10,000 FOR CHANCE TO KIDNAP TAYLOR

Indianapolis Executive After Years Reveals Scheme To Take For- mer Governor Back.

Mayor Bookwalter admitted today that an attempt had been made to have him permit the kidnaping of S. Taylor, former governor of Kentucky, who is wanted in the state for alleged complicity in the murder of William Goebel. Twenty-five thousand dollars was the price offered if he would instruct the chief of police of Indianapolis to permit Taylor to be seized and carried back to Kentucky before the state officers of Indiana could interfere.

It was during Mr. Bookwalter's first term as mayor that the offer of the big bribe was made. The mayor received an invitation to visit Cincinnati from a personal friend. He accepted the invitation, and shortly after meeting his friend at a hotel in Cincinnati, Col. "Tom" Campbell, a noted lawyer, who was identified with the unsuccessful effort to extradite Taylor, was introduced to Mr. Bookwalter. He thought nothing of this, but when Colonel Campbell appeared at the mutual friend's house for dinner that evening it set the mayor to wondering.

Mr. Bookwalter had been accompanied by Samuel P. Stoddard, a personal friend, and at that time chief of the city's assessment bureau. After dinner the three guests and the host were sitting in the smoking room of the home, when Colonel Campbell suggested that he would like a few words with Mr. Bookwalter alone. To this Mr. Bookwalter demurred, but on Colonel Campbell persisting in the request the host and Mr. Stoddard withdrew.

Colonel Campbell then wasted no words. He immediately explained that it was known, of course, that he was more than anxious to have Mr. Taylor returned to Kentucky for trial and he declared that a fund of $100,000 had been raised to accomplish this purpose. He suggested that a few words from Mayor Bookwalter to his chief of police would make it possible for the Kentuckians to go to Indianapolis, forcibly to get possession of Taylor and be off to Kentucky before anyone would know of it.

Mayor Bookwalter was surprised at the sudden turn the affair had taken and assured Colonel Campbell that he was talking to the wrong man, as it was the governor of Indiana alone who could permit Taylor to be taken away. "No," responded Campbell, "you are the man we want to talk to, and we do not ask that favors be shown us without a proper appreciation on our part."

Despite the protests of Mayor Bookwalter, Colonel Campbell further stated that he would place $25,000 in the hands of Mr. Bookwalter's Cincinnati friend, to be turned over to Mr. Bookwalter the day Taylor should cross the line into Kentucky, and, when this was not effective, made the offer stronger by saying the money would be sent to Mr. Bookwalter direct in advance of the kidnaping.

Mayor Bookwalter immediately left the room and declined to talk with Colonel Campbell further. The Cincinnati friend, whose guest the mayor was, took occasion to explain that he hoped Mr. Bookwalter would not feel aggrieved at him.

When the story, as narrated above, was told to Mayor Bookwalter he reluctantly admitted that it was all true. — Evansville Courier.

Bits of Byplay.

The first day of this month a gentleman in the Hina Hardware Co's. store inquired if it was not the 30th. "No," replied Mr. Hina, a young man whose avoirdupois carries considerable weight, "This is the first day of next month."

The little girl that called at Haynes & Taylor's drug store and received a nice doll instead of a dollar, for her curl, wishes us to say that the doll is as dear to her as the curl is to Mr. Creed, and that she is going to keep it always.

The little curly headed daughter of a well known hotel proprietor was visiting her aunt about seven miles away. The little girl seemed so bright and happy that an elderly lady who saw her on this occasion was moved to suggest that the little girl should have been named "Sunshine." After pausing, the little girl dissented and remarked, "You just ought to see me at home some time."

There are two men of our town Who desire much to see Buster Brown— When we are booked for a show They watch the depot— But, alas! Buster allus turns 'em down.

A little town, not a hundred miles away, has a marshal who does not intend to permit that place to go to the dogs. He appeared in a certain newspaper office and ordered the following awful warning to dog owners to be printed:

All persons owning dogs and who do not pay dog tax on the same by the 15th of July will be killed.

If the ground hog really took up winter quarters at all this season he had no difficulty in seeing his shadow when he emerged. There was not a cloud in the sky when the sun rose on February 2 and during the greater part of the day there was not a trace of vapor in heaven's blue, and the cold spell that followed was conclusive evidence that he did see the shadow.

Esquire Williams' cup of joy was made full when at last there appeared in his home a bright little son who is now about five years of age. Last fall the little fellow with his mother visited in Webster county. They had to ride on the K. W. branch of the I. C. railroad where our lady compositrix usually goes on vacation. The trains on this track have an extensive reputation for slow speed. On this particular occasion young Williams became tired, fell back on the seat, looked around a moment at the drummers in the coach, kicked up his heels and cried, "Mamma, mamma, let's get off and walk."

A certain little fellow whom we will call Tommy Mulligan, was absent from school for one entire day, but he produced a note of excuse the next morning which would prove that he had been detained at home legitimately. The writing was hardly that of a feminine hand, and the note appeared to have been written laboriously. Furthermore, the penmanship seemed to be strangely familiar to his teacher. The note read as follows:

"Dear Teacher: Please excuse Tommy for not coming to school yesterday, he couldn't come. I tore my pants. Yours truly, Mrs. Mulligan."

A fire occurred on premises rented by Jews in London. The circumstances were somewhat suspicious and an agent of the insurance company was sent to investigate. He interviewed the senior partner, and also the junior partner, as to the probable cause of the fire. This is his report:

"I find that the senior partner thinks that it was caused by an an light on the second floor; the junior partner thinks it was caused by an incandescent light on the first floor—but my opinion is that it was caused by an Israelite in the basement."

Miss Roosevelt to Marry.

Cards are out announcing the marriage of Miss Alice Roosevelt to Nicholas Longworth on Saturday, February 17, 1906, at 12 o'clock a. m.

Nicholas Longworth is a young lawyer, politician and congressman from Cincinnati, 27 years of age, rich, of a good family and a representative American. He met Miss Roosevelt soon after he went to Washington, and proposed to her while touring the Orient with the Taft party, as they were entering the imperial palace at Peking to see the Dowager Empress, and got his answer before they came out.

Farmers' Call Meeting.

The Farmers of Crittenden county are hereby called to meet in Marion Feb. 12, County Court day, for the purpose of electing a representative to Frankfort to the State Farmers' Institute. Every member is urged to be present.

J. FRANK CONGER
Chairman.

Anti-Antiquated, Yet?

Smithland, a small, antiquated town in Livingston county, has a canning factory, and besides giving labor employment and affording a ready market for the farmers' produce, the prospects are that it will prove a paying investment for the company. Why is it Sturgis can't have any industry of the kind. It requires no great amount of capital, and we are surrounded with a country that could supply in abundance the produce required. — News Democrat

INTERESTING NOTES IN MINING CIRCLES

A Week Hardly Passes that Plans for New Development Work or a New Company Are Not Formed, and It Means that Our Important Resources

ARE BECOMING MORE OBVIOUS EACH SUCCEEDING WEEK.

The Advent of the "Buster Brown" Mines Bespeaks Winning Tenacity— Despite the Cold and Inclement Weather the Hauling of the Mine Products Never Ceases.

WITH THE COMING OF SPRING GREAT DEVELOPMENTS ARE LOOKED FOR

The sinking at the Vandell mine is still progressing nicely.

The Nancy Hanks mill is now being run steadily and is producing a good fluor spar product.

At the Blue & Marble mines near Crider, prospecting is being carried on with encouraging results.

The Kentucky people are still sinking the new shaft on the Hodge property pushing the work continuously.

It is reported that operations are to begin in the near future on the Sam Matthews property which is near Frances.

It is reported that the Cullen shaft near Salem is being unwatered which became necessary as a result of a break down.

Geo. Roberts, manager of the Imperial Fluor Spar Company reports heavy demands for spar and it keeps him hustling to fill orders.

The Keystone mine under the management of T. E. Hopewell, is producing an excellent product in the way of spar and lead every day.

The Saunders Ore Separating Company has started its mill here with flattering prospects for a successful separation of zinc and spar.

The Commodore Company, composed of Louisville capitalists, continues operations steadily. This mine is well equipped with all necessary machinery.

At the Mary Bell mines a deeper shaft is being driven under a full head of steam and the product of the mine, fluor spar, is being hauled to Marion daily. Spar is also being hauled in daily from the Holly, which is near the Mary Bell.

In the Parish mines in the Mexico-Frances section at a depth of 130 feet a drift is being driven in a vein of good ore. This property adjoins the Vandell.

The grinding of spar goes steadily on at the mill of the Kentucky Fluor Spar in this city. This company is behind with orders and its ground product cannot be equalled.

A new company is being formed to take over the Asbridge mine. This is one among the largest producers of fluor spar in this district. It has a record of having produced spar up in the thousands of tons.

The machinery which was purchased for the Eclipse mine is said to be in transit. As reported last week the carpenter work has been about completed and everything will be ready to install the machinery when it arrives.

The new shaft at the Memphis mines is producing very fine spar and lead and the output at the Memphis mines continues to hold its place of importance. From six to eight wagons are running daily hauling this product to the yards of the Kentucky mill at this place.

Mining Engineer A. H. Reed, and who acts as superintendent for some local mining companies, has fitted up a suite of office rooms in the Marion Bank building. Mr. Reed is a practical miner and is well acquainted with local conditions existing in the mining district.

The building of the Madisonville, Hartford and Eastern railroad may sooner or later be the means of bringing about the needed additional transportation necessary for the fullest development of mineral lands in the western part of this mining field, as a little effort would fill in the cross country link and connect with the road to be built in Southern Illinois.

"Buster Brown" is the name Johnson Crider has given to a new prospect the Marion Mineral Company has near Sheridan. Prospecting goes steadily on and some very nice specimens of ore are now on the dump. There can be little doubt that "Buster Brown" will be a winner. The Marion Mineral Company also continues pushing the building improvements at the Miller Carbonate mines.

The Golconda Fluor Spar Mining Company continues to push work on their property in Livingston county. At present, their chief operations are confined to two shafts. The shaft on the Stroud place at a shallow depth shows a massive body of fine spar. The Coulter shaft is producing both barites and spar with signs of lead. The properties with very little more work will prove to be among the richest in the district.

Joplin, Mo., February 4.—The top price paid for zinc ore for the past week was $54 per ton. The basis price ranged from $50 to $45 per ton for ore assaying 60 per cent zinc, which is the same as of last week. Lead was in good demand and sold at prices ranging from $73 to $78.50 per ton, the advent of the St. Louis smelting and refining company into the local market adding to the activity of the buyers throughout the district.

Charles J. Norwood, director of the Kentucky Geological Survey, in his report on the progress of the survey with reference to the Western Kentucky lead, zinc, spar and clay deposits states:

Mr. F. Julius Fohs spent the season of 1905 in the study of the lead, zinc and spar regions of Western Kentucky. With him was a mapping party, headed by Mr. J. S. Shaw, to accurately locate all mines, prospects, faults and veins. In 1902 the U. S. Geological Survey, acting in co-operation with the Curator of the Kentucky Geological Department, in whose hands a small sum for the purpose had been placed by citizens of the district, made an examination of the region, report was issued in August of the present year. With property, the claim may be made in behalf of the Kentucky Survey under the administration of the late John R.

Procter for a large share in the work upon which the report is based, since the larger part of the field work of Mr. Ulrich, who had charge of the examinations made by the Federal organization in 1902, was done in 1889 and in 1890, when the gentleman was a member of the State Survey. Had the report been issued earlier, it would have been of advantage to us in the prosecution of our investigations. That there was need for the State Survey work, and that without conflicting with what had been done by the Federal organization, will appear when our reports are issued.

In addition to a report on the district as a whole, Mr. Fohs will present one on the mineral veins and other resources of Livingston county; the latter will be ready for print at an early day.

It was originally intended that the Livingston report should be only a revision (bringing it to date) of the manuscript report made by Dr. R. H. Loughridge—one of the four manuscript reports left in the archives of the Survey when appropriations ceased in 1892 the publication of which was authorized by the present Survey law. The discovery of new facts, etc., during the progress of the field work in revision, however rendered so many additions and modifications necessary that Mr. Fohs will present a practically new report.

According to the observation of Mr. Fohs, Livingston county deposits have the same general character as those of Crittenden; they have the same possibilities so far as regards intrinsic values, the difference between the two regions with respect to possibilities of development being chiefly one transportation. Some faults hitherto unknown were discovered in the progress of the field work, the probabilities being that at least a number of them are ore-bearing near the surface, and that all of them are so at depth—below the sandy horizons. The report, which is nearing completion, contains descriptions of the mines and "prospects" (about 60) in the county, and of the mills. Methods of mining, ore-dressing, etc., are described, and the geology and veins are laid down on maps.

The general report will include the following counties:

Livingston—All details of geology, mines, prospects, etc.

Crittenden—All details of geology, mines, prospects, mills, etc. In this county there are 120 mines and prospects.

Caldwell—Practically all mines and prospects are described, together with considerable of the geology. Part of another season of field work will be required for the completion of the geology.

Lyon—Some notes on the geology will be given. There are chances for the occurrence of lead, zinc and spar deposits in this county, but there was not sufficient time at command in which to make a thorough examination with respect to them. Another season of work will be required to develop the facts.

Trigg—Notes on all the mining prospects. There are a great number of shear zones in this county, and the chances for finding ores and spars are good. So far, the prospecting in the county has not been conducted on the best lines.

Christian—Some notes on this Co. It seems well to here briefly present some facts in regard to the district as developed by the work of the Survey. It has been noted:

1. That large calcite bands, 3 to 12 feet wide, appear on the walls of some of the larger (more valuable) veins. Since a growing market for calcite has developed, this fact is of commercial as well as scientific interest. Some shipments of that spar have been made from the district.

2. The barite in the district is associated less with the fluor spar in the large faults than with that in the smaller veins that show little or no faulting and have one or both walls of limestone. The value of this pointer will be recognized by mining men.

3. There is little change in the character of the fluor spar deposits with depth other than that which is to be expected in unweathered mineral, and except such as goes, pari passu, with the changes of wall rock.

4. The chances for the discovery of new and large bodies of zinc carbonate (as a reconcentration) along large faults where St. Louis limestone forms one wall, if the prospecting be done on the St. Louis side of the fault, are good. Further prospecting for zinc carbonate is encouraged.

5. The character of the fluor spar largely depends on the enclosing rock and the manner of formation (genesis) of the spar. This is illustrated by the following examples: No. 1 fluor spar,

SUPREME COURT MAN- DATE IN HOWARD CASE

Prisoner's Attorney States That He Intends Filing Motion For Re- hearing Case.

Washington, Jan. 29.—The Supreme Court of the United States today issued an order or a stay of the mandate in the case of James B. Howard, under sentence in Kentucky to life imprisonment on the charge of complicity in the murder of Gov. Gobel in Frankfort in 1900. An opinion was delivered by the court on January 2, which was adverse to Howard. His attorney now states that he intends filing a motion for a rehearing, and asks that the official notice of the court be withheld in order to prevent Howard's being sent to Kentucky penitentiary, pending decision on his motion. The order of court has the effect of withholding the mandate until March 2.

the highest grad, has either Princeton (Ste. Genevieve of Ulrich) or Tribune limestone for one or both walls, largely, when filling fissures. Coarse, dark or brown fluor spar is in large measure associated with bituminous shale walls, and at times it carries a large amount of coarse, crystalline sphalerite. Finer grained, dark colored fluor spar is usually associated with jasperoid, and occurs as a replacement either of Princeton or St. Louis limestones, principally the former; and it is largely associated with fine-grained zinc and small cubical or granular galena. Purple fluor spar, though it occurs more or less in surface deposits, is largely to be found in the St. Louis limestone and gravel deposits. Gravel fluor spar is in nearly all cases practically in place, and the solid deposits are to be found by sinking on them.

6. The coarser lead ore (galena) is largely associated with white fluorite, while the small cubical and granular varieties are replacement deposits. A body of almost solid galena, 3 feet in width, has recently been found in the Mary Bell mine, on the Columbia tract, at a depth of 40 feet.

7. The largest ore bodies constitute replacements of wide sheeted zones, while the narrower ones are filling of fissures.

8. The chances for finding zinc deposits are better in sheeted zones parallel with the veins than in the fluor spar deposits, the latter generally occurring nearer the fault plane. On this account, the small amount of cross-cutting that has been done from the veins has prevented the discovery of many zinc deposits. There is reason to believe that the disposition of fluor spar prospectors to cover up the discovery of zinc, and do little searching for it, on account of its undesirability, in association with fluor spar, has greatly retarded the opening of probably a large number of deposits of this character. Zinc deposits in the sheeted zones, while carrying some fluor spar, have not as much of the mineral as have those directly at the fault or in the veins.

9. The chances for the discovery of new fluor spar and lead deposits along undeveloped, or partially developed, fault zones are good.

10. A number of clay deposits of the "Steven Tunnels" type—rather a fireclay than a freeclay, of which large quantities are shipped from Stevens Tunnels—were found, with chances for more. This product has naturally the same constituents as Dinas brick, and so is a first-class material.

The quantity of fluor spar in this district is enormous. But few of the opened veins are worked out for much as 100 feet below water level, and below that depth the products appear to be the same. The popular idea as to the small amount of zinc in the district appears to be erroneous. A new custom concentrating plant, for the separation of the zinc and lead, is being erected, but its precise character (the method to be followed) is not known. FAULTS SOUTH OF THE WESTERN COAL FIELDS, ETC.

An examination of the faults and fractures lying south of the known lead, zinc and spar region in Western Kentucky, and south of the Western Coalfield, to ascertain whether any of them carry ores or fluor spar, was undertaken in 1904. The work was placed in the hands of Mr. J. E. Wright, the present writer also rendering aid in the investigation. Mr. Wright presented a brief, but interesting report of this work. It was de-

Heart Weakness.

Dr. Miles' Heart Cure has made many hearts well after they have been pronounced hopeless. It has completely cured thousands, and will almost invariably cure or benefit every case of heart disease.

Short breath, pain around heart, palpitation, fluttering, dizzy, fainting and smothering spells should not be neglected. Take Dr. Miles' Heart Cure and see how quick you will be relieved.

It cannot make a new heart, but will restore a sick one by strengthening the heart nerves and muscles, relieving the unnatural strain, and restoring its vitality.

"I had a very bad case of heart trouble. For six months I could not work. Last July I was plowing corn and feeling bad all day; in the afternoon in plowing one row I had to lay down, or fall down, three times. My heart throbbed as though it would burst through, and I had difficulty in getting my breath. I purchased a bottle of Dr. Miles' Heart Cure, and before I had used half of it I could lay down and sleep all night. Previously I had to get up from five to ten times a night. I have taken several bottles, and my heart is as regular as clock work. I feel like a new man, and can work considerably for an old man, 34½ years old."

H. D. McGUIRE, Frost, Ohio.

Dr. Miles' Heart Cure is sold by your druggist, who will guarantee that the first bottle will benefit. If it fails he will refund your money.

Sunday Evening.

BY RUSTIC.

As sinks the sun at end of day,
And peaceful night draws on,
With truthful hearts we come to pay
Our homage at God's throne,
To thank Him for His mercies past,
To pray His mercies still may last.
This calm and tranquil vesper hour
Marks well the Sabbath's close.
How gently do the shadows lower
That bring the world repose!
How gently, O Thou Life of All,
Thy blessings on Thy children fall!
Dear Lord, as now we bow in prayer,
And raise our evening song,
Come Thou upon this holy air,
And dwell our souls among.
Though shadows close our eventide,
'Twill not be dark if Thou abide.
And when, with burden, toil and care,
Shall dawn an untried week,
Do Thou with us each burden share.
And we Thy help shall seek,
And grant us other Sabbath days
To speak Thy love and sing Thy praise.

Common Colds are the Cause of Many Serious Diseases

Physicians who have gained a national reputation as analysts of the cause of various diseases, claim that if catching cold could be avoided a long list of dangerous ailments would never be heard of. Every one knows that pneumonia and consumption originate from a cold, and chronic catarrh, bronchitis, and all throat and lung trouble are aggravated and rendered more serious by each fresh attack. Do not risk your life or take chances when you have a cold. Chamberlain's Cough Remedy will cure it before these diseases develop. This remedy contains no opium, morphine or other harmful drugs and has thirty years of reputation back of it, gained by its cure under every condition. For sale by Haynes & Taylor.

THE SUNDAY SCHOOL

LESSON VI, FIRST QUARTER, INTERNATIONAL SERIES, FEB. 11.

Text of the Lesson, Luke v. 1-11. Memory Verses, 5, 6—Golden Text, Eph. v. 1—Commentary Prepared by Rev. D. M. Stearns.

[Copyright, 1900, by American Press Association.]

Thus far we have had a somewhat connected story of this most wonderful life of God manifest in the flesh, but now we pass over a great deal to reach this lesson of today. From John 4, 19, to iv. 54, is all omitted. Other events and teachings which are in point of time, before today's lesson are taken up in later lessons of the quarter. Although our lessons do not give us the consecutive events, we may and should for ourselves consider them. But in every event of His life and in all His teaching we may see some new revelation of the Father and learn to know Him better, and this is the one great aim of all Scripture—to make us to know and trust Jehovah.

There is that in the word of God which reaches and satisfies the heart of man as nothing else can. And as then the people pressed upon Him to hear the word of God, so it is still, as is evidenced by the thousands who gather daily to hear the word through Dr. Torrey and from week to week to hear Mr. Newell open the Scriptures, and in some measure I see it myself in the hundreds who gather at my own classes, often at most unseasonable hours, to listen to simple expositions of the Scriptures. I cannot but believe that those preachers make a great mistake who do not open the Scriptures to the people. See Luke xxiv. 27, 45; Acts viii. 25; xxviii. 23.

In Matt. iv. 18-22; Mark i. 16-20, the fishermen are in their boats, either casting a net into the sea or mending their nets, and there is no mention there of Jesus using a boat as a pulpit or of a miraculous draft of fishes, so that the event of today's lesson must be something wholly different. The only sameness consists of His dealing with the same four men and of their leaving nets and boats to follow Him. But He was always dealing with these men, and they received call after call to follow Him, and it was not till after His resurrection that they finally and fully got away from their fishing. Some are expected to continue in the same occupation in which the Lord finds them when He saves them—"Let every man abide in the same calling wherein he was called" (I Cor. vii. 20). But, whatever he is calling, the great thing is to glorify God (I Cor. vi. 19, 20; x. 31). The life of every believer consists of a series of calls to leave one thing after another until we can say Phil. iii. 8, but even then verses 13 and 14 will be our experience. While we remain in these mortal bodies there is no end to the dying to self that the life of Jesus may be manifest (II Cor. iv. 11). Let Simon's boat suggest to us our bodies, which are called vessels (I Cor. iv. 7; I Tim. ii. 21; Jer. xlviii. 4-6). Are they at His disposal that He may occupy them and testify out of them? He does not ask from us anything we cannot give Him, but He does ask for our bodies (Rom. xii. 1, 2) that through us He may minister by word and deed to others.

If we make His service our delight and in all things seek "first the kingdom," He will see abundantly to all our need (Phil. iv. 19; Matt. vi. 33). Fishing was the lawful and honorable occupation of these men, and they were doubtless skillful fishermen, yet here was a whole night's toil and no result, and after a much better acquaintance with Jesus they had a similar experience. We cannot but think of His words, "Without Me ye can do nothing," but more remarkable His words concerning Himself, "I can of mine own self do nothing" (John xv. 5; v. 30). The nothings of so called Christian work—the wood, hay and stubble to be burned up (I Cor. iii. 12-15)—will be something appalling, for only that which God works will stand.

They had toiled all night in vain, and now in the morning the Lord says, "Launch out into the deep and let down your nets for a draft" (verse 4). Simon seems to think it useless, but he puts the responsibility upon the Lord with his "Nevertheless, at Thy word." He does not seem to obey cheerfully or fully, for the Lord said, "Let down your nets," and Simon said, "I will let down the net," as if one net would easily hold all they would get that time of day. Our gracious Lord did not allow the half-hearted obedience of Simon to hinder the fullness of the blessing, but filled the net to the point of breaking and gave enough fishes to fill both the ships" (verse 7). He loves to fill, whether it be boats with fishes, or the hungry multitude with bread, or His people with the Holy Spirit, and He will yet fill the whole earth with His glory.

Nothing can be compared with the blessing of the Lord which maketh rich and to which our toil can add nothing (Prov. x. 22, R. V., margin). But how it does humble us to see the goodness of the Lord to such unbelieving ones as we are. Peter's cry, "Depart from me, for I am a sinful man, O Lord" (verse 8), reminds us of Job's "I abhor myself," Isaiah's "Woe is me" and Daniel's "There remained no strength in me" (Job xlii. 6; Isa. vi. 5; Dan. x. 8), for as the King reveals Himself to us we fall in our own estimation until we are ready to say with Paul, "I know that in me—that is, in my flesh—there dwelleth no good thing" (Rom. vii. 18). When we see our unworthiness and nothingness and are ready to give up in utter despair, then comes His gracious "Fear not" (Dan. x. 12, 19; Rev. i. 17), for God hath not given us the spirit of fear, and His perfect love casteth out all fear (II Tim. i. 7; I John iv. 18).

THE CLODHOOPER AND THE BALD-HEADED MAN.

[A story of love and business told in verse, and written expressly for THE RECORD by Robert C. Haynes, author of "Dark Days and Bright."]

XXXVIII.

A full week passed away, and the benedict, Turk, With a broad, happy smile, went right on with his work; From morning till evening, with scarcely a stop, He carried up brick to the man at the top.

And his happy young wife, the fair-faced Imogene— She detested the sight of a writing machine— Passed the time away sweetly with household affairs— The making of pies and the dusting of chairs.

"Turk's a lucky old scamp," said the bald-headed boss; He had just figured up his day's profit or loss, And his words were addressed to the hard-pounding Green As he punch'd, as for life, on the writing machine.

XXXIX.

"That's a fact," answered Green; "he's more lucky than I; But I'll get it all back on you, sir, by and by! And to tell you the truth, sir, to lose Imogene Hurt me worse, a big sight, than to lose that machine!"

"I did all that I could for you, Green," said the boss; "And besides, did not I, too, feel deeply the loss? Though you punch fairly well on a writing machine, You are blank, I must say, as an ornament, Green!"

"Besides, Green—ha! ha! ha!" laughed the bald-headed man,

"If you want to succeed, you must know how to plan! 'Twas in not knowing this, sir, you lost Imogene, And lost also—ha! ha! that new writing machine!"

XLI.

"Five o'clock!" cried the man at the top. "No more work! Down goes trowel and hod! Not another brick, Turk!" And so off Joe went briskly, passed by Pounder Green, And was soon near his home and his sweet Imogene.

And his wife, who was waiting for Joe to arrive— For she knew he would lay down his hod just at five— Had the pies on the table—arrang'd just for two— And the two fell to eating, like hungry folk do!

"Gee! This pie is just splendid!" said Joe. "Imogene, I'm so glad this is I—not that long-hungry Green! Now most pies are horrid—non-eatable stuff— But of these—pass 'em round—I just can't get enough!"

XLI.

When supper was over, "Joe, dear," said his wife, "Will you thus carry hods all the days of your life? Oh, Joe! What if some day a stray brick should drop Square down on your head from the man at the top?"

"It would kill you—boo—hoo! Crush—boo—hoo! out your life! Then what would I become of your poor—boo—hoo wife? I'd be forced—boo—hoo!—back to the writing machine, Or to marry great, gangling, gawky gump, Green!"

"Ah, that's kind, Joe, to so wipe away my poor tears; And now just for once won't you lend me your ears? For I lent you mine once, being dictated to— May not I, in return, Joe, now dictate to you?"

XLI.

"Why, of course, Imogene, you most certainly may," Her husband replied, "Why, just dictate away; I'm so glad it's not Green you're to so dictate to, So my ears shall be always wide open to you."

"Well, first I will say, then," began Imogene, "Just as I quit the boss and his writing machine, I want you, Joe, to leave that abominable hod, And go back to the farm and to turning the sod."

"Why should you, Joe, always be lifting up hods? And why not, Joe, go back to the hopping of clods? Just give back that old hod to the man at the top, And let Green take it up—or else let the work stop!"

XLI.

So he took up the shovel, the rake and the hoe; Used the ax and the pitchfork, the spade and the froe; Went to sowing and reaping, to steering the plow, To driving the mules and to milking the cow.

So the two were now happy; his wife, Imogene— She became an expert on the sewing machine— Had her Leghorns and Brahmas and fine Plymouth Rock, And would let Joe keep none but the finest of stock.

XLI.

So a year passed away and then came little Dan— He was named, of course, after the bald-headed man— To enliven their home and to add to their joys, (His weight was just nine pounds, avoirdupois!)

And a bright, lovely babe was this same little Dan— He in no wise resembled the bald-headed man— "I think, don't you, mamma," said Joe, "can't you see That his ears and his nose look exactly like me?"

"Say, Green—ha! ha! ha!" laughed the bald-headed man, "The problem is solved! I've just formed a new plan! Since you, Green—ha! ha!—failed to get Imogene, I'll just give little Dan that new writing machine!"

The readers of this paper will be pleased to learn that there is at least one dreaded disease that science has been able to cure in all it's stages, and that is Catarrh. Hall's Catarrh Cure is the only positive cure now known to the medical fraternity. Catarrh being a constitutional disease, requires a constitutional cure. Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally, acting directly upon the blood and mucous surface or the system thereby destroying the foundation of the disease, and patient strength by pulling up the root of the disease by its nature in its work. The proprietors have much faith in its curative powers and they offer One Hundred Dollars any case that it fails to cure. For list of testimonials, Address F. J. CHENEY & CO., Toledo, Ohio.

that Congressman Ollie M. James was the appropriation of $2600 for an oil

The joint conference between the United Mine Workers of America, and the operators and mines of the central and southwestern districts, was dissolved Friday at Indianapolis. The Mine Workers, headed by John Mitchell, asked for higher wages for the year beginning April 1. The operators refused and word was sent to 550,000 men to save a strike fund and be ready to walk out if necessary, on the first of April. This will be the inevitable result unless a strong influence intercedes and brings the two interests to an agreement. In anticipation of the strike the price of coal is being advanced in different parts of the country.

Architect Andrews, of the new

the purchase of a new site for the structure, to the state's discredit as well as $50,000 expense. Now he is urging the present Legislature to appropriate a million dollars more to be expended in completing the building.
Of course, Mr. Andrews wants more.
He gets ten per cent. of the cost of the Capitol and the more it costs the more will be his profit. The Legislature should be very slow to appropriate more money to be placed, for expenditure, in the hands of a man who prevailed upon it to abandon the most beautiful site of the very rugged, unsightly country stop for ground at a cost of $50,000 on which a hole has been dug years, the annual Oratorical Contest will take place in the evening, February 22.

Those who have been chosen to contest for the medals are: Allie May Yates, Mary Deboe and Gray Rochester, who have been elected by the school, and Eula Thurmond and High Woodson, selected by the teachers.
Both subjects have not been chosen by all the contestants as yet but will be announced later.

These yearly contests are not only interesting to teachers, school and the public in general, but are very instructive as well.

Winter is on Us.

At almost the eleventh hour winter has made her appearance in full force.
The first chill was felt Sunday afternoon when a fine snow began to fall, which by night had started in earnest and by Monday morning was at least two and one-half inches deep. At an early hour Tuesday morning, at many places in the city, the thermometer registered zero and even lower.

This cold wave is almost general, being felt all over Kentucky and adjoining states. Traffic was partially suspended the early part of the week on account of the heavy fall of snow and many of the laborers laid off from their work on account of the distance they had to go and their work being mostly outside work. In the larger cities there is much suffering among the poor.

It is some relief, however, to know that two months of winter have passed with very little cold and there will not be the suffering this year that there usually is among the poor and needy.

WASHINGTON LETTER

From Our Regular Correspondent

It was the old story of shearing the pig, "much cry and little wool," when the House of Representatives today secured the publication of the "unginned cotton report" from the Census office. There was a great turmoil made over the matter in advance and the whole system of government crop reporting was turned upside down when Mr. Crumpacker reported the resolution calling for information. It was information that would never have been made public by the Director of the Census of his own accord, a mere guess at the amount of unginned cotton on hand based on the report of about half the ginner. When the report came to the House the figures were preceeded by a terse statement from the Director saying he was merely complying with the demand of the House but he did not stand sponsor for the figures in any way. The Speaker took a look at the statement and refused to have anything to do with it either, saying that he had enough information to disburse without bothering with misin-formation. The sheet was accordingly not even read on the floor but was carried off by a clerk to the file-room and read, read wrong as it happened, to the correspondents. They first telegraphed the wrong figures and then had to send a correction of them.
Nothing has been gained by this attempt to make the House of Representatives the medium for disseminating produce gambling information.
The question remains whether any good comes of this government dabbling in crop reports anyhow. Possibly it is just as well, so long as the public will speculate in crops, either foodstuffs or cotton, that the government should collect the statistics and give everyone a measurably even chance at them.
If the government would not collect them, they would be gathered by some private agency and possibly the money invested on the Produce Exchange would be lost by a larger and won by a more restricted group than ever.
As the case now stands, the wheat statistics collected by the government are neither so prompt, accurate nor complete as the private report of the great Armour cliques in Chicago. Still the government report helps somewhat to keep a check on the private report and if speculation were not so fierce it might be of some use to the legitimate trader. But the idea of having such statistics dragged into the House and given out from the Speaker's desk, whether they are correct or not, is a little bizarre to contemplate. It is not likely that there will be any more efforts made in this direction.

A much more humane and practical question than gathering of crop statistics, is being argued out in committee in the House. That is whether the cattle that are being hauled to market shall be subjected to more or less torture before they are killed. As the law stands now, cattle in transit to the great slaughter houses of Omaha and Chicago may not be carried more than 28 hours on the railroad without a stop for food and water. This law was long a dead letter, but in the past two years it has been enforced, so far as it was able, by the present Secretary of Agriculture. The cattle men claim that it does not pay to be so tender of their herds. They have so far that he is willing to allow the extension of the law to 36 hours. But the Humane Societies have stepped in and demanded that there shall be more frequent instead of less frequent stops or else the cattle shall be transported in cars with feed and watering accommodations. One solution, if it were proved that the expense involved in treating the cattle decently were really prohibitive, would be to move the slaughter houses closer to the centers of cattle production and thus save the long haul of five cattle altogether. It is really cheaper to haul dressed beef than live cattle and the Big Four makes enough on its refrigerator cars to warrant putting in the additional equipment. But the greed and creed of the cattle buyer makes the addition of even a fraction of a cent on the hundredweight look like an almost criminal waste. There is no doubt at all that if the Humane Societies had not stepped in and made the fight that the torture of slaughter destined cattle would have been carried exactly to the point where the loss in live weight would have balanced the saving in food and hauling. The beef magnate can appreciate inhumanity when it touches his balance sheet, but he is slow to appreciate it before.

The report of the Philippine Commission just made public shows a decidedly improved condition in the islands. Laziness is dying out and there are but three provinces that cannot be considered as pacified. The Commission has caught the local officials in Sanar practicing the old Spanish formula of robbery and extortion on the natives in regard to the hemp crop and has brought up the offenders with a round turn. It was surprising how quickly the unrest and inurrectionary tendencies of the natives died out when they got this taste of the "square deal." But it was almost pitiful at first to see that they could not understand why a government official should be treating them honestly. However, they resigned themselves to that sort of treatment gladly and now there is much less trouble in Samara. The general condition of the island is much better. They last exported $2,100,000 more and imported $2,300,000 less than previously, the difference being altogether in the amount of foreign rice that they were not compelled to buy. They saved just $4,000,000 to the island by raising this material at home. The currency has been placed on a more stable basis, education and road making are improving, and the future is altogether brighter.

termed that most of the fractures do

CLAY DEPOSITS.

My confidence in the future of Kentucky as a clay-producing State grows as more is learned about our deposits, but we must meet the requirements of clay-workers by proving the worth of the clay by technical tests before we can hope to make much progress with them. The means at the command of the Survey have not been sufficient to undertake such a work. Among others, there are two reasons why every possible effort should be made to promote the development of our clay resources —one sociological, and the other purely commercial; they are, first, the well settled fact that clay-working communities are among the most stable of those that are made up most largely of laboring classes, with the further fact that since a large part of the labor used need not have any simple skill, readily required, clay-working plants would give employment to a numerically important element of our population, including women, youths and girls, whose lives now hold but little in the way of a hopeful future;
and, second, clay-working industries will call for a greater development of our coalfields.

City Law.

No work or business shall be done on the Sabbath day, except the ordinary household offices, or other work of necessity or charity. If any person on the Sabbath day shall himself be found at his own, or any other trade or calling, or shall employ his apprentices, or other person, in labor or other business, whether the same be for profit or amusement, unless such as is permitted above, he shall be fined not less than two nor more than fifty dollars for each offense.

Every person or apprentice so employed shall be deemed a separate offense.

The above is the law of the State of Kentucky and of the city of Marion and will be strictly enforced from and after this date.

The time was when a teacher was a pronounced success(?) if his pupils could glibly repeat, word for word, the lessons assigned. Perhaps, that is in some instances a standard yet, but what a mistake. A phonograph can repeat but cannot think. Unless thought action is stimulated there is no real teaching. Was your teaching the real kind or of the phonographic sort?

Kentucky State normals? A thing it will be a reality. The entrance to no other profession is so easy as that of teaching. The M. D. must be in school four years before he is considered competent to treat the physical ills of man, but the school teacher, who forms character, deals with immortaliit time to do something? Give us the

Miss Ida Brown, V. C. Chandler, Roy Hughes and Gilbert McDowell, from district 38, and Harry Clark, from district 53, took the examination for common school diploma January 26 and 27. So much for that, for they have secured another victory and are that much better prepared for the real battles of life stored for them in the future. Not only do they derive a personal benefit from this, but they are examples that doubtless will stimulate others to try to complete the common school course. Worth striving for is this common school diploma signed by the highest school official of Kentucky and bearing upon it the State seal.
It is worth working for, boys and girls, so come on and get one for yourself.
Easy? Well, try it and see for yourself. The above pupils are from schools taught by Mr. Powell and Miss Nannie Campbell. A pointer for the rest of the profession.

Schools are closing and teachers are entering upon their vacation. How shall that vacation be spent? In gossiping, having a general good time or shall it be devoted to better preparation?
Or has the zenith of preparation been reached in your case? If it has you would do well to look for another job—for the sake of the pupils that might come under your charge. Says one,
"My certificate is good for two years more yet and my school is small and no advance pupils in the district and I know enough to teach them." Yes; very likely that is the case and there will never be any advanced pupils in that district as long as you hold to such non-progressive notions and teach there. And two years hence when that ghost of an examination comes boldly stalking down your pathway—what then?

Moral—Be constantly improving yourself mentally, morally and physically.

A Trip on the Desert

By H. T. Harpending.

Dear Mother:—

According to promise I will send you a diary of my trip across the desert from Las Vegas, Nevada, to Bullfrog—the great mining camp of the West.

Jan. 8.—We left Las Vegas, Nevada, at 10:30 a. m., with fourteen horses, five men and five wagons. The men were: Guy Matthews, Charlie Davis, Tom Martin, Ralph Fairbanks and myself. We pulled over to Ragtown, (all tents), and had to reload one wagon. We left Ragtown at 11:30 and lunched at 1 p. m. We were all day in the sand and camped at sundown on the desert. No water yet.

Jan. 9.—We got up at 4 a. m. and started at 5:30. Had dinner on the sand. Davis hung up three times. We arrived at Deer Creek at 5:30 p. m., after being all day in the sand. The creek is about as big as the spring branch through the meadow. A tent saloon is all there is. About forty wagons here tonight. Charlie Davis and "Dad" Martin, (my partner), got drunk. "Dad" swore he could whip Japan.

Jan. 10.—We left Coon Creek at 6 a. m. "Dad" left Charlie's buckets and Charlie is mad. Noon on the automobile road. Camp at 5 p. m. Charlie has opened a can of whiskey and is as drunk as the d—. "Dad" lost one of Charlie's horse blankets and Charlie swears he will whip him. Supper.

Jan. 11.—"Dad" is sick and is going back to Las Vegas. Left camp at 6:30 a. m. Left him waiting for the stage back to Las Vegas. Arrived at Indian Creek ranch 9:30. Dinner at Mosquito Creek at 5:00 per meal. Camp at 5:30 p. m. Everything lovely.

Jan. 12.—Left camp at 6 a. m. and all day on the sand. Camped at Miner's Well, (stage station for changing horses), met a prospector from Rhyolite who gave me key to his shack and said for me to take possession as long as I wanted to stay. The stage arrived at 7:30. Changed horses on the fly. They call the stage the "Death Valley Limited." We are only twenty miles from Death Valley, Cal.

Jan. 13.—Left Miner's Well at 6 a. m. Fairbanks left us to go by Ash Meadows and will meet us in Bullfrog. Dinner on the sand. Matthews and I arrived at Miller's Well (stage change) at 5 p. m. Davis left two wagons six miles out and is going after them some time tonight. Supper at Stage Station at 5:00. Wind is blowing and sand is so thick you can't see fifty yards. We are now thirty-five miles from Bullfrog. Three more days will put us there if we have good luck. We meet all kinds of freight outfits every day. Last year there were 1400 head of horses and mules on the road, but since the railroad has reached Goldfield there are only about 600 head at work now.

The freight rate from Las Vegas to Bullfrog is $50 per ton while last year it was $60. Yesterday morning we met a team of twenty mules. It is hot here during the day but a little cold during the night. We have come through a valley all the way from Las Vegas. It is from ten to sixty miles wide and is called the Anagosa Desert. On the west side is Peavine Range. Just over it is Death Valley and just across the valley is Funeral Ridge. We can see the mountains across the valley quite plainly.

Jan. 14.—Left Miller's Well at daylight. Sand is ten inches deep. Pulled out three miles and Matthews left one wagon and Davis left two. Pulled out eight miles and I got supper while they went back after the wagons. I had for supper, fried potatoes, ham and eggs, blackberry jam, syrup, canned peas, bread, crackers and tea. Oh, we have plenty to eat, and, of course, it is cooked all right. It is warm tonight. We roll in our blankets and sleep on the ground all the time.

Jan. 15.—Matthews took one wagon and left at daylight while I stayed to wash up dishes and clean up camp. I left at 8 o'clock and got out on the sand at noon. Dinner at Rose Well (stage change). We are in sight of Bullfrog and should get there tomorrow night. We passed a grave today of a man found on the desert last summer, dead. He was buried where he was found. Davis came in with one wagon and will have to go back after the rest, so we will stay there tonight. Matthews and I went prospecting this afternoon.

Jan. 16.—Left Rose Well at 6 a. m. All day in the sand. Arrived at Gold Center at 5:30 p. m. Camped all night. Gold Center is only six miles from Bullfrog.

Jan. 17.—Left Gold Center at 6:30 a. m., Beatty 10:30, Rhyolite 3 p. m., and unloaded most of our stuff here and tonight are camped between Rhyolite and Bullfrog. Will go over to Bullfrog in the morning, finish unpacking and go prospecting.

Jan. 18.—Well, mother, this winds up the journey. I got up this morning, found it raining, so we got breakfast, finished unloading and the boys have started back on the 125 miles of sand to Las Vegas. I hated to see them leave. I have taken possession of my prospector's shack and am sitting on

I don't guess you will get much sense out of this for it was written every night by the camp fire and if I was there to explain it, I could tell you a lot about the trip. There are four towns here. Rhyolite is nearly as large as Marion, Beatty and Bullfrog as Salem and Gold Center about like Levas. I am at Rhyolite but you write me at Bullfrog. I had a fine time on the journey and am feeling fine. Wages here are $4.50 per 8 hours. I am seventy-five miles from the nearest railroad—at Goldfield. Mercury stands at 47 today

A Grim Tragedy

Is daily enacted, in thousands of homes, as Death claims, in each one, another victim of Consumption or Pneumonia. But when coughs and colds are properly treated, the tragedy is averted. F. G. Huntley, of Oaklandon, Ind., writes: "My wife had the consumption and three doctors gave her up. Finally she took Dr. King's New Discovery for Consumption, Coughs and Colds, which cured her, and today she is well and strong." It kills the germs of all diseases. One dose relieves. NEW POSTOFFICE BUILDING.

It is probable that Sturgis will soon have a new postoffice building, more suitable to the requirements of the increasing business and growing city.

Several propositions are under consideration by the inspector, one of the most favorable being that of the Ray-born stone front on Adams St., which seems to meet all the specifications, and as evidence of the popularity of this site many merchants and citizens are contributing toward the expense of putting in the required new postoffice fixture, which makes quite costly item.

MENTAL ATTITUDE.

It Has Much to Do With Your Success in Life.

The mental attitude which we hold toward our work or our life may accomplish. If you go to work with the attitude of a slave, you go lashed to his task and see only drudgery; if you work with hope, seeing no future in what you are doing beyond getting a bare living, you see no light ahead, nothing but poverty, deprivation and hard work all your life; if you think that you were destined to such a hard life, you cannot expect anything else than that which you look for.

If, on the other hand, no matter how poor you may be today, you can see a better future; if you believe that today you are going to rise out of the drum work, that you are going to get up out of the basement of life into the drawing room, where beauty, comfort and joy await you; if your ambition is clean cut and you keep your eye steadily upon the goal which you hope to reach and feel confident that you have the ability to attain it, you will accomplish something worth while. The reaction of your effort will follow your eye. If that looks up as well as you will climb.

That one quality of holding persistently the faith in themselves and never allowing anything to weaken the belief that somehow they would accomplish what they undertook has been the underlying principle of all great achievers. The great majority of men and women who have given civilization a great uplift started poor and in many dark years saw no hope of accomplishing their ambition, but kept on working and believing in somehow a way would be open. Think of what this attitude of hope, faith and faith has done for the world's great inventors—how most of them plodded on through many years of dreary drudgery before the light came and the light would never have come but for their faith, hope and persistent endeavor.

What if they had listened to the advisers! Even those who loved best tried to beg them to give up the foolishness of coining their lives into the which would never be practical or useful. We are enjoying today thousands of blessings, comforts and conveniences which have been bequeathed us by those resolute souls who were always often to turn a deaf ear to the pleadings of those they loved best as they struggled on amid want and wear many years.—Success.

CHRISTMAS.

Negroes consider Christmas day the best in the year for a wedding.

Christmas was first celebrated as a feast of the Christian church about the year 180 A. D.

At Caidaff, in Ireland, the game of kamman, a sort of hockey, is played on Christmas day.

A leaf from Christmas decoration is preserved in Yorkshire as a remedy against toothache.

Scottish servants each endeavor to be the first to draw water from the well on Christmas morning.

It is an old Irish superstition that gold should not be paid away on Christmas day nor silver lent.

Christmas day at Cape Town is usually celebrated with picnics. The temperature averages 82 degrees.

On Christmas morning in Norway every gateway, gate or barn door is decorated with a sheaf of corn fixed at a tall pole in order that the birds not eat from it their Christmas dinner.

To Make a Canary Sing.

Generally any kind of soft, shrill noise will tempt a bird to sing. A canary hung in a kitchen will usually start his song if he hears, say, the sizzling of a frying pan. We utilize special devices to tempt the shy singer who is perhaps rendered the more hopeful by finding himself in novel surroundings. For this purpose we employ whistles and song organs, which artificially reproduce the "tours" of the roller. This latter method is found to be irresistible when all other plans have failed. The bird feels apparently that he is being challenged and forthwith responds to the challenge by pouring forth the best of his song.—London Post.

Vulcan.

Vulcan, the god of ancient blacksmiths and metal workers, was lame in consequence of a pretty hard fall he had in his early days. Jupiter and Juno had a row, and Vulcan sided with his mother against the old gentleman, who promptly kicked him out of heaven. He fell for a whole day and lighted on the island of Lemnos, broke his leg and received as severe a shaking up as though he had tumbled down an elevator shaft. He was set his leg, but having only just received a diploma did a poor job, and for a long time Vulcan went on a crutch.

All at the Head.

Glass stands first of elastic substances, next is the heaviest of animal substances, mercury is the heaviest liquid, the heaviest woods are pomgranate and lignum vitae, cork is the lightest wood, and platinum is the most ductile metal, capable of being drawn so fine as to be invisible.

He Will See Them.

"A prominent oculist says he never saw a pair of perfect eyes," said the woman who reads the newspapers.

"That," replied Miss Cayenne, "merely proves that the prominent oculist was never in love."—Washington Star.

The way to fame is like the way to heaven, through much tribulation.—Sterne.

FROM PEDDLER TO MERCHANT

SEVERAL years ago as a peddler I travelled through this county, carrying my goods by team and wagon, which I sold from door to door. To the good people of the county I would say that there are few of you that I have not seen. MR. FARMER:

We are glad we have made preparations to supply your various needs in our line at a price that will let you live. With this in view we have bought large quantities of everything a farmer needs from a hand strap to a two-horse wagon. We bought right and we will sell right. Why? Because we add nothing to the price of the article to make up for lost accounts. WE SELL FOR CASH, therefore we make no bad accounts to lose. ¶ While preparing for your needs we did not forget to lay in an immense supply of the justly Celebrated American Field Fence

Put a Bull Behind the Bars

We call especial attention to the hinge joint at each intersection of stay with main bars. This is the essential of every good wire fence. Unless the stay has a hinge joint the fence cannot receive pressure from contact and right itself. All rigid stay fences have been unsatisfactory and disappointing, as they crush down and when once down, remain so.

AMERICAN FENCE

Is made with a hinge joint, by which the maximum of elasticity is secured and the fence if properly stretched, remains in place indefinitely. With the hinge joint, no amount of strain on the bars can effect the connection of stay and bar, while the opposite is true of all rigid stay fences.

We know we have a good thing for you. The manufacturers guarantee the fence to us and we guarantee it to you.
