LETTER FROM COLORADO.

The following letter from Hon. R. C. Walker, founder of the Crittenden PRESS, which was received lately by his old friend, Harrison Bigham, will be read with peculiar interest by the hundreds of Mr. Walker's friends in this part of the State:

HELPS TO STUDY.

Our lesson to-day is the growth and ministry of John the Baptist. Luke gives us some important facts in chronology. He gives us the civil and ecclesiastical rulers at that time. Tiberius was associated with Augustus as emperor in A. D. 11. This would make the ministry of John the Baptist begin in 25. Pontius Pilate was made procurator in 25, and was thus the ruler in Palestine when John began to preach. Palestine contained two tetrarchies, that of Herod Antipas and Philip; Syria contained 17. Herod Antipas ruled over the territory in which Jesus grew up. He reigned 43 years, and was then banished to Lyons on the charge of preparing for a revolt. Although Luke mentions Annas and Caiaphas both, there could be but one acting high priest at a time. Caiaphas was the acting high priest, but as Annas had been deposed by the Roman authorities, the Jews deferred to him as high priest,

PLACE:- The rough, mountainous, and uninhabited or sparsely settled region lying west and north-west of the Dead Sea (Judg. 1:16.)

The Gospel is simply the facts about Jesus coming to redeem the world and to save the people from their sins, and this is "good news." Luke the "good news" began with the announcement to Zacharias, but in Mark the Gospel begins with the preaching of John the Baptist.

His principal theme was repentance, which was preparatory to Christ's Kingdom. Christ points out in concrete examples adapted to the several classes of people, how the repentence which he demanded would express it self. These are examples of the 'fruits worthy of repentance." Here we have the religious teaching that none can avoid the certain punishment of sin except by announcing it in every form.

The portion of Herod's Kingdom assigned to Archaleus was Judea, Samaria and Idumea. He was styled the ethnarch, while Herod Antipas and Philip were styled tetrarchs. Archaleus was

He was arrogant, unjust, and sensual in his nature. His reign was characterized by oppression, arbitrariness and tyranny. Like his father he installed or deposed high priests at his pleasure or caprice. Every year of his rule was full of injustice or abuse. At last all joined in one general complaint against him to the emperor, who summoned him to Rome in his tenth year of office, to answer for his misdeeds. The result was that he was banished to Vienna in Gaul, (A. D. 6) his property was confiscated, and his territory made a Roman province.

Nazareth is situated a little south of the southern end of the Sea of Galilee about seventeen miles to the west of it. At the foot of a low rauge of mountains crossing Palestine, in a saucer-like basin, is Nazareth. To the south is the great plain of Esdraelon. Here more than one of Israel's and fine for medical purposes. great battles were fought. East of it lies Mt. Gilboa where Saul was slain, and Little Hermon, on whose slopes nestles Nain, the home of the widow whose son Jesus raised to life. The town contains about 7000 inhabitants. On the great hill that rises behind it Jesus may often have watched the ships on the Mediterranean, less than twenty miles away, and the caravans FRED HIPPEL, Jr., Owner as they went along the great road a little to the east of the town, or or take a hand in the "shindy." The fertility of palestine was remarkable. It was a "garden of God, and like a cornucopia of the most manifold productions (Mt. 13:23.) In several places in the Old Testament it is a "good land, flowing with milk and honey," and a "large fat land" (Ex. 3:8; 13:5; Neh. 9:25, 35.) It is and they help the old man along won- ized steel armor plate to be used in also described by Josephus and others as having been very productive in the time of Jesus. But its blessings were dependent upon attention, care, industry and the blessings of God.

THE PANAMA CANAL. The Board of Consulting Engi neers of the Isthmian Canal Commission have very wisely, it would appear, decided to sink the canal to a sea-level depth and thus do away with the cumberson detention of locks and dams. For purposes of illustration of the workings of a small municipal plant established under favorable conditions more of a secret than the that at Mansfield is worthy of study. It had a clear field in which to begin business, and it represents a type of plant unknown until recently, having petroleum motors to supply it with power. As a model for towns embarking on municipal ownership the Mansfield plant offers a number of interesting points. Management of the plant rests with a commission of two mem

"We started without any handicap," said a member of the board. "There was no electric light plant in town. We wanted electric light and believed we could manufacture it for less than we should be obliged to pay a private company for it, so we started in last winter (1904) with our plant. We control all the poles and wires, have a new, efficient plant, not yet running to half its capacity, and are making it pay already. You can't beat that anywhere for public ownership, I feel

Its citizens have paid no city taxes for more than a dozen years, yet the town is one of the most prosperous in Colorado, and last year had an income of more than $15,000 above all running expenses.

Its entire revenues come from liquor licenses and water and light rentals, and the success of municipal ownership here is such that the citizens would not go back to the era of private public service corporations under any circumstances. Two years ago the local lighting plant was purchased from the corporation which owned it. Last year it showed a gross income of $17,965.40, including $1,800 which the town charged itself for street lighting. Its operating expenses were $14,-388.28. The town's income for water rentals during the same period was $10,009.47 and from saloon licenses $14,122. The total receipts from all sources were $49.859.49, an actual surplus over the town's running expenses of $15,570.32. Practically all of this surplus was expended in additions to the town's water system, which is valued at approximately $55,000. The lighting plant is appraised at $32,000. The latter is now furnishing four times the amount of current produced at the time of its purchase by the city two years ago, the abnormal increase being due to the exceptionally low price of current. Light rentals and water rentals are lower than in any other city in the west, the minimum charges being $1.50 per month, with meter service, subject to a discount of 25 per cent if paid when due. The discount on water rentals is 15 per cent.

Few Suggestions as to Negligees. Dressing Jackets of China Silk-Jrp. anese Crepe With Butterflies-Chantilly Lace Veils the Newest Caper.

BY RENE DEVERAUX. When in search of a gift for a woman fond of dainty apparel-and, by the way, the Christmas season is close upon us-choose one of this season's harming negligees, and it may safely be said you'll be certain to please. Never have I seen so great a variety of exquisitely made breakfast jackets, becoming dressing sacks, practical bath robes and luxurious lounging gowns, all ready to slip into when the occasion calls for them. So bewitching indeed mental stage and has become accepted proper and weak develop- are they that one is tempted to pardon all manner of extravagance. In fact, some of these are fashioned of materials equally appropriate for evening gowns, while others, quite as effective, are delightfully simple, their chief charm lying in their grace of outline and an artistic manner of trimming. There are crepe de chine negligees with lace insets throughout, plain and beruffled, and others simply edged with hand embroidered scallops. Land in all parts of the United The newest breakfast jackets are below the waist line. An exceedingly becoming model is shown in the cut. This little negligee is made of rose pink china silk trimmed with a dainty pattern of valenciennes lace inset above the hem and applied in a tiny bolero effect. There is a bit of hand embroidery on the front of the yoke, and the neck is finished with a soft lace ruffle drawn up with pink ribbons run through beading. The short flow ing sleeves are fully plaited and finished at the bottom with two rows of inserting above the hem.

A fetching blue albatross gown was strikingly trimmed with rows of narow black velvet ribbon applied in a Greekin design down the front and extending entirely around the skirt of the edged the flowing sleeves.

For extremely cold weather-in fact, at any time during the winter-there is no fabric more comfortable for loungcorduroy. This material does not crush and is very delightful to the touch. A luxurious "rest gown" was made of mouse gray cordurey, plainly fashioned and tied with a silver cord and tassel. Where the gown fell open at the bottom a soft lining of china blue silk was disclosed. A rose colored corderoy was lined with a deeper shade of rose.

Those who fancied for a moment that the popularity of the draped veil was on the wane were never more badly mistaken. In Paris veils are more than ever the rage this season. There are a few variations, however, in texture and the mode of wearing them, noticeable among which is to swathe the crown of the hat in its folds scarf fashion. The thin meshed imitation chantilly veil is the present mode, uiira fashionables adopting taupe, the new color, and a darker shade of gray.
