The dog law, which has passed both branches of the legislature, and which will become a law by June, is quite comprehensive. The following are some of its provisions: Every dog over four months old shall be taxed. Every person who keeps or harbors a dog on his place, or allows it to be done shall be considered the owner.

The assessor shall note the name, kind, color, size, age and sex in the assessor's book. The tax on dogs shall be kept as a separate fund and be used to pay for sheep killed by dogs. Elaborate provisions are made for proving the loss of sheep and claims for damage shall be acted on by the fiscal court. The tax is to be one dollar on each

The owner of the dog shall be liable persons bitten are upon the premises of the owner at night, no damages shall be allowed.

All dogs listed for taxation shall be regarded as property and the owner may recover for all damages done to Every person who owns or harbors a dog and fails to list it with the assessor, shall be fined ten dollars for each dog and if he fails or refuses to pay the tax he shall be fined $25 for eac. The sheriff and his deputies and the constable shall kill or cause to be killed all dogs on which the tax is not pai, and shall be allowed fifty cents for each dog killed.

Any person who shall put out poison upon his premises or elsewhere where the same may poison any dogs shall be fined from two dollars to twenty-five dollars or put in jail for six months or both, at the discretion of the jury, an I shall be liable for damages to the owner of the dog.

Sleep.

If you cannot, it is due to an irritated or congested state of the brain, which will soon develope into nervous prostration.

Nature demands sleep, and it is as important as food; it is a part of her building and sustaining process. This period of unconsciousness relaxes the mental and physical strain, and allows nature to restore exhausted vitality.

Dr. Miles' Nervine brings refreshing sleep, because it soothes the irritation and removes the congestion.

It is also a nerve builder; it nourishes and strengthens every nerve in your body, and creates energy in all the organs.

Nothing will give strength and vitality as surely and quickly as Dr. Miles' Nervine. "During the past winter I had two attacks of LaGrippe which left me very weak, and in bad condition. I was so nervous I could not sleep. My wife, after trying different remedies, went for a doctor. The doctor was out, and a neighbor recommended Dr. Miles' Nervine, and she brought home a bottle. I had not slept for some time, and had terrible pains in my head. After taking a few doses of Nervine the pain was not so severe, and slept. He practiced law at Danville, and in 1852 a card in the Illinois Citizen of that place announced that "Abraham Lincoln, Springfield, and W. having formed a co-partnership, will practice in the Courts of the Eighth Judicial Circuit and the Superior Court, and all business intrusted to them will be attended to with promptness and fidelity."

When Mr. Lincoln was making his plans to leave Springfield for Washington for his first inauguration his friends became greatly alarmed for his safety, discovering, as they thought, that a widespread plot existed for the abduction or assassination of the president elect en route to be his body guard on the fourney.

When the memorable trip was made the jury, find from the physician's Mr. Lamon was more than six feet high strong, stout and athletic. He was, says another intimate personal friend of Mr. Virginia. Lincoln, "a Hercules in stature. He was skilled in all the ways of the manly art caused by speculation fallure, which and although prudent and cautious, was thoroughly courageous and bold."

of his first official acts was to appoint Mr. Lamon marshal of the District of Columbia. As incumbent of that office Colonel Lamon was charged, among many other things, with the duty of securing the personal safety of the president and the other high governmental officials

It is said on good authority that there was not a time during the civil war when there was not in Washington or Baltimore or in the vicinity of those cities some conspiracy to injure or capture Mr. Lincoln or one or more of the members of his cabinet. Mr. Lamon has left it on record that he discovered and folled many such plots the details of which have never come to the light of public knowledge It may be asked why so vigilant a body 1780. Nearly the whole of the northwest territory was then occupied by the hostile Indians. Kentucky volunteers had yet before them many a day of hot and bloody work on the Ohio, the Muskingum and the Miami, to say nothing of the continental surprises to which they were subjected at home. Every man's life was in his hand. From cabin to cabin, from settlement to settlement, his trail was dogged by the eager savage. If he went to plow, he was liable to be shot down between the handles; if he attempted to procure subsistence by hunting, he was hunted himself.

On the journey out the Lincolns are said to have endured many hardships and encountered all the usual dangers, including several skirmishes with the month, Indians. They settled in Mercer county. Their house was a rough log cabin. their farm a little clearing in the midst of a vast forest. One morning not long after their settlement the father took Thomas, his youngest son, and went to build a fence a short distance from the house, while the other brothers, Mordecai and Josiah, were sent to another field not far away. They were all intent about their work when a shot from a party of Indians in ambush broke the "listening stillness" of the woods.

Blackburn, 1st Sunday, confines of Tennessee, Another year he wandered into Breckinridge county, where his easy good nature was overcome by a suge bully, and he performed the only remarkable achievement of his life by whipping him. In 1806 we Rev. U. G. Hughes, 2rd Sunday, find him in Hardin county trying to learn the carpenter's trade.

Thomas Lincoln was not tall and Rev. J. S. Henry, 2d Sunday, Blooming thin, like A. raham, but comparatively short and stout, standing about five feet ten inches in his shoes. His hair was dark and coarse, his complexion brown, his face round and full, his eyes gray and his nose large and prominent. He weighed, at different times, from 170 to 196. He was built so "tight and compact" that Dennis Hanks declares he never could find the points of separation between his ribs. though he felt for them often. He was a little stoop shouldered and walked with a slow, halting step. But he was sinewy and brave and, his habitually peaceable disposition once fairly overborne, was a tremendous man in a rough and tumble fight. He thrashed the monstrons bully of Breckinridge county in three minutes and came off without a scratch.

RICHMOND, IND., Nov. 20, 186. MR. R. W. ROSE, St. Louis, Mo-DEAR SIE: The charity patient in whom I am so much interested was seventy-five years old at the time that she began the use of "Zemo," and her weight was 130 lbs. Her health has been poor for some time past, suffering mainly from spinal trouble, according to the diagnosis of the doctors in attendance. She has been a hard worker all her life, having made the living for her family keeping boarders. Somewhat over a year ago exems began to trouble her. It gradually grew worse and worse until her entire body was affected, the legs being a mass of sores constituted and the life in the legs being a mass of sores constituted and the life in the legs being a mass of sores constituted and the life in the legs being a mass of sores constituted and the life in the legs being a mass of sores constituted and the life in the legs being a mass of sores constituted and the life in the legs being a mass of sores constituted and the life in the legs being a mass of sores constituted and the life in the legs being a mass of sores constituted and the life in the legs being a mass of sores constituted and the life in the legs being a mass of sores constituted and the life in the legs being a mass of sores constituted and the life in the legs being a mass of sores constituted and the life in stantly separating. The itching and burning sensation was so dreadful at times that it was impossible for her to sleep day or night. The doctors (two of our best) pronounced the case incurable, and when I asked permission to use "Zemo" promptly said, "It would delight us to find something to cure this dear old sufferer." "Zemo" was first used on the upper part of the body and soon relieved the patient of the terrible distress caused by the tiching and burning. The doctors had been dressing the legs every day, but as soon as they saw the wonderful change in the skip where "Zemo" had been used, they gave consent to have it used on the legs. Gradually they began to improve and are now almost as smooth as the face. It was probably about a month before much relief was experienced in this part of the body, then skin scaled off, itching, burning and aching gradually ceased. It seems now as if a testimonial might be given, but the patient thinks that she had better use "Zemo" a few weeks longer before saying that she is cured. However, she is very grateful to all who have been instrumental in securing your wonderful remedy and thinks that it has a great future before it.

Free To Our Readers.

Farmers, fruit or vegetable growers, in fact everybody is greatly interested in local weather conditions, but only a few have cared to arrange for keeping records, for the reason that it was considered troublesome to do so. The trouble grew out of the fact that good, simple weather record books were not available until Dr. Miles perfected and published one. Now weather records are a recreation and a pleasure

The weather record for 1906 is pamphlet blank book printed on good writing paper, one page for each month, one line for each day, with blank space for record of high and low temperature, changes of weather, etc.

This weather record for 1906 is now ready to be mailed and contains valuable articles, such as Different Storms, How to Make Thermometer Shelters, How to Make and Use a Rain Guage,

Concerning Barometers, etc. The Temperature Chart is made up from government statistics; shows the highest and lowest temperature that has occured in the United States at the various weather bureau stations since their installation which varies from eight to thirty-five years. We have made special arrangement by which any of the readers of this paper can obtain the Weather Record and Temperature Chart free, by filling out and signing the following blank:

LIFELESS RIDERS.

Parilling Incidents Culled From the Horrors of War.

A veteran of the British army in India once saw a strange sight on a batflefield. As he tells the story a squadyou of cavairy had been held in reserve under cover of a field battery and an infantry regiment. The artillery duel had ended. The assault of the enemy in overwhelming numbers had been repulsed by the steadiness of the infantry. While a cloud of smoke hung over the field the cavalry received an order to charge with drawn sabers.

The troopers started in close order for the enemy's line. Midway they met a destructive fire from earthworks in front of them and from the woods on their flank. A young cavalryman, with his saber drawn, was shot in the heart while leading in the first file. The horse halted, swerved to the right and turned back, but the rider kept his seat without flinching. The other troopers went on, carried the earthwork by storm, rode at full gallop after the retreating force and converted defeat into rout.

The dead trooper meanwhile was returning with white face and with the blood streaming from his wound. Under his nerveless hand the horse re ceived neither check nor leading and made its own way toward the infantry, which was now advancing rapidly. As the smoke lifted the soldiers saw the solitary rider coming, with one hand in a death grip upon the saddle, while the other still held the sword rigidly

It was a sight never to be forgottenthe galloping horse, with the dead cav alryman still mounted and looking grim and herce. It was not until the rider had gone fifty yards from the spot where he had been killed that he rolled off the horse.

A similar story is told of Captain No lan, who delivered the fatal blundering order for the charge of the famous Ligh! brigade. He was seen on the field of Balaklava, riding from the hills where the staff officers were drawn up to the quarter where the brigade was station ed. The charge begun, and what was left of the brigade returned in broker

At last Captain Nolan was seen gai loping rapidly toward the center of the field. He was firmly seated, straight ar an arrow and riding well. Suddenly the horse swerved and the rider toppled

The officers who were nearest rushed forward, but when they lifted him from the ground they found him lifeless Like the Indian saberman, he had been shot and instantly killed, but his horse had carried him safely across the field. out of the reach of the pursuing Cos

The Minister's Tartan.

Every clan of Scottish highlanders had its own tartan, or striped colored cloth, of which the kilt and plaid were made. It is not so well known, however, that the clergy of the highlanders down to a recent date used a tartan for their weekday dress. The tartan of the clergy, as it was called, was sober cloth of white, black and gray stripes. Ministers who did not care to don the kilt almost always wore the plaid or mantle of this material. In the eighteenth century when the highlanders seldom went unarmed it was the custom of some clergymen to wear swords even at church and to be companied by a gillie, or servant, ca rying a bow and sheath of arrows. Nothing could better illustrate the disturbed state of those times than this practice on the part of the men who were pre-eminently preachers of peace and universal good will. Scotsman.

The silver penny was the first coin of the Anglo-Saxons struck in England. In 1672 an authorized coinage of copper pennies, halfpennies and farthings was established. Silver farthings ceased to be coined under Edward VI, and silver halfpennies under the commonwealth.

The Printer's Stick.

Manual composition has undergone but little change since the days when the earliest compositors stood before their cases and picked up with the fingers of the right hand the various types, which they put into the rude, hand.

Rural Route Agents Coming.

Washington, Feb. 6. - There are good news in store for Kentuckians who are interested in the establishment of rural mail routes.

Samuel B. Rathbone, superintendent of rural free delivery for the division composed of Kentucky, Ohio and Indiana, is in Washington.

"I am going," said he. "to send fifteen special agents into Kentucky right away to investigate proposed rural routes. I think it is safe to say that inside of three months all of the applieations from Kentucky for rural routes will be disposed of. This will be making a record for quick action. The services in Ohio and Indiana are now practically complete, and this gives us an opportunity to turn our force loose on Kentucky."

The special agents will investigate only proposed routes for which applications are on file. It therefore, behooves Kentuckians who are thinking of applying for the rural mail service to send in their applications as soon as possible.

MODESTY

By RUSTIC

Friend Chittenden:

In THE RECORD of February 16, on the editorial page, column 1, appears the following:

"Some people would not be so comical should they appear more modest. Brazen brass is a shell which shatters and falls when punctured, but there is a virtue in the modest, unassuming soul that has, regardless of one's taste in the fleeting moment, a hidden foundation in which that virtue shall yet raise its head triumphant.'

Modesty is a good theme and a grave one, and in my opinion, is deserving of further consideration.

I am aware that one should not at wooden stick, held, as now, in the left tempt to discuss a subject with which, in the nature of things he must be, in a In the primitive stages of the art, great measure, unfamiliar. However, upon, to magnify their Creator. Modesty is the fine aroma of patience. Do not be impatient to be noticed. Pearls wait and so may you. If the reporter omits my name from the list of guests, what care I? Am I not as good as I was before? Shooting stars are in a nurry to look brilliant. Fixed stars are content to wait thousands of years ere their first pale light reaches us. The attitude of many men and women, especially of social reformers strive, so that during our short lives every patriarch of influence in us may tell. This attitude amuses Emerson. "So hot, little man?" he asks. Surely the universe could wait.

The most telling influences are the indirect, the unsought. Busy bodies often do more harm than good. They do too much, more than the universe asks them to do, and kind, stern old Mother Nature always claims her penalty for wasted energy. Quiet, unostentatious, gracious lives are more beneficent than noisy, obvious, blatant ones. The more obvious a man's virtues are, the less virtuous he is. We demand a reserve of virtue beyond the surface show. Virtuous men refuse to make a parade of virtue. Yes, I think the sweet root of all modesty is patience. "I know my worth. I believe the main corrective of the evil forces of today will be modesty, not so much the passion of doing as the passion of being. bloom seen or unseen, is not that enough? The poet tells you that the unseen flower wastes its beauty. Never believe it! To believe this is blank not a general or a statesman or a poet or a minister, no, but you walk and talk and have relations with your fellows, and through these, what you are speaks forth. I have known persons standard, impressed with the image of rectitude and aplomb of nature, open-handed, open-hearted, direct, strong, self-contained and loving.

One of the regrets that should never escape us is, "Alas! My worth has never been recognized." Our real worth, after all, is the estimate in which we justly hold ourselves.

Men enter the atmosphere of modesty as pilgrims enter a shrine. No grace softens and subdues like modesty. It is the very breath of heaven. Modesty is the halo round the head of womanhood. Modesty is a subtle influence which most intimately reveals the presence of God. It is like the fragrance of sweet-breathed meadows. It is the holiest retainer in the court of love. Gentle words are spoken in its presence and pure is the radiance of smiles. Modesty is one of the inmost words that lead into the sanctuary of truth. Modesty is not so much a separate virtue as the fine flavor of all the virtues, the grace encircling them all. Modesty is the radiance in which all fullness dwells. It is the subtless criterion of character, but all may not estimate it. It is God's holy of holies in human character. Modesty is the grace in which humanity is perfected.

DEAR SIR: The charity patient in whom I am so much interested was seventy-five years old at the time that she began the use of "Zemo. and her weight was 130 lbs. Her health has been poor for some time past. auffering mainly from spinal trouble, according to the diagnosis of the disctors in attendance. She has been a bard worker all her life, having made the living for her family keeping boarders. Homewhat over a year ago cosenia began to trouble her. It gradually grew worse and worse until her entire body was affected, the legs being a mass of sores constant. stantly separating. The itching and burning sensation was so dreadful at times that it was impossible for her to sleep day or night. The doctors it wo of our best pronounced the case incurable, and when I asked permission to use "Zemo" promptly said, "It would delight us to find something to cure this dear old sufferer." "Zemo" was first used on the upper part of the besty and soon relieved the patient of the terrible disress caused by the itching and burning. The doctors had been dressing the lega every day, but as soon as they saw the wonderful change in the skin a here "Zemo" had been used, they gave consent to have it used on the fees. Gradually they began to improve and are now almost as arrowth as the face. It was probably about a month before much relief was experienced in this part of the body, then skin scaled off, itching, burning and aching gradually ceased. It seems now as if a testimonial might be given, but the patient thinks that ane had better use "Zemo" a few weeks longer before saying that she is cured. However, she is very grateful to all who have been instrumental in securing your wonderful remedy and thinks that it has a great future before it. Respectfully

EGYPTIAN CIVILIZATION,

Its Origin One of the Unselved Hais-

mas of the World, The origin of Egyptian civilization has been the enigma of the world for the past twenty-five centuries. Presenting no historic or even mythic in fancy, it appears before the world at once as a highly civilized and organic community centuries before Moses was a boy. Upon this subject Renan says, "Egypt has no archaic epoch, but sud denly takes its place in the world in all its matchless magnificence, without father and without mother and as clean apart from all evolution as if it had dropped from the unknown heavens. Would not an explanation at least feasible be found in the hypothesis that it received its civilization from some source no longer existing? Menes, the first historic figure in its long line of dynasties, the outlines of whose personality loom up waveringly indefinite but grandly impressive against the deep mythic background of prehistoric story at least 4500 B. CATCHING TURTLES.

Methods Used by the Fishermen of the Tropies.

Turtles are always captured at night and usually on moonlight ones. This W. E. Curry has been cutting a lot of is the time they go on the shore to lay sawlogs for a Metropolis firm the past their eggs. They select a smooth, few weeks. He bought the timber of sandy beach, dig holes in the sand, deposit their eggs there and leave them to be hatched by the heat of the sand. When the turtles are on shore for this purpose hunters come upon them, and presented him with an eleven-pound are slow movers. The hunters have not a very strenuous undertaking. that is necessary to be done is to turn One of the most delightful social the turtles on their backs and leave > ing turties is by fishing by the remora, a fish found in the tropical waters. The popular name of this fish and the one by which the children of those countries call them is the sucking fish. This name is given to them on account of a disk on their heads, by which they can attach themselves to any smooth surface, like the side of a shark, a ship or the shell of a turtle. This disk is like the soft leather "suckers" that are popular with schoolboys. When this fish has once attached himself to anything you can pull him to pieces rather than force him to release his hold. Turtle hunters go in boats and carry several of these remoras in tubs. When they see a turtle and get near him the sucker is sent after him. He is held by the ring on his tail, which in turn is attached by a stout cord. Soon the fish is securely fastened to the shell of the turtle, and turtle and fish are hauled into the boat together. Once in the air the remora loosens his hold and is dropped back into the tub to rest until another turtle is sighted. - Washington Star.

Govern Yourself.

Men and women often say they can't govern themselves. That is simply admitting they have defects of character which are their masters. They ought to make effort and see if they are not mistaken. The worst effects of lack of self control are on the health. It allows every kind of bad habit in eating, drinking, dressing and sleeping to gain possession of the person, and the result is a weak instead of a strong character.-Home Notes.

Red In Battle.

Red has always been a favorite military color. Its employment dates from the time of Lycurgus, the Spartan, who commanded his army to be arrayed in red tunies in order that new recruits might not be dismayed at the sight of blood. Its first use in the British army dates from 1526, when the yeomen of the guard were dressed in red.
