PADUCAH HOME TELEPHONE CO.

Which Absorbed People's Independent

TO IMPROVE LOCAL SYSTEM

And Install Metallic Service-Entire Reconstruction, New Exchange and Drop Board.

A PADUCAH-MARION-HENDERSON LINE.

Monday morning the Paducah Home Telephone Company which recently absorbed the Independent Peoples' Telephone Company began the reconstruction of the local system, under the direction and management of Chas. Chandler, of Paducah. Mr. Chandler is now working with a crew of about thirty men digging new holes and setting new poles. New poles will be set all over the city and new arms and wires will be used entirely. A car load or two of material has already arrived and the work of reconstruction will be pushed rapidly to completion but at the least it will take six weeks or more to complete the work of reconstruction which will necessitate an outlay of about $3000 for labor here.

Several large cables are to be put in which will carry from 100 to 500 wires. The new company's local exchange office, as announced in these columns several weeks ago, will be in the James office building on Bank street. All cables will, of course, start at this point. One that carries a great number of wires will pass up Bank street to Main street and out to Salem and Belleville street. Here it will be divided into three smaller cables. One will extend down Salem street to Coon road, one down Belleville street across the railroad to Kevil street and the other will continue on Main street to its intersection with Poplar street and a large cable will leave the central office and pass up Bank street to Main and pass down Main to Gum street. In the same manner a third cable will pass down Main street to Depot street and then will pass down Depot to the intersection of Depot and College. Still another cable will pass down Bank street to College and up College to Belleville.

The Paducah Home Company will in all probability expend something between $15000 and $20000 in improving the local system. The system they install will be a metallic one throughout, while heretofore we have had only the ordinary ground system. The drop board alone will cost about $3500.

It is needless for us to say that the citizens of new and greater Marion will appreciate the advantages such a telephone system will give, and that it will be first-class in every respect, we do not doubt. Already the Paducah Home Company is constructing a new line from Paducah to Marion and which will be extended to Henderson and possibly further via Clay, Seebree, etc. The company is also reconstructing the Clay exchange, as here, and it has two forces working on the Paducah Marion-Henderson line. One crew is below Salem coming this way, and the other is working in the vicinity of Clay. E. E. McConnell, of Paducah, the company's treasurer, was here this week enroute to Clay and he will make trips regularly to see how the work is progressing along the line and will stimulate the work by carrying the pay roll with him.

The patronage the section will afford justifies the improvements the Paducah Home Company is making and all the people in this section are gratified at the movements that are being made. Besides a manager and several linemen the local system already requires two day operators and one night operator at the drop board, but after the completion of the new service, extra help in the central office may be required.

City Council Meets.

The city council met Tuesday at the court house in regular session. It was agreed that the night watchman should be continued during the remainder of the term of the present council. The usual claims were allowed and one ordinance was passed.

Among other matters of minor importance the minutes of the October meeting were corrected and entry was made, showing that an order passed for the building of a stone crossing on Bank street. The crossing will be put in almost opposite the entrance to the new hotel building. This will be very convenient for the passing public, especially the school children who pass this way and wish to cross the street in muddy weather to get to the post-office. When it is considered that something like 300 to 400 children pass this way two times a day or more, it may be realized how much mud can be carried on their feet to the pavement on the opposite side and again it will readily be seen that the stone crossing put in at this point will place all business houses on the north side of Bank street on an equal, as it will provide that all alike may have a convenient means of pedestrian approach, both from east and west.

Before the council adjourned, Mayor Blue, in his characteristic style of dry wit, directed the city clerk to enter an order on the minutes to the effect that since the question to vote water works bonds lost, that said bonds be not issued.

License were granted C. E. Doss to run a bowling alley.

WEDDING BELLS MERRILY RING

And Cupid Makes His Presence Felt By Some of the Young People of Our Little City.

Beautiful beyond description was the wedding ceremony of Mr. Albert F. Crider and Miss Rosa Rhea Kevil Wednesday morning at 10 o'clock at the Cumberland Presbyterian church in this city.

Nothing was left undone that could have added to the beauty and sanctity of the scene or ceremony. Beauty, flowers and music were there—those three things that bring us as near heaven as is possible, on earth.

As the soft melody of Lohengrin's bridal chorus floated gently away, the ushers, Dr. R. J. Morris and Kay K. Kevil entered from opposite aisles, followed by the bride's maids, Miss Helen Madara, of Wichita, Kan., and Miss Katherine Moore, of this city. They were followed by the maid of honor, Miss Sallie Woods, and little Miss Francis Woods, of Decatur, Ill., the ring bearer.

Dr. David C. Maddox, of Nashville, Tenn., and the groom, then entered from the left aisle, and the bride, radiant and beautiful, leaning on the arm of her brother, David B. Kevil, entered from the opposite aisle.

The bride and groom met at the altar, and Rev. T. A. Conway, pastor of the Baptist church, repeated the beautiful old Episcopal service which made them man and wife, through the trembling notes of "Angel Serenade" played on the Italian harp by Mrs. S. M. Jenkins.

As the bridal party slowly left the church, the great organ played the familiar strains of "Mendelssohn's Wedding March."

Everything was indescribably beautiful. It was like a dream of paradise—a glimpse of heaven on earth.

The bride wore a clinging gown of point despit and real lace. Her veil was caught up with a cluster of orange blossoms.

The maid of honor, Miss Sallie Woods, wore a pink mull and a large pink hat.

Miss Katherine Moore, one of the bride's maids, wore a white net and a large pink hat.

Miss Madara, the other bride's maid, wore a dress beautiful in texture and style, woven from the fibres of a pineapple and a large pink hat.

The groom and his attendants wore the conventional suit of black.

The altar was a solid bank of white and lavender potted chrysanthemums, interspersed with ferns and palms. The organ was covered with a mass of ferns and smilax as was the arch over the altar.

The presents were many, rare and beautiful, consisting of silver, cut glass, hand painted china and hand embroidery.

The bride's going away gown was green with hat to match.

The happy couple left on the 11:15 train for Washington, D. C., amidst the hearty congratulations of their many friends, showers of rice and old shoes.

MARION BANK NOW OCCUPIED

New Structure a Modern and Elegant Affair

ALL MODERN CONVENIENCES

Office Suites on Second Floor Occupied by Attorney A. C. Moore and Dr. R. J. Morris.

FINEST BANK IN WESTERN KENTUCKY

The officers and patrons of the Marion Bank are rapidly adapting themselves to its new and elegant quarters. The new building, which is about ten feet wider than the former one, stands on the old site, on the northeast corner of Main and Bank streets. The new structure is a piece of splendid modern architecture, and the workmanship, which was done under the personal direction of Mr. McGraw, of the firm Mundo & McGraw, Henderson contractors, is first-class in every particular. The structure, which is built of cream pressed brick, complete, including furniture, fixtures and steam heating plant, cost $9,000. The main entrance, which is on Main street, shows a display of elegant taste as does the interior, as well as the building throughout, and especially the three suites of office rooms on the second floor. When the city becomes modern in that it will have and maintain a good system of water works, this building will not lack in any respect as means for proper plumbing. Toilet rooms, etc., have all been provided for in the construction. The ventilation is perfect and the light shaft permits a passage for rays of light to the remotest corners.

The bank was moved into this beautiful and permanent home on the 6th of this month and it bade adieu to its temporary quarters in the court house

COMPLIMENTS TO JUDGE BLACKBURN

Louisville Papers Throw Boquets at the New County Judge of Crittenden County.

The election of Walter Blackburn as County Judge in Crittenden county, renders it necessary for him to resign as chief deputy in the office of United States Marshal A. D. James. This he will do in a short time. Judge Blackburn will assume the duties as Judge January 1.

As chief deputy in the office of the United States Marshal he received a yearly salary of $1800. Marshal James declined to say to-day who would be named for the place. Deputy Marshal William Blades will probably be promoted.

Marshal James paid a high compliment to the ability of Judge Blackburn. He filled the position for eight and one-half years. Judge Blackburn's majority in the judgeship race was 158. His opponent was J. G. Rochester, who had served as Judge of the Crittenden county Court.—Louisville Times.

Walter Blackburn, chief deputy in the office of United States Marshal A. D. James, is in this city after a hard-fought, but successful, battle for the office of County Judge in Crittenden county. He will remain here several days.

Mr. Blackburn has not yet handed in his resignation as deputy under Dr. James, and probably will not do so for a week or two. No successor has been selected by Dr. James. Mr. Blackburn will not enter upon the discharge of his duties until January 1.—Evening Post.

Wanted.

Gentleman or lady with good reference, to travel by rail or with a rig. Salary $1,072 per year and expenses paid; salary paid weekly and expenses advanced. Address, with stamp, JOS. A. ALEXANDER, Marion, Ky.

yard. The bank apartments on the first floor display an idea of superior taste and elegance. Upon entering these apartments one passes up the steps in front and between two massive stone columns into the lobby. The lobby has about 350 feet of floor space, the floor being laid with tile in concrete. To the left is the office of the president with a lobby entrance, in front is Cashier T. J. Yandell's window, while the assistant cashier or teller's window is farther on. To the right is the customers' wall desk, and in the corner at the right is a beautiful quarter-sawn oak bench, where those who desire in waiting may sit in repose.

The furniture is of the most elegant quarter sawed oak patterns. The counter bank bars have an oxidized bronze finish and convey beauty and strength at a glance. The vault, the outside dimensions of which are 18x18 feet, stands to the rear of the cashier and teller's desk, leaving about 400 square feet of floor space, covered with heavy linoleum, for the accommodation of the business transacted behind the bank counters. In the rear of the banking room is an apartment for the holding of directors' meetings. Near the center of this is a double sliding door which will enable the officers to convert this apartment into two separate rooms if they so desire. In this apartment as well as the banking room, is a grate surrounded by the most artistic eiken mantel piece.

Attorney A. C. Moore and Dr. R. J. Morris occupy suits of office rooms on the second floor in approximately the same locations as they occupied in the old building before the fire. These gentlemen have their offices elegantly furnished and they are well lighted and fitted in every respect to accommodate the splendid and deserving patronage which these men enjoy. A. C. Moore is the oldest tenant, (not from the stand point of age, however, as he is yet young and active) that Marion Bank has, and his clients from any part of the state know just where to find him when they come to Marion. But Dr. Morris has always had his permanent office in the Marion bank building since he came to Marion several years ago. The Marion bank now has a home in keeping with its business standing and integrity, and it is one of the old and permanent institutions of the city that has helped to give the city a name abroad. This new structure, as with some of the other structures that have arisen since the fire, is a pride to the entire community.

FARMERS' CLUB MEETS HERE

Lasting Two Days and Much Interest Is Taken

BY FARMERS OF THE COUNTY

State Furnished Lecturers Well Posted on Vital and Timely Issues.

BI-COUNTY FAIR COMMITTEE TO MEET

The Crittenden County Farmers' Institute was held here Monday and Tuesday of this week in the court house. Monday being county court day the institute was unusually well attended by the farmers from all over the county. Christian, Shelby, Woodford and adjoining counties were also represented. Assistant Commissioner of Agriculture R. C. Crenshaw was present and made quite an interesting talk on alfalfa and the leguminous crops.

This is the first institute that has been held since the association was established here about three months ago.

The welcome address was delivered by Mayor J. W. Blue and was responded to by Col. Thos. W. Scott, of Woodford county. The program was then taken up and discussed in its regular order. The subject of grass and how to secure a stand was ably discussed by Eli Nunn, of this county. Mr. Nunn's remarks were appropriate and very much appreciated. Sheep raising was discussed by Jas. B. Carter, of this county, and J. R. Farris, of Salem, a member of the Livingston County Farmers' Club. J. P. Pierce, of Marion, discussed the subject of stock peas and explained how he grew some of the finest peas grown in the county on his farm near this city. Corn culture and improved methods of seed corn selection were very ably discussed by Felix Cox, of this county, and Prof. W. H. Sherflus, of the State Experiment Station at Lexington. Col. Thos. W. Scott, of Woodford county, gave some very practical points on the subject of hog raising, and raising cattle for profit was very ably discussed by J. W. Blue. J. W. Walker a very successful farmer of Christian county, discussed the subject of wheat culture and gave some very useful facts. He resides in South Christian, which is one of the very finest wheat sections in the state. Prof. W. H. Sherflus also discussed the subject of commercial fertilizer from the standpoint of how to determine their value and how to secure best fertilizer by farms in different sections. He discussed the subject from a scientific standpoint but many practical points were devolved from his talk. Mr. M. Frisby, of this city, formerly a native of Pennsylvania, made a most interesting talk on the subject of small fruits. C. M. Hanna, of Shelby county, who has had considerable experience in road making, made a most interesting talk on that subject. He said that if the people here desired it the commissioner of agriculture would send him back and have a practical demonstration of building and macadamizing roads on the most durable and economical plan. He said that the people should become interested in the subject of road building and that country and townspeople should alike agitate and work for the best possible results.

Mr. Walker, of Christian county, also made an interesting talk on the subject of restoring worn lands to a state of fertility, which concluded the program of the two days' session of the institute. Messrs. Scott, Walker, Hanna, Sherflus and Crenshaw were sent here at the expense of the state to meet with the farmers and help them in every possible way. This being the first institute held by the Crittenden County Farmers' Club, these men expressed themselves as being highly pleased with the interest taken in the meeting. They went from here to Livingston county, where an institute will be held at Good Hope. Commissioner Vreeland being away in Washington, was unable to attend the meeting.

At the request of J. R. Farris, of the Livingston County Farmers' Club, a committee composed of A. H. Cardin, Eli Nunn, Felix Cox, C. W. Fox, J. F. Conger, Judson Bennett was appointed to confer with a like committee of that county relative to the organization of a bi-county fair.

Here All Next Week.

The Stevens Company will begin a week's engagement at the Marion Opera House Monday night, Nov. 20.

The company is one of the strongest repertoire organizations on the road, producing some such tremendous metropolitan successes as "Human Hearts," "Thelma," "Black Flag," "On the Stake of Ten," "Devil's Web," etc., all beautifully costumed and carefully produced. Refined but side-splitting specialties are introduced between acts, making the performance continual—not a dull moment from the rise to the fall of the curtain.

Ladies will be admitted free Monday night when accompanied by one paid reserve-seat ticket. Popular prices, 10, 20 and 30 cents, will prevail during the week. Seats on sale Friday morning.

ORIENTAL LIMITED OF THE GREAT NORTHERN

Fit for a King—Greatest Luxury of Travel Afforded—Compartment Observation Library Car.

The greatest luxury of travel is afforded by the "Oriental Limited" of the Great Northern Railway. A distinctive feature of this train is the new compartment observation library car. In the construction of these cars the purpose in view has been to furnish the traveling public with every comfort and luxury which they could secure at a first-class hotel or at their club. Ease, elegance and excellence is the combination sought and obtained in the building of these cars. The observation rooms of these cars are finished in vermillion wood and the chairs are upholstered in green leather, the remainder of the furnishings being in harmony with the general color scheme. The card room is finished in English oak with green leather seat coverings. The four state rooms which are unusually roomy, are finished in mahogany, coco, vermillion and tauquin, while the furnishings are olive, reddish rose, green and maroon plush, in the order named. The drawing room is finished in mahogany and all furnishings are golden brown plush.

The rear half of these cars is devoted to the observation room, handsomely furnished with easy chairs, writing desks, etc. Wide plate glass windows afford an unobstructed view of the surrounding country. Those who enjoy being in the open air will find comfortable seats on the protected rear platform.

Current periodicals, a branch of the Booklovers library and the latest newspapers obtainable at starting point and en route as provided in these cars. This car also contains a spacious card room with a well stocked buffet, nicely furnished and pleasingly arranged for the comfort and convenience of the passenger.

A good meal enhances all the pleasure of a journey, a poor one destroys it. It is safe to say that of this important feature of modern train equipment, the Great Northern Railway has established a standard for excellence which helps make an overland journey something to anticipate. All meals served a la carte.

FIVE HUNDRED DOLLAR REWARD

Offered by the Governor For a Man Who Escaped From the Hopkinsville Asylum.

Frankfort, Ky., Nov. 11.—Governor Beckham has offered a reward of $500 for the apprehension of George R. Warner, the Louisville murderer, who made his escape from the Western Insane Asylum at Hopkinsville. If captured Warner is to be delivered to the superintendent of the asylum. The reward was recommended by Judge Joseph Pryor, of the Jefferson Criminal Court.

WANTED—A bushel or two of good hickory nuts and a bushel of nicely hulled walnuts, call at RECORD office.

CLEARING THE WOODLAND FARM.

A woodland farm, one from which the best of the timber has been removed, can often be bought at a low price. Such a farm is usually covered with stumps, brush and scattering trees too worthless to use for lumber, cord wood or railway ties. We are asked as to the most economical method of clearing up and subdividing such a farm with the end in view of making it good pasture or arable land. The question of time allowed for this work cuts a big figure. If the land must be cleared as soon as possible, the old expensive and laborious plan of brushing, burning and stump pulling must be resorted to, but if one is not in a hurry and can wait a few years there is a much easier and far less expensive way. This is by stocking and pasturing the tract with cattle and sheep for a few years, the only hard work done on the tract being the cutting and removal of the young and growing trees. Such land should be seeded down with tame grasses—timothy and white and red clover—and be heavily pastured—that is, enough stock should be run on the land to keep it closely fed off. Used in this manner about ten years there will be not much left on it to prevent its cultivation save some stumps, which, with the exception of the conifers, will have so decayed that they may be very easily removed. We have found that to log, burn and clear such land in one year will cost not far from $25 per acre, or twice what such land may be bought for. In the other way this cost of clearing is mostly eliminated and the land made to return a good rate of interest on the investment from the start.

WILL CORN BE CHEAP AGAIN?

We are asked whether it is likely that the western country will ever have to meet a condition again where corn will sell for 12 or 15 cents per bushel. We think not. The days of cheap corn are past. The value of corn as a food for both man and beast is becoming so well understood in foreign countries that whenever the price gets down below 40 cents at New York there immediately springs up a very large export demand for the cereal. New uses are constantly being found for this valuable corn plant, and each year some new product is being evolved from it, and it today serves as a raw material out of which is produced a wonderful list of necessities and luxuries for use of the world at large. We regard any soil which with proper care will produce sixty bushels of corn to the acre as really the most valuable agricultural land that we have in the United States. There are great possibilities connected with the improvement of not only the variety of corn raised, but also in connection with better methods and increasing yields. The time is coming, and is not far away either, when a man will be ashamed to admit that he has raised a crop of thirty-three bushels of corn to the acre, and yet this is represented as the average yield of some of the corn growing states. When we consider that it is possible for an acre of ground properly treated to produce 200 bushels of corn, it would seem as though there were marvelous opportunities for the enterprising corn grower to improve his present methods.

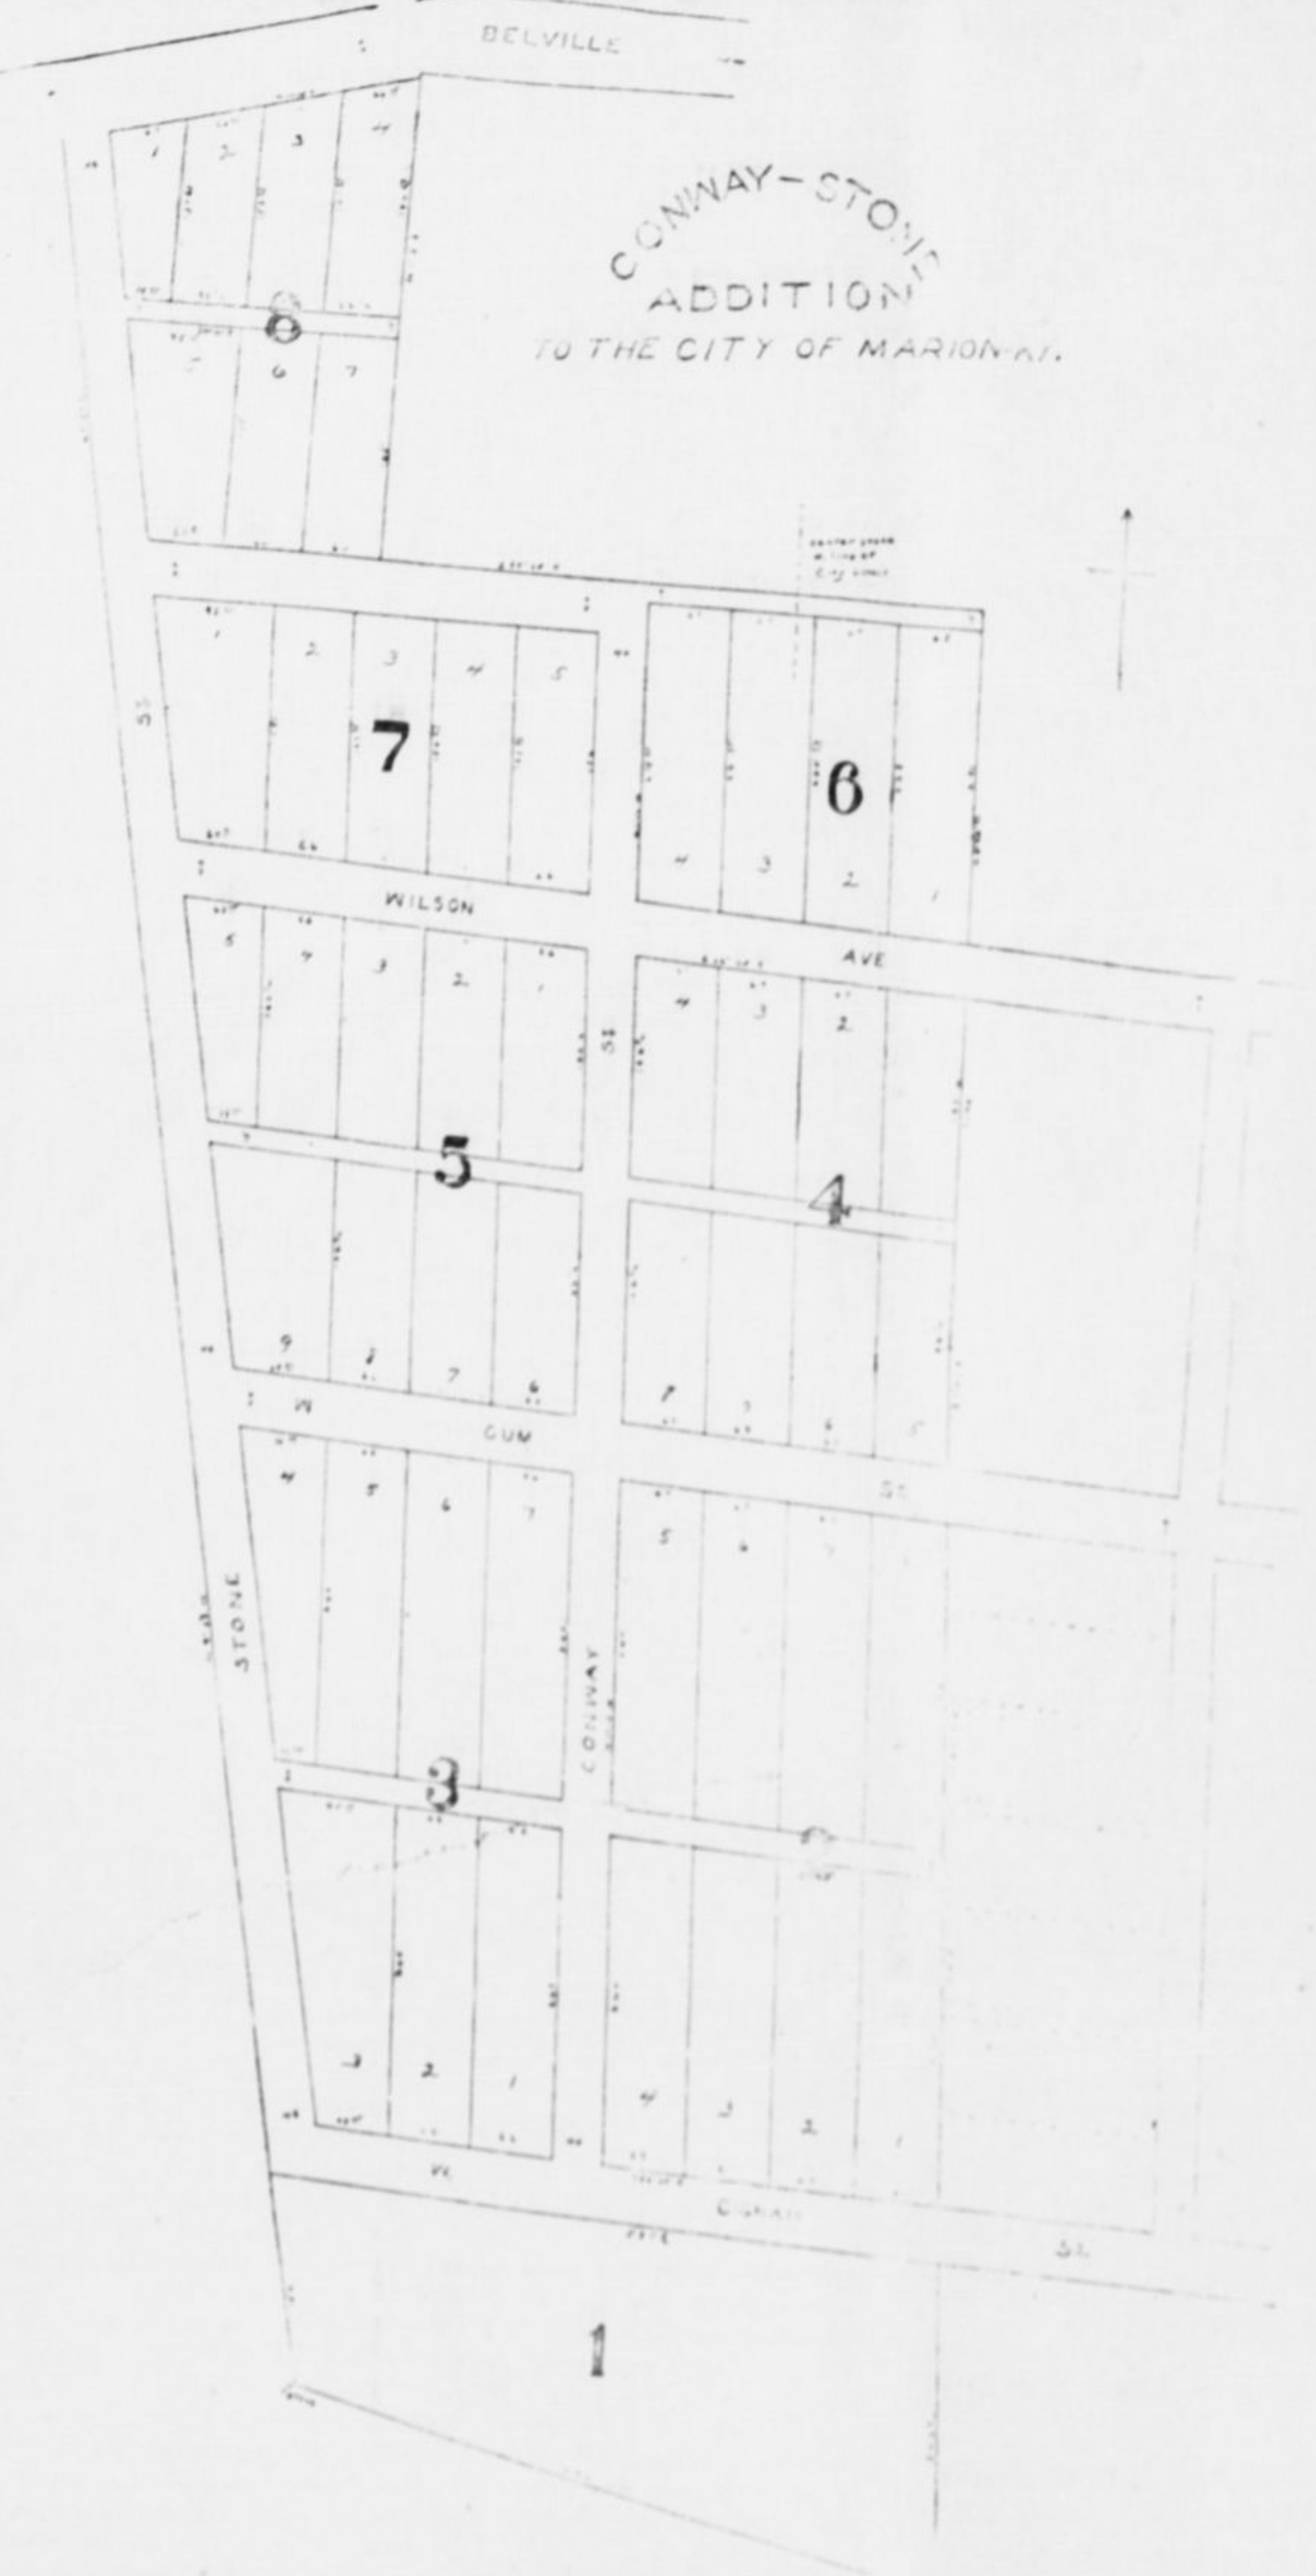

ROCKY FORD MELONS.

As is well known, a melon of very superior quality and flavor is produced in a limited area of the Arkansas river valley, which includes Rocky Ford, Colo. This melon has built up for itself a reputation on its merits and is in great demand all over the country. There is some peculiar quality or property connected with the soil of that region which permits of the growing of this little nutmeg melon in its greatest perfection. The large profits which have accrued in the growing of this melon have tempted many other localities to enter upon its production, in doing which they succeeded in growing a melon which looks exactly like the Rocky Ford, but which is utterly wanting in its fine flavor and quality. The markets of the country are flooded with these bogus Rocky Ford melons, while the genuine Rocky Ford is retailed in our cities at the time this article is written at as high a price as 25 cents apiece. The people are quick to catch on to schemes of this character, and men who are engaged in trying to raise Rocky Ford melons in Iowa and Missouri might as well get out of the business.

CHEAP FARMS IN TEXAS.

On the first of next month Texas is to put on sale a tract of land twice the size of Connecticut, comprising in all about 6,000,000 acres. This land is varied in quality—grain and rice land, cotton, sugar, fruit land, also land beneath the surface of which are found oil and minerals. The territory to be disposed of is part of the school domain. It is understood that this sale is to be a paradise for grafters and land grabbers, as is customary in the disposal of large tracts of land. Texas is after homesteaders and farmers, and with this in view only 100 acres will be sold to any one person and must be occupied within ninety days from date of sale. The terms of purchase are easy, being a minimum price of $1 per acre, one-fourth of which is to be paid down, while forty years' time will be given on the remainder. This land is very fertile with irrigation, and water is found in most places at a depth of about fifty feet below the surface.

To Discuss Rate Legislation.

Louisville, Ky., Nov. 13.—Operators and mine owners representing practically the entire Kentucky field met here today to discuss the question of railroad rate legislation. It is asserted that under the operation of the Esch-Kawneer bill the output of Kentucky and Tennessee coal mines would be confined to Kentucky and Tennessee, whereas these mines now compete with Indiana, Alabama, Pennsylvania and West Virginia fields.

Do you take The Record?

DROPPED DEAD!

You pick up a paper nearly every day and read that some man or woman has apparently perfect health has died suddenly at a banquet, on the street, at the theater, of "heart failure." 80 per cent of such cases follow heavy eating. The digestive organs are not in condition, the food ferments in the stomach, forming gases which distend the walls of the stomach—which presses against the heart—crowds—suffocates—"Heart failure" results. Take a spoonful of after eating. It relieves that "full feeling," stops fermentation, aids digestion and prevents biliousness and constipation.

I. G. HAMMER, Wagoner, Ind. Ter., under date of May 21, 1906, writes: "For over a year I was troubled with my heart. Doctors and medicine were unable to help me. Finally I noticed an advertisement of Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin stating that it often cures heart trouble. I was cured by indigestion, and that Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin would cure indigestion and gas on the stomach. I tried it and was fully cured and wish to take this course of letting others know of the merit of Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin."

Mandatory Injunction Asked.

Owensboro, Nov. 13.—Two Republican candidates for councilmen filed a suit for mandatory injunction against the election officers in several precincts, asking that they be compelled to make proper returns on certain contested ballots, and that certain contested ballots be counted. As the Council now stands there are six Democrats and six Republicans in it. By the contest the Republicans hope to unseat two Democrats.

THE SUNDAY SCHOOL

LESSON VIII, FOURTH QUARTER, INTERNATIONAL SERIES, NOV. 19.

Text of the Lesson, Neh. i, 1-11.—Memory Verses, 8, 9.—Golden Text, Jas. v, 16.—Commentary Prepared by Rev. D. M. Stearns.

(Copyright, 1905, by American Press Association.)
In all the Old Testament studies Israel is the center, as she is the center of all God's purposes concerning the whole earth. When He divided the earth among the nations after the deluge He did it with reference to the children of Israel (Gen. x, 25; Deut. xxxii, 8), and some day we shall look back from the gloryland and be surprised to see, as we cannot now, how all God's dealings with the nations in all ages have had some reference to His people Israel, for it is His purpose that Israel shall blossom and bud and fill the face of the earth with fruit and that all nations shall go up from year to year to worship the King, the Lord of Hosts, at Jerusalem (Isa. xxvii, 6; Jer. iii, 17, 18; Zech. xiv, 16). All national disputes shall be settled there, and the work of righteousness shall be peace on all the earth, for "the kingdom shall be the Lord's" (Obad. 21).

The time of our lesson is the twentieth year of Artaxerxes (i, 1; ii, 1), or thirteen years after Ezra went up to Jerusalem with his company (Ezra vii, 7). Nehemiah is the king's cupbearer, a Jew at a gentile court, like Joseph, Moses, Daniel or Mordecai, but his heart is with his people at Jerusalem. From certain Jews who had returned from Jerusalem he learned the sad condition of affairs there—that the people were in great affliction and reproach and the wall of the city had never been rebuilt (verse 3). He took it greatly to heart and wept and mourned and fasted before the God of heaven (verse 4), and the burden of our lesson today is his prayer at this time. Another great prayer at another time is recorded in chapter ix, and these and other prayers recorded in Scripture, notably our Lord's prayer in John xvii, are the most helpful of studies if we would learn how to pray.

By comparing i, 1, and ii, 1, we see that Nehemiah had been praying full three months before his opportunity came to speak to the king. He had the ear of the King of Kings for three months before his time came to make request of Artaxerxes. Doubtless he was always watching for the time to speak and to be ready when it should come. This should be the attitude of every prayerful one—expectant, but patient, not trying to make occasions or opportunities, but trusting God to do that, and then, obedient to I Sam. x, 7, "Do as occasion serve thee, for God is with thee." When the time had fully come he stated the matter frankly and in one breath prayed to God and spoke to the king (ii, 4, 5, 8, i, c.), and his petition was granted according to the good hand of his God upon him. It is beautiful to behold his walk with God, his trust in God, and therefore his fearlessness. "Neither told I man what my God had put in my heart to do," "The God of Heaven, He will prosper us" (ii, 12, 16, 20).

The opening verses of our lesson show his oneness of heart with his people at Jerusalem, and when we are in some measure like him and have on our hearts, as he had, the interests and welfare of the people of God we, too, shall see some answers to our prayers.

In verse 5 see his reverent adoration of God and compare Jer. x, 6, 7, 10; xxxii, 17; Ex. xxxiv, 6, 7; Acts iv, 24, and be encouraged to trust more fully the God of heaven and earth, the living God who giveth us richly all things to enjoy (I Tim. vi, 17). See how Nehemiah says again and again "My God" and "Our God" (ii, 8, 12, 18; iv, 9, 20; vi, 16), reminding us of David's "Our own God" (Ps. lxxvii, 6) and of Thomas' "My Lord and my God" (John xx, 28). Day and night he continued to confess before God the sins of his people, taking his place with them as one of them, excusing nothing, palliating nothing. This is the only way of blessing (Prov. xxviii, 13; I John i, 9). Turn to Him who actually took our place and suffered our sins to be laid upon Him, who was made sin for us (II Cor. v, 21; I Pet. ii, 24), and, as we see Him doing this in love to our souls, if our whole being does not go out to Him in glad surrender either we do not believe the record and receive Him as our personal Saviour or we only see men as trees walking.

Then in verses 8 and 9 he pleads with God His promises to Moses; he rests on the word of God and pleads God's faithfulness. This also did David in Ps. cxix, 49, "Remember the word unto thy servant, upon which thou hast caused me to hope." God loves to have us remind Him of His word and even calls us His remembrancers (Isa. xliii, 26; xlii, 6, margin). How few in these days seem to remember or to care that He has chosen Jerusalem to put His name there.

Nehemiah is very bold in his pleading and says notwithstanding their sinfulness, "These are Thy servants, Thy people, whom Thou hast redeemed." So pleaded Moses and Daniel (Gen. ix, 29; Dan. ix, 19), and Jeremiah prayed, "O Lord, though our iniquities testify against us, do Thou let for Thy name's sake. . . . Thou, O Lord, art in the midst of us, and we are called by Thy name" (Jer. xiv, 7, 9).

Having poured out his soul on behalf of his people, in verse 11 Nehemiah asks a special favor on his own behalf, and yet it was for their sakes as their benefactor. For this special personal favor he patiently waited month after month, though the distress at Jerusalem made it seem as if he needed an immediate answer. Blessed are those who have learned to rest in the Lord and wait patiently for Him (Ps. xxxvii, 7).

PRESIDENT ISSUES HIS PROCLAMATION

Naming Thursday, November 30, as a Day of Thanksgiving unto the Most High.

Washington, Nov. 2.—The President today issued his proclamation naming Thursday, November 30, as a day of Thanksgiving. The proclamation is as follows:

By the President of the United States of America—a proclamation:

When nearly three centuries ago the settlers came to the country which has now become this great republic, they confronted not only hardship and privation, but terrible risk to their lives. In those grim years the custom grew of setting apart one day in each year for a special service of thanksgiving to the Almighty for preserving the people through the changing seasons. The custom has now become national and hallowed in memorial usage. We live in easier and more plentiful times than our forefathers, the men who, with rugged strength, faced the rugged days; and yet the dangers to national life are quite as great now as at any previous time in our history. It is eminently fitting that once a year our people should set apart a day for praise and thanksgiving to the Giver of Good, and at the same time that they express their thankfulness for the abundant mercies received, should manfully acknowledge their shortcomings and pledge themselves solemnly and in good faith to strive to overcome them. During the past year we have been blessed with bountiful crops. Our business prosperity has been great. No other people have ever stood on as high a level of well being as ours now stands. We are not threatened by foes from without. The foes from whom we should pray to be delivered are our own passions, appetites and follies, and against these there is always need that we should war.

Therefore, I now set apart Thursday, the 30th day of this November, as a day of thanksgiving for the past and of prayer for the future, and on that day I ask that throughout the land the people gather in their homes and places of worship, and in rendering thanks unto the Most High for the manifold blessings of the past year, consecrate themselves to a life of cleanliness, honor and wisdom, so that this nation may do its allotted work on the earth in a manner worthy of those who founded it and of those who preserved it.

In witness whereof I have hereunto set my hand and caused the seal of the United States to be affixed.

Done at the city of Washington, this second day of November, in the year of our Lord one thousand nine hundred and five, and of the Independence of the United States the one hundred and thirtieth.

Man's Unreasonableness

Is often as great as a woman's. But Thos. S. Austin, Mrg. of the "Republican," of Leavenworth, Ind., was not unreasonable, when he refused to allow the doctors to operate on his wife for female trouble. Instead, he says, "we concluded to try Electric Bitters. My wife was then so sick she could hardly leave her bed, and five (5) physicians had failed to relieve her. After taking Electric Bitters, she was perfectly cured and can now perform all her household duties." Guaranteed by Haynes & Taylor, druggist, price 50c.

Democracy's Wonderings.

"The Democratic party once declared that it adored the Fourteenth and Fifteenth Amendments; its attitude is different now," says Tom Watson in his magazine. "It once declared in favor of greenback currency; then it retired to the middle ground of free silver; then it flew by telegraph to the single gold standard.

"Before the war it stood for free trade; after the war for tariff reform; then for 'tariff for revenue only'; then for tariff for revenue with incidental protection; then for sugar bounties; then for an act whose schedules were dictated by the Trusts."

"It once declared for a national tax on wealth, an income tax, with progressive increase as the wealth increased; and then it dropped down to the Republican doctrine of leaving wealth untaxed while the necessities of life bear the burden.

"It once declared against the national banking system, as Jefferson and Jackson always did; it has since chosen national bankers as its chiefs, has rechartered the system; and given it, at the request of a Republican money-lender, a new feed of bonds.

"The Democratic Party once declared against the modern commercialism which grinds the seed-torn by sacrificing little children for dividends; it is now saying nothing of child labor; and in South California, where the reformers who get 'reform inside the party' prevail mightily, child slavery is seen in all of its glory."

"It once cried out against imperialism, the owning a colonial empire in the Far East where slavery and polygamy and Sultan establishments cuddle down under the Stars and Stripes—imperialism which stretches and weakens our frontier, which necessitates larger navies, which necessitates larger armies and will drag us into the same fatal course which has been the ruin of every other republic!"

"The Democratic Party once declared against all this, but when Mr. Bryan grew tired of camp-life and the Colonel's uniform, became weary of war in which he was winning no credit, he rushed to Washington, made a personal appeal to Democratic senators, and thus secured for the Spanish Treaty the necessary votes which gave us imperialism!"

"I Thank the Lord."

It cured my fearful running sores, which nothing else would heal, and from which I had suffered for five years." It is a marvelous healer for cuts, burns and wounds. Tourist Cars Popular.

The idea that an inferior class of people patronize the tourist sleepers is an error. On many trips only the best class of travelers are found. They are merely men and women of good sense who would rather travel to California in this manner and save a snug sum of money to be used elsewhere. It is beginning to be understood that it is by no means necessary for the traveler to spend a large sum of money in order to enjoy a trip to the Pacific coast.

If you cross the continent in one of the tourist sleepers of the Union Pacific you will enjoy your trip and save considerable money. Inquire of J. H. LOTHROP, C. A., 903 Olive Street, St. Louis, Mo.

Destinctively Different; In Every Way the Best.

The Weekly Globe Democrat, of St. Louis, covers a field peculiarly and exclusively its own.

It is issued twice a week. A big SEMI-WEEKLY paper. Eight to ten large pages every Tuesday and Friday. One Dollar a year.

Nothing particularly different, you say, about that—there are other "Twice-a-Week" papers.

Yes, but the similarity ends there. No other paper is like the Globe-Democratic in any other respect.

An entirely unique feature of the Globe-Democratic, a feature which is highly prized by its readers, is its systematic method of preserving and presenting the CONTINUITY OF NEWS.

The two papers each week, Tuesday and Friday, are carefully prepared with the view of giving the complete news of all the world for that week.

They are so combined in the make-up as to form continued and connected stories of the various important events, showing the developments from day to day and the final results.

Other weekly and twice-a-week papers, as a rule, print only a few telegrams of the day of issue.

The "Twice-a-Week" Globe-Democratic gives the telegrams of every day in the week more comprehensively than the average Daily, and of more value to the average reader.

Moreover, the "Twice-a-Week" Globe-Democratic is not simply an echo of the Daily edition.

It is a separate and distinct publication, especially prepared to supply the requirements of people who want all the news of all the earth—and something more.

It presents the World's daily history in concise but complete form. It is of equal interest in all parts of the United States. It is invaluable alike to men and women, young and old.

It thoroughly provides for every member of the family. In high-grade literature it particularly excels. Its market reports are correct and complete in every detail.

Its departments devoted to "The Home," "The Farm and Garden," "The Family Circle," "The Sunday School," "Science and Industry," are each and all THE BEST of their kind and either one is more than worth the subscription price of the paper.

In politics it is strictly REPUBLICAN, but it is above all a newspaper, and it tells the truth without fear or favor. It has no equal or rival as a great National news and home journal.

Remember the price, only One Dollar per year—104 papers—less than one cent a copy. Postage prepaid.

You will make no mistake if you send $1.00 TODAY for a year's subscription. Or you can get your own paper ONE YEAR WITHOUT COST by inducing two of your neighbors to subscribe and sending their names with $2.00.

FREE SAMPLE COPIES, containing order blanks and full particulars, will be cheerfully furnished upon receipt of postal card request. Address Globe Printing Company, Publishers.

The Press is sore.

There may be a greater gain than getting, but there is no greater pleasure.

It has at last come to it, the niggers hold the balance of power.—Livingston Democrat.

If you see it in THE RECORD you can depend on it, the Press to the contrary notwithstanding.

Col. Jack Chinn suggests a new motto for Kentucky, to wit: "Brains, booze, beauty and bullets."

Relief funds are being collected all over the United States to be sent to the oppressed Jews who are suffering on account of the massacres in Russia.

The Louisville Post claims that the prospective standing of the two sides in the Senatorial race is Paynter 69, Blackburn 32, Ollie James 2 and 19 noncommittal.

The Democrats of Crittenden county made a gallant fight and largely reduced the Republican majority in that county. The Marion Press did some great work for the ticket.—Enterprise Really helped it out.

The editor of the Press says the editor of THE RECORD has a "mule progeny." He may have thought that brilliant and some of his readers may think it profound—we don't. However, if he means the kind of mule that denounced ring rule and rottenness in the Democratic ranks in Livingston county, we accept it.

The Democratic party in Livingston county is not dead, although it has been stabbed in the back by traitors, and strangled by niggers. The organization is still in the hands of Democrats, and in the future, party lines will be drawn more rigidly than ever before, and all bolters who put the cold steel to the party in this election will be looked after and will not be allowed to have anything to say in party affairs in the future.—Livingston Democrat.

Niggers should now demand places on the juries. The Republicans could not have been elected without their votes.—Livingston Democrat.

Some people would accomplish more if they would seek to remove friction in their own party rather than try to create it in another. The "nigger" scare crowd has been worn threadbare in Livingston county, and reasoning from the judgment of the people in the recent election, they will stand for it no longer.

Saturday a Democratic candidate went to Louisville. Sunday it was generally reported that machines had been procured at Louisville to steal the election. With Monday these contrivances were sent to Democratic heeled all over the county and some of them fell in the hands of Republicans and are now on exhibition here where any body can see them who cares to do so. The contrivance is made so that if the voter uses it he can not possibly vote any thing but the Democratic ticket. What do the people generally think of this effort to steal the election in Ohio county.—Hartford Republican.

"Tom, what did we tell you about juries last week?—Record." What you told did not amount to a atom anywhere. Tom Cochran (observe they understand which Tom) cut the majority down 300 in this county. Had any one, even in your own party, believed anything you published about Tom he would have lost Crittenden county by the usual majority of 500, instead of 168. Such mule ancestors as you are what helped him (permit us to add the word "out"). And if you should eke out another year of existence the county will be safely Democratic.—Crittenden Press, this week.

How many times has a full Republican ticket in this county been elected and how many times was the "usual majority 500?" And the editor of the Press will kindly take note that the Republicans of this county arrived at their own conclusions with reference to the value of this publication in the face of a $3000 corruption fund. We are of the opinion that the editor of the Press would not have thought of the expression in the last line of his editorial had not he remembered what a big congressman said, about a year ago, would be the fate of the Democratic party in this county if the present editor of the Press remained in charge. But, dear reader, how would you like to be a jackass? We would rather be one and earn an honest living than to fly high, spend some one else's money and take the bankrupt law.

If what THE RECORD said didn't amount to an atom anywhere may be that flag and banner trip to Hampton did. But Mr. Editor of the Press, did you know the campaign was over?

If you do, why are you trying to argue the case after the decision of the people has been made? The decision was satisfactory to us and we are going to abide by it. If you want to discuss something fresh, here's to you, and if you cannot defend a man while he lives, politically, do not try to do so after he is dead, politically.

THE UNPARDONABLE SIN.

Col. Jack Chinn was over in New York recently, and when a reporter asked about Kentucky politics, he said: "Hell, as usual. Why, sir, they're fighting Joe Blackburn, horse, foot and dragoon, and the up shot'll be that they'll send Judge Paynter to the United States Senate. No one regrets it more than I do, but it's Joe's own fault." When asked about Col. Watteren's possible race for governor, Jack said that his 1896 message from Europe: "Let there be no compromise with dishonor" was tingling yet, and that when "Marse Henry" announces for governor "the old fellows out in the State will call all the kinsfolks together and they'll get out under the trees and have prayers and then read that letter he wrote from Europe and that'll be about all." Whether Jack's old Democrats would pray for guidance or because those in the wrong invariably pray for success, we are left to conjecture. It is said that Stonewall Jackson, who fought for slavery and secession, invariably prayed for success. The Mohammedan, who is always wrong, prays almost continually. But for a Kentucky Democrat of this day and time to presume to approach the Lord about his political doings, seems to us to be unpardonable sacrilege.—Richmond Pantagraph.

WASHINGTON LETTER

From Our Regular Correspondent

Two national associations of hardware men have held their conventions in Washington this week and finished their business today with an endorsement of President Roosevelt's position on the rate question. It was a big gathering, one convention representing all the big manufacturing firms of the country and the other of the jobbers represented by the men who sell the manufacturer's products to the trade and to the public. It was an important meeting in a way and brought together 1,000 of the biggest men in the business. Just what was the internal business of the two meetings must remain more or less of a mystery as both were in executive session and dealt chiefly with the trade arrangements which are supposed to be no business of the public. Two things came to light, however, which were of general interest, one the adoption of a resolution, almost an identical resolution by both bodies for a reform of the consular service "on business lines", and the other the endorsement of the President on rate legislation as aforesaid.

Now it may seem like impertinence for an outsider to criticize the action of such a body of men who unquestionably know how to run their own particular trade, because they have made a success of it and are all of them prosperous citizens. But their two resolutions were a fair sample of the action of the trade conventions which more and more make the capital city a meeting place. The railroad rate resolution of the manufacturers was passed only after a severe fight. It came near not being passed at all. Reduced to its real meaning, it was simply an assertion that there ought to be something done in the rate line and that lacking any better information the association thought it wisest to endorse the President and let it go at that. Now, of course, the President and the attorney general have given their best thought to the matter and their conclusions so far as they have reached concrete form are probably wise. But there was a large body of representative men who have to deal continually with the rate question and there was not a single suggestion from any of them as to the practical points that such legislation ought to cover, nothing to indicate how they were effected or why any reforms were necessary or desirable. It was a body that apparently could have given the administration valuable advice of what is confessedly a knotty problem. But no. The resolution was as blank of practical suggestion as an iceberg is of herbage.

The two resolutions on the extension of American trade were equally childish. They simply stated that it was desirable that the consular service should be reorganized on business lines with a view to extending the foreign markets of the United States. Now, Secretary Root has gone into the State department with the avowed wish to reorganize the consular service and he has the endorsement of Secretary Taft, just returned from an extensive trip through the Orient, that such reorganization is desirable. But the very men who ought to have had ideas as to foreign trade and whose suggestions would have been most thankfully received at the state department at this juncture, passed up the whole matter with the badly overworked phrase of "reorganization on business lines" which no man has yet been able to fathom the meaning. There was not a single concrete suggestion in the resolution and there was no attempt to appoint a committee to get into touch with the State department and offer advice on what is one of the most important topics of the day. Decidedly the two conventions missed a very brilliant opportunity.

The rumor is afloat that Japan and the United States are to exchange compliments by raising their diplomatic representatives at Washington and Tokyo to the rank of ambassadors. Assistant Secretary Bacon of the State department says that nothing has been done in the matter so far. But Washington is becoming more and more a first-class diplomatic post and there are now as many ambassadors in the diplomatic list as there are ministers. In fact, all of the first-class powers now have ambassadors in the United States and it is the custom sanctioned by law that when any foreign power wishes to raise its diplomatic representative in Washington to the rank of an ambassador that the United States will do the same with its representative abroad. Now that Japan has stepped into the family of nations as a first-class power, it is only natural that she should no longer be satisfied with a minister in Washington. This government is not yearning for the additional expense that an ambassador at Tokyo would entail, but if Japan wishes to do us that compliment it is more than probable that her wishes will be met and that Mr. Griscom will be given a step in rank.

Thanks the Voters.

To the voters of Crittenden and Livingston counties: I take the advantage of this opportunity for thanking the voters for their support in the election of Nov. 7. I feel that I have been honored and highly complimented by having received a sufficient majority to entitle me to a seat in the next general assembly of Kentucky. My opponent, Mr. T. H. Cochran, I regard as an honorable and worthy gentleman, and he has proven to be one who stands high in the esteem of his fellow-men.

To my friends, both Republican and Democratic, I wish to extend my most sincere thanks, and hope to so conduct myself and discharge my duties in such a way as will meet their approval. And to my friends who voted for Mr. Cochran I desire to say that I have no ill feeling toward them, as voting is a privilege which we all should exercise according to the promptings of our best judgment, and I believe they voted for what they thought best, and I wish to say to the whole people that I mean to so live and conduct myself as to cause no regret to come to any one on account of my election. Respectfully,

M. B. CLARK.

BY RUSTIC

The following poems were written by our able rural poet, "Rustic," and dedicated to little Miss Bertha Carol Whitehouse, infant daughter of Mr. and Mrs. C. H. Whitehouse.

HER LITTLE BABY HANDS.

Thou art a small, a tiny thing
For this great, busy world—
A tiny bit of human flesh,
So warm, so soft, so sweet and fresh,
Around my finger curled.

No toil has stained thy rosy glow;
Thy dimples deep and small,
The dainty turning of thy wrist,
The fold and crease thy mother kissed,
Are perfect, one and all.

A helpless thing thou art, in truth,
So weak, and yet thy clutch
Upon my fingers, causeth me
To love the God who gave to thee
That power in thy touch.

A CRADLE SONG.

Sing it, mother! Sing it low!
Deem it not an idle lay;
In the heart 'twill ebb and flow
All the living way.

Sing it mother! Softly sing
While she slumbers on thy knee!
All that after years may bring
Shall flow back to thee.

Sing it mother! Love is strong!
When the tears of girlhood fall,
Echoes of thy cradle song
Shall its peace recall.

Sing it mother! When her ear
Catcheth first the voice divine,
Dying, she may smile to hear
What she deemeth thine.

NEW WINTER RESORT SEASON 1905-1906

Southern Portion of United States—
Beautiful Sapphire Country.

To the man whose imagination is fed with facts and fortified with observations, the southern portion of the United States will always seem a favorite child of Omnipotence and its handmaiden—Nature. Practically every resource that ministers to the wealth and greatness of a people has been lavishly placed within its borders.

Though the Creator of this full-bodied magnificence dwells neither here nor there—but everywhere—we like, in all reverence, to call these Southern States indeed "God's country." One who knows the South realizes how, after material gifts had been so generously bestowed, the designing power completed its work by dotting it liberally with those imperative auxiliaries of modern civilization—resorts, summer and winter. In the case of the South these resorts have proven not only protectors of our people's health; they are adding now and they will add substantially in the future to our actual wealth.

The Florida resorts need no detailed eulogy at this date. They have won already thousands of wealthy Northerners and Southerners from the lure of the European spa or the call of the Riviera. A more wonderful conquest, and one which should interest the entire South, is that of the radiant Sapphire country, that Eden of the North Carolina mountains, with which the word "Toxaway" has become inseparably identified. Its beauties and its health-compelling qualities have been open to civilization for only a few years relatively; yet "Toxaway" means to a host of Southern and Northern people today recreation and recuperation under conditions as ideal as can be arranged by the copartnership of man and Nature.

The six hotels under the management of the Toxaway Hotel Company, with Mr. J. C. Burrows at its head, have been instrumental in this rapid achievement. The Sapphire country itself has done the rest. The hostilities have been artfully located, getting the wide benefits which come from altitudes ranging from 2,250 to 4,780 feet. The far-reaching estate of Toxaway comprises 31,000 acres, in which are more than seventy-five miles of brook and river fishing, yielding the gamiest of game trout. In the rugged recesses of the estate there are deer, wild turkey and ruffed grouse, with bears here and there and occasionally quail. The three lakes, like shimmering sapphires, splashed down in the heart of the mountains, with the winding forest roads, create indelible impressions of the place.

With the opening of the winter season Toxaway Inn—the greatest of all the Toxaway resorts—announces itself ready for business for the approaching season after completing the most successful summer season known in the history of summer resorts.

From this time on this institution becomes not only a summer but a winter resort, appealing to the South in the summer and to the North in winter. It is on the direct line of travel from eastern and western points to Florida, and Manager Burrows has made every arrangement to catch the business as it goes to and comes from Florida.

And it is safe to say that those who stop to take in the beauties of the Toxaway country will be amply compensated, for in the matter of scenic attractions there is nothing like it this side of the Rocky Mountains.—Constitution, Atlanta, Ga., Oct. 12, 1905. 18-3t

Educational Column

W. HUGH WATSON, Editor.

Superstition and ignorance can be routed by education and intelligence.

—00—

Long time in office breeds corruption; brevity in official life is a barrier against corruption.

—00—

The investment that declares the greatest dividends is the money invested in education. Nothing pays like mental broadening.

—00—

Ignorance is the most costly crop any land can produce. Ignorance, not education, has built our jails, penitentiaries and reform institutions.

Ignorance contracts, education broadens life. What we want as a people in the way of education, is that training and broadening that will make the best man or woman possible out of those who possess it.

A practical education is not one that endows men with get-rich-quick methods. Does it pay? How much? Loss in character, dollars and cents will never make up; loss in dollars and cents, character and the right sort of thrift can supply. There is a mighty difference between bankruptcy in character and bankruptcy in the bank account.

The object of the educational column is but to furnish a medium through which the teachers may give public expression to their opinions. Only a few more weeks and this column will have lived its prescribed life—the length of the school term, and no expression from you has reached the parents of the children whom you may instruct within the next half decade. So, fellow-teachers, the invitation is a standing one and there yet is room.

We would not, if we could, have every boy to be a little Lord Fauntleroy. On the other hand we would avoid the other extreme of molding every mother's darling into a "Peck's Bad Boy." There is a happy medium between the extremes, but nothing short of the best, the very best, should satisfy the strivers for the noble things of life. "The good are half bad and the bad half good," but the "half good" should not out-weigh the "half bad."

His teaching is a boomerang who constantly condemns that which he himself practices. The old, old excuse, "Every closet has its skeleton," is a very poor way out of the difficulty.

To be specific, the tobacco user who keeps the knowledge of his using the weed from the pupils and at the same time uncompromisingly condemns it, falls fifty per cent in the estimation of his pupils. Why? Because children have some idea of consistency even if the word is not in their vocabulary. Therein is the boomerang.

Sooner or later there will come a time when you would like to express yourself in good English—to see the beauty and be able to express that beauty. Washington Irving had this power and the world is wiser because of this pure stream of pure literature. Hawthorne had the power, and Longfellow, Whittier, Holmes and Lowell were noble pen-talkers and the world is richer and wiser and better because of what these noble men did. But we are not all literary lights—never having ever reached the first ring in the ladder of literature. A study of Shakespeare does not produce Shakespeares. But the point we want to drive home is that it is your duty as a teacher, as a man or woman of education, to lend the world a part of your knowledge through the newspapers. Editors are happy to receive manuscripts of well-turned sentences. We all revel in the beauty of simile and metaphor and exclaim, "How beautiful!" How often do we write like so and so, when, with the same care we might far outshine so and so. Therein is the secret. Take the pains—take the time.

The striking minners were largely instrumental in persuading the men to return to their homes.

In Time of Peace.

In the first months of the Russia-Japan war we had a striking example of the necessity for preparation and the early advantage of those who, so to speak, "have shingled their roofs in dry weather." The virtue of preparation has made history and given to us our greatest men. The individual as well as the nation should be prepared for any emergency. Are you prepared to successfully combat the first cold you take? A cold can be cured much more quickly when treated as soon as it has been contracted and before it has become settled in the system. Chamberlain's Cough Remedy is famous for its cures of colds and it should be kept at hand ready for instant use. For sale by Haynes & Taylor, the enterprising druggists of Marion.

Tired Nervous

When you feel languid, tired, nervous and irritable, your vitality is low—your supply of nerve energy exhausted, and your system running down for lack of power.

The organs of the body are working poorly, or not at all, and you are not getting the nourishment needed. This soon impoverishes the blood and instead of throwing off the impurities, distributes it all through the body. This brings disease and misery.

Feed the nerves with Dr. Miles' Nerve, a nerve food, a nerve medicine, that nourishes and strengthens the nerves, and see how quickly you will get strong and vigorous.

"My wife suffered with nervousness previous to a recent attack of typhoid fever, but after her recovery from the fever, she was much worse, and could hardly control herself being exceedingly nervous when the least excited. She was very restless at night, and never had a good night's rest. She also suffered much from nervous headache. Dr. Miles' Nerve was recommended by a friend. After the first three doses she had a good night's rest, and at the end of the first week's treatment she was wonderfully improved. Continued use of Nerve has completed her entire cure."

A Master of Cobwebs.

BY BILLY JOEL HILL.

And now it's over. I find myself bereft,
Called to relinquish things that seemed so dear,
Think me not poorer, nay! Though year by year
Old friends, once faithful, one by one have left
Till now, half-dreaded, in the dim light
I hear but faint the old familiar sounds:
I've seen a child, for something creep-fond,
Drop all it had, with rapturous delight!
Sweet flowers by handful, there's a greater gain
Than simply getting. These are fondness' signs.
How can the spirit sing its sweetest strain,
Till, being all, it finds that highest boon
That comes to every weary one at even—
Rest from all toil—earthly labors' end in heaven.

Notice to Sunday Schools.

On Friday night, November 24, Rev. T. C. Gokauer, the State Sunday school visitor from Henderson, Ky., will lecture and give a stereopticon view of the life of Christ. The lecture will be free to all. The county president and secretary will try to be there and we expect to reorganize the district. We want all reports brought in by that time. We will also meet at Chapel Hill Saturday night, the 25th, for the same purpose, Marion Sunday night, Repton Monday night, Tolu Tuesday night. Let the schools near all these places announce those appointments.

District presidents, please get in your reports. We expect a good time at those lectures. They will begin at 6:30 o'clock. Yours for success,
R. M. FRANKS, County President.

A Continual Strain.

Many men and women are constantly subject to what they call "a continual strain" because of some financial or family trouble. It wears and distresses them both mentally and physically, affecting their nerves badly and bringing on liver and kidney ailments, with the attendant evils of constipation, loss of appetite, sleeplessness, low vitality and despondency. They cannot, as a rule, get rid of this "continual strain," but they can remedy its health destroying effects by taking frequent doses of Green's August Flower. It tones up the liver, stimulates the kidneys, insures healthy bodily functions, gives vim and spirit to one's whole being, and eventually dispels the physical or mental distress caused by that "continual strain." Trial bottle of August Flower, 25c; regular size, 75c. For sale by Woods & Orme.

OUR FASHION LETTER.

Velvet and Velvet Ribbons
Adorn Many Garments.

BUTTONS ON WINTER COSTUMES

Two Piece Gowns Are to Be Much Worn This Winter—Restrictions on Separate Blouses—The Alpine Hat With the Tailored Dress.

When in doubt, use velvet ribbon. Hunt up all the odds and ends of velvet you have, for this material is to be more extensively used than ever this winter as a dress trimming.

There is no end of different ways in which velvet may be used as trimming on gowns. Some of these ways are graduated bands, interlacings, pompadour bows, collars, cuffs and sashes.

Buttons on the winter frocks and suits are for the most part large and flat, though some are slightly convex. Large buttons will be used almost entirely on tailored suits, but on account of their size will be ornamental rather than useful, and other modes of fastening will be employed. A new button suitable for a black costume is covered with silk and has knots of a gay color embroidered on it with buttonhole silk. Very beautiful are buttons of onyx.

HENRIETTA GOWN.

Jasper and malachite surrounded by narrow rims of metal. For white or light cloth crystal buttons are effective. The bead button is a novelty formed of a small cut bead inclosed in an encircling rim, and an embroidered button with a design worked in colored silk on a light background is always pretty and attractive.

The calling gown illustrated is of gray green henrietta cloth. The trained skirt has a puffing of the material at the bottom. The plaited corsage boasts a vest of cluny outlined with an embroidered galloon green, black and white colorings. The sleeves are taken up in tiny tucks on the inside seam and finish at the elbow with lace ruffles. The hat is a green silk beaver trimmed with black plumes.

FACTS AND FANCIES.

Velvet two piece gowns are to be very much worn this winter. They are made in princess, the skirt perfectly plain and the bodice forming a heart shaped corselet as far as the bust line, where it meets a yoke of lace or chiffon. The bodice is usually trimmed with an embroidered galloon. The skirt is faced several inches deep with cloth to give it firmness and to keep the circular sides from sagging. The velvet gown should have a good silk lining to hold out the heavy material.

Chiffon velvet in light shades will make evening coats and dresses. There is a new shade in this fabric—Dresden blue—that is charming.

The only kinds of separate blouses permissible this season for afternoon wear are the ones that match the gown, of chiffon cloth or silk and the dainty lingerie affairs. It is very swaggy just at present to have concealed in the folds of the blouse the owner's initials, worked in small embroidered letters.

Boxes of ruche, all white, six pieces in a box, are selling in the shops for 29 cents.

The new Panama cloths have little checks, dots and figures woven in. The waist pictured is of white crepe de chine. The yoke, of Irish crochet lace, is prettily strapped with interlacing bands of taffeta silk dotted with pearl beads. The elbow sleeves are strapped in the same fashion and finished with a ruffle of lace and silk choux.

FANCIES IN MILLINERY.

Alpine hats tilted forward and trimmed with birds and feathers are worn with tailored dresses in the morning.

Hats are tilted over the nose, perched on the ears and reared loftily skyward, but the old time headgear that sat where it belonged—squarely on the head—is conspicuously absent in the winter modes.

The Gainsborough hat is sure to stay in style this winter. It is picturesque and becoming, and now that all black is so smart this is one of the few millinery confections in which this sable hue can be effectively developed.

Fluffy, old fashioned pokes, made of all kinds of laces and thin materials, are charming on the right woman. The long, full strings are either tied in a bow, with short loops and long ends, or allowed to hang loose.

The feather hats are particularly pretty this season, soft breast feathers being used to cover the brim and crown. In bronze shades these hats are very fetching.

The hat in the cut is a smart affair of black velvet. The tall crown is trimmed with four bands of velvet held in place at one side of the front with paste buckles. Black feathers peep prettily over the crown at the back. A deep bandeau is covered with burnt orange and faded brown roses.

STYLES IN PELTS.

In furs Persian lamb promises to exceed all other pelts in choice for practical wear. It is a skin that is well adapted to the redingote and empire style of coat which are so fashionable this winter. When used in these modes the Persian lamb may be trimmed with gold braid or ermine, and sometimes both of these adornments are employed.

The fashion for combining furs still holds good, but conservative wearers prefer their fur wraps to be of one variety.

Undyed mink is an expensive fur, but a pelt that will outwear almost all the others with the exception of sealskin. Mink will be very smart this season made up in stole and muff sets.

Bands of narrow fur trim many of the season's most exclusive gowns, particularly those of velvet.

The fur coats in the shops are gorgeous. Baby lamb and ibroantail are made up in boleros and sealskin in kimono shapes.

Muffs are large and flat and often much trimmed with fur tails or ruffles of lace falling daintily at the sides.

Cords and insets of Persian embroidery, together with elaborate buttons, are to be seen on many smart fur coats.

Coque boas have handsome muffs to match. These sets are charming in light colorings.

The stunning fur coat illustrated is of sealskin in long hip length. The revers, collar and cuffs are of handsome mink. The buttons are enameled affairs, and the lining is an exquisite tulle of mauve damask.

There is a peculiar connection between poor farming and mortgages. Whether the poor farming makes the mortgage or the mortgage the poor farming has never been quite clear to us.

Through nearly all of the northwest grain producing territory the prevailing condition prevails this season of a good crop, good weather to secure it in and a good price for it when sold. This trinity of good things does not often work in conjunction.

Profitable fruit raising consists largely in being able to raise a fair crop of fruit in those years when the crop is short and the price high by the use of fertilizers, spraying and extra care given. The years of large crops of fruits are quite likely to be after all unprofitable crops because of the lack of market and low prices.

Over the great hog growing section of the northwest, which has the state of Iowa for a center, there is almost absolute immunity from any sort of epidemic disease, and with this happy condition there is the largest crop of young pigs the farms have ever carried and one of the best crops of corn in sight with which to fatten them. The agricultural wealth of that section is associated with these black, white and red hogs and the corn with which to fatten them for market.

August plowing is a great thing for the next year's crop, and every effort should be made to get as much of it done as possible. For this reason if for no other it pays to stack the grain instead of trying to thrash from the shocks, as by doing so a man is left free to attend to this early plowing. August plowing is of immense value as a weed destroyer—prevents weeds from ripening seed and further gives a chance for dormant seed in the ground to germinate, to be nicely caught by the frost in the fall.

Before the merchant raises too much of a roar against the farmer for trading with mail order houses he should examine his stock and see what per cent of his goods are of the cheap variety or are out of date. The day when the farmer bought because there was only one available store and he must buy what was offered has passed, and he now wants the best as well as his friend in town. It might not be amiss for the farmer to talk with his home merchant and give him a chance before going to the city for his supplies, for often the latter finds it possible to meet the mail order house both as regards the quality and price of goods.

A friend wants to know how to start a lawn on his town lot right now. We do not know of any way whereby a satisfactory turf could be secured for this season, as it is so late that neither blue grass nor white clover, the only kinds of lawn grass seed which it is of much use to sow, would amount to anything this season if sown, even if it germinated and lived. It would be best to prepare the soil this fall and sow the seed early in the spring. He might, however, plant this lawn with chunks of blue grass sod, taking irregular shaped pieces as they would be turned over by the plow, and place them in holes dug for them about ten inches apart, then level off the lawn with fine earth and roll. This blue grass would under such treatment make a good fall growth provided it was kept moist enough. Next year it would make a fine lawn.

In the question and answer department of one of the most popular monthly magazines we came across the following case: A woman, the wife of a minister, had written to the magazine and its readers saying that her conscience troubled her and she would like to state the cause and see if some one would not advise a way out of the difficulty. It seems that this worthy woman possessed railroad stocks to the amount of $6,000, on which she had never paid any tax whatever. Her husband being of that denomination of ministers who change their pastorate about every two years, the tax collectors had never, it seems, been able to locate this $6,000. Consequently the lady had never been called upon for taxes, though, as she expressed it, she had never made any effort either to make known or conceal the fact that she possessed the property. Notwithstanding that this lady was aware she possessed goods upon which the law prescribed that she should pay a tax, she wrote to a magazine asking the editor and the public to help her out of the difficulty.

In principle the above case is very common. The person in question would no doubt scorn to steal $10 and would have resented the imputation that she was dishonest. Like the man who has been overpaid in a transaction or the making of change, she was willing to profit by the ignorance of the tax collector, provided it entailed no overt act of dishonesty on her part. This is a test before which many people fail, yet the truth is plain to see. Honesty is not a matter to be determined by the public, but to be decided by the individual who is concerned. Neither can one person excuse or palliate his acts by citing the example of another's wrong action. The meeting of such questions as the above involves character, and character is a thing which must be worked out by the independent acts and decisions of its possessor. A pernicious but enticing theory is that which holds that dishonesty comes only with detection.

Weeds cut down or plowed under during the first week in August are generally done for. If any later growth is made the frost gets it before any seed can be matured.

A RUINOUS POLICY.

The Sale and Use of Unsuitable Sires For Breeding Purposes.

We have persistently advised the use of pure bred sires in the breeding up of live stock, and many men have gone further by replacing their graded stock by pedigreed animals of considerable merit. There is now another step to be taken that is quite as important as breeding out the scrub blood or substituting pure bred for grade stock. We refer to the necessity of culling out all unsuitable breeding animals in every herd and stud of the country, writes A. S. Alexander in Farmer's Review. Hundreds of bulls, boars and rams are being sold for breeding purposes each year that are doing harm instead of good and that should have been castrated by their breeders. It is hard to get breeders to attend to such matters as this. They can usually find buyers for indifferent sires and so take the chance when it presents itself, but the policy is ruinous in the end. The reputation of the breed and the herd is at stake in the sale of every animal that goes off the farm for breeding purposes.

The breeder cannot afford to sell a poor representative of his herd if he will but stop to think the matter over fully. By castrating the poor individual he will make a profitable feeding animal and spoil a bad sire. If he sells he but enlarges the number of scrub breeds in the land and their number is getting to be enormous. If there is anything that will hurt the pure bred stock business worse than the continued selling and use of poor individual sires and dams we have not heard of it, and we are convinced that the time has come to act honestly and severely in this direction.

Not every man who wishes to improve his live stock knows how to select a representative sire of the best individuality. For this reason he has to trust to the honesty of the breeder, whom he asks to make the selection for him. He may state that he does not wish to pay a high figure, and the breeder very naturally takes advantage of the circumstances to send him a poor individual that is cheap so far as cost is concerned, but terribly dear when we consider the mischief he will do in the herd to which he goes. The honest breeder who has at heart the best interest of his patrons and of the industry in which he is engaged should never and himself in a position to supply a cheap and at the same time in different sire of any sort. He should castrate every animal of this kind and have nothing but good individuals for sale. Were every breeder to act in this way the number of serviceable sires would be reduced, but their value would increase and the value of the breed represented would also be certainly enhanced in time by the persistent use of nothing but first class sires.

SWINE HUSBANDRY

Buttermilk, provided no water is added, is practically of the same value for feeding pigs as separator milk, writes a correspondent of American Cultivator. But it must be borne in mind that buttermilk from factories almost always has mixed with it a considerable amount of added water, some times as much as 50 per cent, and consequently by itself is not a suitable food for pigs. Many instances can be given of great mortality among pigs fed solely on buttermilk, practically from starvation, because they were not able to consume enough buttermilk plus water to derive sufficient nutriment to supply the demand of nature. But when the deficiency in solids is made up by adding meal, or even grass, roots or other fodder, pigs are found to thrive on the buttermilk.

Weaning Pigs.
 Since no use can be made of sows milk it seems unwise to be in a hurry about weaning pigs when the mother's milk supply is still good. The suckling pig is making its lowest cost growth.

Care of Swine.
 If pigs begin to show an out of condition appearance don't think of medicine the first thing. See if some mistake in feeding or care cannot be discovered, and if it is correct it—Farm, Stock and Home.

The Brood Sows.
 Give brood sows the freedom of the pasture fields when with young pigs, and as soon as the pigs are old enough to eat feed a little shelled corn and dry middlings with a mash of wheat middlings and milk. Sows with pigs should always have access to a good blue grass pasture and should not be fed too much corn. The largest part of the ration should be made up of oats and corn with a little oilmeal. Have plenty of charcoal and ashes constantly available. An occasional feed of salt will be found profitable.—American Cultivator.

Soaking Corn For Hogs.
 Ordinarily we believe that it does not pay to soak corn for pigs. Unless it is very hard they will grind it themselves, and soak it with the saliva which aids digestion. Professor Henry says that soaking corn is "about as useful as grinding it," which means that it is a question whether the gains overbalance the cost.—National Stockman.

Wanted.
 Gentleman or lady with good reference, to travel by rail or with a rig. Salary $1,072 per year and expenses paid; salary paid weekly and expenses advanced. Address, with stamp, J. S. ALEXANDER, Marion, Ky.

We wish to say to our many friends that this clearing sale doesn't mean that we are going to retire from business, but we want the room for spring.

RURAL DELIVERY MAIL ROUTES

In All 33,948—in Kentucky 604 and in First District 110 Rural Mail Routes in Operation.

A report just issued by the postoffice department shows that on November 1 there were 604 rural mail routes in operation in Kentucky, and that petitions for 195 more routes are pending before the department. The routes in operation are divided among the various congressional districts as follows: First, 110; Second, 104; Third, 65; Fourth, 66; Fifth, 23; Sixth, 51; Seventh, 68; Eighth, 44; Ninth, 59; Tenth, 12; Eleventh, 2.

Petitions are pending from the various districts of Kentucky as follows: First, 28; Second, 18; Third, 32; Fourth, 37; Fifth, 8; Sixth, 19; Seventh, 2; Eighth, 26; Ninth 9; Tenth, 0; Eleventh, 21.

It is gratifying to W. R. Spilman, General Superintendent of Rural Delivery, to announce that the rural mail service has at last gained a foothold in the Eleventh Kentucky district, which was without rural routes until within the last month. The credit of getting the service started in the Eleventh district is largely due to Congressman Edwards, who has been unremitting in his efforts in this direction.

In the country at large there were 33,948 rural routes in operation on November 1, and 4,355 petitions for additional routes were pending.

Sells More of Chamberlain's Cough Remedy than of All Others Put Together

The following letter from a family where Chamberlain's Cough Remedy is well known shows by the unpunctuated demand for it that the medicine sells on its own merit. Mr. Thos. George, a merchant at Mt. Elgin, Ontario, says: "I have had the local agency for Chamberlain's Cough Remedy ever since it was introduced into Canada, and I sell as much of it as I do of all other lines I have on my shelves put together. Of the many dozen sold under guarantee, I have not had one bottle returned. I can personally recommend this medicine as I have used it myself and given it to my children and always with the best results." For sale by Haynes & Taylor, the enterprising druggists of Marion.

Healthy Mothers.

Mothers should always keep in good bodily health. They owe it to their children. Yet it is no unusual sight to see a mother, with babe in arms, coughing violently and exhibiting all the symptoms of a consumptive tendency. And why should this dangerous condition exist, dangerous alike to mother and child, when Dr. Boecher's German Syrup would put a stop to it at once? No mother should be without this old and tried remedy in the house—for its timely use will promptly cure any lung, throat or bronchial trouble in herself or her children. The worst cough or cold can be speedily cured by German Syrup; so can hoarseness and congestion of the bronchial tubes. It makes expectoration easy, and gives instant relief and refreshing rest to the cough-racked consumptive. New trial bottles, 25c; large size, 75c. For sale by Woods & Orme. 15-21

LEGISLATURE WILL BE DEMOCRATIC

The Constitutional Amendment Is Defeated and the Secret Ballot Still Remains.

Louisville Ky., Nov. 12.--Careful revised reports from all over the state show that in the next general assembly there will be at least sixty-nine Democratic representatives, and twenty-three Republican representatives, while in the case of eight representatives they are marked as double or unreported. There will be at least sixteen new Democratic senators and one new Republican senator, while three are still in the doubtful or unreported column. There are thirteen Democratic holdover senators and five Republican holdover senators. The Constitutional Amendment providing for a return to the viva voce system of voting was overwhelmingly defeated. It required a two-third majority of all the votes cast on the question, but it seems to have lost in nearly all the counties reported, while in Louisville and Jefferson counties it was defeated by nearly 4000, the vote on the question being light everywhere.

ELDER J. SHELBY ROWE TO RESIDE IN MARION

New Pastor of Christian Church---A Sincere and Earnest Worker of Gospel.

Elder J. Shelby Rowe, the new pastor called to the charge of the Christian church here, is an earnest and most sincere young preacher of the gospel. For several years he has been stationed at Cave-in-Rock, Ill., and has had charge of the church there which is a very strong one, besides having filled the pastorate at Salem and other points in Livingston.

Elder Rowe was born and reared in Central Kentucky and is a gentleman of the most pleasant bearing.

For some time the Christian church of Marion has been without a pastor and its members extend to Elder Rowe a most hearty welcome, and all should make an effort to give him their support, by being present at each gathering and by their co-operation in the work that good results may be obtained.

After the first of the year Elder Rowe will reside in Marion and devote one-half his time to the church here.
