DEFEATED AT HOME TRIUMPHANT ABROAD

The Old Democratic Banner Still Proudly Waves!

Tremendous Democratic Gain in Crittenden County--in the Fourth Senatorial District and Throughout Kentucky.

NEW YORK AND PENNSYLVANIA GO DEMOCRATIC WITH OHIO DEMOCRATIC BY 40,000.

Large Democratic Gain in Indiana and Throughout the Entire West.

Elsewhere in today's paper we give the result in the county and district of the election Tuesday and such other news throughout the State as could be gathered up to the time of going to press. In this county the entire republican county ticket was elected by majorities ranging from sixty-odd for Weldon for county clerk, to one hundred and forty-odd for Blackburn for county judge. One year ago the republicans carried the county by a rise of five hundred majority, and the great slump in their vote Tuesday shows that they had good cause for the nervousness which agitated them on the day of election. No, the republicans of Crittenden county have nothing to crow over. One more such victory would be their eternal ruin.

Another thing brought forth by the result is the fact that Dave Woods and Joe Rochester still hold their places in the affections of our people and notwithstanding the merciless use of the party lash they reduced the majorities against them several hundred votes. No, the republicans have nothing to crow over.

The glory of Press Maxwell's election to the state senate is partially dimmed by the unwarranted and criminal defeat of that gallant young democrat, Thomas H. Cochran, for the legislature, by the democratic voters of his native county. This is a blot upon them which time will wipe out but slowly.

So far from being discouraged by the result of Tuesday's balloting, the democratic party rejoices at the vast inroads made in the enemy's ranks and with lines strengthened, again calmly awaits their onset.

The democracy of Caldwell county made a gallant fight on Tuesday and pulled that county over again onto the democratic side of the line. The following are the county officers elected:

County Judge: Claimed by both Black and Blalock; Clerk, R. L. Gresham; Attorney, Baker; Sheriff, Lamb; School Supt., Miss Catlett; Jailor, Wm Smith; Assessor, W. G. Throgmorton; Coronor, in doubt.

Paducah, Nov. 8.--Election day in Paducah dawned clear and bright. The votes polled in the county were unusually heavy this morning owing to the fact that so much interest has been aroused in the local situation.

The vote on the constitutional amendment to return to the old and better system of voting viva voce has aroused much interest and it seems that the measure will carry in McCracken county by a large majority.

Oyster Bay, Nov. 7.--President Roosevelt arrived this morning and went direct to the polling booth and called his ballot. He returned to the train immediately and started for Washington. The president shook hands with the citizens.

Louisville, Ky., Nov. 7.--When the polls closed at 4 o'clock, this afternoon the regular democratic organization was claiming the election of Paul C. Barth for mayor and the entire democratic ticket, by majorities ranging from 4,000 to 7,000. The democrats saw that every registered voter was sent to the polls but the Fusionists seem to have neglected to bring their voters out, even with all their automobile and carriage accommodations.

On Trial for His Life.

New Madrid, Mo., Nov. 4.--Arthur Miller, a well known young man of Calloway county, is on trial today for his life in the criminal court at New Madrid, Mo., and the jury will probably be given the case in the morning.

Miller is charged with the murder of Richard LaPlant, a prominent farmer near New Madrid, who was killed by Miller about two years ago. The tragedy is said to have occurred over questions concerning the wife of LaPlant. Mr. Miller is defended by Pete Seay, a well known criminal lawyer of Mayfield.

The plurality of Berry, Democrat, for state treasurer will be nearly 100,000.

The contest in Philadelphia, under the leadership of Mayor Weaver, resulted in the reform ticket sweeping the city by 50,000.

Louisville, Nov. 8.--Rives, Democrat, was elected senator in Hopkins and Christian by 300 majority. Wilson for representative wins in Hopkins.

Louisville, Ky, Nov. 8.--The returns from Breathitt show Judge Hargis and his entire ticket are defeated. Barth's majority in this city for Mayor is about 5,000. Letterlee, democrat, was defeated for the legislature. All the other democratic candidates won.

Columbus, Ohio, Nov. 8.--That John M. Patterson, democrat, is elected Governor for the next three years by a majority running well above forty thousand is well settled tonight. Also there will be a democratic working majority in both branches of the legislature. Since two years ago the republican vote in the two states of Ohio and Pennsylvania has fallen off 500,000.

At the old Frank & Loving Stand

Denman & Love have decided to have a clearing sale of Millinery Notions, beginning Tuesday Nov. 14th and continuing ten days.

Now is the time to buy while your money will get so much. $100.00 worth of ribbon at cost. Ready to wear hats 29c to 69c. Great reduction in patterns and dress hats, belts, collars, hand bags. Not going to retire from business but want to begin in time to clear away and make room for spring.

New Century Leased.

The New Century hotel at Dawson Springs has been leased for a period of five years to Mr. Leonard, of Grenada, Miss., by the owners, Threlkeld and Hayden of Livingston county.

Heretofore this hotel has only been open in the summer season, but the intention of the present management is to put in steam heat and make such other improvements as are necessary. When this is done the hotel will then be kept open all the year round and bids fair to become as popular as a winter resort as it was during the summer.--Paducah Democrat.

Card of Thanks.

We desire to extend our heart-felt thanks to all our neighbors and friends who were so kind to our dear son and brother, J. Richard Flanary, in his last illness. We will never forget these things and pray God's richest blessings on each and every one.

Mother, Brothers and Sisters.

MARKET EXPANDING,

Says R. W. Hill, Manager for Petit & Sons.

The men who handle Seattle real estate as brokers are not all pioneers in the business by any means. Many of the most prominent operators are men young in years but old in experience, and among the number is R. W. Hill, manager of the department of business properties and tide lands with Pettit & Son. Mr. Hill has turned some heavy transactions during the past month. In the three years since he entered the lists, so to speak, he has made some notable sales. As an appraiser of property values Mr. Hill is much in demand.

He came West six years ago, and after spending two years traveling over the Northwest from Chicago to Behring sea, became convinced that Puget sound is to be the center of the most rapid development of any part of the country during the next quarter of a century, and decided to make Seattle his home.

Discussing the local situation, Mr. Hill said to a reporter of the Post-Intelligencer yesterday: "The real estate market is better in every way, today than ever before. The movement is steady and the buying is conservative. There is no danger of property values becoming too high. Just like every other community the price adjusts itself, governed by the law of supply and demand."

"Rentals on Second avenue are raised by would-be tenants bidding against each other, for locations. Any adequately improved lot in our best business districts will pay 6 to 10 per cent. upon present values and is better than in most cities."

"I believe the growth of population and the increase of the volume of business in Seattle and the state of Washington, generally, will be far beyond the predictions of the most sanguine present day prophets. No state has natural resources for supporting a denser population than Washington, or greater inducements in the way of climatic conditions. Forty millions of people have been added to that part of our country lying east of the Rockies within half a century. Why, then, should not this western empire, now that its wonders are becoming known, grow at a rate unprecedented in the history of any state?"

Mr. Hill has a record of real estate sales that would make many an older broker envious. The aggregate of his sales during the last thirty days is nearly a quarter of a million dollars, the larger items of which have been mentioned in these columns, in the order of their occurrence and embrace the following:

Waltham block, about $70,000; parts of lots 7 and 8, block 337, tide lands, $15,000; lot 5 block 1, S. A. Beier's addition, $18,000; five lots, block 343, tide lands, $20,000; the Stimson corner Third and Washington, $100,000.

Periodic Pains.

Dr. Miles' Anti-Pain Pills are a most remarkable remedy for the relief of periodic pains, backache, nervous or sick headache, or any of the distressing aches and pains that cause women so much suffering.

As pain is weakening, and leaves the system in an exhausted condition, it is wrong to suffer a moment longer than necessary, and you should take the Anti-Pain Pills on first indication of an attack.

If taken as directed you may have entire confidence in their effectiveness, as well as in the fact that they will leave no disagreeable after-effects.

They contain no morphine, opium, chloral, cocaine or other dangerous drugs.

"For a long time I have suffered greatly with spells of backache, that seem almost more than I can endure. These attacks come on every month, and last two or three days. I have never been able to get anything that would give me much relief until I began the use of Dr. Miles' Anti-Pain Pills, and they always relieve me in a short time. My sister, who suffers the same way, has used them with the same results." MRS. PARK, 721 S. Michigan St., South Bend, Ind.

Dr. Miles' Anti-Pain Pills are sold by your druggist, who will guarantee that the first package will benefit. If it fails he will return your money. 25 doses, 25 cents. Never sold in bulk. Miles Medical Co., Elkhart, Ind.

A PECULIAR WEDDING.

Washington Hooks, third cousin to Dock and Sidney, was united in wholly bonds of matrimony on last Thursday just after breakfast. Wash is one of Rye Straw's rising young men, being already more than six foot tall; he has the reputation of being the best jumper in this locality, having cleared a ten rail fence just prior to being married, and has got one of the best watches ever seen in this section. He has been offered a calf and shotgun for it but shook his head. Wash becomes intoxicated and cuts up considerably sometimes, but so far has steered clear of hitting anybody he ever shot at. For the past twenty-five years Washington has been out of work, but if negotiations don't miscarry he'll put out an acre of turnips next spring. His wedding on Thursday morning was orderly and one of the quietest matrimonial affairs that ever took place in or around Hogwallow, the groom moving about in his sock feet while the deputy constable spoke the ceremony in whispers. The bride's name could not be recalled at this writing. —Hogwallow Kentuckian.

A COSTLY LESSON.

Lack of Fire Engines Causes Heavy Loss in Ohio Town.

An Ohio town had a lesson recently which it will not forget in a hurry. During a fire that started in the business section it developed that there was no organized fire department in the town and no fire engines. The only apparatus was a quantity of wornout and useless fire hose. The inhabitants were unable to quell the conflagration, and it was finally extinguished by a heavy rain after burning several hours and destroying much property.

This is a lesson which every community should heed. The best fire apparatus is expensive, but it will prove cheap in the long run. Fire organizations are likely to deteriorate through lack of interest in their work by the citizens. Salaried fire departments are luxuries which only the larger cities can afford to indulge in, so most of the work of guarding property and life from the ravages of fire devolves on volunteer fire organizations, and as a rule they have performed that duty well.

To these organizations every citizen should give hearty support and co-operation. Modern and ample apparatus should be furnished, suitable quarters provided and moral and financial aid extended whenever needed.

Many towns take great pride in their fire companies, and the best young men in the community feel it an honor to be a member of a crack fire organization. Where these conditions prevail all is well. But there are other towns, alas, where antiquated engines and old fashioned and obsolete equipment are lying in some outhouse, neglected and forgotten, and when the time comes when it shall be needed, and badly needed at that, it will be found utterly unfit for its intended purpose. Then will come regrets, but they won't restore the property destroyed.

WHEN IT WAS REALLY COLD.

Ink Froze to Pens and Boys to Wet Lapstones in These Days.

The ancient art of keeping warm in blustering winter weather was crude as practiced by the forefathers of Judge Sewell would not have complained that he was slow in recording events in his diary because his ink froze upon his pen. Nor would the colonial shoemakers have many times decided that it was too cold to make shoes, but just right to go hunting. The test of temperature was made by allowing an apprentice to sit on a wet lapstone. If he was frozen to it the weather was considered too cold to work.

Indeed, just how the people of the cold parts of this country got any comfort during the severe winter days is not apparent to the eyes of today that have looked upon the simple and curious heat producers of early times. A rare collection of these ancient fireplaces, andirons, stoves and other promoters of mercurial rises is preserved today in the Essex institute in Salem, Mass., together with much interesting information thereon.

One of these curios is a fireback from the ancestral home of Colonel Timothy Pickering, Washington's friend and secretary of war. It is of slate and looks like a gravestone. It was carved with the Pickering family crest. It was placed in the back of the fireplace, so that the burning logs would not set fire to the house.

These old fashioned fireplaces were huge affairs. Children could sit in their corners and watch the sparks chase each other toward the stars. The fireplaces and chimneys were first lined with mud, so that they would not burn, but later they were made of brick. It is a common remark that in trying to get warm at such the faces of people were roasted from the heat, while their backs froze in the drafts from the cracks in the windows and doors.

But the early forefathers were a hardy race and endured the cold wonderfully. The Puritans of Salem refused to heat their meeting houses, declaring that warmth therein "was a snake of ye wily and wicked Satan." The sturdy Puritan sires and their sons kicked their heels together when the cold stopped the circulation of their blood, and the preachers often patiently paused in their two hours' discourses to wait for everybody to become warm and stop kicking.

Women carried little foot stoves to church. These were perforated tin boxes about a foot square, into which hot embers from the family hearth were placed, and the hot stove was then taken to meeting along with the Bible.

Coal was known as early as 1637 in this country, and it was called "iron stone." But wood was far cheaper and more convenient and was most used. Peat was also utilized, as it could be obtained from many bogs.

Stoves were introduced as early as 1652, and in that year the general court of Massachusetts granted to John Clark 10 shillings for every family using his valuable invention, a stove, for a period of three years, and this grant was subsequently extended for a period of Clark's lifetime, the general court being deeply grateful for the comfort derived from his invention.

The first open front coal stoves were designed by Benjamin Franklin and were cast by James Byres & Co. in Springfield, Mass. in 1787. Franklin probably got his idea from the German stoves used in Pennsylvania. These had a hot air drum, which extended to the second story and warmed that part of the house, but the doors of many of them were outside the house, so that it was necessary to go outdoors to feed them with fuel. Franklin's invention marked the beginning of stoves for burning coal and wood which are in general use today.

These early stoves were as great blessings to the forefathers as are steam heaters today. Even the poets sang of their virtues, referring to them as "stoves which autumn of winter could make."

But today the practical man wants summer of winter made, and the various simple devices of the forefathers—the firebricks, andirons, open fireplaces and crude stoves—have been thrown into the junk heap or into the museum to make way for the modern hot air and steam heaters. —Boston Globe.

TOWN IMPROVEMENT HINTS

The best method in which a town can pave its way to success is to pave its streets and improve the highways leading therefrom.

The women of Wenatchee, Wash., have formed a local floral association and introduced plant and flower culture into many homes. The success has been so great that a midwinter fair is planned to properly exhibit flowers produced.

The parks board of Hamilton, Canada, is co-operating with the citizens of the town in the planting of shade trees on all the leading streets.

It is the poorest sort of economy to have bad sidewalks. There are many cases on record where the amount paid as the result of accidents amounted to more than enough to put the walks in good shape. Any town can well afford to bond itself for sidewalk repairs.

The Men's league of the Congregational church of Elgin, Ill., has made town improvement one of its chief objects for consideration and has taken steps toward the formation of the Elgin Public Improvement society.

There is common sense in spending your money in the community where you live.

THE PLACE OF WOMEN.

Reasons For Their Forming Improvement Leagues in All Towns

It is strange how slow men are to recognize that in all matters of practical hygiene the women are necessary. Says American Medicine. We shall never have clean cities until they undertake the job, nor shall we know how to be good national housekeepers until the private housekeepers of the nation extend their hereditary functions to public needs and duties. Before time the women are given a chance to clean up a dirty town, carry on a crusade against public disgraces and immoralities they are successful. There is at once a new order of things.

In one state the men, the eaters of meat and makers of laws, legally allowed the butchers to carry on their work in such a diseased and disgusting manner that the health and morals of the whole people were affected. One woman alone reformed and cleaned up the whole abuse and made the slaughter houses of the state models of hygienic order and decency.

Here is another instance: In Kalamazoo, Mich., the women grew tired of filthy streets and disregard of law, so they got permission to clean one street for awhile, on the same conditions as the contractor had not cleaned it. They did the work, enforced almsburying distances to wake up, demonstrated to the town that cleanliness is as easy and as cheap as filthiness, and now men and politicians of Kalamazoo who have learned their lesson and they will carry out the reform in the streets.

The movement was instituted by Mrs. Caroline Bartlett Crane, who did such marvelous work in the Michigan slaughter houses. There should be a women's civic club or town improvement league in every American town.

THURSDAY, NOV. 9, 1905.

We have met the enemy--and we are theirs.

The one bright spot on the horizon is Senator Maxwell.

The weather was all that could be wished for, but the vote was not.

Livingston county is a sorry example of the danger of "entangling alliances."

The defeat of Thomas H. Cochran in the household of his nativity has an ugly look to the outside world.

The democracy of Livingston county did the sorriest day's work of its existence when it defeated Thomas H. Cochran for the legislature. He can bear the defeat with a much better grace than they can the ignominy.

Phone 32. Marion, Ky.

William Randolph Hurst was defeated for mayor of New York by 3,000. He charges fraud and will contest.

One peculiarity of Tuesday's election was the voting of a large number of colored men in Marion for Press Maxwell in preference to Dr. Moore. Asked why they did this and you got the reply: "If we have to vote for a democrat we want one who acknowledges he is a democrat."

An unusually large vote was polled throughout the country last Tuesday, especially in the large cities. In New York W. R. Hurst is probably elected mayor on the municipal ownership ticket. In Philadelphia the reform ticket was elected by a large majority. The Democrats have carried New York, Pennsylvania, and Virginia, with Ohio doubtful. It looks like a Democratic tidal wave.

Notwithstanding the bitter fight made on Press Maxwell he carried the 4th senatorial district by a largely increased vote. His majority in Webster is 682; in Caldwell, 34; and he lost Crittenden by only 185 votes--a republican loss of some 300 from last year's poll. This splendid result is peculiarly gratifying to the friends of senator-elect Maxwell, not only as evincing his great popularity but in that it secures to the district a man who will reflect distinguished honor upon its constituency.

Hurrah for the untimely Democracy! Each mail the news comes rolling in from the East brighter and brighter. Yesterday it was that New York and Pennsylvania had gone democratic by heavy majorities, and today Ohio is claimed for the democratic column by a small majority. This great change has its meaning, and its warning to the republican party. The people are aroused and ready for change. Grafting must cease. The trusts must go. The people have so said and stamped it in letters of living light upon the wall. Again we say: hurrah for the old rooster! Who cares for a little set-back at home when the old democratic banner is waving so proudly in the East!

10,000 bushels of nice, white corn wanted for which we will pay the highest market price per bushel of 70 lbs. shucked.

Marion Milling Co., Marion, Ky.

Some of our citizens were somewhat shocked by the triumphal procession Tuesday night of the residents of Boxville and vicinity, as well as other sections of the city, with their victorious candidates for Mayor, Dr. George E. Shively, and Police Judge, Hale Walker, both mounted on one horse--an old gray one. This was just after the count of ballots had been made. We doubt not that the other candidates would have liked to have taken that ride.

A BROKEN SLATE.

The uncertainty of politics was most forcibly exemplified by the result of the recent election of our city officials. For some time it was thought that the candidates selected by both political parties would have no opposition. The meeting of a few of the less prominent citizens Wednesday evening previous to the election on Tuesday was considered of little consequence to the standard-bearer who had been selected to head the citizens ticket. Four days was thought too limited a time to exert any influence over the result. The election of the nominee of that meeting of common voters, while attesting the popularity of their candidate should at the same time argue to the gentlemen who ordinarily nominate our candidates in both parties and in city, county, state and national affairs, that they would spare themselves and their candidates the humiliation of future defeat if the people were consulted with regard to these slates.

The result of the election in many places in this state and in other states proves that there is a revolt against anything like bossism in either party. It should not be forgotten that this is a government of the people, for the people and by the people.

Milk Goats And Angoras

Milk goats are a prominent feature of the live stock industry of Europe, especially in Switzerland, Italy, Germany, Austria, France, Norway and Spain. They are peculiarly adapted to the needs of the poorer classes of those countries, and to a large extent it is this adaptability that recommends them for many localities in the United States. This is because milk, which is food and drink to all mankind, is furnished by the goat in cheap form, because for most purposes its quality is superior to cow's milk, and also because the yield of milk, when the size of the animal and amount of feed are concerned, is much greater than that of a cow.

"The present situation regarding a milk goat industry in the United States," says George F. Thompson, editor of the bureau of animal industry, "is confined largely to an awakening interest, although there are now some communities of foreigners where a considerable number of goats are kept for milk, the kids being fitted for slaughter."

"The first question that most people ask concerning this industry is, 'How much milk will a goat give?' A doe that yields less than a quart a day is not considered a good milker. If she yields two quarts a day she may be regarded as profitable, provided lactation may be maintained six or seven months. Pegler, the writer, says that a doe yielding three pints a day with her first kid need not be set aside as an indifferent animal, as she will in all probability give twice that quantity on subsequent occasions. The German literature is full of instances of goats that yield four and five quarts per day, and it appears that the average in Germany and Switzerland must be not far from three quarts. Indeed, it is stated by German writers that many goats yield ten times their body weight of milk annually and exceptional animals as much as eighteen times their weight."

The American milk goat Matita, whose picture is reproduced from the American Sheep Breeder, is owned by Mrs. Edward Roby of Chicago. Mrs. Roby has a herd of 100 milk goats.

Qualities of the Angoras.
Angora goats produce mohair of which the finest and most durable fabrics are made, consisting of fine plushes used in upholstering palace cars and fine furniture; also dress goods, fine underwear, hats and many other articles of which constant use is made. Many large manufacturers are now being erected to produce these articles from mohair.

Angora venison is most delicious meat and can now be found on the bill of fare of the best hotels. Angora goats are farm cleaners and farm reclaimers. They clean the farm of all underbrush and weeds, thereby doubling and trebling the value of lands on which they exist.—Farm Progress.

The Ideal Beef Steer.

The Iowa State Agricultural college sets forth as the analysis of an ideal beef steer the following points: A short, wide head, short neck, smoothly blended into the shoulders; broad, compact and well covered shoulders, wide, arching ribs, broad loin, deep body and long, wide hind quarters, well filled out in rump, thighs and twist; a deep, even covering of flesh-lean meat muscle—with just enough fat to marinate the flesh nicely and give it a smooth, bright external appearance; fine bone evidenced in refinement of head and limbs; pliable skin of medium thickness, with soft hair; a reasonable trimness of body, to give good dressing percentage. These points make up the profitable steer for feeder or butcher and should govern the breeder in the production of beef animals.

Sheep Notes.

No class of stock is more easily overfed than sheep.

Ticks and lice will surely head off the profits.

The sheep's change of diet should not be sudden.

The most experienced shepherd has yet much to learn.

Good show sheep are common enough; good sires, not so.

The best appearing ewe is not always the best breeder.

A fat sheep is never unsightly or a poor one beautiful.

Don't sell a cull at any price except it be to the butcher.—American Sheep Breeder.

Impoverished Soil

Impoverished soil, like impoverished blood, needs a proper fertilizer. A chemist by analyzing the soil can tell you what fertilizer to use for different products.

If your blood is impoverished your doctor will tell you what you need to fertilize it and give it the rich, red corpuscles that are lacking in it. It may be you need a tonic, but more likely you need a concentrated fat food, and fat is the element lacking in your system.

There is no fat food that is so easily digested and assimilated as Scotty was probably fatally injured tonight in an automobile wreck in the suburbs of this city. He was trying to break the local auto record, when his machine got away from him and he was hurled to the street. His back was broken and his attending physician says that the nature of the injury is such as to be almost necessarily fatal.

CUR NEW YORK WEEKLY LETTER

The Feather Boa the Craze of the Hour.
Lillian Russell's $2,000 Gown—Fashionable Fabrics For Various Purposes.
Covert Cloth a Leader in This Season's Coats.

By RENE DEVERAUX.

That the queens of stageland are potent factors in creating and influencing the trend of fashion has been forcibly demonstrated within the last few weeks by the revival and resurrection of the picturesque ostrich feather boa. Since the opening night of Bernard Shaw's new play, "Man and Superman," in which the fascinating Ann exploits the charm of this alluring accessory, every woman in New York, it would seem, has determined that one of these treasures shall encircle her throat and ensnare her admirers. At any rate, there is now a veritable craze for these neckpieces—so much so, in fact, that the shops are well nigh unable to supply the demand. And, indeed, they are bewitching in their variety of soft, dainty colors, brought out in all lengths, from the short ones which merely tie at the throat to the longer ones which hang to the skirt of the frock.

With her famous $2,000 gown, creating something of a sensation in New York this season, the popular Lillian Russell is wearing a light blue feather boa, exactly matching which is a fetching little feather muff with a blue argent directly on top. In theater boxes and fashionable restaurants feather boas fall from aristocratic shoulders or gracefully drape the backs of chairs, forcing one to acknowledge their picturesque charm.

So far every feature of fashion yet introduced emphasizes the effeminate rather than the mannish. Smart fabrics in dress materials are smooth faced, soft and clinging. Broadcloths, lightweight and supple, grow in popularity for carriage and street wear. Soft French cashmires in a variety of charming pastel shades are extensively used for house gowns and blouses, and old fashioned henriettas and drag d'etes are brought out in a dozen or more different tones of plum and violet, together with the other popular colors.

One of the smartest fabrics for practical wear is a wide, heavyweight mohair, perhaps the most serviceable dress fabric made. These are woven in stripes, checks and plaids, many of them being exact copies of French and English suitings. An exceedingly durable mohair is thickly corded, which adds to its warmth and serviceability.

For reception and evening gowns chiffon velvet and chiffon cloths lend where handsome gowns are desired, and for less expensive toilets voiles and velvets are as much worn as ever.

For trimming cloth gowns embroidery and braids are elaborately employed, gold threads being thickly interspersed throughout. Among the smartest embroidered effects in gown trimmings are those formed of an applique of large petaloid flowers slightly padded to bring out the design. The centers of these flowers are embroidered in fine French knots, their stems being outlined upon the material of which the gown is made in heavy embroidery silk. Taffeta silk bands upon which similar designs have been applied come in wide and narrow widths. Nothing is prettier for trimming the bodice of a handsome cloth gown.

On the avenue natty little tan covert cloth coats are everywhere in evidence, some in short jackets, others in three-quarter lengths and still others reaching almost to the bottom of the skirt. A smart model this season is almost a counterpart of a man's spring overcoat. This style coat is loose back and front with turned down velvet collar of tan and finished with a double row of tan horn buttons.

Covert cloth coats in loose empire effects are a trifle more dressy than the one described above, gold bullet buttons and fancy collars trimming many of these.

Occasionally one sees a smart blue coat fastened with army buttons and finished with crimson cloth collar and cuffs.

EDUCATIONAL.

The strategic point in any educational system is the teacher. We may have a good school in a woodshed with furniture and without apparatus. The Great Teacher taught on the mountain side. But a good school, even in a gilded palace, is an utter impossibility without a good teacher. The teacher for the most part makes the atmosphere of the school, and in a large measure moulds the public sentiment of the community. Next to the parent he has most to win the formation of the habits of his pupils. And often he has more to do than both parents and pastor, with the direction of their thoughts and the formation of their ideals. Fortunate indeed is the student who finds during his whole school life one really, great, wholesome and inspiring teacher.

"One intelligent, live and enthusiastic teacher can revolutionize a whole country, and build a monument that will endure as long as appreciative hearts and growing minds endure."—State Supt. O. B. Martin, of S. C.

One of the prime requisites of a good teacher is scholarship, but all good scholars are not good teachers, no more than all good scholars are not good preachers, good lawyers or good business men. For all other professions, and many business vocations special preparation and practical training in the complex details of the work are required to insure success. This requirement is made of the teacher in all the leading educational states. In fact Kentucky is the only state in the union, save one, that does not maintain a system of State Normal schools for the professional training of teachers. The other state which does not sustain such schools is Delaware. But Delaware, being a very small state has an arrangement with the State Normal Schools of two adjoining states which enables her to give her teachers professional training. This leaves Kentucky decidedly in the rear in this most important duty.

Illinois spends a quarter of a million dollars annually in maintaining her five State Normal schools. Missouri has three of these institutions, but the last legislature established two more, and appointed a committee to locate them. All the other adjoining states have State Normal schools. Why should Kentucky, the richest and the best of them all in natural resources, in men and women, in everything, be the hindmost in educational facilities? We prognosticate that the crowning work of the next General Assembly will be the "Educational Legislation". The trend of public sentiment is decidedly in the direction of Normal training schools for our teachers.

The fourth State Development which was in session at the Galt House, Louisville, Oct. 10, 11 & 12, 1905, passed the following resolutions.

"Resolved, That in order to better fit the great mass of our public school teachers for the arduous duties imposed upon them, we recommend the extension of our common school system by the establishment of an efficient system of State Normal Schools, and earnestly commend consideration, on this subject to the next General Assembly."

The Kentucky Educational Association which was in session at the Mammoth Cave June 21, 22, 23, 1905, passed the following resolution.

"Resolved, That this Association commit itself unreservedly to the creation of a system of Normal State schools and that we second in every way the efforts of the Educational Improvement Commission to secure such schools by enactment of the next General Assembly."

Similar resolutions have been passed by the public school teachers in every county in Kentucky, annually for the past two or three years. Over 5,000 teachers have placed themselves on record as in favor of this educational advance. Many educational progressive business men have espoused the cause, and it is to be hoped that the whole people will become interested in the matter of professional training of public school teachers.

The best school house is the best equipment and the best teacher is none too good for the poorest and the raggedest boy or girl in the rudest log hut in Kentucky.

It should be remembered that a Normal school can not do the best work without a Practical Department in which actual teaching is done. Kentucky ought to be satisfied with nothing but the best.

On this subject Francis W. Parker, of the Chicago Normal school, and the greatest teacher of pedagogy in his time, says:

"A professional training school for teachers is an impossibility without the essential means of training teachers, to wit: a practice school, consisting of all the common grades. A school of chemistry without a laboratory, a medical school, without a dissecting room, a manual training school without tools or material, are just as practicable as a normal school vice a school for practice. Knowledge and mental power are of the first importance; theory is indispensable in any professional work, but after all, the great art of teaching can only be acquired by teaching itself.

In Time of Peace.

In the first months of the Russia-Japan war we had a striking example of the necessity for preparation and the early advantage of those, so to speak, "have shingled their roofs in dry weather." The virtue of preparation has made history and given to us our greatest men. The individual as well as the nation should be prepared for any emergency. Are you prepared to successfully combat the first cold you take? A cold can be cured much more quickly when treated as soon as it has been contracted and before it has become settled in the system. Chamberlain's Cough Remedy is famous for its cures of colds and it should be kept at hand ready for instant use. For sale by Woods & Orme, leading druggists in Western Kentucky.

General Business Outlook.

There is genuine confidence in the soundness of the general business situation throughout the country at large, but with all the extraordinary industrial activity prevailing there is a disposition among level headed people to observe a conservative policy as a safe principle to follow. The greater demand for money is reflected in the leading financial markets of this country and Europe. Capital in large volume is required for the moving of the season's crops, but when this is completed cash will come flowing back from the west. The pronounced absorption of capital is proof of the great development taking place in the business world and the flourishing conditions existing. Trade and commerce are passing through a period of wonderful expansion, and and wise foresight will serve to prolong the duration of the present remarkable prosperity.

HELPS TO STUDY.

If Christ came to redeem man from the curse of the law, he must keep the law, ceremonial and all; for Christ himself had said, "One jot or one tittle shall in no wise pass from the law, till all be fulfilled." Again he said to John when he came to him for baptism, and John forbade him, "Suffer it to be so now; for thus it becometh us to fulfill all righteousness."

At the end of forty days, according to Jewish ceremonial law, Christ was presented in the temple for redemption of the first-born. (Num. 18:14-16.) and Mary presented herself for the ceremony of purification. (Read Lev. xii chapter.) The offering Mary brought shows that she was poor. All but the poor should bring a lamb; the poor would be excused with two young pigeons or two turtle-doves.

There were devout people, living under the influence of the Holy Spirit and longing for the coming of Christ. Such were Simeon and Anna. Guided by the Holy Spirit, Simeon came into the temple just in time to see Jesus. He took the child in his arms and blessed him in prophetic announcement of his work in the world. His Nunc Dimittis, which is the Latin for "Now let thy servant depart," is a beautiful effusion of a pious heart. Christ was to be a revealer (v. 35.) Some in Israel should accept him and some reject him. The sword that should pierce Mary's soul would be to see her sweet and innocent son die the shameful death of the cross. Anna, a most devout and saintly lady, came in at that time, and burst forth in the same prophetic strains.

Luke says that they returned to Nazareth. He evidently omitted all the events contained in Matt. II. After these events he did return to Nazareth. But from the temple he certainly returned to Bethlehem.

The wise men, or magi, were men learned in the occult sciences of the oriental empires. Tradition says that there were three and that their names were Balthazar, Casper and Melchior. Possibly they had come from Assyria, 700 or 800 miles from Jerusalem. They surely were conversant with the facts of Jewish Scripture in order to know anything of the "King of the Jews." A supernatural star had guided them. Their announcement in Jerusalem set the scribes and chief priests in a flutter to look up the old prophecies. (Mic. 5:2; Ju. 7:40-42.) While Herod the Great, was trembling on the verge of the grave, this news set his heart palpitating for fear of a usurper. The wise men went on their way, found Jesus, and worshipped him. Supernatural manifestations followed thick and fast to protect the child Jesus. This did not prevent the outburst of Herod's wrath upon the innocents of Bethlehem. Thus, in less than one month before his death, he imbued his hands in the blood of infants, and added another horrid crime to the long list that had bedewed his hands in crimson gore.

Matthew wrote the first Gospel, doubtless before A. D., 50. His name (see Mt. 9:9; Mk. 2:14.) He was a tax-gather. How they were regarded (Mt. 11:19; Lk. 18:11; 19:2, 5, 7.) Why they were unpopular. a. The tax was paid to a foreign power. b. They were both assessors and collectors and were thus unrestricted. c. Many of them were dishonest, rapacious and extortioners. Matthew wrote for the Jews. He gives 65 quotations from the O. T. He takes for granted that his readers are familiar with the Jewish sects and customs. Matthew is methodical in his Gospel, grouping parables, miracles, etc. He gives the discourses of Christ. He presents Christ as the Messiah of Israel. He aims to show that Jesus of Nazareth fulfilled the prophecies and came as the long expected "Consolation of Israel."

Bethlehem is beautifully situated, about five miles southwest of Jerusalem, on the side and the summit of a semi-circle of hills. All about it are olive groves and vineyards, pasture lands and grain fields. It means "House of Bread." Today it has about 8000 inhabitants, most of whom are Greek Christians, and contains several schools for boys and girls. Its most celebrated building is the Church of Nativity, built over the cave, once used as a stable, in which tradition declares Jesus was born.

OUR NEW YORK WEEKLY LETTER

A season of Gold and Dazzling Spangles—Gold Trimmed Hats, Blouses and Coats—Gold Buttons, Gold Girdles and Gold Interlinings—Circular Skirts the Newest Shape—Plateau Felts, Bent and Fluted.

By RENE DEVERAUX.

This is certainly a season of gold and glitter. Never before has there been so lavish an employment of gold and silver and sparkling spangles in the trimming of hats, wraps, gowns, coats and suits. Everywhere the most somber shades are lightened with a touch of gold.

Many of the long coats in dark blues and blacks are adorned with double rows of dull gold buttons. Soft evening wraps are piped with cloth of gold, effectively combined with velvet in black and rich shades, and embroidered trimmings and waistcoats, which the Directoire vogue has so much popularized, show through their designs glistening threads of burnished gold.

Hats of velvet and French felt are ornamented with bands of gold, some of the more dressy affairs for evening and theater wear showing a profusion of gold and silver roses. Combined with tulle boas are tiny inner ruffles of gold or silver, their narrow gold or silver streamers, two or three on each side, falling almost to the hem of the gown in front.

Through the meshes of lace robes, both black and white, shimmers a cloth as with other costumes, gold girdles and gold stocks are exceedingly effective, adding a new note both striking and artistic.

In spite of such elaboration in trimmings, skirts as a rule are severely plain. Particularly is this true of the separate skirt for practical purposes. This skirt, which is becoming more and more popular, closely resembles an abbreviated riding habit. The smartest of these are fastened directly in front underneath a double slotted seam. A corresponding seam is down the center of the back, not a plait or a gather to be seen anywhere. Narrow hems, tailor stitched, usually finish these skirts at the bottom.

This same model was seen in a nearly invisible green and brown plaid. In plaids the circular sides are decidedly bias in effect, and the flare at the bottom is in graceful ripples. When one may find a skirt of this description of handsome material splendidly tailored ranging in price from $10 to $15, it seems a waste of time to consider making.

As the season advances, hats are becoming more and more bent and mashed, and wings, if possible, larger and more pointed. Felt plateaus are bent in every conceivable shape, rippling around the face or turned up all around in many little flutes and angles. As a trimming for these, velvet is used extensively, exceedingly high of gold interlining, and elaborate belts and girdles are fashioned of plain gold and embroidered stuffs in many new and fashionable weaves.

For dark cloth suits there are thickly embroidered bands in Persian effects through which metallic threads or a very fine gold cord is interspersed, and much of the chemise embroidery used for similar purposes is interwoven slightly with gold thread or has embroidered stitches in gold worked up on it.

One scarcely meets a child these days whose jaunty little coat or jacket is not fastened or trimmed with gold buttons and gold buckles.

Bodices and blouses made of piece lace dyed to match the shade of the velvet or cloth skirts with which they are to be worn are soft and becoming and easily made. With these, as well as with other costumes, gold girdles and gold stocks are exceedingly effective, adding a new note both striking and artistic.

LION AS "FIGHTING EDITOR"

Indiana Man Training One to Take Care of Undesirable Visitors.

Clarence P. Wolfe, editor of a newspaper at New Harmony, Ind., proposes to put a lion on guard in his office to be the "fighting editor" in the event of any fighting having to be done, says a New Harmony dispatch. The lion is far from being tame, but Mr. Wolfe hopes he can train it to be docile as far as he is concerned.

While a circus was at New Harmony a few days ago a cage containing the lion was blown over in a storm, and the animal was badly injured. The circus manager could not take it with him, and Mr. Wolfe bought it for a mere song.

He says he will expect it to "take care" of persons who come to the office to object when the paper contains something which they do not like.

Vegetated Calomel never salivates.

Auto Strikes Pole.

Frankfort, Ky., April 28.—A heavy auto car driven by Emerson Cochran of Lexington, while running at a high rate of speed, crashed into a telephone pole on the Frankfort and Lexington turnpike, and three of the occupants were injured. Lewis Combs, who occupied a seat with Cochran, sustained a fracture of the skull and received internal injuries, which will prove fatal.

Sawmill Burns.

White Springs, Fla., April 28.—The sawmill of R. J. & B. F. Camp, one of the largest concerns of the kind in Florida, was burned here, with the dry kiln, veneering mill, commissary and 2,000,000 feet of lumber. The fire spread to neighboring houses and several of them were destroyed. The loss will reach at least $250,000.

Linevitch's Dispatch.

St. Petersburg, May 1.—General Linevitch, in a message to Emperor Nicholas, says: "Two Russian forces the night of April 29 simultaneously attacked the Japanese near the town of Tungshuang, driving them from five consecutive positions and occupying Tungshuang."
