BUSINESS ACTIVITY.

We republic this week an article of great importance relating to the Western Kentucky Coal Co., which is a highly interesting subject for the investors of this section. The company is making great strides toward the development of its properties, and the interest it now holds is far from its maximum.

As a result of the report of the United States government, showing the condition of the coal fields of Kentucky, it is evident that the Western Kentucky Coal Co. is well on the way to becoming a great corporation. The company's properties are situated in the heart of the coal region, and the coal is of excellent quality. The company has already made great strides toward the development of its properties, and the interest it now holds is far from its maximum.

Chase of Grant Against Revenue Agent

State Inspector thinks Charges False Withholding $100.

H. B. Patterson, chief of the State Inspector's office, has filed charges against Revenue Agent J. W. L. Smith, of Clark County, for withholding $100 from the taxes paid by a citizen.

L. J. DeWitt, superintendent of the State Inspector's office, said:

"The facts are as follows: J. W. L. Smith, Revenue Agent of Clark County, has not paid the taxes due by a citizen, and has withheld $100 from the taxes paid by him. We have therefore filed charges against him for this violation of the law."

The charges will be heard by the court, and the case will be disposed of accordingly. The State Inspector is doing its best to enforce the laws of the State, and will not hesitate to take action against any Revenue Agent who violates the law.

Just a Word

To all the women who are familiar with the business of managing a household, we would like to offer a few suggestions which we believe will be of great benefit to them.

First of all, we would like to suggest that they keep a record of all expenses and receipts, and that they have a separate checkbook for their household account. This will enable them to keep track of their spending, and to make sure that they are not overspending.

Secondly, we would like to suggest that they have a separate savings account for household expenses, and that they keep a record of all savings. This will enable them to save money for future expenses, and to make sure that they have enough money to cover any emergencies that may arise.

Lastly, we would like to suggest that they keep a record of all receipts and expenses, and that they have a separate checkbook for their household account. For the Woman Who Has a Large Family

In any large family, there are bound to be some problems that arise. However, by taking a few simple steps, these problems can be minimized and avoided.

First of all, it is important to have a clear and consistent set of rules. This will help to establish a sense of order and discipline, and will help to prevent chaos and confusion.

Secondly, it is important to have a system for keeping track of household chores. This will help to ensure that all necessary tasks are completed in a timely and effective manner.

Lastly, it is important to have a system for keeping track of necessary supplies. This will help to ensure that all necessary supplies are available when needed, and will help to prevent unnecessary expenses.

In short, by taking a few simple steps, the problems that arise in a large family can be minimized and avoided. With a clear and consistent set of rules, a system for keeping track of household chores, and a system for keeping track of necessary supplies, the problems that arise in a large family can be minimized and avoided.

Dear Father and Mother,

It has been some time since I wrote to you before, but I have written several letters since then. I fear I have not had an opportunity to write to you. I have been very busy ever since I left home. I am now in the army, and I have been doing pretty well. I am in a hospital at present, and I hope to be well soon. I am very much improved in health, and I hope I shall be able to come home soon. I shall be very glad to see you again. I am very much attached to you, and I shall always be true to you.
