mo., for their booklet "Facts About White Lead." Weir's Bavarian White

To Probe for Poison.
New York, July 19.—By order of District Attorney Clark, of Kings county, the body of Mrs. Frederick E. Carlton No. 2 was exhumed in Calvary cemetery today, for the purpose of an analysis to determine the cause of her death. Physicians said to night the first examination had failed to show any trace of poison, which is suspected to have caused her death. The analysis will require about ten days.

Immediately following the disinterment of her body Inspector Cross, of Brooklyn, announced he would tomorrow cause the arrest of Carlton on new charges. The Inspector said he could not state the charges that he would prefer, but they were as serious as any that had yet been made against the prisoner.

In the presence of several witnesses the coffin was lifted from the grave where it had lain since last March, and taken to the morgue. The physicians removed the stomach and other organs and placed them in jars, which were sealed. The jars were then taken to Dr. O'Conor's office, accompanied by two policemen. The body was at once buried.

Michael J. Gorman, brother of the dead girl, on whose application the exhumation was made, was at the grave and was overcome with grief when he saw the face of his sister. He declared, however, it was better the body should be disinterred if it would aid the ends of justice.

Concerning the new charges to be brought against Carlton, on which the re-arrest will be made, Inspector Cross said:

"I have obtained important information in working up my case against Carlton, which demands his re-arrest. I shall have a charge to make against a woman with whom he was associated, and that will bring other women into the case. He will be arraigned in the Adams street court. The case is not connected in any way with the investigation the coroner now has on hand. Whether Carlton is held or not, I am certain he will be convicted on the charge I shall make against him.

It is broadly hinted against Carlton that he has attempted to blackmail women of good repute. He would threaten, it is said, to show objectionable photographs on which the features of intended victim had been skillfully fixed unless they agreed to any proposal he made.

Carlton has announced he would not try to get bail, knowing that he would be arrested on some new charge as soon as he had been bailed.

[This man Carlton is the same on whom, when arrested, a letter was found addressed to Miss Jessie O. Wilson, of this county, whom he probably intended, if possible, to enmesh in his toils. He is said to have been connected with a Chicago matrimonial agency, and Miss Wilson is to be congratulated on her escape from the trap set by this man.

Neuralgia And Other Pain.

All pain in any disease is nerve pain, the result of a turbulent condition of the nerves. The stabbing, lacerating, darting, burning, agonizing pain that comes from the prominent nerve branches, or sensory nerves, is neuralgia, and is the "big brother" of all the other pains.

Dr. Miles' Anti-Pain Pills rarely ever fail to relieve these pains by soothing these larger nerves, and restoring their tranquility.

Dr. Miles' Anti-Pain Pills leave no bad after-effects, and are a reliable remedy for every kind of pain, such as headache, backache, stomachache, sciatica, rheumatism and neuralgia. They also relieve Dizziness, Sleeplessness, Nervousness, Car-Sickness, and Distress after eating.

"For many years I have been a constant sufferer from neuralgia and headache, and have never been able to obtain any relief from various headache powders and capsules, until I tried Dr. Miles' Anti-Pain Pills. They always cure my headache in five minutes time." FRED R. SWING, Cashier 1st Nat. Bank, Atkinson, Neb.

Ballooning Fell 3,000 Feet.
San Jose, Cal., July 19.—Daniel Maloney, who had made numerous successful assertions with Prof. Montgomery's aeroplane, fell 3,000 feet to death at Santa Clara today.

Maloney made an ascension from the grounds of Santa Clara College, in honor of the League of the Cross Cadets, who are holding their annual encampment. About 2,000 persons watched the machine with interest as it shot upward from the college garden, attached to a huge balloon. At a height of 4,000 feet Maloney cut loose and began maneuvering with the aeroplane. He sailed gracefully about and then attempted a drop dip. Suddenly the machine swerved, hesitated and then turned completely over. It righted itself, sank down a considerable distance and turned over again. Maloney was climbing desperately to his seat and evidently endeavoring to claim his control, but all efforts were in vain. Again the aeroplane turned in the air, the wings came together and the man and the machine plunged straight downward, while the horrified spectators gazed helplessly.

A number of cadets carried him to the college hospital. His head was fractured and blood was flowing from his ears and mouth. He expired in a short time. The aeroplane was mashed into fragments.

Will Press the Button.
Portsmouth, N. H., July 18.—The geography of New Hampshire will be changed next Monday by the greatest dynamite blast ever fired. Miss Edith Foster, a pretty young Portsmouth girl, will press a button and Henderson's Point, a long, jutting tract of land, will be wiped off the map in an instant.

The dynamite charge will be four times as large as the terrific blast that cleared Hell Gate, New York. The Hell Gate charge contained 25 tons of dynamite when exploded. In the Portsmouth 200,000 pounds will be used and will go up in a single explosion.

The dynamite explosion will make of Portsmouth a deep water harbor instead of a shallow one. After the explosion the river will have a depth of 35 feet at low tide; a depth sufficient for any vessel in existence. At present the Portsmouth Navy Yard is shut off in a measure by Henderson's Point, which juts into the channel and excludes vessels of the deepest draught.

"As a Little Child."
BY O. G. W.
Sometimes when I'm sitting alone
And my thoughts are wandering wide,
I feel in my room a strange presence
And a child stands by my side.
The eyes are brown that look into mine,
And the hair has a golden hue,
But the face and form beside my knee
Is a child I never knew.
She touches my books and pictures,
And fits in and out of the door;
And dances in shadows and sunbeams
That fall in long rays on the floor.
I often awaken at midnight,
From dreams that are vague and wild,
To see by my bedside standing
The form of a little child.
I fall asleep with the presence
Of her soft, tiny finger-tips
And a smile of peace and safety
She leaves with a kiss on my lips.
I sometimes think the vision
Is a guardian angel mild;
For who could lead more kindly
Than the hand of a little child!

Alas! the daylight is dying,
Dark shadows o'er me creep,
Abide! for time is flying,
Sing, ere I take my long sleep.
Stay!—for death is approaching—
Sing me that anthem of thine!
And I'll die, oh! ever so happy;
With thy dear little hand in mine!
When the door is ready to open
And I hear thee calling low
I think when the latch is lifted,
That sweet little child I'll know!
On this sweet thought my soul shall rest
I give myself into His hands,
How'er it seems, my life is best,
All must be right. God understands.
Bright herald of the coming dawn,
A little longer guide me here,
And then to deeper skies withdrawn
Send down sweet words of lofty cheer!

Philosophers who content themselves with the dream of an impersonal, eternal life, do not reach and convince the people. They simply drive them to the innumerable cults and isms, which thrive by playing upon the hopes and fears of mankind. In their best moods the people look to those who give them a promise of shaping the life eternal into a personality and consciousness, not less than that which makes life here worth the living, but now wider, deeper, higher, and more intense than anything which has yet entered into the heart of man.

AN OLD TIME FISHERMAN

REV. J. W. BIGHAM

In the good old days when Marion was an unpretentious village, with her thrifty and contented people happily oblivious of many modern ideas, and later appliances that now seem indispensable; the troupe of itinerant minstrels and the festive one-horse show afforded the only diversions beyond the amateur attempt of home talent, while the rod and gun engaged the leisure time occasionally of those to sports inclined; and while no organized club existed, to provide the elaborate and expensive equipment deemed necessary these later years by our gentlemen of means and leisure, yet whenever a man felt the motions of desire awakened by the balmy breath of spring and that strange yet irresistible longing for the solitude of the freshening woods, and hunger for the sight and sound of murmuring waters he usually found among the village gentry a number of congenial and responsive souls.

Sink Hodge, the lawyer and long time monster commissioner, a born sportsman, could always be relied on to go, whenever the exacting demands of official duties did not interfere. Tom Nunn, then a youthful student of the law, with dreams perhaps of future laurels and remuneration, but whose youthful tastes bent to fellowships and the witchery of innocent vacations; and Dudley Wallingford, whose diligent hand fashioned upon the musical anvil of the village smithy the implement of husbandry destined to build a better civilization, was sometimes induced to seek the restful shade of Crooked Creek where with rod and line the finny beauties yielded to the seductive cast of his tempting bait.

The writer, too, with mind and heart set on the mastery of Blackstone, and Chitty and Greenleaf and other masters of the law, amid the monotony of rusty books was ever ready for something new, some opportunity amid the free and genial fellowships of friends and the inspiring invigoration of nature, would forget the burdens of dull care in the delightful atmosphere of genial companionship.

The leaves in early springtime had clothed the woods in the gauzy dappery of green, while the snowy blossoms on the dogwoods gave assurance to the angler that "fish are biting."

The quartette above named arranged for a day's fishing down on Crooked Creek. We were to begin down by Miss Caroline Hughes' and thence up the creek to Billy Crows. In those days, before the farming lands were denuded of their timber, and the wooded hills had not known the ravages since wrought by the relentless railroad greed for "cross-ties," the streams had not filled up from the fields and lands washed by floods, long pools of deep blue water gave the speckled beauties an ideal home, with shoals of rocks for spawning ground, and to cast a hook in these deep and quiet waters was sure to bring the hungry game to whiz the line among the mossy rocks; no modern reel or lifeless fly was known or used, but good old angle worms and lively roaches, caught with fly hook for bait, the rod and line were of rustic and simple structure, and to fill your string with goggle eyes, black perch, and trout was glory enough for one day's sport.

The successful fishermen were entitled to the successful "catch" and the unsuccessful competitors were dependent upon the generosity of the victors for a fry at the end of the day.

It was so arranged among us on the day referred to. Sink Hodge and the writer were to compete with Tom Nunn and Dudley Wallingford. We did not fear the skill of Tom Nunn for he had not achieved distinction as an angler, but Dudley was known to be "lucky," but the well established reputation of Sink Hodge for skill and success as a fisherman promised to compensate for any knowledge or skill on the part of the writer.

The day was an ideal one and once arrived upon the stream, our horses tethered where safety and shade would relieve us of all anxiety for them; we adjusted our tackle, bait and everything for the work and our party was soon lost in the solitude of the woods; the song of birds and squirrel alone broke the stillness.

The fish were awake and at the cast made the widening waves spread brightly away; the dainty cork soon disappeared, and the heart-beat was quickened as the shining beauty came to the sunlight, soon to be added to the increasing number on our string.

How swift was the passing of those sunny hours; what joy in brightening prospect of certain victory; we worked each tempting pool, the foamy drift piles along the stream yielded many a trophy to our cruel hooks, the shadows at length grew long, and weary with sport and buoyant with hope and expectancy, we heard with joy the signal, "whoop!" to meet. Soon our strings, side by side on the green, fresh grass, disclosed the startling truth that Tom and Dudley had beaten us, although it was not absolutely certain, for lack of means to weigh the fish. Sink and I had a good catch of sun perch and many "cat," but they were small; while Tom and Dudley had not the number that adorned our string, yet they had a number larger than ours, and one trout whose proportions eclipsed any thing we had. We did not yield our claim, however, agreeing that the contest should be finally determined by "weighing the fish upon arriving at town."

In plesantry and reminiscences of the day and former achievements the distance home was soon covered; the moon full and fair flooded the world with light as we rode homeward, soon the village, nestling among the trees under the shadow of the hill appeared; naturally my partner and I were filled with forebodings of disaster to our records for skill and the loss of our catch.

"Oh that I had a few buckshot," said I, "how easy it would be to avoid all possibility of disaster for us in the final determination of this contest;" reigning his horse up Sink said: "All right, I have part of a sack of buckshot here in my saddlebags I had last winter, when deer hunting down on Hurricane." We immediately dismounted and in the moonlight one by one we filled those little catfish with shot, while Dudley and Tom rode on in front, oblivious of the trick we were playing them.

Having completed our "job" we were soon in our saddles, and in company with our competitors, insisting that our victory would be manifest upon weighing the fish. We were soon at the hotel, where Bill Fowler, the dispenser of liquid refreshments usually awaited the thirsty and belated. The fish were soon on the scales, when to our entire satisfaction and the surprise and dismay of Tom and Dudley, our string weighed heaviest, by two ounces. Oh, the joy we felt! heightened by the knowledge of our trick, which we intended, "of course" to disclose at some favorable time, in the future.

Our defeated friends generously surrendered their fish, and as an additional penalty for their want of skill they provided for us the solace the Kentuckian in the "mint and things" usual on such occasions.

While reflecting upon the uncertainty of earthly prospects and with that inquisitiveness characteristic of Tom Nunn then, and now the distinguished Justice of the highest court in Kentucky, whereby the intricacies and vexed questions of law are simplified and settled, Tom took hold of the tail of one of our little "cats" remarking as he held it up, "These fish don't look as if they were the heaviest," when lo, a tell-tale buckshot rolled out upon the counter; then another and another as Tom shook that little catfish. Of course our game was lost, and compelled to restore our ill-gotten gains, together with our boasted catch, we gladly paid the penalty due our failure in a number of those potatoes then popular with all Kentuckians.

Kentucky Crop Report.

The following report of crop prospects at present in this State has recently been issued by the State Agricultural Bureau:

The latter half of June was unfavorable for farm work of all kinds. Continued rains have retarded the cultivation of corn and tobacco; consequently these crops have suffered for want of proper cultivation. There is quite a number of complaints that wheat is sprouting in the shock. It is difficult to estimate the damage done in this way, as only a small part of it has been threshed. Barring the damage done by recent rains the oat crop is a good one—probably the best for several years. The rye crop is a fair one. With good weather to cultivate the tobacco it promises a good yield. The acreage of burley seems to have a small increase over last year. There is a material falling off in acreage of the dark types. Grasses promise excellent results, except in a few counties, where timothy does not seem to have done well. The potato crop is full up to an average. Live stock generally in good condition, one county reporting "pink eye" in horses and one reporting some disease among cattle. Only one county reporting any disease among hogs.

We quote from the report the following condition of crops in Crittenden and Livingston counties:

Crittenden—Wheat threshing has begun; in some localities it is good, in others the yield is light. Corn is making vigorous growth. Oats good. Early tobacco looks well. Grasses good. Too late to save clover crop; apples dropping badly.

Livingston—Corn very small and irregular; needs more cultivation. Low lands badly damaged by too much rain. Wheat a poor crop. Tobacco making rapid growth; needs sunshine. Meadows short and thin. Too wet for stock peas.

All steel Hay Rakes, one and two horse hand dump, $13.50. Only a few left. Cochran & Pickens.

New Illinois Central Deal.

Chicago, Ill., July 21.—Rumors have been current today regarding the Illinois Central road which indicated that important changes are pending in relation to that property. It was stated that negotiations are now in progress for an alliance between that road and one of the strong Northwestern lines, whereby the former is to become the outlet from Chicago and the Northwest generally for a large volume of traffic to New Orleans. The report seems to have been put forth merely for stock-jobbing purposes, with the expectation of the stock being placed permanently on a 7 per cent. basis. As a matter of fact the Illinois Central is already a Northwestern road and an active competitor for St. Paul traffic.

Married His Sister.

A Jefferson City lady decided to scare her husband, who was quite a hard drinker, so he would reform. In order to do this she procured a costume of the devil he had worn at a masquerade. The next time the erring spouse came home feeling happy she quickly donned the costume. As he opened the door she stepped forward and said in a sepulchral voice, "Come with me—I am the devil!" The result rather startled her, as the response which greeted her was: "Zat so? Shake ol' boy, I'm your brother-in-law; I married your sister!"—Kansas City Times.

Afraid of the Widow.

An editor wrote: "We beg the indulgence of our readers for being a day late this week. Our failure to get out on time is the result of the physical demoralization of the editor, caused by sleeping too close to the boarding house window." The cussed compositor set the last word "widow" and the proof reader failed to discover the omission of the letter "n." The editor's trunk still is at the boarding house and he hasn't had a change of shirts or socks for the last six weeks.—Ex.

and Send Your Remittance To-day

High Class Investments
Stocks, Bonds, Grain and Cotton JAMES E. ENGLISH Fraternity Building
Paducah, Ky.

Dear Sir:—I take the liberty of calling your attention to the fact that my offices in the Fraternity Building in Paducah, Ky., for the purpose of handling speculative deals for my customers that cannot avail themselves of the opportunity of trading in the future markets are now open, and my reason of the fact that for business reasons they cannot spare the time nor afford to remain all day on the floor of any local brokerage house, and have found that they can not advantageously trade by mail, telephone or telegraph, and as you know, the successful trader is the man that can watch the board constantly, and take advantage of all sudden changes to "scalp" out a quarter or more profit at times, when to an inexperienced trader the market seems dull. This is a golden opportunity.

I have been very successful in handling deals for my clients, and have yet to record a loss in any transaction as a whole, and have made them a great deal of money. I have an experienced floor trader in the room of a local brokerage house with direct wires to Chicago, Kansas City, New Orleans and New York at all hours of the day, during market hours, and am better prepared to make you money than any broker that I can mention. I don't want to promise you too much, for as you know, there are two sides to the market and you can lose your money just as easily as you can win, but with the knowledge and experience that I command, I can assure you that you can overcome many obstacles and disadvantages of the average trader, and can make more money in the markets in the next thirty days than you ever dreamed of, provided you will allow yourself to be governed by me. My plans are completed for a big market "killing" in the near future, and it looks like there is no possible chance to miscarry, but you must remember that nothing is sure but "death and taxes."

I am inviting my friends to send me remittances, either by postoffice order, express or bank exchange, for sums, not less than $50 and not more than $500 each, to join in this discretionary pool, to share in profits and losses equally share and share alike, in proportion to the amount of their subscription to the pool, and when the deal is launched you will be advised, and on the closing of the same you will receive a statement of the transaction, and a check for any amount that is to your credit, unless you advise that I retain same and reinvest for you. A client of mine sent me $900 recently for himself and friend and it is a matter of record that I handled this money so that the earnings on same were a little in excess of $12,000 in sixty days. The opportunity to beat this record is here now, and before it is too late I would suggest that you remit me quick the amount that you think you can afford to risk on, the best speculative market that has occurred in the last ten years. All correspondence will be held sacred, and my charges are nothing unless we are successful, then I retain one-third of the profits, and remit you two-thirds and your principal. Your trade will receive protection from this pool that individual trades cannot enjoy and usually exhaust when original margins are consumed.

I earnestly advise you to send a trial remittance and allow me to demonstrate what I can do, and am sure you will be more than satisfied with the results. You are aware that unless this was absolutely the truth and a straight business transaction that I would be amenable to the United States postal laws, and no sane man will take that chance.

I hope to have the pleasure of hearing from you at once, with a remittance, and I would prefer you to send it by postoffice order, so that unless you desired it, no one would know of the "little flyer" you were taking in the market. Look at all the big fortunes of today. They were made principally by market trading, and it has come to be recognized as the only fast way a man can legitimately increase his wealth.

I am to be found in my suite of offices any business day after market hours, from 3 to 6 p. m., and invite a personal visit for private consultation; but in the meantime I urge you not to delay, but send a trial remittance and see the results.

Yours for prosperity,

Address all Mail to P. O. Drawer L. L., Paducah, Ky.
