COMMERCIAL CLUB MEETING

New Officers Elected For the Next Year

SEVERAL OFFICERS ABSENT

Meeting Was a Most Interesting and Profitable One and Promises Bright Future

REPORTS OF VARIOUS COMMITTEES

Officers and members of the Commercial Club met Tuesday evening, Dec. 5, in the lobby of the post office building in an adjourned session. Directors J. M. Freeman, C. H. Whitehouse, and C. E. Weldon were present; C. S. Nunn, H. H. Sayre and Chas. Evans absent. President T. A. Fraser, Second Vice President R. L. Nunn, Treasurer Geo. M. Crider and Secretary Jas. E. Chittenden were present. Meeting was called to order by President Cochran and on account of the minute books of former meetings having burned in the fire of March 28th and the informal state of affairs that existed since that date, the reading of minutes was suspended and roll called. Twenty-one members out of seventy-one that had joined the club prior to last March answered "present."

The matter of inspecting county roads and awarding promised medals to overseers for their successful efforts in obtaining the best improved results on their respective sections of roads was discussed. C. S. Nunn, chairman of the County Development, Immigration and Good Roads Committee, being absent and unable to report on this question the matter was set aside to be disposed of at the discretion of his committee. T. A. Fraser, who had been appointed treasurer of the Entertainment Committee for the Opening Day of New Marion, made a partial report showing a deficit of about one hundred and thirty-nine dollars. For the present the matter was disposed of by the club voting that the money should be borrowed to liquidate the deficit and it was ordered that such indebtedness on account of said borrowed money should be cancelled as fast as the membership dues for the new year were paid up. T. A. Fraser stated that after paying off all accounts unpaid by reason of the shortage of funds he would make a written report to the president of the club, which will appear in subsequent minutes. President Cochran then made the regular call for committee reports.

Public Policy Committee—Chairman Chas. Evans absent—no report.

Ordinance and Resolution Committee, Dr. T. A. Fraser chairman, reported that his committee had assurance from the I. C. R. R. Co. to the effect that electric bells would be installed at the street crossing near Marion Milling Co.'s plant for the purpose of warning travelers on the public highway known as East Belleville street of the approach of trains. Mercantile, Manufacturing and Mining Interests Committee, R. L. Nunn chairman, reported that his committee had not affected any material results directly, but it was mentioned that a new steam laundry was being installed in the city and also that a new ore separating plant was being installed by the Saunders Ore Separating Company, composed of New York capitalists. County Development, Immigration and Good Roads Committee, Chairman C. S. Nunn absent—no report. City Development Committee, J. M. Freeman chairman, no report except the well-known fact that the issuance of water works bonds by the city council was voted down at the recent election. Entertainment, Arrangement and Building Committee, Chairman H. H. Sayre absent—no report.

Press, Promotion and Publicity Committee, Chairman C. H. Whitehouse. Reported that certain parties had been investigating the condition under which a glass factory could be secured for Marion. It was reported that on account of natural gas becoming exhausted in a section of Indiana where several factories were in operation that one might be induced to come to Marion if the proper inducements were offered. The Commercial Club ordered that the directors appoint a member of the Club to make a trip to Princeton, Ind., or some other point in Southern Indiana, for the purpose of inducing some factory to remove to Marion or ascertain the conditions under which a factory could be secured. Messrs. D. B. Kevil, C. E. Weldon and J. M. Freeman were appointed as a committee to raise funds to defray the expenses of the party making the trip.

Balloting for six directors to serve during the ensuing year, three of whom were to serve for the term of two years from this election resulted in the election of the following: Jno. W. Wilson, C. S. Nunn, J. M. Freeman, D. B. Kevil, Sam Gugenheim and Jno. A. Moore. Messrs. Wilson, Nunn and Freeman were chosen for the hold-over or two year term directors. The newly elected directors decided that Geo. M. Crider should serve as treasurer and Jas. E. Chittenden as secretary for the ensuing year.

Several paid their dues, and a vote of thanks was given to Dr. T. A. Fraser and other members of the Entertainment Committee for their efforts in behalf of the success of the Opening Day of New Marion, which was held Wednesday October 25.

Commercial Club at Providence.

The Enterprise and others have been battling for years to get a commercial club for Providence but it was not until last Monday night that these hopes were realized. The Providence Commercial Club is now a full fledged organization that has been incorporated under the laws of Kentucky and is ready at any and all times to advance the interests of Providence and surrounding country and to assist in developing the great resources that we possess.

Without any organization whatever, Providence has had a phenomenal growth and it stands to reason that the new commercial club having for its object the upbuilding of the city, will draw to it the support and co-operation of all the business men of the town who are interested in its growth and future welfare.

The incorporators are Rosa Givens, D. B. Baker, T. T. Morris, J. G. Gist, Henry Givens and J. C. Sugg.—Providence Enterprise.

To Pensioners.

R. L. Moore has established his law office in room No. 10, postoffice building. He is connected with one of the best firms of pension attorneys in Washington, D. C.

T. EVERETT BUTLER DEPARTS THIS LIFE

At Denver, Col. Where He Had Gone To Regain His Health—Remains Brought to Kentucky.

News reached here the first of the week of the death of T. Everett Butler, well known in Crittenden and Livingston counties, at the time of his death being representative from said counties.

Mr. Butler was born and reared at Salem, but was well known here on account of having attended Marion Graded Schools several years ago.

After leaving school he devoted his time to the study of law, in which vocation he would have beyond question gained distinction. At the primary election in Livingston county this year, he was nominated on the Democratic ticket for county attorney with no opposition and would now be serving in that capacity but for his untimely death.

On account of his health he was forced to resign these honors, and went to Denver, Col., in the hope of regaining in part the health he had lost. It was hoped that the bracing climate would do him good but he steadily grew worse and the news of his death comes not so much a surprise as a sorrow to all who knew him.

Mr. Butler was 28 years of age and leaves a wife who was formerly Miss Ida Koon, a Livingston county girl.

The remains arrived Tuesday morning, accompanied by his grief-stricken wife and his brother, Isaac Butler. Will Butler, who is in the employ of the telephone company at this place, is also a brother of the deceased.

The body will be taken to the old homestead at Salem and will be interred beside those of his parents in the cemetery there.

Lawyer, J. W. Blue Jr., is serving on the Smithland bench this week on account of the sickness of circuit judge J. F. Gorden.

TAYLOR & CANNAN'S STORE

In New Quarters and Ready For Trade.

PUBLIC IS INVITED TO CALL.

Is Now One of the Most Modern and Up-to-date Business Houses In the City.

THEIR STOCK NEW AND COMPLETE.

In the beautiful and commodious store rooms of the Masonic temple, on the corner of Main and Belleville streets Taylor & Cannon have occupied their new quarters. These are not only large and roomy, but excellently located.

The show windows are among the largest and prettiest in town and are now handsomely dressed, one displaying a line of shoes and the other a line of carpets, rugs, druggists, both Brussels and ingrain. On each side as one enters are two long floor cases, one containing a rare line of purses and pocketbooks and men's ready made shirts. The other shows all kinds of collars, turnovers, combs and handkerchiefs for ladies.

The right side from counter to ceiling is devoted entirely to the shoe department. The high shelving calls for roller ladders, which have been ordered and will be installed at once. The other side contains dress goods, ribbons and hosiery of every and all descriptions.

The entire ready-made department is on the second floor. Their line of men's and boys' clothing, hats and caps and ladies' wraps is full and complete. They also carry a large line of trunks and valises. Their entire stock is new, clean and up-to-date and of the very best quality. They are now fully equipped and organized, and would appreciate the inspection of the public.

WASHINGTON LETTER

From Our Regular Correspondent

News received at the State Department today indicate considerable Turkey will yield to the demand of the United Powers regarding the reforms in Macedonia and it was admitted at the Turkish Legation that nothing to the contrary indeed nothing at all, had been heard from the home government. There was a story in circulation that one reason why Turkey was presenting such an obstinate front to the rest of the world was that she was receiving the covert support of Japan in her recalcitrant attitude. This rumor was reported to the Japanese Minister, Mr. Takahira, but he denied it indignantly and said that it had been set afloat by enemies of Japan in the hopes of hurting her standing with the rest of the world.

There is naturally more gossip about the chairmanship of the Appropriation Committee in the house than about almost any other piece of minor politics just now, and it is said that Speaker Cannon has practically decided on Representative Jas. A. Tawney, of Minn., for the place. Speaker Cannon was personally well disposed toward Representative McCleary, also of Minnesota, for the place. He is an acknowledged tariff expert and is on the ways means committee. So also is Mr. Tawney and it is probable that Speaker Cannon will shift Mr. Tawney to the appropriations chairmanship, as he is considered personally strong and independent enough to stem the rush that will assuredly be made at the Treasury by appropriation seekers in spite of the fact that this has been heartily far in advance as a retrenchment congress.

A striking report that has as its object the bettering of conditions in the Philippines, has just been issued by Col. Clarence Edwards, the Chief of the Bureau of Insular Affairs. Since the Government has taken into its keeping, either temporarily or otherwise, 10,000,000 more wards, most of them dusky, it is the object of the Bureau having the most direct dealing with them to give them every chance to improve their condition. Col. Edwards strongly recommends the passage of the Courts Bill which passed the House last session but was buried in the Senate. This provides for the abolition of duties between the United States and the Philippines on every thing except sugar and tobacco and the reduction on these staples to 25 per cent of the Dingley rates. At the close of the ten year period during which Spain was to have equal treatment with the United States in the islands, these remaining duties are also to be abolished. The report states that this mitigation of customs barriers is absolutely necessary to furnish the island with a good and stable market.

The next thing needed is a bank that will relieve the farmers from the blood-sucking usury they now suffer. Nearly all of them from season to season have to borrow money on their crops. For this they have to pay from 2 to 10 per cent a month. The bank, if established will be under the control of the Philippine Commission and thus limit the amount of interest it will be limited also to securities approved by the commission. These, however, will include growing crops, and they are the chief source of the farmer's borrowing strength. The dividends of the bank would be guaranteed by the Philippine government for a term of 25 years, but there is little doubt but what the institution would be more than self supporting from the start. There is a great need of additional transportation facilities in the island and although the government has authorized the construction of a thousand miles of new railway, it is said that amount could be increased to advantage. The ocean carrying trade is discussed in the report. It is said that from 60 to 75 per cent of the imports and exports are carried under the British flag. America has only 10 per cent of the carrying trade, but even this is an improvement over the previous year. France stands next to England in the list of carriers and Germany shows a decided falling off.

It was announced at the State Department today that Col. Colton, the general receiver of the customs service in Santo Domingo, had returned to Washington on business of personal nature that will not keep him long. But he reports conditions in the island much improved since the United States took hold of the customs houses, and this is a well founded belief. Since the United States has had the revenues in charge, there has been no chance for an uprising and the country is enjoying an unusual era of peace and prosperity.

The president, the secretaries of war and navy and a very large and distinguished crowd of officials will start today for Princeton to see football between army and navy. Both of the teams are said to be in fine condition and there is every prospect of a lively game before an unusually large, distinguished audience. The only thing that has happened decently to give a line on the respective merits of the team is that the Navy defeated the Virginia Polytechnic which had previously defeated West Point. But both games were very close and there is apparently little to choose between the two branches of the service.

The Secret of Success.

Forty million bottles of August Flower sold in the United States alone since its introduction! And the demand for it is growing. Isn't that a fine showing of success? Don't it prove that August Flower has had unflinching success in the cure of indigestion and dyspepsia—the two greatest enemies of health and happiness? Does it not afford the best evidence that August Flower is a sure specific for all stomach and intestinal disorders?—that it has proved itself the best of all liver regulators? August Flower has a matchless record of over thirty-five years in curing the ailing millions of these distressing complaints—a success that is becoming wider in its scope every day, at home and abroad, as the fame of August Flower spreads. Trial bottles, 25c; regular size, 75c. For sale by Woods & Orme.

Good Sign Writer.

W. Len, the well known sign painter, was in the city this week, and painted some very pretty signs that were quite satisfactory. He was here several years ago and the parties he painted signs for had him to do their work again. He is a specialist on the script letter and his work is very durable.

TIME TABLE CHANGES

Fast Trains to Stop at All County Seats.

RECORD'S PAST FORESIGHT.

Chicago and Nashville Through Train Service Has Become a Realization.

GREETED AS WELCOME IMPROVEMENT.

As predicted and fully discussed in our issue on March 10, last, the Chicago and Nashville through train service has become a realization and arrangements are about completed for the new time table which goes into effect Sunday. These trains make through runs to Nashville, Clarksville, Hopkinsville and intermediate points over the I. C. lines with close connection at Princeton for Paducah, Cairo, Memphis and New Orleans. It is thought that the station at Princeton will be rebuilt and the improvements so long needed will be made.

The time card for the fast trains has not been issued yet, but it is thought that the south bound trains will pass about 3:35 a. m. and 2:35 p. m., leaving Evansville at 1:40 a. m. and 12:50 p. m. Going north it is thought the trains will pass here about 1:55 p. m. and 4:25 a. m.

These trains will stop at all county seats along the line.

This calls for a night operator who will begin work about the tenth. It is not known yet as to who will get the place.

This change has long been discussed and agitated by the I. C. officials, and its adoption is greeted as a most welcome improvement.

By the change this division is cut off the Louisville division and becomes the main line of the Nashville division.

JENKINS BUILDING OFFICES ATTRACTIVE

Dr. F. W. Nunn Has Moved Into New and Up-to-date Quarters—Other Tenants Are Installed.

Of the twelve offices on the second floor of the Jenkins building, seven have been occupied.

This building is equipped with steam heat and electric lights throughout which makes it comfortable, commodious and up to date.

Offices 3 and 4 have been taken by Dr. F. W. Nunn who moved in this week and is now pretty well straightened up. The front office of his suit is beautifully finished, the walls being of a delicate pink and the drop near the ceiling blends from the pink to a delicate turquoise green which covers the ceiling. This color scheme is finished off with strips of dark mahogany beadings. The floor is varnished and of oil finish. Dark green shades and full length cream lace curtains are at the windows. The window seat will be upholstered in plush with hangings to match. This office contains a leather upholstered couch, library table, dressing stand and chairs.

The operating room opens to the left and contains a beautiful new cabinet, the operating chair and a table. The color scheme in this room is dark and light blue. The walls are of dark blue, the drop between walls and ceiling are of a dull orange and the ceiling light blue finished in the same way as number three.

Partitioned off in one corner of the operating room is a small laboratory which contains the working materials and tools.

Dr. Nunn has recently added to his outfit a somniforme inhaler with which arrangement he is enabled to extract teeth without pain. This arrangement fits over the mouth and nose and the patient falls asleep in less than twenty seconds after inhaling the liquid. Persons whom Dr. Nunn has tried this on declare that they feel no pain at the time and it has no evil effects afterward.

Dr. Nunn invites the public to call and see him in his new office.

—00—

Number five is occupied by School Superintendent Z. A. Bennett and brother, of Livingston county, and J. B. Kevil, of this city. Mr. Bennett, whose term of office expires January 1, will take up his abode here, together with his brother. They have purchased the agency of the farm department of the Continental Fire Insurance Company. They will work this and life insurance, and, within the corporate limits of Marion, Bennett, Kevil & Co. will write fire insurance for the Milwaukee Mechanics. This company now occupies an office on the second floor of the Jenkins building. They will also engage in the real estate business.

Numbers six and seven are occupied by Champion & Champion and W. H. Clark, attorneys-at-law, of whom we have made mention in a recent issue of this paper.

—00—

Dr. G. E. Shively, mayor elect, has engaged and occupied number nine. He has furnished it neatly and beautifully. The floor is covered with a handsome druggist, the windows with dark green shades and little sash curtains. The walls are decorated with pictures tastily arranged. A large leather upholstered couch, table, desk and chairs complete the furnishings.

Kemp-Babb.

Wednesday afternoon at 3 o'clock p. m. Miss Elvah Babb and Will C. Kemp were joined in matrimony at the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Milt Babb, who live near Piney, the Rev. R. A. LaRue, of Levisa, officiating. It was an informal wedding, only the relatives and near friends of the contracting parties being present. The bride is an attractive young lady and the daughter of one of the leading families of this county. The fortunate groom is a son of Geo. Kemp, a prominent farmer near Iron Hill. He had just returned from college in Eastern Kentucky and for the past three years has been attending medical lectures in Louisville.

After the ceremony the bride and groom, accompanied by friends and relatives, repaired to the home of the groom, where a wedding feast awaited them. There was much feasting and music and the merriment lasted until a late hour. Mr. Kemp will leave for Louisville about the first of January to complete his medical course, and he will be accompanied thither by his wife.

In Praise of Chamberlain's Cough Remedy.

There is no other medicine manufactured that has received so much praise and so many expressions of gratitude as Chamberlain's Cough Remedy. It is effective, and prompt relief follows its use. Grateful parents everywhere do not hesitate to testify to its merits for the benefit of others. It is a certain cure for croup and will prevent the attack if given at the first appearance of the disease. It is especially adapted to children as it is pleasant to take and contains nothing injurious. Mr. E. A. Humphreys, a well-known resident and clerk in the store of Mr. E. Lock, of Alice, Cape Colony, South Africa, says: "I have used Chamberlain's Cough Remedy to ward off colds and colds in my family. I found it to be very satisfactory and it gives me pleasure to recommend it." For sale by Haynes & Taylor, the enterprising druggists of Marion.

Auction Sale.

I will on Thursday, December 14, sell at public outcry to the highest bidder all my household and kitchen furniture, and some live stock and farming machinery named and described below. The sale will occur at the Carter farm four miles east of Marion on the Wilson farm road.

The property to be sold consists of 1 horse, 1 mare, 1 mule one-year old; 2 cows, 7 fattening hogs, 1 wagon, 1 buggy, 1 mowing machine, 1 hay rake, 1 hay loader, farming implements, corn and hay, household and kitchen furniture.

Terms: All amounts over $10 on six month's time with 6 per cent interest approved security. Amounts under $10 cash in hand. J. W. CARTER.

Attention, Knights!

All K of P's are requested to be present at the meeting in Castle Hall Friday night, December 8th, as election of officers is in order.

J. FRANK DODGE, C. C. R. L. FLANARY, K. of R. and S.

White serge has been revived and bids fair to become extremely popular.

STATUE ERECTED TO THE DEVIL

Strange Structure Which Is Unveiled
in Detroit by Herman Menz—
An Atheist.

Many religious persons in Detroit are much stirred up by the action of Herman Menz, a stonecutter, who has unveiled on a centrally located piece of property of his own a statue to the devil. Menz is an avowed infidel, and last summer attracted attention by fighting for a city law which would prevent religious services in tents unless those holding them paid licenses "like the proprietors of any other humbug show," he said.

The statue which Menz has unveiled stands more than fourteen feet high. Satan is represented as stooping behind a pulpit, thus expressing Menz's belief that the devil's greatest stronghold is the pulpit, that his mouthpieces are preachers, and that churches do more harm than good. From the pulpit the devil is looking out, supposedly over his congregation, and the expression of his face is one of fiendish joy. Horns are protruding from his head, and carved in the stone directly in front is the big ugly fork with which he is supposed to prod sinners in the fire. For a time after being unveiled the statue was draped in American flags, but indignation grew to such an extent that these were taken off and a single ribbon of small American flags was left around Old Nick's neck.

This statue is carved out of granite, and the effect which it has already had upon hundreds of people is remarkable. It is plainly visible from two streets over which thousands of persons pass every day, and there are many women who now go out of their way in order not to see the statue. In fact, it is said that this devil may have such an effect upon the women and children who can see it from their homes that the city may have to take action to remove it. This, however, Menz will fight to the end. He is already making little holes in the monument, and next spring will plant in these a hundred or so bulbs, so that Satan will look down upon his surroundings not only from a pulpit, but over an Eden of verdure as well.

On the base of the monument Menz has cut the following Latin inscription:
Homo non est Creatio,
Sed Evolutio;
Deus non Fecit Hominem,
Sed Homo Fecit Deos.

Asked as to why he put up such a sacrilegious statue, Menz said: "Satan is my friend. He spoke the first and last truth. I do not believe a word in the Bible. It is a pack of lies from beginning to end, but Old Nick tells the truth. They tell you if you disbelieve one word of the Bible you are damned. Then I am damned, and I will go to him!" and Menz pointed to the statue.

"Didn't God tell Adam and Eve in the Garden of Eden that they would die if they ate from the Tree of Knowledge? Didn't Satan come and tell them that they would not die, and didn't he tell the truth?"

"If there are such things as devil and God, I would prefer to go to the devil!"

Menz was born in Germany, but has lived in Detroit for twenty-one years. He says his parents were infidels before him and that his wife and two daughters are also infidels. His house, which he built with his own hands, is decorated with strange looking heads and images of strange beings.—Exchange.

Furious Fighting.

"For seven years," writes Geo. W. Hoffman, of Harper, Wash., "I had a bitter battle with chronic stomach and liver trouble, but at last I won, and cured my diseases by the use of Electric Bitters. I unhesitatingly recommend them to all, and don't intend in the future to be without them in the house. They are certainly a wonderful medicine, to have cured such a bad case as mine." Sold under guarantee to do the same for you, by Haynes & Taylor, druggists, at 50c a bottle. Try them today.

POINTED PARAGRAPHS ON THE MARKET

Quoted From "Business," a Journal Giving Information Concerning Trade Industry.

DRY GOODS.

Some bargains left for immediate orders.

Advance sales satisfactory. Large gingham business. Silk prices will probably advance. Linens continue good sellers. Staple dry goods mills sold far into next season.

Higher prices on all lines of staples the prospect for spring. Unprecedented season expected in white goods.

Mohairs will have permanent place in spring sales.

THE BROWNIES HAVE ARRIVED IN MARION!

Calling on All the Principal Business Firms in the City--Will Remain Over Next Week and the Rest of the Story to be Told in Our Next Issue.

A queer arrangement next they saw:
A man neld muslin with one paw,
Beneath a dainty presserfoot
That looked just like a little boot.
A seam strung out along the goods--
Such things were strangers in the woods--
And one said, "What you 'spose it is?"
A "Singer Sewing Machine," yelled the man of biz.
"No other machine the people use
Who have the proper sort of views."

The dudelet's eye-glass broke in two,
Which made his nibs look rather blue.
But Dr. G. W. Stone soon fitted him
With glasses neither warped nor dim,
That pleased the dude and all the others.
Likewise their sisters, aunts and brothers
Had glasses made and fitted there.

The home of knowledge, skill and care.

To haul their luggage from the train
To their hotel and back again,
A transfer company was needed;
So everyone's advice they heeded;
Marion Coal & Transfer Company wagons were employed
And the 'bus ride, too, the imps enjoyed.
So when again they strike the town,
Marion Transfer Company will haul their traps around.

Then one old Brownie scratched his knot
And said, "There's something I forgot--
There's something else to get today--
Oh, I know now!" And straight away
He hied to Dorr's new furniture store
Where went the others too; and more
Fine styles they saw at lower prices--
That is the secret that entices--
Then every Brownie was delighted
And bought till other stores felt slighted.

Their lots and lands the Brownies bought
Of Conway & Stone; and each one got
A home to suit the finest taste
Although they had no "chink" to waste.
For everything these dealers had
Was good--they keep not what is bad,
And each wee imp was satisfied
With home and pocket-book beside.

Everything in the grocery line,
Canned goods, fruits, and all that's fine,
Fell beneath the Brownie's eyes,
Causing many a glad surprise.
Coffees, sugars, teas and spice,
All good things that would entice
Anyone, at H. Koltinsky's, they bought,
And at prices next to naught.

And then to guy their little friend,
The Brownie's voices all did blend,
But he with smile cared nothing for it,
And said, "Long hair, me heap abhor it,
And now to Foster's barber shop me go,
For there the work, me let you know,
Is done in shape and latest style,
And in the very littlest while."

"Attention!" roared the Brownie chief,
Each Brownie trembled like a leaf,
"American Field Fence is my theme,
And what I tell you is no dream.
At Hina-Babb's store they sell
The best fence made; it's always well
As e'er was made by any hand.

Their special line of heavy work
Will stand the hardest strain or jerk.
Their silver, nickle, rubber finish
Makes trade increase and not diminish.
And sweat pads, collars, trunks, valises,
Whips, blankets, robes, the stock increases
And brings a trade that never ceases.

Bread made at home is always nice
For any who don't like the price
Of bakers' bread. And biscuits fine
Beat all else in the eating line.
So flour was what some Brownies wanted
And every street and lane they haunted
Until they found Marion Milling Company
Where each one bought with little money
To carry home for dainty spouses
Who do the cooking of their houses.

Their little shirts began to wilt,
And cuffs and collars that were built
To stand the heat, began to melt;
And folded o'er with many a welt;
But with a wink their Uncle Sam
Said: "Listen here! Quite sure I am
That Wilson's Steam Laundry is the place
Where we'll renew departed grace."

And thither all the Brownie's duds
Were sent; immersed beneath the suds
They all regained their former hue;
Why don't you do as Brownies do?

Some of the merrier group of wealthier build
With gold and silver coin had pockets snugly filled;
So fearing that when night drew on a-pace,
Some wandering footpad might give them a chase,
They quickly to the Marion Bank did go;
And depositing their coin, were anything but slow.
Behind strong doors their money safely stored,
They then no longer feared the thieving hoard.

Well knowing that for safe protection in this line,
The Marion Bank is the safest every time

After seeing all the place they could,
The Brownies straight pronounced it good.
Their prophet hastened then to say:
"It is growing greater every day.
Soon sewers will traverse the town,
And street cars, too, will run around,
Big factories, plants and industries,
And people thick as leaves on trees!
We must keep up with the city's news
And its best paper oft peruse."
So every imp of the Brownie tribe
For THE CRITTENDEN RECORD did subscribe.

A little Brownie babe had died--
Ah me! The Brownies sobbed and cried.
But placed in dainty, snowy casket,
Like pure white flowers in dainty basket,
It looked so peaceful, so serene,
Few tears fell o'er the mound of green;
For Nunn & Tucker laid the child away
Tenderly, in its home of clay.

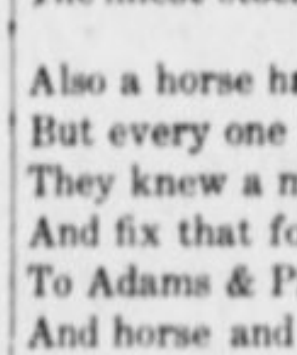

To mark the baby's resting place,
Since they had missed that baby face,
A handsome stone of marble hue
They bought; 'twas beautiful to view
The handsome line of granite blocks
They had, all hewn from living rocks,
At Hughes & Henry's where he bought this stone,
'Graved with the simple phrase, "Our Own."

Returning from their dusty drive,
They scarcely knew they were alive,
Till they had changed their grimy linen
For clothes so white it set them grinnin'.
And little Brownie bodies, too,
Were cleansed, refreshed, made good as new
In Metz & Sedberry's bath-tubs clean--
The finest any town has seen.

Some beef and mutton, veal and pork,
For even, spit or roasting fork
The dutchman sought to carry home
To Brownieland. A Searce did he roam
A square before he found a prize
That made him bulge his azure eyes;
It was at J. W. Givens & Son that he found
The finest stock above the ground.

Also a horse had cast a shoe,
But every one knew what to do.
They knew a man who'd "let 'em kick"
And fix that foot up very quick.
To Adams & Pierce's then, they went,
And horse and Brownies were content.
They'd often heard how they could mend
Any old thing--and superintend the making
Of any great big undertaking.
Make a wagon, set a spoke,
Fix a hub when it got broke;
And they were satisfied to know
No other work but theirs would go
Among good people who realized
The value of good men in an enterprise.

Whenever a Brownie lad you spy
With latest collar, that and tie,
You can safely put it down
That at no other place in town
Could he have got the price he asked
Of all his produce. And the task
Of selling it from door to door,
He had to worry with no more.

And now he chants from morn till night
The praise of Schwab with all his might.

"Upon my soul," said one wee guy,
"I'm on my uppers and that's why
I'm hunting hard to find a shop
Where I can shortly make a stop
To get some first class printing done."
A Brownie lassie's heart he had won;
He quickly stopped as on the run
He spied the concrete RECORD office;
It seemed to him a kind of nooke,
But with his usual smiling face
He said that he had found the place
To get the best job work, and news
From all the world to peruse;
He wished to send some invitations
To all his neighbors and relations,
Asking them to see him marry.
And, as he had not long to tarry,
One moment served to close the trade,
And Brownie's order was well made.

Materials for their dwellings new
The Brownies bought, and wisely, too.
For straight to Boston & Paris they skipped
Till o'er his lumber piles they tripped.
They purchased seasoned oak and pine,
Cedar, ash, walnut, cherry fine,
Maple and poplar, hickory, all
For which the wisest man might call.

Plans for buildings of every style
They got in just a little while
From Harris & Shopbell, Evansville men,
Who planned the work from end to end
Of Marion; the old, new town
By the fire of last March burned down.
These architects cannot be beat;
Their buildings stand sun, rain and sleet.

A finish for their boards they sought,
Lest they should gather wet, and rot.
So Boston & Paris' planing mill they found
Where fine mill-work abounds and skill abound.
Naught did they seek but it was there,
And work was done with speed and care.
Complete in every way it was
With a finest planes and lathes and saws.

One errand that the Brownies had
In coming, was, they needed bad
Some one to do their plumbing work
In Brownieland. With many a jerk
They wrote to Johnnie O. Donnell,
Of Evansville, whose vice and drill
Does plumbing work and does it well,
As any one in town will tell.

With a handy crew of hand,
Now it's time for Brownie band.

ISSUED WEEKLY.

JAS. E. CHITTENDEN,
Editor and Publisher.

SUBSCRIPTION ONE DOLLAR PER YEAR.

Entered as second-class matter July 15, 1904, at the postoffice at Marion, Ky., under Act of Congress of March 3, 1879.

FRIDAY, DEC. 8, 1905.

A special to the Louisville Herald

Representative Ollie M. James, of Kentucky, has drawn up three bills which will introduce in the House next week. One directs federal judges to honor requisition papers issued by the governor of a state when they are ignored by another governor. The purpose of this measure is to effect the extradition of W. J. Taylor, the fugitive Republican governor, who fled to Indianapolis after the assassination of William Goebel, his Democratic opponent.

Mr. James introduced this bill last year, but it was immediately pigeon-holed by the committee on judiciary, and that is certain to be its fate again.

His second bill seeks to remove the six cents per pound tax on altered stemmed and twist tobacco. An earnest effort was made by the representatives of all tobacco growing states last year to have this tax abolished, but it was not renewed this winter. Third bill aims to prohibit fer from state to federal all suits involving less than $10. The present limitation on the farms of as shown by govern- 1905 reached the highest amount ever attained in this or any other country—$6,415,000,000.

The Lyon County Times reports that Capt. W. J. Stone has sold his fine farm, "Stone-hurst," and purchased the Kuttawa waterworks, consideration, $15,000. He will reside in Kuttawa and install an electric light plant.

Regardless of the fact that quite a number of residences have been built in Marion in the last twelve months, it is remarkable that a vacant house cannot be found. It sometimes occurs that when a new corner purchases a piece of property and takes possession, the occupants, one or more families, have to store away their household goods until a new house can be built.

Very Low Homeseekers' Rates.

Very low homeseekers' rates during September, October and November, 1905, to Minnesota, North Dakota, Montana, Saskatchewan, Assiniboia and points in Idaho and British Columbia and points east of the Cascade Mountains in Washington and Oregon. Your chance to see the magnificent harvest now in progress and to select equally productive wild or improved land. The round trip for one fare plus $2.

Fast passenger service. Luxurious standard and tourist sleeping cars. Write for maps and pamphlets to C. W. Mott, general emigration agent. Regarding rates and train service write to C. P. O'Donnell, D. P. A., 42 Jackson Place, Indianapolis, Ind. A. M. CLELAND, General Passenger Agent, St. Paul, Minn.

The tephys, collard and white linen, and oatmeal cloth are all tempting.

Educational Column

W. HUGH WATSON, Editor.

In that broader life of active citizenship for which the formative period of school life prepares him we may well consider the country boy the teacher's constituency. He is more, viewing him in the light of a decade or two hence. Substantial material is he for man-making, sturdy, honest, ready to brave hardship, willing to lay hold of success with the "horny hand of toil." What with a robust body, healthy brain and steady nerves, and these heritages being trained and pruned by teacher's skill well can we look forward to the broad-minded citizen of whom his country can proudly boast.

From a rough block of marble the sculptor with the delicate etchings of his chisel shapes into form the beauty of his dream. But it is cold and lifeless. It cannot return the admiration of admirers, and its silent influence is found alone in its beauty. For art's sake it is the angel of the artist, and has life only in the world of art. Nor would we rob art of any glory belonging to its creative genius, but a greater thing than art is here—a human being whose plastic mind is susceptible to slightest impressions. With heart strokes, thought strokes and other strokes the teacher sets in motion influences whose tiniest waves will be felt while life is. Happy for teacher, happy for child if the influence is for the better. And much, indeed, does depend upon the teacher in the shaping of this flesh dream, rough even though it be. To many teachers the average boy is the active, turbulent dream of wakeful, restless hours; hours spent in devising plans whereby his versatile mischief powers may be brought within the bounds of discipline. For in this he is a wonder. As a bundle of varieties to get into mischief, and with as many ways to tide him through the storm his mischief has raised. But from this foundation must be builded obedience, self-reliance and sturdy manhood.

It is almost an axiom that one who can govern well can teach well. Good government will often overbalance minor deficiencies in knowledge while poor government will place at a discount higher efficiencies in knowledge. But mind you, I don't intend making this the chief and only qualification of the teacher. In most instances, however, it is the standard by which the school work is measured, no doubt because it is the easiest point to get at. Nor should we overlook the personality behind every request or command, for if the real is not there, after detection of the artificiality, the governing power will be at a discount.

Variety is an excellent pathway to discipline. Who has not tired of the monotonous tread-mill grind? In the old, old rut the old, old machinery has run so long that it has evolved a sort of perpetual motion. Remember that in the rut is rust and in the rust is death. The blaze of the twentieth century is upon us and we must meet it and enter it with that progressiveness which it demands, or seek that path of glory which leads to the grave of private life.

But, teachers, I would not have you think little of the profession. It is greater than you think it is after a hard day's work, and the results,

IS IT NOT TO YOUR INTEREST TO Trade With Schwab?

Are you not satisfied to have a house that stays open the year around? You are fully aware that all others have quit every summer. You surely don't care to sell five months in the year and eat your surplus seven months in the year. For twenty years you had this experience. Stay with those that stay with you.

"My Friend From Arkansas."

One of the greatest successes of the past dramatic seasons was Robert Sherman's production of the four act comedy drama, "My Friend From Arkansas." It is again meeting with the same success this season, for the people who witnessed it before, are discovering new beauties in its presentation. This drama will live for many seasons for it is a clean, healthy play and decidedly interesting. It tells a pretty and strong story in a simple, direct manner, and certainly those who enjoy heart-reaching stories in dramatic form cannot afford to miss it. The above play will be seen at the opera house Tuesday, December 12.

You Must Sleep.

If you cannot, it is due to an irritated or congested state of the brain, which will soon develop into nervous prostration.

Nature demands sleep, and it is as important as food; it is a part of her building and sustaining process. This period of unconsciousness relaxes the mental and physical strain, and allows nature to restore exhausted vitality.

Dr. Miles' Nervine brings refreshing sleep, because it soothes the irritation and removes the congestion.

It is also a nerve builder; it nourishes and strengthens every nerve in your body, and creates energy in all the organs. Nothing will give strength and vitality as surely and quickly as Dr. Miles' Nervine.

"During the past winter I had two attacks of LaGrippe which left me very weak, and in bad condition. I was so nervous I could not sleep. My wife, after trying different remedies, went for a doctor. The doctor was out, and a neighbor recommended Dr. Miles' Nervine, and she brought home a bottle. I had not slept for some time, and had terrible pains in my head. After taking a few doses of Nervine the pain was not so severe, and I slept. I am now taking the second bottle, and am very much improved."

HENRY M. SMITH, Underhill, Vt.
Dr. Miles' Nervine is sold by your druggist, who will guarantee that the first bottle will benefit. If it fails, he will refund your money.

Kind Words.

BY J. E. PILANT.

In this world I've gained my knowledge

And for it I've had to pay;

I have never gone to college,

But I have heard the poet say:

"Life is like a mighty river

Rolling on from day to day;

Men, like vessels launched upon it,

Sometimes lost and cast away."

Let us do much for each other,

Making life a pleasant dream,

Let's help a poor and lonely brother

Pulling hard against the stream;

If the wind is in your favor

And you've gained at every turn,

Think of those who luckless labor,

Who have bread and meat to earn.

If you have been blessed by heaven,

With a happy, prosperous life,

Be not hard upon thy brother,

Be a hero in the strife.

If you've been blessed with health and plenty

By a bounteous hand above;

Forget not that friend beside you;

Speak to him some word of love.

If you cannot give him money,

Kind words may do as well;

They never cost the giver much;

The good, eternity alone can tell.

Torture of a Preacher.

The story of the torture of Rev. O. D. Moore, pastor of the Baptist church of Harpersville, N. Y., will interest you. He says: "I suffered agonies because of a persistent cough, resulting from the grip. I had to sleep sitting up in bed, I tried many remedies, without relief, until I took Dr. King's New Discovery for Consumption Coughs and Colds, which entirely cured my cough, and saved me from consumption." ### Tourist Cars Popular.

The idea that an inferior class of people patronize the tourist sleepers is an error. On many trips only the best class of travelers are found. They are merely men and women of good sense who would rather travel to California in this manner and save a snug sum of money to be used elsewhere. It is beginning to be understood that it is by no means necessary for the traveler to spend a large sum of money in order to enjoy a trip to the Pacific coast.

If you cross the continent in one of the tourist sleepers of the Union Pacific you will enjoy your trip and save considerable money. Inquire of

OUR FASHION LETTER.

Winter Styles Have Brought a Change in Sleeves.

MOHAIR BRAID IS MUCH USED

Black Gloves Are Worn With Short Sleeved Gowns—Pastel Tints In Serges and Soft Faced Cloths—Chiffon Over White For Blouses.

Winter styles have brought about a very decided change in sleeves. The puff at the shoulder is distinctly smaller and consequently much more becoming to the average wearer.

There is no doubt that the blouse fastened in the back affords the best opportunity for embroidery. One is able to elaborate the design if the front is in one piece. Even the use of the yoke limits the space for the embroidery unless it is a very narrow one. A new and most becoming yoke which does not take much of the available space is one where clusters of tucks start from the shoulders and complete a group below the neck line. This short yoke is very becoming. It is formed in the same way in the back, and there are lengthwise tucks down the center on each side of the plait which correspond to the group in the front. The spaces between them are embroidered with dots in white cotton.

Mohair braid is being much used as trimming. It is arranged lengthwise with good effect upon skirts. It is also very useful in the renovation or alteration of garments. A wide braid can be used as a hip yoke to lengthen a skirt or form a cuff for a sleeve that is too short. Sleeves constitute the greatest difficulty in making a last season's bodice up to date. In order to make a sleeve large at the top it is best to convert the sleeve into an elbow one by cutting it into the shape of a half circle as wide as its shape will permit and putting four or five ruffles of lace or plaited muslin at the end of it. Follow it up by a tightly fitting undersleeve of lace to the wrists.

The blouse illustrated is of white taffeta. Pin tucks overlaid with motifs of English embroidery form the yoke. The sleeves are elaborately trimmed.

GLOVES AND FABRICS.

The modish glove for the short sleeved gown is black, whatever the color of the bodice worn. Black is everywhere a contrasting note in the new styles which bring velvet ribbon again to the fore as a valuable dress trimming.

Pastel tints are smart this season, especially in French serges and soft faced cloths, and in these colorings are many soft, attractive shades in silks. A favorite color is willow green that comes in taffeta and the beautiful double width oriental satins which are so much used in evening gowns.

Chiffon and chiffon cloth will be made up over white for blouses. Some of these waists will be made of a lighter shade of tan color of the broadcloth suit with which they are worn.

At the beginning of the season checks were voted second rate, but further developments have shown them to be still favorites despite the evidence. In Panama cloth they are especially attractive and serviceable.

The girl's frock pictured is of checked cheviot. The bolero has a yoke extending over the top of the sleeve cut in one with the front. Buttons of gold and soutache braid trim this pretty little dress. A deep cuff added to the elbow sleeves would make a practical model of this gown.

WHAT TO WEAR.

For street wear this season the hat must match the gown if the wearer is to be considered at all smart, but for the evening black hats of velvet seem to be the favorites. As to colors, one has only to look at the fall dress materials to know what tones lead in millinery. Greens, including the soft pastel shades; browns, reds, blues and grays are shown in such a variety of shades that it is difficult to fix on one color as the favorite.

Many of the smart coats have high, double, turnover collars that open in front to display a knotted silk tie with embroidered ends.

Velvet waists are to be popular this winter. The great objection to a waist of this material is the warmth, but the newest weaves of velvet are comparatively light when compared with those of a few years ago. Made with a transparent yoke and collar of lace instead of a high lined stock they are quite comfortable and certainly becoming.

Long, straight scarfs of fur that drape the figure as did the chiffon scarfs this summer are to be modish. All the pliable skins are made up in this style. Most of the season's muffs are flat and soft.

The fur mantle seen in the picture is of beautifully marked mink. Cape-like pieces cover the sleeves to the elbow, and a long stole trimmed with short tails adorns the front.

VANITY'S VISIONS.

Oval buckles of white pearl are not expensive and give a white belt an individual air.

Straight front corsets are still in vogue, although there are more out lines of a waist at the sides. They are so cut that they are hygienic. The fabrics used for the new corsets are of the lightest textures, such as batiste or silk brocade, unlined and well boned.

So many and varied are the uses which have grown out of the ribbon craze that ribbon is now fashioned into whole gowns.

Linen chemisettes and cuffs are ornamented with eyelet embroidery are worn with shirt waist suits. French embroidered sets of linen lawn will also be fashionable. With elbow sleeves long, all over embroidery cuffs reaching up to the elbow will be smart this winter. With this style short gloves may be worn.

A new hat of black velvet with a broad brim and high crown is fairly loaded with black ostrich plumes.

Fuchsia reds and blues will play a part in color schemes, and Parisians are devoted this winter to a soft, medium shade of gray called platine and also to a shade of green disrespectfully dubbed pea soup.

Very stunning is the hat seen in the picture of brown velvet rimmed with tan colored feathers and an egret. The choux under the brim are of violet velvet.

THE SUNDAY SCHOOL

LESSON XI, FOURTH QUARTER, INTERNATIONAL SERIES, DEC. 10.

Text of the Lesson, Neh. viii, 8-18. Memory Verses, 17, 18—Golden Text, Luke xi, 28—Commentary Prepared by Rev. D. M. Stearns.

[Copyright, 1900, by American Press Association.] This lesson should be one of special interest to all who are privileged to attend Bible studies or conferences and an inducement to others to do so. It is an account of a seven days' conference for Bible reading, at which the book of the law of Moses was read in the hearing of all the men and women who assembled from morning until midday (verses 1-3, 18). Later in the same month, on the 24th day, the people gathered again and read in the book of the law of the Lord their God one-fourth part of the day, and another fourth part they confessed and worshipped the Lord their God (chapter ix, 1-3). It was a time of a real work of the Spirit of God among them, resulting in obedience and in separation from sin.

An account of the seventh month, with its feasts of trumpets, atonement and tabernacles, is found in Lev. xxiii and should be carefully studied in connection with this lesson. The three might be summarized in such words as these: The proclamation of the forgiveness of sins causing great joy to all the people. See Acts xiii, 38, 39, for a good comment.

Verses 8 of our lesson is, I think, the best definition of good reading that I have ever seen. I do not know why it might not be applied to singing also, especially to solo or duet singing, or such like. But, if so applied, what about the singing that does not come under this head? Well, away with it all. Let it perish, for there is no place for it in the worship of God.

As to both the law and the prophets, God took care that the words should be very plainly written, so that those who read might run to obey (Deut. xxvii, 8; Hab. ii, 2). The necessity of understanding the word and how to understand it may be learned from Matt. xiii, 19, 23; xvi, 9, 11; Acts viii, 30; Heb. xi, 3; iv, 2. What shall be said of the sermons and essays which few of the hearers can understand, but which are supposed to indicate superior talent on the part of the speaker? Sad it is, but true, that there are many who, like the old Scotch woman, consider such efforts very learned simply because they would not presume to understand them.

The word of God is quick and powerful, discerning the thoughts and intents of the heart (Heb. iv, 12); hence the people mourned and wept as by the words of the book they saw their sin before God (verse 9). The Spirit of God convicts of sin and of righteousness and of judgment (John xvi, 8-11), and without conviction of sin and repentance there can be no real blessing.

The feast of trumpets on the first day of the month was always accompanied by an offering made by fire (Lev. 23-25), and all offerings pointed to Him who was made sin for us, through whom alone there is forgiveness. The people, being penitent, are therefore exhorted to rejoice because of the redemption provided, and, being made to understand, they did rejoice and made great mirth and helped to make others glad (10-12). He who said, "I delight to do Thy will, O my God" (Ps. xl, 8; Heb. x, 7), said to His disciples the night before He suffered: "These things have I spoken unto you that your joy might remain in you and that your joy might be full." "Ask and ye shall receive, that your joy might be full" (John xv, 11; xvi, 24). The joy of the Lord is associated with the salvation of His people in Isa. xli, 2, 3; xxxv, 1, 4; lxi, 10. See also the joy in Luke xv.

There are many in our day who profess to be redeemed of the Lord—whether they are or not the Lord knows—who seem to think that real happiness is inconsistent with what they call religion and endeavor to find a relief for their gloominess in the words, "Blessed are they that mourn," not noticing the context. There are also some who really do receive and trust in the Lord Jesus and His great atonement, but they do not seem to find the joy of the Lord notwithstanding Rom. xv, 13; v, 1, 2; viii, 18; 1 Pet. i, 8, and many other similar words. It must be because of some failure on their part to become occupied with Jesus only and rest on His word.

As the people heard the words out of the book from day to day they learned that they were expected to keep the Feast of Tabernacles (Lev. xxiii, 33-43), and they did so for the first time since the days of Joshua (verse 17), and there was very great gladness. This feast would recall how God had cared for them all through the wilderness journey. See Deut. viii, 2-4. We are so apt to forget His mercies. There are so many for whom nothing seems to be prepared (verse 10). God has made the same provision for all, but He has put the matter of making it known or passing it on in the hands of those who have heard, saying, "Let him that heareth say come" (Rev. xxi, 17), and because we who have heard are disobedient or indifferent millions who might be saved if they only knew about it are still perishing. Well may He say to us, "Is it nothing to you?" (Lam. i, 12). There is a word in chapter viii, 64, concerning some whose names could not be found on the register, and they were therefore, as polluted, put from the priesthood. It is wholly a secondary matter to have our names on a so called church register, but it is all important to have our names in the Lamb's book of life (Luke x, 20; Rev. xx, 15). If they are not there an awful doom awaits us, and if they are there and we believe (Rev. xx, 15) how can we help sending this word to those who have never heard?

Farmer Bunker and the Widow

[Original.]

"Zeke," said Farmer Bunker, "why don't y' make up to Mandy Sniffen? She's purtier 'n a new mowin' machine an' as good a gal as ever lived."

"H'm," replied the wary son, "wimmen's what y' say—jist like a mowin' machine. They're purty enough till y' git 'em harnesssed up; then they cut down everything in their way."

Farmer Bunker since the death of Zeke's mother, a year before, had been casting longing eyes at the widow Sniffen, Mandy's mother. Knowing that his son had an objection to having any one put in his own mother's place, he felt if he could get Zeke to make a match with the daughter he might overcome the boy's scruples. But Zeke saw the trap and did not relish the advantage his falling into it would give his father. The old man, having failed with his bait, concluded to do a little courting and then propose. Zeke watched the maneuvers with anxiety.

One morning after one of the farmer's visits to the widow he awoke to see the widow's cow rummaging in his corn, some of which she had trampled underfoot. The old man fired up at once, but, remembering the situation between him and the widow, quietly drove the cow over a low place in the fence by which she had made her entrance to the shed where she belonged. He asked Zeke if he had carelessly left the fence lowered, and Zeke said that he had not. Then the farmer surmised that the cow had done it with her horns.

In a few days the cow was in the corn again. This time after the farmer had driven her out, he went to the widow and suggested that she put a poke around the cow's neck. The widow declared that the cow didn't need a poke, that she was as good a cow as ever gave milk and that some one on the Bunker farm must have been careless about the fence. Bunker assured her that there was no one on his farm except himself and his son and neither of them had touched the fence. There was a flash of temper between the two, and the farmer went away insisting on a poke for the cow. Zeke heard him grumbling and said:

"Father, don't y' believe me when I say I hain't touched the fence?"

"Of course I do, Zeke."

"Well, if I didn't do it an' y' didn't do it, the cow must 'a' done it. The widder should get her a poke."

"That's what I tol' her, an' she tol's the cow don't need a poke. She kind o' fired up when I mentioned it."

"What'd I tell y' about mowin' machines, father?"

The old man went off snorting.

Again the cow was found in the corn, and this time there was no change to be noticed in the fence. The balance of the farmer's corn was destroyed, and he went to the widow in a frame of mind by no means lovely.

"Mis' Sniffen," he began in an unacceptable tone, "y'r cow has ruined $50 worth of corn for me, an' I suppose—"

"Mr. Bunker, I want y' to understand that I hain't responsible for my cow gittin' into no farm that's not properly protected."

"My farm is properly protected," the farmer retorted.

At this moment Mandy appeared on the scene and took a hand in the proceedings, but not as might be expected. "Mr. Bunker," she said, "I think y' are right. Our cow's a bad un."

"Mandy," said her mother hotly, "y' go straight into the house."

Mandy obeyed, pouting, and her interference having only added fuel to her mother's anger, the widow gave the farmer such a dressing as he had never had before. The old man went home, muttering, and as he passed his son, who had been leaning on the fence listening, he said, "Wimmen is mowin' machines, true 'nough, Zeke, all except the gal, an' she's an angel."

"Wouldn't trust any of 'em, father?"

"Y' kin trust her sartin. She hain't like her mother a bit. She tol' the ole lug jist what she was."

About a week after this, when the feelings of the two old persons had had time to cool, Zeke, who was sleeping comfortably in bed, awoke and heard a sound without. He got up and, going to the window, saw by the light of the moon, which was full, Mandy let down the fence and drive her mother's cow into the inclosure.

Zeke jumped into his clothes, ran downstairs and caught the girl before she reached her home.

"Mandy," he said, "y'r keched. I sor y' drivin' the cow into our farm. What'd y' do it for?"

Mandy hung her head. Most girls look pretty in moonlight, and Mandy was a pretty girl at any time. She made a confession. Fearing that her mother would give her a stepfather, she had been putting the cow in among his corn for the purpose of making trouble. She had served a double purpose for herself and Zeke.

"What'd y' take sides with dad for?" he asked.

"Oh, I know mother. If I'd 'a' sided with her she'd 'a' turned in his favor an' made it up."

"Mandy," said Zeke, "y'r a remarkable smart gal. Y'e broke it off between the two old uns, an' dad wants"—He hesitated.

"What's he want?"

"He wants me to marry y'."

Mandy turned half around, looked down and waited. Zeke went to her and put his arm around her waist, and they stood silent, with none but the round moon looking down on them.

One day Mandy and Zeke walked off to a parson and were married. Farmer Bunker's delight was in proportion to the widow's chagrin.

CORA ARTHUR

A HUNTING PARTY

[Original.]

After father's death mother and I lived alone together. It was pretty hard for mother, with no man in the house, and I was only a girl of sixteen. We did all the housework ourselves, which wasn't much, and as much of the farm work as we were able to do.

Mother never kept any money in bank. In the first place, there was no bank nearer than ten miles, and, in the second, she wouldn't have known how to keep a bank account.

One day, one of our horses having died, mother went to town to buy another. At the time one farm hand was at work for us, a man we had engaged a few days before. Mother had been gone but about half an hour when he came into the house and told me she had asked him to keep a sharp look-out for me, as I was only a girl, alone, and without protection. He was so kindly spoken that at first I believed him. This emboldened him to say that there were tramps lurking about and I would do well to put any money there might be in the house in a safe place. Then I began to suspect that he said this to find out whether there was any money in the house, so I told him that all the money had been paid out except what mother had taken with her to pay for the horse she intended to buy. Then he threw off all pretense and ransacked the house. Not finding what he was after, he came into the kitchen, where I was washing dishes, and, taking up a knife, threatened to kill me if I didn't tell where the money was kept.

Our sex are always dreading such trials as I was passing through, but when they come we surprise ourselves by standing up under them with unexpected coolness. I couldn't see how it was his interest to kill me, since the secret (for him) would die with me. I kept my mind bent on the problem of how to outwit him, but to outwit a man in a farmhouse, with no telephone or telephone or any one within calling distance, is not an easy matter, and I made no headway.

The only thing I could do was to tell him that there wasn't any money in the house, or, if there was, that I didn't know where it was kept. I recommended him to look in different places, the cellar, the cupboard and the upstairs closets. He ransacked every place I suggested, but found nothing.

He was not likely to find the place where the money was hidden. Our house was very old and had been built with an old fashioned big fireplace in the kitchen. Up the chimney, which was large enough to admit a human body, mother had taken out a brick and broken off half of it. This left room for any money she had behind the brick. When it was put back in its place it looked like the other bricks.

Well, at last the man grew so fierce that I was afraid he might murder me, and I told him where the money was. He at once stood in the chimney and began to hunt. I told him the money was higher, and he pulled the kitchen table on to the hearth. In his search he supported himself by bracing his knees and back. I shoved the table farther in, so that it covered the mouth of the chimney. Then for the first time it occurred to me that I had him in a trap. There was a heavy cupboard in the kitchen, and I moved it against the table. Just then I heard an exclamation of delight and knew he had found the money.

His next move was to order me to take away the table, but I had another matter to attend to. Knowing that when he found he couldn't come down he would go up, I ran to mother's bedroom, where since father's death she had kept his rifle, loaded, standing at the head of her bed, and, seizing it, ran outside and was just in time to take aim at the man's head, which was above the top of the chimney.

I shall never forget the expression of his face when he saw me, a mere child of a girl, pointing a rifle at him, cocked and ready to fire. He knew enough of country girls to understand that most of them could shoot pretty straight and that if I chose I could put a bullet through his head.

"See here, little girl, you've caught me fair. Now if you'll let me out of this I'll go about my business."

I didn't like the probability of having to watch him all day, and if I could have trusted him I would have let him go. As it was, I told him to get below the top of the chimney or I would shoot him. He offered to throw down the money if I would let him off, but I refused to do so. I made him believe that I would carry out my threat, and he disappeared down the chimney. He called to me that he would burn the money, but even this didn't move me.

Well, all this happened in the early morning, and till 10 o'clock I felt obliged to keep on a strain lest he outwit me and get the upper hand again. Then when all was quiet I heard the sound of horses' hoofs and a gentleman in a red coat came riding up to the house.

"Did you see a hunting party go by here?" he asked.

"Haven't had time to notice. I've got a hunting party of my own."

He looked surprised and then for the first time noticed my gun. I told him my story, and when he learned that I had a man cornered in the chimney he burst into a laugh. I, relieved from the terrible strain I had been enduring, burst into tears.

Then the gentleman took my gun and stood guard, while I took my rifle and rode away for another day and night. I had been so long after that in the penitentiary.

Distinctively Different; In Every Way the Best.

The Weekly Globe Democrat, of St. Louis, covers a field peculiarly and exclusively its own.

It is issued twice a week. A big SEMI-WEEKLY paper. Eight to ten large pages every Tuesday and Friday. One Dollar a year. Nothing particularly different, you say, about that—there are other "Twice-a-Week" papers.

Yes, but the similarity ends there. No other paper is like the Globe-Democrat in any other respect.

An entirely unique feature of the Globe-Democrat, a feature which is highly prized by its readers, is its systematic method of preserving and presenting the CONTINUITY OF NEWS.

The two papers each week, Tuesday and Friday, are carefully prepared with the view of giving the complete news of all the world for that week.

They are so combined in the make-up as to form continued and connected stories of the various important events, showing the developments from day to day and the final results.

Other weekly and twice-a-week papers, as a rule, print only a few telegrams of the day of issue.

The "Twice-a-Week" Globe-Democrat gives the telegrams of every day in the week more comprehensively than the average Daily, and of more value to the average reader.

Moreover, the "Twice-a-Week" Globe-Democrat is not simply an echo of the Daily edition.

It is a separate and distinct publication, especially prepared to supply the requirements of people who want all the news of all the earth—and something more.

It presents the World's daily history in concise but complete form. It is of equal interest in all parts of the United States. It is invaluable alike to men and women, young and old.

It thoroughly provides for every member of the family. In high-grade literature it particularly excels. Its market reports are correct and complete in every detail.

Its departments devoted to "The Home," "The Farm and Garden," "The Family Circle," "The Sunday School," "Science and Industry," are each and all THE BEST of their kind and either one is more than worth the subscription price of the paper.

In politics it is strictly REPUBLICAN, but it is above all a newspaper, and it tells the truth without fear or favor. It has no equal or rival as a great National news and home journal.

Remember the price, only One Dollar per year—104 papers—less than one cent a copy. Postage prepaid.

You will make no mistake if you send $1.00 TODAY for a year's subscription. Or you can get your own paper ONE YEAR WITHOUT COST by inducing two of your neighbors to subscribe and sending their names with $2.00.

FREE SAMPLE COPIES, containing order blanks and full particulars, will be cheerfully furnished upon receipt of postal card request. Address Globe Printing Company, Publishers.

Mr. Harry Eberman and Mr. N. W. Gore were here last week completing arrangements for the installation of a water works plant, and left Saturday after having assured the citizens that water is sure to come. The people of the town know what it is to do without a water works system and offer every possible encouragement to the scheme. The company will be known as the Eberman Water Company. The reservoir will be located in the old fort on the Rogers Hill, and from this point water can be forced over the top of any of the buildings in town. Insurance rates will be reduced by the coming of a water system, to such an extent that it will almost equal the cost of the water, to say nothing of the convenience to the users of the water for cooking purposes and watering yards and gardens.

Next to come will be an electric light plant, then the electric trolley line from Paducah to Marion, taking in Smithland.—Livingston Banner.
