Victoria, B. C. March 2 .-- Details bought by the Empress of India, of the attack on the American mission, at Changsu, near Amery, show that the looting of the mission was occasioned by the anti-foreign spirit. An Open Breach.

Washington, March 1 .-- Action by the Senate committee on interstate commerce today, in authorizing Senator Tillman, of South Carolina, to render the senate a favorable report upon the unamended Hepburn railroad rate bill, widens the breach between the Republican Senators and the President, intensifies the bitter feeling between Republican Senators on the issue, and puts the rate legislation, which President Roosevelt has so persistently claimed as his own' before the open senate on a Demoeratic footing.

The most extraordinary situation in years is created in the senate. The dominant Republican senators on the committee, to emphasize their break with the President, voted, with grim humor, to give senator Tillman the management of the rate bill in de-

Every one who responds to this call will agree to withhold from marketing any agricultural products excepting at prices that are up to the level that has been decreed as equitable by the officials of this organization.

The word is passed through all the wheat growing states, and the reresponses that are being made are said to be causing considerable concern on the part of market men and

After the bloodshed at Concord and Lexington, the Americans fully realized that they must fight for liberty or be forever slaves. Roused by the speech of John Adams, 'Sink or swim, live or die, survive or perish, I am for the Declaration, now and forever," and by the stirring words of Patrick Henry, "Give me liberty or give me death," they declaced that the United Colonies were, and of right ought to be, free and independent States.

After a long series of successes and defeats, Cornwallis at last confidently exclaimed, "We have run down the old fox and will bag him in the morning;" but Washington had so woven the net of war that, at the very moment when his adversary was about to strike the final blow for his country's fall, he surrounded him by swift and far-reaching combinations, and twined the lillies of France with the Stars and Stripes of America over the ramparts of Yorktown and Liberty was won.

Under the guiding hand of Washington, the soldier, America gained her independence; under the guiding hand of Washington, the statesman, she took her stand as a Republic. With such men as Adams, Jefferson, and Monroe at the helm, the old Ship of State moved slowly but surely onward.

In 1812, America was again forced into war with England, this time to protect her liberties on the sea. Some of our most signal victories were won in this war. The battle of Lake Erie is one of the most memorable in our history. It was from there that Perry sent the laconic message: "We have met the enemy and the British, on sea, was at Boston Harbor, and it was there that Lawrence, after being mortally wounded, exclaimed, "Don't give up the ship, boys," The battle of New Orleans closed the war and proved to the world that America was still the

The once uncultivated plains soon gave place to great fields of corn and pleasure became manifest. But the settling of these territories brought up the agitation of a question that gowing opinion in the North that this country could not exist half free and half slave. The South desired the extension of slavery into the territories, and when, in the fall of 1860 Abraham Lincoln was elected president, all hope of reconciliation had passed.

> And now comes the darkest hour of our history. The time when the tie of brotherhood was broken and the war eloud, with its terrible premonitions, hung over the country. What an awful time it was. One nation forevermore. This feeling of union and love between the North and South was recently shown in the death of General Joe Wheeler. He won fame and distinction in fighting for his native Southland, and for the cause he thought was just. But, when his country's flag was in danger, he nobly responded to the call to arms and was upon the side of his nations defenders. When a short time ago he was stricken by disease and held in its firm clutches, all hearts were anxous for his recovery. At last however, when the words, "Fighting Joe Wheeler is dead flashed over the wires, the nation's heart was stricken with grief for so great a soldier, so great a man, so noble a patriot. Men of the Hour.

Delivered by Burl Woodson, ner of the second medal in the Ora torical Contest, Feb. 22.

"The men of the hour" are the men that meet the occasion with strength and courage equal to it.

"Men who their duties know, And know their rights, and knowing dare maintain; Prevent the long aimed blow. And crush the tyrant while they rend the chain.' These are the "men of the hour; these are the men that make history.

Let us turn the time soiled records of the past. Let us note the action of those wise and daring men who stood as defenders, when many were skulking in the dark.

I see through the dim and dusky past a body of legislators gathered in Virginia. The important moment has arrived when liberty must find a champion or perish. There steps forward a young man with the eloquence of a Demosthenese, and such oratory fell from his lips that men bowed their heads, and moans and sobs sould be heard from every portion of the room. He told them their faults; the oppression to which they were subjected; how the merciless tyrant had over-ridden their smallest hopes how he was draining the very life blood from their fullest vein. In a burst of eloquence he cries out, "Three million of people, armed in the holy cause of liberty, and in such a country as that which we possess, are invincible to any force which our enemy can send against us," and or to the end, eyes flashing, voice ringing, Patrick Henry towering, half human, half divine, made this personal declaration: "I know not what course others may take, but as for me, give me Liberty or give me death.

How beautiful is the thought that American citizens of today are copying that worthy example, though perhaps in ways unseen; that those words were not uttered in vain; that this imperial challenge to greed and might did not fall on deaf ears.

No, thank God! They were wafted to the ears of American citizens who guard their priceless heritage deserv-

Our eyes are dazzled as we lool upon the names of men who have aided in shapeing the destiny of nations. And we gaze loving and tenderly at the name of the man of whom it has been beautifully said, "Provi dence had left him childless, that his nation might call him father." trick Henry did his part, but the Ship of State must have a pilot. Wo see the good father Washington as. with tear-stained face, he takes the helm, and God, in his infinite wisdom, anchor in a haven of triumph.

There must be men to meet the ocasions that arise, and demand immediate attention.

Slavery like a poison had steadily stolen into the pure life blood of the government. And like an adder it was stinging the very heart of the nation. In the Hall of Congress, which is the citadel of national security, the viper began to prey with its fangs. The Senate has 'its Gettysburg, and many a Shiloh was fought on its floors. Actual war raged in Kansas. Greek was meeting Greek at last; and in the field of politics became almost as sulphurous and murky as an actual field of battle.

Amid the noise and confusion, the clashing of intellects like sabers oratorical guns of the North and South, now definitely arrayed, there came one day into the Northern camp the figure of a man who, inspite of an appearance somewhat at outs with Hogarth's line of beauty, wore a serious aspect, if not an air of command, and pausing to utter a single sentence that might be heard above the din, passed on, and for a moment disappeared. The sentence was pregnant with meaning. The man bore a commission from God on high. He said, "A house divided against itself cannot stand. I believe this government cannot endure permanently half free and half slave. I do not expect the Union to be dissolved; 1 do not expect the house to fall, but I do expect it will cease to be divided." We recognize this as the language of Lin-

Like Napolean, he had to come to rule the storm. He met the occasion with a courage like steel. But, when he was about to restore the Union, his death came, from an assassin's

Again, I ask you not to think the only "men of the hour," are in great wars or politics. There are men who have met and are meeting occasions in the financial world. Men who are ready to sacrifice anything for the upbuilding of civilization. Such a man stands before the footlights of the world today in the personality of Andrew Carnegie. He is financing great enterprises, and is giving his millions for educational purposes.

In truth, he is a man, the type of which the world does not possess

Washington was a truthful boy; kind, loving son, and a worker to benefit others. Napolean, even in youth was very ambitious, and owing to his abilities in mathematics and military tactics he became a great general. You all know the story of Abraham Lincoln; how he studied so hard when a boy; also what difficulties he labored under. Andrew Carnegie's opportunity was something similar to Abraham Lincoln's. All of these were clear minded men, watching for occasions that would give them a chance to do something for themselves and others. And when the chance came they took it.

The question has been asked, "why do we study the lives of great men? The answer is that we may get lessons from them and become great men ourselves in the future. There

HELPS TO STUDY.

The city of Caesarea Phillippi lay at the foot of Mt. Hermon on the site of what was formerly known as Panias, so called from the God Pan to whom was consecrated a cave near by. From the side of the hill be ow this cave flows the river Banias, one of the three principal affluents of the Jordan. The city had been recently rebuilt by Philip, in whose tetrarchy it was, and renamed Caesarea in honor of Augustus; the name Phillippi, after its builder, distinguished it from Caesarea on the coast in the tetrarchy of Antipas. It lay 1050 feet above sea level, while Hermon towered more than 8,000 feet above the city. The journey from the Sea of Galilee was about 25 miles, and involved an ascent of about 1700 ft. It led through were the guests of J. D. Asher and territory predominantly gentile in population.

In substance the confession of Peter affirms just what Andrew said to Peter when he first met Jesus. (Jno. 1:41) But this is more mature. It is a deliberate assertion made after month of living and working with Jesus, which had deepened their knowledge of him and strengthened their love for him, despite the fact that he had not followed the career which they had looked for in the Messiah. That they now reaffirm their first confession shows that their faith in Jesus personally is stronger than their devotion to their own conception of the Messiah's career. The core of their faith, that which remained unchanged and gave it moral significance, was the attraction of Jesus' personality for them, which held them steadfastly to him while he lived a life so very different from their conception of what the career of the Messiah was to be.

The church is to be built, not on Peter, a frail, fallible disciple, -not on Peter's confession, for it is not a doctrine that saves us-but upon Christ It is the living Christ that saves through faith, regeneration. These doctrines show only how Christ is made efficient to us.

The keys of the kingdom refers primarily to making plain the plan of and descriptive matter beautifully ilsalvation to a lost and ruined humanity, just as a key to arithmetic makes lustrated, We anticipate sale large plain the solution of problems. We can shut the kingdon to men by failing enough to net our representatives to make plain to them and holding out to them the plan of salvation.

Jesus then told them of his death and resurrection. Peter rebuked him. That Peter should venture to reprove Jesus is surprising. The Jews of Jesus' day believed, not in a suffering, but in a triumphant Messiah, and least of all in one whom his own nation should reject. To Peter, sharing still the ideas of his people, so far from rejection and death being involved in Messiahship, it excluded them. This suggestion of Peter is to Jesus a temptation; he would gladly believe that his work could be accomplished without rejection and death if possible. But he puts the temptation in-

Heart Weakness

The action of the heart depends upon the heart nerves and muscles. When from any cause they become weak or exhausted, and fail to furnish sufficient power, the heart flutters, palpitates, skips beats; and in its effort to keep up its work, causes pain and distress, such as smothering spells, short breath, fainting, pain around heart, arm and shoulders. The circulation is impeded, and the entire system suffers from lack of nourish-

Dr. Miles' Heart Cure makes a heart strong and vigorous by strengthening these nerves and muscles.

"I had palpitation and pain around my heart, and the doctors said it was incurable. I don't believe it now, for after taking six bottles of Dr. Miles' Heart Cure, three bottles of the Nervine and three boxes of the Nerve and Liver Pills I am entirely cured, and feel better than I have for five years, and it is all due to these remedies. I want you to know that your medicines cured me. It relieved me from the first dose, and I kept right on till the pain in my chest was gone, and I kept on feeling better even after I quit taking it." SIXTY BOYS AND GIRLS

In The Kentucky Children's Home Society

The Kentucky Children's Home has twenty boys and girls between the ages of three and nine for whom they desire good christian homes. These children are unusually bright and attractive and we guarantee that no family will be disappointed in a child we send them.

The winter months have given us an enormous amount of work to do. We are receiving more children now in a month than we formally did in a year, and as a rule the children are much brighter and much better look ing and much easier controlled than children we formerly handled.

Will you not show your interest in this great work for humanity by giving a home to one of these little ones? Unless you have a first-class home in every respect and unless you are moral and stand well in your community, do not apply, as we will under no eircumstances, place a child in a home unless it can get the best advan-

Early Spring Strect Gowns-Fads and Fancies In Neckwear.

By RENE DEVERAUX. The spirit of sociability is very pronounced in New York these last few weeks, and it has become very popular for fashionable women to give Sunday wes of fire, lightning and tornadoes 2 o'clock dinners to their intimate friends, either at home or at some uptown restaurant. Being the only holiwrite. Write or phone these gentle- day of the week for business men, they men and your business will be prompt- can enjoy these informal affairs without being harassed by business engagements. Then, too, the refreshments are so light that no one has a disagreeable feeling toward his hostess the next morning. At one of these dinners lately the costumes worn by the women were almost as brilliant as those worn at the opera, only no jewels were displayed, but the colors made one think of an old fashioned garden. The opera season has surely reached its height during the last week, and to strangers coming into town it is really worth the price of an admission ticket fust to see the beautiful costumes, jewels and feathers. In fashion history the passing season will be recorded as one of feathers, for a harvest of them is still to be seen on all the latest midthey will be worn to a certain extent in the spring. But then no one can foretell to a certainty what new fashions will become popular. As soon as anything new becomes universal it ceases to be fashionable.

A few of the new spring street costumes are being displayed in the shop windows and showrooms this week. One wonders where all these changes come from, for there is a distinct new style in all the models. One was a mannish gray suit of cloth, with a cashmere finish. The short pony coat and circular skirt are both trimmed with gray buttons having black velvet centers. The buttons on the skirt trimmed the center of the front and reached down to the hem, making a most original little walking suit.

A very jaunty looking costume was a flecked wool in gray and white, with a short hip coat closed in front, with smart buttons beginning just below the velvet collar. Many of the new skirts are circular, but the plaited skirts have been such favorites that some of the latest models show the plaited effect, with panels set in the back and sides; sometimes a plaited panel down the front. This is a decided relief to the home dressmaker, because the circular skirt is hard to hang properly, especially if walking length. Many of the demitailored suits for young ladies are set off most beautifully with the finest of embroidered cuffs and collars. Dainty frills for the neck and elbow give a suit that aristocratic KENTUCKY. feminine touch that every one longs for, and this is where a girl can use her originality to great advantage. There are so many handmade things sold in the shops that a suit is hardly complete without some dainty bit of fluff and frills on it. When the idea comes of a spring Fire Insurance & Real Estate suit, at the same time there comes the additional thought of what to wear about the neck on milder days in place of the heavy furs to which so many people object. Some lovely inexpensive neck scarfs and muffs were seen in imitation Persian lamb. The Story the Moon Told

"I'll tell you a good one," said the moon to little Bill, as he looked in through his window one night after Bill had been tucked snugly into bed.

"Wish you would," cried Bill engerly. "Well." began the moon, with the usual manner of one about to tell a good story, "I was shining my brightest on the snow, which was as white as your sheets and more sparkling, doing my best to make a good night for the skaters on the pond and the lovers

Bunty, the Bear

Bunt. Uncle Billy's pet bear, had broken his chain and got loose. Uncle Billy was the only person in the house who could make him behave.

"Bunt's loose! Bunt's loose!" screamed all the children, running in to their mother. Aunt Jeunle took them with her into the bedroom.

Bunt came shuffling and snuffling into the house. He smelled some hon-

He climbed up on the back of We sell this cushion completely em- the chest and pulled at the lid. Up it came, and in went his brown hairy paw. He got it full of honey. Then he leaned forward, and his weight smashed the lid down on it, pinching it cruelly. He drew back howling, pulled his Wash Embroidery Silks, in skeins, paw out and licked it. Then he tried open it so he always pinched his toes

When Uncle Billy came home they told bim how bad the bear had been. He went upstairs to lead him down and chain him in the back yard.

Poor Bunt looked so miserable when he was being dragged away that Uncle Billy said, "I'll sell you to a circus, but Scrim Rufling (sufficient for one first I'll give you as much honey as you want to eat, only you mustn't tell anybody I gave it to you.'

During the last days of his life, when captivity, disappointment and sickness had well nigh completed their work, it is said that the agony of his fatal disease drew from him on many occasions the pitiful cry of, "Why did the cannon

During his long military career Napoleon fought sixty battles, while Caesar fought but fifty. In the early part of his career he was utterly reckless of danger while on the battlefield, and this spirit of fearlessness contributed largely to the lave and esteem in which he was held by his armies. There was a curious belief among the English in Napoleon's time that he had never been wounded, and indeed the report was current that he carefully if not in a cowardly manner refrained from ex-Billy was gone to town, and Uncle posing himself. Nothing could be more contrary to the truth, for he was in reality several times severely wounded, but as he wished to impress upon his troops the belief that good fortune never deserted him and that, like Achilles, he was well nigh invulnerable, he always made a secret of his many dangers. He therefore enjoined once for all upon the part of his immediate staff the most absolute silence regarding all circumstances of this nature, for it is almost impossible to calculate the confusion and disorder which would have resulted from the slightest report or the smallest doubt relative to his existence. Upon the single thread of this man's life depended not only the fate and government of a great empire, but the whole policy and destiny of Europe as

He is called probriously the "tiger of the seas" or the "sailor's foe" or any other scurffous name which happens to be hardy Much mud is thrown at him, and as be seldom finds a defender most of it sticks. Hard lines this! Because in reality this blue water bogy is a homble and useful public servant, who performs uncomplainingly the duties con-

The shark is the common scavenger and general undertaker of the ocean He is not and, for reasons connected with his very moderate speed limit. never can be primarily a fish of prey Open any captured shark and you will find clear proof that this is so. A few 'angled bits of rope yaru, a battered corned beef tin, a corked bottle containing an insulting message to the finder (thrown overboard by some nautical wag) or a sailor's cap which has been lost in a gale, all tend to show that the shark is a fish of businesslike habits, with a keen eye to any chase windfalls which may come in his way But the more digestible contents of his stomach, consisting mainly of carried of every kind, all give the clearest of factory evidence that the original own ers of them were not alive in fact were very much dead-when this me rine sanitary inspector came along and, condemning them as nuisances removed them into his own internal refuse bin.

A large accumulation of carefully collected evidence on this point prove to capture alive-namely, an occas of the water, and the ugly, octop squid, whose limited powers of motion give a chance to our bung four knot prowler.

Some Teutonic Conquerors.

[Read before the General History Class Jan. 23rd, 1906, in Marion High School by Miss Willie Croft. [

The brightest star in the crown of a nation's glory is ever the record of her bravest and most successful conquerors. To them more than to all her statesmen, her orators and her rulers, she owes her position in the world. The statesmen may frame laws of justice, the orators may proclaim in all the beauty of rhetorical mastery their matchless beauty and glory, the rulers may govern with a hand that bespeaks love and devetion to their country, but they are of less import than the conquerors.

But go with me to the battlefield, where mighty armies surge back and forth in ceaseless conflict, where the roar and rumble of artillery shuts out all other sounds, and where the smoke of battle shuts out the very sun in the heavens. Point out to me the greatest leaders on that battlefield, and I will show you the real protectors of a country's glory. They are the bulwark of a nation's hope, and on their achievements rests the fate of their country. More powerful than all the statesmen, orators and kings, it is they that hold in their hands the destiny of the world.

Germany has always stood well in the front among nations as the pos for of mighty conquerors, and to them she owes her powerful position in the world of to-day.

The first time that the Teutonic people took a great part in the his tory of the world, was during the de eline of the Roman Empire in the West. The first great leader was Alarie the Bold, the king of the Visigoths, who was determined to lead his nation to independent vic tory. In 395 he invaded Greece and struck deadly terror into the whole of that country. Athens offered him but little resistance and was easily conquered, but he showed great humanity toward the conquered tity, and spared her art treasures. As ear 400 he made his way into Italy with all his people, and defeated the Romans first at Acquileia. But in 402 a vast army under Stilieho met Alarie and defeated him, and recov ered many splendid spoils of Greece. Then Alarie with the remains of his defeated army forced his way through he Alps, and made good his escape. but in 403 the folly and pride of the mperor Honorius, first, by the masere of the wives and children of Gothic mercenaries, brought Alagain to Rome. No army barhis path, he led his hosts to the v gates of Rome and laid seige to city. Soon the Romans were en to sue for terms of surrender. nd Alarie being content to accept a om, soon retired from the city to

After the downfall of Rome, Clovis, well weild his authority among his sturdy warriors, now chief of the Franks, attempted to set up a kingdom upon the ruins of the once great Roman Empire. > Now let us look for a moment at Genseric, the great leader of the Vandals, whose very name struck terror to the hearts of all. He with his strong army made an attack upon Rome. The city could offer no resistance to the great Genseric and his barbarous army. He stripped the city of its valuable o naments, and the much prized trophies of its many victories, and carried off many thousand of its inhabitants as slaves.

> But the greatest of these Teutonic conquerors was Charlemagne, the man who needs no monument made for him by other hands, because his greatness has erected a monument for itself in his name. The man who was too strong to ever prefer deceit, the man whose greatest aim was to educate and civilize his people.

> During his reign, which covered nearly half a century, he conducted fifty-two campaigns, the greatest of which were those against the Lombards, the Saracens and the Saxons. And all these people he reduced to submission, and they accepted him as their sovereign and Christianity as their religion.

He not only conquered these people, but by his greatness and force of character, made himself Emperor of the Romans. From the very outset fortune favored him, and he was every

This question comes to every sinner. What will you do with Jesus? The decision has, to be made some where in this life. Jesus stands before you waiting for your 'cecision, What will you do? I want to say to the church members or christian people that just as certain as Jesus stood before Pilate waiting for a decision from him just so certain does the Hely Spirit stand at the door of your heart waiting admission; what will you say to him? You may insist on silence on this subject. But you season consisting of can't do that and live. To grieve tho Holy Spirit and keep him out means Dry Goods, Dress Goods, Notions, death to you. The day has come when every intelligent christian will open the door of his heart to receive the Holy Ghost in his fullness or go back to darkness and death. The Holy Ghost must be admitted into the church or Christ will depart out of the church. She has crucified the Groceries, Staple and Fancy; Glassware, Queensware, Tinware, Hard-Son of God anew in the rejection of ware, Gearing of all Kinds, Wire, Wire Fencing, Plows and Plow Points, the Holy Ghost. The church can n Field Seed, Binder Twine, Enamel Ware, Crockery, and in connection more get rid of the responsibilit with my Dry Goods Department I will carry a complete line of Childrens, Misses and Ladies Ready Trimmed Hats, I respectfully submit to you a in the case of Jesus.

Many a preacher and layman has the self-made prince, who could so decided like Pilate, and the churches have lost their hold on the world as to saving it from sin and hell, by turning the Holy Ghost away. To see this truth one only has to stop a moment and think of the memory of Syagrius the Roman governor of the past. George Fox, who preached this great truth a hundred years before John Wesley preached it and decisive victory. Soon after this he Whitfield, Wm. Arthors, Dr Lenie Pierce, Bishop Asbury, Dr. Adam And soon he undertook the invasion Clark, Bishop Foster, and many others. These were great men in the eastern Gaul. Summoning all his Methodist church. Do you Methodist warriors to the banks of the Loire hear this? Now you Cumberland river, he addressed them thus: "I Presbyterians hear this. When the sessing such a beautiful country; let Kentucky called his little band of us go there and take it at otce, for praying men and women around him the land is very good." He then and said we must fast and pray for off from the old ereeds and ceremomonies, just like the Methodists did. And for years they run well.

So in this revival the Cumberland

Presbyterian church was born, and thousands of souls have been born nto God's kingdom, through he faith and worship of these churches, by the help and power of the Holy Ghost. Bat alas! alas! for the want of good door keepers, akens have crept in, seeking a home and a shelter, wanting a job; not for the good of souls but for ease and comfort and self-gratification, and they that can get the most people into Ithe church and get the money, he is the fellow, saved or not saved. So the Holy Ghost is left out and the dollar style and the devil has taken its place and the result is they are at sea with. out a rudder, going, going; and the preacher or layman that says that he is not responsible for this wrong or his sins is simply blindfolded by the devil and has his ears shut against P. S. the truth; and selfishness puts a man on this line and just as long as the devil can keep him from praying and reading his Bible for himself this man is in the dark and liable to be lost at Wake thou that sleepest and rise from the dead, and Christ will give tue light. Salvation is personal work and we have to repent of the wrongs of the past; that means to quit sin and do right, then God cenverts us or saves us from all past sins. This brings to us a new life; old things have passed away and we are living in a new atmosphere; and now the reward or pay we get out of the new life depends on what we do and don't do. If we do right and let the wrong alone or shun it, we are all right, This life does not destroy our free moral agency; if it did we would not be responsible for anything. but just simply a tool.

RIGH WEDDING PRESENTS.

GIFTS TO PRESIDENT'S DAUGH-TER THE MOST MAGNIFICENT EVER PRESENTED.

Valued at Hundreds of Thousands of Dollars-Rare Tapestries, Silk, Jewelry and other Ornaments from Every Country.

No other American girl has received wooding presents so numerous, valuable or interesting as those which have been showered upon President Roosevelt's oldest daughter. Nelly Grant who, next to Alice Roosevelt, had the most brilliant White House wedding received many costly gifts from all parts of the world but her present century. For one thing there were only two hundred guests at the file and the dark hair is curled about marriage of Nelly Grant and Algernon the head in classic style. Around the persons were invited to the White House wedding of 1906 and of course the number of presents in the latter lions appear at intervals. This tapinstance in the same proportion.

It was the wish of the French people and officials to present to the White House bride the most exquisite and precious thing that could be selected and quite naturally they selected a special product of their best workshop. This Gobelin tapestry,-the only one of the kind ever sent to this country, -has as its design a reproduction of a painting made by Ehrman of Strasburg, a famous Alsatian painter.

The tapestry is two feet wide and four.feet long and the predominating colors are blue, green and yellow. It was made fully fifty years ago and the subject is allegorical in character, rea lectern making illuminations upon main picture is a border wider at each end and narrower on the sides in which wreaths, leaves and medalestry, small as it is, is said to be worth from $25,000 to $50,000

Nothing cou'l be farther from the truth. He is a great and strong fighter, but his opposition is fair and square, he has resorted to none of the tactics employed by Congressional obstructionists, and when he has been beaten he has admitted it. This is clearly shown in a recent letter to the Panama Canal Commission, declining an invitation to accompany the Commission on a trip to the Isthmus. In this letter the venerable Senator says: "Since the ratification of the Hay-"Since the ratification of the Hay-Varilla treaty, which I opposed, I have done all that I could and much more than I thought could ever be of advantage to the country to sustain the government in its purpose to construct a canal at Pana-ma. He was admitted to the bar of Alabama in 1845; was a Presidential elector in 1860 for the State at large and voted for Breckinridge and Lane; was a delegate in 1861 from Dallas county to the State convention which passed the ordinance of secession; joined the Confederate army in 1861 as a private in the Cahaba Rifles, and when that company was assigned to the Fifth Alabama regiment John Morgan was elected a major and later lieut-colonel of the regiment. He was commissioned a colonel in 1862 and raised the fifty-first Alabama regiment, and came out of the war a brigadier-general in command of an labama brigade. He was Presidential elector in 1876 and voted for Samuel J. Tilden, and was elected to the United States Senate to succeed George Goldthwaite, taking his seat March 5th, 1877. He has been in the Senate ever since, and will probably remain there as long as he wishes, or as long as he lives.

Edward VII, King of England and imperor of India, is imposing enough ut such a slender collection of words ould never serve to fire the Oriental magination, and the Sultan of Turkey s known as "The Finest Pearl of the Age and the Esteemed Centre of the Universe, at Whose Grand Portals Stand the Camels of Justice and Mercy and to Whom the Eyes of the Kings and Peoples in the West have been Drawn; Lord and Master, the Sultan A Jesuit of Pennsylvania the Invent- of Two Shores and the High King of Two Seas, the Crown of Ages and the Pride of All Countries, the Greatest of torious Conquerer Sultan Abdul-Hamid Khan.'

The Persian Shah takes his title among themselves.

Perhaps the oddest and most truth-"Lord of the Sun and the Moon, Great sufficent food and comfortable bed. Magician and Great Thief.'

After such glories as these European monarchs might be forgiven envy, though it is not apparant that such has developed, and democratic King that is hardly the trouble as yet in Edward is content with 'Your Majesty' or even "Sir."

Size of Brains.

HOMES FOR CITY WAIFS.

NUMBERLESS ORPHANS IN GREAT CITIES-MANY DELIBERATE. LY DESERTED.

Practicable.

At one of the vacation Bible classes last summer, some tenement children were taught a word-guessing game. One of the words selected was "home." The little girl whose turn it was to guess failed to get a clue, and a boy trying to help her, said, "Think of something that smells awful and you want to get away from quick." The child guessed "house." The dirt and foul atmosphere of his home is disgusting to even the tenement child himself, yet home is the child's greatest necessity. Authorities on the subject strongly advocate the private fortunes of philanthropists as well as not to building institutions for dependent children, but to pensioning wid- charities is usually first sent to one of ows with families and finding foster the city's institutions. There are 127 parents for orphans.

Of the 600,000 children under 14 years of age who form 18 per cent of the population of New York City, 25,-000 are homeless waifs. About half of these forlorn little ones are babies between the ages of two and four.

The causes that operate to bring about this pitiable condition are those that fill the workhouses and prisons,death of one or both parents, injury through accident, consumption, vice, crime, inability to obtain work and incompetence, desertion, juvenile de pravity.

Many Half Orphans.

Complete orphanage is less frequent than is generally supposed. In most cases that come under the attention of the charities associations, the children are half orphans. However when the father is the surviving parent, the result as far as the breaking up of the home is concerned is the same. man rarely succeeds in keeping his children together. If they are very young a woman's care is imperative, and where poverty prevents the hiring is the alternative. If a widow is left wever, she was seized by the Newark Pather to keep ore effectively than a is urged. As to the little unfortunates who are classed as ungovernable, who run away from home, etc.-the fault lies largely in the home. The widower sending his child en to one of these institutions is requested to pay something towards their support. If he fails the city pays. A municipal officer is sent to visit the surviving parents of the children once a year, and where conditions have improved to the point which assures health and comfort, the child is returned to its home. The parents are not always anxious to regain possess ion of their children. It is a sad commentary on human nature that they exhibit more eagerness in this direc-tion after the child has reached an age where it can earn money.

To Make Better Citizens.

New York gives more largely to charity than any other city and its methods are most severely criticised. Nearly $8,000,000 was contributed last year, almost half of which went to institutions for the do-tute. It has been poiversally agreed, however, that the best means for caring for the waifs of nurses, the charitable institution of great cities is by providing them with a family the children stand a precaution of first making sure that better chance, 'or not only is it a notor. the child's parents or relatives will lous fact that a mother will work never be able or willing to care for it

"THE DECIDER"

A New Trap for Women Who Hesitate About What to Buy. An ingenious attempt is now being establishments to assist the opinions of undecided women who come to shop. Every salesman and every saleswoman knows the woman who haunts the bargain sales, flutters from counter to counter, is shown goods until the attendants are driven to distraction, thinks she will buy everything, and finally invests in a yard and a half of pink ribbon, simple because she is absolutely incapable of making up her own mind as to what she wants.

Drapers have long tolerated this form of mental weakness. Now they have revolted, and the day of the "Decider" has come.

The Decider is an American institution, and Gibsonian at that. She is seautiful as to face and features, and always gowned to perfection. Her futy is to induce the doubtful to buy. To the customer she appears as a ustomer, with the earnest intense sale face" that one now sees every lay in the big stores.

She sees a customer a little worse ressed than herself hesitating over the purchase of a dress length of chifon velvet. The shopman has done his est to persuade the lady that it is the superlative bargain of the season.

"You ought to take it at once, madam," he says, eagerly; "if you leave to think the matter over, you will

"I suppose so," the lady says, "but I want to look about first; it is so hard to decide—an evening gown is so very important." And she surveys the ress length again from three different Entrapping the Victim.

It is now the Decider's moment to step in. Pretending to have noticed the chiffon velvet, for the first time, she thrusts out a perfectly, gloved hand, and eagerly catches hold of an end of the material. She hangs it up against her fingure, and looks at it dmiringly. The doubtful lady looks annoyed, gives the chiffon a tug, but he Decider holds on.

"If you are not going to buy this iress length," she says, "I will take it. is the only one I suppose," she adds, rning to the attendant, and is told

Meanwhile the genuine customer has served the exquisite "turn out" of e eager "sale-hawk," as she imnes the Decider to be. If si eleant a person is anxious to buy the off it must be worth securing, she argues, so without further doubt she says sharply:

"But I am going to take it." The ansaction is closed, and the seemingchagrined Decider disappears, Having settled this little business of chiffon velvet she sails off to the department. Here she fixes on a sallow-faced ung wife, who has brought her husnd to help in the choice of a set of

"Do you like it, dear?" the lanky rl-wife asks, holding up a white boa. "Is $22 too much for this, and the muff?

objects to it too. "I hate these ashycolored things," he says petulantly. "Oh! take it off."

"Well, dear, what am I to do? You think the first one is too light and the other one is too ashy." The tone is despairing.

"Try this one on again madam, says the saleswoman, and the wife turns to take it but it is gone. She finds herself confronted with the elegant figure of the Decider, who has arrayed herself in the boa and a bolster muff.

The young wife looks at her husband and sees his eyes fixed on the charming vision of bright hair, bright eyes, gleaming teeth, and warm complexion, set off by the fluffy softness of the boa and muff. Entirely forgetful of her own sallow appearance, she quickly makes up her mind to have that boa-it is so very becoming. "I think dea-" she says to her husband, "that this is just what I want I am sure mamma would like it. Her husband is still gazing at the pretty 'Decider" arrayed in the boa, and answers her jerkily.

"Yes. It's pretty," he says, absentmindedly, "awfully becoming to-toyes, it is so clean and fresh-looking, isn't it?" You can't do better; have it." In another second the boa and muff are both in the shop girl's hands, and the pale wife is giving her address. The Decider is liberably paid. She draws a regular salary, and in addition receives a commission on all sales effected through her interference, The profession opens up a new vista for attractive women whom circumstances have forced into the labor market.

THE ANGLE LAMP

is not an improvement on the old style lamp, but an entirely NEW METHOD of burning oil which has made common kerosene (or coal oil) the most satisfactory of all illuminants. And when we say satisfactor, we mean satisfactory—not an illuminant that merely as a brilliant fight, but one that combines brilliancy with soft, restful, pleasing qualthat is convenient as gas, safe as a tallow candle; and yet so economical to burn

IT ACTUALLY PAYS FOR ITSELF

The ordinary lamp with the round wick, generally considered the cheapest of all lighting methods, burns but about 5 hours on a quart of oil, while The Angle Lamp burns a full 16 hours on the same quantity. This, even where oil is cheap, soon amounts to more than its entire original cost. But in another way it saves as much—perhaps more.

Ordinary lamps must always be turned at full beight, although on an average of two hours a night all that is really needed is a dim light ready to be turned up full when wanted. A gallon of oil a week absolutely wasted, simply because your lamps cannot be turned low without unbearable oder. All this is saved in The Angle Lamp, for whether burned at full height or turned low, it gives not the slightest trace of oder or smoke. You should know more about the lamp, which for its convenience and sift, restful light, might be considered a luxury were it not for the wonderful economy which makes it an actual necessity. Write for our catalogue "15" fully explaining this new principle of oil lighting, and for our proposition to prove these statements by

Every now and then a new plant or new variety is discovered and introduced which may revolutionize that particular branch of crop production. The macaroni wheat which the Secretary mentions is a fair example. Extensive trials of this wheat have been made throughout the middle belt of the United States, just west of the producing area for ordinary wheat, and it is believed that a vast section of possibly a million square miles heretofore thought unfit for any agriculture, is capable of producing this new grain at the rate of from 15 to 20 bushels per acre. With such a startling showing as this due entirely to the experimental work of the Department who shall say when the food producing limit of the world may be

WHY FENCE WIRE RUSTS.

Department of Agriculture says Farmers Use Cheap Material.

A bulletin setting forth the results of an investigation made by the Department of Agriculture into the corrosion of iron and steel wire fencing was is sued recently to the farmers of the Gives Instant Relief made to the department in the last year regarding the present quality of ron an steel wire used a fencing, and o improve thes conditions, wit the ope f determining some remed; for e corrosion, Secretary Wilson ordera thorough investigation, an th erts ame to the conclusion that the ief trouble is that the average 'arminsists on using the cheapest vir r fencing, and the cheap wire naturalcorrodes.

The department claims that some anufacturers hold that if it were posble to make a better grade of wire at en a slightly higher price, it would useless to put it on the market, as e American farmer would not buy it, cause he desires cheapness above her consideration.

The result of preliminary experi ents made by the Agricultural De artment pointed to the manganese in e wire as undoubtedly being he chief use of the corrosion, and it is stated at the more manganese there is presat in fence wire the quicker it will st or deteriorate. SOUTHERN FARMS.

Rapid Increase in Values Makes the Whole South Prosperous. Manufacturers' Record.

While it is true that the industrial development of the South is going forward with amazing rapidity, it is nevertheless true that, by virtue of the extent of the agricultural interests in the South, agriculture is yet the foundation of the business of that section. A change from poverty to prospericy of the farmer, and a change from land without selling value to land in demand at an advance of 50 to 150 per cent, over the nominal price of one or two years ago, is the most far reaching development in Southern advancement of the last quarter of a century.

It is far-reaching in many ways. It means that within the last year or two Southern farm properties have increased not less than $1,000,000,000 in value, probably at least $1,500,000,000. But more than that, it means that under this improved financial condition the Southern farmer has gained new courage, new backbone; that he has learned how to market his cotton crop; that he has fought to a finish the great battle as to whether the producer or the spec ulator is to control the price of his staple. Having won this fight, the entire handling of cotton from the field to the factory, whether the factory be in this country or in Europe, has entered upon an entirely new stage in its history. It also means that land with be more thoroughly cultivated, for the successful man, whether he be a farmer, a merchant, or a manufacturer, is always better able to work to good advantage than the one who is fighting a losing battle.

More and more the diversification of agriculture has gone on and more and $5 more have fruit growing and truck raising, "hog and hominy," with the meathouse at home rather than in the West, been developed throughout the South.
